PROMOTER MAKES REQUEST FOR POLICE PROTECTION

Fears Crowds May Smash Windows In Rush At Opening of W. H. Meredith's Sale.

The sales promoter in charge of Meredith's removal sale this morning waited upon the Chief of Police and asked that protection be granted on Saturday morning to prevent the possibility of breaking the expensive plate glass windows in the front of the store.

The building has been sold and this famous old men's store is forced to move—thus an old Peterborough land mark will be changed.

United Selling System has taken charge under orders to reduce stocks at all costs before moving to the new store at 404 George street. Hence over $30,000 worth of men's clothing and furnishings is to be rushed out without mercy..

In view of the tremendous price cuts that will be made, a surging crowd is inevitable and the police will be asked to keep order. A thrilling bargain announcement will appear in this paper to-morrow. Be on hand at nine o'clock Saturday morning to see the fun. (Advt.)

Sage Tea Turns Gray Hair Dark

By SHIRLEY BLAKE

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. You hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture. You can get this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, for only 75 cents, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybodys uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

IT'S NOT HARD TO GROW THIN

People all about you can testify to that Most of the slender figures seen today have been won in easy ways. Many have been won by Marmola prescription tablets, based on a modern scientific discovery. People have used Marmola for 20 years—millions of boxes of it. Now slender figures in almost every circle show what Marmola does.

A book in each box of Marmola gives the formula and states the scientific reasons for results. So users realize how and why effects are beneficial. A way which has done so much for so many deserves a test from you. Make it now, watch the results for a little while, then decide. Ask your druggist today for a $1 box of Marmola.

SPORTS WEAR IS FEATURED

Predominates in New Styles To Be Shown at McNabb Opening.

SOME NEW COLORS.

Returning from a buying trip in the Toronto, Montreal and New York markets, J. A. McNabb of McNabb's Store, has stocked up with a wide range of the very latest models in ladies' ready-to-wear goods. Anticipating his opening to-day, his windows and showrooms afford a splendid idea of the season's modes.

Noticeable in the showing is the preponderance of sports wear made in various styles that include combination tops either in futuristic designs, two-tone and striped effects, or in figured and plain jerseys combined with silk. For afternoon wear, strictly tailored two-tone silk ensembles are also much in view, and kashas and failles in natural and high tones. Some of the new colors have interesting names, like the "Goya" red that is exactly like a poppy, "pinefrost," that is really like a silver frosting on a soft pine-needle green, "Chinchin" blue, a cross between a periwinkle and a copenhagen in tint, "sundown rose," a mild rose pink, and "Misty Morn," a soft sand shade.

In this exquisite "sundown rose," a striking model is developed in three-piece ensemble effect, the pleated skirt having a white overblouse and the three-quarter coatee done in tiny tucking. In afternoon frocks, there is a handsome model in black Swiss embroidered crepe romain, with solid rhinestone buckle and big shoulder 'mum in peach beige. Another lovely model is developed in two shades of green; the misty "pinefrost" and "serpent," a light emerald in tone. One striking gown is of navy flat crepe whose hem shows a wide band of horizontal crimson stitching and whose upper portion has a cascade lined with flame red, the two tints of navy and red showing in a long pendant silk tassel. Another navy crepe romain displays a new treatment in "middy" style, the overblouse ending above the knife-pleated skirt with a wide band of tucks done in three shades of peach beige, faded rose and sundown. Little cuffs of the same tints finish the long sleeves. The same idea of contrasting shades in the wide blouse banding is shown on a stunning model of black and white with red used as the third nue. This ensemble gown is of silk faille and has a motif in a large monogram on the front of the blouse.

Another afternoon gown that is quite out of the ordinary is of hand-drawn georgette in the soft "Misty Morn" shade. The entire fabric is drawn in the manner of the old Mexican embroidery work, the effect being like a small check. It is in the plain styles favored this season, the skirt with its floating side panels having a finishing touch in a large central brown silk tassel.

Spring coats show the same rather severe, smart, tailored touch. A natural kasha model has a Pekin blue lining, a notched collar and a narrow belt of silver and blue, while a stunning grey kasha coat with the same trim lines has a detachable grey fur collar, another style note which is very convenient, by the way, and belt and cuff bands of leopard skin.

Cut brown leather trimming in pointed effect outlines the front, collar, pockets and cuffs of a "Misty Morn" model, and a trig tweed of tan and sand shades has a trimming of plain brown kasha. A very stylish coat of black and white kasha has an odd lining of white flat crepe alternated by bands of black moire. The cuffs of this striking model are of deep bell shape with black buttons. It has a tuxedo collar and black and white flower.

A coat of navy charmeen conveys a very rich impression with its unique insets of black satin ending in sharp points and has a brown squirrel collar, while moleskin makes the collar of a Pekin blue garment.

Poiret twills, black and white hairline stripes, black and white half-inch shepherd plaids and perfectly tailored models in Prince of Wales style, are further developments in spring coat styles.

OBITUARY

Madrigal Singers Going To Exhibition

Captain J. S. Atkinson, of Toronto, director of the Canadian Bureau for the Advancement of Music, was in the city on Monday to hear the concert given by The Madrigal Singers, under the direction of Dorothy Allan Park. Captain Atkinson was so much impressed with the beautiful tonal quality and clear articulation of the singers that he paid them the tribute of engaging them to sing on Music Day at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Messrs. Selkirk and Elliott, dealers in "Star" and "Durant" automobiles, are getting their big Hunter street show rooms in readiness for a forthcoming display of the new models of the two lines of cars. The large interior of the old Oriental hotel has been re-decorated throughout in a two-tone effect that provides a splendid, bright background for the glistening new models. The sunny shade imparted by the use of these soft, warm colors is very effective. Decorations, window curtains and electric light shades that make a very attractive contrast have been fashioned from colored, crinkly paper, in purple and rose tints. The whole effect is very pleasing and will make a fine setting for the exhibition which will shortly be held, when the widely-heralded new models will be on view.

ADAM HALL TEAM BEATS CANOE MEN

Tropics of Adam Hall battled the Peterboro Canoe last night on slow ice. The Canoe Company came off with the short end of a 4-3 score. The two St. John's goalies held the nets, Payne proving superior. There were no stars for the winners as they played very unselfish hockey.

The line-up:

Tropics—Goal, Payne; defence, J. Huard, Sr., and Doug. Hall; centre, Pat Calladine; wings, P. Vinette and Terry Hall; sub., J. Huard, Jr.; sub. goal, Gord. Hall.

Peterboro Canoe—Goal, H. Hutchinson; defence, G. Jarvis and M. Hartley; centre, Clancy; wings, Smith and McGinnes.

(By Examiner Staff Reporter,

GILMOUR, Feb. 17 (Exclusive to The Examiner).—To-day the children, grand children, great grand children, and great great grand children have the opportunity of presenting their compliments to Mrs. Catherine Smith, who celebrates her 103rd birthday to-day. Unfortunately at this time, Mrs. Smith is somewhat indisposed and for this reason there will be no family reunion. The friends and relatives who reside in the district have expressed their intention of calling on the aged lady, who is easily the oldest citizen in the district.

Mrs. Smith was born February 17, 1825, in the village of Marmora. She is the daughter of the late Matthew Fraser and Betsy Elizabeth Ketcheson, his wife, and is the second eldest and only survivor of a family of fourteen children. When she was a child of seven years, her family moved to Ernestown, now known as Tamworth, a few miles north of Napanee. Later they took up a farm about four miles from the village of Madoc. Her first recollection of that village is two flat-roofed log cabins owned by a Mr. Pendigras and a man named Seymour.

Married at 21

At the age of twenty-one Catherine Fraser became the wife of John Smith, and nineteen years later they took up the present residence, Lot 15, on the 19th Concession of Tudor Township in the County of Hastings. But no luxury awaited them here. It was necessary to actually carve their home out of the virgin forest. Nor was it a simple task as it might easily be to-day. The forest was of hardwood and about the only revenue it offered was potash. This commodity had to be properly "burned," and carried to Otter Creek, the nearest navigable stream about two miles distant. Here it was loaded into crude flat bottomed boats and taken about two miles down stream to a point where Joseph Canniff accepted delivery and transported it overland to Belleville. Caniff was the proud possessor of the only team of horses in the district and had the potash hauling contract. Eighteen years later the railway came through.

The plowing at this time was done with a yoke of oxen and wooden plow. Seed was sown broadcast When harvest time came, the cradle was the most up-to-date "harvester" known. Threshing was a most laborious bit of the season's work. It was all done by hand with a flail There was, however, a grist mill and saw mill at St. Ola, a settlement three miles north of the farm.

Clothes Were Home-Made

Nor was the lot of the housewife an easy one. The clothes which she and her family were were made from home-grown, home-spun wool, hand-woven into cloth and made into garments for the entire household by the tedious method of hand stitching. Bakers' bread was an unheard of luxury. Mrs. Smith had an oven fashioned rudely of stones and clay. On bake days she would build a fire in the oven till the concrete mass became thoroughly heated. Then the coals were removed and the bread placed inside till it was baked. With such utensils and conveniences as these, Mrs. Smith "kept house" in a little log cabin that was home.

Now the log cabin has been displaced by a modern frame house with seven good-side rooms, hardwood floors throughout, and a stone cellar underneath the entire building. Mrs. Smith no longer reigns as mistress of her domain. Her son, John W. and his wife have taken over the reins of active administration of affairs and the pioneer lady is content to pass the time indulging her hobbies.

Rum Runners' Appeal Is Denied By Court

NEW YORK, Feb. 17 (Canadian Press).—Motions to set aside the jury verdict convicting Captain Browne Willis, sometime of Halifax, N.S., and Max Gordon of conspiracy to bring liquor into New York illegally, were denied in United States Court here yesterday by Judge E. Morris of New Hampshire, who presided at the trial.

Captain Willis and Gordon were convicted January 28 of attempting to smuggle 12,000 cases of liquor into New York last June on the steamship "Trader," and were each sentenced to two years in Atlanta Penitentiary and fined $1,000.

The motions were based upon the assertion that Irving D. Zimmer, one of the jurors, had been foreman of another jury which heard evidence in a liquor case against Gordon in February, 1923, and that he had not mentioned this when chosen as juror in the "Trader" case.

OTTAWA SOUTH BALLOT BOXES ARE TO BE MADE AVAILABLE

Attorney General Says Government Desires Full Inquiry Into Ballot Mystery.

WILL AMEND ACT.

Privileges and Elections Committee Will Go Into Matter Thoroughly Next Week.

TORONTO, Feb. 17. Canadian Press. — In order that a full and searching inquiry into what W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C., Liberal leader in the Ontario Legislature, described as the mystery of the "wandering ballots" of the contest in Ottawa South in the provincial election of 1926, the Ontario Government will introduce an amendment to the Elections Act in the Ontario Legislature to-day providing for the production of the ballots used in the election which resulted in a victory for Thomas Birkett, Conservative over R. R. Sparks (Liberal.)

The Hon W. H. Price, Attorney-General, made this announcement to-day, at a meeting of the Privileges and Elections Committee called at the instance of the Liberal leader to investigate the finding of nineteen unused ballots on a vacant lot in Ottawa, after a preliminary argument in which Mr. Sinclair, attorney general Price, Col. John Currie, Conservative, St. Patrick's, Toronto, and Karl Homuth, Conservative,, of Waterloo South, were prominent.

The committee decided to adjourn until next Tuesday morning when it hoped witnesses will be produced in the investigation.

Returning Officer Called.

The committee passed without question a motion proposed by Mr. Sinclair calling for the production before it of F. M. Scott, returning officer for Ottawa South, and his clerk.

Mr. Price suggested that Mr. Sinclair having made charges in the Legislature, should take the stand and tell what he knew of the matter. The Liberal leader warmly retorted that he was not going to be examined by a committee "of my peers," and was acting as a lawyer, and as a private citizen in the investigation If there was going to be "any jangling" or "politics" introduced he would immedately withdraw and drop the matter.

The Attorney General assured Mr. Sinclair that the government was desirous of a "full and searching inquiry."

There was a large attendance of the committee, and Finlay MacDiarmid, Conservative was elected chairman.

Mr. Sinclair reviewed the situation and suggested that there should be a complete scrutiny of the old ballots of Ottawa South, covering the transition of the documents from the King's Printer office to the polling Booths and their conveyance to the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery. He thought an opportunity should be given the committee to obtain the ballot boxes from the clerk in chancery.

"Wide Open Enquiry."

Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney General ,assured Mr. Sinclair that the government desired a "wide open enquiry," and announced the government had decided to introduce an amendment to the elections act. He

E. VERN MORPHET AGAIN CHAIRMAN

Gets Second Term as Head of Traffic Committee of Millers.

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 17. — (Special.)—At a meeting of the Traffic committee of the Canadian National Millers' Association, held here in the offices of the Association, Coristine Building, E. Vernon Morphet, of the Quaker Oats Company, Peterborough, Ont., was for the second time elected chairman of the Traffic committee, with Robert W. Hardie, of the Lake of the Woods Milling Company, Montreal, as vice-chairman.

The committee has had a most successful year, having secured several important adjustments of traffic matters effecting the milling industry throughout Canada, and is at present awaiting the judgment of the Canadian Railway Commission in connection with submissions entered by the committee under the general rate investigation.

This committee is composed of the traffic managers of all the largest milling concerns in Canada and from the agenda now on hand it would appear that the Association will have plenty of important subjects to adjust for the year 1928, which are of the greatest importance to the manufacturers of flour and cereal products as far as transportation is concerned.

NORTH AMERICAN PEOPLE SPEND TWICE AS MUCH IN INSTALMENTS AS THEY DO FOR LIFE INSURANCE

This fact Is Challenge To Life Underwriters, Declares George Harris.

CHANGE IN METHODS.

Competition To Insurance Man Not From Colleagues, But From Other Salesmen.

Buying goods on the installment plan, the people of North America spent in 1927 twice as much as they saved by the installment method of insurance; they pledged five billions of dollars of this year's earnings.

This assertion, summarizing what conservative economists may regard as an ominous financial condition, was made by George Harris of Montreal, director of the Sun Life Insurance Company's' field agencies, at last night's dinner at the Empress given by the Peterborough Life Underwriters Association to its members and district insurance men who have been attending the educational conference which concluded this afternoon.

Mr. Harris declared that he was not attacking the modern installment plan of selling, which has been so widely extended within the last few years. He quoted the figures as a challenge to the insurance forces.

"Shall we say that our work is done while the public is spending twice the sum they saved by insurance investments?" he asked.

"Your competition is not from your own friends, from within your own ranks. It is from the men who are selling all those articles I have mentioned on the installment plan; it is from the mail order house catalogue. They are shaking every dollar out of men's "jean's" and there is not a cent left when you get there.

The Way to Independence.

"When you sell a man a policy you have persuaded him to put on the brakes a little. The only way he can have independence is by saving now, so that he can have the money in the future. Whatever a man would enjoy in the future he must save from the present. Life insurance is a means of taking money out of a man's earnings and setting it aside for the future. He decides to defer pleasures a bit, and that's good for him morally. You are preaching a code of moral conduct. You are not like those who are telling him to eat, drink and be merry for to-morrow he may die."

The young man who buys life insurance is actuated by a sense of the responsibilities that will inevitably overtake him, Mr. Harris said. If he is to be a decent citizen he must be able to meet his obligations as they arise. He pledges himself to a code of responsible conduct and decent living.

The family man who buys insurance accepts the proposition that he must not bring children into the world without regard to the moral principle involved, that is, he is resolved to protect and safeguard his own.

"Our Heads Are Turned."

Mr. Harris prefaced this part of his address by saying that this is an extravagant age. "We are living in times of great and unparallelled prosperity. We have all got our heads turned a little but we are all spending and having a great time, but the younger generation have not to work for their money as you older fellows did."

Mr. Harris recalled that, in the days when he married, affianced young people set about saving £100 in England to buy the furniture for the little home they were planning, and they considered it a disgrace to marry with a cent of debt on their furniture. Some times it took as long as twelve years.

"And a good spirit it was," Mr. Harris remarked. "The aspiration to ownership demanded sacrifice and saving, but it is a glorious satisfaction to be able to say 'this is mine'."

The tendency to-day, Mr. Harris continued, is that a young man can't court a girl unless he has a car, usually bought on the installment plan, the ring is bought in the same way, the furniture, trousseau, groom's clothing, even the honeymoon all may be arranged for by this same method.

"They had to pay for nothing, but they started married life in debt and often they end in despair. I know that gramaphones, player pianos, electric washers, Hoovers, all these things have brought comfort to housewives. People have had more pleasures, they have been able to see something of the world. I am not attacking the installment system,but--"

CLOSES MARCH 15

Company Must Buy at Market Value to Supply Employes' Purchases.

Because of the favorable response of the employees to the Canadian General Electric Company's offer of a savings and investment plan last January, it has been decided to reopen the scheme this year. This announcement has just been made by E. G. Patterson, local works manager.

Cumulative preference shares of the company stock are offered the employes at par value, on terms of payment that enable every employe to participate. The closing date for this issue is March 15, and the plan is the same as last year's except that only 10 shares may be acquired by each employee instead of 20, and the period of service governing eligibility to subscribe will be six months instead of three. The governing date for computation of this service is September 30, 1927.

Mr. Patterson points out that the plan is offered solely as an aid to savings and investment, and is not a capital raising proposition. As a matter of fact, the Company must pay market value for every share which it sells at par to employes under this plan, and the market value is considerably above par. The only advantage to the Company is the indirect benefit obtained from the better relations between the Company and its employes engendered by the plan.

The dividend is 7 per cent per annum, cumulative, but as there is an extra payment of at least one per cent, the annual return is really at least 8 per cent on the investment, a great encouragement to this form of investment. There is nothing obligatory in the scheme, Mr. Patterson emphasizes.

Monthly payment is provided for, so that all employes may have the opportunity to participate, and in the event of employment of an employe terminating, the total amount paid in for stock will be refunded, plus interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum. No allowance will be made in such case for accrued dividends, nor for the credit of extra payment, and no interest will be charged on unpaid balances. In case of death, the total amount paid in by the employe by means of deductions from pay, accrued dividends, and the pro-rata proportion of the extra payment credit, less interest at 5 per cent per annum on unpaid balances, will be paid to the estate of the deceased employe. Any employe may withdraw from the purchase agreement at any time, and in case of withdrawal refund will be made on the same basis as if employment had terminated.

Circulars describing the plan in detail have been given to all employes entitled by service to participate.

Breezes of Spring Bring Fire Alarms

April, the month of which poets sing, and usually one of the windiest months of the year, in spite of March's reputation, is fire alarm month. During April, 1927, there were 89 alarms, more than one-fifth of the year's total, and more than double every other month but May. May had 48 alarms and December 44.

The shortest month had not the smallest number of alarms. That honor goes to August, with only 16 alarms in its 31 days. February was quite high, with 30, being busier than July, August, September, and November.

Spring has a great deal to do with April's fire alarms. Not only were there 29 chimney and pipe fires, but there were 27 grass fires given attention.

TEACHES DANCERS.

MISS MARION MAY PERRY of the Mallabar Producing Co., who so successfull staged the dancing in the play called "Leave it to Gloria;" put on here recently, under the auspices of the Patriotic League. She has just just finished an engagement in Guelph in connection with a "Fun Frolic," staged by the Kiwanians of that city. Miss Perry is now in Welland to put on "Leave it to Gloria," under the auspices of the Rotary Club there.

Dr. John Stiles, Assistant Dominion Commissioner, is Speaker.

MANY GUESTS.

Delegates To Convention and Young People From Bridgenorth Attend.

The Kiwanis Family, which sat down to luncheoen at the Empress Hotel to-day, was one of the largest that has turned out for many yeeks and in every way, the meeting was as bright, snappy and interesting as the large attendance warranted. It was "Scouts' Day" and "Guests' Day" combined with a program of musical numbers and novelties, with a splendid address on "The Scout Movement" by Dr. John Stiles, Rotarian, and Assistant Dominion Scout Commissioner, of Ottawa, as a fitting climax.

It was Scouts' Day because the Kiwanians enjoyed the presence of many delegates to the big annual Scout Leaders' Conference being held in the city at the present time, and it was Guests' Day to be sure, for aside from numerous private guests, the meeting was graced by the presence of a number of young ladies of the Bridgenorth Domestic Science Class and the young men who have been taking up the Agricultural course being conducted there by the Department of Agriculture. These young people were in the city to-day, visiting many of the leading stores and industries — a part of their training course. Among those present to-day were: Misses Helen Moore, Mildred Fowler, Mrs. W. Nichols, Misses Leila Sanderson, Olive Sidey, Marion Blewett, Vera Donaldson, Margaret Milburn, Grace Bickell, Grace Darling, Mary Middleton, Eulah Hancock, Lillian McGregor, Dorothy Tully, Jean Hamilton, Phyllis Moore, Mrs. J. R. Mann, Messrs. Robbie McAdam, Gordon McGregor, Arthur Hancock, Harold Middleton, Clarence Mann, Earle Tully, Gordon Hancock, Reg. McMullen, Ken Fife, Misses Betty Edgar, Isobel Anderson, Helen Milburn, Mrs. M. Fowler and Margaret Mann, all of the two classes; also W. H. Smith, Doctor of Music, of Niagara Falls; E. A. Summers, of Winchester, Ont.; G. Hicks-Lyne, recently appointed manager of the Dominion Bank in this city; Wesley Mason, of Lindsay; M. Jean McIlmoyle, of Lakefield; A. W. Allin, of Lindsay; Harry Fowler, of Peterborough; G. H. Middleton; A. G. Bulmer, of Peterborough; W. H. Fine, of Cornwall; J. Wheatly, of Windsor; R. Thomas, of Windsor; L. E. Secord, of Toronto; and C. H. Benson, of Peterborough.

Fellow Kiwanians were also pleased to welcome back Art Reynolds, who has been on the sick list.

The Chairman.

President J. John was pleased to give place to J. J. Turner, Peterboro, who proved a most acceptable chairman. He it was who extended a hearty Kiwanian welcome to the guests, called for their introduction, and announced the winners of Mark Bredin's booster prize as Miss Sanderson, Miss Hill (the soloist of the day) President Joe John and Miss Edith Hopkins. He also announced that next week's luncheon will be held on Thursday evening at six o'clock, at which the speaker would be His Honor Judge O'Connor.

Them musical number of the luncheon was contributed by Miss Bertha Hill whose accompanist was M. Chenhall. Miss Hill's first number was "Roses of Picardy," which elicit-

LEADERS CONFER ON VARIOUS POINTS

Problems Discussed at Meetings of Scout and Cup Leaders.

A sectional conference for Boy Scout leaders was held in the upper hall of the Canadian Legion building this morning. The delegates entered into the discussion whole-heartedly and as a result many helpful hints were passed on.

The first topic discussed was "Using the Patrol Leaders." The boy scout organization provides for a boy being set over a group as the patrol leader. In some troops this means a whole lot while in others it means very little for it all depends on the boy selected to be the leader.

J. Blow, of Whitby, recommended that the patrol leader take the work of the troop and in the patrol system he believed it the only way to get the benefit of scouting to the boy. The leader must be well up in scout work and ahead of the ones he is leading. Another delegate recalled that when he was under Sir Robert Baden-Powell the scouts then were really an unorganized gang.

H. Ferguson told of the work the scouts were doing at the Bowmanville Boys' Farm. "We have many difficulties to face that other troops have not. The boys, of course, have no scouting experience or they would not be found there. They are delinquents, not sent there by the juvenile judge, but those who could not be managed by their parents. We started over a year ago with a dozen scouts. We were all green at the game, but with a little extra work I was able to study scouting and now

FIRE BRIGADE NEEDS $38,290 TO COVER EXPENSES FOR 1928; COMMITTEE PARES ESTIMATES

Fire Fighters Cost City $37,262 in 1927—Estimate Was $37.658.47.

NO EXTRA STATION

Committee Will Give Men Day Off in Seven, But Will Hire No Extra Men.

Estimates totalling $60,282 were presented to the Fire, Water and Light Committee last night, but after the pruning knife had been applied the total passed on to the Finance Committee was $38,290, a decrease of $21,992. Much of this cut is accounted for by the dropping of the bungalow fire station advocated for the south end, and the salaries of the men and the cost of the equipment needed. These items appear on the list every year, but get no further. Another cut was one of $3000 in the $3500 included for traffic signals at several of the main corners, and the $500 put in is doomed for removal if the tax rate should show signs of exceeding last year's figure of 36 mills.

The estimates for 1927 were $37,-658.47, and there was spent $38,-566.07 Against this there was a credit of $1304, chiefly for gasoline supplied the other departments, the sale of hose, and the rent of the team.

During the consideration of the estimates City Treasurer Frank Adams sounded a note of warning. He had, he said, computed the rate required for the City Trust demand and the needs of the Board of Education and other bodies, and if the council wished to keep the rate at 36 mills it must confine its own expenditures to 14.69 mills instead of the 15.45 levied last year. This will give the council $278,988 against the $291,337 raised last year, a decrease of $12,-349.

Another point which had to be considered was the one day off in seven for the firemen. Other cities which have adopted the system have added men to the establishment. Some have not, however yet complied with this provision of the act. It was decided by the committee that the chief shall arrange to allow each man one day off in seven without increasing the strength of the brigade. This will mean two men off some days, leaving eight on duty, and one man off others, leaving nine on duty.

Overdraft Explained.

Explaining the overdraft for 1927, Ald. Cotton pointed out that the amount given for gasoline, $909 97, included that used by the police department and the Board of Works, while $630 had been paid for insurance on the trucks, for which no estimate had been made.

Firemen's Dinner Often Disturbed

Noon seems to be the popular time for fire alarms in Peterborough. Whether it is because the good housewives, in their hurry to get the dinner ready, overheat the pipes and set the soot on fire, is not stated in Chief Gimblett's annual report, but nevertheless, 59 out of the 438 alarms, or nearly one in seven, is included in the twelve o'clock column. Twenty of these noon alarms came in April, which is the leading month for chimney fires. The opposite extreme comes at two a.m. Only one alarm was sounded in that hour during the year, coming in December.

RADIO TO GUIDE PLANES IN FOG

One More Obstacle To Aviation Being Overcome By Scientists.

CHIEF CAUSE OF TROUBLE.

CHICAGO, Feb. 17. — (Canadian Press.)—One more obstacle to aviation— fog—is about to be overcome through experiment, says Col. Paul Henderson. "Since radio engineers have found that radio waves can be directed through the ether, experts have evolved a system of guiding pilots through fogs and storms by means of radio signals," he stated. "In a recent experiment one airman had been guided through an intense fog from a New York field to one in Eastern Pennsylvania. Fog has been the chief source of trouble to airmen. Now it is almost certain that this element will no longer endanger flying."

Prince May Open Show By Phone

HAMILTON, February 17. — The Prince of Wales will be invited to open the Produce in Canada Show to be held here from May 28 to June 2. Publicity Commissioner Kirkpatrick announced yesterday, but the officials admitted that there is very little chance of His Royal Highness accepting. The officials hope to be able to arrange to have the Prince open the show by telephone and Lieutenant-Governor Ross of Ontario will be asked to speak at this end.

Good Trade Balance And Debt Reduction Are Not Final Test

Tendency to Embark on New Ventures Should be Disciplined in Favor of Work, Thrift and Good-will Toward One Another, Says Minister of Finance.

ANNUAL REDUCTION OF TAXES AS IMPORTANT AS REDUCTION OF CANADA'S NATIONAL DEBT

Proposal Made to Double Requirements of Labor and Material Content to Foster Empire Trade—Huge Business Done With Britain in Last Fiscal Year.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 17 (Canadian Press)—One of the most important announcements made by Hon. James A. Robb, Minister of Finance, in his budget statement late yesterday afternoon was that yarns for the weaving of woollen and worsted cloths imported by Canadian manufacturers, will henceforth come in free under the British preference and subject to a duty of ten per cent under the intermediate and twelve and a half per cent under the general tariffs. Formerly the tariff item covering these imports was twelve and a half per cent British preference, seventeen and a half intermediate, and twenty per cent, general tariff.

The minister announced a complete revision of the textile group in the customs tariff comprising cotton, wool, silk and artificial silk, flax, hemp, jute and similar products. This reclassification involves a change in a number of the textile items. In some cases there have been combinations of two or more items in the customs tariff. In other cases there have been divisions.

"From this summary it will be seen that we estimate our ordinary revenues for the present fiscal year as $412,580,000, which, with special receipts of $6,900,000, including $6,767,000 from reparation payments, of which $3,790,000 is in the nature of a delayed settlement, will give a total revenue for the year of about $419,480,000, an increase of $19,000,000 odd over the revenue for the year 1926-27.

We expect to receive from customs duties $153,600,000, an increase of $11,600,000 over the previous year; excise duties $57,000,000, an increase of $8,400,000; income tax $55,300,000, an increase of $7,900,000; interest on investments, $10,190,000, an increase of $1,630,000; post office $31,000,000, an increase of $1,930,000; dominion lands and certain other sources of revenue, $8,530,000, an increase of $161,000.

The revenue services which will show decreases are: Excise taxes (sales, stamps, etc.), $88,000,000, a decrease of $17,600,000 under the previous year; delayed business profits tax, $640,000, a decrease of $70,000; miscellaneous services, $8,320,000, a decrease of $180,000.

Estimated Expenditures

"The estimated expenditures for the year are:

"Ordinary expenditures, $333,730,000 capital expenditures, $21,405,000; special expenditures, $7,115,000; including $3,843,000 to the Canadian National and other railways on account of the maritime freight rates act of 1927. In addition there are loans in cash to the Canadian government merchant marine of $1,000,000, and to the Quebec harbor commission of $1,415,000. As these loans are carried in our accounts as non-active assets, the amounts are included as expenditures for the year. The total expenditures will therefore be $364,665,000, being an increase of $9,030,000 over expenditures for the previous year.

"Mr. Speaker, with the consent of the House may I also place on Hansard:

"First—Statement of our estimated ordinary revenues, by services, together with the percentage of such services to the total of the ordinary revenues as estimated?

"Second—Statement of the estimated expendtiures, by services, for the present fiscal year, showing the various amounts and their percentages to the total expenditures?

Estimated Ordinary Revenues.

	Amount	P.C. of total revenue
Special war tax revenue—Excise taxes (sales, stamps etc.)	$88,000,000	21.33
Income tax	55,300,000	13.40
Delayed business profits tax	640,000	.16
Miscellaneous taxes	2,530,000	.61
Total special war tax revenue	146,470,000	35.50
Customs import duties	153,600,000	37.23
Excise duties	57,000,000	13.82
Total revenue from taxation	357,070,000	86.55

New Records Made By General Motors

NEW YORK, N.Y., Feb. 17.—(Canadian Press).—New records in both sales and profits were established by General Motors Corporation in 1927, an official summary of the annual report shows. Earnings on the common stock were equivalent to $12.99 a share, against $10.90 in 1926, calculated on a comparable basis.

Net earnings for the year were $235,104,826, after deducting $3,214,183, the proportion of earnings and losses of subsidiary companies not consolidated, but accruing to General Motors in excess of dividends received.

A total of $73,939,478 was paid as regular dividends on the common stock in 1927 and two extra dividends aggregating $60,896,603 were declared, making $134,836,081 in dividends on the common for the year. This included an extra of $43,500,000 paid January 3, 1928, to shareholders of record November 19, 1927, and compares with total cash dividends of $103,930,993 in the common stock declared in 1925.

FIRE BRIGADE ANNUAL.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 17.—There was a good attendance at the annual meeting of Lakefield Fire Brigade on Tuesday under the chairmanship of Chief A. H. Clarke, and splendid reports were presented. The financial statement, submitted by the treasurer, E. J. Robertshaw, showed a creditable balance in the bank, and the Chief's report, with pointers on fire fighting, was well received. Councillor Harrison, chairman of the property committee, spoke kindly of the work.

The following officers were elected: Chief, A. H. Clarke; assistant chief, L. J. Charlton, deputy chief, W. Robinson; captain of hose, H. Kidd; lieutenant of hose, W. Hamblin; captain of chemical, L. Sabatino; lieutenant of chemical, K. Junkin; master mechanic, G. Scriver; motor mechanic, C. Hunter; secretary-treasurer, E. J. Robertshaw.

Following the business meeting, refreshments were served, and a social hour was enjoyed.

Trapper Guarantees To Eliminate Wolves

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Feb. 17.—Bob Beck, the Searchmont trapper who has accounted for over a dozen wolves so far this Winter, has trapped another big timber wolf which measured over seven feet in length. The head of the animal weighed four pounds.

George W. Kidd of Nipissing has made a proposal to Algoma farmers that he will guarantee to rid any area by a trapping method which he has perfected, and some of the farmers here are showing a desire to give him a chance.

SCOUTS TRAIN FOR CITIZENSHIP UNDER A PROGRESSIVE PROGRAM SAYS AMERICAN DEPUTY-CHIEF

Big Gathering Hears Splendid Addresses on Practical Boy Work.

J. J. TURNER HONORED

Local Commissioner is Selected as One of Provincial Vice-Presidents.

More than one hundred and seventy-five boy scout leaders and representative citizens were present last night at the Boy Scout Conference annual banquet, in the Canadian Legion Hall. Inspiring addresses were delivered by Judge H. S. Mott, of the Juvenile Court of Toronto and Dr. George J. Fisher, Deputy Chief of the Scout Executive of the National Council of Boy Scouts of America. Both speakers encouraged the leaders to take an interest in the young boys under their care so that they might grow up to be citizens that any country would be glad to have. They stressed the opportunities that the leaders had to develop the boys and make of them real men. His Worship Mayor Denne brought greetings from the city to the conference. Reports of the various officers were given and the new officers were elected. Peterborough was honored by having J. J. Turner, district scout commissioner, elected as one of the vice-presidents of the Provincial Association. During the banquet a most enjoyable time was enjoyed, for the scouts filled every moment full of fun with their singing, yells, and calls.

Fourteen Cubs and their leader from the All Saints' troop sang two selections. The first was "Three Cheers for the Red, White and Blue," which was very appropriately rendered with their leader holding the Union Jack. The second was "Old Black Joe," when the boys knelt around a palm tree. Four of the local scouts gave a musical selection and President J. W. Mitchell welcomed W. R. Cook, secretary of the Ontario-Quebec district of the Y.M.C.A. as a fraternal delegate.

His Worship Mayor Denne extended a whole-hearted welcome to the visiting scouts and asked them to come again to Peterborough.

"I welcome you to the city on behalf of the City Council, and the citizens of Peterborough. We welcome you and want you to come again. Scouters, Peterborough is situated in the centre of the Midland district. We have a fine city, on a splendid river, and wonderful schools, the best in Ontario. We want you back again, but come in the summer time when we can show you what this city looks like," said Mayor Denne.

Scouts Are Active.

J. W. Mitchell, president of the Provincial Council, delivered a short address, telling something of what the scout movement means.

"We met in Peterborough because we wanted to move around. We have met in Toronto, Hamilton, Brantford and Windsor, and we are in Peterborough this year because we believe we can help the scouting movement in this part of Ontario. Have we been wide-awake in the past year? What have we done? The public have have had a good chance to see scouts this Confederation year. Premier Ferguson at the opening of parliament picked upon them as ushers. Every now and then we read about their activities and it makes us proud that we belong to such a movement. The biggest kick we get is out of something we do for some one else, and that is what the scout movement means—doing something for someone else"—said Mr. Mitchell.

Future Bright For Boys.

Judge H. S. Mott was introduced by S. B. Mitchell of Toronto.

"As I look over this splendid gathering here to-night I can truly say that the fuutre of the boy in this province is such as it has never been before."

"To-day in this great province there is a new viewpoint in our national outlook. There never was a time when men did so much thinking. Men in the business world are thinking of how they can produce greater things, in the medical world—there is a more intelligent research and the problem of the boy is receiving more consideration in the schools. Simple Service Mark Asquith's Interment

LONDON, Feb. 17 (Associated Press).—The Earl of Oxford and Asquith, whose death occurred at his home at Sutton Courtenay early Wednesday morning, will be laid at rest Monday in the little Berkshire churchyard of All Saints' Church with the very simplest ceremonies, in accordance with the former Premier's desire to be buried with "the utmost simplicity."

The pall-bearers will be selected from intimate friends, not in any sense political or national representatives, while the funeral service will be limited to members of the family and a few of Countess Oxford's close friends.

National honors were paid yesterday formally by both Houses of Parliament, which adjourned all business after leading members of the Commons and the Lords paid eloquent tribute to the war-time Premier.

Viscount Grey of Falloden, his great contemporary, dwelt particularly on the high qualities displayed by his chief at the opening of the Great War. Grey was then Secretary for Foreign Affairs, and through him war was declared on Germany.

Through all the tributes was admiration for Lord Oxford's three great qualities—his calm, judicial mind; his abilities as a great Parliamentarian, his unmatched command of the English language and literature, in which Premier Stanley Baldwin said he considered him without a rival in his generation.

SUGGESTS NATIONAL RESEARCH COUNCIL SHOULD BE INVITED TO INVESTIGATE GRADING OF GRAIN

J. Gordon Ross (Moose Jaw) Takes Up Debate on Grading Motion in House.

MANY COMPLAINTS

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 17 (Canadian Press).—Further consideration was given in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon to the motion by John Millar (Liberal-Prog., Qu-Appelle) for a change in the method of grading grain.

J. Gordon Ross (Liberal, Moose Jaw) suggested that the National Research Council should be invited to investigate the grading of grain, and in addition the drying of grain. He pointed out that wheat was one of the few commodities used to any great extent not graded through the value of its chemical content. He suggested that wheat should be graded by the amount of flour produced to the hundredweight, the protein content, the quality of the protein and the quantity of moisture. The exact quality of flour produced was of vital importance to the housewife and to the miller.

A statement by Mr. Ross that "no grain is dried until after the close of navigation" brought an interruption from E. J. Garland (U.F.A., Bow River). Mr. Garland said that Mr. Ross had made a very important statement and he would like to know if he had any proof for it. Mr. Ross replied that he understood that what he had said was correct, but that he would be willing to ask the Government to table a return showing what amount, if any, was dried before navigation closed. Previously he had asserted that this delay in drying of grain caused a loss of value to the producer.

Wider Discontent.

F. W. Gershaw (Liberal, Medicine Hat) told the House of wide discontent with the grading system among the farmers. He hoped that some other method might be worked out. Wheat of high protein value should receive the maximum in grading.

C. G. Coote (U.F.A., MacLeod) said he would like to see the whole subject very thoroughly investigated and suggested that the resolution be sent to the committee on agriculture.

K. A. Blatchford (Liberal, Edmonton East) said there had been more complaints about grading this year than ever before. The Government should go into the whole question and instigate an investigation.

C.N.R. Earnings

MONTREAL, February 17 (Canadian Press). — The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways for the week ended February 14, 1928, were $4,708,482, as compared with $4,250,834 for the corresponding week of 1927, an increase of $457,648, or 11 per cent.

FARMERS SEEK HYDRO SERVICE

DISCUSS DETAILS.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 17.—A meeting that was of particular interest and importance was held in the School House, Fallis Line, recently, for the purpose of considering the possibility of installing the Hydro-Electric power in this section of Cavan Township.

The local superintendent, G. F. Harrington, was present and gave an instructive address, explaining the cost to be incurred, and other details in connection with the project.

There were fourteen farmers present, and a motion was passed appointing Messrs. H. A. Fallis and Milton Fallis a committee, in conjunction with Mr. Harrington, to canvass the farmers on the Line, and secure, if possible, the signing of contracts.

A. J. Fallis, ex-M.P.P., acted as chairman; Mr. Fallis' active support of Hydro-Electric for rural sections throughout the province is well-known.

Providing a sufficient number of subscribers can be secured, it seems apparent that Fallis Line may be the pioneer rural community in this part of the province in having Hydro-Electric service in the farm homesteads.

W. M. REGAN HEADS MARMORA G.W.V.A.

Succeeds Percy Gray As President of Branch—Quarterly Meetings.

MARMORA, Feb. 17.—The annual meeting of Marmora G.V.W.A. was held a little earlier in the Association's rooms on Wednesday night owing to the recent departure of Percy Gray, who was president for the past year. Comrade W. M. Regan was elected president. Other officers are as follows: 1st vice-president—F. Leal; 2nd vice-president, G. Hartley; executive: F. R. Wells, L. R. Rundle, and J. R. Wright; secretary-treasurer, J. W. Hickey.

Quarterly meetings were decided upon. J. A. Rice was appointed operator of the moving pictures held weekly under the management of the Association.

CLINIC FINDS QUICK WAY TO END COLDS

Advise Hospital Tested Method; Is Ideal for Home Use And Brings Relief in Few Hours

A great many Peterboro people—like James H. Springer, have learned that it is no longer necessary to let cold make a person feel miserable or cause fear of pneumonia. Four doctors at the hospital clinic are recommending a simple home treatment that brings quick, sure relief—often in a few hours.

A severe cold had kept Mr. Springer from business several days. When nothing seemed to help him he called the hospital for advice. Doctors then recommended double strength doses of Cherry Pectoral—a highly concentrated mixture of ingredients which hospitals have found to be the quickest, safest and most dependable to end colds. With the first swallow he felt the soothing, comforting, healing warmth, from his nose passages deep down into his chest. In a few hours he felt lots better and in a day or so the cold was completely gone.

Note: Other cases reported daily—all certified by the physician who treated each case.

Doctors find that this hospital medicine does far more than stop coughing instantly. It is absorbed by the whole system. This quickly checks phlegm, heals irritation and drives out the cold from the nose passages, throat and chest.

Just a few pleasant spoonfuls of Cherry Pectoral now and you'll fell like a different person tomorrow.

KEENE A.Y.P.A. MEETS.

Miss Dorothy Chapman Elected President For Ensuing Year.

KEENE, Feb. 17.—The A.Y.P.A. held its annual meeting recently, with about thirty-five members present. The March meeting was discussed, at which a debate is to be given. About thirty people joined the club at this meeting. Dancing was indulged in after the conclusion of the meeting. The following officers were elected for the coming year:

President, Miss Dorothy Chapman; secretary-treasurer, Miss Marjorie Francis; entertainment committee, Misses Jean Wood and Mabel McIntyre, Messrs. Dave McNevan and Earl Doris; flower committee, Misses Katie Thompson and Bertha Elmhirst.

GRAIN VESSEL LEAKING.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Feb. 15.—(Canadian Press.)—The steamer Harvey H. Brown, of Cleveland, in winter storage with grain here, is leaking and her grain cargo is in danger. Steps are being taken to pump her out and save the gain, of which there is about four hundred thousand bushels.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

THERE may be, here and there, some boys and girls who take no interest in the Cookie Jar. But such children are almost as rare as six-foot Eskimos. The delectable cookie takes high honors as a 'tween meal or pre-bedtime snack for growing children—light, not too sweet, wholesome, easily digested. And then, of course, for the school luncheon bag, a few cookies are always sure of a boisterous welcome.

COOKIES
½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 tablespoon milk
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons Magic Baking Powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon extract lemon or vanilla

Cream butter and sugar together, add milk to beaten egg and beat again; add slowly to creamed butter and sugar, add flavoring, then two cups of flour sifted with baking powder and salt. If dough is not stiff enough, add a little more flour. Roll out very thin on floured board, cut with cookie cutter. Sprinkle with sugar or put a raisin or piece of walnut in centre of each. Bake 12 minutes in hot oven.

Trent River

TRENT RIVER, Feb. 17. — Word was received here on Saturday of the death of Dr. Kindred of Tweed. The late Dr. Kindred was well known here when he formerly resided in Havelock. The funeral took place Sunday afternoon at Tweed.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hawse and little son have returned to Peterborough, after spending the week at the latter's parental home.

Mrs. Andrew Carnrite is visiting her daugher, Mrs. John Hay at Campbellford.

Miss Ethyl Rose of Toronto is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Vanvolkenburg.

Mr. Bud Inkster, of the Continuation School, Marmora, spent the week-end with his parents.

Mrs. Frank Brewer is confined to her home suffering from an attack of bronchitis.

Miss L. Chaplin, assistant teacher at the Public School has not recovered from her illness sufficient to resume her duties this week.

Several physicians have come to the conclusion that the thymus gland causes crime. This gland can be worn down a lot, however, by application of the back of a hair brush.

Surplus, $54,815,000.

"In the statements just tabled it is estimated that ordinary revenue will amount to $412,850,000 which together with special receipts of $6,900,000 gives a total estimated revenue of $419,480,000. After deducting from this the estimated total expenditures of $364,665,000 there will be a surplus of revenues over all expenditures of $54,815,000.

Net Debt Reduced .38,815,000.

"After provision has been made to the extent of $16,000,000 for the writing down of certain soldier land settlement loans and other assets, the reduction in the next debt will be $38,815,000. Thus, during the five-year period ending March 31, 1928, after providing for writing down certain assets, we will have succeeded in reducing our net debt by $144,700,000.

"Chapter 68 of the statutes of 1927 amended the soldier land settlement act of 1919 and provided for the revaluation of loans to settlers for the purchase of lands. The soldier settlement board advise the department of finance that the total amount likely to be written off through this revaluation will be about $8,000,000. We propose reducing our assets as shown in the public accounts at the close of the present year by this sum of $8,000,000.

"The soldier settlement board also advise that there will be a further loss on the re-sale of stock and equipment, as well as on farms which have reverted to the board. Certain of these farms have been resold, but some 3,000 properties remain to be disposed of. In the opinion of the board a loss will eventually be sustained in connection with the assets referred to of approximately $6,000,000 which sum the government proposes to write off as a non-active asset.

"It has also been deemed advisable to reduce by some $2,000,000 active assets now carried as seed grain and relief advances, transforming this amount to non-active assets. These accounts have been running for many years and a certain number are now considered of doubtful value.

Outstanding Public Debt.

"Representations have been made in this House and elsewhere that, through a sinking fund properly invested, provision should be made for retirement of our total debt within a limited number of years. I do not intend to go into the merits of this proposal beyond remarking that there are opinions both for and against the adoption of a fixed plan.

"In the final analysis it must be recognized that a net surplus of revenues over all expenditures is the only effectual sinking fund for debt retirement. In 1845 an eminent British economist, McCulloch, dealing with the question of sinking funds and taxation, declared: 'The greater productiveness of industry and the greater well-being of the community are the real sinking funds which a wise government should exert itself to build up and encourage."

"In recent years we Canadians have succeeded in reducing annually both debt and taxation; each reduction of interest bearing debt has enabled us to reduce taxation further, and while welcoming any workable plan that will ensure the retirement of our national debt, I submit that until Canada is nearer the pre-war rate of taxation, annual reduction of taxes is as important as reduction of debt. Our policy is to reduce both.

Retirement of Maturing Loans.

"Mr. Speaker, total maturities for the current fiscal year, amounting to $100,505,650, were provided for as follows:

"On November 1 and 15, 1927, the 5½ per cent. renewal loan of 1922, amounting to $29,068,400 and the three-year 4 per cent. notes, amounting to $8,000,000, matured and were redeemed in cash.

"On December 1, 1927, a portion of the 5½ per cent. 1917 Victory loan, tax-free, amounting to $63,437,250 matured. We were able to redeem $18,437,250 in cash. To meet the balance we issued 4 per cent. three-year treasury notes to the amount of $45,000,000 which we sold direct to the chartered banks of Canada at par All of the chartered banks subscribed to this issue. The sale of these treasury notes marks the first financing since 1912, which the dominion government has effected at a net cost as low as 4 per cent.

"The saving in interest resulting from these transactions will be $3,607,800 annually. An additional advantage will accrue from a further reduction in the amount of outstanding tax-free bonds, as the December 1st maturity of $63,437,250 carried exemption from taxation.

Guaranteed Securities.

"Canadian National Railways: Financial requirements of the Canadian National Railway were met by an issue of $65,000,000 4½ per cent. 30-year bonds dated July 1, 1927, guaranteed by the Dominion of Canada.

"This issue was made to provide for the following authorized commitments of the railway company:

"$20,000,000—For the refunding of a like amount of 4 per cent. dominion guaranteed 3-year notes, which matured July 1, 1927, as authorized by the Canadian National refunding act, 1927 (chap. 27).

"15,000,000—For the funding of a temporary loan obtained by the company to finance capital expenditures and miscellaneous maturing obligations, as provided for in the railway appropriations for the previous year, 1926-27. The vote for the year was $31,000,000; $10,000,000 was advanced by the government as reported in the budget speech of last year and $15,000,000 was borrowed temporarily as authorized by vote 372, appropriation act 1826 which vote also authorized the issue and guarantee of securities to take up the temporary loan.

"16,600,000—To provide for expenditures authorized in the railway appropriation for 1927-28 for general additions and better ments and miscellaneous maturing obligations as provided for by vote 408, appropriation act, 1926-27, loans to Canadian National Railway Company?

"$4,000,000—For capital expenditures in connection with the Toronto viaduct scheme, as authorized by the legislation of 1924 and 1925.

$9,400,000—On account of construction of various branch lines, as authorized by the special acts passed in 1924, 1925 and 1927.

"Montreal harbor commissioners:—During the year, the government guaranteed a demand obligation of the Montreal harbor commissioners for $4,000,000, in connection with the financing of the South Shore bridge, as authorized by chap. 58 of the statutes of 1924. This, together with a guarantee for a similar amount, previously given, brings the total of guaranteed obligations issued in connection with this project to $8,000,000.

"Canadian National (West Indies) Steamships Limited: Parliament last year authorized the government to guarantee securities of the Canadian National (West Indies) Steamships Limited, to provide for the construction of steamships for the West Indies service. A guarantee to the amount of $8,000,000 has been executed, but actual borrowing will take place only to meet cash requirements as construction proceeds. The company has arranged for bank advances as collateral, for which the guaranteed securities are to be pledged.

Trade.

"The international trade of Canada is well maintained. Our fiscal year does not end for some weeks, but the records for the nine months ended December 31 indicate a substantial favorable balance. This is particularly noteworthy at a time when industrial expansion and undertakings of various natures create a demand for machinery, construction material and other necessary articles not procurable in Canada. Imports of necessary supplies of raw materials for further manufacture are also on a large scale.

"As we look back to the years when railways were being extended across the dominion and western Canada was being settled, it will be recalled that their were annual unfavorable balances of trade, the adverse balance in the calendar year 1913 being $222,000,000, one of the highest in our history.

"The League of Nations in 1927 made an interesting comparison of the international trade of the world and for this purpose took the calendar years 1913 and 1926. It was found that in 1913 only three nations had favorable trade balances. In that year the United States had a favorable trade balance of $7.13 per capita, Argentine $6.78 per capita and British India 60 cents per capita. Thirteen years later there were six countries with favorable balances of trade, and Canada, which in 1913 had an unfavorable balance of $29.61 per capita, in 1926 led the world with a favorable balance of $29.34 per head of population. The countries so listed are:

Canada, favorable balance per capita, $29.34; United States, $3.22; Brazil, $1.97; British India, $1.01; South Africa, 14 cents; France, 2 cents.

"In the first nine months of the present fiscal year, viz., from April 1 to December 31, our total imports were $823,054,094; while the total exports amounted to $970,154,998, giving a favorable trade balance of $147,100,904.

Trade With Treaty Countries.

"Favored nation treatment is of importance alike to basic producers and to manufacturers of finished products. Our prolonged winters tend to restrict employment in some industries while others have only a short marketing season in Canada. Consequently, to maintain a high state of efficiency, export markets are to many industries, as well as to basic producers, of almost primary importance. Canada now enjoys favorabel trade relations with many foreign countries to whom we sold $157,000,000 of goods in the fiscal year 1927, purchasing in return $78,000,000.

Empire Trade.

"Our trade records show that in the fiscal year 1927 we sold to the empire goods to the value of $542,000,000 and purchased in return $214,000,000, collecting in duties from these imports $36,598,000.

"Sometimes comparisons are made to arrive at the average rates of duties assessed under various columns, so may it be pointed out in passing that nearly 35 per cent. of the total duties collected on empire imports was paid on $25,711,000 of alcoholic beverages.

"If we except the United Kingdom from the calculations it will be noted that in the fiscal year 1927 Canada purchased from other British countries goods to the value of about $50,000,000. On these imports $4,267,000 were collected in customs, over 54 per cent. of the total being paid as duties on sugar and spirits, thus showing in a broad way that the major portion of our imports from the British dominions and possessions consists of non-competitive and raw products. As practically all of our $94,000,000 of exports to these British dominions and possessions are fully manufactured, the value of working for closer trade relations within the empire is surely apparent.

"It is estimated that the reduction In taxation will be $19,000,000.

"In order to foster empire trade there is a general tendency in the dominions and the mother country to increase the percentage of cost of production requirements on goods receiving the benefit of the British preferential tariff. At present Canada requires 25 per cent. to be empire labor and materials. It is proposed to double this percentage. There will be similar increases in the percentages required on goods entering under treaty rates and the intermediate tariff.

"In summing up the statement presented little need be said, because, sir, the figures, speaking for themselves, require no words to emphasize the sound position of the dominion's balance sheet. A general tone of optimism exists throughout Canada. Nevertheless may I be permitted a word of friendly caution as to the future.

"To-day we are widening the inhabited frontiers, penetrating and developing our great northern domains. Federal and provincial governments, transportation companies, commercial corporations and individuals share in the work. It is a national undertaking of importance, for it not only develops Canada in a material way, but in addition, gives a better balance to our geographical groupings of population. Should we not profit by experiences of the past and keep this expansion within proper economic bounds, so that at no time will undue strain be placed either on the resources of the government or of the investors?

"In May, 1920, the first post-war budget presented by the government of the Rt. Honorable Mackenzie King was submitted to this House. Business was then passing through a period of depression and a deficit of $81,000,000 was announced. With a view to balancing the budget expenditures were reduced, taxation readjusted and measures of relief to basic industries enacted. Thus by policies beneficial to all parts of Canada national development, both in industry and population, has been encouraged. Canadians are returning home, desirable types of immigrants are attracted and Canada is once more building solidly for the future.

"A spirit of hopefulness has been developed, and as we entered the present calendar year one could not help but note that leaders of industry and finance emphasized that the present prosperous conditions sprang from the solid growth and solvency of the basic industries of Canada.

"With revenues now buoyant there is a tendency to have the dominion embark on many new ventures, as well as a tendency towards indiscriminate private speculation. We should not, however, forget our national debt. Work and thrift are the only sure roads to success. The generation that spent the money should not shirk its responsibilities. Further taxation reductions will become possible as Canada progresses, but national progress is dependent on the wholesome goodwill we practise toward one another."

SCOTT'S EMULSION

FEW MEN BEGIN WORK AT MINE

TIMMINS, Feb. 17.—(Canadian Press).—Partial resumption of work took place at the Hollinger mine yesterday, but only a limited number of men are at work yet and it may be two weeks before the big mine will be in full operation again. Notices posted Tuesday and signed by A. F. Brigham, general manager intimated that operations at the property would be recommenced yesterday but Tom Sutherland, chief mining inspector, stated that parts of the mine are not yet in a condition to permit men to be engaged there and yesterday only the sections below the eight hundred foot level are being worked and they are not at full strength.

"After the Bath"

Read how you can obtain a Beautiful Reproduction of this Lovely Picture!

"AFTER THE BATH" was the masterpiece of the famous Canadian artist, Paul Peel. It was exhibited at the Paris Salon in 1890, winning the gold medal, the first painting by a foreign artist to receive this highest mark of recognition for artistic merit. It was bought by the Hungarian Government, and occupied a place of honour in the National Museum for over thirty years, until, as a result of war-time financial disaster, it was purchased by Mr. Henry Pocock of London, Ontario, and thus found its home at last in the native land of its author.

The John Taylor Company have had a special edition of this beautiful painting lithographed in twelve colours. Each print measures 22" x 28" and identical copies have sold in art stores, framed, as high as $40.00. So that you may see the beauty of this lovely reproduction, we have arranged for a limited period for your grocer to exhibit a framed copy of this picture in his window. Be sure you see it. Remember that yours will be exactly like it, but unframed, and that you can obtain a copy absolutely free from any advertising matter by sending six empty cartons of INFANT'S DELIGHT SOAP and 50 cents in cash to John Taylor & Co., Limited, 175 Eastern Avenue, Toronto 8.

INFANT'S DELIGHT SOAP may be obtained from any drug or grocery store, and is without question the most perfect soap made for infants' use and for those with sensitive skins.

FULL BI-LINGUAL SYSTEM WANTED

Pronouncement of French Member of Legislature Argued By Martin.

TORONTO, Feb. 17.—Aurelien Belanger, Liberal member for Russell and French-Canadian spokesman in the Legislature, yesterday made his pronouncement to the House on the linguistic situation in the schools of Ontario and especially the Government's action in modifying the regulations as to use of French as language of instruction.

While the commission's report and its adoption has produced, he said, assurance of French Canadian co-operation, it is not because the objective has been reached—far from it—but "because we believe we have reached a common ground where we can continue in an amicable way to reach a real effective solution of the linguistic problem of Ontario. We hope that we shall have a full recognition of what should be an effetcive bilingual system."

"The member might explain the objective," suggested Col. John A. Currie and Mr. Belanger said "We do not want our children to be hampered and hindered by the difficulties of a language which at their age they know but imperfectly. We do not want our children to be doomed to inferiority in history and geography because you want us to mix it with the difficulties of a language not their home tongue."

Such reference as was made to Russell and Prescott schools was drawn out by questions, and Mr. Belanger declared emphatically that back wardness there was attributable to lack of qualified teachers.

Rev. W. G. Martin Replies.

Before the House adjourned at nine o'clock last night there was a reply on the bilingual issue from the Government side. Rev. W. G. Martin, of Brantford, said: "I cannot agree that this is a bilingual province. If you had equal numbers it would be obligatory to learn both languages. Where you have one-tenth French they must learn English. English as a language of instruction must ever remain the policy here. Teaching history, as my friend says, must not be hampered by study of English, but there is a danger if pupils do not take it up then they will not in later forms. The one-tenth must learn English, and it must be taught, and there must be no bluff about it. We will solve this problem when we get inspectors busy throughout the schools and depend less on legislation. We should give this policy a fair trial, for it may be more efficacious than the former. Regulation 17 or not Regulation 17, we want a policy that will be in the best interests of the boys and girls of the province.

FIFTEEN SEAMEN KILLED BY BLAST

U. S. Oil Tanker Blows Up in Pacific—Survivors Brought To Tokio.

TOKIO, February 17 (Canadian Press).—The captain and fourteen members of the crew of the United States oil tanker Chuky were killed when the vessel blew up and sank 150 miles south of here. A trawler arrived here to-day with 21 survivors of the disaster, which occurred on Wednesday as the tanker was en route from San Pedro, Calif., to Japan. Several of the survivors were injured.

THE BUDGET PROPOSALS.

Mr. Robb's Budget proposals, while not as extensive as was expected, are once more in the interest of the great mass of the people of this country.

The Finance Minister estimates that the changes he recommends will mean a saving of nineteen million dollars in taxation.

At the same time he is able to announce a very material reduction in the public debt and a surplus of fifty-four million dollars.

On all three points his Budget will meet with popular approval.

Under the head of tax reductions Mr. Robb announces a 10 per cent. decrease in personal income tax, and a reduction in the tax rate on corporations to 8 per cent. The sales tax drops twenty-five per cent., or, in other words, is cut from 4 to 3 per cent., a cut that should be felt in the pockets of the public.

The household budget, too, will receive the benefit of tariff reductions on a large range of household cottons and on all but the most expensive lines of woollen underwear, socks, etc.

The outstanding feature of the tariff amendments is the complete revision of the textile group, which has been re-classified and re-arranged.

NO RELIEF FOR THE SMOKER.

The disappointing feature of the Robb Budget, not only to those engaged in the tobacco trade but to the very large number of Canadians who are purchasers of cigarettes, is the failure of the Budget proposals to include a downward revision of the excise tax on this commodity.

Disinclination to sacrifice the revenue that this tax brought into the Dominion Treasury doubtless prevented Mr. Robb from making the confidently-expected slash.

The fact that no opposition had been offered to the reduction when it was considered by the Advisory Tariff Board and that the Customs Inquiry Commission had suggested a reduced excise on cigarettes as desirable to prevent smuggling, led to a general belief that a cut would be forthcoming, but with the Government asking for millions more for ordinary government expenditures than last year the Finance Minister hesitated to toss away the revenue from this source.

The excise tax in Canada is $6.00 on 1,000 cigarettes, as compared with $3.00 across the border, and the difference in the price in the two countries is great enough to give the Canadian consumer a legitimate grievance and strong grounds for demanding relief.

It would be interesting to know whether or not the Advisory Tariff Board advised a slash in the excise in this respect.

THE PUBLIC WILL BENEFIT.

The fact that the insurance executives of Peterborough and the surrounding district have been ready to give up three days of their time this week to attending a conference here is significant.

Primarily, of course, these men meet on such occasions for their own benefit and education, but at the same time there is not the slightest doubt of the fact that the public in the long run benefits because of the improved service the insurance companies are able to give as a result of such conferences.

More and more insurance men have come to see that success in their field does not come from selling prospects so many dollars of insurance—any kind of a policy so long as the client signs on the dotted line—but rather in studying the needs of the applicant for insurance so that he obtains the policy that best suits his purpose.

The more thoroughly insurance men know their business the more the public will benefit from insurance service, and because of that fact a conference along the lines of that held in Peterborough this week is of general importance.

The fact, too, that Peterborough was one of the few Canadian centres chosen for a visit from Dr. Rockwell is indicative of the importance of this city as a commercial centre, a condition that has been marked by other similar developments within recent months.

YOUR TOWN—AND YOU.

How thoroughly do you believe in your town?

How real is your enthusiasm for the work that must solve her problems, how genuine your faith in her future?

A town is very like a man.

It has hands and feet—feet to move with, hands to work with.

It has veins and arteries—its streets and railways—through which its lifeblood circulates. It has nerves which centre in the telephone exchange and telegraph offices. Its strength of bone and sinew is in its banks, its manufactories and its mercantile establishments. And it grows, just as does the body.

It has a brain, for a city must think. And it has, it must have, a spirit.

What is the spirit of your town? How truly are you a part of that spirit?

The answer to such questions is not found in any psychological analyses, but solely in what you are doing.

Every man is part and parcel of the body of his town. That body needs him. It gives him a great deal, and he is expected to give something in return, and the measure of the unselfishness with which he and his fellow-citizens give—the wholeheartedness, the genuineness of the spirit of the giving—is the thing that determines the spirit of the town.

A writer of Holy Writ reminds us in striking languages that no part of the human body can declare its independence of the other parts. The hand can hardly say that because it is not the foot "it is not of the body," and the merchant cannot say that because he is not the banker, he is not of the body of the town, nor can the manufacturer say that because he is not the doctor, the lawyer, or the public official, he is not of the same body.

The truth is that all men who live in a town are inter-dependent. No one of them could live in the town—no one of them would be willing to live in it—if there were no others to keep him company, buy off him and be helped by him. He would have incentive neither to work nor to plan.

And, speaking of work, it matters not whether a man sells his labor to another or buys it from another—whether he works for another or has another work for him—THEY WORK TOGETHER.

Do you believe in your town?

Do you look ahead to a time when your town will be bigger, wealthier, more progressive, better equipped to serve its own people and its neighbors? Do you see, through your mind's eye, the town you would like your town to be?

What are you doing to help make your town just that—WHAT YOU WANT IT TO BE?

With natural advantages from the standpoint of location, climate, elevation, three generations have come and gone only to witness the growth of rival communities at the expense and in the face of greater advantages in Peterborough. Why?

Your town will be just what its people make it, and it is no more the duty of your fellow-townsmen to make it what it may be than it is yours. It is the duty of all of you. It is a collective duty.

Nature have given Peterborough its geographical location, topography and climate. Nature and man combined have provided access—satisfactory or otherwise—to food supplies, raw materials for manufacture, and markets in which to sell.

Man alone will determine whether Peterborough during the coming years shall profit by its opportunities, overcome its obstacles, emulate its sister cities and win pre-eminence in making life for its citizens abundantly worth living.

Organization is the force through which men can accomplish these objects with greatest certainty and least waste of time and money. The Chamber of Commerce is the organization through which such leadership functions most efficiently.

It is planned to build here in Peterborough an organization adequate to her needs, WITH A SCOPE SUFFICIENTLY BROAD TO COMPASS Peterborough's needs and meet Peterborough's opportunities. You will be called upon in a few days to help. When that time comes:

Don't forget that you are a part of the body of your town. You are of the body of your town. You are one member and the other members are just as dependent on you as you are on them. You are inter-dependent.

Have faith in your town—supreme faith. And show that faith in it by what you do for it. For, to use the language of Holy Writ again, faith without works is dead.

AMERICA AND EUROPE.

One would have imagined that it would be difficult to find fault with the speech made at Ottawa by Mr. Kellogg, Secretary of State for the United States, but that has been attempted. Mr. Kellogg said that Canada and the United States had no Imperial designs and no wish for the territory of any other country. The comment is made that Canada's designs are decidedly Imperialistic. If by this it is meant that Canada desires to remain within the British Empire, that is quite true, and we have no doubt that Mr. Kellogg would agree with it. But it is also true that Canada is not Imperialistic in the sense of coveting the territory of other countries, which is what Mr. Kellogg means. She cherishes no dreams of conquest nor of ruling subject races. Her chief business is to develop her own vast estate. Mr. Kellogg also referred to the relations between Canada and the United States as an example to the world, in these words:

> "While Europe, after the great cataclysm of war, is making creditable efforts to preserve peace through mutual forbearance, through the machinery of the League of Nations, the Treaty of Locarno, and other understandings, it is fortunate that Canada and the United States have no necessity for such treaties. We have behind us a history and the example of a hundred years—a treaty not written, but one of mutual understanding, mutual respect and admiration—a most powerful instrument for peace."

This also is the subject of captious criticism. It is said that while the relation is satisfactory it is not an effective example for the preservation of peace, but that a much greater influence is that of the commonwealth of nations known as the British Empire. There is no reason why both influences should not be recognized. No doubt the relations between Canada and the United Kingdom, Canada and Australia, are admirable. But this is an example that cannot be followed by other nations. The creation of another commonwealth like the British Empire is an impossibility. A federation of continental Europe is not practical at present at least. But it would be much less difficult, though we do not contend that it would be easy, for the European nations to dwell together in relations similar to those of Canada and the United States. That is the value of the North American example.

It is an example which may be referred to without any snug superiority. Mr. Kellogg says that we are fortunate in freedom from the jealousy, racial hatreds and age-long animosities which have troubled Europe. We recognize these difficulties. But when it is considered that the quarrels of European nations not only affect themselves but are sources of danger for the whole civilized world, when outside nations are liable to be called upon, as they were in the Great War, to pour out treasure and shed blood in the interests of Europe, it is surely not unreasonable to ask Europe to make some contribution of its own to the cause of peace, and in that view to study the example furnished on this Continent.—London Advertiser.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Mr. Robb has done it again.

The cost of living has received another jolt. The new Budget means money in the pockets of the Canadian consumer.

Now if that Ambassador to Paris were already to the job we would be surer perhaps of a square deal at the Olympic Games.

The Canadian consumer of cigarettes can console himself with the thought that he pays very handsomely toward meeting the cost of government. Few commodities sold in this country hit the customer harder from a taxation angle.

LOCAL HOG MARKETS

Live hogs, thick, smooth, $8.50 cwt; select graded, $9.00; dressed hogs, head on, $14.00; head off, $15.00 cwt.

LOCAL HOG MARKETS.

TORONTO, February 17. — No fresh cattle received for yesterday's market. A few hogs and small meats and a few bulls and springers were the only offerings. The bulls, calves and lambs were quickly cleaned up at steady prices. The springers were not in demand, and a few of these were left over.

The tone of the market is steady to firm at a shade better prices than last week-end. Lighter receipts have a good deal to do with the improved feeling, though shippers are warned that a heavy run of cattle next week would probably shade down prices again.

Latest quotations are:

Choice heavy steers from $10.50 to $11.50; choice light steers, $9.50 to $10.75; good steers and heifers, $9.00 to $9.75. Baby beef, choice, $10.50 to $11.50; medium, $9.00 to $10.00. Choice butcher bulls steady at $6.50 to $7.25, but heavy bulls in poor demand.

Sheep and lambs — Choice lambs, 14c to 14½c; good lambs, 13c to 13½c; yearling sheep, 7c to 8c; choice butchers' sheep, 6c to 7c; heavy sheep and aged bucks, 5c to 6c.

Hogs settled at $8.75 f.o.b. selects, basis. No bids out for over week-end.

Calves steady at Wednesday's decline to $14.00 to $15.00; choice veals.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Feb. 17 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in Canadian grain here yesterday was quiet and the only business transacted was the sale of a few loads of wheat and rye. The demand for ocean grain room from Canadian Winter ports showed a slight improvement. Engagements to Hamburg and Rotterdam were made at 9c per 100 lbs., to Avonmouth at 2s 3d per quarter; to Liverpool and London at 1s 9d; to Manchester at 1s 9d, and to Hull at 2s 4½d for February loading.

In sympathy with the strength in other markets local prices for coarse grains were stronger and Argentine corn was marked up another cent per bushel; and oats ½c to 1c per bushel. The demand was fair. Argentine corn was quoted at $1.10 per bushel, ex-store.

On account of the strength that developed in the Liverpool wheat market the bulk of the offerings of Spring wheat flour made by Canadian millers were accepted yesterday with the result that a fair amount of business was done for March-April shipment. The domestic demand was fair and values were unchanged. A moderate amount of business was also done in Winter wheat flour and values were firm.

The millfeed trade continued active and firm. The enquiry for standard grades of rolled oats was steady and prices were unchanged.

A feature of the storage egg trade was the stronger feeling that developed for seconds owing to the scarcity of supplies and sales in a wholesale way here were made at 23c per dozen, which shows an advance of 8 cents per dozen compared with the low level of a few days ago. Fresh eggs were unchanged under a good demand. The receipts were 757 cases.

The potato market was less active than it has been of late but prices ruled steady.

The tone of the market for imported beans remained firm with car lots of choice white hand-picked to arrive selling at $3 per bushel, ex-track, and smaller quantities sold at $3.50 per bushel, ex-store.

The trade in butter was quieter owing to the fact that sellers in most cases were asking a further advance of ¼c to ½c per lb for car lots, which buyers were not disposed to pay. The receipts were 22 packages.

A feature of the cheese trade was the demand that developed from English importers for Western Summer made goods and a little business resulted. The demand from local buyers was also fair and values were unchanged. The receipts were 87 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Feb. 17 (Canadian Press). — Radical advances in the prices of wheat yesterday and speculative trading on a big scale accompanied reports that Russia had bought 8,000,000 bushels from Canada. The reports were unconfirmed, but gained credence because of assertions of late that Northern sections of Russia had been unable to obtain needed supplies from South Russia.

Closing quotations on wheat were strong, 2 cents to 2⅞ to 3 cents net higher, with corn unchanged to ⅝ cent up; oats at a shade to ⅜ cent gain, and provisions varying from 37 cents decline to a rise of 2 cents.

Even before the Russian news had become generally known, wheat values here scored a sharp advance, accelerated by a surprise upturn in Liverpool quotations. There were predictions current that Argentine shipments this week would be about four million bushels smaller than last week.

For the most part, highest prices of the day in the wheat market were well maintained in the late trading, despite the fact that Canadian stocks of wheat are large, and that none of the Russian buying reported appeared to include wheat from the United States. July wheat yesterday reached the highest price yet this season, with May wheat at the best figure since December 12.

Persistent adverse weather for the movement of the corn crop had much to do with bringing about in the corn market yesterday new high price records for the season. July corn reached $1.01, the bulges led to heavy profit-taking sales, and were not held.

Back spreading between wheat and corn was in progress, and had a bearish effect on corn. On the other hand, export bids for corn were close to a working basis. Oats sympathized with corn and were relatively inactive.

Provisions averaged lower, reflecting a decline in hog values.

A Thought

A dear old Quaker lady, distinguished for her youthful appearance, was asked what she used to preserve her charms She replied sweetly: "I use for the lips, truth; for the voice, prayer; for the eyes pity; for the hands, charity; for the figure uprightness; and for the heart, love."

LITERARY SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING

Debate is Feature of Program at Springville Meeting.

SPRINGVILLE, Feb. 17—A very interesting debate was given at the Springville-Fairmount Literary Society, the subject, "Resolved that the good resulting from publication in newspapers outweighs the evil results," allowed a wide range of thought, and the allotted time of ten minutes for each debater was all too short for him to feel satisfied in having convinced his audience that his point of view was correct. The judges' decision was in favor of the affirmative by a slight majority. Mrs. S. S. Staples and Mrs. George Whitfield debated for the affirmative and Mr. R. Armstrong and Mrs. B. Preston for the negative. The judges were Misses C. McConnachie, S. Robertson and Mr. W. Waterman. The remainder of the evening was spent in impromptu program, led by Mrs. Hambridge.

Announcement was made that the Eberneezer young people intend to compete in the next debate.

STIRLING, Feb. 16.—While removing the scaffold from the new opera house last week, Thomas Heard was hit on the head and seriously injured. The decorators have completed their work on the ceiling, and the scaffolding has been removed.

Water Not Good

Quite a commotion was aroused here when the Provincial Board of Health's report of the condition of the water supply of the village was published. During the survey 312 premises were inspected, samples being secured from 115. The report was not very satisfactory.

The Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's met at the home of Mrs. Harper Rollins on Thursday afternoon, about twenty-five being present. Two quilts were quilted.

Ray Atkins, who has been the District Representative for the Ontario Department of Agriculture, in Hastings County, has resigned, and is taking up life insurance, representing the London Life Insurance Company.

W.M.S. CONCERT IS WELL ATTENDED

Large Crowd Hears Charles Cooke Sing in Madoc Theatre.

MADOC, Feb. 17—The W.M.S. concert held in the Empire theatre on Monday evening was a great success and a large crowd attended to hear the splendid program presented by Charles A. Cooke, Indian entertainer, and local talent.

The vocal numbers given by Miss Vandervoort and F. Gillespie were much enjoyed, and the male quartet brought down the house with their singing of plantation songs.

A rare treat was provided for all in the numbers given by Mr. Cooke. As an entertainer he ranks high and he keeps his audience in a happy mood. His mirth-provoking numbers show a keen understanding of his impersonations and of his audience.

In his heavier selections and his bass solos he shows himself particularly gifted, and his "Floral Dance" and "The Big Bass Viol" were especially appreciated.

Mr. Cooke appeared in his native costume as a chief of the Blood Indians in the latter part of the program, and gave the Hymn of Consecration, the War Song, the Chant of the Medecine Man, which were very interesting. By request he gave "The Cattle Thief", by Pauline Johnson.

In concluding Mr. Cooke thanked the local musicians who had contributed to the program and Mrs. L. Ashlet who played the accompaniments.

Rev. Mr. Rivers acted as chairman for the evening.

Millbrook

MILLBROOK, Feb. 17.—Miss May Byam, who has spent the past two two months in Toronto, returned home on Saturday.

Seregant Jack Byam is taking a six weeks' course at Stanley Barracks, Toronto. Jack received his initial military training in the local Cadet Corps, of which he was an efficient officer, and was recommended by the officer in command as the one to have the further course of training in Toronto this winter.

Springville

SPRINGVILLE, Feb. 17—Mr. Clarence Laing has returned from spending a week in Toronto, where he visited friends.

Miss Armstrong spent the week-end as the guest of her sister, Mrs S. S. Staples.

The first item on the list, the office supplies, felt the axe, the estimate of $150 being cut to $125, the amount spent last year. The same fate was meted out to the general supplies for the station, $200 being suggested for this and $165 allowed.

The increase of $500 in the alarm system estimate was explained by the Chief as to provide small boxes for the Exhibition grounds, where there were two small fires in the concessions last year. These would help the men on duty and would cost about $400. The estimate was cut to $800, and a master box is to be erected at the gate of the grounds.

Three boxes were put up last year and the Chief would like to put in some more this year in various parts of the city.

A master box is needed at the Nicholls Hospital so that an alarm system of six small boxes can be put in.

One hundred dolars was taken off the service equipment allowance, making it $150. This covers rubber boots, coats, axes, etc.

The Shirt Question.

"I'm still against the shirt proposition," declared Ald. Greene. "I don't see why, when the shirt is covered up by the coat, the citizens should pay for them."

"My idea," said Ald. Stocker, "is to buy them a good tailored shirt."

"It's the principle of the thing," continued Ald. Greene. "If we are employed we don't get clothes."

"It's a matter of custom," suggested Ald. McIntyre.

"I don't care," was the reply. "Let us give them a fair salary and let them buy their own shirts."

"I think four a year is too many," added Ald. Stocker. "I make two last me a year."

"I would wear four a year if some one else bought them," commented Ald. Greene. "Make it $200 for caps and shirts—$50 for caps and $150 for shirts."

"Why 1,000 feet of hose?" asked Ald. Greene, when this item came up.

"I figure we shoud have 10,000 feet there," explained the Chief. "At the Lockworks fire we used 5,500 feet. If we had had a fire within a week after that we would have had to use wet hose."

The estimate was cut to $1,200 to pay for 700 feet of hose. There is at present about 9,200 feet in stock.

A foamite machine to be attached to the hose lines for fighting oil tank fires was approved at $200.

Wants Traffic Signals.

Ald. Cotton urged that traffic signals be installed at five main corners of the city. He spoke of them as being very necessary and approved by the Chief of Police. The signals would cost $500 a corner.

Ald. Stocker demurred, saying that the Board of Works would need more money and the tax rate would be going up.

Ald. Greene doesn't think that the city's traffic is heavy enough yet to require such signals. He agreed that the signals are all right, dissenting from Ald. Stocker's proposal to install one as an experiment, by saying that other cities have tried them out. Ald. Stocker then changed his word to education.

Ald. Lowe thought one was needed at Charlotte and George, while Ald. McIntyre said, "Let it go now. We can cut it out later if we see the rate is going up."

"There's $12,000 we've got to make up if we are going to keep within last year's rate," said Ald. Greene. "I'm going to fight through every committee to keep it down."

"Let's put it in now, and if the rate is going up strike it out," suggested Ald. Cotton.

"Now is the place to strike it out," insisted Ald. Greene. "I think the signals are tip-top, but we don't need them."

The item was put in at $500.

"That makes the total now $38,290," said Ald. Greene.

"What about the last two items?" asked City Clerk S. R. Armstrong, referring to the bungalow fire hall and men for it.

"I have the total down as $38,290," said Ald. Stocker, and amid laughter at his early decision, the items were waived.

Some Cities Let Men Off.

Letters were read from several cities about the one-day off in seven.

Fort William has two platoons, and is considering the extra day. Three extra men would be needed.

St. Catharines has two fire halls and twenty-nine men, and took on three men to put the system in operation.

St. Thomas has also added three men to allow this. It has the two platoon system.

Brantford has a chief and twenty-five men, and the firemen, working on the two-platoon system, have not asked for the day. Six men would be needed.

Kitchener has added five men to its brigade to allow one day off in seven. The two-platoon system is introduced.

Stratford firemen do not get any uniforms. ("No shirts there, Ald. Greene," said Ald. Stocker). They have the two-platoon system, without a day off.

"You'll never get that here," Ald. Stocker interjected. "It 's out of all reason."

"The great difficulty as I see it," said Ald. Cotton, "is that no matter how much we spend for fire protection we never get any reduction in insurance rates."

"You have extra equipment," pointed out Ald. McIntyre. "I don't think you have enough men to handle it."

Chief Gimblett explained the apparent lack. There are ten men on duty. Two travel on the ladder, three on the combination and the rest on the pumper. No one stays in the office.

Two men off each day from each platoon, with all subject to call, would cover this, proposed Ald. Cotton. That would leave eight men on duty.

This condition applied at the Lockworks fire, said the Chief. There were two men sick from the shift on duty and another man was hurt right away. This left seven men until the other platoon began to arrive.

Ald. Stocker proposed that the men be given a day off each week without increasing staff and made that a motion.

Thet Chief pointed out that the men off duty cannot leave the city without permission.

Ald. Stocker changed his motion to read that the estimates be set at $38,290 and the men given one day off in seven, which carried.

Lower Insurance Rates.

Belleville, Brockville, Port Hope and Bowmanville have a key rate of 40 cents for fire insurance, while Peterborough pays 50 cents, Mr. Armstrong pointed out. This matter will be laid before the Fire Underwriters' Association by a deputation going to Toronto on other business shortly, and endeavours made to get the rate reduced. Information about the apparatus here and in other cities and the comparative fire losses will be set before the Underwriters in this connection.

Pensions and other protection for firemen were approved by several aldermen. Ald. McIntyre asked if they cannot get under the Workmen's Compensation Act. The Chief said this could not be done several years ago and he doubted if the Act had been changed.

ter-in-law with the dishes and several of the kitchen duties. She was always first to lend a helping hand in time of sickness or distress and her iron will and nerve has been frequently remarked when a particularly unsavory case arose. Living as she had for many years away from all medical skill, Mrs. Smith has acquired a compete knowledge of effective home remedies. For years she was consulted as the medical authority of the district. Until the arrival of Dr. Trusdale at St. Ola, about fifty years ago, there was no medical aid within a score of miles, in that far off day a great distance. The minister, too, was a guest at the Smith farm when he came from Madoc to take charge of the services at St. Ola.

Never Cast a Vote.

Although Mrs. Smith is a life-long member of the Methodist, now United church, she was married in Madoc in the year 1846 by a Church of England clergyman, whose name she does not recall. Politically, she was inclined to favour the Liberal side of the House, but never cast a vote either way in all her life or since women were given the franchise.

Of the furniture with which the original log cabin was furnished, little remains. There are, however, some chairs which Mrs. Smith purchased shortly after her marriage. These are of the four poster design with hand turned posts. The seats are of a curious concave design and most comfortable to sit in. They are built entirely of wood. An old bed is still in evidence, though it is not used now. It, too, is a four poster with hand carvings of no special design. The springs are of woven string and have every appearance of being still serviceable. The usual plan was to use "ticks," one of straw and the other of feathers. The result was a comfortable bed guaranteed to produce rest.

For the last two years Mrs. Smith has not been far from the house. She has, however, been quite active indoors and until the last few days enjoyed normal health. An acocmplished artist with the needle, Mrs. Smith has a passion for quilting. Her efforts are invariably along the lines of the old style patch work quilt. Many of the pieces of bedding now in use in the district are products of her needlecraft.

During the last few years, Mrs. Smith's memory has suffered as a result of her illness.

No one but the members of the household are allowed to visit the old lady in her bed chamber. Unfortunately they could not recall many of her stories of earlier days.

Though the lady had lived during the reigns of four British sovereigns she has never taken an active part in politics and few of the men of the family entered the military service of the Empire There is some evidence of the family being represented in the American forces during the time of General "Stonewall" Jackson. From stories told it would appear that the Smiths held commands in the forces opposing Jackson

A Reunion.

Although five generations of the family are in existence they have only been together on one occasion. This was two years ago, when Mrs. Smith celebrated her 101st birthday. About eighty years ago at Madoc, the possibility arose for five generations of the family to be present at a re-union. But Mrs. Smith was unable to take her infant child to her mother's home, so only four generations were present

It was at Madoc that Mrs. Smith encountered the angry stag. Her home was on a farm six miles from the village and she used to cover the distance on foot. One day as she travelled the bush road alone, a huge stag blocked her path, menacing [illegible] with shaking antlers, and paw[illegible] hoofs. The animal refused to give way till she cooly selected a serviceable stick and shied it at the animal. Scared for a moment it took to the woods only to emerge again immediately she had passed. Till a turn in the road hid the animal from view it stood watching her, and shaking its antlers in a very threatening manner.

Later at Gilmour or rather St. Ola (since Gilmour was then unknown) Mrs. Smith was walking to the upper settlement now St. Ola, three miles distant, when a bear came on the road and proceeded to walk ahead of her. Occasionally the animal would rise on its hind feet, turn about and wait for her. At these times Mrs. Smith stood her ground. Eventually the brute tired of her little game and took to the bush. Until the first time the bear rose on its hind legs Mrs. Smith had mistaken it for a large, shaggy, strange dog. Her mistake was soon corrected however, when the bear wheeled, as if to charge.

The Family.

Of the fourteen members of Mrs Smith's family she is the second eldest and only survivor. To her were born seven children: Mrs. C. Moore, of Frankford, 75, (Louise); Alex. Smith, of Havelock, 73; Mrs. Sam Casement of Havelock, 67, (Olive); and John L. Smith, 63, at home. The three members of the family, now deceased, are Mary Elizabeth, Mary Matilda and Sidney Wellington.

The third generation has its representatives in every povince in the Dominion, but mostly in Ontario, Saskatchewan and British Columbia. Mr. and Mrs. John L. Smith, now on the homestead, have been married 38 years. Of their family, Mrs. McMurray resides at Gilmour, Mrs. Ernest Smith, Frankford, Mrs. Claude Simmons, Bannockburn, Mrs. Almina Moore, Frankford and Clayton at home.

Mrs. Kenneth Thompson of Springbrook is another daughter.

The late Mrs. William Baker, of St. Ola, was also a daughter.

To collect a complete list of the fourth generation would be impossible in a brief space of time, and so far as is known the fifth generation is represented in this district by the two young sons of Mrs. Orby Reid of Frankford.

Recalls 1833.

Of the early days and their events the family could not recall many incidents that their mother had mentioned to them. They speak of the "dark day in May" and say how she recalled to mind the cattle coming home in the morning when darkness began to gather As a girl of eight she remembered standing beside her mother and seeing the "falling of the stars." This event and the eclipse which caused the dark day took place about the year 1833 or 1834.

Mrs. Smith attributes her long life to moderate living and regular habits. Although she has been confined to the house for almost the last two years, and to her bed for the last few days, she has yet to miss a meal. Her appetite is good and until this present illness she was quite bright and active. As the oldest and one of the most highly respected citizens in a large district, to her are extended the congratulations of all who enjoy her acquaintance, on this, the 103rd anniversary of her birth.

SCOUTS' TRAINING LAUDED AT BIG CONFERENCE DINNER

ago the child existed for the school; it never occurred then that the school exisetd for the child. Just as the business man considers the raw material so we must consider the child.

"What is the raw material of child life? We must know the social age of a child and the moral age. In the boy's earlier life he is a possibility just like a plant that grows up sending out feelers. It is imperative to plants to send out those feelers for it must find something on which to cling. The same is true with a boy; he does it for the doing. He has many instincts—the pugnacious— I hope no scout ever told a boy not to fight. Do not repress that instinct in the boy. We find in our court, time after time, that the fathers have not allowed their sons to be themselves."

"The problem of a boy scout leader is to understand the instincts and urges in the boy's life and in doing that you are developing character when he responds to that stimulus which you have discovered. The pugnacious instinct in the boy to-day makes the man that will not step back when he tackles the problem to-mororw."

"When you become the laader of boys you have a mighty big job on your hands That boy is looking longingly itno your eyes, longing to grow and unfold, waiting for your guidance. Will you love him well? Will you interpret well? Will you guide him well, as he stands there wanting to catch the very pulse and possibility of Eternity leading him over the rough ways of life, letting him feel that you and he are dwelling in a glorious time," said Judge Mott.

A Boys' Program

Dr. George J. Fisher was introduced by F. Smith of Toronto, a member of the Toronto executive.

Dr. Fisher brought greetings from the Scouts in United States. "Whenever you come in contact with boys with humor you come in contact with pathos and with tragedy," he said.

"What would you put in a program if the Premier of Canada asked you to draw one up for the youth of Canada? In the first place it would have to be adapted to the boy himself then it must be something the boy likes and wants for himself. It also must challenge the boy to eager endeavor. It must develop character, not by instruction, but have character the by-product of the program. It must also be health promoting, setting up a body to carry into mid-life and old age. It must be a program for all boys, high and low, country and city. It must develop brotherliness. It ought to be prevocational, the thing that helps him to find in himself those things that lie dormant. It ought to be home-supporting, not home weakening. The home to-day is finding a hard time to maintain itself and finally it should be a program that trains a boy for citizenship. What we need most is that which will put in the boy the spirit of his country, so that he will not think of it in a selfish manner."

"I believe the program I have outlined is the Boy Scout program and the man who has given it to the world is Sir Robert Baden-Powell."

This program I said must be prevocational. It allows the boy to try himself out in a number of things. As you stand beside these little lads, you Scouters watch them for little instincts so that you might help them on in the path of life."

"I would mobilize the fatherhood of North America in behalf of the boyhood of the continent, and as for the mother I would have her take greater interest in the progress of her son."

"Speaking of my own nation, I would get discouraged if it were not for the Boy Scouts. It has been said that democracy is a failure in United States. I believe it especially with such buffoons as we have in Chicago," concluded Dr. Fisher.

Officers Elected.

The following officers and members of the executive will be recommended to His Excellency the Chief Scout of Canada, Viscount Willingdon, as the officers for the ensuing year:

Provincial Commissioner — H. A. Laurence, Toronto.

President—J. W. Mitchell, Toronto.

Vice-Presidents — G. E. Fauquier, Ottawa; Lt.-Col. D. E. Macintyre, Owen Sound; C. W. Rowley, Toronto; J. J. Turner, Peterborough; Col. E. S. Wigle, Windsor.

Hon. Secretary—Percy G. Cherry, Toronto.

Hon. Treasurer—C. Q. Ellis, Toronto.

McMichael, Judge H. S. Mott, John O'Connor, J. F. M. Stewart, J. J. Vaughan, all of Toronto, E. B. Graham, Brampton, W. J. Hickey, Welland, E. T. Lightbourn, Oakville, J. H. H. Nicols, Ottawa, Major A. A. Pinard, Ottawa, Rev. T. H. Stewart, Hamilton, Most Rev. Dr. David Williams, London.

Hon. Auditor—H. T. Jamieson & Company.

Reports Received

Most enthusiastic reports were received from the Assistant Provincial Commissioner Frank C. Irwin, chairman of Board of Honor Frank Arnoldi and Hon. Treasurer C. Q. Ellis.

Mr. Irwin, in his report, referred to Confederation year when at the time of the Jubilee celebrations the National Committee had left it with the Boy Scouts to decorate the graves of the Fathers of Confederation. The membership during the year increased from 18,412 to 18,917. New local associations were formed in St. Catharines and Timmins' districts, and the Fort William Association was successfully reorganized. Toronto, London, Niagara Falls, St. Catharines, Belleville, Guelph, South Essex, North Bay and Sarnia districts reported increases during the year. Winter courses were reorganized for the training of leaders and a suggested 12-month troop program was prepared. There was a slight drop in the issue of profinciency badges which was accounted for by the open Fall when troops were late in reorganizing. He thanked the press of the province for the publicity and also the various officers that he was connected with in his work.

The treasurer's report showed a total revenue of $13,824,49, and an expenditure of $11,938.86. The original debt of $2,849.78 to the Canadian General Council was reduced by $250.

Certificate of Merit, granted for meritorious acts and good services.—To Scout Albert Dunn, 12, 3rd St. Thomas Troop, for his assistance in preventing a drowning accident on the beach at Miami, Florida.

Letters of Commendation, granted for meritorious acts and good services.—To Cub Verdun Colombo, 11, 3rd Owen Sound Pack, in recognition of his intelligent action in dealing with an accident in which a small boy fell into a water hole.

To varous Scouts and Leaders, London Local Association, for their quick mobilization and meritorious service in salvage work, handling crowd and assisting fire department in connection with a disastrous explosion and fire in the down-town business section.

Gilt Crosses, granted to those who do exceptionally well in cases of emergency, though without special risk to themselves—To Scout Arthur Ashton, 12, 1st Grimsby Troop, for his rescue of another boy following ice accident.

To Scout Charles Anderson, 15, and Wallace Ellwood, 15, 3rd St. Thomas Troop, for their united efforts in connection with the saving of a woman from drowning at Port Stanley, Ont., and their successful application of artificial respiration.

Silver Crosses, awarded for gallantry with considerable personal risk.—To Scout John Blackie, 12, 1st Mille Roches Troop, for rescuing from drowning a boy who could not swim, but who ventured into deep water with a home-made floating contraption which failed.

To Scout Bruce Currie, 14, 1st Brockville Troop, for his prompt and intelligent action resulting in saving a woman from drowning at Picnic Island.

Scout Currie has also been made the recipient of the parchment certificate of the Royal Life Saving Society.

IN PETERBOROUGH CHURCHES

ST. JAMES' UNITED.

Rev. J. H. Dudgeon, pastor of St. James' United Church, preached to a large congregation on Sunday evening. On the platform with him were Ashton Fife and Charlie Kitney, two boys of the congregation, who assisted in the service.

"A Second Chance" was the theme chosen for his discourse, and was suggested by the words of Alfred J. Hough's poem, "The God of a Second Chance".

"King David one dark day fell down,
Lost every jewel of his crown.
He had another chance, and found
His kingly self redeemed—recrowned.
Now lonely souls and countless throngs
Are gladdened by his deathless songs.

"A man named Peter stumbled bad
Lost all the love he ever had—
Fouled his own soul's divinest springs,
Cursed, swore, and all that sort of thing.
He got 'another chance' and then,
Reached the far goal of God like men.

"Paul cast the young 'Mark' aside,
But Barnabas his metal tried,
Called out his courage, roused his vim,
And made a splendid man of him.
Then Paul, near death, longed for one glance
At Mark, who had another chance.

"Your boy goes wrong the same as he
Who fed the swine in the far country;
He seems beyond the utmost reach
Of hearts that pray, of lips that preach.
Give him another chance, and see
How beautiful his life may be."

The text was taken from the fifteenth chapter of Acts of the Apostles, verses 37, 38, 39. "And Barnabas determined to take with them John, whose surname was Mark. But Paul thought not good to take him with them, who departed from them from Pamphylia, and went not with them to the work. And the contention was so sharp between them that they departed asunder, one from the other, and so Barnabas took Mark and sailed unto Cyprus."

This text is a part of the story of a young man's failure. The story of "John Mark" who has been the trouble of the church throughout all generations. What is to be done with him? The young man who starts out well, but whose courage fails and he turns back? This is the question which has embarrassed the church from the morning of Pentecost right down to the present.

"This young man with such splendid opportunities was brought up in a Christian home. He had friends to train and lead him in the right way. His whole environment was of the best. He had even made up his mind to be a missionary. But, in spite of all this, he has turned back. He is very trying. He tries the patience of the church, and of the pastor. There seems no excuse whatever for him. He has betrayed all the opportunities given him, and has gone home—disgraced. Now, what shall we do with him? One says 'let him alone. He has disgraced himself and all belonging to him. He has dishonored his church. Let him bear his punishment. He deserves it.' But another says 'Oh give him another chance. In spite of all he has done—one more chance.' This is how we come to our text, and we are going to plead for the 'John Marks' of to-day, and say 'Give them another chance.'

"Remember, Mark is not necessarily an open backslider. He is not a young man who has gone utterly wrong. He is simply a young man who has lost his first passions. First His courage has failed him. He found, perhaps, that he could not reach the heights he had hoped to reach without too great sacrifice. He was not brave enough to let go of everything that hindered his Christian life. Then, temptations came, and he was tempted to leave the path of duty. One step downward leads to many others, until at last he betrayed all his opportunities, all the prayers that had followed him, and turned back.

"We know very little about this young man. The Bible does not give any complete biographies, not even of Jesus Christ. There are very few references to Mark apart from the Gospel which bears his name. He was a child of a praying home. His mother's home was possibly the last resting place of Jesus before Gethsemane. When the Church of Pentecost had no home, there was still an open door here. It was to Mary's house, as to a familiar haunt, that Peter came after his deliverance from prison, and there found many gathered together praying. How about the homes represented here? There are wealthy homes, happy homes, comfortable homes, all represented, but praying homes are the choice of any home—give me a praying home.

"Mark was brought up in a splendid home. Then one day he gave himself up to be a Missionary. Picture him as he made the great decision. His mother had, no doubt, been praying for this.

"Now comes his start from home on the missionary journey in the company of Paul and Barnabas. Where could be found a like opportunity for a young man to [illegible] He started well, but now comes his testing.

"Paul's character was such that if there were two boys, one a hard way and the other an easy way, Paul took the hard one. So they had some rough experiences, now there are more before them, and Mark asks 'Is there need? Does following Christ mean this?' He went not with them to Pamphylia—the cost was too great. Are you finding it too costly to choose the hard road? I am not here to make religion easy for you. It is hard to be a Christian.

"Are you coming to feel the temptation of John Mark? Do you say 'Pamphylia is too dangerous'? I will return home? It never costs too much to follow Jesus and it will make you a finer type of man. You will come out of trials enriched and be able to enrich the world. But this young man failed—he returned home. I would not like to have been in that home that day. I would not want to see his mother's face. I would be sure that it was hard to be back in Jerusalem. There it was impossible to hide from the cross. Every street corner, every building seemed to be a voice. In the night the tempter would say 'no hope.' Then, he would hear the cry from Calvary, 'Father, forgive them, for they know not what they.' It is one thing to be forgiven by Jesus—to be restored by Jesus to our former place—it is another thing to be restored to the respect of men. Look at the poor criminal to-day. The problem is that it takes the world a long time to forget. You will remember the case of Jean Val Jean, whose sin of theft of bread for starving children, followed him all through his life, casting a shadow over all his happiness.

"Time passes. Paul and Barnabas are back in Jerusalem. They are told about Mark. Now they are about to go out on another journey, 'and Barnabas determines to take with them John whose surname was Mark.' Paul says 'No, he is not fit to go,' but if Paul can not trust him Jesus can. Now Barnabas speaks up (the name Barnabas means Son of Consolation) and he pleads, 'Give him another chance.' 'No,' said Paul and they quarrelled and separated. Mark came between them and they never came together again. So Paul took Silas with him and Barnabas took Mark—for he wanted to give him another chance.

"We know very little of how they got along, but Paul and Silas had a difficult time. They got into prison and were beaten and their feet were made fast in stocks. We hear nothing of Barnabas and Mark again, until the great Apostle writing to Timothy from a prison cell asks him to come up and see him (2 Tim. 4-9-11) and told him how another man had left him—'for Demas hath forsaken me.' He asked Timothy, 'Bring John Mark with thee, for he is profitable to me for the ministry.'

"Surely here is a chance for the critic. It must be a mistake. It must be a slip of the pen. Is it possible that Paul has found out his mistake? We are glad to read that he freely confesses it. Well done, Paul—for he says, 'I made a mistake. Barnabas was right and I was wrong. Barnabas gave Mark another chance and he made good, and he is profitable unto me.' Well done, old Apostle! But, well done, Mark, too. You made good and more than that, it takes a good deal of grace to come back again to a man who has thrust you aside.

"The mistakes of our lives have been many. How good it is that God does give us another chance. If you have failed, God will not leave you. There is another chance—you will find it, where Mark found his, where Abraham found his, where Jonah, David, and the Prodigal Son found theirs. You must not be afraid of Gethsemane—there is no other way back.

"This is not the only reference by Paul regarding Mark. On writing to the church at Colosse, he said to them, 'When Mark comes be sure and receive him. Forget what I told you about him, he is now a new man. I made a mistake. He had more in him than I thought.' (Col. 4-10.) So it is with many of those whom the world calls 'down and out.'

"We have been singing that old hymn, 'Guide me O thou Great Jehovah.' The author of this, William Williams, was a great hymn writer in the Welsh language. He was another Mark. A young man brought up in a praying home, in a day when it was difficult for a Puritan to be true to Jesus Christ. His parents were members of a church that met for fellowship in a cave, in order to avoid being disturbed or persecuted. This young man had a praying father and mother, but he went away to school, and in school he lost everything. When he was completing his last term and about to graduate as an M.D., he heard that there were some strange doings on the way to his home, a few miles from the school. He decided to have a part in the fun.

"The preacher was a young man from Oxford, who had been touched with the new evangelism of John Wesley, and had come home on fire, 'preaching the word of God.' The student arrived, saw the crowd in the church-yard, but found no 'fun' in the service. He was held a captive. No going home for him. He must wait and be healed. What is to be done with William Williams? He had his chance, and wasted all.

"Let him still have another chance. He got it and became a great evangelist and a still greater hymn writer. It paid for him to get a second chance.

"Another was Paul Rader—cowpuncher and pugilist. He was brought up in a parsonage, educated for the ministry, took a circuit, but was a complete failure. So he threw it all up and drifted far. He, too, got a second chance and to-day is reckoned the strongest evangelist given to the church. He would stand midway between Moody and Sunday. He has paid for his second chance.

"I plead to-day with you that you nobly rise to the opportunity of grace. No matter who we are, we can bow down and say, 'Lord, another chance for me,' and then at the end of all hear someone say, 'He is profitable for the ministry.' Let Mark have the chance, only, let Mark make good use of it."

GEORGE STREET UNITED.

Rev. J. W. Gordon, of St. Andrew's United Church, conducted the morning service at George Street United Church on Sunday, taking as his subject, "What the Bible Meant to Me." Mr. Gordon said:

"When I read my Bible I see first of all the kind of men God can use. In the early part of the Bible Abraham said, 'I'll go any place you want me if thou leadest me,' and though sometimes suffering and bleeding and in blindness he was sure God was leading him.

"And because of Abraham there came Jeremiah, Isaiah, and Paul, who did things in life contrary to their earlier thoughts. Then I see the apostles who laid the foundation for the Christian church. They were simple men who looked forward not backward.

"Secondly, when I rtad my Bible I see what religion has cost. The cost can not be measured in dollars and cents, but in pain and suffering down through the ages, and I conclude that religion must be sublime and important to man. I think of all the men slaughtered and children massacred and the infinite pain and sufffiering which in some inexplicable way has been necessary to bring light to humanity and make it possible for you and I to have faith.

"Thirdly, when I read my Bible, I think of what its circulation has meant to the world. During the reign of Elizabeth and Charles I. the Protestantism of England was due to the circulation of the Bible, without comment or catechism. When England was on the road to revolution as France was, John Wesley with the Bible saved England from revolution.

"Fourthly when I read my Bible, it leads me to God.

"Fifthly, when I read my Bible, I think of the mavellous patience of God. In the 53rd chapter of Isaiah Christ is pictured as a man of sorrow, acquainted with grief. I have a vision of my Saviour's face as He debated, 'will I accept a crown or the shame of a cross?' And I think of what patience God had when he gave His Son to suffer for the sins of mankind.

"Sixthly, when I read my Bible, my mind is set in amazement and wonder thinking of the providence of God in using one nation to help another. Moses, a Hebrew, raised in the finest civilization of the age, with his Hebrew standards, was refined and educated in Egypt with the finest scholars of the times. Think of the effect that this had on God's chosen people. Later on in the history of the Israelites we think of their captivity in Babylon, in contact with the highest culture and intelligence, and how they came back to do God's will. Out of two groups the humble spiritual forefathers of Jesus and the group of scholars came Paul, and together they evangelized the world. These forces sent Paul to Antioch, where he met Greek beauty, culture, and learning, and these faces set the world on fire.

"For four hundred years God has been developing a stock of Presbyterian believers and for two hundred years Methodists, and for three hundred years Congregationalists, and then he took these three streams and put them in one for His glory, and formed the United Church. I feel there are great possibilities in the age in which I live, and if history repeats itself, when the West comes in contact with the East, it will be for the glory of God."

Rev. J. E. Todd had charge of the evening service, reading as the lesson 4th chapter of Genesis and taking as his text part of the 9th verse of the chapter, "Am I my brother's keeper?" Mr. Todd said:

"It is not an easy matter to go back and study these ancient characters of whom we have such slight records. One of the requisites that one must have is sympathy. The standards of ancient times were not the standards of to-day, and many of these ancient characters would be judged very harshly if measured by to-day's ideas. In the study of Cain we find no mother would call her son Cain.

"Cain was a pioneer, first-born of all the sons of men. You can picture him growing up in life with no standards as we have to-day, growing up in a care-free, careless way, his every whim gratified, the very essence of selfishness, an overbearing, domineering young upstart.

"Then Abel came along and Cain found such a difference. Cain was the farmer, Abel the shepherd, and when they placed their offerings on the altar, the offering of Abel was the most acceptable. At first we can not understand why this was, but we find Cain begrudged it and spoiled the offering by the spirit while Abel himself was accepted as on offering to Almighty God.

"Make this thought modern in the year 1928. If we give in the right spirit our offering will be acceptable. Cain was angry because his offering was not received by God. He was in a bad temper and Abel was next him. A bad temper is the most devilish thing a man can be possessed with. Cain and Abel quarrelled, and this poor, primitive lad, with no self-control, killed his brother, and when he saw what he had done, he fled.

"Man as he grows older sees a little more clearly the things of life that count, and he is not so likely to mistake the shadow for the substance. Age brings a deeepr feeling, a reserve force which makes him less likely to be dominated by the things around him. How many men are there who are masters of themselves? How many men lose because they have not learned to control themselves? There is no success in life until you have learned to control yourself. 'He who controls himself is stronger than he who takes a city.'

"This old world is dominated by a spirit of bluff. Man must have within himself in his own soul a reserve spirit and understand that God has a message for him. 'Where is Abel thy brother?' God has asked this question down through the ages. 'O Assyria, O Babylon, O Rome, O Carthage, O Germany, hast thou seen thy brothers?' We talk of it being a mystery why these nations went down. The facts are easily explained. They became too smug, imagined they had a place in the sun, and forgot that they were their brothers' keepers. They refused to accept brotherhood. Will you accept it, my people? As it is true of nations, so it is of individuals. Each one of you has a responsibility and you must live up to it. You are your brother's keeper, and as such must give an account to Almighty God."

Cheerfulness Gold That Buys Health

HEALTH and cheerfulness go hand in hand. The famous psychologist, William James, writes: "In order to feel kindly toward a person to whom we have been inimical, the only way is more or less deliberately to smile, to make sympathetic inquiries and to force ourselves to say genial things. The sovereign voluntary path to cheerfulness, if our spontaneous cheerfulness be lost, is to sit up cheerfully, to look around cheerfully, and to act and speak as if cheerfulness were already there. By regulating the action which is under the more direct control of the will, we can directly regulate the feeling which is not."

LAUGHTER IS A TONIC
WE ALL SHOULD TAKE

One of the greatest aids to health is to be able occasionally to forget the serious side of life. To laugh, joke and exchange pleasantries is part of the gold that buys good health.

If our business hours were only arranged so that more of us could take some time out of every day for physical recreation and diversion, our health as a whole would be better.

AN ETUDE IN ARCHITECTURE

F. H. Portnall, Architect.

Here is a little semi-bungalow possessing a distinct charm and personality derived mainly from its simple honest design and good proportions. It is another example of the pleasing type of small house design, based on the English domestic style, which is being executed by Western architects. Because of its sincerity it would serve as a satisfactory model for a house of this size in any part of Canada, and thoroughly quash any ideas which may still exist that the small house cannot be made as artistic as the large.

The secret of their charm lies in simplicity, and as architecture has often been referred to as frozen music, it may not be amiss to add that no attempt has been made to make a symphony out of the material for an etude.

Three words, efficiency, economy and ease, characterize the interior, so let us investigate the reason for this happy condition.

Proceeding to the housewife's domain, the kitchen, we realize the strength of the claim of efficiency. Imagine the ease of culinary operations at the fixture indicated, with the work table, sink, draining board, and cabinets within easy reach, while from the window directly above the table comes the spirit of the outdoors to the worker.

Of the four bedrooms one is located on the ground, and three on the upper floors. The former is entered from a separate rear part of the main hall which gives access to the bathroom and the main stairs. This arrangement possesses the very desirable feature of keeping all of the bedrooms and the bathroom as private from the rest of the house as in a two storey home.

The house having a frontage of 41 feet, a lot of 50 feet would be necessary.

With hot water heating, this house cost approximately $6,500, exclusive of lot.

Readers desiring further information regarding a house of this design should communicate with MacLean Builders' Guide, 345 Adelaide St. West, Toronto, Ont., who will see that it is supplied. When writing please mention design number 111. Copyright, 1928

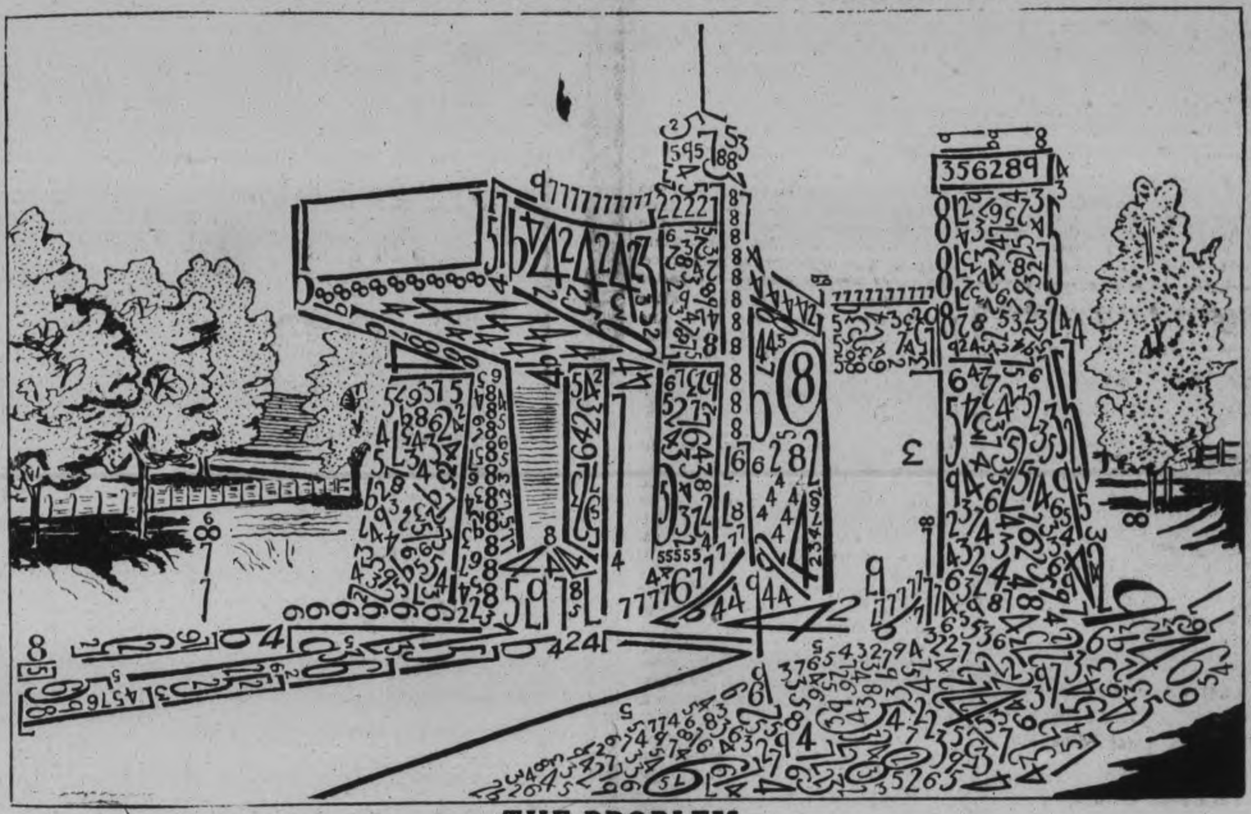
HOW MANY TONS DOES THE LIFT LOCK WEIGH?



GENERAL CONTEST RULES
How to Enter

1. The contest is open to everyone except:
   - (a) Employees of The Peterborough Examiner, Ltd., or their immediate family.
   - (b) Prize-winners in any similar contest who have won any of the major prizes.

2. Additional puzzle-charts may be obtained free by writing to the Contest Department or by calling at The Examiner Office.

3. Every figure in the puzzle is complete and entirely free from tricks or illusions. If any contestant is in doubt about any of the figures, send in the chart with the figures marked and the Contest Department will gladly give a ruling on the figure.

4. When you have solved the puzzle, fill in completely the solution blank, which must be accompanied by a remittance for at least a six months' subscription at the regular rates to The Evening Examiner. (See subscription rates.) See also the prize-list and note how the value of your prize is increased by paying for a year's subscription and by getting subscriptions from your friends. Renewal subscriptions, or subscriptions in arrears, if paid during contest period, count the same as new subscriptions and will be extended from the present expiry date, but not more than $15.00 will be received on any one solution or subscription.

5. In order that subscribers who pay carrier boys weekly may participate in this contest, books of tickets containing 22 weekly tickets for $3.00, or 44 for $6.00, will be sold. These remittances must be made direct to the Contest Department with your solution. Otherwise it cannot be registered. Each ticket is valued at 15c and will be redeemed from the carrier boy at that price.

6. Readers who give their subscription to some other contestant and later want to send in an answer themselves, may do so providing they fill in the coupon, giving the name of the person they paid their subscription to and the amount paid. No further payment is necessary.

7. The contest will close on March 15, 1928, but send in your solution as soon as possible as we are offering special prizes for the first correct solutions. (See full details under "Special Prizes.") There is nothing gained by holding back your answer once you have solved the puzzle, as a contestant may make several remittances on any answer sent in while the contest lasts up to a total amount of $15.00.

8. Contestants may send in a different answer to the puzzle with each remittance, but if one of your answers is correct the money sent in on your other answers will not increase the total value of your prize, and not more than one regular prize will be paid to one family.

9. Everyone has an equal chance. You can win the first prize and extra cash for only a six months' subscription, but note how the value of the first five prizes increases if you send in more money. Aim to win the maximum Grand Prize. The Evening Examiner is now recognized as the leading daily in Peterborough district and surrounding counties and no difficulty should be found in getting your friends or neighbors to subscribe for it.

10. Contestants who remit by mail or pay at the office should see that these remittances and answers are made on a proper contest coupon to ensure them reaching the Contest Department.

11. If the correct answer is not sent in by any contestant the prizes will be awarded for the nearest correct solutions. In the event of a tie a second puzzle will be presented which will be as practicable and solvable as the first. Only those tieing will be permitted to solve the second puzzle. Should two or more persons be tied in the second puzzle the prizes will be divided equally among those tieing. No cash will be accepted on the second puzzle.

12. In entering the contest, contestants agree to abide by the rules of the contest and to accept the decision of the judges as final. The Contest Department reserve the right to alter and amend its rules if necessary for the protection of contestants or The Peterborough Examiner. It also reserves the right to refund any subscriptions and to disqualify any contestants whom they consider should not be in the contest. Contestants are assured of the same impartial treatment which characterizes The Examiner in all its dealings.

THE PROBLEM

The problem is to add together all the figures shown above, which, when added together, represent the total number of tons that the Lift Lock weighs.

The puzzle is entirely free from tricks or illusions, every figure is complete and stands alone. The figures range from two to nine. There are no ones (1) or ciphers (0) in the puzzle. The sixes are curved, while the stem of the nines are straight.

We wish it clearly understood that every figure can be plainly seen. There is nothing hidden in the trees or shadows, but the problem of adding these is a real test of accuracy.

Remember, each figure is added separately. For example, 9777 is counted 9 plus 7 plus 7 plus 7, or, in other words, simply add them as if each figure stood one above the other in a single column.

REMEMBER, NO ONE KNOWS THE CORRECT ANSWER UNTIL THE CONTEST CLOSES

To ensure this we had Mr. E. M. Elliott, County Treasurer, and Mr. Frank Adams, City Treasurer, each erase one or more figures from the original drawing, which they carefully noted and sealed in an envelope and gave to the manager of the Royal Bank for safe keeping until the contest closes.

50 Free Prizes

FIRST GRAND PRIZE (Total Value, $1,350.00—Being choice of a Car, any make or design, up to a value of $1,200.00, plus $150.00 in cash, being at the rate of $10.00 for every dollar sent in up to $15.00. In order to qualify for this prize the contestant must send in at least $9.00 worth of subscriptions. If the winning contestant does not qualify for the above prize the contestant will then get

FIRST PRIZE (Total Value, $800.00)—Choice of any Car, value $720.00, plus $10.00 for every dollar sent in up to less than $9.00; if contestant sends $9.00 they qualify for Grand Prize.

SECOND PRIZE (Total Value, $400.00)—Being choice of Radio Set or Victrola, any make up to value of $200.00, and $80.00 cash, plus $8.00 for every dollar sent in up to $15.00.

THIRD PRIZE (Total Value, $175.00)—Being $100.00 each, plus $5.00 cash for every $1.00 set in up to $15.00.

FOURTH PRIZE (Total Value, $95.00)—Being $50.00 in cash, plus $3.00 cash for every $1.00 sent in up to $15.00.

FIFTH PRIZE (Total Value, $60.00)—Being $30.00 in cash, plus $2.00 cash for every $1.00 sent in up to $15.00.

SIXTH TO FIFTEENTH PRIZES—$20.00 in cash each.

SIXTEENTH TO TWENTY-FIFTH PRIZES—$10.00 in cash each.

TWENTY-SIXTH TO FIFTIETH PRIZES—$5.00 in cash each.

SPECIAL PRIZES—While the contest will not close until March 15, we are offering Five Special Prizes for the first five correct, or nearest correct, solutions secured by us. The prizes will be: First Prize, $8.00; Second Prize, $7.00; Third Prize, $5.00; Fourth Prize, $3.00; Fifth Prize, $2.00.

A TIP ON HOW TO WIN

Take a pencil and put down the numbers as you stroke them out, then add them up. Some suggest that you cut the chart into dozens of pieces, then check them from all sides; or if you wish, try blotting them out with colored ink or pencil. Others think the best way is to pick out all the twos, threes, fours, etc. Any they miss the first time they find later. Or suppose you try taking a combination of figures which, when added together, makes a total of ten. For example, 5 and 3 and 2 make 10. Tens are not only easily added together, but there is less danger of making a mistake.

1. Everyone has the same opportunity. A person sending in only $3.00 in subscriptions has the same chance of winning the first prize as a person sending in more money. The advantage of sending in more money is to increase the value of the first five prizes.

2. This is a contest for Central Ontario district, or to any subscriber of The Examiner, no matter where he resides.

3. Don't forget to answer all the necessary questions on the solution blank.

4. If you collect a subscription from a friend or neighbour, that person can also submit an answer to the puzzle without further payment.

THE JUDGES

In order that each Contestant shall have fair and impartial treatment, we have arranged with Mr. Roland Denne, Mayor of the City and Alderman Nagel Phelan to act as judges for the contest. Any complaints in this connection will be referred to these judges whose decision will be absolutely final.

FARMERS LEARN MUCH IN BRITAIN

SUPPLY FLUCTUATES

LONDON, Feb. 17.—The members of the Canadian farmers' tour, travelling through Britain under the auspices of the Canadian National Railways, are learning more and more that what was told them at Manchester by the provision trade about the Englishman's "fashions in foods," is supported by the evidence presented to their own eyes and ears as they go along, delving for themselves into the ramifications of the immense marketing places of Britain.

Had the Canadian farmers' party been dropped from the skies into the centre of one of these great marketing places, and had seen the enormous stores of food supplies which are handled, their first thought would have been, "where in all the world are there enough people to consume it all?" But travelling as they have done from Liverpool to Manchester and at last to London, where the one thing that constantly forces itself upon the mind of the visitor, is the teeming millions of population, and visiting as they have done the great Smithfield markets at Manchester, from where fourteen million people draw their daily food supplies, and the Convent Garden and Spittlefield markets at London to which eight millions look for their food, they have gained at last, a real impression of what a vast consuming public Britain has, and of the consequent opportunity which Canada has to sell its agricultural products to this market.

But the Englishman's "fashions in foods," which reveals changing tastes in food for every 100 miles or so, a characteristic which dates back for centuries and cannot with ease be broken down, presents a difficulty which, while not insurmountable, is a little confusing to the Canadian producer, and is somewhat responsible for some of the problems we have in selling our produce to the British market.

Business is Business

However, be that as it may, the discussions which the Canadians have held with the traders handling their products, discussions which have become franker and more illuminating as the tour progresses from place to place, may be boiled down to one concrete statement that while Britain would like to buy more from Canada, she after all buys in the cheapest market the best she can get, and the Canadians in reply have pointed out that they cannot be blamed if they sell in the market in which they can get the best price at the time, which simply means, with respect to some products which Canada might be sending to Britain now, that Canadian farmers are getting a better price across the line in the United States than they can get here.

It is constantly being repeated to the Canadians that the United States after all is only a temporary market for their goods and that Canada should keep on building up its trade with the market over here, hanging on to the lean years for the prospect of the fat years to come. And come they will, there is no question of that in the minds of any. Btu there is no more hard-headed, shrewder buyer than the British trader, and he will buy his wheat, or his butter and eggs and cheese and bacon where he can get the best of the least cost, and there is no sentiment about it. The Canadian delegation has taken care to point out emphatically, that, desirable as it is for Canada to sell products to Britain as part of the great Empire marketing scheme, the Canadian farmers can scarcely be blamed if they are inclined to do business on the same basis as the British trader.

Products Often Inferior

But the Canadian farmers are learning a great many things about how their products are received here and how things can be improved back home. They are finding that the British miller does not want any admixture of softer wheats, and will look elsewhere for the wheat he wants if he does not get them from Canada; that our bacon, excellent as it is, is not always the best we can produce; that our apples do come forward many times to these shores in very poor condition, affecting the whole status of the Canadian fruit trade here; that our cheese sometimes is of inferior quality and that there are often many things wrong with our stuff.

All the British speakers, moreover, have taken the trouble to bear down upon the one factor of lack of continuity of supply. Canada no sooner establishes a market for one product, or one particular brand of product, and creates a demand for it over here, then suddenly something happens to cut off the supply and the British trade is irritated and the market lost. That sort of things does more to prevent the permanent establishment of Canadian farm products in the British market than perhaps anything else.

Since leaving Manchester the party have seen many angles of marketing. They had a most practical demonstration of the bacon industry at the factories of Marsh and Baxter, in Brierly Hill, one of the most famous bacon factories in the world. Here, Mr. Marsh spoke for more than an hour, with the use of charts, illustrating factors in the bacon industry. It was established here that the 180 lb. to 220 lb. hog is the most useful animal from all standpoints.

Markets in Birmingham were visited, and in London, all the great markets were visited, and the conferences held with the provision trade under the auspices of the London Chamber of Commerce. Here some very fine discussions were held, and in a franker tone than had yet been adopted, all of which was to the benefit of the party.

Guests at Functions

At an elaborate function in London, the Empire Marketing Board entertained the visiting farmers, with Lord Lovatt, Under Secretary for the Dominions, in the chair. Empire marketing and emigration were both touched upon, with the realization that these problems were corelated. The Empire Marketing Board is probably the greatest effort at advertising Empire products ever made and the desire that Canada should send Britain her products was emphasized on all hands, the lead being taken from Lord Lovat, who himself is a farmer. But here again it was explained by H. S. Arkell and Miss Cora Hind, speaking for the Dominion, that the Canadian farmer was inclined to sell in the market where the best price was, even though that market be only a temporary one. "It may be," said Mr Arkell, "that we will yet come to you, hat in hand, asking for your markets, but in the meantime, that is the situation in Canada with respect to much of our products and you should understand that We are are not going backward, we are going forward in the matter of increased production, but our farmers sell in the market bidding the best price."

The farmers were doubly honored in London by being received by the Lord Mayor, Sir Charles Batho, and in being entertained at the Guildhall to luncheon, an honor which many Englishmen, as Hon. George Langley, himself a former Londoner said, would give much to attain.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys as You Clean Your Bowels.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean for the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

GUNTHER LEADING IN SKATE TOURNEY

Wins First and Second Places in the Speed Races.

SARANAC LAKE, N.Y., Feb. 17.—Canadian Press. — A commanding lead in the gold cup amateur outdoor speed skating tournament here was attained yesterday by Lloyd Gunther of Detroit, when he won the senior mile event and took second place in the one-seventh mile race. The races were skated on far better ice conditions than Wednesday when soft ice slowed down one race, and caused another to be postponed. Eddie Searle New York, and Allen Potts, Brooklyn, pressed Gunther in the last lap of the mile race, with Searle crossing the finish line in second place.

Eddie Jacobson, Chicago, won the one-seventh mile event, with Gunther only a few inches behind, and Bunnie Sheffield, Lake Placid, at Gunther's heels. Jacobson established a world's record in the semi-final when he skated the distance in 23 seconds.

Searle won both the lap prize and race in the five mile Eddy Whitby Memorial. Searle led for 23 cut of 35 laps of the race. Perry Johnson, Detroit, was but a short distance behind the New York skater throughout the race and across the finish line.

The tournament will be continued to-day and Saturday at Lake Placid.

The summaries of events in which Canadians competed:

Juniors, one mile: Pickering, Paterson, N.J., 1st Chester Cole, Sackville, Ont. second, Edwin Stundl, Chicago, 3rd. Time 3 minutes 43 3-5 seconds.

Boys under 14 years, one halfmile, Stanley Beganski, Chicago, first; Morris Rowan, Ottawa, second; Hylon Nephew, Malone, third Time 1 minute 52 2-5 seconds.

In the Legislature.

TORONTO, Feb. 17.—(Canadian Press).—Wednesday in the Legislature, Premier Ferguson paid tribute to the memory of the Earl of Oxford and Asquith. The report of the committee to the strike standing committees of House was presented and adopted. Second reading was given to the following bills: Hawkers, pedlars, and transient traders, to amend the municipal act, to amend the bulk sales act, to amend the local improvements act, to amend the public health act, to amend the mothers' allowance act, to amend the succession duties act. The House went into committee to consider a number of bills.

TORONTO, Feb. 17. Canadian Press. — Yesterday in the Legislature the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne, was resumed. A. Belanger, Russell, R. H. Kemp, Lincoln, and W. G. Martin, Brantford, spoke.

Premier Ferguson announced the appointment of Peter White K. C., as counsel to assist Judge Godson, in investigation of the Hollinger mine fire.

The Premier also announced that the Committee on Privileges and Elections would meet to-day to begin an investigation of the lost ballots found on the streets of Ottawa.

MISSION CIRCLE HOLDS BANQUET

Young Ladies of George Street Church Appoint Committees.

WILL MEET MONTHLY.

The first meeting of the Mission Circle of the George street United church since its organization was held in the Sunday school auditorium on Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock.

The business meeting was prefaced by a very enjoyable banquet when over thirty girls sat down to tables very attractively decorated with red streamers, red hearts and red candles with vases of red tulips.

A vote of thanks to the ladies of the W.M.S. for serving them with such a supper was voiced by Miss Pearl Carruthers and seconded by Miss Myrtle Stephens.

Ladies who assisted in serving were: Mesdames . Spencer, Hales, Stephens, Wasson, J. Douglas, W. J. Copp, Strong, Wellwood, J. Douglas, Batten, Hatherley, Miss McCammus

Mrs. E. Coon replied on behalf of the ladies.

The Circle was divided into four groups under the leadership of Misses Vera Squire Elma Coon, Evelyn Routley and Velma Strong

A visiting committe composed of Misses Evelyn Miller, Dorothy Wyman, Pearl Carruthers, Sybil Harrison, Vera Stephens, Mytle Burns, Dorothy Stevens, and E. Stephens was appointed.

It was decided to meet the first Thursday in each month at the supper hour.

MIRACLE WHEAT COMES TO FRONT

Farmers Advised Not To Buy This Reported New Variety.

There has appeared recently in a number of leading agricultural papers an article entitled "King Tut's Wheat Grown in the West." The article refers to certain results obtained by a soldier-settler living near Edmonton, Alta., and gives the impression that the wheat in question was discovered in 1922 in the tomb of King Tut-ankh-amen. As a matter of fact the records show that this wheat was known as far back as 1840 when one enterprising gentleman offered heads at $5 each.

The above variety belongs to the Poulard subspecies of wheat, being somewhat intermediate between the common and durum wheats. It has numerous aliases, the most common of which are Egyptian, Eldorado, Many-headed, Miracle, Mummy, Seven-headed and Alaska. It has always been easy to interest people in this wheat owing to its branched head. If an unbranched head will yield so much, surely a branched head will yield much more! While head for head this may be true, yet experiments have not shown that it holds good acre for acre. This wheat was probably introduced into North America from Europe or Egypt in Colonial days. It was received by the Philadelphia Society for promoting agriculture in 1807, since which time it has appeared periodically under one name, or aother.

In 1908 the United States Department of Agriculture began an extensive investigation of this wheat, which investigation continued for several years. In the meantime it has been tried by farmers all over the United States, but it is not now grown anywhere as a commercial crop. The fact that it has never become extablished in spite of the remarkable advertising it has received is a good indication of its inferiority. Promoters however, resurrect it periodically and, owing to its striking and unusual appearance, manage to sell it to the unsuspecting farmer at exorbitant prices.

The essential facts concerning Alaska wheat have been summed up very nicely in a bulletin published by the United States Department of Agriculture—Bulletin No. 357, 1916, P. 27—at the conclusion of extensive tests conducted at many points in the U.S., as follows:

(1) That it has been used in this country very often as a means of deceiving people, and very seldom as a farm crop;

(2) That it has failed to produce even fair yields when tried in many parts of the country, and has never been known to produce extraordinary yields;

(3) That it is not a good milling wheat;

(4) That the branched head is no a sign of superior yielding power.

THE STRONGHOLD OF WINTER SPORTS

The story is told of a well-known Toronto insurance man who with his wife went to Quebec for the winter sports, neither of them going outside the hotel once until they left. While their friends find a great deal of humor in the fact, they unconsciously pay great tribute to the "Chateau Frontenac." There is usually so much to see and do inside this hospitable hostelry that there are no dull moments for any guest who chooses to remain within its turreted walls, but for those who would rather participate in the outdoor amusements, every facility is provided in the way of personal attention and real equipment and comprehensive programs are arranged by the sports director to take advantage of the conditions and exigencies of the day.

Any Canadian Pacific agent will be pleased to supply all travel information and arrange both train and hotel reservation. 3d-11,17,23

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Jesus' Power Over Nature and Human Life

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Feb. 19: Jesus' Power Over Nature and Human Life. —Mark 4:35-41; 5:15-19.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D.D.

Text: Mark 4:35-41; 5:15-19.

And the same day, when the even was come, he saith unto them, Let us pass over unto the other side.

And when they had sent away the multitude, they took him even as he was in the ship. And there were also with him other little sihps.

And there arose a great storm of wind, and the waves beat into the ship, so that it was now full.

And he was in the hinder part of the ship, asleep on a pillow: and they awake him, and say unto him, Master, carest thou not that we perish?

And he arose, and rebuked the wind, and said unto the sea, Peace, be still. And the wind ceased, and there was a great calm.

And he said unto them, Why are ye so fearful? how is it that ye have no faith?

And they feared exceedingly, and said one to another, What manner of man is this, that even the wind and the sea obey him?

And they come to Jesus, and see him that was possessed with the devil, and had the legion, sitting, and clothed, and in his right mind: and they were afraid.

And they that saw it, told them how it befell to him that was possessed with the devil, and also concerning the swine.

And they began to pray him to depart out of their coasts.

And when he was come into the ship, he that had been possessed with the devil prayed him that he might be with him.

Howbeit, Jesus suffered him not, but saith unto him, Go home to thy friends, and tell them how great things the Lord hath done for thee, and hath had compassion on thee.

The incidents of this lesson are related to the parables of the last lesson concerning the growth of the kingdom of heaven.

It was on the day in which these parables were spoken and by the western side of the Sea of Galilee that Jesus suggested, apparently to get some relief from the multitude who had been listening to his teaching, that he and his disciples should go over to the other side of the lake. So the disciples took Jesus in a boat, and, along with other boats, they started across the lake.

The Sea of Galilee, or the Lake of Gennesaret as it is also called, is twelve and a half miles long at its greatest length and eight miles wide, and a lake even of those proportions can be subject to very serious storms and squalls, and it must be remembered that the boats of that day were small.

This particular lake was accustomed to unusually violent storms because it was enclosed on all sides, except on the northwest, by steep mountains, and the wind sometimes sweeping down from these mountains with something of the force of a tornado made the onset of the storm frequently as terrible as it was sudden.

Sleep During Stress.

This was what happened in this journey across the lake, though Jesus was so worn out with his dealings with the multitude that he had fallen asleep in the stern of the boat. This in itself is an interesting commentary upon the intensity of the ministry of Jesus and the severity of its constant strain. Could we think of a man even in ordinary weariness going to sleep under such circumstances?

The terror-stricken disciples are amazed at his unconcern and they awake him with an open reproach, "Master, carest thou not that we perish?" What a strange contrast in the peace that comes as Jesus rebukes the winds and waves and there arises a great calm!

What was this power that Jesus exercised over nature? We are here in the presence of a miracle, and all that questioning in the mind of man concerning the fact and nature of miracles immediately comes to light.

As I have often said, it does not fall within the function of these brief comments upon the lessons to deal with ultimate questions of criticism such as are involved in discussions regarding the nature and reality of miracles. I have, however, remarked upon the fact that the recorded miracles, practically all, have some definite relationship to the spiritual mission and ministry of Jesus.

The evidence of the power of Jesus is not found today in the calming of stormy seas and of violent winds or in fact in any outward manifestation of physical power, but in that effectiveness with which he allays the storms of human life, quieting the violent and disturbed passions of men and bringing peace as blessed as that that came upon the Sea of Galilee to the souls of those over-wrought by sin and struggle.

Not long ago we heard of a woman who made an ocean trip and was desperately seasick. She prayed earnestly that the return trip might be over a calm sea, and the minister who related the incident said that this woman almost lost her faith when her prayer apparently was unanswered and the sea was as rough as ever.

That sort of faith is not particularly deep or intelligent, and that sort of prayer is not prayer in its noble aspect as Jesus taught it. If the life of Jesus in its literal record suggests his power over nature, we are reminded also that there were instances where Jesus just as clearly and definitely were subject to law and submitted himself to law.

He was weary beyond measure, he suffered hunger, and in the last great triumph of his life, though he prayed earnestly, there was no power to save him from death and the cross. The cup that he desired to pass from him was his to drink, and it was not in refusing that cup but in the depth of his submission, "Not my will but thine be done," that Jesus revealed the power of his own prayer life and the divinity of grace effective for human salvation.

When we think of the power of Jesus over nature, let us remember also the power that he manifested through submission to God's law even to the law of death and the cross.

"Insane" Spirit.

The other miracle recorded in our lesson calls for much the same sort of comment. It deals with the power of Jesus over a man of distressed spirit whom we would call in our day "insane." Is it amazing that one so sane and wise himself should have exercised a power of amazing calm and healing upon those of disturbed mind and heart?

Surely there are miracles as wonderful as this happening today through spiritual perception and application of the laws of God. But here again there is typified the higher ministry of Jesus in bringing sanity into all of human life and in giving life itself true meaning and direction.

Not least important in the lesson is the teaching of Jesus concerning the nature of the Christian life itself. When this poor man was healed Jesus sent him back to his home to manifest the new life that his grace and power had made possible. Here is a point where the teaching of the lesson comes directly home to us all.

If we have found the grace and power of Christ in our own lives, what evidence of it are we giving from day to day? Has it sent us back to the ordinary environment of our lives with a new vision and a new power of love and service of those round about us?

COURSE IS ENDED AT DOWNEYVILLE

Farm Young People of District Make Good Use of Opportunity.

DOWNEYVILLE, Feb. 17.—During the last four weeks the Victoria County Annual Short Courses in Agriculture have been held under the direction of M. H. Winter, B.S.A., agriculture representative for the county, E. H. Hopkins, B.S.A., and Miss M. Grey. A large number of boys and girls attended and some days special study was given for farmers on seed cleaning, judging of live stock, beef killing, etc.

For the boys there was a special study of live stock—the feeding, breeding and management; also the different breeds and the best kind to keep. They journeyed to several farm homes where roots and grain were studied, also cleaning and judging grain. The value of drainage was taken up as were the different kinds of crops for different purposes and soils, also the value of fertilizer. Poultry was judged including the feeding, care, killing, dressing and egg grading. The value of cow testing, testing cream and milk, and the care and handling of milk were studied. Weeds and weed seeds, methods of control of weeds found in this country, the value of the home garden, the cultivation of fruit and vegetables for home use proved an interesting study.

There were also special farmers' days during the course. They all went to Omemee one day where the killing of beef, sheep, and hogs was demonstrated by Mr. Vanghan, the U.F.O. shipper. They studied veterinary science, the different diseases of the horses and cattle, and treatment. Many questions were answered by the expert, and many took the advantage of finding out the cure for diseases of horses and cattle.

There was also a fanning mill for the purpose of showing how to clean the seeds and to take out weed seeds. The course was very instructive and a great benefit to the boys and men who attended.

Courses For Girls.

For the girls, food values and cooking were demonstrated in preparing and cooking fruits, vegetables, milks, meats, fish, bread, pastry, cakes and salads, canning and preserving, table serving and invalid cooking. This was conducted by Miss Grey of Toronto.

Miss Petty had charge of the first aid and home nursing, including first aid in wounds, fractures, hemmorrhages and dislocation, practice in bandaging, artificial breathing and baths, temperature and pulse taking, nursing pneumonia and typhoid cases, disinfecting, equipping the sick room, and care of the mother and baby.

Sewing was also taught, the different materials, styles, cutting, fitting, the use of patterns, machine work, stitching, remodelling, and all kinds of garment making were demonstrated. Laundering was demonstrated, including the washing of linen, cotton, silk and wool, the use of washing chemicals, removing stains, ironing and dry cleaning.

House furnishing was also discussed, furnishing the different rooms with different color schemes was studied.

A literary society was held every Friday afternoon, where practice in public speaking and debating was given. Some very fine speaking and debating was done.

Banquet Marks Close.

A banquet was held at the close of the course on Thursday evening. Speeches were made by a number of prominent men, and a program of singing and instrumental music was given.

The program and banquet were in charge of the ladies of the C.W.L. And orchestra furnished special music during the evening.

W.I. MEETS AT MOUNT PLEASANT

Stormy Weather Holds Down Attendance—Much Business Discussed.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Feb. 17.—The February meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Hubert Gardiner. Only a few members were present owing to the very stromy weather. Mrs. Thomas Graham acted as secretary in the absence of Mrs. Garnet Shield. Four members answered the roll call by giving an apple recipe. Relief work in the community was discussed, and Mrs. George Jamieson and Mrs. Garnet Shield were appointed to look after it. A committee was also appointed to gather subscriptions for the purpose of repairing the Temperance Hall. The committee includes Mesdames C. Morden, Richard Graham, George Jamieson and Ira Lowe.

A card was read from Mrs. J. Handley expressing her appreciation of the quilt sent and for kindness shown by the members during her illness. Mrs. Thomas Graham gave a reading entitled "Our problems of overwork." Mrs. George Jamieson also gave a reading "Repression."

The March meeting will be at the home of Mrs. C. Morden with Mrs. George Jamieson and Mrs. Thomas Graham in charge of the program, while Mrs. Richard Graham and Mrs. Ira Lowe will assist the hostess.

CHILDREN have a wonderful friend in Ovaltine. As they sip its delicious, unique blending of ripe barley malt, fresh eggs and creamy milk, they gather new vitality and energy.

Ovaltine is the best thing you can give kiddies. There is no substitute. Every particle is perfectly balanced nourishment. Easily digested, Ovaltine is absorbed quickly and promptly creates a priceless reserve of vitality which protects small bodies against fatigue and illness.

Give Ovaltine to the children often, with their meals and between meals. Kiddies love Ovaltine. It keeps the sparkle in their eyes, the roses of health in their cheeks, and taken at night brings restful, restorative sleep. Doctors all over the world recommend Ovaltine extensively.

Woman's Wisdom

Kingston, Ont.—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is such a great help to nature in motherhood, I marvel that every prospective mother does not take it. I had two children before I knew that there was such a tonic. My former experiences caused me dread. By chance I read that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription quieted the nerves and strengthened the body of the expectant mother and I proved that statement to be true, also I had comparatively no suffering and did not lose any of my strength or vitality. *GRAPEJUICE WHIP: Place over the fire in a double boiler one pint of grapejuice. Let come to nearly boiling point, and stir in one package of gelatin which has been soaking in a little cold water. Continue stirring for a few minutes, remove from fire and let cool. When congealed, whip with an egg beater until light, and fold in the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs. Serve in compote glasses, topped with a dash of whipped cream.

Questions and Answers.

Question: J. E. C. asks: "Is there a remedy that you could recommend for checking perspiration without injury to health?"

Answer: Any "remedy" that will check excessive perspiration would be injurious to the health. If I recommended any such remedy to you, it would be much the same as if I prescribed some method of treatment which would make you breathe less. Choking up the sweat glands is just as detrimental as interfering with respiration.

Question: W.D.M. asks: "Is there a cure for facial neuralgia? Six years ago I had an operation for necrosis of the dentist's forceps. Have had X-ray treatments and about forty chiropractic adjustments, but the pain comes back.

Answer: Your trouble is a difficult one to cure since it is caused by an infection in the injured jawbone. Your only hope lies in getting your blood in good condition, as it is your own blood that must do the repairing of the injured parts. Stop treating the jaw locally, but try and get the entire alimentary canal in good condition. Remove all irritation in the intestines through systematic dieting and a course of enema treatments. This procedure I have found the most helpful in overcoming facial neuralgia.

Question: Amie asks: "What causes red spots like little specks of blood to appear under the skin? There are a few on my face, and all over my body."

Answer: Your blood capillaries are breaking down because they do not contain enough calcium or other mineral matter. This may be due to your not eating foods containing these minerals, or simply because they are destroyed after eating by an acidosis in your system produced by a diet that improperly balanced from the standpoint of physiological chemistry.

Lyrics of Life - By Douglas Malloch

WHAT MAKES ME LAUGH

God didn't make me purty,
Schools didn't make me wise,
Fame didn't ever point me out,
I'm sorry to advise.
Luck didn't make me wealthy,
I never got my haff—
But one thing I am thankful for,
That something made me laff.

I've had a lot of trouble,
I've had a lot of care,
I've lost the little that I made,
I've even lost my hair.
No matter, though, what happened,
Or how I got the gaff,
It always had its funny side,
For something made me laff.

Folks think I'm rather foolish
Because I like to grin,
And they are right, the ones who said
That wealth I'd never win.
And yet it doesn't matter,
The folks who got my haff;
They think they're better off than me—
That always makes me laff.

ANOTHER UNSOLICITED TRIBUTE FOR ALL-BRAN

Good news for sufferers from constipation

Mrs. Kiell sat down and wrote us a letter when she had proved ALL-BRAN a safe "sure-cure" for constipation. Read her voluntary tribute:

April 4, 1927

"I have been using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN for quite some time and I want to tell you how much I appreciate it. I have found it a sure-cure for constipation, and know it is a remarkable regulator for the stomach. After using it, my family and I certainly will not be without it. I have even gone so far as to send some of it to my mother in Poland, Europe."

Gratefully yours,
Mrs. Anna Kiell.
(Address on request.)

Perhaps you know what a terrible affliction constipation is. Blighting wherever it thrives. Ruining health. Marring beauty. Causing headaches, back pains, foul breath, loss of sleep—indeed, leading to more than forty serious diseases.

But did you know it can be easily relieved by a pleasant cereal food? Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to bring relief. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Serve with milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Use in cooking. At grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

Interesting the way narrow belts have replaced sashes on almost all daytime frocks, and to a great extent on evening frocks as well. And now that we have these neat belts about our waists or hips we wonder how we ever could have endured as long as we did the nuisance of those string belts that had to be tied and untied every time we put on a frock or took it off.

About all you can say about belts is that they are decidedly smart. The sketch gives you a good idea of some of the most interesting examples.

A narrow belt composed of a row of small flat roses is sometimes used on the new net or chiffon evening frocks. Flowers are much in evidence for shoulder ornaments, but one frequently sees a large jeweled shoulder brooch instead—or one of the new feather devices made of long ostrich flues.

Then there are ostrich bracelets made on narrow ribbon foundations that clasp with tiny metal fasteners around the wrist. The ostrich flues are attached like a graceful fringe at one side of the bracelet so that when it is worn the feathers hang gracefully over the back of the hand. One is worn on either hand, and together with a shoulder decoration of matching ostrich provides an unusual trimming touch to an evening frock.

The dressmakers have had no sort of success in getting smart women to adopt a variety of colors for daytime wear. Some of them didn't even try. And so for street wear—daytime wear generally—it is a pretty good bet that if a woman doesn't wear black or gray, she wears beige or brown of some shade. Or she may wear black and gray, black and brown, or black and white or brown and beige or possibly beige and gray. Almost never anything bright.

But she makes up for lost time in the way of colors in the evening. Yellow is especially well liked, and there are a good many lovely yellow evening wraps to be seen. Light straw color is said to be extremely smart in Paris. Apple green, salad green, absinthe and chartreuse are the verdant shades most in favor. Chanel of Paris set the fashion for a light vivid red for evening wear.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1928.

Until late in the day the planetary government is rather threatening, according to astrology, but the evening should be fortunate.

There is an especially good sign for whatever has to do with music or entertainment of any sort.

Theatres should benefit through unusual and unexpected channels which presage return to better dramas.

As the day advances the tide of romance will rise, the seers forecast, and there may be many foolish love affairs.

Marriages and divorces will increase in number, if the stars are rightly read, and sentimentality will be as prevalent as colds in early winter.

This should be a fairly fortunate wedding day for it indicates the persistence of love, even though wealth may be slow in coming.

The effects of the conjunction of Jupiter and Uranus in late January may now be noticeable.

England may face new financial problems and may suffer from conflicts with other nations as well as revolutions within the empire.

Women should cultivate intellectual charm at this time when the stars are supposed to enable men to discover all the superficialities of the opposite sex.

Decline of the vogue of the merely pretty girl is foretold and all who would be belles will be wise to eschew many modern habits that betoken the vacant mind, astrologers declare.

Under this rule of the stars diseases of the mouth may be numerous and the teeth may cause trouble.

All through this month and March exceptional weather may be expected. Severe storms that take a heavy toll of life are indicated.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of travel and real pleasure. The young will figure on romances.

Children born on this day probably will have great talent in one of the arts. Many clever designers are born under this sign.

NEW FACTORIES FOR "SANI-BILT"

Snyder's, Limited, Acquire Premises in Montreal and Vancouver.

Business expansion has necessitated the establishment of two new factories for the manufacture of Snyder's Sani-Bilt Living-Room furniture. Sani-Bilt has become famous throughout Canada as the mothproof furniture on which Snyder's, Limited, the manufacturers, attach a guarantee contract to replace any piece damaged by moths.

This feature has built up a Dominion-wide reputation for Snyder's Chesterfield suites, and with the addition of two new factories, one in Vancouver and the other in Montreal, the chain now comprises five different plants. The Vancouver factory will be under the joint management of Messrs. W. A. Boyes and Stanley Small. The Montreal plant will be in charge of Mr. Tye Neander.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE ESKIMO RABBIT

"Daddicums will you please take me with you when you go adventuring today?" asked Scooter, one of the bunny gentleman's forty 'leven little rabbits.

"Why, Scooter, don't you have to go to school?" asked Mr. Longears, who was standing in front of the glass, looking to see if his pink nose was properly twinkling.

"Not this morning, thank you," answered Scooter. "And I also wish to thank my teacher, Miss Mouse, who said I needn't come until afternoon, 'cause I had my lessons so good on Friday.

"That's fine, Scooter," said Uncle Wiggily. "And, as a reward, you may come adventuring with me, though I don't know what will happen."

"I hope it will be a scary adventure!" said Scooter with a little laugh as he followed his father over the fields and through the woods. The two rabbits from the hollow stump bungalow had not hopped very far before, all of a sudden, Scooter looked back and called:

"Oh, Daddicums! There's something coming and I think it's an adventure! Look!"

Uncle Wiggily looked and saw a cloud of snow coming toward them. And when the cloud drew nearer Mr Longears happened to think perhaps it was made by the Wolf running fast, so he thought he and Scooter had better run also. But then it was too late. The cloud of snow was almost upon the two bungalow rabbits.

As good luck would have it, however, inside the cloud ofsnow, which he had kicked up by hopping fast, was only another rabbit boy, about as old as Scooter.

But this strange bunny was dressed much differently than was Scooter. His fur coat was thicker and larger and he had on queer boots.

"What kind of a rabbit are you?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"I am an Eskimo rabbit from the North Pole," was the answer. "That's near where Santa Claus lives, you know," said the Eskimo rabbit to Scooter. "Were you ever there?"

"No," answered Scooter, "I wasn't thank you."

"But what are you doing down here?" asked Uncle Wiggily of the Eskimo rabbit.

"I came to visit my uncle, Mr. Hare," was the answer. "Are you my uncle? I hope you are for you look jolly."

"No," answered Mr. Longears with a smile. "I am called Uncle Wiggily, but I am not your uncle. I know where Mr. Hare lives, though, and I will take you to his burrow."

"You can come along with us," invited Scooter, who had begun to like the Eskimo rabbit. "Maybe we'll have an adventure."

"An adventure is something that happens to you," answered Scooter.

"And I think something is going to happen right away!" suddenly called Uncle Wiggily, after the three friends had hopped on together over the deep snow for about half a mile. "Look, and see what's coming behind us, boys," said Mr. Longears.

"Oh, it's the Bushy Bear!" cried Scooter, who had sharp eyes.

"No, that can't be a bear," said the Eskimo rabbit. "Bears are white and this animal that is running toward us is black or brown."

"Bears are white in your North Pole country," said Uncle Wiggily, "but they are black and brown down here where we live. Except my friend, Mr. Whitewash, who is a Polar Bear. But this Bear coming after us isn't kind Mr. Whitewash."

"What had we better do, Daddicums?" asked Scooter.

"We had better run!" said Mr. Longears. "Can you run, Eskimo rabbit?"

"Oh, indeed I can!" said the strange bunny. So he began to flop his long legs, while Uncle Wiggily and Scooter did the same thing and over the snow they ran. But still the Bushy Bear came on after them, and Scooter began to get tired.

"I can't run any farther, Daddicums!" he cried.

"Dear me!" said Uncle Wiggily, looking back, and seeing the bear still coming on. "What shall we do?"

"I will help you," said the Eskimo rabbit. "Quick, we will jump down in this hollow, where the Bear cannot see us for a little while, and I will show you how to make an igloo which will fool this bad chap."

"What's an igloo?" asked Scooter.

"I'll show you! Come on!" cried the Eskimo rabbit.

Hints on Etiquette

1. What is the most noticeable defect in the manners of young folks today?
2. How can deference be taught children?
3. What is one of the surest ways to instill in a child's mind a respect for elders?

The Answers.

1. A lack of deference towards their elders.
2. By beginning, when a child is still very young, to teach him to rise when Mother comes into the room, say "Yes, Mother," and not "Yep," give his chair to older people and be thoughtful, generally, about them.
3. By Mothers and Fathers being considerate and attentive to their elders.

EUCHRE PARTY HELD

Marmora Sacred Heart Church Ladies Arrange Successful Event.

MARMORA, Feb. 17.—Marmora Separate School held another successful euchre party recently, for which a number of ladies of the Sacread Heart Church, under the leadership of Mrs. J. E. Gehan, were responsible. Miss Ida Gillen received the ladies' prize, and Miss Jean O'Neill, playing as a gentleman captured the gentlemen's prize. Mrs. E. Nathan received the door prize.

District Churches

MARMORA CHURCHES.

MARMORA, February 17. — "To Be and To Do," the first two of Morley's aphorisms, was the subject of the rector at St. Paul's Church last Sunday. The service was a special one for young people. A duet, "Day is dying in the West," was delightfully rendered by Mrs. G. R. Hartley and Mrs. S. C. Boyd.

Rev. C. J. Beckley, of the United Church, took as his subject "The Love of Jesus." The service was of the usual bright character, with a good congregation.

ANSWERS OF SCHOOL PUPILS IMPRESS DR. McKEEN HIGHLY

Local Council of Women Hears Address By Forward Movement Director.

REPORTS PRESENTED.

Associated Societies Tell Of Work During Past Year—Many Matters Discussed.

"I have been impressed very much by the results of the questionnaires submitted to the school children of your city. Never in all my experience in many places have I found such a high percentage (seventy-five per cent.) of the children who record themselves as expecting to go to institutions of higher learning and sixty-nine per cent. of that number expect to enter the professions. That is one of the highest percentages I have ever found, and another thing that struck me forcibly in the answers was that 168 out of 254 children expect to remain in Peterborough. That bespeaks a great measure of loyalty to their own city. In the past three years, Canada has sent three billion, eighty-five million dollars' worth of man power to the United States, reckoning on the basis that it costs $10,500 to bring a man or woman to the age of twenty-one years and educate him or her. Down in Miami, Florida, alone, a T. Eaton Company employee counted thirty-one Canadian clerks in one store.

"And the United States is delighted to get Canadians, because you have a common language, common ideals and a common religion, no matter what particular sect you may belong to."

The above sentences constituted a portion of the address by Harry R. McKeen, delivered yesterday afternoon to the meeting of the Local Council of Women, held in the green room of the Y.W.C.A., with an especially large attendance. The president, Mrs. C. H. Edwards, was in the chair. The meeting was also featured by the presentation of annual reports from the affiliated societies and from convenors of standing committees.

Correspondence.

Mrs. A. Mowat read the correspondence. With regard to advertisements appearing in The Examiner of the "True Story" magazine, which were objected to on the ground that this publication is not fit reading, a letter was forwarded to The Examiner in protest of such publicity. The answer indicated that a contract with the publishers of this magazine had still some time to run, and expressed a willingness to co-operate with the society at its conclusion.

Later, Miss A. Walton, convenor last year of the committee engaged with Objectionable Films and Literature, in giving her report, asked why the Local Council did not also approach the booksellers who have this magazine displayed for sale in prominent places.

The Council passed votes of thanks to the managers of St. John's Church, to The Examiner and to Miss C. McCarthy. These were passed in connection with the collection of literature representative of the city and its people which were collected by Miss McCarthy, on request of the Council, to be forwarded to Cologne, Germany, for the International Press Exhibition to be held there from May to October of this year. To this exhibit from Peterborough, The Examiner contributed a copy of the Centennial booklet issued this year, descriptive of Peterborough's programme on that occasion, and St. John's Church gave a copy, similar to the one presented to the Governor-General, of the Centenary history of their church.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. J. Wearing, and Mrs. Edwards, in the absence of the treasurer, reported a balance on hand of $132.00.

Reports of Societies.

The reports of the societies, given in brief by representatives of the affiliated organizations, showed a wide range of activity and a great deal of energy manifested in the various good works undertaken, of a social, philanthropic, community and charitable nature.

Reports were given as follows: All Saints' Auxiliary (Mrs. J. Lundy), Female Voice Choir (Miss Mary Berwick), Central Home and School Association (Mrs. W. H. Lacey), King Edward Home and School Association (Mrs. G. Sloan), King George Home and School Association (Mrs. E. Wand), Queen Alexandra Home and School Association (Mrs. J. T. C. Laing), Prince of Wales Home and School Association (Mrs. G. Davis), 57th Regimental Chapter I.O.D.E. (Mrs. G. A. Helson), Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E. (Mrs. F. L. Robinson), Peter Robinson Chapter I.O.D.E. (Miss Cathleen McCarthy), Mark Street Ladies' Aid Society (Mrs. Wm. Pomeroy), George Street United Church Women's Missionary Society (Mrs. A. Mowat), St. Andrew's United Church W.M.S. (Mrs. C. H. Edwards), Mission Circle of Murray Street Baptist Church (Miss A. Walton), Trinity Church Mission Circle (Miss Mina Edwards), Women's Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion (Mrs. L. Budd), Women's Canadian Club (Miss S. A. Tomkins), Women's Liberal Club (Mrs. B. F. McNeely), St. James' United Church Ladies' Aid Society (Mrs. F. B. Elliott), Young Women's Christian Association (Miss Leta Brownscombe), Women's Christian Temperance Union (Mrs. G. J. Plunkett).

A special clap was vouchsafed for the report of St. James' Ladies' Aid Society, who have paid off over $3,000 on the church debt during the past year.

Reports of convenors of standing committees were given by Miss A. Walton, for Films and Printed Matter, and for Equal Moral Standard by Mrs. A. Stevenson. Mrs. Stevenson spoke of the need of a policewoman and said that moral conditions in the community were distressing in some instances and would arouse a great deal of concern, if they were made public. She thought the Home and School Associations should warn parents about their children, and also spoke of the agitation for a divorce law in Ontario and hoped that the law would make it difficult to secure easy divorces in the province.

Police Matron Amy Wood, who was present, and was asked to give her opinion as to the advisability of agitating for a policewoman, said, to the surprise of several of the members, that she was, in effect, a policewoman, and had power to make arrests, in the same way as a policeman. She thought a good deal of questionable conduct went on in the outskirts of the city, which might be bettered by supervision, but said that the regular staff was too busy to do much of this extra patrol work. Asked with regard to supervision of dance halls, she said that most of them were conducted by the proprietors in as respectable a manner as could be expected, but the difficulty arose in conditions when young people left for home in motor cars, to park by the roadside and drink liquor.

Police Matron Wood stated that a great many mothers did not realize that they were neglecting to train their children in the proper manner.

Mrs. Stevenson also brought up the question of proper ventilating and heating of the market building and spoke of pressing for holding municipal elections at an earlier date.

Mrs. C. H. Edwards said that a nurse had asked her to bring up the question of protesting against the obnoxious advertising of Kotex, also referred to a protest to all newspapers with regard to "publishing names of poor people who get into trouble and leaving out the names of influential people."

Both protests met with the approval of the members.

Mrs. N. H. Sutton brought up the question of the Smith Street Bridge and its lighting. She referred to the replacement of a long string of ornamental lights by one large, glaring light, and thought the beauty of the bridge was affected greatly by the change. "Everything seems to be sacrificed to utility," she said.

Mrs. Mowat voiced a hearty vote of thanks, which was unanimously tendered to Miss A. Walton, for her excellent service as convenor of the committee on Objectionable Films and Printed Matter, from which she is retiring.

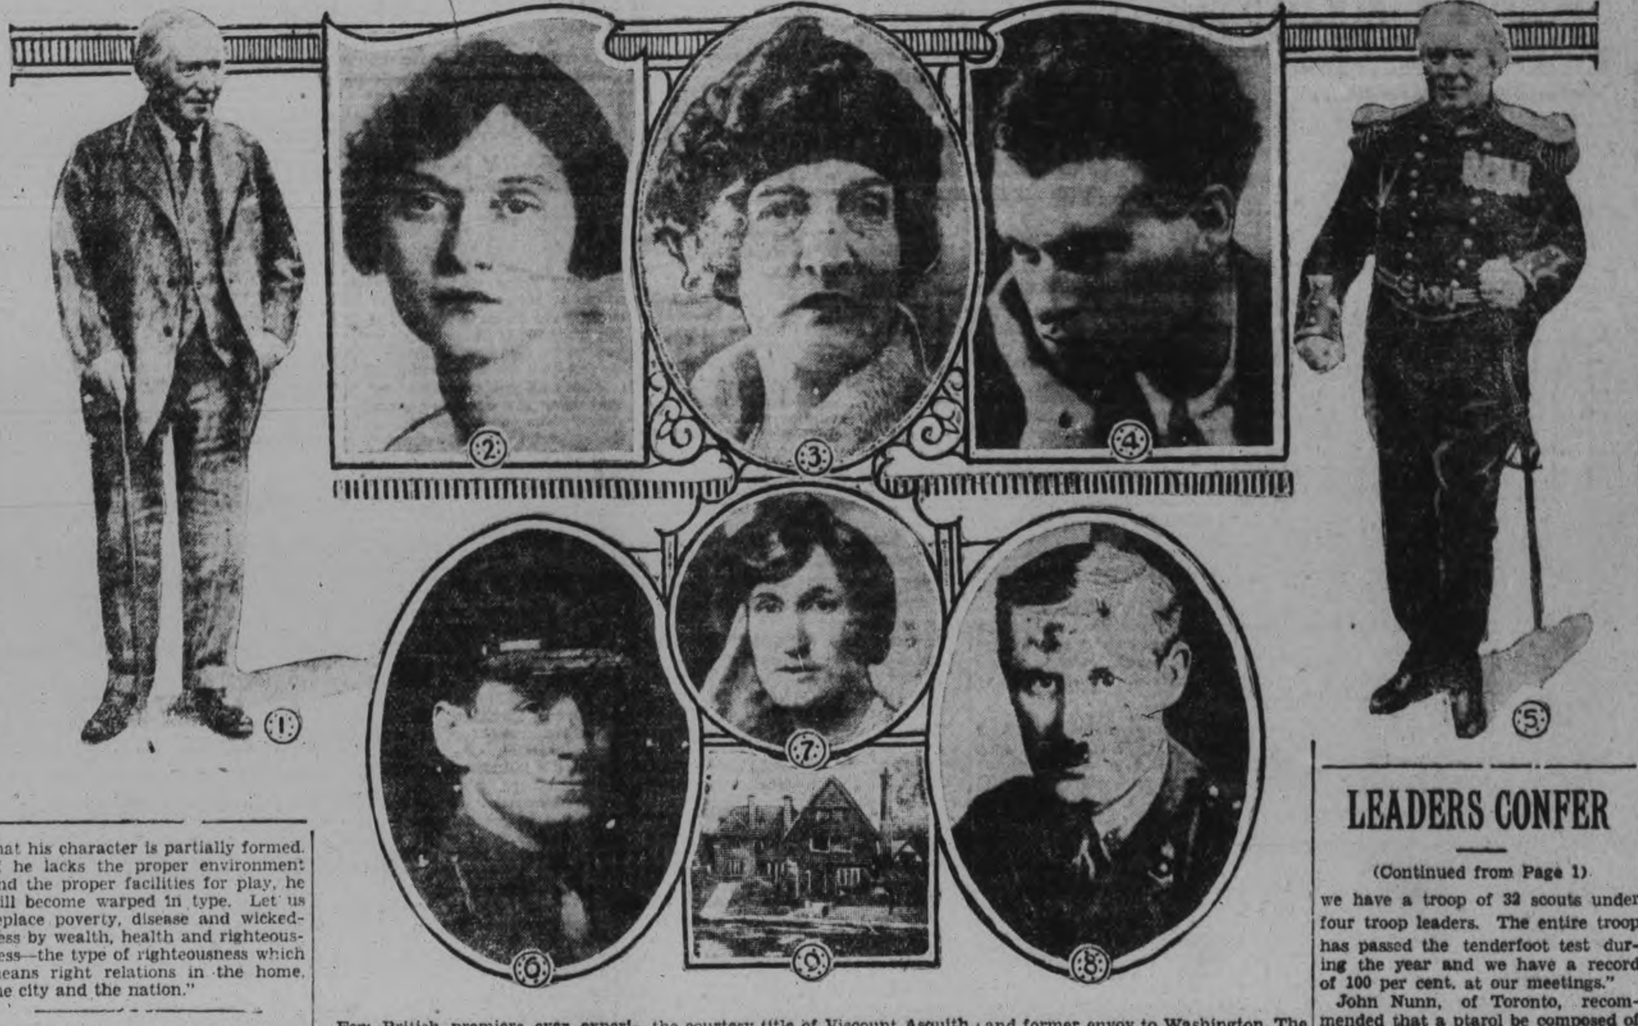
Mr. McKeen's Address.

Introducing his topic by a reference to the good work accomplished by women who set their shoulders to the wheel of any enterprise, Mr. McKeen delivered a brief, rapid-fire, dynamic address on the advantages to the community of a well-backed Chamber of Commerce. As an instance of waking up methods, he spoke of the advent in Peterborough of a new firm whose mode of dressing its windows had resulted in a change in window-dressing in the entire town.

He alluded to the trio of enemies to any community as poverty, disease, and wickedness, and spoke of the first as the poverty of ideas and ideals which grips the throat of any centre which is not encouraging the best type of literature, music and painting. In the latter connection, he spoke of his gratification at seeing on the walls of local school buildings copies of paintings which would serve as an inspiration to the scholars.

"The man who robbed a bank yesterday," said Mr. McKeen, "and although I don't know where a bank was robbed, still I am certain there were some, because fourteen banks are robbed daily in the United States and Canada, just as forty-four people are murdered every day on this continent and 14,214 people die within the twenty-fours in the same radius—that man learned his criminal ideas on the playground. His town is responsible for him, his mayor, his council and his fellow-citizens. And he was sent there by his father and mother. For every year that he lives, a child passes 3,512 hours outside of the influences of the home, the school and the church. It is in these hours that his character is partially formed. If he lacks the proper environment and the proper facilities for play, he will become warped in type. Let us replace poverty, disease and wickedness by wealth, health and righteousness—the type of righteousness which means right relations in the home, the city and the nation."

LATE WAR PREMIER WITH HIS FAMILY



Few British premiers ever experienced a stormier and more trying term of office than the Rt. Hon. Herbert H. Asquith and few ever faced the slings and arrows of unkind fortune with more fortitude and philosophy than this British statesman and scholar. Accordingly both friend and foe in the political arena expressed general satisfaction when he was elevated to the peerage in 1925 as the first Earl of Oxford and Asquith. The ex-premier was twice married, his first wife, the former Helen Melland of Manchester, having died in 1891. Their eldest son, Raymond, was killed overseas on September 15, 1916, in his thirty-eighth year. Raymond's twelve-year-old son, Julian, who bears the courtesy title of Viscount Asquith, now succeeds his grandfather as the second aErl of Oxford and Asquith, the title thus becoming a Roman Catholic one, since the boy was raised in that faith, following his father's conversion to Catholicism. In 1894 Asquith married his second wife, Margaret Tennant, a daughter of Sir Charles Tennant. As Margot Asquith she became almost as famous as her husband, following the publication of her autobiography in 1922. From this marriage there are two surviving children, Anthony and Elizabeth. The former had distinguished himself as a writer and lecturer, while the latter also has several books to her credit and is the wife of Prince Antoine Bibesco, Rumanian minister to Madrid and former envoy to Washington. The illustration shows (1) Lord Oxford, photographed last November while a guest at Castle Howard in his native Yorkshire; (2) Princess Bibesco; (3) Lady Oxford; (4) Anthony Asquith; (5) the former war premier in naval uniform; (6) Brig.-Gen. Arthur Asquith; ,7) Lady Bonham-Carter; (8) Herbert A. Asquith, eldest surviving son, and (9) Asquith's riverside home at Sutton Courtney in Berkshire. The building in the foreground was originally an old barn but the ex-premier had it converted into a retreat for himself and here he wrestled with some of the knottiest of the nation's political and war problems. It was in his Sutton Courtney home that the died.

A Prosperous Year.

More than $3,000,000 new insurance was issued every working day in Canada last year. The aggregate was close to a billion dollars. The increase in the United States, where 16½ billions appeared as new insurance on the books, the rate of increase was about 1 or 1½ per cent., barely breaking even with 1926, whereas in Canada the increase was 7 per cent. over 1926.

"So you beat the United States," Mr. Harris emphasized. "Nearly a billion dollars of insurance added in terms of safety and security for the benefit of Canadian citizens. The assets amount to virtually a billion dollars, used for every good public purpose you can imagine. There is not one cent for an unworthy purpose.

"Life insurance is the greatest investor in Canada. When a man buys a policy from you, he pays you a premium, it is invested by the company and returns to him in some form of good. He picks up his telephone. There's insurance money invested in it. His children go to school along the highway insurance monies helped to build. And so on; yet some men ask you, 'What have I got to do with insurance?'"

As Social Service.

Mr. Harris finally stressed life insurance in its phase of social service.

The churches, social workers, statesmen and other agencies are all working for the uplift of people, for the removal of distress.

"Where they are working en masse and often spectacularly you are in the highways and byways persuading Tom Jones and Bill Smith to follow a line of conduct which in its effect will solve the problems that vex the best brains of our land. Your work is above any charity in the world. You appeal to a man's moral character and not to the idea of charity; and that is good.

"If sometime you get discouraged, remember that in your contacts here and there you find love in a man's heart and you make it glow into a warm flame Teach him, by appealing to his best nature, that after all love, proper conduct is the only highway to happiness."

A Peterborough Boy.

J. W. Kenmure, vice-president of the Peterborough Life Underwriters' Association, fulfilled the duties of chairman very acceptably and proposed the solitary toast to the King. He introduced John B. Hall of Toronto, President of the Canadian Life Underwriters' Association, as a former Peterborough boy. Mr. Hall was born in Smith Township, and is a brother of Lieut. Col. W. Gordon Hall of this city. Mr. Hall spoke on the affairs of the Canadian Association, advocated its degree and its purposes, and appealed for a hundred per cent. membership in this city and district.

The evening's entertainment was a feature, including the dinner program by George Logan's orchestra, choruses led by A. W. Allin of Lindsay, also a vocal solo by Mr. Allin, monologues by Jack Primeau, and instrumental trios by G. F. Liddle, Jack Thackeray and Arnold Spencer.

The vote of thanks moved by A. J. McClelland and seconded by Geo. Gibbons to Mr. Hall and Mr. Harris and to the entertainers was heartily endorsed by the large gathering.

BRACELET WATCHES LATEST

Society women of Europe have adopted a new fashion at dances this season. On their arm is always a bracelet wrist watch. At times it may be the only bracelet, but often it is one of several. The oval or oblong, running up the arm instead of across it, are the favorite shapes. The bracelet watches usually are very elaborately jeweled, and some are set in black or shagreen bands.

LEADERS CONFER

we have a troop of 32 scouts under four troop leaders. The entire troop has passed the tenderfoot test during the year and we have a record of 100 per cent. at our meetings."

John Nunn, of Toronto, recommended that a ptarol be composed of 6 scouts with the patrol leader looking after two and the second the other two. B. Bishop of Toronto, recommended that more training be given to the seconds in the patrol. The Court of Honor and the Proficiency Badges were also discussed briefly.

The sectional conference for Wolf Cub leaders was held in the Lower Hall of the Canadian Legion Building while the Boy Scout leaders were in conference in the upper hall this morning. A most interesting and instructive session it proved to be.

Dr. John Stiles, Assistant Dominion Scout Commissioner, of Ottawa, outlined the growth of the Wolf Cub movement in a brief word sketch, and explained the qualifications — age, and training, — which qualified a cub to move on up the ladder into the scout troop and ultimately into the Rover crew. He called attention to the differences of the programs to be mapped out for each of these three groups and concluded by answering a number of questions from several of his auditors on ways of conducting certain phases of the work.

Miss E. Glover, secretary to the Assistant Provincial Commissioner, had charge of the story telling part of the program, and after illustrating methods of preparing such stories for recitation before a Wolf Cub group, called upon Commander Eager, of Ottawa who in a very interesting way told a jungle story.

He was followed by Mr. Stiles who outlined his method of telling stories to Wolf Cubs and to boys in general. Calling upon his imagination he told a story in which he used some of his listeners as characters, at the same time giving pointers on how to make the stories more interesting to the lads.

Executive Commissioner E. O'Callaghan, of Toronto, felt that it was a good idea to tell the boys more serious stories at times, and gave an example of this type which, while entertaining the boys would at the same time, teach them lessons in unselfishness and other good traits of character.

This discussion on story telling was followed by an outline of making things,—teaching the boys to make things for themselves such as bird houses. A general discussion followed and the conference adjourned at 12.30 for lunch.

MINISTER PLANS TRIP OVER TRENT

Hon. Charles Dunning Will Look Over Waterway With Engineers.

J. J. Duffus and the Hon. G. N. Gordon interviewed Hon. Charles A. Dunning, Minister of Railways and Canals, with the request that he take a trip over the Trent Canal, with his chief engineer and the local engineers this spring.

Mr. Dunning has intimated that he would make an effort, and hoped to be able to take the trip, probably in June. Those interested in the Trent Canal development, including the Trent Waterway Association, have been very anxious for the new Minister of Railways and Canals, who has never seen the Trent Waterway, to know something of its beauties and its value, with a view of making him a convert to the cause of the Trent Waterway development.

OTTAWA SOUTH

pointed out, however, that the law required the clerk in chancery to preserve the ballots for one year; but he was desirous of giving Mr. Sinclair every opportunity to prove charges of carelessness which he had made on the floor of the Legislature.

Karl Homuth, Conservative, Waterloo South contended that the committee had nothing to investigate, until the nineteen ballots said to be in the possession of Mr. Sinclair were produced, in addition to the person who found them in Ottawa.

This suggestion found favor among a large section of the committee, and after some argument Mr. Sinclair said he would produce the ballots. He refused to testify, however.

Thomas Birkett, Conservative, Ottawa South, said he wanted a most thorough investigation into the matter. If there had been the slightest irregularity in connection with his election his resignation would have been placed in the hands of the government.

A FLAVOUR CHILDREN LOVE

Its balanced nutriment always satisfies

HOW difficult it is sometimes to get children to eat a breakfast that is good for them. They skimp the morning meal unless it is extra enticing. All mothers know this.

Quick Quaker sustains all through the forenoon during which 70% of the day's school work comes. Its 16% protein builds and repairs tissue. Its 65% carbohydrates supplies energy. Its minerals make sound bone and strong teeth. Bulk aids digestion. Necessary vitamines help assimilation of other food.

Children—and grown-ups too—get most bodily vigor and mental alertness from Quick Quaker, because of its proper proportions of the nutrition elements.

Be sure to ask your grocer for Quick Quaker. You will know it by the picture of the Quaker. Packages contain coupons with which you can secure silverware and other household and personal articles you need. Fastest cooking cereal—cooks in 2½ to 5 minutes, according to your taste. Big, family package, and small 10 cent size, both wrapped and sealed.

Get Dainty China

In each package of Quick Quaker, marked "Chinaware", is a piece of fine china, prettily decorated in blue and gold. It's fun to open a package and find a cup, a saucer, a plate or bowl. All lovely things, beautifully designed.

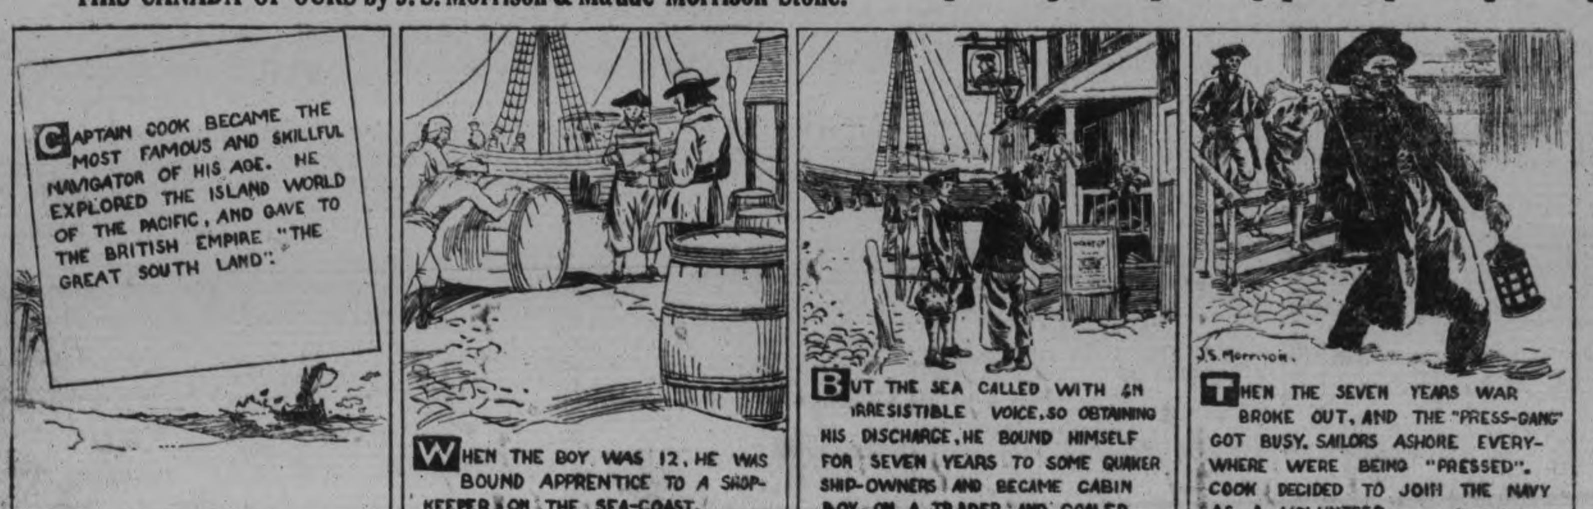
THIS CANADA OF OURS by J. S. Morrison & Maude Morrison Stone.



CAPTAIN COOK BECAME THE MOST FAMOUS AND SKILLFUL NAVIGATOR OF HIS AGE. HE EXPLORED THE ISLAND WORLD OF THE PACIFIC, AND GAVE TO THE BRITISH EMPIRE "THE GREAT SOUTH LAND".
WHEN THE BOY WAS 12, HE WAS BOUND APPRENTICE TO A SHOP-KEEPER ON THE SEA-COAST.
BUT THE SEA CALLED WITH AN IRRESISTIBLE VOICE, SO OBTAINING HIS DISCHARGE, HE BOUND HIMSELF FOR SEVEN YEARS TO SOME QUAKER SHIP-OWNERS AND BECAME CABIN BOY ON A TRADER AND COALER.

GOOD ICE FOR JUNIOR BATTLE HERE TO-NIGHT

A TIDY ARGUMENT.

Both Teams in Good Shape For First of the City Series.

Fast ice is assured for the first game of the series between the Peterborough and St. John's Junior O.H.A. teams at Brock street rink to-night and with both outfits in good shape and raring to go there should be a tidy little battle.

Ever since the beginning of the season there have been arguments as to which of the two local junior outfits is the stronger and the present series will be welcomed as an opportunity to settle the controversy.

In order to give the teams every chance a three game series, games to count, has been arranged and there will be no chance of a fluke verdict. It has been agreed to allow each team to use three subs so that there should be plenty of speed at all stages.

St. John's will wear their red and white uniforms for the first time this season on home ice.

The game is called for 8.15 o'clock and promises to attract a big crowd, and both teams have their own following who will be out to root for their favorites.

WHY I BELONG TO THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Because the Chamber of Commerce is the only agency equipped to analyse and supply the community's needs.

Because it is engaged in a constructive program for the best interests of the community industrially and civically.

Because the time has come when business must take an active interest in civic growth and direct its activities.

Because the Chamber of Commerce is the logical organization to lead in community development.

Because the Chamber's past record shows that it is interested in the complete, well rounded development of the whole community and is worthy of support in this.

Because there is need of concentrated and unified action in civic betterment that demands the vigorous support of every intelligent citizen.

Because affiliation with the organization operates to personal advantage, presenting opportunities to meet other business men and establish contacts for the present and future.

Because it is an organization possessing potential powers for concentrated activity.

Toronto Market Dull With Losses In Majority

TORONTO, February 17 (Canadian Press).—Dullness prevailed on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, with prices being mostly downward. International Nickel was the most active stock, selling down to 85. Canadian Oil, selling at 58, was two points lower, and Christie and Alberta Pacific Grain eased down one. Canadian Canners First Preferred and Second Preferred were both fractionally lower, while Loblaw suffered a loss of one point at 104. Page Hursey made a jump of four at 91 and Imperial Oil at 58½ was up 3-8. British American Oil was the active stock in the unlisted section, closing at 34 7-8 for a loss of 3-8. Canada Malting and Hiram Walker eased fractionally at 37 and 59 respectively.

Wheat Prices Fall As Weather Improves

CHICAGO, Feb. 17.—Influenced by snow storms, making crop conditions more favorable for domestic winter wheat, values averaged lower in the wheat market early to-day. Besides, confirmation of reported big purchases of Canadian wheat for Russia remained lacking. After the start at a 3-8 cent decline to a shade advance, wheat underwent a moderate general setback. Corn, oats and provisions were also easier, corn opening unchanged to 1-2 to 5-8 cents off and subsequently keeping near to the initial figures.

Opening prices were: Wheat, March 132¼, May 133. Corn, March 94¾, May 98. Oats, March 55, May 56.

Pend Oreille Continues Rapid Advance To-day

TORONTO, February 17 (Canadian Press).—Pend Oreille and Sudbury Basin to-day again monopolized the Mining Market. Pend soared up to 24.50 from a close of 22.00 yesterday, making its advance in the last few days $10.00 a share. Sudbury climbed up another 1.25 at 21.75, a climb from 14.00 in the last few sessions. Other big issues were dull, Noranda selling off at 18.60, a loss of forty, and Hudson Bay Smelting receding to 18.50 for the same loss. The remainder of the list was generally firm.

CURLING

Peterborough curlers were up 31 points instead of 30 in the Peterborough-Lindsay Trophy. In Lindsay the locals were up 7 points.

The skips that went to Lindsay were J. W. Anderson, W. R. Anderson, J. H. Sedgwick and R. P. Best. Of the eight games played for the trophy, Mr. Widdess was the only skip to be down at the end of the game.

The vice-skips' bonspiel has been postponed again.

All scheduled games in Group B for February 17th, will be played to-night.

KIWANIANS HEAR SCOUT LEADER

ed such applause that she was forced to respond with a brief but pleasant little encore number.

Another pleasing item on the day's program was the official recognition of the club's newest member, Richard Hicks-Lyne.

Doug. Paterson expressed the club's welcome to "Dick" and presented him with the club button in place of the guest button which he had donned on entering.

That the Chamber of Commerce Forward Movement is making good progress was the assertion of Harry R. McKeen, who briefly but emphatically told the Kiwanians that it was now up to them to get behind the movement—and boost.

Dr. John Stiles.

Introduced by Chairman Turner, Dr. Stiles, who is the Assistant Dominion Scout Commissioner, and himself a Rotarian, "made friends" with his audience with a number of humorous yarns; then proceded with his address on the struggles of Baden-Powell, and his success in promoting the Boy Scout movement.

He said in part: One of the greatest innovations in education that is to be found anywhere in the world, and acclaimed by some of the greatest teachers, is the Boy Scout movement, the outcome of a programme worked out by Sir Robert Baden Powell, many years ago. When in India, Sir Robert was impressed with the great need of a training course for the younger men of the nation—he found many young English soldiers unable to take care of themselves so he started training them. Later, when he was shut up in Mafeking he organized and trained the boys there and found them capable of shouldering responsibility.

He wrote the book on "Aids to Scouting" and on return to England, found it being used to train teachers. This was in 1903, and he went to the heads of such organizations as the Church Lads' Brigades, Cadets, etc.; and proposed to write a program for them. Gathering around him a library of books on boys' work he studied until, in 1907, he was able to give to them a program which he worked out in a boys' camp. He later re-wrote it and so there came, in serial form "Scouting for Boys," which has been the basis for the Scout movement, not only in the British Isles but in Canada and in Europe. Fifty-two nations, in all, have taken to Scout work.

However, there was much opposition from the pulpit and press that had to be overcome; even the War Office criticized the Scout movement, and it was not until Baden-Powell spent a week-end with King Edward that the tide turned in his favor. The program was made available to all organization, and in 1910 he was forced to resign his commission in the army to carry on Scouting work. Lord Strathcona took an interest in it and helped finance the work; the original motto, "Balaclava" was changed to "Be Prepared" and now, rather than being accused of Prussianizing the youth of the land, Powell has been nominated for the Nobel Peace prize.

The speaker concluded by giving a few instances of the work which Scouts have done in Canada and by thanking the people of Peterborough for the splendid hospitality which the visiting Scout leaders had met on every hand.

The vote of thanks was ably moved by W. H. Dickin, who referred to the fact that last week the club had as its guest, Jack Miner, the friend of the birdfolk; this week the chief guest was the friend of boyfolk. He also thanked the soloist, Miss Hill, and the meeting closed with the singing of "O Canada."

WHAT MAKE OF CAR WILL MASON GIVE?

Interested Patrons Want To Know—Selection Plan Promised Tuesday.

E. F. Mason's jubilee celebration of 50 years in the grocery business, started off with an enthusiastic recognition and hearty congratulations from the hundreds of customers who regularly shop at the seven Mason groceterias. Naturally there is great interest shown in the promised gift of an automobile to one of the customers during the 65 days' celebration.

The main enquiry is, "What kind of car is it to be?" All the information on that line that is given out as yet, is that it will be a closed car of a most carefully selected make. The question will be discussed in our advertisement in The Examiner on Tuesday next, when we will disclose our plan to give the recipient of the car the best value we can get on four wheels at the upset price which we expect to pay. We are going to give away a car that our customer will be proud to own, and that we will take pride in presenting.

In the meantime, secure your information cards at any of the Mason stores and try and give the management some really workable advice and your candid opinion on the questions asked. Furthermore, while the 65-day distribution of the cards goes on, in the big information gaining jubilee celebration, Mason's Groceteria Stores will make it exceedingly well worth while to buy your household supplies of groceries when you come for your card, although this is entirely apart from the car offer.—Advt.

LEAGUE STUDIES WORK FROM AFRICA

Zion Young People Have Missionary Program—Plan Social Evening.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, Feb. 17—The regular meeting of the Zion League on Thursday evening, was in charge of Earl Fairman as missionary convenor, and Fred Fry as leader. The missionary section of the Cobourg Winter School report was presented by Gladys Simpson, Earl Fairman gave the missionary topic on Africa.

A standard program was discussed and this system will be adopted next month. The Whippet group won in the contest which has been going on, while the Chevrolet group led in the night's attendance.

The next meeting will be a social one in charge of Gladys Simpson, with the Khaki group as guests.

THREE GOOD PLAYS ARE PRESENTED

St. Luke's Young People Give Interesting Comedy Program.

Under the auspices of the A. Y. P. A. of St. Luke's Church, three one-act plays were given by the members last night, in the Parish Hall. There was a good attendance and much interest was manifested by the audience in the presentation of the trio of playets, which included one miniature comedy drama and two farce comedies. Rev. G. J. Bousfield acted as chairman. Piano solos during intermissions were played by Miss Muriel Davies.

These plays were given by the A. Y. P. A. with the desire of determining by a decision by the judges; Alex. Clark, J. H. Primeau, and Miss Cathleen McCarthy, of the Examiner staff, as to the advisability of entering one of the trio in the annual dramatic contest of the A. Y. P. A. of the district in which the silver cup for the best play was won last year by St. Luke's A. Y. P. A.

After watching the three plays, the judges decided that none of them was up to the standard reached last year by the A. Y. P. A. of St. Luke's Church, and this opinion, with various friendly criticisms, was voiced by the spokesman, Mr. Clark and was received with extreme good nature by the members of the cast of the three plays who expressed themselves as pleased with an honestly-given verdict. In contradictiton to the estimate of the three judges, who considered the first playlet, "The Prize" as being the best of the trio, the audience, who were asked at the beginning of the evening to also give a popular vote, expressed themselves by ballot as placing this playlet last of the three, wiith "Quash" first and "Sloey" second, thus demonstrating the difference in opinion manifested so often. However, the decision of the judges was taken as final.

The cast of the three playlets was as follows:

"The Prize": Miss Clemena Long as Mrs. Bolton; Victor Sedgewick as Mr. Bolton, Miss Flossie Pammett as Miss Phyllis Stone; Stan Curtis as Harvey Stiles; John Lush as Mr. Craddock Stone; Mrs. W. L. Hepburn as Mrs. B. McAlpine Gratz; Miss Madeline Wheeler as a maid. Director: Stanley Curtis.

"Sloey": Gordon Maniece as Shylock Flintskin; Miss Eulah Simpson as Miss Amelia Flintskin; Miss Queenie Hope as Sloey; Miss Amy Doupe as John James Browne; Cecil Hope as Horatio Garrick; Miss Mary Spenceley as the maid. Director: Cecil Hope.

"Quash": Herbert Lee as Quash; Douglas Bethune as Dr. Squibo; Arthur Long as Mr. Fitzsimmons; Howard Pammett as Dampley; Robert Sedgewick as the Pump; Miss Florence Adams as Miss Laura Fitzsimmons; Ormie Heap as Henry. Director: Rev. G. J. Bousfield.

Rev. G. J. Bousfield, at the conclusion of the program, moved a vote of thanks to the judges, and a social hour, with service of refreshments and dancing, was spent at the rectory, with Rev. and Mrs. Bousfield as hosts to the members of the cast of the three plays, the judges, and several other friends.

21ST BATTALION MEN ENTERTAIN

Club Holds Whist Drive, Supper, and Sing Song at Armories.

NOTE OF SADNESS.

The monthly meeting of the 21st Battalion Club was held in the Band Room at the Armouries, on Wednesday evening, and took the form of a joint 21st and 2nd Battalion Night. Each 21st member brought along another "old soldier," which made for a gathering of 80.

The "show" started off with a whist drive, George Moore of the 21st winning the first prise and Joe Dunkerley, 2nd Battalion, second prize, the special going to Percy Walton. The prizes were donated by Messrs. Allan Cameron, Walter Perks and Bill Parker respectively.

In the unavoidable absence of the President, Col. Hall; the Vice-President, George Melton, welcomed the guests. He said that the "Old Iron Seconds" would always be made welcome by the 21st Club, and he hoped that many more such evenings would be enjoyed.

Heber Rogers, President of the 2nd Battalion Club, expressed the thanks of every 2nd Battalion man present to the 21st Club for the splendid evening. It reminded him of the old days to see so many of the boys together, and he hoped that such gatherings would continue, for it was the marvellous comradeship of the 21st and 2nd Battalions which made the two battalions outstanding.

Messrs. Bill Jones and Albert Hope replied for the many other guests and each was eulogistic in his praise of the activities of the 21st Battalion Club

A touch of pathos then crept into the proceedings, as Comrade Walter Perks informed the meeting that only that morning, the original Sergt-Major of the 21st Battalion, died suddenly in Kingston. As a mark of respect, the whole company, with bowed heads, stood in silence and darkness for one minute.

Joe Dunkerley, as an old R.C.R. comrade of Sergt-Major Gilbert, spoke very feelingly of his long association with the deceased soldier, who had answered the last roll call.

The club decided to send a wreath and letter of condolence to Mrs. Gilbert.

A splendid repast was then served, the tables being decorated with the 21st and 2nd Battalion colors

Songs, yarns, and community singing were indulged in until 11.30, when the meeting was brought to a close by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and "The King."

All those who were privileged to be present were unanimously of the opinion that it was the most successful evening that had ever been "put over" by the club, and special thanks is due to the committee responsible: Comrades McWilliams, Houghton, Rutter, Thomas and Parker.

FARMERS STUDY AT C.P.C. PLANTS

Will Hold Field Day Here Next Tuesday—Lectures To Be Given.

PRACTICAL WORK.

A Farmers' Field Day will be held under the auspices of the Dominion Livestock Branch, the Ontario Department of Agriculture, and the Canadian Packing Company on Tuesday, February 21, in the City of Peterborough. In other years these days have been put on for boys and young men, but this year it is for all the farmers in the counties of Northumberland and Durham, Peterborough and Victoria. The object of this conference and field day is to promote better breeding, feeding and marketing in Eastern Ontario. Various swine problems will be discussed and the new grading regulations explained. A tour of the local plant will be made.

All will meet at the north front entrance of the C.P.C. plant at 10.30 and at 10.45, a lecture on Grades, Grading and Judging Live Hogs, will be given, followed by a lecture on the Selection of the Brood Sow. At 1.30 the plant will be inspected and at 2.00 Dr. R. Barnes of Ottawa, will lecture on Animal Diseases and Plant Inspection, followed by a lecture from L. W. Pearsall, Toronto, on Hog Grading and Marketing. The day will close by a demonstration on Wiltshire sides and cutting by G. Foster of Toronto and J. Seymour, of Peterborough.

CRAB'S EMOTIONS SHOWN

That crabs have some emotions and not others was demonstrated by scientists in London recently. It was shown that a crab fettered by one claw and left with food just out of reach will starve to death, but the placing of a polyp, the crab's deadly enemy, near it, will cause the prisoner to become convulsed with fear. The shock causes the tied claw to come off so that the crustacean can scuttle away to safety.

ARSENAL DRAWS HOME GAME IN CUP TIE MATCH

Play Eighth Successive Trophy Contest at Highbury in London.

SPURS IN FORM

English Competitions Reach Fifth Round and Scottish Their Third.

LONDON, Eng., Feb. 17.— Cup tie soccer matches will be played in England, Wales and Scotland. The English cup competitions will reach the fifth round and the Scottish contests their third round.

The most interesting feature in the English draw is the remarkable and consistent luck of Arsenal in being given a game at home again. In meeting Aston Villa at Highbury, they will be playing their eighth successive cup contest in London. Arsenal, who were the runners up at Wembley Park last year to Cardiff City, have this season beaten West Bromwich Albion and Everton in cup ties. The second victory was a notable one as Everton are league leaders. The Arsenal and the Villa have met twice this season in league matches. At Aston the match was a draw, but at Highbury later, the Villa won by three goals to nil.

Spurs in Top Form.

The draw produced a number of outstanding features. The two Sheffield teams, the United and the Wednesday, are matched, while two other Yorkshire clubs, Huddersfield Town and Middlesbrough, will cross swords. Cardiff City might journey to Nottingham Forest, but should win. Another match that will be watched with tremendous interest will be Tottenham Hotspurs and Leicester City at Leicester. The 'Spurs seem to be on the top of their form these days.

The complete draw follows:

Manchester Un. v. Birmingham.
Sheffield Wed. v. Sheffield Un.
Arsenal v. Aston Villa.
Leicester C. v. Tottenham Hots.
Manchester City v. Stoke.
Huddersfield T. v. Middlesbrough.
Blackburn Rovers v. Port Vale.
Notts Forest v. Cardiff City.

Matches will be played on the grounds of the first-named clubs.

Scottish Games.

In Scotland the Celtic, cup holders, who meet Alloa and Rangers, league leaders, who face King's Park on the latter club's terrain, seem to have been allotted easy assignments. The match of the series is the battle at Edinburgh between Hearts and Motherwell. The full draw is:

Celtic versus Alloa.
St. Mirren versus Partick.
Dundee versus Dunfermline.
Hibernians versus Falkirk.
Albion versus Airdrie.
King's Park versus Rangers.
Kilmarnock versus Queen's Park.
Hearts versus Motherwell.

Millbrook

MILLBROOK, Feb. 17.—Miss Shirley L. Muir attended the Normal School "At Home" in Peterboro.

Mr. H. Jordan, assistant principal of the Continuation School, spent the week end in Toronto.

Mrs. George Locke is making an extended visit with her daughter, Mrs. H. Lang, and other friends in Toronto, and will also visit her son, Mr. Norman Locke, at Hamilton, during the weeks she is absent from the village.

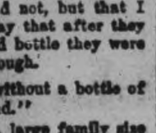
Mrs. Charles Raine of Peterboro spent the week end the guest of her sister, Mrs. W. Wilkinson.

Miss Verna Thomas of Port Hope was a week end guest of her school mate, Miss Margaret Howard.

Miss Elinor and Margaret Fallis were week end guests of their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vance, Franklin.

Mrs. Milburn of Smith is visiting her cousin, Miss Mary Eagleson. The many friends of the latter will be glad to know that she is recovering nicely from her recent accident by which her right arm was fractured above the wrist.

Ex-Wardens A. J. Henderson and J. L. McCamus were in Campbellford on Monday attending the banquet to Warden Chas. Davidson that evening.



Her Three Boys Had Terrible Colds That Hung On

Mrs. G. Ames, 55 St. George Street, Chatham, Ont., writes:—"Last winter my three boys had terrible colds and a cough that hung on so long that it began to worry me.

"I went to my druggist and he asked me if I had tried

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

"I told him I had not, but that I would, and I must say that after they had finished the third bottle they were entirely rid of the cough.

"I will never be without a bottle of 'Dr. Wood's' on hand."

THAW DELAYS SPORT PROGRAM

Grads to Meet Sweden This Morning—France and Germany Defeated.

RACES POSTPONED

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 17.—(Associated Press.)—In the midst of the open season on protests, chief features so far in the Olympic winter sports programme, speed skaters of America set out for home yesterday with only one official title in the duffle bags.

Hundreds of Olympic athletes, but few officials, bid the American representatives an enthusiastic Godspeed as the delegation pulled out for Paris, while piles of soft snow tumbled down from the mountains and ice skating rinks resembled swimming pools under a warm sun and balmy breezes.

Irving Jaffee, New York flier, who scored the fastest time in the 10,000 metre event, only to have the race cancelled because of soft ice and unseasonable weather, was subjected to the special attention of one delegation of Swiss athletes, who carried a banner inscribed:

"Jaffee, winner of the 10,000 metres race. Long live America."

Despite the protests of Gustavus Kirby, United States' Olympic representative, the International Skating Federation stuck to its ruling that the race must be run again. Kirby was stymied by the decision, inasmuch as there are no skaters left in St. Moritz. Most of the Scandinavian delegates left for home Wednesday.

Protests again became the order of the day as soon as Canada hopped into the centre of the hockey limelight. The Dominion team, an overwhelming favorite, cast an eye at the torrid weather, another at the swimming pool labelled the "hockey rink," and refused point blank to meet Sweden yesterday afternoon in the first of the semi-final matches.

"We came here to play hockey and not water polo," said P. J. Mulqueen, chairman of the Canadian Olympic committee. The match was finally set for 8 a.m. this morning, when the sun is neither high nor warm.

Although the bobsleigh races, in which John Heaton and William Fiske of the United States are the favorite entries, were postponed yesterday, along with the ski jump and figure skating championships, play continued in the hockey eliminations. Belgium defeated France, 3 to 1; Switzerland beat Germany 1 to 0, and England shut out Hungary 1 to 0. The winter sport program now is two days behind schedule.

NEW TROPHY.

This is the new silver trophy Will J. Reilly has presented to the Lake Sailing Skiff Association as a championship trophy for Senior Class 'A' dinghies. The cup was presented to Walter Windeyer of the R.C.Y.C. who won the senior class 'A' dinghy race at the C.N.E. last year.
Hockey schedule

Trouble Averted In B.C. Hockey Circles

CALGARY, Alta., Feb. 17.—Wholesale suspension of amateur hockey players at the coast as a result of the organization of an international hockey league there without the approval of the Dominion Amateur Hockey Association has been averted throughout the announcement that the league will be disbanded.

Definite assurance was received by Dr. Sandercock, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, that the new group will be disbanded forwith to prevent any disruption in amateur hockey ranks at the coast. The Vancouver Monarchs, Allan cup contenders, were the representatives of that city in the new group and the team was threatened with suspension should it cross over to Portland to play in the league.

ENTERS SPEED SKATING EVENT

Miss Isabelle McCullough, keen contender in all races in which she starts and who is sure to be heard from in the Canadian championships. This pretty young lady made it very interesting for the feminine champion last winter and but for ilness this season which retarded her training preparations would have been heard from ere this.

JOE WRIGHT JR. STARTS SEASON

Champion Sculler of North America Establishes Another Record.

OPENS EARLY SEASON

TORONTO, February 17. — Joe Wright, Jr., champion sculler of America, on Wednesday established another record. Never before has a sculler taken to the water on February 15th, and despite a pretty chilly atmosphere and a considerable amount of ice around the Argonaut Club, Joe got out his shell and took a two-mile spin.

Veterans of the Argos cannot recall a year when it was possible to place a shell in the water in the middle of February.

"It was pretty cool," smiled Joe, "but it felt good to get back again into the boat."

Joe went out at 5.25 p.m., and was in again at 6.10. On his return Fred Burns had a short work-out.

Joe is preparing for the Diamond Sculls in July, and the Olympic games the following month, and determined to be in better shape than last year.

He rowed last year at 182 pounds, and is now over 190 pounds. Last year, he opened the season on March 4th.

AT LAKEFIELD.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 17—The district hockey league opens on Friday night, February 17, when the 'Grove Grads' and the Cement Co. clash.

The games will be played every Tuesday and Friday nights regardless of the weather, in the following order:

Grove School vs. Rink Rats.
Rink Rats vs. Cement Co.
Grove Grads vs. Grove School.
Grove School vs. Cement.
Grove Grads vs. Rink Rats.
Group winners vs. Runners up.
Winners vs Warsaw.
Warsaw got the bye in the draw.

LOCAL CURLERS BEAT LINDSAY BY 30 POINTS

Peterborough - Lindsay Trophy Won by Members of Local Club.

ICE WAS HEAVY

Lindsay Loses at Home by 6 Points and on Charlotte St. Ice by 30.

Peterborough curlers won the Lindsay-Peterborough Trophy yesterday when the four visiting rinks were defeated on the Charlotte Street ice here by 24 points and the locals won on the Lindsay ice by 6 points.

The ice was very heavy on both arenas, but the locals played a wonderful game in both places, and as a result there was great jubilation in the home camp last night. J. W. McDermid piled up the big lead when he won from W. Lyons by 17 points. All local rinks were victorious on the home ice. M B. Chenhall defeated T. Tilly by two points, Alex. Kay was up one point over Askwell, and W. M. Cruthers won by four points over George Matthie. Sixteen ends were played in all the games.

CAMPBELL HAS NARROW ESCAPE

British Automobile Racer Escapes Injury When Giant Speedster Upsets.

STRUCK A RUT

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 17.—Hurtling along at an unofficial speed of 175 miles an hour, despite a rain beaten beach, Captain Malcolm Campbell, British automobile racer, escaped possible serious injury here yesterday when his giant speedster struck a rut and was catapulted 30 feet through the air.

So great was the impact when the twelve-cylinder juggernaut settled back on the beach that it smashed a bracket on the rear shock absorber, and ripped away the undescreen

Captain Campbell was half thrown from the driver's seat but maintained control of the machine and completed a trial run down the beach at reduced speed

The British pilot was putting his racer through a first test here preliminary to an attempt to break the world's speed record of 203.7 miles an hour, made by a fellow countryman, Major H. O. D. Segrave here last year. He said the necessary repairs could be made within a few hours and that he would probably give his speedster another work out to-day.

RACE DEFINITELY OFF.

Skaters of Several Nations Leave St. Moritz This Morning.

ST. MORITZ, Feb. 17.—(Canadian Press).—All prospect of re-running the ten thousand metre Olympic speed skating event vanished yesterday after the United States speed skaters left for Paris enroute to America. The Finnish and Norwegian skating teams already are enroute home and most of the speed skaters of other nations also have departed. All sports were suspended this afternoon. The weather remains unfavorable.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 17.—The name of R. H. Edmunds was inadvertently omitted from the list of guests attending the oyster supper at Councillor G. W. Sayles' home on Monday night, following the competition for the Carew Cup at the local rink. Mr. Edmunds is one of the veteran skips of the local club, and is a familiar figure at the bonspiels of this section of the province, his rink usually bringing home some of the silverware. It was mainly owing to his initiative that the social event was planned and happily carried through on Monday evening.

NORWOOD CHURCH HAS GOOD REPORTS

United Congregation Has Had Very Successful and Prosperous Year.

NORWOOD, February 17. — Norwood United Church held its annual meeting recently, with reports of a most successful year. Rev. R. F. Stillman occupied the chair, and J. Marks acted as secretary. The treasurer's report showed receipts of more than $3,200, including $2,927 from subscription and collection, $100 from the Ladies' Aid, and $163.75 from the choir. The sum of $1,127.93 was remitted to the Maintenance and Extension Fund. The Board of Trustees reported more than $550.00 spent on repairs to church and parsonage.

The Ladies' Aid began the year with a balance of $183. During the year $433.07 was added to this, $300 of which was given to the Trustee Board, and $200 spent on improvements, dishes, etc.

The Women's Missionary Society raised $323.32 during the year, and more than $300 of this was sent to the Presbyterial for missions.

The Young Women's Auxiliary reported $150 sent to the Presbyterial.

Mission Band raised $86.95, and $60.00 of this was sent to the Presbyterial and $20.00 given to Y.W.A.

The Young People's League raised $94.56, and paid $85 to missions.

Sunday School receipts amounted to $167.76. Total receipts amounted to $6,400.

The retiring elders and stewards were re-elected, and three new members were added to the Trustee Board: Messrs. Hugh Robb, W. F. Elliott, and J. F. Webster.

Lunch was served by the ladies at the conclusion of the meeting.

GRADS SWAMP SWEDISH TEAM

Win Olympic Hockey Match To-day 11-0 Without Difficulty.

SWISS BEAT ENGLISH.

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, February 17 (Canadian Press). — Canada's Olympic hockey team, the Varsity Grads of Toronto, beat Sweden 11 to 0 to-day in the semi-finals of the Olympic championships. The team work of the Canadians was regarded as the best ever seen in Europe, and the Swedish athletes were unable to either penetrate the Canadian defence or tie up the offensive in any part of the game. Dave Trottier, left wing, scored five goals for Canada. The Grads scored four goals in the first period, four in the second, and three in the final.

Switzerland defeated Great Britain in the second of the day's games. The score was four to nothing, and it was a ding-dong affair.

The United States captured first and second place in the single bob sleigh race with Jack Heaton, New York, first, and J. R. Heaton second. The Earl of Northesk, Great Britain, came third.

O.H.A. Bulletin

The O.H.A. Intermediate and Junior series are gradually working down to the finals with the following teams still in the running:

Intermediate — Oshawa, Whitby, Newmarket, Guelph, Port Colborne, Port Weller, Windsor, London Battery, Kitchener, Walkerton, Camp Borden, Bracebridge, T.A.H.A., N.O.H.A.

In the second round Kitchener has a one goal lead over Guelph, and the second game will be played at Kitchener to-morrow night. Bracebridge is playing Camp Borden, while London Battery, Newmarket, T.A.H.A., Port Weller, and N.O.H.A. drew byes. The second round winners were Windsor, Whitby, Oshawa, Walkerton, and Port Colborne.

In the third round London has a three-goal lead over Windsor with the second game down to be played to-morrow night, and Port Colborne leads Port Weller by eight goals from the first game, the second game to be played to-night. Kitchener or Guelph will play Walkerton; Oshawa meets Whitby, while Newmarket will play the winner of the Camp Borden-Bracebridge series, the T.A.H.A. not being ready to send a champion team into the play-offs.

In the fourth round Port Colborne or Port Weller will play London or Windsor, with the T.A.H.A. champions likely being drawn against the Kitchener-Guelph-Walkerton winner, and Oshawa battling the surviving team from the Newmarket-Camp Borden-Bracebridge games.

Junior — Brantford Junior Hockey Club, Niagara Falls, Belleville, Oshawa, St. Michael's, Newmarket, Kitchener, Listowel, Marlboros, and the N.O.H.A. champions.

The second round winners were Newmarket, Listowel, St. Michael's, Brantford and Belleville, while the Marlboros have a two-goal lead on Niagara Falls, and Oshawa and N.O.H.A. champions drew byes.

In the third round St. Michael's play Belleville, Newmarket meets Oshawa, Listowel and Kitchener are opponents, and Marlboros or Niagara Falls are scheduled to play Brantford. And those games will decide the semi-finals.

70 YEARS YOUNG OR 40 YEARS OLD?

Many Folks in Early Life Older Than Others Past 70—In Which Class Are You?

Just because you are near or past 50 years old and are handicapped by Ill-Health, Nervousness, and a lack of former strength—don't make the mistake of thinking your case is hopeless or that you must now submit to old age.

A prominent Doctor recently said, "Old age is not always a matter of years. Weakness, disability, wrinkles, dimmed eyesight and gray hairs are frequently due to lack of vitality and nerve force, as a result of worry, high speed living and overwork!"

For conditions of this kind—lack of strength and energy: sleeplessness, despondency, depleted nerve force and signs of premature old age—the recent Erbac discovery has brought joy and satisfaction to many hundreds. One business man says, "Erbac has certainly been worth a million to me. At 51 I seemed pretty much "all in" and hat felt badly for years—now, thanks to Erbac, I feel like a boy again!"

Plainly wrapped and put up in convenient tablet form for easy home use—the genuine Double Strength Erbac can be obtained from Bond's or the local druggists who have been furnished with the regular 20-day treatments to supply to all adults who wish to try it on a no risk basis. Double Strength Erbac—always sold on a guarantee of money back if not satisfied—is a special formula, and should not be confused with ordinary tonics.

MANY QUESTIONS DISCUSSED AT BOY SCOUT CONFERENCE

Delegates Debate on Important Movement.

TRENT FILM SHOWN

Scoutmaster of Bowmanville Troop Relates Story of British Flag.

The first afternoon of the big Scout Convention being held in the Canadian Legion Hall, proved a real education to more than one hundred delegates who were present.

At three o'clock the conference came to the first of three questions which were slated for discussion, namely, "What part does the Troop Committee play in the operation of Successful Troops?" This question provoked much discussion in which many of the delegates took part.

W. F. Nichools.

W. F. Nichols, assistant District Scout Commissioner, of Windsor, said that he had been the chairman of a Troop committee and later a scout master, and he felt that there was a need for closer relations between the two. Otherwise, one or the other loses interest.

F. E. Mallott.

F. E. Mallott, of Belleville.—"I have a good committee of men, willing to do what I, as scoutmaster, may suggest should be done." He told of how they and others had assisted and shown evidence of their "Big Brother interest." "Today we have seven scout troops and two cub packs in Belleville," he concluded.

Scoutmaster Cheeseman.

Scoutmaster Cheeseman told of the growth of his troop and of its relation to a troop committee which had been of assistance to him. "Keep your troop committee busy with what you cannot handle yourself—keep them interested by keeping them busy," he said, in conclusion.

John Hornsby.

Scoutmaster John Hornsby of Lindsay said: "I started in the dim, distant days when it was 'every man for himself.' An association was formed, but it lost interest. Of late years, however, a troop committee has been formed and I find that a small committee is better than a large one. There is no doubt that there is a lot of work for a troop committee, and if you can make the committeemen feel that they are doing a good work, you can get a lot done."

Andrew Frame.

Andrew Frame, secretary of Hamilton Scout Association, felt that the Scoutmaster should educate the troop committee to carry on the work as it will be most beneficial to him.

John A. Stiles.

John A. Stiles, assistant chief Commissioner for Canada—"Any man in life who is really going to succeed will succeed by surrounding himself with that class of man who will help him to succeed. This applies to the scoutmaster. I find that Scout committees die, either because they have not enough to do or have too much to do.

"Beware every time you touch another man's money. For instance, you want a camp in summer. Your troop committee should be kept well informed and should know the reason for expenditures.

"Learn to use the men you have picked out. Parents of the boys are good candidates for a troop committee; mothers often being good helpers too. The committee is a very necessary thing, see that it is well formed.

Mr. Jackson.

Mr. Jackson, of Cobourg—"We cannot get our troop committee out. One is a rector, another a contractor and the third a banker."

Mr. Styles advised Jackson to put the matter frankly to each one of his committee. He thought they would respond.

Mr. Styles.

Mr. Styles advised Jackson to put the matter frankly to each one of his committee. He thought they would respond.

E. H. Barnes, of Millbrook.

Mr. Barnes told of certain problems of his troop, and of relations between his committee and himself.

Rev. T. H. Stewart, of Hamilton.

Rev. Stewart said that in many cases there was not sufficient in common between the troop committee and the Scoutmaster. The committee is not sufficiently well informed by the scoutmaster in many of those cases.

The Second Question.

How can Scouting and the Church Church, help each other? This was the second question for discussion and it provoked plenty of thought. The question was introduced by Frank C. Irwin, assistant provincial commissioner,

Mr. Barnes.

Mr. Barnes felt that the confining of a scout troop to a single church was wrong because many boys wandered from their own Sunday school to the other for the privilege of being in that troop.

He also felt that because a boy is a scout, that should not be thrown at the boy who happens to make a mistake.

"The connection of the clergy with the scouts," he thought, often caused the boys to do things because of respect for them rather than in the way they would for other men.

Mr. Stiles—"I don't think the Boy Scout association in Canada realizes its debt to the churches. The church realizes its own weakness and wants our help. The church is only as the people in it are. If there is anything wrong with the church, it is up to you to help correct that fault.

To help the church as it wants to be helped, we can carry out more extensively our training courses; show our boys that our religion is a cheery garment which we wear every day and we can show our boys that the church is friendly to the boy and that they have certain obligations to the church.

"Scouts' Own," the equivalent to a Bible class, can be organized in a church and thus will help the church.

At the age of 13, 14 or 15 a boy is not in perspective, but by appealing to a scout's loyalty to his church."

The Rev. Mallott.

"In response to what has been said—I am now speaking. I am a scoutmaster in Belleville, having taken it over when the troop was without a leader. The boys have tolerated me for six years. There are other forms of boys' work besides scouting. Some kind of boys' work is necessary to develop the boys and many churches are giving attention to these other forms.

The scout movement can train leaders for the church; that training is the finest thing possible.

As to the relative values of church troops and community troops, we work steadily toward a meeting place independent of any church.

The church can help the scout movement by offering a meeting place, by assisting with the training of the boys for a common end—making the boys good citizens.

It is better to have the minister as a scoutmaster than have none at all."

Robert Thomas.

Mr. Thomas, of Windsor, told of how he has seventeen boys attending church with him every Sunday morning.

"The only way to have your church co-operate with you is to co-operate with the church," he declared.

John Hornsby.

"To me the greatest help that the scout movement can be to the church, is to discipline the children attending Sunday school. It is hard to get any boy to take an interest in Sunday school or in religion. If full grown, educated men cannot solve church problems, how can the boy be expected to? If the scout movement can train the boys to conduct himself properly, then it is doing a great service.

If a troop is attached to a church, then the church should not limit the membership to that church's boys."

J. D. Paterson, of Peterboro.

"If the church is working out a programme, and is going to use scouts of its own troop in that program, then I think it should not be open to interruption from outside. Many clergymen know what they want done, but know that they have not certain qualities to make that come out right. But I am glad that I have men in my church who can carry out that work and there is a glad hand in my church for every boy whether he be Anglican, Baptist, Jew, or anything else. I welcome the support that I get from our scout leaders and the troop in my church."

L. J. Bishop, of Toronto.

Mr. Bishop told of an instance where the church wardens had ruled that a scout, who is not a member of that church, cannot be a scout patrol leader in that church troop.

Mr. Styles felt that this one instance could not shake the scout movement. If we are going to deal with boys we should not oppose a movement that cannot be stopped, such as the scout movement is.

The Third Question.

Following some community singing, the third question, "Why and How should Records be kept" was taken up.

Mr. Irvine, in introducing the question said that names of members of troops, meetings, or financial matters require recording.

The record of the membership attendance and dues he felt, would be a good phase to deal with first,

Henry Wolfe.

Mr. Wolfe told of a chart which his troop had kept in this regard and of other methods of keeping trace of dues, in his London troop.

The Troop Progress Chart was explained by Mr. Irvine as he had seen it worked out in one troop.

Dr. W. H. Smith of Niagara Falls.

Dr. Smith told of how his troop has met the problem of dues, many of the boys having done odd jobs to get enough money to pay their membership.

The British Flag.

"The Story of the British Flag" told in a manner such as few scouts have ever been privileged to hear it was narrated by Captain F. C. Palmer, Scoutmaster of the First Bowmanville troop, at the close of the afternoon session of the Conference. Captain Palmer had surrounded his story of the union of the crosses of St. George, St. Andrew and St. Patrick with a wealth of historic detail and in it unfolding there came to everyone present a conception of the Union Jack such as few of them had had before.

Defining a flag as "a piece of bunting lifted in the air but which speaks sublimity, every part with a voice," Captain Palmer began his address. He traced the history of flags back to Biblical days, drew attention to the way in which a people or peoples might become attached to a flag, as in the case of countries which had escaped the Roman Rule yet retained the Eagle on their own flags, and named the rainbow as the oldest flag of them all, an emblem between God and man as seen from the highest flag staff. (Captain Palmer here mentioned that eighteen years ago he had come to Peterborough and had secured his first job here so that he took pleasure in returning on this occasion.)

Speaking of the Cross of St. George, he told of how the British had progressed under it; men had gone to sea and won battles, had explored new lands and the first attempt at education had been made. He then told of the origin of the cross of St. Andrew and of its being joined with the cross of St. George; of how Cromwell had introduced the Irish Harp emblem and of the designing of the Jack minus the cross of St. Patrick at the time of the Restoration. Then, in 1801 had come the decision of the Irish Parliament to join with England and Scotland and there came into being the Union Jack.

Ensigns as used on various types of naval craft and how they originated were mentioned and last of all the Canadian Flag with the nine provinces in the coat of arms. This was issued in 1923. The speaker concluded by expressing the belief that Canada should have a distinctive flag, not to replace the Union Jack but to fly beside it, representative of born Canadians.

Kelly's Cruise Shown.

At the conclusion of the afternoon session, the Trent Waterway motion picture was shown through the courtesy of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce. This film, one of the finest of its kind to be found anywhere, gave the delegates a splendid idea of the beauties to be found in this system of waterways and as one man put it, "it was an education in itself."

If you buy out of town, and I buy out of town, and all our neighbors buy out of town, what in thunder will become of our town? Ever think about it?

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

CHANEY IN HIS STRANGEST
"London after Midnight" shows Star at his Inimitable Best.

Fantastic shadows, weird apparitions and the gruesome denizens of the Great Beyond — these are the background for one of the strangest roles an actor has ever been called upon to play—Lon Chaney's part in "London after Midnight," now playing at the Capitol Theatre.

Ghosts and the grim things known as vampires, or the "un-dead" — corpses that desert their graves at night to prey upon the living and other eldritch beings of Europe's many superstitions come to life and being in a strange phantasmagoria of horror—creepy, supernatural details to a story that in its real analysis, sticks to scientific fact. Tod Browning the author, and also the director, has worked the wildly improbable into latter day fact so skilfully that one almost believes against his own reason that such things do exist.

But outside all this—it is one of the greatest screen entertainments Chaney has ever given the silent drama.

"The Man of a Thousand Faces," plays a Scotland Yard detective, detailed to ferret out a strange plot haunted English manor house. A student of hypnotism and other modern sciences he pits his art against the grim spectres and other superstitious beliefs; and solves a mystery that when the supernatural is explained away in a very remarkable scientific exposition of the craft of the modern investigator of crime. It is the last word in detective stories.

As the detective, assuming strange disguises and working a strange hypnotic spell as a scientific aid to detection, Chaney has a role that keeps the audience in breathless suspense, until the amazing solution at the close of the picture Marceline Day makes a very charming heroine, and Conrad Nagel, a romantic lover for her, while Henry B. Walthall does a splendid bit of character acting as "Sir James," about whom the plot revolves. Claude King, Polly Moran, Jules Cowles, Percy Williams and others of note have adequate roles, and Waldemar Young's handling of the strange scenario was a clever piece of filmcraft.

AT THE REGENT.

If you would like a box seat at one of the bigest and most thrilling automobile races of the year and yet are unable to fulfill this desire, the next best thing is to get a seat in the Regent Theatre, where "Dead Man's Curve" opened last night. It is a gripping picture of life on the race track, with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in the leading role. RBO has scored a triumph in bringing to the screen such an accurate portrayal of the hazards of autmobile racing.

The story, adapted by Ewart Adamson, from Frank Richardson Pierce's "The Century Championship,' 'deals with the adventures of a young racing driver and mechanic who overcomes the handicap of a bitter and powerful enemy. Accused of fearing a dangerous curve, the hero is discharged from his position as a driver for a big automobile concern and is forced to find backing for a new motor he has developed.

Aided by the beautiful daughter of the president of his former company, he puts his motor over and defeats his rival in both the game of love and racing, both pictured as exceedingly thrilling sports.

Young Fairbanks gives a performance worthy of his well known name, and, like his father, provides many a thrill for spectators by his personal audacity. The race scenes are realistic and will keep the audience sitting on the edge of its chairs all evening. Richard Rosson directed.

To attempt the impossible and attain perfection is almost correct in speaking of "Wings". Different people are impressed in various ways but, from a flying viewpoint, I found the first crash and the straffing of the bridges and roads, most realistic. All flying men are heavily indebted to Paramount for this epic of the air.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR of THE BENSON MURDER CASE

© Charles Scribner's Sons

THE STORY THUS FAR

The jewel case in the apartment of the murdered Margaret Odell had been opened with a steel chisel after a futile battering with a poker. This leads Vance to the theory that Skeel did not commit the murder, even though his finger-prints were found, but was hidden in the clothes closet while the girl was strangled by someone else. Vance traces a picture to Alys La Fosse, who informs him that Louis Mannix was in her apartment from ten-thirty of the evening of the murder until two in the morning. Vance also learns something that makes him question Cleaver's alibi.

CHAPTER XXIX.

"What about the summons for speeding?" Markham asked.

"That's for you to explain," said Vance. "But if you'll take my advice you'll send for this Boonton catchpole, and let him have a look at Pop. If he says Cleaver is the man he ticketed, I'll humbly do away with myself."

"Well! That makes it worth trying. I'll have the officer at the Stuyvesant Club this afternoon, and I'll point out Cleaver to him. . . . What other staggering revelations have you in store?"

"Mannix will bear looking into."

I'm ovecome! Such Himalayan sagacity! With that evidence against him, he should be arrested at once. . . Vance, my dear old friend, are you feeling quite normal? No dizzy spells lately? No shooting pains in the head? Kneejerks all right?"

"Furthermore, Doctor Lindquist was wildly infatuated with the Canary, and insanely jealous. Recently threatened to take a pistol and hold a little pogrom of his own."

"That's better." Markham sat up. "Where did you get this information?"

"Ah! That's my secret."

Markham was annoyed.

"Why so mysterious?"

"Needs must, old chap. Gave my word, and all that sort of thing. And I'm a bit quixotic, don't y' know—too much Cervantes in my youth." He spoke lightly, but Markham knew him too well to push the question.

In less than five minutes after we had returned to the district attorney's office Heath came in.

"I got something else on Mannix, sir; thought you might want to add it to the report I turned in yesterday. Burke secured a picture of him, and showed it to the phone operators at Odell's house. Both of 'em recognized it. He's been there several times, but it wasn't the Canary he called on. It was the woman in Apartment 2. She's named Frisbee, and used to be one of Mannix's fur models. He's been to see her several times during the past six months, and has taken her out once or twice; but he hasn't called on her for a month or more. . . . Any good?"

"By the bye," said Vance dulcetly, when Heath had left us, "I'm feeling tophole. No pains in the head; no dizzy spells. Knee-jerks perfect."

"Delighted. Still, I can't charge a man with murder because he calls on his fur model."

"You're so hasty! Why should you charge him with murder?" Vance rose and yawned. "Come, Van. I'd rather like to gaze on Perneb's tomb at the Metropolitan this afternoon. Could you bear it?" At the door he paused. "I say, Markham, what about the Boonton bailiff?"

Markham rang for Swacker.

"I'll see to it at once. Drop in at the club around five, if you feel like it. I'll have the officer there then, as Cleaver is sure to come in before dinner."

When Vance and I returned to the club late that afternoon, Markham was stationed in the loungeroom facing the main door of the rotunda; and beside him sat a tall, heavy-set, bronzed man of about forty, alert but ill at ease.

"Traffic Officer Phipps arrived from Boonton a little while ago," said Markham, by way of introduction. "Cleaver is expected at any moment now. He has an appointment here at half past five."

Vance drew up a chair.

"I do hope he's a punctual beggar."

"So do I," returned Markham viciously.

Less than ten minutes later Cleaver entered the rotunda from the street, paused at the desk, and sauntered into the lounge-room. There was no escaping the observation point Markham had chosen; and as he walked by us he paused and exchanged greetings. Markham detained him a moment with a few casual questions; and Cleaver passed on.

"That the man you ticketed, officer?" asked Markham, turning to Phipps.

Phipps was scowling perplexedly.

"It looks something like him, sir; there's a kind of resemblance. But it ain't him." He shook his head. "No, sir, it ain't him. The fellow I hung a summons on was stouter than this gent, and wasn't as tall."

"You're positive?"

"Yes, sir—no mistake. The guy I tagged tried to argue with me, and then he tried to slip me a fiver to forget it. I had my headlight on him full."

Phipps was dismissed with a substantial fee.

Vance sighed. "My worthless existence is to be prolonged. Sad. But you must try to bear it. . . . I say, Markham, what does Pop Cleaver's brother look like?"

"That's it," nodded Markham. "I've met his brother; he's shorter and stouter. . . This thing is getting beyond me. I think I'll have it out with Cleaver now."

He started to rise, but Vance forced him back into his seat.

"Don't be impetuous. Cultivate patience. Cleaver's not going to do a bunk; and there are one or two prelimin'ry steps strongly indicated. Mannix and Lindquist still seduce my curiosity."

Markham clung to his point.

"Neither Mannix nor Lindquist is here now, and Cleaver is. And I want to know why he lied to me about that summons."

"I can tell you that," said Vance. "He wanted you to think he was in the wilds of New Jersey at midnight Monday.—Simple, what?"

"The inference is a credit to your intelligence! But I hope you don't seriously think that Cleaver is guilty. It's possible he knows something; but I certainly cannot picture him as a strangler."

"And why?"

"He not the type. It's inconceivable—even if there were evidence against him."

"Ah! The psychological judgment! You eliminate Cleaver because you don't think his nature harmonizes with the situation. I say, doesn't that come perilously near being an esoteric hypothesis?—or a metaphysical deduction? . . .

"However, I don't entirely agree with you in your application of the theory to Cleaver. That fish-eyed gambler has unsuspected potentialities for evil. But with the theory itself I am wholly in accord. And behold, my dear Markham: you yourself apply psychology in its abecedarian implications, yet ridicule my application of it in its higher developments. Consistency may be the hobgobline of little minds, y' know, but it's none the less a priceless jewel. . . . How about a cup of tea?"

We sought the Palm Room, and sat down at a table near the entrance. Vance ordered oolong tea, but Markham and I took black coffee. A very capable four-piece orchestra was playing, and we sat restfully in comfortable chairs without speaking. Markham was tired and dispirited, and Vance was busy with the problem that had absorbed him continuously since Tuesday morning. Never before had I seen him so preoccupied.

We had been there perhaps half an hour when Spotswoode strolled in. He stopped and spoke, and Markham asked him to join us. He, too, appeared depressed, and his eyes showed signs of worry.

"I hardly dare ask you, Mr. Markham," he said diffidently, after he had ordered a ginger ale, "but how do my chances stand now of being called as a witness?"

"That fate is certainly no nearer than when I last saw you," Markham replied. "In fact, nothing has happened to change the situation materially."

"And the man you had under suspicion?"

"He's still under suspicion, but no arrest has been made. We're hoping, however, that something will break before long."

"And I suppose you still want me to remain in the city?"

"If you can arrange it—yes."

Spotswoode was silent for a time; then he said:

"I don't want to appear to shirk any responsibility—and perhaps it may seem wholly selfish for me even to suggest it but, in any event, wouldn't the testimony of the telephone operator as to the hour of Miss Odell's return and her calls for help be sufficient to establish the facts, without my corroboration?"

"I have thought of that, of course; and if it is at all possible to prepare the case for the prosecution without summoning you to appear, I assure you it will be done. At the moment, I can see no necessity of your being called as a witness. But one never knows what may turn up. If the defence hinges on a question of exact time, and the operator's testimony is questioned or disqualified for any reason, you may be required to come forward. Otherwise not."

"You're very generous, Mr. Markham. I wish there was some adequate way of thanking you." He looked up hesitatingly. "I presume you are still opposed to my visiting the apartment. . . . I know you think me unreasonable and perhaps sentimental; but the girl represented something in my life that I find very difficult to tear out. I don't expect you to understand it—I hardly understand it myself."

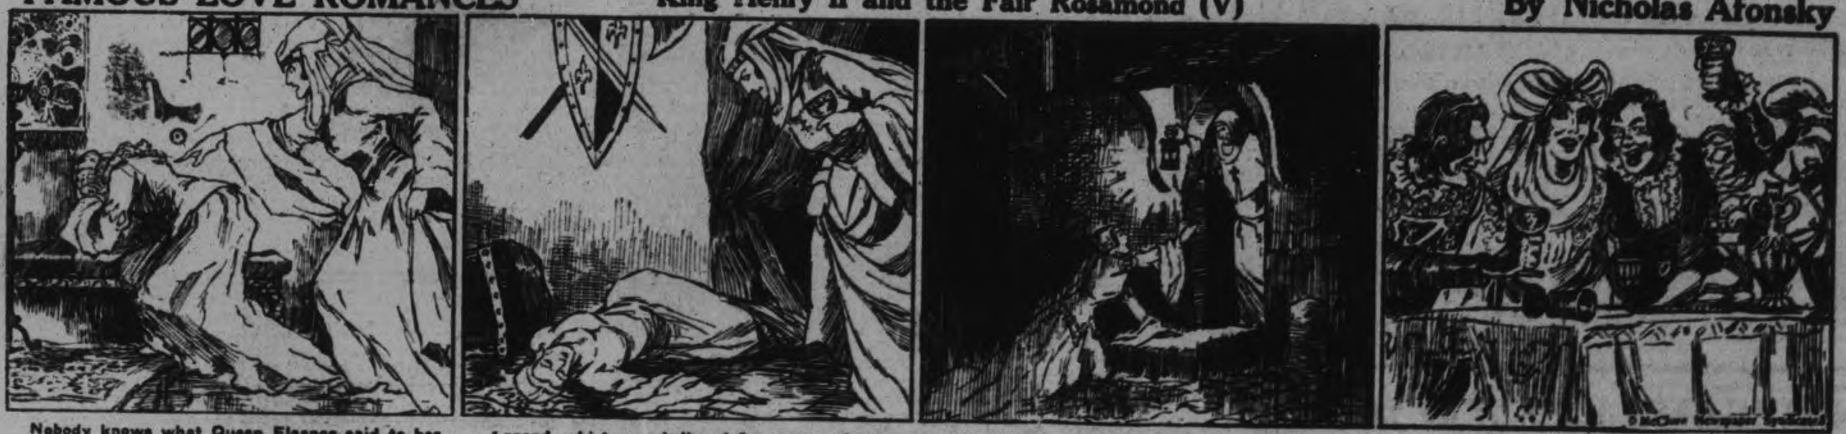
FAMOUS LOVE ROMANCES King Henry II and the Fair Rosamond (V) By Nicholas Afonsky



© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Nobody knows what Queen Eleanor said to her husband's love, the Fair Rosamond, when she finally found her in her hidden bower. But historians seem to agree that Eleanor's angry visit was the first knowledge Rosamond had that Henry was married. She was heart-broken.

Legend, which was believed for years, said that the enraged Queen returned to Rosamond's bower with a poisoned cup and forced the weeping young woman to drink it—and that so Rosamond died. But careful historians now brand this a myth that did not start until long after Rosamond's death.

The fact seems to be that Rosamond, feeling that her supposedly lovely romance with Henry had been a sin, went to the nearby convent of Godstow, and there took the veil, to pass the rest of her life in the most severe penance in what she considered a vain effort to atone for her wicked past.

And so, two years after Henry's marriage, ended his romance with the Fair Rosamond. About fifteen years later she died at Godstow. Eleanor, always fond of pleasure, was delighted shortly after Rosamond's overthrow when conditions in Aquitaine made it expedient for her to return there.

SUNLIGHT SOAP

Why Sunlight Soap
Saves Clothes
Saves Hands
Saves Time

Sunlight, being all pure soap—

Its magical lather has the utmost cleansing value, yet is harmless to fabrics. . . . Saves clothes.

The purity of Sunlight protects. It helps to keep the skin soft and smooth . . . Saves hands.

Since no soap can cleanse until it is dissolved, Sunlight is purposely made to dissolve freely so that it turns into copious suds at once . . . Saves time.

Millions of women prefer Sunlight, the soap with the $5,000 guarantee of purity.

The Dugout

(By J.R.H.)

Well, gang, two weeks ago the outlook was so black it looked like a hole in the universe. You know, I took for granted that all men who could be members of the Legion were members—and then somebody told me they weren't, not by jugful. Somebody else suggested that a little publicity might help, and The Examiner came across with the space and type, and somehow we got it juggled into shape. One of the difficulties in a job like this is that a fellow has only a couple of hands. And there hasn't been one rum issue since we started.

However, returns have been coming in fine, and there are many new members for the Legion. The concert on Monday night is free to all returned soldiers and their ladies—and there isn't a second-rater on the program. Come on up and join up—though you're welcome as Spring whether you join or not. It's a get-together for veterans.

And now I have to take a couple of minutes off to answer a scrounger who calls me a pie-eyed cakeeater, whatever that is. He didn't learn it in the war. If we didn't like a fellow over there we had real words to express our sentiments, and my correspondent can imagine some of them said to him here and now. We've got away with a lot in this column, but I'm afraid the printers couldn't get the type to harden if I included some of those.

This fellow, who signs himself illuminatingly as "Strawberry" gives me the razzberry proper. "According to your own say-so," he announces, "you were only a shell-dodger. What kind of guy are you to come out in print to conduct a dugout for real soldiers?"

Now, when you meet a cuss like that, without fear, conscience, or a sense of right and wrong, you're justified in supposing he must have been raised in Chicago. I don't like you, jammy face. You read to me like one of the Vancouver Contingent, members of which know more about the war than any First Contingent man—and that's going some! Well, I wasn't in either, for both of which, thank heavens. If I'd been in the latter, I'd likely be pushing up daisies, and if I'd been in the other I would still be hiding.

And that's that

HAVE YOU HEARD OF THE FUN THEY ARE HAVING IN THE HIGHLANDS?

Winter is lending charm to the Highlands of Ontario. Vacationists up there are writing about the thrilling sports and healthy fun they are having. In clubs and homes "Winter sports in the Highlands" is a favorite topic.

More than ever, large groups of sport loving people are wintering in the cosy comfortable lodges of the Highlands. Every day in the crisp invigorating air they take their choice of skiing, ski-joring, snowshoe tramps, tobogganing, and skating.

A descriptive folder and complete information about the lodges and reservations may be obtained from any Canadian National Railway Agent. 2d-10-17

PETERBOROUGH and the GREAT WAR AS RECORDED IN THE EXAMINER

FEBRUARY 17, 1915.

Local squadron of 8th C.M.R. has long route march to Downer's Corners.

Pte. Geo. Eggerton (8th C. M. R.) presented with smoking outfit.

E. F. G. Ward volunteers for service in the Duchess of Connaught Canadian Base Hospital in England.

B Squadron, 8th C.M.R., gave successful concert to-night.

FEBRUARY 17, 1916.

Colonel Hemming inspected 93rd Battalion.

93rd Battalion Orders by Lt.-Col. T. J. Johnston: Orderly officer to-day, Lt. R. P. Crisp.

Taken on strength: R. F. Storey, R. Evans, W. H. Adams, T. Drair, S. J. Drair, A. G. Dinnington, J. McLeod.

General.

Canadians attacked by Germans at Ypres.

He Wanted To Go—Badly.
(1916)

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Would you please insert the following few lines in your valuable paper, from one who was turned down for enlistment in the 93rd Battalion? Having been born and raised a British subject and one who at all times is willing to give up his last drop of life's blood for his King and country, I ask you the question: Am I a British subject or not? What are we fighting for to-day? Is it not for British liberty and freedom? Has not one British subject a right for a chance to fight for his King and country as another as long as he is healthy and strong and able to stand the campaign? If not, where does our liberty and freedom stand. Having applied for enlistment in the 93rd Battalion, I was turned down the second time I applied. I was only weighed and stood under the height measurement; my weight being 146 pounds (stripped); height 5 feet 5½ inches, and then handed a piece of paper as medically unfit. I ask you, British subjects, is this a proper or thorough examination? I have worked hard all my life time and have roughed it in lumber camps and out of it, besides having had the experience of a soldier's life, having learned both the old and the new drills. I know there are at present older men than myself enlisted in the 93rd Battalion, which I can prove by one of the head officers. If this is liberty, I fail to see it. Now I am willing at any time to stand an examination before any other doctors in Peterborough or out of it, and if they pronounce me as medically fit for service, after being turned down twice, I would forever disown the name of being a British subject, but rather would go and live in a country where a man would have the liberty and freedoem to fight for it when your country calls you.

One Who Was Turned Down.

FEBRUARY 17, 1917.

Pte. John S. Ralphson (93rd) reported killed in action.

Sixteen local men leave with Railway Construction Battalion.

Pte. Ralph Wasson, Warsaw, and J. Evans, North Smith, join the 247th.

247th Battalion Orders by Lt.-Col. C. H. Ackerman: Orderly officer today, Lt. T. W. Quinn.

Pte. E. A. McFarlane (C.M.R.) officially reported killed in action. He had been missing since Sanctuary Wood, June 2, 1916.

Pte. A. Cripps writes, thanking Soldiers' Wives and Mothers' Club for gifts.

FEBRUARY 17, 1918.

Wedding Bells

O'BRIEN—COLLINS

A quiet but very pretty wedding took place at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Peterborough, on Tuesday, February the 14th, at nine o'clock, when Anna Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Collins, of 262 Munroe Avenue, became the bride of James O'Brien, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel O'Brien, of Otonabee. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Guiry

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, was prettily attired in a white georgette dress, trimmed with frosted lace white felt hat, and kid shoes, and hose to match, and carrying a bouquet of butterfly roses

She was attended by her sister, Irene, who was atitred in a shell pink georgette dress trimmed with gold lace, with hat to match, black velvet shoes and grey hose, and carrying a bouquet of pink carnations The bride groom was supported by his brother, John O'Brien.

After the ceremony the bridal party motored to the home of the brides parents, where dinner was served to about fifty guests

The young couple were the recipients of a number of beautiful and costly gifts, showing the esteem in which they are held.

OBITUARY

WM. HOLDAWAY.

There died at Dunnville on Thursday, Feb. 16th, William Holdway, an old Peterborough boy, son of Mrs. Chas. Chambo, 457 Parnell street.

Mr. Holdaway was in his usual good health and was just getting ready to go to work at the Monarch Knitting Co., where he held the position of chief carder, when he was suddenly stricken, and died immediately. He formerly held the position of carder in the old Broady Woollen Mill that stood just above where the Quaker Oats Co. is now.

Mr. Holdaway has been a member of the Oddfellows for a great many years. He was in his fifty-eighth year. He leaves to mourn his loss, a sorrowing wife and two daughters, Gene and Marian; also his mother, Mrs. Chas. Chambo, and four sisters, Mrs. George Deline, Watertown; Mrs. Albert Hamilton, Mrs. George Panter, New York; and Mrs. Chas. Kellman; also three brothers, Edward Holdaway, of Watertown, N.Y.; Frank Chambo, of Peterborough; and George Chambo, of Jacksonville Florida.

Interment will take place at Chatham on Saturday.

Thirteen Jinx Avoids Firemen

The "13" jinx got his figures slightly twisted as far as the Peterborough Fire Department is concerned. There were no alarms from box 13, which is located at Lock and Gladstone, during all of last year, but box 31, at Park and Sherbrooke, led all the boxes with four calls.

DRINK HOT WATER TO END INDIGESTION

INSTANT RELIEF

Thousands of unfortunate people suffer almost daily from stomach acidity, gas, sourness and indigestion after eating. If they would start the agreeable practice of taking a glass of hot water containing a teaspoonful or four tablets of pure Bisurated Magnesia, they would soon find their stomach so strengthened and improved that they could eat the richest and most satisfying meals without the least symptom of indigestion.

Nearly all digestive troubles are caused by an excess of acid and an insufficient blood supply in the stomach. Food ferments and sours before digestion can take place. A glass of hot water draws the blood to the stomach and Bisurated Magnesia neutralizes the stomach acids and keeps the stomach strong, sweet and healthy and promotes normal painless digestion. Bisurated Magnesia is not a laxative, is harmless, easy and pleasant to take, and can be obtained from any well stocked druggist in either powder or tablet form. Try this today and enjoy your meals in peace.

MARRIED

HEFFERNAN—HARTNETT.—At Our Lady of Lourdes Church, Buffalo, N.Y., on Thursday, the 16th February, 1928, at 11.30 a.m., J. Frank Heffernan, son of the late Patrick Heffernan and Mrs. Heffernan, of 377 Reid Street, Peterborough, Canada, to Ann Hartnett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hartnett, of Warren, Pa., by Rev. Father Timothy J. Ring. The witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. John Owens, of Buffalo, N.Y.

IN MEMORIAM

ELLIS.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Mellin Ellis, who passed away February 17, 1924.

Just four years ago to-day
God called our mother home;
She left us all to mourn her loss,
With happy smiles and tender care
To always be remembered dearly.

Ever remembered by her daughters, Mrs. Edward Davey and Miss Margaret Ellis.

IN MEMORIAM

AGNEW.—In loving memory of our dear friend, Grace Margaret Agnew, who departed from this life, February 17th, 1927.

One year has passed since Grace dear died.
Her smiles, we see them yet,
Her tender love for everyone,
We never shall forget.
But some day we hope to meet her,
Some day, we know not when,
To clasp her hand in a better land;
Never to part again.

Dorothy and Albert.

IN MEMORIAM.

AGNEW. — In loving memory of our dear daughter, Grace, who passed away February 17, 1927:

Just one year ago to-day, God called our darling away,
She bade no one a last farewell, she said Good-bye to none;
The heavenly gates were open wide, a loving voice said, Come
Her loving voice is silent, her true heart ceased to beat.
We miss her well known footsteps, and the face we used to greet,
We often think of the days gone by when we were altogether;
A shadow o'er our lives is cast—a loved one gone forever,
February brings back sad memories to those who loved her best
Peaceful be your home dear Grace, it is sweet to breathe your name,
We loved you very much in life, in death we do the same;
As we loved you so we miss you, in our memory you are near—
Loved, remembered, longed-for always bringing many a silent tear.

—Sadly missed by mother, father, sister and brothers.

ADAMSON. — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. H. T. Adamson, who died Feb. 16, 1924:

February brings sad memories
Of a loved one laid to rest,
Who will always be remembered
By those who loved her best.

Memories drift to scenes long past,
Time rolls on but memories last;
Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Love's remembrance outlasts all

The flowers we placed upon her grave,
May wither and decay,
But the love that lies within our hearts
Will never fade away.

Conferences Are Brought to Successful Close

W. J. S. STILES DELIVERS FINAL ADDRESS AT CLOSING SESSION OF BOY SCOUT CONFERENCE

Frank Taylor, of Local Association, Presented With Gilwell Badge.

GAMES DEMONSTRATED.

Each Scout Given Handbag Filled With Gifts at Close of Meeting.

The Conference of Boy Scout leaders was brought to a successful conclusion yesterday afternoon when Dominion Camp Chief W. J. S. Stiles delivered the final address and presented to Frank Taylor, secretary-treasurer of the local scouting association the Gillwell Badge. In presenting the badge he told the cadet that the badge does not denote that he was any better than any other scout, but that he has more responsibility. "I hope you will be a leader in this great scouting movement and that you will make good in life," said Dr. Stiles.

"All good things must come to an end. I have enjoyed every moment of this conference and as I look around the room I see many things. There has been no smoking, I see leaders whose aim is to help the boy along. Scouts, try to live and get along with the other man; he may not be too friendly, but be kind, and in closing let me wish you good-bye and good luck and may all you fellows play the game of scouting well."

Demonstrations of Games.

During the afternoon scouts from the Peterborough troops under the leadership of Field Secretary A. E. Paddon and Scoutmasters Frank Taylor and Clarence Corbett, gave demonstrations of games, many of which were new to the visitors. The All Saints' Cubs, under the direction of Patrol Leader Lloyd George of Toronto, gave a similar demonstration for the Cub representatives.

As each visitor left last night he was presented with a hand bag on which was printed the compliments of the Chamber of Commerce. In the bag was a small flag, a staff with stand, donated by J. J. Turner and Sons, a Trent Waterway guide book, the pamphlet entitled "Important Facts Concerning Factory Location in Peterborough, a small paddle donated by the Peterborough Canoe Company, two boxes of crayons given by the Canada Crayon Company of this city, a Brinton Carpet blotter welcoming the scouts to this city, a box of puffed rice from the Quaker Oats, a Peterborough Business College blotter, a ruler donated by the Canadian Departmental Stores, a wax paper box from the Canadian Sealright Company, note books from the G. Walter Green Company and the Canadian General Electric, a photo of Hunter street bridge given by the Roy Studio, a Rose Brand Bacon blotter from the C.P.C., medal and strap from the B. F. Ackerman Company, a little token from the De Laval, from the Nashua Paper Company a roll of tieing paper, and from the Muffet Company of Canada a box with one muffet in it.

NEW SUB OFFICE OPENED IN SOUTH

W. S. Bogue Will Give Complete Postal Service at Drug Store.

The opening of the fifth sub-post office in Peterborough has been announced by Postmaster Charles Lacheur. At the drug store of W. C. Bogue 338 George street south, this new branch is already giving real service, Mr. Bogue having been appointed sub-postmaster.

This office for the present will have a complete post office service, with the exception of issuing money orders and postal notes. However it is the intention of Postmaster Lacheur to give this service when when business warrants it.

The other four sub-offices have served their purpose beyond expectation. No. 1 is situated at W. J. Byers' store at Byersville; No. 2 is to be found at the J. R. Thornton drug store, 326 Park street; No 3, is at E. F. Mason's Groceteria, at the corner of Antrim and George street, and No. 4 serves East City, being located at V. J. Sullivan's drug store, 60 Hunter street East.

Peterboro people have taken advantage of the first four to such an extent that the fifth office has been deemed advisable.

Now You Tell One

Establish New Police Detachments In West

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 18 (Canadian Press). — Establishment of several new provincial police detachments in Northern Manitoba, as the result of developments in that area, and the augmentation of the international border patrol, were announced yesterday by Lt.-Col. H. J. Martin, Commissioner of the force.

New posts will be established at Mile 224, Hudson Bay Railway; Fort Churchill, the terminus of the Hudson Bay Railway; the Flin Flon mining area; and at the head of Lake Winnipeg. These will be in operation late in the Spring or early in the summer.

BOTH MEMBERS ON COMMITTEES

Mr. Bradburn Is On Seven and Mr. Anderson On Four.

ONLY ONE CHANGE.

In the apportionment of seats on the various committees of the Onlous committees of the Ontario Legislative Assembly, generous representation has been accorded to Peterborough and district. Both local members, W. H. Bradburn and W. A. Anderson are included in the personnel of the Committees on Private Bills, Municipal Law Agriculture and Colonization, and Fish and Game, and Mr. Bradburn is also on the Committees on Railways, Public Accounts and the Committees dealing with Election and Privilege. Mr. Bradburn was not on the Fish and Game Committee in 1927, otherwise the list for this year is similar to that of last year, in so far as the local members are concerned.

Mr. Bradburn was present at the very lively session yesterday of the Committee on Election and Privilege, which decided after a heated debate to summons before it F. N. Scott, returning officer in South Ottawa, and his clerk, D. A. Herberts, as witnesses to aid in clearing up the mystery of the finding of nineteen ballots on the streets of the Capital city almost a year after the Provincial election of 1926. This comcommittee will meet again next Tuesday morning.

MANY WRECKS OCCUR FRIDAY

Death Toll, First Set at 15, May Be Much Higher.

SHIPS RUN AGROUND.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18. Canadian Press. — The death toll from an unlucky Friday at sea in which six ships figured seems to-day to have been confined to 15 men, but may be greatly increased following the accident to the Ferry Peralta in San Francisco bay last night, when an unknown number of passengers were washed overboard.

After 26 hours on the open sea in lifeboats, 21 members of the crew of the American tanker Chuky were were landed on the Japanese coast. Their captain and 14 comrades perished when the tanker blew up.

The huge liner Leviathan when entering Southampton, struck on a sandbank, and docked, apparently undamaged, four hours later.

The British tanker Varand grounded near Liverpool The captain and crew of 40 were rescued, but the ship remained a fire hazard.

Thirty eight members of the crew of the British freighter Shonga were rescued to-day after clinging through out the night to the forepart of the ship, which broke in two, near Ymuiden, Holland.

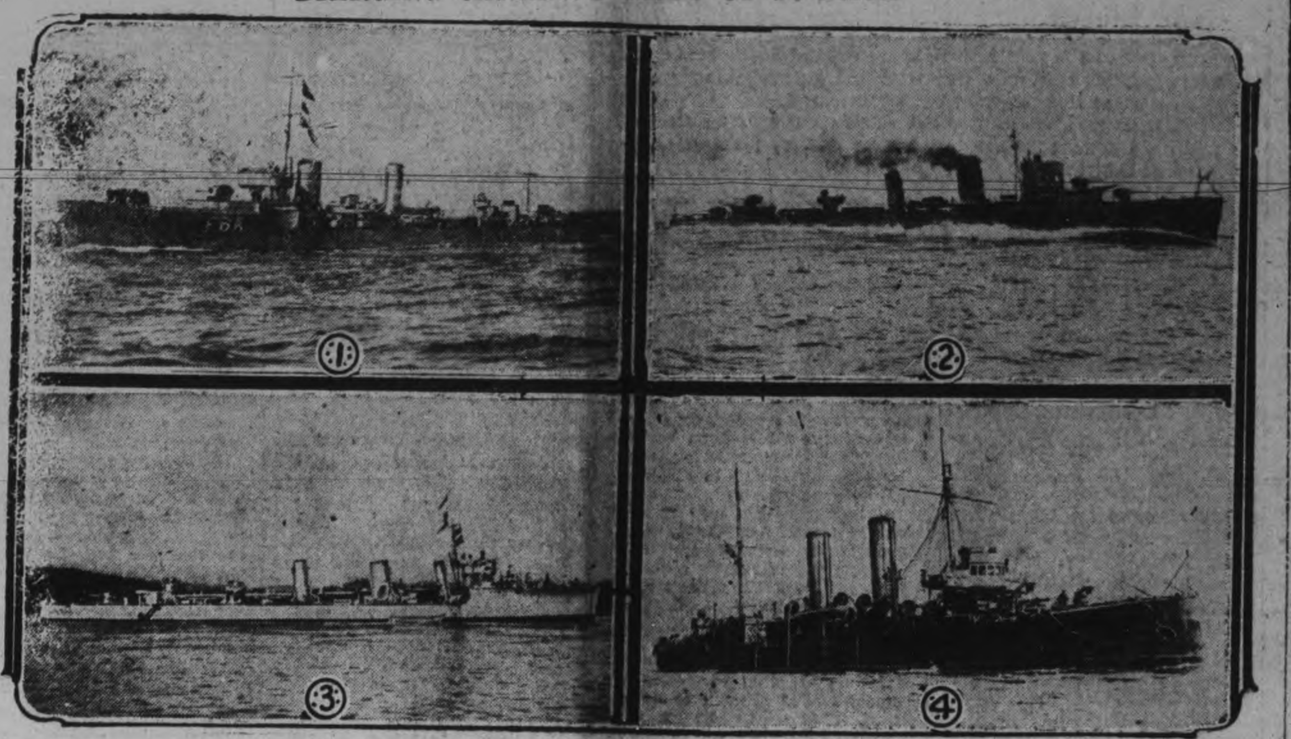
After a series of mishaps in which three men were injured the British taker Lucigen made Glasgow in tow.

Scout Finds Money; Gives It To Officer

"A Scout's honor is to be trusted"—and when one of the visiting Scouts found a bill of small denomination on the street he turned it over to W. H. Dickin, 1st vice-president of the local Boy Scout Association.

The loser is requested to apply to Mr. Dickin.

BRINGING CANADA'S NAVY UP-TO-DATE



With obsolete vessels being scrapped and replaced, Canada's navy is being brought up to date. The first picture in the above layout shows H.M.S. Vancouver, one of a pair of destroyers which are being loaned to Canada for the time, between the scrapping of old vessels and the building of new ones. The other destroyer of the pair is the Champlain. They were formerly the Toreador and the Torbay. Picture No. 2 shows the new British destroyer, Amazon, a type which is being suggested as possible for Canada's replacements. A destroyer of this type takes 21 months to build, and is of more complicated construction than the battleships. No. 3 shows a Canadian destroyer, which is now meeting the ungrateful fate of age H.M.C.S. Patrician, called after Canada's royal princess, this gallant vessel has outlived its usefulness and is now being stripped of guns and equipment to be sold as junk. A similar fate has overtaken the destroyer Patriot. No. 4 shows the light cruiser, Rainbow, Canada's first naval unit.

FIREMEN WANT SIX DAY WEEK

Secretary of Union Threatens Legal Action If Law Not Complied With.

LETTER TO MAYOR.

Legal action to compel the City Council to give the firemen one day off in seven, is threatened in the following letter from the Provincial Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters. The secretary of the Firemen's Union sent a copy of the communication to The Examiner for publication:

"His Worship Mayor R. Denne,
Peterborough, Ont.:

"Dear Sir: As you are undoubtedly aware, the Ontario Legislature last year passed a Consolidation of the Two Platoon and Hours of Labour Acts for Firemen. This was finally passed and went into effect when it was given Royal assent last spring.

"We have been lenient with the municipality of Peterborough and did not try to force your hand during last year as we were aware of your tax rate being struck, etc., and did not wish to cause you an overdraft. In this I think that you will agree with me that we have been most fair We have been anticipating right up to now that the city council would see to it that the law was lived up to this year but upon my investigating I find that the council have not made any preparation as yet to put this six day week for firemen into effect.

"I am here attaching a printed copy of the act for your reference, and you will note all sections of it.

"In bringing this matter to your attention officially we do so that you and your colleagues will have an opportunity of obeying the law without our having to take the drastic measure of bringing the municipality of Peterborough to court.

"I do not wish you to take this communication as a threat, as such is not the intention, as the purpose of this communication is to give you a final opportunity of obeying the law and not having your city pointed to as one that will not obey the law. It may be that the opinion of your council has been swayed due to a communication sent out from the City of Kingston asking if this act were in force in your city If this is the case allow me to point out for your information that for a time the city of Kingston intended to not obey the act; but when they found that we intended taking court action, and then getting a true and legal interpretation, they saw that the best wisdom was to obey the law, and I am pleased to report that the Fire Department of Kingston has been working under the six day week for some three months now.

"I am not fully conversant with the next date of your council meeting, but so as to be fair with you and the council we will stand to until Feb. 29, 1928, and if in that time the city council of Peterborough have not seen fit to take the necessary action to put the law and this act into operation then we will be forced by your inactivity to resort to the courts to have this act put into force."

The Act.

"Where in the city, town or village there is a permanent fire department in the same, the officers and employees of which are regularly employed and paid by the municipal corporation, every officer and employee of such department shall be off duty for one full day of twenty-four hours in every calendar week, but where what is known as "double platoon system" is in operation in any such fire department the twenty-four hours' release at the change of platoons shall not be regarded as a day off duty for the purposes of this section. 1920, c. 84 s. 2."

OTTAWA, Ont., February 18 (Canadian Press). — Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, said to-day that he had not been advised that a delegation to intercede on behalf of Doris McDonald was coming to see him. No appointment has been arranged by such a delegation.

The case of Doris McDonald, who with her husband, George McDonald, was sentenced to hang on March 23 for the murder of Adelard Bouchard, a taxi driver, will probably not be reviewed by the Cabinet for some weeks. The Minister of Justice has received some petitions on behalf of thet condemned woman, and the mother of George McDonald waited upon him some days ago. Officers of the Department of Justice are reviewing the case.

MANY BUYERS VISIT MARKET

BUTTER 40 CENTS.

There was a good crowd of patrons at the farmers' market this morning and buying was fairly brisk. Eggs sold at 40 to 45 cents a dozen and butter at 40 cents a pound. The price of chickens had a wide range, those at one end selling at 35 cents a pound, while nice birds could be purchased at the other end of the hall for 25 cents a pound. Hens were quoted at 28 cents a pound.

On the open section, potatoes were priced at $1.50 a bag, with red onions at $2.25 a bag and turnps at 75 cents. Mutton was 15 cents a pound and pork 17 and 19 cents. Spy apples were 65 cents a peck, Greenings and Baldwins 50 cents. Big White Wyandotte fowl were selling at $2 apiece and Barred Rocks at $3. Over on the side, a couple of farm horses placidly consumed the hay on the wagon directly in front of them, apparently intended for the noon-day meal of the beasts hitched to it.

To-day In Parliament.

OTTAWA, February 18 (Canadian Press). — On Monday the House of Coons will begin the debate on the Budget. Yesterday Trade Mark and Design Act amendments were given third reading in the Commons. Estimates totalling $1,935,000 for the Department of Agriculture were passed. Other items were allowed to stand. A vote of $84,500 for public buildings in Nova Scotia was passed.

Educated Spinster Misses Right Man

NEW YORK, February 18 (Canadian Press). — Failure to meet the right man is the chief cause of spinsterhood among educated women, says Dr. Katharine Bement Davis, for ten years secretary of the New York Bureau of Social Hygiene. She has just completed a survey of the situation.

COMEDY PRESENTED AT SACRED HEART

Canuck Club Gives Fine Entertainment — Much Enjoyed.

A very enjoyable entertainment, under the auspices of the Canuck Club, was given in the basement of the Sacred Heart Church on Thursday evening, when a large and appreciative audience witnessed the presentation of the three-act comedy, entitled "Higbee of Harvard." The play was splendidly presented by a cast which included the following members: Will J. Collins as Watson A. Higbee, John Cairns as Hon. V. D. Watson, Joseph Collins as Lorin Higbee, Herbert Masterson as Theodore Dalrymple, Roy Bacon as Higgins, the Butler, Miss Margaret McCarthy as Nancy Withrow, Genevieve Meagher as Madge Cumimngs, Miss Minnie Allen as Mrs. Barlow, and Miss Fanny Collins as Mrs. Malvina Middigrew.

An exceptionally pretty fan drill done in graceful fashion was presented by young ladies of St. Joseph's School Section: Misses Madeline O'Toole, Marcella O'Toole, Mary O'Toole, Gertrude Heffernan, Loretta Fitzgerald, Mamie Fitzgerald, Anna Fitzgerald, and May Fitzgerald.

The musical program included a quartette that rendered some lovely music in very tuneful voice, and was comprised of Misses Margaret McCarthy and Genevieve Meagher, Messrs. John Collins and Gerald Collins. Other attractive numbers were a song duet, "Sweet and Low" and "Aileen Alannah," by Miss Minnie Allen and Alex. Kirkcaldy, and a solo by Mr. Kirkcaldy, "Bonnie Dundee," followed by "Loch Lomond." Accompanists for the evening were Mrs. George Carey and Harold Armstrong. Mr. Kirkcaldy was stage manager, Mrs. T. Bacon treasurer, and Leo Jones acted as usher.

O. M. L. MEETS NEXT MONDAY

Annual Meeting Will Be Held in King Edward Hotel.

LOCAL MEMBERS ATTEND.

The twenty-first annual general meeting of the members of the Ontario Motor League with which the Peterborough Automobile Club is affiliated, will be held in the Yellow Room of the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, on Monday, February 20, commencing at 10.00 a.m. At 12.30 the luncheon will be held in the Pompeian Room where the afternoon session will also he held. In the evening, commencing at 6.30 the banquet and entertainment will take place.

At this banquet, as has been the case in past years, the Peterborough club will be represented; President James Juby and Director Jack L. Gillespie being the local delegates. For the convenience of other Peterborough motorists who may attend, President Juby has secured a room in the King Edward, registered under his name, and it is his hope that many local people will attend the meeting which will be, as in former years, both instructive and entertaining. Several motorists have already signified their intention of going from Peterborough and other contemplating making the trip are requested to get in touch with Secretary Frank Stinson, phone 1360.

ST. PAUL'S CHOIR IS BANQUETTED

Ladies' Aid of Church Serves Annual Dinner To Singers.

PROGRAM FOLLOWS.

On Thursday last, the Ladies' Aid of St. Paul's church gave what has become an annual banquet to the choir and their friends. About [illegible] guests partook of this hospitality. This annual event has become very keenly anticipated and appreciated by the members of the choir for they have learned that the Ladies' Aid hospitality is always of the superlative degree in all details.

As soon as the dinner was over, and a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the Ladies' Aid, and responded to by Mrs. White, the tables were cleared away and the balance of the evening was devoted to a variety of entertainment calculated to suit the most fastidious. Some of the numbers were of a unique and original character.

Horace Hope had charge of the programme and was master of ceremonies. To his credit it must be said his duties were performed in a manner to reflect great credit on himself and satisfaction to the guests. The consensus of opinions was that it was one of the best, if not the best, of the many social evenings the choir have been privileged to enjoy.

DINNER MARKS FINAL SESSION OF FIFTH ANNUAL CONFERENCE OF THE SUN LIFE ASSOCIATION

Field Force in Central Ontario Division Hold Happy Gathering.

MUSICAL PROGRAM.

Vote of Thanks Tendered Dr. C. J. Rockwell By Life Underwriters' Association.

The fifth annual conference of the Sun Life Association's field force in the Central Ontario division was brought to a pleasant close with a dinner at the Empress Hotel last night The conference coincided with the Peterborough Life Underwriters' Association educational congress, thereby affording the field staff the additional opportunity of attending the three-day sessions at the Public Library, and of hearing the inspirational counsel of Dr. C. J. Rockwell.

J. F. H. Wallace, manager of the Central Ontario Division of the Sun Life, who presided last night, described the dinner as a family party in view of the custom of including among the guests the ladies of the Peterborough staff and also the wives of the agents. The ladies improved the occasion with dainty table decorations in the Valentine color and effect, and the family spirit was accentuated by the entertainment contributed by members of the staff. The program was given by Miss Jean Tully, whose humorous recitations were charmingly presented; Mrs. Alex Ross of Oshawa and her brother, Gordon Evans, of Peterborough, in several piano and saxaphone duets; Miss Irene Howarth, vocal solo, and Miss Chenhall as accompanist.

The special feature of the evening was an address by George H. Harris of Montreal, the Sun Life Association's director of field services, who analyzed and explained salient facts in the company's annual statement published a few days ago. Mr. Harris dealt with the highly satisfactory figures with the purpose of emphasizing their import and importance as assets for the agents in their present year's work. He stated that T. B. Macauley, in his presidential address, declared his belief that no other life insurance president ever had the privilege of presenting so splendid a report in the whole history of life insurance. Two years ago the Sun Life celebrated in Montreal the attainment of one billion dollars of insurance in force. To-day that amount is substantially more than one and a half billions. In a similar manner Mr. Harris set out facts as to profits, investments and other significant details illustrating the progress of the Sun Life Company.

Vote of Thanks

"We have been sitting for three days at the feet of a great master," was Isaac P. McNab's tribute in moving the ardent vote of thanks which the Peterborough Life Underwriters' Association tendered to Dr. Charles J. Rockwell at the conclusion of his eighth and final lecture Friday afternoon. The motion was seconded by Mr. William Boulton, warmly endorsed by the assembly and conveyed by Mr. Neil Tobin, chairman of the closing session.

"This has been a wonderful congress," said Mr. MacNab, "and it would be remiss on our part if we did not express our appreciation of the great treat we have been having. When we think of his wealth of experience, his knowledge of human nature which he applies so effectively in his illustrations, the clearness with which he unfolds complex problems, his spontaneous sallies of humor, the simplicity of his language, the vision he holds up to us of the possibilities of our profession, his readiness to impart to us all the things he explained for our benefit, thinking of all we have gained, we are deeply appreciative of Dr. Rockwell's ability and his magnanimity. We feel this congress should be made an annual affair. You have so won our hearts, Doctor, that we are sorry to see you go. However, our consolation may be expressed in those old words, "Will ye no come back again?"

Mr. Boulton said that Dr. Rockwell had crammed into the three-day course almost the whole second year university Arts course in psychology. "And he never used the word psychology once," was Mr. Boulton's apparent compliment. "Psyche and logos—soul and discourse. He interpreted to us the soul of life insurance and salesmanship."

Mr. Boulton proposed that the vote of thanks include George Harris, George Parker, Art Allin, G. F. Liddle and The Examiner.

"Peterborough is fortunate in being a one-paper town," said Mr. Boulton. "The Examiner is non-political, avoids suggestiveness and the seamy side of things, but rather reports everything that conduces to the higher side, and it never misses a chance to say a word about the good work of life insurance."

Saturday Workday For Local Firemen

Saturday is the fireman's busiest day of the week, closely followed by Thursday. The seventh day is away over its quota, having one-fifth of the alarms, or 87 out of 438, while Thursday had 79. Monday, being washday, with plenty of water around, is the low day. There were 48 Monday alarms during the year 1927, or one-ninth of the total. Tuesday comes closest to the average, having 61 alarms.

CONTRACTS LET FOR REBUILDING

T. Ephgrave To Repair Fire Damage at Lock Works.

BREWERY TO BE ALTERED.

T. E. Ephgrave has received the contract to rebuild the portion of the Lockworks that was destroyed by fire on Sunday, January 29. The building that is to be repaired is 131 feet long and 34 feet wide, on a concrete foundation and with brick walls. The new interior will be composed of three stories with a felt and gravel roof.

A steam heating system will be installed and the repairs are supposed to be completed by May 1st. The estimated cost is $14,000.

R. Paquette has received the contract to repair the old Calcutt Brewery on Burnham street for the Peterborough Brewing Company. The repairs will be completed by April 1. One floor is being taken out to leave a higher ceiling and new concrete floors are being laid. The estimated cost is $3,000.

VETERAN MINISTER OBSERVES BIRTHDAY

Rev. W. Buckler Has Been Church Worker in Canada Since [illegible].

One of the veteran ministers of Methodism in this district is the Rev. William Henry Buckler, [illegible] superannuated, who is celebrating his 72nd birthday to-day. Mr. Buckler is a native of Cardiff, South Wales, but has lived in Canada since 1881, coming here as a young man to engage in missionary work in Manitoba, then practically unsettled and under the jurisdiction of the Toronto Conference.

After five years in that field as a lay worker, Mr. Buckler came east and studied in Victoria College. He was ordained in Peterborough in June, 1887, and from that time until his retirement, some five years ago, he held many charges in this part of Ontario. Principal among the circuits under his charge were Lakefield, Bancroft, Demorestville, Yarker, Plainfield, Hilton, Scugog and Mountain Grove.

Some of the fields in which Mr. Buckler labored in this conference were nearly as wild as his mission territory in the west. He recalls riding twenty-five miles on horseback, in the spring of the year, when neither buggy nor cutter could negotiate the journey, to solemnize a wedding in his Bancroft charge. As he had two missions under his care it was necessary for him, every few weeks, to ride fifty miles on Saturday in order to arrive at one of his churches for services on Sunday. During his three years in Bancroft, Mr. Buckler officiated at no less than 71 marriages.

Still brisk and active, Mr. Buckler is spending his life quietly at 221 Princess Street, maintaining an association with St. James' United Church and looking forward to 1931, when he will have been in the ministry for fifty years.

In the Legislature.

TORONTO, February 18 (Canadian Press). — Yesterday the report of the Committee on Privileges and Elections was presented. A. Belanger, Russell, made clear his reference to immigrants from London infected with Communism. The House in committee passed a number of Government Bills, including amendments to the Succession Duty Act and the Mothers' Allowance Act. The first reading was given to two Acts to amend the Municipal Act and an Act respecting the City of Windsor.

FARMERS WANT ELECTRIC LINE

32 HAVE SIGNED UP.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 18.—When the Campbellford Board of Water and Light Commissioners met yesterday afternoon in regular session, they were waited upon by a delegation from the farmers of Seymour East, who presented a request for power. It was their intention to run a line south along the Stirling road and along the English Line to approximately Hoard's Station. From there they think it possible to cross to another concession and bring the power line almost back to the town limits. Their business with the commission was mainly to ask for rates and condition under which a contract would be drawn up.

It is understood that already thirty-two farmers have signed their names as desirous of obtaining power, and it is believed that there will be little difficulty experienced in adding to the list. It is understood that the rates quoted were acceptable to the deputation and the necessary steps to have the line installed will be taken as soon as possible. As well as being a good advertisement for the exceptionally cheap power which Campbellofrd has at its disposal, the action also points to the progressiveness of the farmers in the district.

FATHER MEETS TRAGIC DEATH

Thomas Kiecel Found Murdered in Barn Loft At His Home.

SON ASSASSINATED.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Feb. 18.—Thomas Kiecal 74, father of Stanley Ketchell, whose sensational career in the prize ring was cut short by an assassin, has met a similar fate.

Kiecal's body with the throat slashed, was found in a barn loft at the family home Thursday. John Kiecal, a son, in whose possession a blood stained knife was found, was held.

The killing occurred 17 years after Stanley was shot to death at Conway, Mo., is believed by the authorities to have had its motive in a dispute over land left by the former middleweight champion, which since has multiplied in value. Walter Diplay, who shot Stanley Ketchel to death in 1910 is now serving a life sentence.

Streator Jury Discharged As Deadlocked; Court To Demand Second Trial For Hill

OTTAWA, Ills., February 18 (Canadian Press). — Sixty-nine hours after it began deliberating the fate of Harry Hill, Streator youth whose trial for matricide required eight weeks, the jury was discharged yesterday as hopelessly deadlocked.

Three jurors remained adamant to the last, holding out for acquittal against the determination of the other nine to send the youth to prison for fourteen years.

The State's chain of circumstantial evidence had not been strong enough to convince them beyond peradventure that the 22-year-old youth shot his mother and buried her body in the basement of their Streator home.

For the first 24 hours after the case went to the jury last Tuesday afternoon, the vote stood 7 to 5 in favor of convicting the young man and sending him to prison for life, the jurors revealed.

Then a compromise was sought and the tally veered to nine to three for fourteen years' punishment. There it hung until the jury was discharged.

Despite the cost to the La Salle County taxpayers, the thought in the mind of Judge Joe A. Davis which impelled him to keep the jurors together, even after they twice had reported inability to agree, a second trial for young Hill will be sought.

R. O. Hansen, State's Attorney, said he would go ino Court to-day and demand the new trial to start probably the middle of March or early in April.

TWO CAPTAINS ARE CAUTIONED

Masters of Altadoc and Martian and Mates Get Back Certificates.

OTTAWA, February 18 (Canadian Press).—Judgments in the stranding and loss of the steamer Altadoc and the stranding of the Martian were delivered yesterday by Captain L. A. Demers, Dominion wreck commissioner. Both these ships were in the great storm which hit Lake Superior on December 3, 8 and 9. The Altadoc was wrecked on Keeweenaw Point, Lake Superior, December 8, and the Martian was stranded on Hare Island, Thunder Bay, the following day.

In connection with the Altadoc, the report says that Captain R. D. Simpson made an error in judgment in not using the cables of the anchors to keep the head of the boat in the wind and thus letting her hit stern first.

"That Master R. D. Simpson showed he was not as resourceful as the situation demanded and exacted, but failure in adopting the method mentioned in the report is not considered a culpable action and may be classed as an error of judgment which the court declares to be such. He is therefore cautioned for the future. His certificate as well as that of the first mate is hereby returned," the judgment says.

In the case of the Martian, the report compliments Master Robert McIntyre on the straightforward way he gave evidence, but held that when he heard the Trowbridge Island foghorn, greater efforts should have been made to ascertain definitely the position of the ship. To the defence that the deep sounding machine was out of order on account of ice on it, the report holds that such ice was not from flying spray but from a leak in the tank above. While the master may have erred in not taking soundings, the commissioner found it was not in a culpable manner. The judgment concludes: "His certificate is therefore returned to him, with the admonition that the instruments supplied for the navigation of the ship must and should be utilized, from and by which he will obtain knowledge of his whereabouts, which will prove to his advantage and that of his owners."

Newspaper Shares Popular On Market

LONDON, Feb. 18 (Canadian Press Cable).Newspaper shares have been popular on the stock market for a long time and Lord Rothermere's ambitious new scheme of establishing evening newspapers in a number of centres outside of London was at first regarded with favor, but some nervousness developed later with regard to it. The prospectus for the debentures, amounting to £3,000,000, with a possible increase later to £5,000,000, will appear today. The debentures have the guarantee of the company owning The Daily Mail, Daily Mirror, Daily Sketch, London Evening News, etc., of which Lord Rothermere is the chief proprietor.

Oil Tanker Survivors In Serious Condition

TOKYO, Feb. 18.—(Associated Press.)—Most of the survivors of the American oil tanker, which exploded and sank while on route from San Pedro, Calif., to Yokohama, are in a serious condition, according to reports from Misaki, where the Japanese fishing trawler Matsuch landed 21 members of the crew yesterday.

According to the bare reports of the accident obtainable now, the tanker exploded and sank Wednesday morning approximately a hundred miles southeast of Cape Koshima. Captain C. Hermos and 15 of the crew were killed outright in the explosion, it was stated, remaining members of the crew saving themselves by clinging to driftwood until picked up by the trawler, Thursday morning.

The crew was composed of British, American and Chinese sailors. Both the British and American consuls have started investigations of the blast, and the Yokoshuka Naval Station has sent boats to seek any of the bodies which may have remained afloat.

WORK-WORN PEOPLE

Find New Health By Enriching Their Blood With Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

If you feel run down, it means that your blood is thin and watery, that your vitality is low. Your feet are easily chilled. You do not sleep well and you are tired when you rise in the morning. You find no pleasure in your meals and are listless and dispirited at your work. You have no energy to enjoy yourself.

Thousands of men are run down by anxieties of work. Thousands of women are broken down by their household toil, with tired limbs and aching backs; thousands of girls are pale, listless and without attraction. It all means the same thing — thin and watery blood, vitality run down, anaemia, poor appetite, palpitating heart, short breath.

Do not submit to this. Get new blood and with it new vitality. There is no difficulty in doing this. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up and enrich the blood, which brings with it new health and vitality. The man, woman or girl who takes Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is never run down. Their friends notice how energetic they are, what a fine appetite they have and how much they enjoy life.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PROSPECTUS SENT TO EACH PROSPECT

Questions Regarding Chamber of Commerce Answered in Detail.

A prospectus answering the following questions concerning the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce has been mailed to the entire membership and prospect list the past few days.

The queries answered give a definition of what a Chamber of Commerce really is and the objectives sought, closing with these words:

"The purpose is to mobilize the united sentiment of the community and translate it into a vital force for the protection and promotion of business."

"What has it done?" is shown by 24 specific items of accomplishment covering a wide range of projects in the fields of industry, transportation, tourist, legislation, recreation, commerce and research, as well as the grist of daily grind by the staff that covers intangibles that cannot be expressed in a report.

The program for the future is based wholly on the immediate needs of the community as expressed through the reports of the executive council and the secretary. These include a community inventory to be made immediately following the present campaign, development of an agricultural program, seeking new industries methodically, cultivation of the trading area by proper publicity, conduct of membership meeting. Working for increased visitor and tourist numbers, and the practical using of the facts shown by the inventory.

To do these things efficiently and intelligently will require about $12,500, according to the estimates of the executive council. This money is to be secured through membership at $15.00 per annum and from additional funds invested by the larger firms, corporations and organizations to an Activities Fund, according to their interest and ability to invest. In addition to membership, as many as possible will be urged to add a nominal sum for the Activities Fund.

In order that new members will have an opportunity to express themselves as to the executive council and program of work for 1928, the annual election was postponed until the first week in March.

While here, Mr. McKeen is working out plans for the community inventory and a series of programs for membership meetings during the year.

TANK STEAMER RUNS AGROUND

FRIDAY HOODOO.

LIVERPOOL, Eng., Feb. 18 (A.P).—The British tank steamer Varand, pursued by what the crew called "a Friday hoodoo," is aground at the mouth of the Mersey She is in danger of breaking up and sending her 8,000 tons of benzine to menace Liverpool and Liverpool shipping with a fire peril similar to that caused by the Anglo-American tanker Seminole, which grounded on Pluckington in the Mersey on December 13 and later broke her back, releasing her cargo of gasoline.

The captain and crew of the unlucky vessel, numbering 41, were taken off yesterday in a bold rescue by a New Brighton lifeboat.

The Varand, which arrived Thursday after an adventurous maiden voyage from New Orleans, broke away from the tugs Thursday night while being towed to Manchester and, driven helplessly before the gale struck the bar at the river's mouth. Strenuous efforts were being made last night to refloat the tanker, but shipping men feared that she would break in half.

Friday Hoodoo

It was Friday, January 13, when the Varand left Norfolk after coaling. The next Friday she was hammered by what the ship's officers called the worst storm in fifty years. Eight hundred miles off the Irish coast, the vessel struck a submerged object and lost her rudder, propellor and part of her stern post, and was thus rendered helpless.

Each succeeding Friday the officers declared their ship had barely escaped complete disaster in the tempestuous seas. The three tugs, which had labored to bring the tanker in were themselves severely knocked about, and yesterday the crew was forced to abandon the ship, taking the ship's dog, Bonzo, along.

Stuck on a Sandbank.

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Feb. 18 — Commodore Harold A. Cunningham piloted the United States liner Leviathan safely through many a minefield and submarine zone during the world war when he was the navigating officer of the big ship, but last night, on his first trip into the port as master he got stuck on a sandbar.

Although the vessel was in the hands of a Trinity House pilot at the time, Commodore Cunningham was in such a state of mind when visited by the newspapermen that he pulled his cap down over his eyes, hurricane fashion, and refused to discuss the mishap.

The soft bar known as rambles, held the ship firm enough to give three tugs several hours' work without success, until the flood tide lifted her free. When the Leviathan docked four hours later, a cursory inspection of the hull failed to reveal any damage.

There was no excitement amorg the passengers.

BODY MAY BE THAT OF FLIER

Corpse Taken From Pacific Thought To Be Lieut. V. R. Knope.

ONE OF DOLE AVIATORS.

VENTURA Calif., Feb. 18. Canadian Press. — Brought up by the tide and current the body of what once was a well built athletic man of 30, was being held by the authorities here to-day in an attempt to learn whether it was one of the long missing Dole fliers.

The body which obviously had been in salt water for several months had but one outward identifying mark, a black taffeta handkerchief, like those worn by the American sailors.

The first guesses were that it might be the body of Lieut. V. Knope, the United States navy navigator, of the ill-fated Dole flight plane, "Miss Doran."

Campbellford Lodge Holds Enjoyable Social in Quarters.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 18. — The Campbellford Lodge of the Order of Rebekah, Number 248, held a very enjoyable euchre party in their lodge rooms, Ferris block, on Thursday night. There were fourteen tables of cards and when the play was finished, lunch was served by a very capable committee. The prizes for games went to Mrs. Robert Dunk and Mrs. Ackerman who won the men's prize. Mrs. Ackerman also won the gentleman's prize for lone hands, the ladies' prize went to Mrs. Ernest Haig. The gentleman's consolation was won by Arthur Tripp. The lunch consisted of sandwiches, pickles, cake and coffee.

Veitack Is Freed In Contempt Case

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 17. (Canadian Press.)—The number of respondents in the criminal contempt proceedings growing out of the shadowing of the Fall-Sinclair oil conspiracy jury by Burns detectives was reduced to four yesterday when Justice Siddons dismissed the charges against C. L. Veitsch of Baltimore.

Veitsch, manager of the Baltimore office of the Burns detective agency, brought $1,500 here to pay the surveillance squad which was employed by Harry F. Sinclair, but knew nothing of the shadowing, government testimony developed. Justice Frederick L. Siddons ruled that Veitsch's guilt had not been established beyond a reasonable doubt.

As soon as Veitsch was freed, counsel for William J. Burns moved that the charges be dismissed against the detective on the ground that the government had failed to show that he was connected with the jury shadowing.

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

IT IS NOT OFTEN that I have the privilege of listening to other preachers owing to the fact that I have so much preaching to do myself. However, there are odd times when the way is open to sit in the pew instead of stand in the pulpit; and you can "bet your sweet life" that I am never slow to take advantage of such opportunities. It is always interesting to me to see how another man does what I have been trying to do. My best efforts fall so far short of my own ideals that I have sympathy with the poorest preachers provided they are doing their best to beget faith instead of trying to shake, in the name of "scholarship," the faith that is already there. I have heard preachers that I would travel the world around to hear again. And I have heard sermons, the memory of which will never be lost so long as memory continues to function. Some day I should like to tell my friends a few interesting things about those preachers and the sermons I have heard them deliver. But for the present I shall content myself with a brief account of one sermon which made a deep impression upon my own life and ministry.

This sermon was delivered in a city that is famous for its "culture." In some ways it resembled that city which is celebrated for its brown bread, baked beans, and a particular kind of bull dog: of which the story is told that one who was not a native of that city said to one of its dogs, "Lay down!" But the dog would not "lay down," whereupon one who was standing by said, "You must say, 'Lie down'—that is a Boston Bull!"

After all it is a matter of small importance where the city was, or what its name. The important thing at present is the sermon! It was a sermon to ministers, and that is perhaps one reason why it will be of more than passing interest to those who sit in the pews.

CURE FOR A SICK CHURCH.

The preacher seemed to be there in the capacity of a physician who was a specialist in his own department. The rest of us seemed to have called him for a consultation. We had sick congregations on our hands. Some of them, from all reports, were so sick that they seemed to be at death's door. Our problem was what more could we do to restore their lost vitality and get them back to business again. So, to help us in our dilemma, this specialist had been called in.

What is the best thing a minister can do for his people—the very best? That was the question of questions for all of us. We sincerely desired to do the best. Some of us had tried one thing after another in the hope that the church would respond to our treatment, but all in vain. Now we were interested to hear what this expert would say, and as far as I can remember this is the gist of what he said:

A SPECIALIST SPEAKS.

"You ask me to tell you what is the best thing a minister can do for his church—the very best! Without any reservation, I would say:

"Let him get them absorbed with Christian missions. Let him charge them with the missionary dynamic. There is nothing like it. It is the panacea for all ecclesiastical ills. It will work a transformation in any congregation. Try it; and you will see the sleepy wake up, and the stingy loosen up, and the sour sweeten up. The cure for a sick church is to get it on a missionary diet."

As the specialist was speaking I felt sure that he was giving us the right kind of advice. There is no church so well at home as the church with a missionary outlook. Its passion purifies its own veins and enables the red blood of sacrificial service to course through every part of its complex life. Its activities give it an appetite that will not be satisfied with the beggarly elements upon which too many churches are being "fed up."

A CHURCH IN OUR TOWN.

It seemed to me then, and it seems to me still, that the minister who is satisfied with the spiritual condition of his church is likely to be a minister who is satisfied with little. His favourite text is, "Blessed are they who expect little, for they shall not be disappointed." Of some of their churches the following lines might very aptly be used:

There was a church in our town
And it was wondrous wise.
It tried to pay expenses
By selling cakes and pies;
But after years of trying
That plan to raise the cash
The folks got tired buying,
And the whole thing went to smash.

I am not speaking of all the churches, but I am speaking of some, and the number is too large that are a dead weight on the soul of the man who tries to minister to them.

The trouble is not that these churches are bad; that there are no devout people there; that the members do not love Christ; the trouble is they have been side-tracked on some minor issue, shunted in some blind alley, and the pity is that frequently it is the minister himself who has dug his own grave.

BETTER BE A FANATIC THAN A CORPSE.

Let the minister get his church interested in missions. The church may not like the change. It may prefer to remain undisturbed. But what of that? Did you ever know a man who was sound asleep who liked to be wakened?

The church may regard you as fanatical, but that is not necessarily fatal. Better be a fanatic than a corpse. The enterprise of missions is God's plan for the church. It is the most entrancing vision that ever dazzled the brain of man, and the Christian who can come under its spell and not be thrilled, not have some spark of heroism flaring into flame within him, is only dead freight.

Any minister, if he has a mind to do so, can make his pulpit flame with the evangel of missions. He can yield it on occasions, to returned missionaries. They may not always be as eloquent as the regular occupant, but they come straight from the firing line, wearing a uniform, blood-stained, gunshot and saber scarred.

Let us give our sermons the missionary outlook. And it would not be a bad thing if we made our pastoral work a part of our missionary propaganda. It might transform it from a downright sham into a thing of power. Let us see to it that the missionary collections are placed on a business basis and not left to the accident of weather on the day assigned to the cause, or made to depend on "the moving appeal" of some special advocate. Let the mission funds get as decent treatment as the funds for congregational uses. It is a red-letter day for a congregation when some individual undertakes the support of a missionary.

OBEY THE DOCTOR.

What's the use of consulting a doctor if you will not have his prescription filled and endeavor to the best of your ability to carry out his advice? When will the church wake up to the fact that God has never asked it to make money for Him? "Who," says the Bible, "goes to war at his own expense?" This is the Lord's battle, and if we will do the fighting and seek to be more efficient in the work of saving the lost, God will send the money. I am convinced that He never intended the church to be a money-making association, but a money-giving institution! If we attend to the one work he set us to do, salvaging the souls of men, He will open pocket-books in every direction and send us every cent that we need.

I shall bring my musings to a close this week with a quotation from Clement of Alexandria:

"The sick need one to make them whole, the wandered one to guide them, the blind one to lead them, the thirsty the living fountain whereof they that partake shall thirst no more; the dead are in need of life, the sheep of the shepherd, and the children of the teacher; but all mankind needs Jesus."

—Allan Fairbairn.

The Minister Remarks--

—If you would lessen trouble always look for the funny side of a question.

—No demand is being made for a raise in the wages of sin.

—Some men when the strain becomes too acute have a brainstorm and others go to the hockey game.

—Many a modern woman worries more about her complexion than she does about her prospective harp and crown.

—The downward path has many attractions, but no rewards.

—Perhaps the reason why our work becomes dull is because our wits need sharpening.

—Some people are never so happy as when they have something to worry about. —A. F.

Evangelical Initiative

NO power has greater value than the power of initiative. To follow along in beaten trails is not sufficient. To strike out for new conquests requires a peculiar ability and great courage. The modernist will at once claim that precisely this is what he is doing. We answer that the mere fact of a new adventure is no indication of wisdom. It is possible to abandon the only source of power and thus make the venture futile.

The army that leaves altogether its base of supplies may make a rapid march, but it will be to its own destruction. Modernism is right now riding for a fall.—"Jesus Christ at the Crossroads."

We Talk Too Much

EVERY sunrise is a birthday, and every sunset a day of judgment. As we stand at the beginning of each new day we cannot help wondering what it holds for us. We peer into the future with uncertain eyes. We look for the best. We are not to blame if we expect more. But it might be a great deal better for us if we did not think so much of ourselves as of others. And if we could educate ourselves to appreciate the value of silence, the effort expended in securing such an education might be one of the most profitable investments we have ever made. It will probably always be an open question whether speech should not have been denied to man when the human race, with all its imperfections and weaknesses, was set moving over the face of the earth. If we could have had action without words this world might have been a better and more peaceful abiding place. Had there been some way by which man could have got along without talking probably there would have been less discord than now disturbs communities and individuals.

It has been said that the madness of speech is tenfold more terrible than the curse of liquor. I don't expect everybody to agree with such a statement. Indeed I am not prepared to say that I agree with it myself! Nevertheless there is some considerable measure of truth in it. In public life it is talk that deters reform and brings ridicule on religion itself. In private life it disintegrates families.

We are talking all the time and we have not yet learned as much as the parrot which said, "I know what's the matter with me—I talk too darned much!" We talk in the pulpit, in the street cars or busses, in our doorways, our homes, and over the telephone.

At the break of each new day we should realize that true silence is the rest of the mind. It means to our mental faculties what sleep means to the body. It is a great virtue. It covers folly, as Elbert Hubbard suggested when he said, "It is better to keep your mouth shut and be thought a fool, than to open it and remove all doubt." Silence keeps secrets and avoids disputes. It also prevents sin.

To the person who has not much of this world's knowledge silence is golden and may prove to be wisdom to the fool. If we could only appreciate the fact that a still tongue means the eloquence of discretion we would indeed be wise.

Speech is often barren and silence, I am well aware, does not necessarily brood over a full nest, but the unspoken word seldom or never does harm. There are times when we hear things which it would be wise to forget. And there are times when we think things which wisdom suggests we had better keep to ourselves.

When I remember that five words cost Zacharias forty weeks of dumbness I crave for sense to be silent when I am tempted to talk as thoughtlessly as most of us are prone to talk. —A. F.

A Pen Picture

SEE the troops marching to the war! Nearly 50,000 men so far as I can judge. Not raw levies, but seasoned men. There are companies of archers, as well as those who bear sword and shield. I cannot tell whether this is a punitive expedition to revenge themselves upon marauding neighbours, or whether it is undertaken to get land and wealth. Perhaps both motives animate the army, for there can be no doubt from their appearance that serious business is in view. Now they have met their foes and the shock of battle has begun! Three princes are ranged against them; who can tell on which side victory will incline? Hark! What is that sound? It is not a shout of triumph, nor a vindictive yell; it is a solemn cry—reverent, earnest, believing—a cry to the god of battles. The invaders win! Many fall before them; great booty comes into their hands. It is a good land which they have entered. They soon make up their minds to abide where they have come, and apparently they will be able to start with a good stock of cattle. See, of this larger kind each soldier will certainly get one, and of the smaller sort five apiece at least, to say nothing of a captive or two for each. So that cry was not in vain.

TELL US A STORY

THERE is a legend of an Indian chief who was wont to try the strength of his youths by making them run in a single effort as far up the side of a mountain as each could reach by his main strength. On an appointed day, four left at daybreak. The first returned with a branch of spruce, indicating the height to which he had attained. The second bore a twig of pine. The third brought an Alpine shrub. But it was by the light of the moon that the fourth made his way back. Then he came, worn and exhausted, and his feet were torn by the rocks.

"What did you bring, and how high did you ascend?" asked the chief.

"Sire," he replied, "where I went there was neither spruce nor pine to shelter me from the sun, nor flower to cheer my path, but only rocks and snow and barren land. My feet are torn, and I am exhausted, and I have come late, but—"

And as a wonderful light came into his eyes, the young brave added: —"I saw the sea."

Reputation is in itself only a farthing candle, of wavering and uncertain flame, and easily blown out; but it is the light by which the world looks for and finds merit. —Lowell.

Shortage of Preachers

A Londoner notes in his Diary in The Evening Standard of that city that British non-conformity is suffering just now from a shortage of good preachers. Two Congregational churches have gone abroad in order to fill their pulpits. Allen Street Church at Kensington is bringing a minister from Melbourne, and Highbury Quadrant Church has secured an American Presbyterian, Rev. H. Ingham, from Florida. Westminster Congregational Church, a great building seating over 2,000 people, has been without a minister for over two years. At the same time, says this writer, churches in the United States are endeavoring to attract British preachers by the offer of large salaries. Rev. Henry Howard left English Methodism some time ago to become minister of Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, New York, at a salary of over $10,000 a year. Dr. Ward, who was for some years minister of a Congregational church in North London, has become pastor of a church in Detroit at a salary of $15,000. —A. F.

Offended Its Readers

THE NEW STATESMAN has mortally offended some of its readers by frank recognition of certain facts and a shrewd estimate of their significance. "It is too easily supposed," it remarks, "that in this twentieth century religion is practically dead. But, of course, it cannot be dead. Its form may change, but religious emotion must always remain not merely one of the commonest, but one of the most profound and perhaps the most puzzling of human emotions. . . . Darwin may have been wiser than Moses, but it is not conceivable that his influence will ever approach the influence which Moses has had—and interminably will have—upon the minds of men and the destiny of the human race. Whatever else man is, he is certainly religious — the exceptions are not numerically important—he can get along well enough without a Darwin to tell him what he has been, but not without a Moses to tell him what he may be: and this remains a fact whichever story he regarded as a fable."

That is quite a testimony to come from a rationalist paper!

Almost a Suicide

THAT it is dangerous to try and force the mental machine beyond the reasonable limit was demonstrated the other Sunday in Norwich, Conn., when Rev. J. H. Graham, minister of the Trinity Methodist Church, suddenly became insane at the evening service, ran from the edifice and threw himself in front of a passing trolley car. Fortunately the car was stopped before the wheels reached his body. Mr. Graham was taken to the local hospital. The trouble is attributed to overstudy.

Perhaps this minister, like many others, was trying to run his mental machinery seven days a week. A day of rest is as necessary for ministers as it is for miners. —A. F.

An Average Ass

IT always irritates me when, on asking some good person to help a distressed brother, I am met with the silly inquiry: "Is it a deserving case?" As a rule, it certainly is not. The man who is down and out has been just an average sort of ass, and has helped considerably to bring his troubles on himself. But am I deserving case? Is anybody a deserving case?

—F. A. A.

Narrow Minds

IT is the mark of a narrow mind to discredit instruction that does not come along conventional lines, yet often those who have been the bearers of great messages have departed from the beaten paths in the performance of their work.

THE CANADIAN LEGION.

The Examiner has within the past week donated advertising space to the activities of the local branch of the Canadian Legion that in the ordinary course of events would have cost that organization $250.

We were glad to make this contribution because we are convinced that the Legion is needed in Peterborough, and that its efforts on behalf of ex-service men and their families are of great importance from a community viewpoint.

We believe that in their own interests the men who served in the Canadian army during the World War should be banded together, and we are supporting the Canadian Legion because of what it has done, because of what we know it is capable of doing, and because it is part of the movement that that great hero, Earl Haig, launched after the war to better the condition of the men who fought.

The Examiner hopes that war veterans who have not yet allied themselves with the Legion will see eye to eye with us in this matter, especially as we have demonstrated our sincerity by freely giving a large amount of advertising space, to calling attention to an organization that should have the undivided support of Peterborough's ex-service men.

THE OTHER SIDE OF THE SHIELD.

Professor H. Michell, Professor of Political Economy in McMaster University, has been giving some attention to a subject that is very much to the fore at the present time—that is, the question of old age pensions—and the result of his study is interesting.

Professor Michell, while he remarks that with the general principle of old age pensions nobody can quarrel, points out that it is only elementary wisdom to make a very careful inquiry into the cost of such an undertaking, not only at the present time, but even more for the future.

His figures indicate that the cost in pensions alone, excluding administration, at the present time would be $25,238,400, while under the most favorable conditions the yearly costs in 1951 would be $38,299,920.

But, as he points out, it must be taken into account that the proportion of pensioners invariably increase, and he adds that, while under the present act the age limit is 70 but that a movement to lower it to 65 will be launched, with every prospect of success, and thus the number of pensioners would be greatly increased.

Thus this economist estimates that in 1951 old age pensions throughout the Dominion would cost $65,109,840.

"It can be remarked here," says Prof. Michell, "that this is almost certainly a highly conservative estimate; if the old age pension system is adopted throughout the Dominion the cost is likely to be in excess of, rather than below, that figure."

"In conclusion," he declares, "it must be reiterated that when any system of pensions is put into operation the estimates of those who frame it are invariably much lower than is proved in the event. Pensions as is being proved in those Provinces which have adopted the mothers' pension system never grow less; they always grow heavier and prove year by year a heavier burden to carry."

THE FIREMEN'S DAY OFF.

The Council will meet on Monday night to discuss the question of a six-day week for the city fire department, a problem that has caused moments of worry for many Ontario Councils since the Legislature last year passed the Fire Departments Act of 1927, requiring a full-day off duty in each calendar week for every fire fighter in all cities not less than 10,000 in population.

David H. Lamb, Secretary-Treasurer of the Provincial Federation of Fire Fighters, has written Mayor Denne, declaring that if Peterborough does not take steps to put the Act into force before the end of this month the Federation will resort to the courts.

The difficulty lies in the fact that to carry out the day-off-in-seven plan the Council has to choose between the added expense of engaging more firemen and the risk of reducing the force on duty to dangerously weak proportions.

The Act says:

> Where in the city, town or village there is a permanent fire department, the officers and employees of which are regularly employed and paid by the municipal corporation, every officer and employee of such department shall be off duty for one full day of twenty-four hours in every calendar week, but where what is known as the "double platoon system" is in operation in any such fire department the twenty-four hours' release at the change of platoons shall not be regarded as a day off duty for the purposes of this section.

COMMUNITY WEEK.

The spirit of Peterborough can best be expressed through its Chamber of Commerce. This can only be done fully when every citizen is a participator.

Next week is community week in Peterborough.

Peterborough is a great little city. It is not complete. It is a planned city. Its orderly development is being carefully arranged by practical experts. Even though all this might be completed, the city is not finished. Office buildings must have tenants, stores must have merchants, railways must have business, highways must have traffic, merchandise must be sold, houses must have residents, apartments must have occupants. It takes citizens gainfully employed to make a town. Men and money are required. The business of the Chamber of Commerce is to keep up the endless chain of activity that the community may keep approaching year by year, this effort at attaining fixed objectives of completeness.

Of course, you want a finer community, and, of course, you are going to make your contribution toward attaining it. The Chamber of Commerce is the best way.

The Chamber of Commerce does for the community what the average man does for his business. Your membership fee is the capital invested in the institution. The returns on this investment are greater than any other investment you make.

The Chamber of Commerce is the sales organization of the city and you should be one of the salesmen. A membership is your credentials for activity.

This is the time for every citizen of Peterborough to get into the collar and not lag in the breeching of the community harness. Galls on the shoulders are more honorable than blisters where the hold-back straps chafe.

Playing the game for Peterborough means more than merely conducting your business honestly and efficiently. It means joining your neighbors in an investment in the Chamber of Commerce.

Community prosperity are the dividends that accrue to each one personally through the Chamber of Commerce. These dividends come through increased business enterprise and civic spirit.

The Chamber of Commerce seeks to espand its activities to become the clearing house for all worth-while things for Peterborough.

MISS MACPHAIL AND POVERTY.

No one need doubt Miss Agnes MacPhail's sincerity as a worker for the well-being of the masses. But does Miss MacPhail really think that she is helping anything or anybody when she stands in Parliament and proclaims to the world that rural Canada knows nothing of prosperity? It may be true, as she states, that not 10 per cent. of the homes outside our cities have running water, bathrooms, electric lights and labor-saving devices. But, admitting that it is true, does the absence of such things in the measure that she gives prove, everything considered, that our rural population is not prosperous? That they are not as prosperous as the rural populations of other lands? The United States, for example?

Does Miss MacPhail know of any country in the world where rural dwellers all possess electric lights, bathrooms and running water in their homes? Did she witness such things in Europe? In England? In the United States?

Canada's rural population may not be as prosperous as, under different conditions, it might be. None of us can but wish that it were more prosperous. Yet, dealing with realities instead of dreams, and putting aside roseate visions of Utopia, is it not a fact the people who dwell in the rural districts of this Dominion are as prosperous, on the whole, as the rural dwellers of any country in the world? If Miss MacPhail doubts this, let her look up a few statistics of bank deposits, or automobile ownerships, and so forth. Such an inquiry might not cure her of some of the strange theories to which she seems hopelessly devoted, but it might at least save her from making statements which—we say it without wishing to give offence—border on being foolish.—Ottawa Journal.

THE L. C. A. STANDS.

Premier Ferguson made his Government's position clear yesterday when, in an important speech in the Legislature, he announced that the Liquor Control Act will remain just where it is, except for minor amendments which the Attorney-General may require for better enforcement. In other words, Mr. Ferguson has no intention of letting down the bars any further. Beer-by-the-glass is off, so far as this year is concerned at any rate.

The Star believes that the Premier has shown excellent judgment in this matter. Mr. Frank W. Wilson, M.L.A. for East Windsor, seems to think there is a widespread sentiment in favor of the open sale of beer. That there is a sentiment in favor of beer by the glass no one will deny, but whether that sentiment is widespread enough at this time to demand a change in the law is open to question. But whether there is such a sentiment or not, Mr. Ferguson does not propose to alter the law this year. That, in effect, was his answer to Mr. Wilson yesterday.

The Premier was frank in discussing the Liquor Control Act. He admitted that there had been some disappointments, but he asked the House to remember that the law had been in effect only nine months and that it was brought into force to combat an organization that had been in existence for 10 years. And Mr. Ferguson made the further satisfactory announcement that throughout Ontario there is discernible a growing sentiment for law enforcement.

As to the latter statement, we in this section of the Province can testify that it is true. The campaign for law enforcement in this community last fall proved it to be true. Conditions here, as everyone knows, had reached an intolerable state. The time arrived when it was impossible to let them go on. A campaign for a change was started and it was found that public sentiment was almost thoroughly behind it. The people demanded law enforcement and we are getting it now. Consequently there is much greater respect for the law.

Looking at the thing from a mere money standpoint, sale of beer by the glass would probably mean more to Windsor and its sister municipalities, than to any other community in the Province. But, opponents of the idea ask, do the people of this community want their city turned into a glorified beer garden for American visitors and others?—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Fire protection is to cost Peterborough $38,290 this year—a figure that is in surprising contrast to the appropriation for this purpose twenty years ago.

There are complaints in several quarters about the Budget, but then not even Mr. Robb has yet discovered how to please everybody.

Declaring that there are over two hundred thousand "useless words" in the English language, The St. Catharines Standard complains that so many public speakers seem to know them all.

The Liquor Control Board does not favor the sale of beer-by-the-glass. In that view it is in line with the bulk of public opinion in Ontario.

Training for citizenship under a progressive program is Dr. Fisher's conception of the Boy Scout movement. That is somewhat different from the viewpoint of those who regard Scout training as militaristic in its tendency.

Chief Gimblett's recommendation for a sub fire station in the southern portion of the city has made its annual appearance, and suffered its usual speedy execution at the hands of the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, February 18. — The feature of the cattle trade this week was the lighter offerings but higher average quality. The effect was a general steadying of prices, with a definite halt to the lower trend of the two previous weeks.

There was a steady demand for good butcher killers and the heavy export quality beef steers found a firmer market.

Latest quotations are:

Choice heavy steers from $10.50 to $11.50; choice light steers, $9.50 to $10.75; good steers and heifers, $9.00 to $9.75; baby beef, choice, $10.50 to $11.50; medium, $9.00 to $10.00; choice butcher bulls steady at $6.50 to $7.25; but heavy bulls in poor demand.

Sheep and lambs — Choice lambs, 14c to 14½c; good lambs, 13c to 13½c; yearling sheep, 7c to 8c; choice butchers' sheep, 6c to 7c; heavy sheep and aged bucks, 5c to 6c.

'PHONE SYSTEM GROWS STEADILY

Bell Company Now Has 5,200 Connected To Local Exchange.

33,000 CALLS DAILY.

The Bell Telephone Company of Canada has experienced a remarkable growth in this city since the telephones were first installed. At the end of December there were 5,200 telephones connected to the local exchange, showing an increase of 313 during the year. In 1927 there were 868 telephones installed. The annual payroll of the 90 employees amounted to $95,000, and the plant in service is valued at $600,000. Average daily calls going through the exchange during the year amounted to 33,000, or more than 6 calls from every phone, and the long distant calls averaged 450 a day.

Over 130,000 telephones were installed in Ontario and Quebec last year, according to the annual report of the Bell Telephone Company being mailed to shareholders to-day. There were, however, about the normal proportion of phones disconnected, leaving a net increase in instruments in service of 38,222. This brings the total of Bell telephones in use on December 31 last to 668,383. Add to this number the 133,581 telephones operated by the smaller systems which connect with Bell exchanges, and it brings the total to 801,964 telephones in the two provinces—a very substantial development of this important service.

A Huge Outlay.

Last year the Bell Company spent for gross additions to its plant, the huge sum of $18,206,000—one of the biggest outlays—if not the greatest—of any enterprise in the Dominion. It is probable that this year's expenditures will even exceed that for 1927.

Over sixteen per cent. (in all, 109,343) of all Bell telephones are now dial instruments—the so-called automatic type now being installed in Toronto, Montreal, and Quebec.

Long Distance Cable.

A steady program of replacement of open wire long distance lines by cable, is now in progress. This type of construction is designed to resist the disastrous effects of sleet storms, and although its initial cost is heavy, it is found to justify the outlay because of its permanence and freedom from service interruptions.

Personnel.

An interesting item in the report is the reference to the standard of recruits for telephone work. In the past five years 320 graduates of the universities of Ontario and Quebec have become members of the Bell Telephone staff and are doing excellent work. The company is thus offering a real solution of the problem of the annual exodus to the United States of graduates of our Canadian colleges. Courses in telephone work have been made available by the Company in Toronto and Montreal technical schools and these have been well attended.

Of the 4,400 male employees of the Company's Plant Department, over 76 per cent. have been thoroughly trained in First Aid, and are doing excellent service to the public in many cases of serious accident.

Over 10,300 Bell workers are at present subscribing for shares in the Company, purchasing 35,000 shares of stock—made possible by the very favorable Employees' Stock Plan in effect for some years.

There are 91 pensioners on the roll of the Pension and Benefit Plan, and during 1927 no less than 2,977 cases of Disability and Death Benefits were cared for, involving an outlay, including Pensions, of $296,941.

An Employees' Life Insurance Plan was inaugurated in October last, under which, by means of premium deductions from pay, insurance to the amount of $1,480,000 has been contracted for with two leading Canadian insurance companies.

The Company's pay roll last year amounted to over $17,600,000, average daily exchange connections to 4,475,000 and daily long distance connections to 58,800.

The Mutual Life Assurance Co. of Canada

In the twenty years ending with 1927, this company increased its assurances in force more than seven and a half times. The total at December 31st was $386,669,481.

TEN MISSING FROM FERRY

SINCE VESSEL 'DIPPED.'

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 18.—(Canadian Press.)— At least ten persons were missing to-day when police and rescuers checked their reports in an effort to ascertain the number of casualties in the accident to the ferry Peralta, from whose decks an unknown number of passengers were swept into San Francisco Bay. Revised figures showed that ten persons believed to have been on the boat last night when her passenger laden prow dipped into the bay, to-day had failed to return to their homes. The number of persons swept into the water was undetermined and the investigators were without any means of checking.

GOD'S MINUTE

"He hath inclined His ear unto me, therefore will I call upon Him."—
Ps. 116: 2.

Our Father, Who art in Heaven, may it be of Thy good pleasure, now in the light of a new morning, to look favorably upon Thy dependent here kneeling as a united family of worshippers within the home which Thou hast appointed us, and to receive our humble thanksgivings for the perfect protection of Thy care, and for the refreshment of a healthful sleep granted by Thyself through the darkness of the night that is gone.

And do Thou now, we beseech Thee, ordain to us for yet another day Thy watchful providence for our guard against all sickness and bodily peril; Thy wise counsel for our guidance into every right thought and unto every fitting word; Thy sufficient grace for our defense from all temptation to wrong, as likewise for our enablement unto all fidelity in duty, and Thy atoning love to cover all our sins.

Following Thee, may our hearts be cleansed from every motive unworthy of those who bear Thy Name, and may we be led to walk in charity and helpfulness among all those who surround us making manifest to every companion and acquaintanceship some forecast of Thy coming Kingdom, and dedicating our several lives to the service of Thy blessed will—through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

Nolan R. Best, New York City.

A Thought

THE WRONG WORD.

One writer says: "Foresight is the future tense of good judgment applied to present action."

This sounds good, but is far from the facts. There can be no "foresight." There is no living man who can see into the future.

Forethought is the word. "Forethought" fortifies us for the future. Mortal mind was not made to see beyond the present.

The most natural encouragement to good humor or good manners is to keep the corners of your mouth turned up, not too often, but often enough to earn the friendship of other folks.

MARRIAGE.

MURRAY—POLLOCK.—On February 4th, at All Saints' Church, by the Rev. J. D. Paterson, Floyd Murray and Agnes Pollock, both of Peterborough.

Wise and Otherwise

Liberty is a grand thing, but you never quite realize what a mighty and awful power it is until some young lady moves next door and begins to tune up for high C.

A life insurance company says $404 is too much for a funeral. Well, maybe for some funerals.

Spring is here! They're showing the new fall hats.

Vocal solos were given by Misses Helen Smith, Ada Bond and Miss Irene Sargeant. Others taking part were Rev. Mr. Hie and Mr. Iden Bonds, Sr.

WAS VERY WEAK NERVOUS AND MELANCHOLY

Mrs. Geo. McKenzie, Campbellford, Ont., writes:—"A short time ago I was troubled very badly with my heart and nerves, the cause of it, I think, was my going through the change of life.

"I was very weak and melancholy, and so nervous I could hardly bear to hear a clock ticking, and I did not sleep well.

"I was advised to try so I sent at once for a box; took them and got another, and before they were all gone I felt good, my nerves are fine, I do not mind any noise, and I can sleep well. I cannot recommend them too highly to those suffering as I did."

W.M.S. HAS MEETING AT GEORGE STREET

Address on Christian Stewardship Given by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe.

The February meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of George Street United Church was held in the Board Room of the Sunday School Hall on Tuesday afternoon with a very large attendance.

The President, Mrs. E. E. Coon, occupied the chair. After the secretary's and treasurer's reports had been received, Mrs. S. R. Armstrong reported on the C.G.I.T. banquet.

Mrs. A. Mowat read the Bible lesson and Mrs. Batstone led in prayer.

Rev. J. E. Todd sang a solo, accompanied by Mrs. W. H. Cunningham.

Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, of Murray Street Baptist Church, delivered a fine address on Christian Stewardship.

Mr. Sutcliffe said "This is a subject very often misunderstood. We need a new light shed upon it. Christian Stewardship is not limited to tything. Tything is the least part, in Christian Stewardship. By my dictionary I find stewardship means a person intrusted with the management of an estate or affairs not his own. We are not our own. If we believe we can do what we like with what we have, we are no longer stewards. Ideal stewardship ought to mean a great deal to us. When we recognize that all things belong to God; earth belongs to God, and that we are stewards and therefore we have a right to do the best we can with everything in life. In the best moments of life we turn to what is good and true. Stewardship has not only to do with income or wealth, but has to do with something infinitely more important. It has to do with the whole life. Stewardship refers then, to material things and spiritual things. Stewardship has more to do with what one is and what one does than with what one has. Real Christian stewardship of the whole life and whole personality is a very difficult thing. Every day of our lives is stewardship, in religion, business at home or at the office. We cannot divorce religion from life; we cannot separate secular life from spiritual life. Unless we have God in our hearts we cannot do anything to win the world for God. You and I are entrusted with a life not our own. Christian stewardship embodies the whole life."

MANY MOTHERS RECOMMEND THEM

Baby's Own Tablets Are Fine For Nervous, Sleepless Children.

From Canada the fame of Baby's Own Tablets is spreading over the world. Mothers recommend them to other mothers and wherever they are tried nothing but words of praise are heard for these pleasant tasting little tablets that promptly relieve the minor ailments of young children.

"Baby's Own Tablets are one of the best remedies for children's ailments I have ever used," says Mrs. Arthur T. Allen, of Auburn, Me., "My little girls was nervous and could not sleep. I tried the Tablets and she was relieved at once. She was also troubled with constipation and nothing seemed to help her. I had used the Tablets but a short time before her bowels were regular. All mothers should keep Baby's Own Tablets in the house for they are a valuable remedy."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all druggists or will be mailed on receipt of price, 25 cents per box, by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A splendid program was furnished by the Elliot Club to its friends on Thursday evening last. As previously mentioned in these columns, this club was recently formed by the management and staff of the Elliot Mfg. Co. Ltd., for the benefit of the members and their invited friends. It is understood to be the only club of the kind in Peterborough. The enthusiasm of the committees having the program in charge and the talent of the club members is quickly shown in the variety of the numbers presented, including instrumental music, solos, duets with supporting chorus, a black-face comedian dialogue, and an abundance of purely humorous stories and sketches. Altogether more than 20 members of the club took various parts in the evening's entertainment. After opening with "God Save the King," the President, Mrs. Frances Marshall, fittingly welcomed the guests; then Mr. E. R. Disney, plant manager and organizer of the club, explained to all the motive for the formation of it and the objects the club had before it. The entertainment began with singing by all present, both members and friends, "The More We Get Together." Mrs. Frances Marshall then sang a solo, "If Winter Comes," with Miss Rosa Jay at the piano. A duet of Miss Anna Payne and Miss Ivy James sang one of the old favorites, "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," with a chorus composed of the Misses Mae Hatley, Lillion Loft, Etta Ruttle, Greta Godfrey, Iola Cullen, Marjorie Creighton, Kathleen Conway. Further singing by members and a radio program followed. Mr. E. R. Disney gave a very laughable monologue, "Doctors' Testimonials." One of the particular features of the evening was a "Darky" dialogue, the Misses Valetta Bayliss and Kathleen Orr taking the parts of Sambo and Rastus to the delight of everyone. One of the tiny guests was Miss Beatrice Stabler, whose ability to play the piano and sing was known to the entertainment committee, and she was requested to take part in the program, and quite surprised everyone by doing both so remarkably well for her few years. There was further singing by members and guests at which point the refreshment committee took charge. During the serving Mrs. Iola Cullen gave a demonstration of the real "Charlston." After refreshments, which kept that committee busy for a considerable time, the floor was given over to dancing, music by radio and piano, the latter being played by Miss Jean Robinnson and Mr. Kenneth Cullen. Several card tables were also in play. Mr. Nathan Stabler played violin for square dances, and Mr. Wilbert Godfrey called like an old-timer. Those present: Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Godfrey, Mr. and Mrs. Chris. Jay, Sr.; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Smith; Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Stabler; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cullen; Mesdames Emily James, Lila Hatley, Frances Marshall, Charles Francis, George Hoy, John Creighton; Messrs. Herbert Payne, John Huggins, Arthur Jobe, Clarence Sidone, Raymond Dixon, Leo. McNicoll, W. H. McIntyre, Talbert O'Brien, Kenneth Gilman, E. R. Disney; Misses Valetta Bayliss, Helen O'Toole, Marie Thomson, Greta Godfrey, Kathleen Orr, Lillian Loft, Marjorie Hoy, Marjorie Creighton, Anna Payne, Marjorie Paquette, Etta Ruttle, Edna Murney, Phyrn Buller, Marjorie Bowler, Mary Stabler, Beatrice Stabler, Ivy James, Mae Hatley, Grace Griffin, Rosa Jay, Kathlyn Allen, Lucy Ronco, Dorothy Webb, Rhoda Cullen, Luella Hamblin, Jean Robinson, Verna Moore, Kathlyn Conway. Everyone expressed their thorough enjoyment of the program and their surprise at the size of it considering that the club has been in existence only three weeks, but the members were anxious to show the possibilities of the club and desired to stage this entertainment even though the period of preparation was short. The quality of the program speaks quite plainly of what may be expected in the future. It is the plan of the club to have an entertainment night regularly once each month. The regular meetings are weekly.

Dr. and Mrs. D. W. Clark and Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson motored to Toronto yesterday afternoon and attended the Mendelssohn Choir concert in Massey Hall in the evening.

THE MERRY MINSTRELS

(By Jeanette)

The entertainment given by the Merry Minstrels in the hall at St. Alphonsus Lyceum last evening was well attended and a great deal of applause was vouchsafed to every item on the program. Under the direction of E. Leonard, with Rev. Father Carroll and J. H. Primeau taking an active interest in the staging and production, the group of chorus and end men had an interesting line of jokes and patter and a number of the latest song hits, interspersed with dances. A very excellent and tuneful chorus was not heard enough, their singing being confined to brief renditions.

The entertainment was rounded out by an orchestra of five pieces, which played before the commencement of the program and at the conclusion of the minstrel show proper. Two young ladies, the Misses Anna Gallegher and Stella Brady, also contributed several loudly-encored vocal numbers, in sweet voice.

The end men, in their blackface make-up, gaily colored attire and varied types of headgear, contributed a great deal to the jollity of the performance, and kept the ball rolling back and forth, the interlocutor, J. H. Primeau having little to do but announce the vocal numbers.

Frank Clarke, with his banjo, was a favorite, as usual, and had to respond to several encores for each solo selection, also acting as one of the end men.

The program opened with an orchestral selection, followed by the rendition, in unison, of 'Me and My Shadow," and a brief monologue and a couple of jokes by Jack Primeau.

Vocal numbers in the first portion of the program included "Georgia Cabin Door," by Maurice Leonard; "Among by Souvenirs," by Miss Anna Gallegher; a banjo selection by Frank Clarke, who played the always welcome "Watermelon Growin' on de Vine," with a medley encore, "The Hours I Spent With You," by Emil Leonard, "From Saturday Night Till Monday Morning," by Michael Clancy; "The Dawn of Tomorrow," by Miss Stella Brady; "What'll You Do?" by Ulrich Brioux; "Just as Your Mother Was," by Joseph Clancy; "Worrying Blues," by Bob Armstrong; "Girl of My Dreams," by Ernest Leonard; "A Shady Tree," by Fred Storey, and a closing number, "Tennessee," by Edmond Leonard, who had a rousing encore for his snappy number.

In the oleo, Ed. Leonard again met with a hearty appreciation of his monologue and step dances, returning with two encore dances to the tunes of "Come Back to Erin" and "Turkey in the Straw." His nimble footwork was evidently much enjoyed as was that of the two small Flynn sisters, Audrey and Bernadette, small graceful figures in bright green, who danced to the music of "Ukulele Lady," to an Irish jig and a sailor's hornpipe, in light-footed sprightly numbers that had a double encore. They were accompanied by their sister, Berenice Flynn.

Mr. Clarke received his usual meed of applause and gave an encore to his banjo solo of "Believe Me, if All Those Endearing Young Charms," and also played in an out-of-the-ordinary duet with Jerry Collins, violinist, the rendition of "Are You Going to Dance," the gay number from "The Count of Luxembourg," being very pleasing, and bringing an encore in "Swanee River."

Miss Anna Gallegher and Daniel Leonard sang a very attractive duet, "Saxaphone Waltz," and another unique instrumental duet that proved very entertaining was a violin and harmonica rendition by Jerry Collins and Ulrich Brioux, with an encore in "Home, Sweet Home," followed by a second encore number.

Miss Stella Brady sang in sweet voice, "Baby Your Mother Like She Babied You," with an encore in a repetition of the final verse, and an exceptionally fine quartette, in portions from "Mr. Moon" and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny," was given by the Leonards, Daniel, Edmond, Emil and Maurice, the four good voices blending in splendid fashion. A song by James Crebar, in a "wop" number, was received with much enthusiasm, and brought a repetition encore, was followed by the closing chorus, "Side by Side."

Members of the chorus were Romeo Leonard, Frank Meade, Ray O'Brien, Ed. Vinette, Walter Robertson and Frank Butler. End men were Bob Armstrong, Maurice Leonard, Michael Clancy, Edmond Leonard, Frank Clarke and Ulrich Brioux. Members of the orchestra were Frank Kearney, piano; Joe Gearns, saxaphone; Melville Starr, banjo; Jerry Collins, violin, and Jim McCormack, traps. Messrs. Garvey and Devlin assisted at the door.

MOST PUPILS HOPE TO LIVE IN THIS CITY

Five-eights of Those Answering Questionnaire Favor Peterborough As Home.

USUAL RATIO REVERSED.

Suggestions Made For Program of Chamber of Commerce To Develop City.

What has proven one of the most interesting events in the "Forward Peterborough Movement" being conducted by the Chamber of Commerce has been the school meetings held by the speakers and the returns from the questionnaires filled out by the student body of the public and parochial schools.

"The results in Peterborough," says Harry R. McKeen, who examined the papers, "should be a matter of much satisfaction and congratulation. Never have I seen such loyalty expressed to the home town and so emphatically stated. Young folks here are surely attached to their home town and want to remain here if it is at all possible. There is a big lesson here for the present leaders.

Of the group replying, 75 per cent. expect to attend institutions of higher learning and 25 per cent. do not. The professions will get 36 3-5 per cent. of the students, industry only 5 1-5 per cent., business 31 1-5 per cent., while 27 per cent. were as yet undecided. Among the professions, teaching and stenography were in the lead, while law, medicine and dentistry had their usual quota. Four young men expected to enter the priesthood, and one to become a missionary, and none had a predilection toward the ministry. Agriculture had a few votes, and some winted to become mechanics, railroad engineers and auto mechanics. Industry received the smallest rate here of any recently conducted. In business the range covered about the list found in the city with a majority ambitious to become store managers or have businesses of their own. Of the group "undecided" as to their callings the range covered the entire world of desires.

As to the future residence, 62 1-5 per cent. express a desire to live in Peterborough, but many of them add the proviso, "that I can secure employment to make a living." Those who expect to leave here constitute 23 3-5 per cent and 14 1-5 per cent. are undecided. The percentage of those wishing to remain in Peterborough is just reversed from the average town, which speaks very highly of the home and school training and community conditions that appeal to young people.

Reasons given for remaining all expressed satisfaction with the city. Those desiring to leave or undecided dealt largely with the economic phase of the question as they wanted larger opportunities in the matter of positions or salaries.

As to suggestions for the Chamber of Commerce programme, 115 suggested the securing of additional industry, 79 wanted increased or improved educational facilities, 37 recommended better co-operative efforts and 23 suggested enlarged and improved recreational programs for the community and district.

The entire set of papers was neatly done. The answers were made frankly and sincerely, and gave the readers a cross section of the thinking of the entire city. The definiteness of future plans, positiveness in opinions, breadth of their thinking and love of home town were the outstanding characteristics of the replies. The economic pressure of the homes was clearly indicated in the replies.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1928.

Good and evil planetary influences contend today, according to astrology, which reads in the stars certain menacing promises.

The early morning should be an auspicious time to seek new positions or to look for employment of any sort.

Under the planetary influences before noon the mind should be keenly active and awake to its best possibilities.

Professors, lawyers and writers should benefit from this configuration, which indicates intense activity in certain types of mind.

There is a promising aspect for those who start any new enterprise.

Merchants and manufacturers should profit.

All planetary conditions presage for the United States continued prosperity, but there will be great increase in government expenditures.

Leaders in public affairs are developing under this planetary government, it is forecast, but there may be a period when new men will suffer from serious criticism.

If the stars are rightly read, the coming national campaign will present problems not hitherto encountered.

Women are to exercise influence in politics, but it is to be indirect influence in which past conditions and present status affect elections.

Increased interest in the study of foreign languages may be apparent this year in the United States, for again Europe is to call for aid industrial as well as military, the seers prophesy.

Beauty will be much sought at this time when artistic impulses will be strengthened by the positing of the stars.

The planetary government is most favorable to the development of all the finer things that make life rich and its experiences uplifting the seers prophesy.

Persons whose birthdate it is may expect success in ways not looked for and favors from sources that are surprising.

Children born on this day probably will win success through real ability. The subjects of this sign are usually most trustworthy.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1928.

This should be a fairly favorable day, according to astrology, for benefic aspects dominate.

The morning should be a time in which all things domestic are undertaken by housekeepers, for the stars presage success for those who sweep and garnish.

This is read as a most auspicious sway for social entertainment of every sort. It is a day propitious for music and the arts.

All the signs appear to forecast changes in dress and manners that should be favorable to women.

Trend toward the modest and picturesque, long foretold, will be evident in the summer fashions, the seers predict.

One of the foreign astrologers forecasts for the White House young residents as well as older persons. This evidently means that the next president will have a family still under the parental roof.

There is a promising sign for those who deal in lands and for those who draw sustenance from it. Farmers should benefit.

All who read the stars foretell increase in interest in manual work of every sort. This may mean some sort of national exigency.

The evening of this day is well directed and should be stimulating to mind and body. There should be unusual exhilaration for dancers.

Added interest in athletics will be evident in the early spring when country clubs may introduce a novel pastime.

Again the seers prognosticate a stream of tourists from Europe and new interest in providing American resorts that compare with foreign watering-places.

Mexico is to become more friendly in its attitude to the United States. Some cause for close co-operation is indicated.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a year in which they are concerned with numberless small things that will be profitable.

Children born on this day probably will have a scientific trend of talent. Fine civil engineers are born under this sign.

PROSPECTS MUST BE SHOWN THEY GET VALUE FOR MONEY

All Men Reluctant To Part With Money, Dr. Rockwell Tells Insurance Men.

APPEALS TO EMOTIONS.

Inculcation of Saving Habit in Children is Stressed By Speaker.

"The reluctance to part with money is not exclusively confined to Caledonians," said Dr. Charles J. Rockwell Friday morning in his address to the Life Underwriters' Association on the subject of Sales resistance. "We don't like to give up money unless we feel that we are getting more for it."

Dr. Rockwell's theme ranged over reasons why insurance should be acceptable and appealing to a man.

Those who hesitate in making decisions lack the executive's qualities, he said. The executive is a man who can make a decision on a new idea, stick to his decision and take the consequences. About five per cent of people have that capacity.

Life insurance is a new idea to most men who have not bought it. A man buys shoes often, the farmer buys seed and other needs, but of himself he does not look upon life insurance as a need. No man in his right mind will resist the idea of protection for his family and of independence in his future.

This address was one of the most helpful of Dr. Rockwell's series, his presentation of the Rockwell idea of relativity in insurance sales making a deep impression on his audience; no doubt with effects that will accumulate in future practice by the underwriters.

The objection, "I can use my money to better advantage than by buying life insurance" is merely a boyish argument, Dr. Rockwell said. "He can't use it better if it is to be for his family's protection and gain. Most of such objections are based on reasons, but a man can't reason far enough. It is his feelings that override his judgment and move him to action. Sometimes a man under strong emotion will strike a bigger man who could eat him up. Therefore, when I want action, I appeal to a man's feelings."

Dr. Rockwell deprecated the use of arguments presented as a broadside in selling. "If I throw a bucket of water in a man's face he doesn't even get a drink. Isn't it better to give him water from a glass slowly so he can drink it?"

John I. Allen was chairman of this morning's session.

Dr. Rockwell's second address surveyed present-day family life and its problems, and proposed helpful forms of insurance for its assistance and protection. Just one of his topics was the ideal condition that an insurance policy should be taken out by the father for each child. It would develop the habit of saving in the normal boy, would encourage in him "that indefinable feeling of proprietorship, and also build up a sentiment, a disposition of attachment to the policy and what is represented." The boy should be gradually led to assume small contributions toward the cost of the policy, and if it was taken out when he was quite small he would grow up with the idea of saving as part of his character.

The father who thinks that he can sit down some evening when his boy is seventeen or eighteen and deliver a little lecture on saving to his son, expecting that his words are going to have the effect he desires, has something to learn about the art of being a father, said Dr. Rockwell. All his addresses to the conference have been copiously illustrated with such truths as that.

The misery of a little child is of interest to every woman, the misery of a young girl is of interest to every young man, but the misery of an old man is of interest to no person. Dr. Rockwell quoted that statement from Victor Hugo. If a man doesn't save money, he invites disaster, but the father who tries to save money and raise a family is in many cases simply cheating the family. He is taking dollars off their backs, out of their mouths and out of their best interests for their future. The members of that family may be thereby condemned to a life of comparative slavery. That is the perplexing problem that faces many fathers, Dr. Rothwell said. He compared the family to an arch with the father as the keystone. But the keystone's position depends upon the stones in the columns. If the keystone is removed the arch will fall, but if one of the stones in a column is removed, the arch will likewise collapse. Money paid by members of a family on a father's policy is only loaned. It will eventually return to them.

JAIL "WILLIAM TELL"

CLEVELAND, Feb. 18.—Ex-patrolman Henery Frishkorn has something on William Tell. He must spend four months in the workhouse for trying to imitate the famous sharpshooter. Frischkorn tried the stunt with his police pistol, firing at the hat of George Reynerd. He not only hit the hat, but also the head of the man with whom he had been discussing the merits of his weapon.

AGENCY OPENS HALIFAX OFFICE

A. McKim Limited Extends Chain From Coast to Coast.

NOW HAS SEVEN OFFICES.

It is announced to-day that A. McKim Limited, General Advertising Agency, will further extend its coast to coast chain of branches by opening an office in Halifax on Feb. 15th.

This step indicates appreciation by Canada's largest advertising agency of the important place occupied by the Maritime Provinces in the industrial activity of the country.

The new office will be in charge of Mr. H. R. McDougal, who has had a number of years' experience in the head office of the company at Montreal, developing advertising accounts and carrying out merchandising and advertising plans for manufacturers and others in a wide variety of businesses.

While A. McKim Limited has for several years operated six offices, it has been felt that the chain was not complete without a Maritime branch and the abundant signs of present and potential progress now apparent throughout the three Atlantic Coast provinces makes the present a most opportune time for the new branch to be inaugurated.

Such development in practically every line of industry carried on in the Maritimes is in evidence, that the specialized council and service which the McKim organization is equipped to give is sure to be welcomed by Maritime Province firms desiring further development of sales in their own and other provinces and by business men in other parts of Canada who wish to secure a share of the splendid volume of business available in Nova Scotia New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

The addition of the Halifax branch will give A. McKim Limited fully equipped offices in Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, Winnipeg, Vancouver, Halifax and London, England.

WINTER SHOW AT MILLBROOK IS BIGGEST YET

Annual Exhibit of Horses Draws Many Entries and Spectators.

WEATHER IS FAVORABLE.

Competition Keen in Every Class—Concert Proves Great Success.

MILLBROOK, February 18. — The annual Winter Horse Show held in Millbrook on Friday, February 17, under the auspices of the Agricultural Society, overtopped the record of any previous year in the success which attended the event, all classes being well filled, and the estimate of fully one thousand people in attendance being apparently well within the mark.

The judge, Albert E. Webster, of Oakwood, was here for the first time in his official capacity. His decisions, on the whole, gave general satisfaction.

The weather was favorable, and King street, where all horses were exhibited, was in good condition when the driving began about 1.30 p.m.

All animals entered had to be the bona-fide property of the exhibitors, and no animal shown could be entered in more than one class, but might be shown in more than one section of its class; all exhibitors were required to be members of the local Agricultural Society. No entrance fee is charged. The prize-list was as follows:

Carriage Horses—(1) Single horse in harness: 1, H. Jemison, Mount Pleasant; 2, Mrs. Chandler, Peterborough; 3, Fitchette's Meat Market.

(b) Pair horses in harness—1, W. Boyd, Orono; 2, James Swanston, South Monaghan.

Class II—Roadster Horses.

(a) Single horse in harness, under 15-2—1 Dr. Zealand (Port Hope), 2 W. J. Stacey (Peterborough), 3 W. Atkins.

(b) Single horse in harness 15-2 and over—1 George Cochrane (Burketon), 2 Johnson, 3 Boyd.

(c) Pair horses in harness—1 Boyd, 2 Johnston.

Class III—Gentleman's Turnout.

1 Chandler, 2 Stacey, 3 Jemison.

Class IV—Pacer's Special.

1 Boyd, 2 Gray, 3 C Lee (Janetville).

Class V—Percherons.

1 John Rowland.

Class VII—General Purpose.

1 A. J. Henderson & Son, 2 John Elgar.

Class VIII—Agricultural Horses.

(a) Pair horses in harness— 1 F. Lowery, 2 Boyd, 3 G. A. Fair.

(b) Brood mare—1 D. A. Henry, 2 Boyd, 3 Lowery.

Class VIII—Heavy Draught.

(a) Pair horses in harness—1 R. J. McKnight, 2 H. McMahon, 3 D. Armstrong.

Class IX—Sweepstakes.

Best agricultural mare or gelding, any age—W. W. Kennedy.

Class X—Sweepstakes.

Best heavy draught mare or gelding, any age—R. J. McKnight.

The prizes, in practically all classes, for single horses were $5.00, $3.00 and $2.00 respectively, and for a pair of horses $7.00, $5.00 and $3.00; in the sweepstakes, Class IX, the prize was $3.00, and in Class X $5.00 in goods by the Millbrook Coal Company. Local merchants donated a number of the prizes either in cash or goods, giving, as usual, generous support to this annual event which is apparently the only one of its kind in this section of the province.

Two concerts, in connection with the Winter Fair, were held in the town hall on Thursday and Friday nights, with a fnull house on both occasions, a fine program being presented by the Brunswick Trio, Scotch entertainers from London, Ontaroi.

NEGATIVE WINS DEBATE ON CRIME

Decided at Bridgenorth That Poverty is Principal Cause.

The weekly debate of the Bridgenorth Short Course was held on Thursday afternoon; the subject of debate being "Resolved, that more crime is due to wealth than to poverty." The affirmative was taken by Clare Grant and Dorothy Tully; the negative by Harry Blewett and Mary Middleton. Judges appointed were Miss Roberts, Olive Sidey and Russell Rosborough, who bave their decision in favor of the negative.

Clarence Mann was chairman; Rev. W. S. Edgar gave a short speech and J. Jopling gave a reading.

C. S. Cummer, Manager of the George Street Branch of the Bank of Montreal, spoke on "Banking as a Business." As a result of questions, he explained the difference between a current account and a savings account, also a joint account. He explained the duties of the different officials of the bank, and distributed blank checks and forms and literature. Many of the class got an insight into the mysteries of banking.

FEARED THIRTY SWEPT TO DEATH

Enquiries Received From Relatives of Many Missing Commuters.

IN FERRY ACCIDENT.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 18 (Canadian Press). — Anxious inquiries by relatives and friends of thirty persons who were expected to return to their East Bay homes on the ferry boat Peralta and did not appear, resulted to-day in the fear that they were among the victims of the Bay accident in which many persons were swept into the water.

Oakland police and officials of the Key System Transit Company, which operated the ferry, announced they had inquiries for thirty persons. The company refused to make public a list of names and it was not available at the Oakland Police Station.

The company had previously announced that twenty persons had been swept overboard and thirteen had been rescued, inferring that seven were missing.

DR. JAMIESON VISITS DURHAM

Head of Mothers' Allowance Commission Attends Meeting of Board.

ADDRESSES MEMBERS.

MILLBROOK, February 18. — The Honorable Dr. Jamieson, chairman of the Mothers' Allowance Commission for Ontario, had his initial meeting with the Durham County Board in the Town Hall, Bowmanville, on Friday, February 17, five members and the retiring investigator, Miss Josephine Burry, being in attendance.

F. W. Galbraih, of Port Hope, the chairman of thte Durham Board, opened the meeting with prayer and in his opening remarks expressed the pleasure of those present in meeting the new chairman of the commission, and having the opportunity of gaining from him fresh information of the operations of the Act, not only in their own territory, but also throughout the Province as well.

At Dr. Jamieson's request, the regular business of the Board was proceeded with, two new applications being considered, and passed, subject to further investigation in some details. An appeal, which had come up before, and had been refused, made by a resident of Bowmanville on behalf of his wife, was placed in the hands of Dr. Jamieson for final decision by the Commission. The applicant is partially disabled, but is receiving a monthly cheque from the Workmen's Compensation Board, which disqualifies his appeal for assistance under the Mothers' Allowances Act, under this course.

Dr. Jamieson briefly addressed the Board, stating his satisfaction with the manner in which the business was conducted, and on behalf of the Commission, thanked the members, especially the secretary, Mrs. A. L. Nichols, upon whom the heaviest burden falls, for the faithful service voluntarily rendered in this worthy cause.

A. J. Reynolds, who has been a member of the Commission for the past eight years, also spoke of his pleasure in meeting the Durham Board, and commended the members highly for the efficient manner in which they manage the business coming under their supervision.

4,860 Families Helped.

According to figures supplied by Dr. Jamieson, there are now 4,860 families receiving assistance under the Act, divided as follows: One family with twelve children, one with eleven children, two with ten children, eight with nine children, twenty with eight children, sixty-eight with seven children, 170 with six children, 346 with five children, 718 with four children, 1,260 with three children, 2,166 with two children, and sixty with one child, and an incapacitated husband—a total of 14,625 children in all.

Expeditures are going up rapidly, the estimate being that there is an increase of 50 beneficiaries a month; last year the amount expended was $2,007,000; this year the amount voted is $2,150,000—an increase of 143,000, and yet this may not be sufficient to meet the demand.

In January of this year the expenditure was $177,165; of this amount Peterborough County, with 35 beneficiaries, received $1,142; Peterborough City, with 42 beneficiaries, received $1,647; Durham County, with 28 beneficiaries, received $935 and Northumberland County with 36 beneficiaries received $1,140. The number of beneficiaries in Durham remains practically the same each year, the secretary reported, 65 being the total number since the inception of the Act. The average allowance for the province is $36.45, and the increase in the number of beneficiaries for the fiscal year works out at 2.77 per cent.

Investigator Resigns

During the lunhceon hour which followed the formal business session on Friday, Mr. Galbraith spoke with hearty appreciation of the fine service rendered by Miss J. M. Burry, as investigator, has covered Peterborough County and City, Durham, Northumberland, Hastings and Prince Edward Counties.

Dr. Jamieson also extended the regret of the Commission in losing Miss Burry from the staff, and mentioned appreciately the clear and full reports which she had always sent in. He was sure the mothers would feel keenly the cessation of her visits and miss her kindly advice and helpful sympathy.

Other members of the Board spoke in like manner, and Miss Burry replied suitably, stating her pleasure in the work, and the very fine asset which the Mothers' Allowances' Act is to the province. All present extended best wishes for happiness and prosperity in the new sphere of life upon which Miss Burry will soon enter. Miss Harber of Toronto will succeed Miss Burry as investigator for the territory mentioned.

Dr. Jamieson does not think the Mothers' Allowances' Act will be extended this year to include a mother with only one child, but believed that it should be amended to allow the wife of a criminal, incarcerated in goal or penitentiary, to receive the help for the children's sake. Prison labor cannot compete with free labor, hence the suggestion that the man's wages, provided he was paid for work under these conditions, would keep her, is hardly feasible.

The first high tension electric power transmission system in the British Empire was completed in Canada in 1895. This was an 11,000-volt line carrying electric energy a distance of 17 miles from a 1,200 horse-power plant on the Batiscan river, Quebec, to the city of Three Rivers.

W.M.S. HOLDS VALENTINE TEA

WELL ATTENDED.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 18.— The Valetnine Tea, held in the Sunday school rooms of the United church, under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Society, was a most successful affair. The seating capacity was taxed to the utmost and standing room was at a premium. The program was well presented and equally well received. Mrs. Hazell, Mrs. Stevens and Mrs. Scott were in charge. The rooms were decorated with suitable valentine decorations. And after the program, lunch was served, which included valentine cookies, and candies, as well as the usual coffee, sandwiches and cake.

As chairman, the Rev. Ernest Harston spoke briefly before continuing the program. His remarks were in keeping with the occasion and the event. As the opening number, Misses Dorothy Henson and Nellie Haig played a piano duet. The fairy tale, a miniature play, was very pretty and won loud applause. The cast included Mary Coxwell, the fairy who told the story, Dorothy Henson, the Spanish girl, Essie Cassan, the Japanese girl, Enid Richardson the English girl, Mrs. R. W. Scott the mother. Ruth Taylor, Mrs. Scott, Mr. A. Hazell and Mr. George Lucy were the soloists for the sketch. The trend of the story is that a small boy fell asleep and dreamed that he was searching for the most beautiful girl in the world. He had tired of being a child and wished to grow up. A touch of the magic wand of the fairy had accomplished his wish and he had set out on his quest. His quest led him to Spain, Japan, England and several countries of the world, but he was not satisfied. Eventually he wakened to find his mother standing beside him and realized that she was the most beautiful of women.

Mrs. G. A. Kingston's reading, David and Goliath, a humorous affair, won much applause. As an encore she gave the House With Nobody In It, by Joyce Kilmer. Mrs. Decarrol's solo was also encored. Marjorie Ackerman's rendering of Edgar Guest's "You" was encored, and Miss Ackerman responded wtih a humorous bit. A duet from Il Trovatore, sung by Miss Meiklejohn and Mr. Hazell, might easily be identified as the high light of the program. S. A. Maguire's reading from the works of Dr. Drummond won him an encore and he responded with Canadian Born, by Pauline Johnston. In the place of honour came Mr. George Lucy's solo and encore.

The musical tableau, The Rendezvous, was something not frequently attempted locally and was favourably received. Lois Meyers and Helen Cowell posed as shepherdess and shepherd with Ross Richardson as Cupid. Mrs. Scott sang the solo, Rendezvous. After this number, lunch was served by the ladies of the society. The affair is recognized as one of the most successful of its kind.

St. John's Win Opening Tilt of City Series

SAINTS WIN FIRST BATTLE CITY CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES BEATING PETES' JUNIORS 2-1

Two Local Junior O.H.A. Teams Stage a Lively Argument.

PLEASE CROWD.

Fans Vote Game One of Best Local Tussles of Season.

(By F.D.C.)

The prediction that a series between the two Peterborough Junior O.H.A. teams would produce some of the best and most interesting hockey of the season was fulfilled at the Brock Street Rink last night when the St. John's team defeated Lew Lebarr's Peterborough outfit 2 goals to 1 in the first game of the series.

The teams are playing three fixtures, goals to count, so that the Saints will carry a one-goal lead into the second battle on Monday night and if the weather conditions permit of fast ice, the clash should be worth going miles to see.

Last night's game was a grueling, close-checking struggle on soft ice, with plenty of fast hockey in spite of the heavy going. St. John's scored the only goal in the first period, both teams found the nets once in the second, and the third session was scoreless, with both teams pretty close to being all in when the final bell sounded.

The close checking of the Saints and the fact that they stuck to their positions better than the Petes gave them a slight edge on the night's play, but there was little to choose between the rival outfits, both of whom missed good opportunities to score. The teams started at full strength, but the Saints had the misfortune to lose the services of Frank Carroll, their good defence man, who had his eye cut in the first period and had to retire for the rest of the game.

Referee Walter Jackson kept the game well in hand by dishing out nineteen penalties, eleven to the losers. At one stage of the second period the players were thinned down to four aside, but there was no scoring when the outfits were short-handed. The conditions were made for hard checking, and the referee took no chances about letting the game get away from him. It was an exciting battle from gong to gong, with the issue in doubt until the timers ended the affray and the team will go into the second tussle on Monday realizing that they are evenly matched and will have to be on their toes all the way. All of which should make Monday's game one of the outstanding features of the season.

The Petes had plenty of speed to show, and were dangerous frequently while the Saints matched the fast skating of the losers with determined checking and better team play, the result being a tense struggle that kept the crowd excited from start to finish. There were plenty of close calls at both ends of the rink to add to the excitement and the rival goalers covered themselves with glory in stalling off these close-in raids.

Every man on both line-ups gave every ounce he had to turn the tide. Payne, the Saints' net guardian, played a sparkling game in the nets, pulling off some grand saves, while in front of him Johnston played his best hockey of the year, and Jarvis, when he dropped back on the defence after the injury to Carroll, checked with splendid effect. Up on the firing line the whole attacking division worked like demons. Terry Hall was especially prominent, playing fifty-five minutes of the hour, but Cuthbertson, Hartley, Jake Hall, and Weir were all effective going both ways.

For the losers Pat Calladine, in spite of his four penalties, was the most efficient puck carrier. He got the Petes' only goal, incidentally his first of the season, on a line rush, and he was dangerous much more often than any of his team mates. On the forward line Jones was probably the most effective, although Allin and Kenneally turned in fine cards, and the rest were not far behind. Gillespie played a whale of a game in the nets, and Lebarr's checking was of much assistance.

The Teams.

Peterborough Juniors—
Goal—Gillespie.
Defence — Lebarr and Calladine.
Centre—Jones.
Subs. — Cripps, White, Hatton.
St. John's—
Goal—Payne.
Defence—Johnston and Carroll.
Centre—Cuthbertson.
Right wing—Terry Hall.
Subs.—Hartley, J. Hall, Weir.

Play opened cautiously with both teams trying out long shots without any success. Allin and Jarvis drew the first penalties of the game together, and soon after Lebarr and Calladine were both chased. With a two-man advantage the Saints pressed, but Gillespie made several nice stops, and the red and white team failed to cash in on this excellent opening. When the sides were even again, Cuthbertson was banished for tripping, and then Calladine drew his second penalty. The teams were working like beavers at this stage, but the close checking and good work by the two goalies kept the score sheet clean. Carroll had his eye cut after sixteen minutes' play, and had to leave the ice for the rest of the game, Jarvis dropping back to the defence, and Hartley going to left wing. After eighteen minutes' hard going Hartley put the Saints ahead. He carried the rubber in on a lone rush, lost it momentarily, and then picked up a loose puck to slide an easy one past Gillespie. The score remained at 1 to 0 at the end of the period.

It was soon changed in the second session, however, for thirteen seconds after the face-off Terry Hall took a pass from Johnston, and his snap shot from the right boards slid off Gillespie into the net for the Saints' second and last goal of the night. This quick counter was followed by an epidemic of penalties. First Jones and then Kenneally were chased, and right on top of these penalties came sentences to Weir and Johnston, leaving the teams with only four men each on the ice. Both had opportunities to score, but failed to cash in, and the absentees got back into the game again before there was any scoring. Then Jarvis and Cripps came off together and Calladine was again waved to the side. The teams were all even, however, when Calladine got the rubber at centre, worked his way up the left boards, and circling in caught the corner of the net with a fine shot. As it turned out, that was the last score of the game.

There was plenty of action in the last twenty minutes, but no scoring. Both teams missed close in chances or were beaten by fine goal keeping, and the crowd was kept on its toes. Jarvis drew the first penalty for tripping Calladine, and then Jones was chased twice in quick succession for bodying into the boards. Calladine was robbed of a great chance when Payne saved at point blank range, and up at the other end of the rink Gillespie made a fine stop of a close-in one from Terry Hall. Both teams were tiring under the heavy going, but they worked until the finish, and in the final stage Johnston, after one of the prettiest rushes of the night, came within an ace of giving his team a two-goal lead to carry into the second game. He stick-handled round the whole blue and white crew, but fell over Gillespie as he tried to skate around the Pete goaler. It was the last dangerous move of the game.

WINDSOR PULLS OUT OF CELLAR

Defeats Toronto Falcons 6-2 and Passes London in Race.

STRATFORD WINS.

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 18.—Waging a desperate fight to at least retain a mathematical chance of making the play-off, Windsor Hornets collected two valuable points here last night when they turned back Frank Selke's Toronto Falcons 6 goals to 2. By so doing they hurdled London and climbed out of the cellar, which they had occupied for 24 hours. It was a tight battle up to the final period, with the home club enjoying a 3 to 2 lead 15 minutes from the end. Then the Hornets ran in three straight goals to make it a runaway.

Stratford Wins

STRATFORD, Ont., Feb. 18.—In what was undoubtedly the most gruelling game witnessed here this season, Stratford Nationals last night blanked Kitchener Millionaires, 3 to 0. The homesters earned their victory, but had to fight for it every inch of the way. True, the Nats had the edge so far as such things go, but the Millionaires showed much of the mettle that has placed them so near the top of the heap. It was a typical Stratford - Kitchener game and practically every fan in Ontario knows what that means.

Overtime at Hamilton

HAMILTON, Feb. 19. — Seventy minutes of the most consistent hockey seen in the Canadian League games here this season, failed to bring about any result except a division of the points when the Niagara Falls Cataracts paid their scheduled visit here last night. After two overtime periods, the teams called it a night with the score at two-all, and the fans were quite satisfied to see a draw decision after the Hamilton outfit had twice come from behind to even the count.

TOOL MAKERS EVEN TUSSLE WITH CONTROL

Tie One Goal Lead of Industrial Boys in the C.G.E. League.

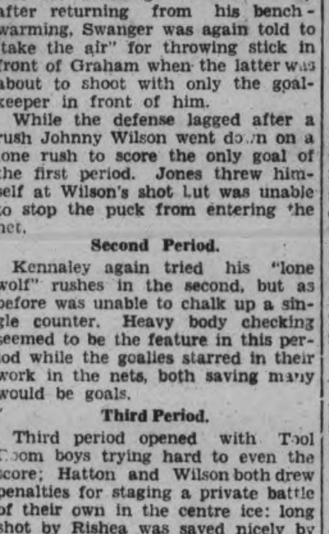
GOALIES GOOD.

Both Teams Show Good Exhibition of Clean, Lively Hockey.

Staging a combination rush within the third period Epps saved his team from defeat by tieing the one goal lead of Industrial Control in the game played against the Tool Room in the C.G.E. series at the Brock street rink last night. Johnny Wilson scored the only goal for the Tool Makers on a lone rush in the first period.

Both teams were evenly matched and showed a good exhibition of clean lively hockey. Swanger of Tool Room was the leader of the "bad boys" with three penalties chalked up against him taking two in the first period and one in the third; Hatton, Wilson, Kennaley and Williams had one apiece for game. Jones and Griffin starred in nets, both being called upon to make many trying saves.

Play.



Many individual rushes seemed to be feature of play in first and second periods.

Game opened fast with individual rushes featuring the play. Kennaley tried hard several times but failed to register a tally. Swanger given rest for boarding Wilson shortly after returning from his bench-warming, Swanger was again told to 'take the air" for throwing stick in front of Graham when the latter was about to shoot with only the goalkeeper in front of him.

While the defense lagged after a rush Johnny Wilson went down on a lone rush to score the only goal of the first period. Jones threw himself at Wilson's shot but was unable to stop the puck from entering the net.

Second Period.

Kennaley again tried his "lone wolf" rushes in the second, but as before was unable to chalk up a single counter. Heavy body checking seemed to be the feature in this period while the goalies starred in their work in the nets, both saving many would be goals.

Third Period.

Third period opened with Tool Room boys trying hard to even the score; Hatton and Wilson both drew penalties for staging a private battle of their own in the centre ice: long shot by Rishea was saved nicely by Griffin. Kennaley, and Swanger given rest cure for their rough house tactics. Combined rush of the Tool room forward spoiled by Griffin's fine save, Wilson struck back by lone dash down the ice, but it came to naught when Jones left his net to make a complete save. The Tool Room forward resorted to long shots which were handled neatly by Griffin. Epps tied the score for Tool makers with a pass from Foley in combined rush; Williams given penalty for mixing too much; Industrial Control forwards rush down upon opponents' nets, and a general mix-up of players in goal mouth followed but no score tallied.

Line-up.

Industrial Control: Goal, Griffin; defence, Simmons and Shields; centre, Kennaley; Wings, Graham and Wilson; subs., O'Brien, Darling and Bennett.

Tool room — Goal, Jones; defence, Hatton and Swanger; centre A. Williams; wings Foley and Corkery; subs, Helson and Epps.

Summary.

Score by periods.
First: Wilson (1.)
Second: No score.
Third: Epps (1).
Penalties: First period: Swanger (2); third period Hatton, Wilson, Kennaley, Swanger and Williams.

WED-EAT IN AIR

LONDON, Feb. 18.—After their recent marriage in London, Carlos Stewart, of New Orleans, and Mary Lessing, of London, decided to do up the ceremony in an appropriate way. So they climbed in a special airplane and ate their wedding breakfast several thousand feet above the English Channel.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By a Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Sizing up the Olympic winter sports, Mac, it looks to me like the Canadian committee pulled a real boner in picking its representatives. What you need over there ain't speed skaters and champion skiers, but a bunch of linguists what can talk turkey in 7 different languages. The real fight ain't out on the ice, but in the committee room, and a bird what can only talk Canuck ain't got a chance in the world to beat out them Europeans when it comes to throwing around large chunks of mixed language. They may have been a thaw over there at St. Moritz, but from here the whole thing looks like a frost. And I don't mean perhaps. How they expect to pick the real champions in the cock-eyed way they run the Olympic speed contests you can ask me, but I ain't going to say I can tell you.

Well, Mac, locally they ain't nothing to waste paper over this week. Our away-from-home home team, the Havelockers, passed outa the picture Mon. night, although them lads from Sheriff Paxton's bailiwick didn't show no real reason why they shoulda gone into the next round. Mister Quinn and his pals was beat because they didn't get up enough steam in the early stages of the game. They was 4 mins. late when they suddenly began to throw the coal to her, and they picked up 2 mins. on the run home, coming into the station with a full head of steam, and they ain't a doubt in the world that if they had began to shovel in the 1st period the Whitby entry woulda gone down for a Chicago count. Anyway the Whitby management owes me a vote of thanks. Last week I wrote up this Mister Wright as ripe fruit off the top layer, and so naturally he goes out there Mon. and most of the time plays like he was suffering from a bad attack of hook-worm with sleeping sickness complications. You can't beat it. Any time you hand somebody a bouquet he makes you look like a boob the next time out. After this I gonna try something else.

This here serious between Lew Lebarr's Peterborough jrs. and the St. John's, Mister Sporting Editor, is gonna give 1 of them teams a thrill—1 of them is at last meeting a O.H.A. team it can beat, and that is something it didn't look like no Peterborough team was gonna run across this season. Anyway them 2 clubs should put up a real argument, and with 2 more games next week the fans and fannies should oughta get a couple nice evenings' hockey out of it.

Baseball is beginning to edge in on the sporting page, Mac, and according to rumors some of the teams down this way is loaded up with imported material. They tell me 2 or 3 new lads landed in Belleville just before 1927 called it a year, and up in Oshawa a bunch of motormakers is expected to turn out good ball players when the grass is green again. Let 'em all come, sez we.

Well, Mac, they ain't no 40-min. limit on me, but anyway I'm sunk for something to talk about, so I'll just quit now.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

URBAN SHOCKER RETIRES FROM MAJOR LEAGUE

Veteran Right Handed Pitcher of Yankees Hands in Resignation.

NOT A HOLD-OUT.

Leaving Game For Furtherance of Business Interests at Home.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18. Canadian Press. — Urban Shocker, veteran right handed pitcher of the Yankees, apparently has ended his 12 year career of major league baseball by voluntary retirement, but the officials of the Yankees are not sure "whether he means it or not."

The announcement came in a telegram to Business Manager Ed. Barrow of the World's champions, in which Shocker said he was retiring "for the furtherance of my business interests at home."

Both the veteran pitcher and the Yankee officials denied that he was a hold out or that there had been any disagreement between them in regard to the salary to be paid him this year. According to Barrow the telegram was the first he had heard from Shocker since his contract was mailed. The pitcher had said nothing about not being satisfied with the terms offered, Barrow added.

Asked what the club intended to do about it, Barrow said the next move was up to Shocker.

"If he decided to report," Barrow said, "it will be all right. Otherwise he will be placed on the voluntary retired list. We will do nothing. We don't know whether Shocker means what he says or not."

During his twelve seasons in the majors, Shocker, one of the few remaining spitball pitchers has made a consistently good record. He has often expressed a desire to retire before his arm lost its cunning.

Shocker started his career in organized baseball in 1913 with the Windsor club in the Border league. His first appearance in fast company was in 1916 when he played with the Yankees for the first part of the season but finished with Toronto.

Lloyd Gunther Holds Lead In Tournament

LAKE PLACID, N.Y., Feb. 18. (Canadian Press.)— Lloyd Gunther, Detroit, led the field in the Gold Cup amateur outdoor speed skating tournament with 110 points at the close of yesterday's programme, the third of the tournament Eddie Jacobson of Chicago, held second place with 88 points, Eddie Farrell, N. Y., third with 50 points. Allan Potts, New York, and Melvin Johnson, of St. Paul, were tied for fourth place with 40 points each.

Gunther placed first in the three-quarter mile race, but fell on the second lap of the half-mile final. Potts flashed past the fallen Gunther in the half-mile to win the event.

Morris Rowan, of Ottawa, the only Canadian competing yesterday, placed second in the 200 yard race for boys 14 years of age. The event was won by Marks, of Chicago.

ONE-MINUTE INTERVIEWS

EARL SANDE SAYS:

I feel quite sure that I will be reinstated and allowed to get back into the saddle before the spring race meetings open. I have always felt that I was not guilty of a malicious foul, though it must have looked like one to cause the officials to take such drastic action in setting me down after that race in Maryland.

Jockeys, you know, who are riding to win as I always have done, have to take chances that even imperil life and limb and often the mistakes of a less experienced jockey who loses his head in a packed field make the other fellow look like the offender. The older boys who were riding in that race were willing to back me up, but it didn't do any good.

It has been suggested to me that I go to England or France to ride in those countries because of the weight handicap, I don't want to leave the American track because the game here and the fans too have been awfully nice to me.

Pains Across Kidneys For Two Years

Unable to Work

"Gin Pills—Wonderful Remedy"

We receive thousands of letters yearly from grateful users of Gin Pills, who have been relieved of suffering from kidney and bladder trouble. When Nature fails to do her proper work of eliminating harmful waste through the kidneys, bladder and bowels, a remedy must be found. Many people have found Gin Pills to be this remedy. Among them, James Johnson of Bridgeburg, Ont. He writes:

"I was troubled with pains across the kidneys for two years. I was unable to do any work. I read about Gin Pills and got a box right away from my druggist. My sincere thanks are due you for your wonderful remedy, which has done so much for me."

Neglect of kidney trouble spells disaster. Lumbago, Rheumatism and Sciatica as well as bladder and urinary troubles follow. Upon the first warning get a box of Gin Pills, 50c at all druggists. National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Toronto, Canada. 127

GREAT BATTLE ASSURED FOR MONDAY NIGHT

Saints Have Lead of Goal, But Petes Expect To Wipe That Out.

THE JUNIOR PLAY-OFFS.

Every Fan Who Saw the First Game Will Be Back For More.

With St. John's holding a one-goal lead as the result of their 2-1 victory over the Peterboro Juniors last night, the second game of the series between the two local Junior O.H.A. teams at Brock Street Rink Monday night should be one of the most exciting tussles of the year.

Every fan who saw the first game of the series will be back Monday night for the second clash. The crowd was delighted with the fight put up by the two teams last night and they are looking forward to an even more exciting argument, especially as fast ice is expected.

Goals count in this series of three games, so that the Saints' margin is a scant one, and the teams start the second struggle practically on even terms, and so evenly matched that anything is liable to happen.

This of course adds to the excitement, and the fans will have a great week-end arguing about the merits of the two teams. Both have their supporters, and as a result of last night's victory for the Saints, which came as a surprise to many hockey enthusiasts, the interest is now at fever heat.

The Peterborough team will be the same as in the first battle, while the Saints' line-up has not yet been announced. If Carroll is unable to play Jarvis will continue to play defence and Dunkerly will be one of the subs. Walter Jackson has been agreed upon as referee, and the teams will be on their best behaviour in view of the penalties handed out last night.

Monday's game is at 8.15 o'clock.

The third and final game is to be played on Thursday night, and the prediction now is that the series will not be decided until the final fixture is nearly completed.

Popular prices are being charged, the admission being 25c on the east side and 35c for gentlemen and 25c for ladies on the west side. Both teams finished the season in the lead and in view of that fact and the fine hockey played in the first game, there should be real crowds out for the next two arguments.

HAVELOCK TEAM PLAYS IN MADOC

Meanwhile Campbellford Fans Wait Anxiously For Arrival There.

MIX-UP UNEXPLAINED.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 18.—With advertisement in every window in town and the local hockey fans more than anxious to see how their own team could stack up against an O.H.A. aggregation, Davidson's Arena was called upon to issue the first "rain checks" in its history. With the Campbellford team on the ice doing their preliminary warming up, and a two-hundred-dollar house waiting to see the visitors' appearance, it was necessary for Mr. Davidson to announce to the fans that there would be no game, and that those who desired to leave might have their money refunded or their tickets exchanged for the Madoc game Wednesday. Havelock had failed to appear, and telephone investigation had revealed the fact that they were playing in Madoc. In a last minute effort to have a game of some kind, players from several of the town league teams were pressed into service, and a game played to the tune of four all. For this there was no admission fee, but a collection was taken up for the purpose of meeting the ordinary running expenses.

It appears that Hilton Beatty, secretary of the Campbellford hockey club, made arrangements with Albert Armstrong and Barney Quinn of Havelock for the game last night. The arrangements were made by telephone and it was understood that the Havelock team should play if they could be loaned a goal-tender. Sanders was in the visitors' dressing room waiting for the team to appear. The Campbellford team had already taken the ice, and the crowd was beginning to get irritable when eight-thirty arrived and no team appeared. Hilton Beatty telephoned to Havelock and was told that the team had left at five o'clock. To his question as to whether they had decided to walk over, the reply that they were coming by airplane was given. This made Beatty suspicious, and he called Havelock again and asked another person what was the trouble. This time he was told that the team was playing in Madoc and that they had not even started for Campbellford.

C. H. Davidson, owner and manager of the Arena, went out on the ice and announced to the fans what he had just learned. It was evident that they did not take the report kindly, and were at first inclined to take it as a joke, or some trick to stall for time. When the truth dawned on them, practically everyone left the rink and had their admission fee returned. The exhibition game which followed was played between two of the most evenly balanced teams that could be selected. No doubt there is some logical explanation forthcoming.

Recession Continues In New York Shares

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (Canadian Press).—Further liquidation of stock prices brought about another sharp decline in to-day brief session of the market. Many of the industrials and specialties in which pools have been operating dropped three to nearly ten points. United States Steel Common dipped below 140 for the first time this year, but General Motors received good support around 133. Rails were but little affected by today's selling.

New Partners Enter Stock Exchange Firm

Duncanson, White and Company members of the Toronto and Montreal stock exchanges announce that H. H. McKee and R. B. Duggan have been admitted to partnership in their firm.

Mr. McKee was associated with the Toronto stock exchange firm of A. P. Burritt and Company for 26 years and recently joined the firm of Duncanson, White and Company.

R. B. Duggan is a director of the Pittsburgh Steel Products Corporation and has been associated with the legal firm of Symons, Heighington and Shaver, Toronto.

MINES.

F. G. Oke and Company wire as fololws:

TORONTO, Feb. 18.— The market as a whole appeared easier this morning, quite probably acting a little in sympathy with the bear movement on New York and Toronto industrials markets. It seems as though money conditions are tightening up somewhat and as the high prices of New York stocks are considered the result of extraordinarily cheap money for many months, it seems as though a further calling of loans would be an important factor in depressing prices to materially lower levels. Already much liquidation is apparent and as prices fall many marginal holders will be compelled to sell their holdings, thus depressing the market further still.

Whether the decline of industrial stocks will have any prevailing effect on the mining market is quite problematical. The mining market has suffered severe declines during the past few months and experienced mining speculators seem of the opinion that the technical position of most of the Ontario and Northwestern Quebec market leaders is in quite healthy condition.

On the other hand there seems little doubt that much profits from the declining mining market of late has been diverted to the erstwhile rising industrial markets. Whether or not the turn in industrial stocks will reverse the flow of specualtive funds to what are considered bargains now apparent on the mining market, remains to be seen but this occurrence does appear quite possible.

Reviewing the markets action during the past week there seems little doubt that the outlook is considerably more promising. Individual stocks are moving market-wise in accordance with any constructive news available, thus maintaining more or less a specialty market. If this condition prevails then we can surely anticipate a general upward swing of prices which should make itself apparent during the recent few weeks.

Toronto Market Heavy; Nickle's Loss Features

TORONTO, Feb. 18. — (Canadian Press.)—Following Wall Street, the Toronto stock market slumped badly this morning with International Nickel the chief loser on a heavy turnover. Nickel slumped 3¼ at 83½. Walkers sold down to 54½ but made a remarkable recovery to 58½ at noon, selling at a net loss of a mere fraction. British American Oil lost a point and an eighth at 33⅝. Elsewhere losses were widespread but not sensational. A two point recession occurred in Brompton, Canadian Oil and Shredded Wheat, while one point losses were shown in Seagrams at 22, Massey Harris at 38, Canners Second Preferred and Alberta Pacific Grain. Northern Bakeries eased more than a point at 42¾, Cockshutt Preferred was down three at 115, and Imperial Oil and International Petroleum were both fractionally easier. The bright feature of the depression was Carling Breweries, which advanced 2⅝ at 33¾.

Wheat and Corn Rally After Opening Rally

CHICAGO, Feb. 18 (Canadian Press).—Wheat and corn both turned upward in price early today after having averaged lower under moderate pressure of speculative selling. Reports of wheat crop damage from freezing and thawing weather east of the Mississippi River were current. Opening unchanged to ⅛c lower, wheat subsequently scored gains all around. Corn started unchanged to ⅜c off and later showed a moderate general set-back, but then displayed power to rally. Oats were firm.

Opening prices were: Wheat, March 131⅛, May 132. Corn, March 93¼, May 97¼. Oats, March 54⅝, May 55⅝.

"DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS AS THE GAUCHO"

Adventure on South American Pampas

Eulogizing a day when Gauchos bold rode the boundless pampas and the law of might made right, Douglas Fairbanks comes forth in his thrilling new United Artists production, Douglas Fairbanks as The Gaucho, which opens at the Capitol for a three days' run. A more colorful romance than this South American story, with its majestic scenery, its tense rivalries and conquests, could scarcely be conceived. Again, Fairbanks, actor-producer, brings to his world audience a screen narrative destined to rank with the epics of all time.

The star has the role of a bandit chief, the leader of a horde of Gaucho riders, who cross the mountains and occupy a stately shrine city whose wealth is the prey of the cruel usurper of the country. A madcap mountain lass (Lupe Velez), thrilled by the notoriety of the Gaucho chief, joins him en route. News of the outlaw's presence reaches the usurper (Gustav von Seyffertitz), who puts a price upon his head.

A beautiful girl of the shrine, (Eve Southern), whose healing as a child brought fame to the place, stirs strange emotions in the outlaw. The jealous mountain girl betrays him to the commandante (Michael Vavitch), who has placed his garrison in the city by the usurper's orders. A treacherous Gaucho lieutenant (Charlie Stevens), dimisses the band on a false message, and the outlaw is captured. Witnessing his cure at the shrine from the touch of a plague-stricken beggar (Al MacQuarrie), the mountain girl understands the "girl of the miracle" for the first time, and too late tries to prevent the arrest. She rides off to bring the Gaucho band to the rescue.

From his cell the Gaucho chief sees the shrine girl and the protector, the good padre (Nigel de Brulier) under arrest. He digs his way out and joins the oncoming riders. Outnumbered by the dictator's troops, the Gaucho stampedes a vast herd of steers and gains the city as the soldiers are routed. The shrine girl and priest are released from the scaffold. The dictator and commandante are taken by the Gauchos, and the outlaw rides away with the girl of his choice.

No brief resume of the play can do justice to the skillfully constructed action. Enough to say that the imagination is captured at the beginning of the prologue and held to the close of the story. The whimsical humor of Fairbanks and his newly intriguing stunts are a seasoning for the vital movement of the play, whose flavor combines that of some rare old Spanish legend and the romantic moods of the borderland. Doug's adventures are of the sort that delight young and old. His riding, leaping and remarkable dexterity with the bolas serve to emphasize rather than detract from his scenes of superb acting. In Sherwood Forest or in the shadow of the Andes, he remains the gallant adventurer, ever with a surprise for his audience.

"TAXI DANCER" COMING TO TOWN

The Taxi Dancer is coming to town!

For five cents, one-half a dime, one-twentieth of a dollar, she will trip with you the light fantastic while the hot Louisville syncopators croon and wail the St. Louis Blues. If you would learn the Charleston, the St. Louis, or even the Black Bottom, she can do it with you, and probably give you a lesson or two.

And all for the price of five cents.

Who wouldn't be willing to pay two hundred times that amount to dance with Joan Crawford! For boys, Joan Crawford is the girl!!!!

Joan is conceded to be one of the two or three best dancers in the film colony, and it was on this account, as well as the fact that she has exhibited marked dramatic ability, that she was selected by Director Harry Millarde and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer executives for the part of Joslyn Lee, the Southern belle who becomes a "taxi" in one of New York's dance palaces, in "The Taxi Dancer," the big picture that comes to the Regent Theatre on Monday.

A Big Opportunity.

It is the kind of part that comes to a girl once in a lifetime, and Joan, realizing this, has done astonishing work in this Robert Terry Shannon story.

"The Taxi Dancer" was adapted by A. P. Younger to the screen, and it follows the original story closely. Opposite Miss Crawford is Owen Moore.

"WINGS" IS AIR EPIC AIRPLANES ARE STARS

By FREDERICK GRIFFIN

"Wings", the moving picture showing at the Princess, is an achievement. It has achieved the apparently impossible: given a convincing glimpse and taste of air fighting as practised in the late war.

This glimpse and taste has a truly heroic quality. The film is a wind-riding Valkyrie for action.

It might be argued that it would be easy enough to convince the general public who never saw, let alone took part, in a dog fight in the air. But war birds are convinced by "Wings." They call it amazing and marvellous. One or two of the crashes they can figure out, but the others are beyond them—so real are they—unless someone was killed in the making.

"Wings" has probably more truly caught and reproduced the spirit and flavor of air fighting than any of the other war films, not excepting "The Big Parade," has caught and reproduced the spirit and flavor of trench warfare and the clashing of massed armies and individuals on the ground in the day in and day out progress of war.

Clara Bow is in the story, it is true, but she is just there by way of trimming. She scarcely contributes enough woman interest to this picture of epic manhood to be worth mentioning.

There is a little story—just enough to serve as a string for the episodes and to link the furious ensemble together. There are those touches of patriotism and sentiment which are no doubt necessities of war films and these are well done and restrained. The death of one of the principal war birds—a noble boy with a "Beau Geste" reminiscence about him — is convincing.

It is all as real as if you were piloting a plane. In fact, you do sit in the planes with the men. You sight the enemy. You fire on him. You jerk the levers and pour out a ton of bombs. You watch with glee their destruction of the village below. You register fear as the enemy whangs on your tail and splinters your instrument board with his spitting guns.

Included is a flash of leave in Paris to give the public a glimpse of war birds forgetting their air fighting.

This is an American film, and the airmen are necessarily American, but the artistic introduction of the odd Highlander or an occasional French general, as well as flashes of British and French infantry in action, shows and there were other nations in the war!—Toronto Star Weekly.

"Wings," which comes to the Grand Opera House next Friday and Saturday, will be presented with the same mechanical effects as used in the Princess Theatre in Toronto, accompanying music being furnished by an augmented orchestra, under the leadership of Mr. Samuel Marks, Canada's premier conductor.

CAMPBELL IS SET FOR RECORD RACE

British Racer Has Estimated Speed of 198.02949 Miles an Hour in Test.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 18.—(Canadian Press.)—Captain Malcolm Campbell, English automobile racing driver, having tested his Bluebird Special at an unofficially estimated speed of 198.02949 miles an hour, yesterday was prepared for his first attempt to set a new world's record here to-day.

His mount, propelled by a secret motor of the British Air Ministry, used by Great Britain in winning the last scheduled cup race, was declared to have behaved beautifully. His official trial to-day, he indicated, would depend on the weather and conditions of the beach. No time for the test was announced.

The beach was greatly improved over its condition of Thursday when the rain-beaten ocean speedway caused him to strike a rut and slightly damaged the machine.

During the trial yesterday, the Bluebird apparently skimmed over the sands under perfect control. Once, near the end of the course, the machine ran just inside the edge of the water, but its pilot quickly straightened his course and continued down the beach. It required four and a half miles for Captain Campbell to bring his machine to a halt after he attained his maximum speed.

Meanwhile, Frank Lockhart, American driver, who also is out to beat Major H. O. D. Segrave's record mark of 203.7 miles an hour, failed to finish work on his Stutz Black Hawk in time for a test yesterday, but will probably make a trial run to-day.

Ray Keech, veteran driver, brought the triplex machine of J. M. White, Philadelphia manufacturer, out for a trial during the day and reached an unofficial speed of 125 miles an hour.

The triplex is not elegible to compete for the new record under American Automobile Association sanction, because it is not equipped with a reverse gear.

John M. Rutherford, of New York, was second with an average speed of 72.59 miles an hour.

G. M. Spindler, Indianapolis, was forced out on the fourth lap when his motor became overheated. Only three of the 11 cars entered, started.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR of THE BENSON MURDER CASE

© Charles Scribner's Sons

CHARACTERS

PHILO VANCE.
JOHN F.-X. MARKHAM, District Attorney of New York County.
MARGARET ODELL (THE "CANARY").
CHARLES CLEAVER, a man-about-town.
KENNETH SPOTSWOODE, a manufacturer.
LOUIS MANNIX, an importer.

TONY SKEEL, a professional burglar.
WILLIAM ELMER JESSUP, telephone operator.
HARRY SPIVELY, telephone operator
ERNEST HEATH, Sergeant of the Homicide Bureau.

THE STORY THUS FAR

The jewel case in the apartment of the murdered Margaret Odell had been opened with a steel chisel after a futile battering with a poker. This leads Vance to the theory that Skeel did not commit the murder, but was hidden in the closet while the strangler did his work. Vance traces a picture to Alys La Fosse, who informs him Mannix was with her the evening of the murder. Cleaver also has an alibi, but Vance shatters this. Spotswoode, who had gone out with the girl the evening she was murdered, asks to be allowed to visit her apartment again.

CHAPTER XXX

"I think it's easily understandable, don't y' know," remarked Vance, with a sympathy I had rarely seen him manifest. "Your attitude needs no apology. History and fable are filled with the same situation, and the protagonists have always exhibited sentiments similar to yours. Your most famous prototype, of course, was Odysseus on the citron-scented isle of Ogygia with the fascinatin' Calypso. The soft arms of sirens have gone snaking round men's necks ever since the red-haired Lilith worked her devastatin' wiles on the impressionable Adam. We're all sons of that racy old boy."

Spotswoode smiled.

"You at least give me an historic background," he said. Then he turned to Markham. "What will become of Miss Odell's possessions—her furniture and so forth?"

"Sergeant Heath heard from an aunt of hers in Seattle," Markham told him. "She's on her way to New York, I believe, to take over what there is of the estate."

"And everything will be kept intact until then?"

"Probably longer, unless something unexpected happens. Anyway, until then."

"There are one or two little trinkets I'd like to keep," Spotswoode confessed, a bit shamefacedly I thought.

After a few more minutes of desultory talk he rose, and, pleading an engagement, bade us good afternoon.

"I hope I can keep his name clear of the case," said Markham, when he had gone.

"Yes: his situation is not an enviable one," concurred Vance. "It's always sad to be found out. The moralist would set it down to retribution."

"In this instance chance was certainly on the side of righteousness. If he hadn't chosen Monday night for the Winter Garden, he might now be in the bosom of his family, with nothing more troublesome to bother him than a guilty conscience."

"It certainly looks that way." Vance glanced at his watch. 'And your mention of the Winter Garden reminds me. Do you mind if we dine early? Frivolity beckons me tonight. I'm going to the 'Scandals'."

We both looked at him as though he had taken leave of his senses.

"Don't be so horrified, my Markham. Why should I not indulge an impulse? . . . And, incidentally, I hope to have glad tidings for you by lunchtime tomorrow."

(Friday, September 14, noon)

Vance slept late the following day. I had accompanied him to the "Scandals" the night before, utterly at a loss to understand his strange desire to attend a type of entertainment which I knew he detested. At noon he ordered his car, and instructed the chauffeur to drive to the Belafield Hotel.

"We are about to call again on the allurin' Alys," he said. "I'd bring posies to lay at her shrine, but I fear dear Mannix might question her unduly about them."

Miss La Fosse received us with an air of crestfallen resentment.

"I might've know it!" She nodded her head with sneering perception. "I suppose you've come to tell me the cops found out about me without the slightest assistance from you." Her disdain was almost magnificent. "Did you bring 'em with you? . . . A swell guy you are—! But it's my own fault for being a damn fool."

Vance waited unmoved until she had finished her contemptuous tirade. Then he bowed pleasantly.

"Really, y' know, I merely dropped in to pay you my respects, and to tell you that the police have turned in their report of Miss Odell's acquaintances, and that your name was not mentioned in it. You seemed a little worried yesterday on that score, and it occurred to me I could set your mind wholly at ease."

The vigilance of her attitude relaxed.

"Is that straight? . . . My God! I don't know what would happen if Louey'd find out I'd been blabbing."

"I'm sure he won't find out, unless you choose to tell him. . . Won't you be generous and ask me to sit down a moment?"

"Of course—I'm so sorry. I'm just having my coffee. Please join me." She rang for two extra services.

Vance had drunk two cups of coffee less than half an hour before, and I marveled at his enthusiasm for this atrocious hotel beverage.

"I was a belated spectator of the 'Scandals' last night," he remarked in a negligent, conversational tone. "I missed the revue earlier in the season.—How is it you yourself were so late in seeing it?"

"I've been so busy," she confided. "I was rehearsing for 'A Pair of Queens;' but the production's been postponed. Louey couldn't get the theater he wanted."

"Do you like revues?" asked Vance. "I should think they'd be more difficult for the principals than the ordin'ry musical comedy.

"They are." Miss La Fosse adopted a professional air. "And they're unsatisfactory. The individual is lost in them. There's no real scope for one's talent. They're breathless, if you know what I mean."

"I should imagine so." Vance sipped his coffee. "And yet, there were several numbers in the 'Scandals' that you could have done charmingly; they seemed particularly designed for you. I thought of you doing them, and—d' ye know?—the thought rather spoiled my enjoyment of the young lady who appeared in them."

"You flatter me, Mr. Vance. But, really, I have a good voice. I've studied very hard. And I learned dancing with Professor Markoff."

"Indeed!" (I'm sure Vance had never heard the name before, but his exclamation seemed to imply that he regarded Professor Markoff as one of the world's most renowned ballet-masters) "Then you certainly should have been starred in the 'Scandals.' The young lady I have in mind sang rather indifferently and her dancing was most inadequate. Moreover, she was many degrees your inferior in personality and attractiveness. . . . Confess: didn't you have just a little desire last Monday night to be singing the 'Chinese Lullaby' song?"

"Oh, I don't know." Miss La Fosse carefully considered the suggestion. "They kept the lights awfully low; and I don't look so well in cerise. But the costumes were adorable, weren't they?"

"On you they certainly would have been adorable. . . What color are you partial to?"

"I love the orchid shades," she told him enthusiastically; "though I don't look bad in turquoise blue. But an artist once told me I should always wear white. He wanted to paint my portrait, but the gentleman I was engaged to then didn't like him."

Vance regarded her appraisingly.

"I think your artist friend was right. And, y' know, the St. Moritz scene in the 'Scandals' would have suited you perfectly. The little brunette who sang the snow song, all in white, was delightful: but really, now, she should have had golden hair. Dusky beauties belong to the southern climes. And she impressed me as lacking the sparkle and vitality of a Swiss resort in midwinter. You could have supplied those qualities admirably."

"Yes: I'd have liked that better than the Chinese number, I think. White fox is my favorite fur, too. But, even so, in a revue you're on in one number and off in another. When it's all over, you're forgotten." She sighed unhappily.

Vance set down his cup and looked at her with whimsically reproachful eyes. After a moment he said:

"My dear, why did you fib to me about the time Mr. Mannix returned to you last Monday night? It wasn't a bit nice of you."

"What do you mean!" Miss La Fosse exclaimed in frightened indignation, drawing herself up into an attitude of withering hauteur.

"You see," explained Vance, "the St. Moritz scene of the 'Scandals' doesn't go on until nearly eleven, and it closes the bill. So you couldn't possibly have seen it and also received Mr. Mannix here at half past ten.—Come. What time did he arrive here Monday night?"

The girl flushed angrily.

"You're pretty slick, aren't you You shoulda been a cop. . . Well, what if I didn't get home till after the show? Any crime in that?"

"None whatever," answered Vance mildly. "Only a little breach of good faith in telling me you came home early." He bent forward earnestly. "I'm not here to make you trouble. On the contr'ry, I'd like to protect you from any distress or bother. You see, if the police go nosing round, they may run on to you. But if I'm able to give the district attorney accurate information about certain things connected with Monday night, there'll be no danger of the police being sent to look for you."

"Listen! I haven't got anything to hide, and neither has Louey. But if Louey asks me to say he's somewhere at half past ten, I'm going to say it—see. That's my idea of friendship. Louey had some good reason to ask it, too, or he wouldn't have done it.

"However, since you're so smart, and have accused me of playing unfair, I'm going to tell you that he didn't get in till after midnight. But if anybody else asks me about it, I'll see 'em in hell before I tell 'em anything but the half-past-ten story. Get that?"

Vance bowed.

"I get it; and I like you for it."

"But don't go away with the wrong idea," she hurried on, her eyes sparkling with fervor. "Louey may not have got here till after midnight, but if you think he knows anything about Margy's death, you're crazy. He was through with Margy a year ago. Why, he hardly knew she was on earth. And if any fool cop gets the notion in his head that Louey was mixed up in the affair, I'll alibi him—so help me God!—if it's the last thing I do in this world."

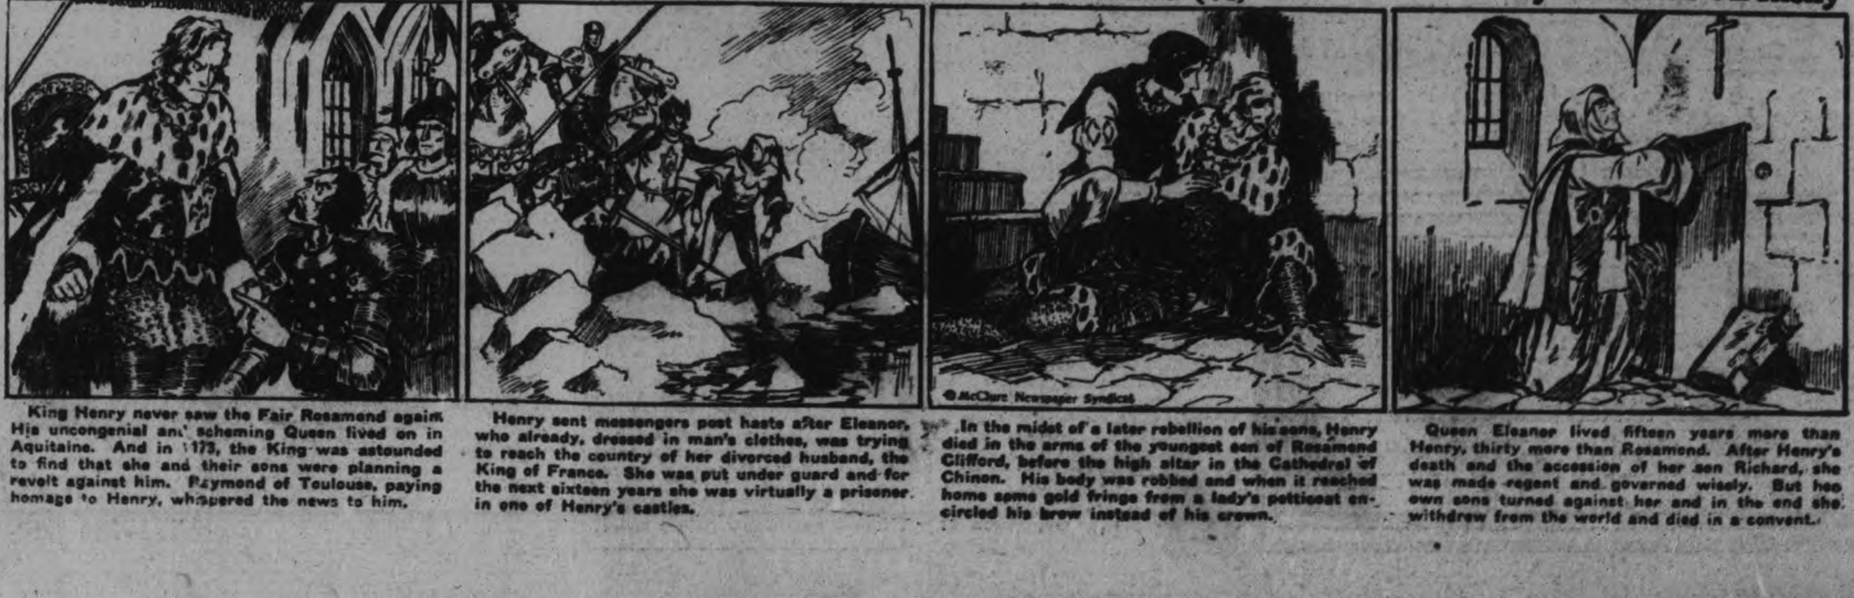
FAMOUS LOVE ROMANCES King Henry II and the Fair Rosamond (VI) By Nicholas Afonsky



© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

King Henry never saw the Fair Rosamond again. His uncongenial and scheming Queen lived on in Aquitaine. And in 1173, the King was astounded to find that she and their sons were planning a revolt against him. Raymond of Toulouse, paying homage to Henry, whispered the news to him.

Henry sent messengers post haste after Eleanor, who already, dressed in man's clothes, was trying to reach the country of her divorced husband, the King of France. She was put under guard and for the next sixteen years she was virtually a prisoner in one of Henry's castles.

In the midst of a later rebellion of his sons, Henry died in the arms of the youngest son of Rosamond Clifford, before the high altar in the Cathedral of Chinon. His body was robbed and when it reached home some gold fringe from a lady's petticoat encircled his brow instead of his crown.

Queen Eleanor lived fifteen years more than Henry, thirty more than Rosamond. After Henry's death and the accession of her son Richard, she was made regent and governed wisely. But her own sons turned against her and in the end she withdrew from the world and died in a convent.

MEREDITH'S SALE DRAWS HUGE CROWDS

W. H. Meredith's popular old store was the scene of spirited action all day to-day. The store site has been sold and the present occupants are forced to vacate. Over $32,000 worth of high-grade men's suits, overcoats, hats, caps, furnishings, etc., are placed on public sale, and they are being disposed of for the proverbial song. The sale is proving one of the great business sensations of recent years, and men are advised to get in on the spoils.

This is one of those sensational business tragedies that occur only once in a lifetime, but Mr. Meredith is taking his loss with the cheer of a business veteran and announces that he will open a new and finer store at 404 George Street as soon as present stocks are cleared out. Men are again advised to get their share because stocks are literally selling in truckloads. So low are the prices that the duration of the sale is doubtful, but the sale continues to-night and for many days to come.

CANADIANS WIN IN SEMI-FINALS

Defeat England 14-0 in Olympic Hockey Series To-day.

CROWD FAVORS LOSERS.

ST. MORITZ, February 18 (Canadian Press). — Playing good-natured hockey, Canada defeated Britain 14 to 0, in one of to-day's battles in the final Olympic hockey series. In the other game Sweden defeated Switzerland 4 to 0.

The Varsity Grads took their encounter with their fellow-members of the Empire as part of the day's workout, scoring six in the first period, four in the second, and four in the third. Britain stuck to a three-man defensive system in an effort to keep the score down, but it was not quite successful. Hugh Plaxton's clockwork play, Dave Trottier's roving propensities, and Red Potter's dazzling rushes all spoiled the British defensive system. The English goalie was bombarded with about fifty shots a period.

Britain got as far as denting Mueller's bosom twice, while Mueller was in the Canadian goal, but the puck both times rebounded to find a Canadian stick. The Carruthers brothers constituted Britain's two-man forward line, bearing the brunt of the offensive, and they put up a good and stubborn game under an impossible handicap.

An amusing feature of the game was that the whole crowd of spectators, including all the Canadians present, rooted for the English team.

The United States bobsleigh team made the best time in the first descent. Another descent will be made to-morrow, total time to determine the winner. Belgium was second, and the Argentine third.

AGED COUPLE MARK 55TH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Jones, Omemee, Celebrate Quietly.

OMEMEE, Feb 18. — On Sunday last, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Jones, pioneer residents, observed their 55th wedding anniversary. Owing to a recent bereavement in the family the day was spent quietly with as many of the members of the family who could be present. Mr. and Mrs. Jones have resided on the same farm (which is about three miles from the village of Omemee) for the past 55 years Mr. Jones has almost attained his ninetieth birthday, while Mrs. Jones is but a few years his junior.

The members of the family who were present were Mrs. Albert Stinson of Peterborough; Mrs. T. Rowan and Mrs. D. Stinson of Omemee; Albert of Peterborough, and Vincent on the homestead. A daughter, Mrs. Blakely of British Columbia, and a son, Everett of Toronto, were unable to be home.

The Dugout

(By J.R.H.)

One of the things woman has thrown overboard, together with most of her apparel, is letter-writing, but here's one from a woman. I'm very glad that the first remarks from the fair sex are favorable.

"A. J." says, "I think your idea in providing 'The Dugout' for old soldiers to get together in and talk over old times is real good. The language is different, of course, but interesting, even if the uninitiated do not understand all of it. 'Hobnails' is easy, of course, but what does 'honey-wagon' mean? Please keep up the Dugout and let even those who were not over there get some idea of the carefree spirit that marked the real dugouts."

Madame, just as I was about to answer your inquiry, the Sergeant Major came along and put me on a detail, so I'm afraid you will have to ask someone else.

There were some advantages, after all, in the old dugout when Fritz was throwing over everything but the kitchen range. No woman could butt in to ask embarrassing questions, and there wasn't a skirt (except Highlanders') within three kilos. In this old dugout of ours people still throw things, but it's a friendly scrap and everyone who wore patches on his sleeve or knew anyone who did, is welcome to join in. It's not a private fight.

Let's hear from you.

Hullo, hullo, hullo. I've been perusing your daily chit chat old thing, and want to express my appreciation of the jolly fun you chapples appear to be having. Your language, however, is truly awful and the things you speak of, well really they are beyond my comprehension. Kiss me, sergeant disciples, chicken-wire beds, shirt reading infantry, angels seeking cover, etc., etc. What does all this mean? You also mention "telephone girls." Of course you are referring to those estimable young ladies whom the troops called Waacs; surely they are not listening in on you fellows taking your afternoon tea in the dugout. If they are, they are no doubt as perplexed as myself over your strange vocabulary.

Say, Mac, did you ever hear what W.A.A.C. means? Warned Against All Canadians. And now will you be good?

Now the unit in which I served was a discriminating unit. We used our adjectives and superlatives with taste and refinement, for instance we always addresed the Sergeant Major by his proper rank and never used any but rank expressions when speaking among ourselves about him, our treatment of our officers was similar in many respects; our goat always took precedence to the Colonel in the line of march.

Our canteen was also run on model lines, the truth of which is explained when I state that the Canteen Sergeant carried no other stock than Blanco and Brasso, the latter he always called "Braeso." This fact alone will show that we always made a point of living up to the old adage, "Cleanliness is next to Godliness."

What a nice gentlemanly bunch of hypocrites you were! He used to have similar names, only we left off some of the consonants. And now, gang, listen to this parting charge of applesauce:

I could speak of our many excellences for hours, but believe that the mere statement that our table manners and our observance of etiquette were admirable will suffice.

Well, 'o'ld beans" I hope you will pardon my intrusion; see you later at the Legion Hall, or my company being acceptable, I would welcome another trip to the dugout.

And he signs himself—

UMPITTY UMP."

Let me sign off by adding umptyiddyiddyiddy; iddyiddyumpty; iddyumptyiddyiddy; iddyumptyiddyiddy.

VARSITY WINS; LEGON IS STAR

BEATS KITCHENER 2-1.

TORONTO, Feb. 18.—Varsity practically clinched a play-off berth for the Senior O.H.A. title last night, when they defeated the Kitchener Green Shirts by 2 to 1 in one of the most interesting games of the local senior season, and broke the deadlock with the Preston Riversides for the leading position. The game, which was played at Varsity Arena, attracted the largest attendance of the season, and the result was in doubt until the final bell. The Blue and White scored their first goal after four minutes of play in the initial period, and there was no further counting for 44 minutes, when the Green Shirts evened the count, eight minutes after the final chapter opened.

In the second period Roth looked to have beaten Snyder on a shot from the left boards, but Referee Collett overruled the goal umpire. The Students came through with the winning counter with eight minutes to play, and managed to stave off the desperate onslaughts of the visitors, who were fighting for a victory which would have put them right back in the contention, tied with their opponents.

"Red" Legon Stands Out.

Whitehead and Kirkpatrick gave Snyder good protection, and used their bodies on every possible occasion. In the second Kirkpatrick was knocked out by a charge, and Legon was sent to the defence, and he immediately jumped into the limelight and held it for the remainder of the game. He stepped into everyone that came his way, and several times worked right through on top of Berner, only to lose goals by the toughest of luck. Richards, McMullen, Harley and Stewart turned in good games, but they played too selfishly.

DRAW FOR CAR AT TEN O'CLOCK

All Arrangements Made For Close of Duffus' Show To-night.

MAYOR TO OFFICIATE.

J. J. Duffus, Limited, distributors of Willys Knight and Whippet fine motor cars and trucks, advised The Examiner to-day that complete arrangements have been made for the drawing of the ticket to determine the winner of the beautiful Whippet sedan being given away to-night entirely free and ten other special prizes.

To accommodate the large number of people who will be present, arrangements have been made so that the drawing for the winning ticket will take place on the roof of the C.P.R. freight shed by His Worship Mayor Denne, assisted by the Hon. G. N. Gordon, W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., and ex-Mayor Holloway at 10 o'clock.

Thus everyone will have an opportunity of seeing the actual method of deciding the winner.

The interest evinced by the visitors to the motor show has far surpassed all expectations resulting in a large number of sales pointing towards a very active acceptance of Whippet and Willys Knight motor cars and trucks by the people of this district.

Two important rules in connection with this drawing are: that if anyone put in more than one ticket he is absolutely disqualified, and the entrant must have reached his sixteenth birthday. Cards must be filled in completely and correctly.

The winner of the car must be a resident in one of the following counties: Peterborough, Northumberland, Durham, Victoria and Haliburton, which is the territory covered by J. J. Duffus Limited for the above cars and trucks.

Anyone visiting the Show, no matter where resident of, is eligible to win any one of the following special prizes, provided he complies with the rules governing the contest:

One pair of Seiberlong All Tread Tires.

One pair of Seiberling All Tread Tires.

Three 5-Gallon Cans of Marvelube Oil.

One 2-Gallon can of Marvelube Oil.

Four 1-gallon cans of Marvelube Oil.

A committee consisting of Joseph Wearing, City Solicitor; S. L. Allen, and W. H Terry will act as referees to decide as to the validity of the cards belonging to the winning numbers and in accordance with the rules laid down in connection with the Motor Show.

The stubs containing all the numbers will be taken from the ballot boxes which were locked and sealed by the Police Department of the City of Peterborough, and emptied by Detective Meagher and Carey into the churn loaned by Messrs. Drummond and Hall, Massey-Harris agents, Peterborough, for the purpose of thoroughly mixing them up. The churn so kindly loaned by this firm has a wonderful reputation as a perfect mixer. Consequently all those holding tickets will have an even chance.

Lastly, the distribution of cards will finish precisely at nine o'clock this evening, and the general public is invited to be on hand for the drawing at 10 o'clock.

Arthur Blade, Manager of Imperial Oil Limited, will do the announcing. Moving pictures will be shown between 9 and 10 o'clock.

WELL BABIES' CLINIC WORK BEGAN IN 1920

Organization Has Functioned Energetically Ever Since That Year.

The formation of the Well Babies' Clinic, which functions energetically in the city, was begun in 1920, when Mrs. Robert Harstone, who was then president of the Local Council of Women, suggested to Dr. Jessie Birnie, convenor of the Health Committee of the Council, that a Well Babies' Clinic be formed in Peterborough. Plans were made and laid before the Medical Association, who approved of them, and a number of doctors offered their services to the Clinic, without remuneration. The different societies in affiliation with the Local Council of Women, especially the I.O.D.E., contributed funds and the Canadian Legion very generously gave a room where the clinics could be held.

Officials for the first year were Dr. Birnie, supervisor, Mrs. G. McCartney, nurse. Medical staff, Dr. J. H. Eastwood, A. McPherson, J. M. McCulloch, N. H. Sutton, G. B. Mann, E. E. Harvey. Officers of the Ladies' Board were Mrs. Jas. Kendry, president, Mrs. R. Harstone, vice-president, and Mrs. F. C. Neal, secretary-treasurer.

DIRECTOR GIVES TWO ADDRESSES

H. R. McKeen Continues Campaign—Speaks To Insurance Men.

SPEAKS AT SCHOOL.

In his address before the Sales group of the Prudential Life Insurance Company this morning, Harry R. McKeen, director of the Forward Peterborough Movement, brought to that group in a most graphic way the reasons for their interest in membership and support of the Chamber of Commerce.

"The successful Chamber of Commerce may mean just the difference between a mere living and satisfying comfort to you just as it does to other professional groups. Your business is dependent wholly on surpluses folk have above demands for necessities of food clothing and shelter. Their ability to invest or pay is determined by the amount left after meeting these

"The Chamber of Commerce is interested in this surplus above cost of production in industry; above the cost and overhead in business; above the living in agriculture; above cost in transportation. This surplus represents the abilty of the citizenship to buy conveniences, comforts, luxuries, and to pay taxes, support education, religion and recreation."

Mr. McKeen gave illustrations of leading town to which citizens of Peterborough are moving, that these towns have an active, adequately financed Chamber of Commerce and a definite policy of publicity.

"For selfish reasons," concluded Mr. McKeen, "every business and professional man in Peterboro should have a membership in and interest in the activities fund of the Chamber of Commerce"

About two hundred residents near the King Edward School heard Harry R. McKeen on Friday evening at the regular meeting of the Home and School Association. From the moment he was introduced by Vice-Principal Langford until he closed his address 35 minutes later, Mr. McKeen held the undivided attention of his audience from the youngsters in the first form to the grandparents present.

The first part of the address he directed to the children, but the older ones listened as keenly as the youngsters. He shocked the elders by telling them that if they were past 45 it was no use to talk to them — their opinions were fixed, but that the minds of the children were still plastic and their opinions not set.

All through the address to the children they helped him make his points more telling by ready answers. In his remarks to the older members of the group to which the children listened as intently as their elders, he made an appeal for more such community gatherings such as that one wherein they be participators in the program and be entertained by their own children. "Only as we touch each other's lives in this way do we appreciate what fine folks our neighbors are, and just as you come to understand and sympathize with each other here, does the Chamber of Commerce plan to bring folks of the community in closer contact."

The address was replete with illustrative story, wit, and humor. He carried his auditors with him from laughters to tears, always having the closest attention.

HEBER MULOCK SINGS IN CITY

Visiting Musician Makes Pleasing Impression On Audience.

SPLENDID VOICE.

(By Jeanette)

The Women's Music Club has provided some excellent soloists from out-of-town for its members this season, and yesterday afternoon's singer was one of the very best of those who have come for a brief visit to Peterborough and pleased their hearers with their fine music. By a special ironic touch, the vocalist yesterday had possibly the poorest audience, something less than forty ladies being present for the occasion. And he had a very severe cold. Despite these handicaps, however, he gave a wonderfully fine program.

Heber Mulock, tenor soloist of Timothy Eaton Memorial Church, Toronto, gave the program yesterday afternoon, with Miss Isobel McKee of the local Conservatory staff as solo pianiste, and Miss Agne Logan as accompanist.

It is seldom that such a finished type of voice is heard here. Singers come and go. Some of them have a beautiful quality of voice and a very unfinished method of presentation. Others have finesse and lack the vocal background. Mr. Mulock has both good qualities. His training has evidently been splendidly adapted to the quality of his fine lyric tenor and he has a superb mastery and control of his music that makes it wonderful to listen to. Every solo was like a gem, despite the very bad cold under which the singer labored. It is a voice of fine, pure resonance, flexible in the extreme, clear and sweet as a silver bell, powerful in the forceful numbers and exquisitely soft in the pianissimo passages. To hear Mr. Mulock make the transition from one register to another and note the absence of flaw in the change, is to mark something of what training of the right type can do with an instrument of this bell-like timbre.

The only defect in his program was the fact that it was too short.

The majority of the songs were given in English, with an opening number in Italian, the "Salve di mora" from Gounod's "Faust," and a later rendition in French of the national anthem, the "Marseillaise." They exhibited, as did the other numbers, the ease and finish, the smooth, creamy tone and the melting quality so characteristic of a tenor voice. This expressive sentiment was very noticeable, also, in the well-known negro spiritual, "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen," sung as perfectly as it has ever been the good fortune of at least one listener to hear it. Sentiment also was paramount in the three German songs sung in English, Lisbt's "Thou Art Like a Lovely Flower" and "Where'er You Walk," and Schumann's "Moonlight." A unique selection was "The Bellman," a tone picture descriptive in quality, written for Shakespeare's death day on April 23rd, 1616, followed by Elgar's "Pleading," and a song by Quilter, "Fair House of Joy." An encore to this group was "The Sweetest Flower that Blows," with the vibrant quality of the clear voice very apparent, and a lovely softness in the sustained soft music of its final chords.

"Dreams" was a little encore to the group of foreign compositions, and the final quartette of songs included the lovely spiritual, a selection called "Dawn," one entitled "Charity" from a song cycle "Faith, Hope and Charity," and the lovely song, "Morning." Vigorous and renewed applause was vouchsafed for each number.

The piano numbers by Miss Isobel McKee were also received with much enthusiasm and were delightfully played. The soloist had chosen selections of a bright, happy type which accorded admirably with her temperament, and played them from memory, with a firm, clear touch and smooth, brilliant tone that made them very attractive. A fluent type of fingering was very noticeable in the volatile dancing music of the two final renditions. The group included a Bach Prelude and Fugue, a Gluck-Brahms Gavotte, a Rigaudon by Macdowell, and the three Scotch dances "Ecossases," of Chopin.

of the human body is dependent upon the nervous system for its activity. The nerves that supply the stomach carry the "Spark of Life" which enables the stomach to digest food. If it were not for the nerves supplying the heart, that important organ would cease to do its work. If it is true that a complete severing of the nerves leading to these organs will cause them to cease functioning, is it not reasonable that pressure upon these same nerves will limit the activity of the heart and stomach and cause them to function imperfectly.
THE ONLY WAY
to relieve this abnormal condition is to relieve the pressure from nerve fibres that supply these organs. This is accomplished by scientific manipulation of displaced spinal segments which are constricting spinal nerves. When the nerves are freed of pressure they are capable of carrying 100 per cent. of mental impulses to the abnormal tissues. THE RESULT IS HEALTH.

INDIAN GUIDE SAYS PICKEREL EAT GAME FISH

Pickerel Are Not Being Caught at Rate of 2,000 Pounds a Week.

40 YEARS ON JOB.

Madden Howard Thinks Someone Thought Everyone Fishing Caught Fish.

That there is not anything approaching two thousand pounds of fish taken from Rice Lake in a week is the emphatic statement made to The Examiner by Madden Howard, of Hiawatha, on Saturday. Mr. Howard is an Indian, 65 years of age, and he has been fishing Rice Lake and guiding for forty years.

"There's nothing like 2,000 pounds of fish taken out of there in a week. I don't believe there is any more than five hundred pounds," he said. "And anyhow, if they stop the pickerel fishing, they will stop all the bass and 'lunge fishing which is so attractive to tourists. The pickerel eat the bass and the lunge—I've seen, with my own eyes, small bass and lunge in a pickerel's stomach. And I've seen three guides out with parties and they couldn't catch enough small-mouthed bass for dinner.

"Pickerel is not a game fish," Mr. Howard continued, "and no tourist will pay $1 a day for catching them. They get pickerel at home, and what they want is bass and 'lunge. Anyhow, the people who say there's 2,000 pounds a week being caught don't know what they are talking about. I've been out all fall, and I've never caught more than three or four or five fish a day. The ice has been good, and a great many cars have been out. Probably some person saw all the people fishing and jumped to the conclusion that they were all catching fish.

"Then," said Mr. Howard, coming nearer home, "in May there's no kick at all when dozens of people line up at the locks and catch hundreds of fish—and right in spring, too. I think there's more fish caught there than any other place. I'm not trying to stop winter fishing, but I'd like to know why this is."

The Examiner asked Mr. Howard whether there are any bass and 'lunge caught under cover of this winter fishing for pickerel. "No," he said emphatically. "I've seen some caught, but they were pushed back into the water. We only take pickerel, that eat the bass and lunge." Mr. Howard intimated that in the event of his statements being challenged, he will have an answer ready. "I know what I'm talking about," he said.

PRESS COMMENTS CANADIAN BUDGET

Further Proof Canada is Perhaps Most Enviable Country in World.

LONDON, Feb. 20. Canadian Press.—"The Canadian budget is of a kind to make an Englishman's mouth water," comments the Express. "It is one more proof that Canada to-day is perhaps the most enviable country in the world," the paper continues. "It is being borne along on a tide of natural and therefore enduring prosperity. After all it is only a meagre reward compared to the certainties of the future. Young men and women of character and pluck should not hesitate. The heritage of empire and chance of fortune are there to seize."

The Sunday Observer remarks that Hon. James Robb introduced the budget to make European finance ministers envious. The new tariff is framed," the Observer goes on "to safeguard the interests of home products in a growing market. The principle of British preference is carefully maintained and is now as established a feature of Dominion finance as it is of our own. As a whole the budget and facts lying behind it supply conclusive arguments for an energetic and coherent immigration policy.'"

STOWAWAYS DIE.

Six Bodies Stay in Hiding Place For Two Months.

TOKIO, Japan, February 20 (Canadian Press). — The bodies of six Japanese who attempted to smuggle themselves into the United States were found in the hold of the Yahiko Maru to-day. The ship's cook confessed to hiding them in the hold on December 20, when the ship sailed for Seattle. From brief notes the men left, it was believed they suffocated before the ship left Yokohama, after which the cook became frightened and kept the deaths secret until the ship returned to Japan.

LEAVES CITY TO-DAY.

COMMANDANT FRANK HAM.

After twenty months in charge of the local corps of the Salvation Army, Commandant and Mrs. Frank Ham left to-day for Toronto, where Commandant Ham becomes chief men's side officer of the Territorial Training Garrison. Speaking to The Examiner shortly before his departure, Commandant Ham expressed his regret at leaving Peterborough after such a short term and his appreciation of the friendly spirit which existed between himself and all with whom he came in contact, of whatever creed or position. Help had been forthcoming for all his efforts and every person had shown interest in the work of the local corps.

Ensign and Mrs. Green of Montreal have been transferred to the local corps, taking charge from March 1. Until that time Major Colin Campbell will look after the work here. Ensign Green is an officer of great ability, and has been in charge at Earlscourt (Toronto), Montreal, and Sault Ste. Marie. He is a survivor of the wreck of the Empress of Ireland in 1914, at which time his parents and sister, also Salvation Army officers, lost their lives.

PETTY THEFTS ARE REPORTED

Campbellford Police Active in Cases—Have Suspect in View.

MONEY STOLEN.

CAMPBELLFORD, February 20.—For some time there has been practicalls no evidence of petty thieves in Campbellford, but during the last two weeks there has been two incidents which leads the local authorities to believe that some one from the town or district ought to be numbered among the light-fingered gentry. When one of the Hastings hockey teams met a local team in a friendly tilt here, there was a sum of money stolen from one of the dressing-rooms at the new rink. Though every effort was made to apprehend the guilty party, it was apparently impossible to do so.

The last offence is quite different. The money was stolen under much the same circumstances, but the money stolen was in bills of unusual denomination in this district and is easily traced. The police will not say who is the guilty person, but they feel certain that they will have the money returned in a very short time. After interviewing the loser and the police, it is believed that unless the money is returned at once, the case will come to court inside the next few days.

HOPE TO END LEPROSY SOON

Relief Association Report Predicts New Cure Will Be Effective.

916,000 CASES IN EMPIRE.

LONDON, Feb. 20. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—The complete stamping out of leprosy within the next decade by means of treatment with oil extracted from the dried fruit of the hydnocarpus tree is predicted in the annual report of the British Empire Leprosy Relief Association which will meet on Friday. It is estimated that in the British Empire alone there are 916,000 persons afflicted with leprosy. Stations for treatment of the disease will be started all over the Empire, where it is prevalent, the Imperial and Dominion Governments co-operating in this move.

LONDON WOMAN IS PICKLED TO DEATH

LONDON, Feb. 18.—The doctor said she had died of 'chronic intoxication.' But neighbors insist she was pickled to death.

The evidence submitted to a corner's jury, probing the death of Miss May Robsley, 60, brought out the fact that she had drunk a pint of commercial vinegar daily for 30 years.

Even in case of illness, when she could not eat, she still insisted on having her pint of vinegar, according to witnesses.

LORD OXFORD LAID TO REST NEAR HIS HOME

Lies Beneath Yew Tree Close To Wall of Old Parish Church.

SERVICES ARE SIMPLE.

Bishop of Oxford Officiates—Great Crowd Gathers Outside Church.

SUTTON COURTENAY, Eng., Feb. 20 (Canadian Press).—Within a hundred yards of his home for the last sixteen years, and under an old yew tree close to the walls of the ancient Parish Church where he had loved to worship, the body of Lord Oxford and Asquith was laid to rest to-day. Utter simplicity marked the last rites for England's noted Liberal statesman, whose death was so widely mourned and in whose honor a memorial service will be held in Westminster Abbey to-morrow.

The brief service held to-day, at which the Bishop of Oxford officiated, was attended only by members of the family and invited friends. It included the singing of the late Earl's favorite hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past," and other appropriate numbers by the choir of New College, Oxford. While the throng of sympathetic mourners who had gathered from the countryside for miles around stood reverently by in silence, broken only by the tolling of the church bell, the coffin was borne to the grave.

BIG CAMPAIGN STARTS EARLY

Four Day Drive Gets Under Way at 7.30 To-morrow Morning.

TEAMS LINED UP.

This is Community Week in Peterborough. Tuesday morning, at 7.30 o'clock, one hundred of the business men in town will assemble at the Empress Hotel to receive instructions and prospect cards for an intensive four-day campaign to refinance the Chamber of Commerce of Peterborough for a period of three years.

Work preparatory to this campaign has been under way the past three weeks. Prospects have been listed, editorials and news stories carried, hundreds of letters written, printed matter distributed and nearly one hundred addresses delivered to acquaint the citizenship with the needs and program of the organization.

The amount of money sought is $12,500. The funds are to be secured by personal memberships at $15 each and investments in an Activities Fund from the firms, organizations, corporations, in amounts according to their ability to invest or the interest they have in community development.

These investments will be sought by two committees. The Activities Group, headed by James Dutton and G. A' Gillespie. They have assigned about 100 prospect cards to various individuals for solicitation. The second group is headed by J. Wells Fraser, as Colonel and aided by Chris. Graham, Father Paul Costello and Charles Lacheur as Majors.

The following group of busy men will leave their own businesses the next four days and give the citizens of Peterborough an opportunity to bring their town up to the standard of towns of its size.

While some four teams are not at full strength, they will be filled before the start Tuesday morning.

As he swung into the details of the last day before the campaign opened, Harry R. McKeen, the campaign director, said: "The success of the campaign is now wholly dependent upon the teams reporting and hitting the line until the job is done."

Lee Snyder Convinced He Is Father Of Girl Under Sentence of Death

WHEELING, W.V., Feb. 20 (AP).—Lee Snyder, Wheeling foundry worker, has announced through the law firm of O'Brien and O'Brien, that he was convinced he was the father of Doris Palmer McDonald, under sentence of death in Canada with her husband, after he had checked over available details of the young woman's life. The couple is scheduled to go to the gallows next month for the killing of a taxicab driver.

Snyder and his wife, it was stated, became estranged when the girl was four years old, and the father said he had not seen his offspring since that time.

Snyder's counsel has written Canadian authorities requesting all the information in their possession bearing on the girl's past history, and if still convinced she is his daughter, the attorneys said their client had decided to instruct legal talent to make an effort to save her from hanging.

Previously, Snyder had denied being parent of the girl, who was born in Pittsburgh and given into the care of a Dr. Francis Palmer, of Mount Vernon, N.Y., when the father and mother separated, according to Snyder. Dr. Palmer is now said to be a resident of Oklahoma City, Okla., while the mother of the girl is believed to live in Chicago.

CARDIN ADDRESSES MONTREAL CLUB ON ST. LAWRENCE SCHEME

Cabinet Minister Says Rights of Canada Will Not Be Violated.

NATIONAL PROBLEM.

Tells Members Rights of Quebec Province Will Not Be Compromised.

MONTREAL, February 20 (Canadian Press). — "The rights of Canada will not be sacrificed, the rights of the Province of Quebec will not be compromised—and the St. Lawrence will not be sucked dry." This was the declaration of the Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, Dominion Minister of Marine and Fisheries, when he referred to the St. Lawrence waterway project during an address at a dinner tendered to him by the Outremont Club here on Saturday night.

Continuing, the Minister said: "We know the problem. It is as grave a problem as ever faced the administration of Canada, and I think we can affirm we are as patriotic as those who are disposed to criticize us, although they do not know what we may do. They do not know. They are trying, however, to find out, and so as to prepare their criticism for the day when we shall have decided to do something, and perhaps, also, to embarass us in the solution of the problem. And it may be some are trying to scratch up something which will prove to their own personal benefit or profit.

"It is a national problem of capital importance. We understand that. We will do all that we can for the best. Have no fear. Do not be led astray by songs of doom; do not be scared. Nothing will be done that will react against the interests of Montreal, the interests of the Province, the interests of Canada as a whole."

Mr. Cardin referred at length to the Budget brought down in the House of Commons last Thursday, and termed it "the Liberal retort to seven years of Conservative dirges of doom." "But," he said, "to-morrow the wail of ruin will be heard again." He added that one of the best evidences of prosperity in Quebec and Canada was to have foreign capital come to aid in the development of natural resources and that "observers tell us that the invasion of the past is not one-tenth of what it will be in the next ten, perhaps five, years."

"It is welcome to Canada," he continued. "I have no fear that it will corrupt the souls or the patriotism of my compatriots."

Condemns Excessive Production of Drugs

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 20 (Canadian Press).—Condemning the "excessive production" of narcotics by certain foreign nations, Chairman Porter of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and head of the American delegation to the League of Nations conferences on the world drug traffic, has prepared a bill to remedy the addict problem in the United States.

The bill, to be introduced today, suggests the establishment of two Federal prison farms to treat both Federal and State convicts who are drug users.

Describing the production of narcotic drugs in India, Persia, the Balkan States, the Dutch East Indies, and some South American countries as far exceeding the medical needs of the world, the bill says a large quantity of the surplus is smuggled into the United States and annually destroys many lives and makes an economic waste of more than $1,000,000,000 annually in this country.

Analysis Is Given Of Division List

DELHI, India, Feb. 20. — Canadian Press cable via Reuters.—An analysis of the division list of Saturday's vote in the legislative assembly when a resolution of non-confidence in the British statutory commission on Indian reforms was passed by a vote of 68 to 62, reveals that the majority consisted of 67 elected unofficial members and one nominated unofficial and the minority of 20 official and 36 unofficial members. Of the latter 23 were elected non-official members.

The communical proportion of the majority was 51 Hindus, 14 Muslims, two Sikhs and one Buddhist. It is significant that of 14 members from Bengal and Punjab, the two provinces with Muslin majorities only one member from the Punjab favored the vote of non-confidence. The remaining 13 Muslim members who voted for the resolution came from provinces where Muslims are in the minority.

The Weather

A sudden and unexpected cold dip came on Saturday night. It did not last long, however. The lowest Saturday night was 11 degrees below zero. On Sunday morning at an early hour it was 5 below. This Monday morning, 10 above zero. As is generally the case after a cold dip considerable snow fell Sunday. — W. P.

MR. AND MRS. DAWSON KENNEDY MARRIED 66 YEARS AGO TO-DAY

Children of Pioneers, They Have Lived 80 Years in District.

HALE AND HAPPY.

Early Days Recalled By Mr. Kennedy—Farmed in Douro Many Years.

To travel through life, side by side, for well over three score years, to face the storm and sunshine of the daily round through all that time and to arrive at a sixty-sixth wedding anniversary with keen faculties, light hearts and happy laughter, does not fall to the lot of every man and woman. It is seldom that people achieve a half century of life together, and sixty years is quite an event. To be approaching the seventy-year mark with a sturdy stride that does not give any signs of faltering is a real achievement that has to be marked up today to the credit of Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Kennedy of 600 Water Street.

This morning, the two celebrants were reading with bright eyes and enthusiastic appreciation, the many letters of congratulation that came to them from relatives in New York, Chicago, Clifton Springs, Winnipeg, Toronto and Galt. Telegrams came from their son, H. P. Kennedy of Toronto and wife, sent from Clifton Springs, where the former is convalescing after an illness; from the staff of the H. P. Kennedy Company in Toronto, and from grandchildren in Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Pratt. A huge basket of Spring flowers was sent from Toronto also, its sixty-six blooms marking a year for every anniversary.

Mr. Kennedy will be eighty-nine years old on the 8th of July next, and Mrs. Kennedy was eighty-three on December 6th last. The former was born in County Cavan, Ireland, his parents moving to Canada when he was two years old. They came by way of one of the old sailing boats, the passage taking sixty-seven days, and their trip from Quebec to Peterborough, on a "Durham" boat, occupied the better part of three weeks. They arrived here on July 4th, 1841. They came out to join an uncle of his parents, James Matchett, who had settled in Otonabee, and they took up a farm in Douro, where the father died and the family later moved to Otonabee. There Mr. Kennedy farmed for forty-two years, coming in to the city twenty-four years ago, where he has resided at 600 Water Street.

The early days of farm life in this community were vastly different from modern conditions. Oxen were used and grain was cut with a reaping hook. Mr. Kennedy can remember the first rude cradle for grain, made by a man from Ohio, living on his place, and can recall when wolves roamed up and down the river in the Winter time, and when his father, carrying the mail for twenty-four miles to Percy Village, now Hastings, took with him a musket and a horseman's pistol.

Mrs. Kennedy, who was Rebecca Sherin, daughter of Henry Sherin of Omemee, is also of Irish stock, her father being a native of the County of Monaghan, in Ireland.

Seven children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy: one little girl dying in childhood; a son, Private M. S. Kennedy, being killed overseas, and another son, Evangelist H. D. Kennedy, dying two years ago. Four children survive: H. P. Kennedy, Toronto; Fred Kennedy of New York City; Mrs. Kidd and Mrs. Ward, of Toronto. There are also twelve grandchildren and one great grandchild. One grandson commenced last year a three-year course at the Royal College of Art, in England.

Total of $1,500,000,000 Made Known as Deputies Vote to End Import Tax.

MOVE FOR STABILIZATION.

Intended To Make It Less Costly For Bank To Import Gold.

PARIS, Feb. 20. — The favorable vote in the Chamber of Deputies last week on the Government bill abolishing the State tax on imports of gold calls attention to the fact that the Bank of France for the account of the French Treasury has now accumulated abroad credits amounting to the huge sum of $1,500,000,000.

Should Paris in any plan for stabilizing or any other plan convert this balance into gold for importation, it would mean a considerable upset in the world's gold market. It was stated in behalf of the Government that the new bill was intended to make it less costly for the Bank of France to import goal. It was also said that the Government was looking forward to the day when Paris will assume again its position as one of the world's great gold markets.

For several days it has been reported that Paris had redeemed the 500,000,000 francs in gold pawned with the Bank of England during the war and intended to repatriate this metal.

Taking it for granted that France will be able to exchange foreign credits against gold, one sees that with $800,000,000 worth of gold which the Bank of France has in its vaults it can put 100 per cent. gold back of the present franc circulation at the existing 20-centime value of the paper franc. The circulation is slightly less than 57.000,000,000 france, which is about $2,250,000,000 at current exchange.

Except for this interesting operation by which the Bank of France for the treasury account has piled up this great foreign credit, it is interesting to note if the franc goes any higher the Treasury will net a heavy loss, whereas if the franc goes lower the Treasury will get a corresponding profit. It is stated officially that the Bank of France is getting only a small commission on the operation, which is made on the responsibility of the Government.

A report current that Premier Poincare intends, if he remains in power after the elections, to pay America in cash the $400,000,000 due next year on war stocks, is arousing the criticism that it would be cheaper either to ratify the Berenger agreement as it stands or try to persuade Washington to accept a safeguard clause.

The amount France owes next year includes the amounts fixed by the agreement, whereas if France pays in cash she will not only pay enough to carry out the Berenger agreement for eight years, but will leave the main issue unsettled.

VISITOR TO CITY DIES SUDDENLY; GEORGE MONCRIEF FOUND DEAD ON SIDEWALK THIS AFTERNOON

Had Been Visiting His Sister, Mrs. Robert Morrison, Over Week-end.

HEALTH SEEMED GOOD.

Was Formerly Farmer Near Springville—Lived There With Daughter Since Retirement.

When Mrs. W. A. Parker, 515 Bolivar Street, went out this afternoon to sweep the sidewalk in front of her home, she found the body of George Moncrief, of Springville, lying in the snow. The discovery was made at 1.40.

Mrs. Parker summoned W. E. Robinson and A. Heron, and had the man carried into her home, as they believed he was living. Dr. J. M. McCulloch arrived in a very few moments and said that life was extinct. Nurse Lapp of 516 Bolivar Street had been summoned and rendered first aid before the doctor arrived.

How long the man had lain in the snow is not known, but it is not believed he was there long, as children going to school had not noticed him.

Mr. Moncrief had been staying with his sister, Mrs. Robert Morrison, 599 Bolivar Street, and left there shortly after dinner to go to visit a friend of his.

Mr. Moncrief for many years was a prosperous farmer living south of Springville, in the Township of North Monaghan, where he was a highly respected citizen. For several days he has been visiting his sister.

Detective Carey and Constable Matthews investigated the case and the remains were removed to Comstock's Funeral Home.

Mrs. T. J. Johnston of Otonabee and Mrs. George Lockie of Kamloops, B.C., are also sisters. Mr. Moncrief has been living with Mrs. Albert Bowles of Springville, a daughter.

Dr. McCulloch, when asked by The Examiner, refused to state what in his opinion, caused death.

MANY HAPPY RETURNS.

OTONABEE MAN WINS WHIPPET

John Whalen, R. R. 3, Keene, Holds Lucky Ticket, 4224.

IN DUFFUS DRAW.

John Whalen, R. R. No. 3, Keene, won the Whippet Sedan at the Duffus Motor Show Saturday night. The winning number was 4224. Other winners were:

Mary Carmichael of Orillia.
H. S. Routley, Peterboro.
Mrs. A. W. Clysdale, Peterboro.
Felix Courneya Peterboro.
Philip Whitnall, Peterboro.
W. C. Clegg, Peterboro.
Mrs. G. H. Fletcher Bailieboro.
Mrs. J. H. Sleeman, R.R. No. 3, Peterboro.
W. E. Weaver, Peterboro.
Mrs. R. J. G. Sutherland, Peterboro.

On Mayor Denne's first draw he pulled out ticket Number 7757, that of Mary Carmichael, but as Miss Carmichael lives in Orillia, she was disqualified under the residence rule. On the second draw, Mr. Whalen was the lucky man. Miss Carmichael was however given second prize.

Promptly at ten o'clock His Worship Mayor Denne with others climbed the ladder leading to the roof of the freight shed and while Detectives Meagher and Carey unlocked the ballot boxes and emptied the stubs into the barrel churn, provided by Messrs Drummond and Hall, the Massey-Harris dealers, the mayor opened the proceedings by addressing the several thousand interested spectators who had gathered to learn who the prize winners were.

He congratulated J. J. Duffus Ltd. for the wonderful motor show just concluded, stating it was a credit to Peterboro and equal to any held elsewhere in Canada. He also mentioned with pride that Peterboro had the finest automobile establishment and service to be found in Canada, which was a benefit to all business men and citizens. He also commented on the fact that the Duffus building contained the finest bowling academy in Canada, which has been conducted on a high scale, and that it provided exercise and pleasure for all classes of citizens, which was a great benefit and the citizens should be thankful to Mr. Duffus for making this possible.

The Mayor expresesd the hope that the Duffus organization would continue to prosper through the sale of Willys-Knight, Whippet cars and trucks and all their other undertakings in their own as well as the interest of the general public.

He then operated the churn which thoroughly mixed the ticket stubs, and then drew the deciding numbers.

Mr. Duffus was most grateful and appreciative in his remarks. He said: "This is station W-H-I-P-P-E-T broadcasting from the C.P.R. freight sheds the results of Peterboro's big motor show. The winner of the grand prize, a Whippet Sedan is John Whalen, of R. R. No. 3, Keene.

Mr. Duffus thanked His Worship Mayor Denne for his kindness in officiating and drawing the winning tickets, Joseph Wearing and his committee of referees, and the other prominent gentlemen who so kindly took part, the Peterboro police force and detectives, the C.P.R., the Peterboro Utilities Commission and employees, A. W. Blade and his assistants who so kindly helped at all times; his own staff who put the show over so satisfactorily without any extra help, and especially The Examiner for their effective advertising. Altogether the show was successful beyond all expectations, he concluded.

Moving pictures which were to be a part of the program at the closing hour of the motor show on Saturday evening were called off on account of the very cold weather. The prevailing opinion expressed on all sides was that the drawing of the winning tickets should take place in the big motor building, but Mr. Duffus the president of J. J. Duffus, Limited, emphatically said "No — it will be carried out as arranged in the rays of the 1000 candle power searchlight focussed on the top of the C.P.R. freight shed where all those who wished could witness it," even if it was a hardship to those who were officiating.

WILLIAM TURNER KILLED IN NORTH

Said To Have Been Resident of Peterborough—Police Seek Relatives.

The police have been asked to find the relatives of William Turner, who was killed on Saturday on Algoma Central Railroad.

Yesterday, J. J. Turner and Sons received the following wire from Sault Ste. Marie, signed by M. B. Graham, Chief of Police:

"William Turner killed on Algoma Railroad yesterday. Body taken here today. Please wire instructions."

Provincial Constable Maker also received a wire giving some particulars: "William Turner, formerly of Peterborough; aged 45. Known by Turner Canoe people."

J. J. Turner did not know anything of the man, and turned the telegram over to Chief Newhall.

Any person having any information as to the relatives of this man are asked to give it to Chief Newhall or Provincial Constable Maker.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Feb. 20 (Canadian Press).—Turner died on Saturday when being rushed to Franz for medical assistance after slipping under an Algoma Central train as it was pulling out of Goudreau station. His legs had been crushed. He was about 45 years of age and was from Eastern Ontario. He had been working in the Goudreau area. The body was brought here last night and is being held pending an inquest.

No "April Fool" Alarms Received

April Fool was out of luck in 1927 as far as the firemen were concerned. During the year there were 21 false alarms, but April was one of the two month entirely free from needless runs.

Nor did Hallowe'en pranks bring out the brigade many times. There were two false alarms in October, not as many as were entered in May, November, and December, and only one of all the alarms in October came after eight o'clock at night.

PAN-DELEGATES DISPUTE OVER INTERVENTION AT CONFERENCE; CONGRESS IS BROUGHT TO CLOSE

Salvador Envoy Introduces Resolution in Final Moments of Session.

HUGHES TAKES UP DEBATE.

Understanding Reached That Question Will Be Laid Over Until Next Conference.

HAVANA, Cuba, February 20 (By Canadian Press). — The last business session of the Pan-American Congress on Saturday saw a revival of the intervention squabble. Senor Guerrero of Salvador made a last effort to get a conference on record as condemning intervention in any form. Applause from the galleries and some sections of the floor greeted the unexpected introduction of the resolution. One by one half a dozen delegates rose to support Guerrero.

Then Charles E. Hughes, of the United States delegation, in an extemporaneous speech of startling frankness, demanded something more than "a mere preachment for political purposes." In the bluntest language ever heard at the Pan-American gatherings, Mr. Hughes said that "The United States cannot forego the right to protect its citizens, and that international law cannot be changed by resolutions of this conference." Drawing a distinction between real codification of international law "in the subtle simplicity of formulae which only express one-tenth of the truth," Hughes demanded that the sixth Pan-American Conference admit inability to reach an agreement on the question of intervention.

One by one the delegates who had supported Guerrero rose to make reservations until Guerrero himself interrupted to say that since there was criticism of his resolution, he would withdraw it.

Question Laid Over.

The conference broke up at a late hour with the understanding that the intervention question goes over to the next Pan-American Conference in Montevideo four or five years hence. This understanding had already been reached at a meeting of the International Law Committee earlier when the sub-committee, headed by Hughes, reported back to the conference that it could not reach an agreement on intervention after ten days' labors.

Guerrero was chairman of the International Law Committee which shelved the intervention question. He however had been thought a die-hard advocate of the conference flatly denouncing intervention by one country in the affairs of another.

When the conference met in plenary session on Saturday it was expected that the routine business of approving committee reports would be the sole order of the day. The delegates were invited to dine with the mayor of Havana at 8.30 o'clock. At nine the conference was in a turmoil which lasted since late yesterday afternoon when Guerrero unexpectedly revived the intervention question. His resolution was met with as much opposition as support.

The debate soon became acrimonious. Personalities were flung across the floor. One delegate walked up and down the aisles literally tearing his hair in protest against the remarks of the speaker of the moment. Efforts of the venerable chairman Senor Bustamente to moderate the debate were of little avail.

Argentina, Mexico, Haiti, San Domingo, Guatemala and Columbia had spoken against recognition of intervention under any circumstance, when Hughes rose to give the U.S. attitude. Undoubtedly Hughes spoke extempore for there had been no time to communicate with the U.S. He sketched the work of the sub-committee which had labored in secret to find a formula on intervention acceptable to all. Having failed, the committee recommended postponement of the question until the next conference. The main committee, under the chairmanship of Guererro, had agreed. Now Guerrero revived the question before the plenary conference. Disclaiming any desire to escape discussion, Hughes declared the United States policy was the recognition of independence for all. "We have given our arms and our blood for the independence of the American republics and are always ready to do so. We want no aggression against ourselves, and we cherish no thought of aggression against anybody else. We do not want the territory of any American republic nor the government of any American republic. We simply wish peace, order, stability, recognition of honest rights properly acquired.

MINER BURIED AT HAVELOCK

Isaac Whitney, Who Died in the Hollinger Fire, Laid To Rest.

NATIVE OF BELMONT.

HAVELOCK, Feb. 20.—The funeral of the late Isaac Whitney of Schumacher, who lost his life in the Hollinger Mine disaster at Timmins on February 11th, was held on Friday afternoon from the residence of his brother, Leslie Whitney, George Street. The service, which was held in the United Church, was conducted by Rev. W. R. Archer, and was largely attended by sorrowing relatives and friends. Interment was made in Maple Grove Cemetery.

The pall-bearers were six cousins of the deceased: Messrs. Max Post, Fred Post, Charles Hubble, Fred Johnston, William Johnston and Bruce Post.

The late Mr. Whitney was in his 31st year, and was born in the township of Belmont. He was a member of L.O.L. No. 2975, Schumacher, and the funeral was under the auspices of the Havelock L.O.L. No. 326.

Warsaw

WARSAW, Feb. 20.—After three weeks without a Sunday service, the Presbyterians had a service on Sunday evening. Rev. W. M. Kannawin, D.D., a great Sunday school worker, took charge of the service, and spoke principally of Sunday school work. He also conducted service at Keene and Westwood.

The United Church Ladies' Aid will hold its meeting on the evening of Thursday 24, instead of in the afternoon. The grandfathers of the church will take part and a special program has been arranged.

Mr. and Mrs. McCauley from Burleigh visited their son, Mr. Roland McCauley and his wife last week.

Mrs. David Little spent Saturday with Mrs. Roland McCauley.

Mrs. E. R. Hamblin is still quite ill.

Mrs. Sarah Hamblin has returned to her home.

OMEMEE ENJOYS THREE SOCIALS

Week of St. Valentine is Busy Period in Two Local Churches.

OMEMEE, Feb. 20.—A very successful Valentine social was held on Monday evening in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. The Sunday School room was decorated in Valentine colors and presented an attractive appearance. A spicy program was splendidly rendered, after which much amusement was derived from several contests and games into which the young folk entered wholeheartedly. A social time was enjoyed when refreshments were served.

The following was the program:: Invocation, Rev. S. Kennedy; Song, The Maple Leaf Forever; Piano Solo, Miss Lillian Race; Vocal Duet, Mrs. M. Kelly, Miss M. Rowann; Chorus, Comin' Through the Rye; Instrumental Violin and Piano, Mr. and Mrs. Thorne; Valentine Song, Army Crafton, Eileen Rutherford, and Elsie Chatten; Chorus, "When You and I Were Young Maggie"; Piano Duet, Mrs. M. Kelly and Miss Lillian Race; Solo, Mrs. Thorne; Duet, Mrs. Kelly and Miss Rowan; Piano Solo, Mr. T. McCammon; The Valentine Shower, Misses Eileen Rutherford, Amy Crafton and Elsie Chatten; Valentine Song, Miss Lillian Race and Army Crafton; Violin and Piano Duet, Mr. and Mrs. Thorne; Chorus, "Good-Night, Ladies." Community Singing.

Heart Contest, Musical Contest, Turkey Contest, Game of "Getting the Kisses," and the Fortune Telling or Cupid's Darts.

"Wide-Awake" Tea

The "Wide-Awake" Mission Band, assisted by the members of the Women's Mission Society of Trinity Church, held a very delightful tea on Tuesday afternoon and evening. The weather was anything but favorable for the occasion, a strong east wind accompanied by rain and later followed by snow, no doubt kept many from attending. The Sunday School room was prettily decorated with hearts and red streamers, with shades of the same color adorning the lights. Small tea tables were tastefully arranged and decorated with the predominating color.

Mrs. E. W. Rowland, the Superintendent of the Mission Band, and her assistants, Mrs. C. L. Morcombe and Mrs. R. H. Williamson, spared no effort in looking after their many guests. They were assisted in the tea room, where a dainty supper of potato salad, cold meat, pickles, jelly, white and brown bread, fruit salad, cake and tea was served for a nominal fee, by Mesdames. G. Griffin, Musgrove, and D. Rea, Misses Mary Weir, Lillian Race, Mildred Williamson, Madeleine Gray and Ruth Jones, made most efficient waitresses.

An attractive booth, containing a variety of delicious home-made candy, put up in dainty various-size boxes, was in charge of Misses Edna Morcombe and Christina Connell and their goods were quickly disposed of.

At the close of the evening a number of piano selections were given followed by a vote of thanks on behalf of the Band, was extended by the pastor to all who had helped to further the success of the evening.

Y P U At Home

The Young People's Union of Trinity Church were "At Home" to their Anglican and Presbyterian friends on Wednesday evening. Owing to counter attractions, the attendance was diminished. Mr. Arthur Stinson, the president of the Y.P.U', opened the meeting, after which Mr. Rowland, in a brief speech, welcomed the visitors, which was responded to by Miss M. Dickson of the A.Y.P.A. and Mr. W. Brockley of the Presbyterian group. A short program consisted of a solo by Rev. E. W. Rowland; a piano duet by Misses Eva and Lillian Race, followed by community singing. A musical promenade and two contests were the means of getting everyone acquainted and provided much merriment. Partners for lunch were secured by matching numbers, and a social time followed.

Personals

Sheriff R. J. and Mrs. Patterson and Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Mitchell and daughter, Miss Emily, of Lindsay, attended the Valentine Social in the Presbyterian Church on Monday evening.

Mrs. C. L. Morcombe and daughter are spending a few days at her home near Whitby.

Mr. Arthur Williamson visited his daughter, Mrs E. Hazelwood of Hastings on Tuesday.

Reeve L. A. Southworth is in Ottawa this week as a representative from the County Council regarding the Lindsay Arsenal.

Mr. Jos. McCallum of Bobcaygeon visited his brother-in-law, Mr. Lowery Brooks, on Friday.

Mr. Neilson Lovatt, of Woodville, visited Omemee friends this week.

Norham

NORHAM, Feb. 20.—The congregations of Bethany and Mount Olivet have decided to unite in service during the winter weeks. The services will be held in Codrington Orange Hall. The Bethany Sunday School will also meet in Codrington on Sunday, February 19. The union is approved by members of both churches, which makes the future look very bright.

Miss Flossie Everson of Dunsford spent the week-end with friends in Norham.

Miss Orletta Gummer was the guest of Miss Hazel Grills of Sterling last week.

Mr. M. Emmorey of Lindsay spent the week-end in Norham.

REV. E. W. ROWLAND IS LEAVING OMEMEE

To Take Effect About July 1—Going To Stirling.

OMEMEE, February 20. — Rev. E. W. Rowland, of Trinity United Church, has received and accepted a unanimous call to become pastor of the United Church at Stirling. This announcement came as a surprise to his congregation, and yet it was expected as some time ago a delegation visited the church to hear Mr. Rowland, and quietly intimated its business.

Mr. Rowland has been pastor of this circuit for almost five years, and both he and his wife and family have made many friends, who will be sorry to lose them. The resignation will take effect about July 1.

EUCHRE AT MADOC.

Ladies' Guild Sponsors Very Happy Event—Miss Breakell Wins Prize.

MADOC, Feb. 20. — The Ladies' Guild of the Church of St. John the Baptist (Anglican) held a very successful and profitable progressive euchre in the community hall and rooms over the new fire hall on the evening of the 15th.

The rooms were beautifully decorated with red streamers and hearts and the tables were numbered over red and white hearts The Leap Year traditions were also carried out and as the tables were not numbered consecutively the crowd was kept on the move and no stiffness was possible.

Miss Isa Breakell won the Ladies' Prize, and Mr. Ambrose the gentlemen's prize. Delicious refreshments were served and the farewells were said after a pleasant half hour of social intercourse.

OBITUARY

WILLIAM NORTHCUTT

The death took place on Sunday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Robert Hendry, 646 George Street, of William Northcutt, late of Bewdley. Deceased was born in Bailieboro, but had spent the greater part of his life in Bewdley. The funeral will take place from 646 George Street, Tuesday, February 21. Service will be held at the house at 1 o'clock, the cortege then proceeding to the Baptist Church at Bewdley, where service will be held. Interment will take place at Bewdley Cemetery. He is survived by his sorrowing wife and one daughter, Mrs. Robert Hendry.

MRS. LOUIS SULLIVAN.

DOURO, Feb. 20.—The death occurred on Sunday morning of Mrs. Louis Sullivan, at her home on the Warsaw road. Besides her husband, she leaves a family of one daughter, Miss Agnes Sullivan, at home, and five sons of a former marriage, Wilfred, James, John, Alex. and Stephen Grisdale, all of Peterborough, also four sisters: Mrs. Mary Cavanagh and Mrs. Wilfred Dwyer of Peterborough, Mrs. Samuel Clancy of Toronto, Mrs. Margaret Lynch of Port Huron, Michigan, and two brothers: John O'Brien of Douro and Michael of Peterborough.

The funeral will leave her late residence at 9.30 on Tuesday morning, proceeding to St. Joseph's Church and Cemetery.

Ennismore

ENNISMORE, Feb. 20.—The Catholic Women's League held a Leap Year dance recently, with a good number in attendance. Music for dancing was supplied by Mrs. M. Twomey, Mrs. J. Morrissey and Misses Maria Pluard and Eleanor Kennedy. Refreshments were served by the ladies at the close of the evening.

DURHAM BOYS WIN AT COURSE

Three of Six in Party Bring Back Awards for Hog Judging.

SIXTY BOYS PRESENT

The special Short Course on Swine held at the various packing plants in Toronto last week, under the auspices of the Federal and Provincial Governments and the Industrial Meat Packers, was a decided success. About sixty boys competed for cash prizes and of the six boys from Durham County three won money. Those attending from Durham County along with Agricultural Representative, J. Y. Kellough, were:

Harold Nesbitt, Nestleton; Wray Edwards, Nestleton; John Moon, Port Hope; Harvey Boughen, Port Hope; Victor Wilson, Perrytown; Early Kellough, Hampton.

These Durham County boys did exceptionally well and took their full share of the prize money. Prizes won were as follows:

Dressed Carcasses—3rd, Wray Edwards, $7.

Earle Kellough got eighth in judging live hogs, but as one prize only is allowed to each contestant he received standing only in that class.

These courses provide a splendid means of demonstrating to the farm boys the most desirable type of swine to raise and are of much educational benefit.

MANY DEPOSITS OF GYPSUM

Many large deposits of gypsum occur throughout Canada, the most extensively mined areas being those in the Maritime Provinces of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, where the mineral, in many places exposed in cliffs from 50 to 100 feet in height, is found associated yith rocks of the Lower Carboniferous series. Gypsum is also mined in Ontario, Manitoba, and British Columbia. Deposits are known to occur in other parts of the Dominion.

MILLBROOK WOMEN PLAN YEAR'S WORK

W. M. S. of the United Church Choose Leaders and Decides on Expansions.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 20.—The February meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the United church was held at the parsonage on Wednesday afternoon, the president, Mrs. F. H. Howard, being in the chair, and over thirty members in attendance.

The leaders for groups for 1928 were appointed as follows: (a) Mrs. F. Smith; (b) Mrs. C. C. Garside; (c) Mrs. W. West; (d) Mrs. T. H. Aiken; (e) Mrs. J. A. Brown; (f) Miss Mary Widdis; (g) Mrs. F. P. Stinson; (h) Mrs. H. E. Smith.

Miss E. Hetherintgon, superintendent of Christian Stewardship, read a letter from the Presbyterial officer, giving the allocation for the current year. For the Cobourg Presbyterial the amount is $12,492; and for the local Auxiliary $575.00, an increase in each case over that of any previous year. A canvass for new members among the many women connected with the church who are not yet available with the W.M.S., was suggested as one good way of reaching the allocation for this year, and a number of these names were read. Beginning a list of 'associated helpers' was another means, these being shut-in members of the congregation, mothers who canont attend the meetings owing to claims of home and child, and even sick members, all of whom may take mite-boxes, read the literature, and pledge themselves to pray daily for the work.

The World Day of Prayer, the president announced, will be on Friday, Feb. 24, this year, it being the turn of Grace church to have this important gathering

The annual report furnished the basis of study for the meeting, only the home field being considered. Mrs. J. McKnight read a report of work in the Church of All Nations, Toronto; Mrs. Luxon the hospitals in Northern Ontario; Mrs. J. H. George the French work; Mrs. A. J. Brown "Meeting the Strangers" as they arrive in Canada.

The group leaders met at the parsonage recently and had a pleasant social hour, with the president as hostess, after the business of choosing their respective members for the year had been accomplished.

Think Teeth Dull?

You may find them pearly white by this free 10-day test

DON'T believe your teeth are naturally "off color" and dull. You can restore them to amazing whiteness in a new way leading dentists advise.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you will feel a film. A slippery coating that covers them, absorbs stains, hides their color and invites tooth and gum troubles. Ordinary dentifrices will not successfully remove it.

Now, thanks to modern science, there is a way to combat that film.

Just obtain a tube of the dentifrice called Pepsodent at your druggist's. Combat that film tonight; clear white teeth are beautiful. Note the amazing difference in your smile.

Through the Years—

Don't let your youth slip away—start now by preserving it in this simple way that has proved to thousands that one need never be "middle-aged"—Unless she chooses

THE art of never growing old is the art of preserving youth in natural ways. Which means, correct skin care every day of one's life.

That is the prescription of Youth, according to foremost skin specialists of the day ... and the habit of the modern woman. Youth can be preserved. Scores of thousands of women are doing it; scores of them your own acquaintances.

The rule starts with proper cleansing of the skin and pores with bland and gentle soap—with Palmolive and its gentle olive and palm lather used in this way.

Do this regularly and particularly at night

Wash your face gently with soothing Palmolive Soap, massaging the lather softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, then with cold.

If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream—that is all. Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening. Use powder and rouge if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away.

Avoid this mistake

Do not use ordinary soaps in the treatment given above. Do not think any green soap, or one represented as of olive and palm oils, is the same as Palmolive.

And it costs but 10c the cake! So little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain a cake today. Then note what an amazing difference one week makes.

Soap from trees!

The only oils in Palmolive Soap are the soothing beauty oils from the olive tree, the African palm, and the coconut palm—and no other fats whatsoever. That is why Palmolive Soap is the natural color that it is—for palm and olive oils, nothing else, give Palmolive its natural green color.

The only secret to Palmolive is its exclusive blend—and that is one of the world's priceless beauty secrets.

ROTARY HEARS ABOUT GROWTH OF CANADIANISM

AN ANNIVERSARY.

The Rotarian Movement Was Launched Twenty-three Years Ago.

"The growth of a Canadian National Spirit" was a subject that afforded Rotarian Alex Mowat an opportunity at to-day's luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club to give one of his much appreciated addresses and his resume of outstanding events in Canadian history that had led up to this condition was thoroughly appreciated by the members.

This week is anniversary week for the Rotary movement, which began in Chicago on February 23, 1905, and President A. L. Killaly briefly called attention to some of the aims and objects of Rotary and to some interesting features in the history of the organization.

Rotarian Mowat pointed out that the development of a spirit in this country that was not British-Canadian nor French-Canadian, but purely Canadian in its viewpoint, was inevitable, because of our geographical position. Canada is 3,000 miles away from the Motherland, and the people of this country differed from those of the British Isles in very many things. While in addition to the influence of the hard fact of geography there were historic events that had had their effect in developing a national spirit here.

The speaker mentioned the treaty of Paris, the revolt of the American colonies, and the French revolution as three outstanding events that had contributed largely to this development. He then rapidly touched upon other high lights in history that were important from this viewpoint, the war of 1812, the rebellion of 1837, Confederation, the Canadian first movement launched in Ottawa in 1874, the launching of Sir John MacDonald's national policy, and the gradual development of Canadian autonomy, the establishment of a Supreme Court, the taking over of the forts at Halifax and Esquimault, the withdrawal of British troops, the establishment of Canada's right to make foreign treaties and other developments up to the decision to send legations to Washington, Paris and Tokio. The speaker regretted the fact that Canadian autonomy should have become a matter of party politics.

Other factors that entered into the development of a national spirit were, he said, the influence of Canadian writers, the work of Canadian artists, the activities of Canadian churches and the work of Canadian schools. The speaker told of what had been accomplished in this direction by the schools of the country in making loyal Canadian citizens out of the children of foreign immigrants, and paid a high tribute to the teachers as a whole for their zeal and sincerity of purpose.

Rotarian M. Shaver expressed the thanks of the Rotary Club to the speaker.

Dr. Harry McKeen, director of the Forward Peterborough Movement of the Chamber of Commerce, in a few sentences, stressed the desirability of a real Chamber of Commerce and the opportunities offered by Peterborough. He expressed appreciation of the cordial reception he had been given here and of the co-operation accorded. The campaign opened to-morrow, and its success depended upon the business men of Peterborough.

MINERS VOTE TO END STRIKE

Colorado Men Favor Return To Work—Urged By Leaders.

OUT SINCE OCT. 18.

DENVER, Feb. 20. — (Canadian Press.)—Urged by leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World to end the coal strike called by that organization Oct. 18 last, Colorado miners have voted nine to one to return to work. The vote in eighteen of the largest local camps yesterday showed 88 per cent. of the strikers in favor of ending the walkout, the State executive committee of the workers reported.

Advertising Then And Now

It was the custom back in 1850 when farm animals were lost for the owner to have notice sheets printed, such as the one exhibited in The Examiner's window, in order to bring them back into the fold.

Nowadays, however, a small advertisement in the newspapers is not only cheaper, but reaches more people.

85 YEARS OLD; STILL WORKING THOUGH BLIND

Mrs. John Adlam Sews and Knits and Dresses Herself.

USES HER FRANCHISE.

Has Lived in Peterborough For 56 Years, Coming From Wiltshire, England.

One of the old residents of the city who is approaching the century mark is Mrs. John Adlam, of 516 Sherbrooke street, who is celebrating to-day the eighty-fifth anniversary of her birth. Mrs. Adlam is a typical product of a passing generation. She is a very sweet old lady whose grey hair, plain black dress and white apron remind one of the pictures of grandmothers, as they used to be. And she is blind. For the past sixteen years, she has not seen the outer world. But that isn't a handicap to the cheerful old lady, whose husband, John Adlam, was one of the best known of the city's workers, during the forty-eight years of life which he spent in taking take of Peterborough's streets.

Mrs. Adlam is bright and happy, with a contented mind. "I can hear for hundreds and hundreds of miles away," she announces, joyfully. "And a week ago, I listened to people talking in London, England." The radio has brought much joy into the life of this old lady, who puts the earpieces to her head and sits contentedly rocking on her verandah, blind to the sunlight and the passing crowds, but listening cheerfuly to the seromns that float in from far away.

Mrs. Adlam was born in Wiltshire, in England, and was maried there to John Adlam, then a shepherd. They grew up together and went to school together. He was the only beau she ever had, 'and I was his only girl," says the old lady, with a prideful harking back to the Christmas day in England on which she was married, "when the bells rung out and the grass was as green as green."

She came to Canada with her husband and two children, and has lived in Peterborough ever since, for the past fifty-six years. Four children were born here, but three died. Three are left — a son, Seth, on Bolivar Street, the son with whom she lives, Walter, and a daughter, Mrs. Fred Drake, Bolivar Street.

Times were very different then. There were no telephones or radios or electric lights. For two years after they came to Canada, they used candles for illumination. There were wooden sidewalks and a few small stores, one train a day coming in and the old "Missing Link" running to Lindsay. Mrs. Adlam joined the old wooden Methodist Church on George Street, opposite to present edifice, and later was a constant attendant at Charlotte Street Church. Sixteen years ago, she suddenly went blind, while in church, but continued to keep house and do all her own cooking and sewing and cleaning, up until the time of her husband's death, four years ago. Even now, she dresses herself, does her own hair, and makes her own bed. Since she went blind, she has made forty pairs of slippers, ome of which went to relatives in England and Australia, using a fine mercerized cotton thread. She can patch and sew, threading her own needle, and prepare vegetables and other food for the meals. She never complains about her infirmity, and is constantly cheerful and contented. She often goes out for walks and sometimes to church, and never misses a chance to vote, climbing three flights of stairs at the last election day rather than miss using the franchise, which must have been an unheart-of and outlandish thing, as far as women were concerned, when this alert old lady was a girl in England.

PIANO RECITAL.

Young Pupils of Mrs. J. C. Ellis Play Splendidly.

A very enjoyable studio recital by the piano pupils of Mrs. J. C. Ellis was held at her home on Mark Street on Friday evening, when the young pupils presented an attractive program of instrumental numbers, assisted by little Ruby Ellis, who gave several readings, and small Norma Cullen who played banjo accompaniments for some brightly-rendered choral numbers by the children.

The programme was as follows: "Daisy," played by Mary Mongraw, "Columbine" by Jean Stokes, "A Little Flower" and "Scherzo" by Marion Jaquith, "The Golliwog's First Waltz," "Sleepy Time," "A Morning Song," "Away We Go," and "Marlowe," a quintette of selections played by Phyllis Starr, "Flag-Day March," "With Muted Strings," and a "Reel," played by Mary Sullivan, "The Brownies' Parade" and "American Scouts," by Jean Kerr, "Spirit of Happiness," "La-Nita" and "Aquarelle" by Margaret Kerr, and "Turkish Rondo," a duett by Jean and Margaret Kerr.

GAS FROM SEWAGE

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J., Feb. 18. Usable gas is now being produced from sewage. According to Dr. Wm. Rudolfs at the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station, a disposal plant in a city of 50,000 is producing from 16,000 to 25,000 cubic feet of gas daily. The gas, he says, has a heat value which is higher than natural gas, and represents a saving of $10-000 yearly.

DRIVES CAR AT 207 MILE RATE

HITS 214 MILES AN HOUR.

Literally burning up the sands with his giant machine equipped with a powerful 12 cylinder motor of the British Air Service Captain Campbell exceeded by 3.16 miles an hour the former record of 203.79 set here last year by Major H. O. D. Segrave of England, in his mystery Sunbeam special.

Taking a four mile start Captain Campbell made his first run south with the wind negotiating the official mile in 16.76 seconds for a speed of 214.79713 miles an hour which was 11 miles an hour faster than Major Segrave's record. On his return trip north the Englishman covered the official mile in 18.03 seconds for a speed of 199.66722 miles an hour.

His average elapsed time both ways over the course was 17.395 seconds, and his average miles an hour was 206.95602.

Had Narrow Escape.

Immediately after he had crossed the wire at the end of the official mile Captain Campbell narrowly escaped what might have been a serious accident when his huge machine struck a soft bump on the sand and for an instant the driver almost lost control of his car. Swerving dangerously at such a tremendous speed, the machine for an instant seemed to head for the soft sand dunes which undoubtedly would have resulted in the death of the Englishman and demolishing of the car.

The bump which was located higher on the beach than the Britisher had intended to drive threw him half way out of his seat and for an instant his feet bounced completely off the brakes and the accelerator. His goggles slipped down over his eyes and obstructed his vision but he righted the machine and it roared on down the course stopping near the end of the beach four miles away.

Two interesting announcements had been made in connection with this year's bid for the world's motor speed record.

Sir Charles Wakefield is giving a 1,000 guinea ($5,000) trophy for international competition to be lodged with the country whose driver makes the new record, together with £1,000 (nearly $5,000) a year so long as his record is unbeaten, up to the end of 1930. Captain Campbell has won this.

The second announcement is that Major Segrave is willing to make another attempt should the record go to another country. After putting up his wonderful exhibition of racing last year, Major Segrave stated that in no circumstances would he ever take part in road or track racing again. As far as the world's speed record is concerned, he has no intention of trying to beat any possible future record—as long as it remains in British hands.

Sir Charles Wakefield's handsome trophy may be competed for by drivers of all nations, and will go to the first man who succeeds in beating the present record.

The trophy remains the property of the governing body—the International Association of Recognized Clubs—and is held during the existence of the record by the official club of the country to which the winning driver belongs. The driver himself will receive an engraved replica of the trophy, as well as the £1,000 annuity.

Further details of the trophy were given to the press recently by a representative of Sir Charles Wakefield, donor of the prize:

"Having in mind the Schneider Trophy for the air, and the beneficial effect it has on aircraft construction, Sir Charles was determined that the automobile designers should have similar encouragement," he said.

"The trophy will give a great fillip to the study of the engineering technicalities of the automobile, and should assist in bringing about material advances in the designs of cars and the perfection of engine equipment, and place the science of automobile construction on a par with that of aviation.

"The trophy has not yet been designed, but it will be a work of art, executed by one of the best craftsmen in the country. It will be a national work of art, and, as such, Sir Charles is determined that it small be worthy of British craftsmanship."

NEW VOTERS CROWD POLLS

Nine Million Men Vote For the First Time in Japanese Elections.

FULL MANHOOD SUFFRAGE.

TOKIO, February 20 (Canadian Press).—Thousands of rickshaw coolies voted to-day for the first time in Japanese history. Most polling places were crowded at an early hour in the first national election under the full manhood suffrage act which gave some nine million additional persons the right to vote.

GOOD PROGRAM GIVEN AT SCHOOL

H. R. McKeen Addresses King Edward H. and S. Association.

About two hundred persons enjoyed an instructive and musical evening on Friday in the auditorium of the King Edward School. R. J. Bolton, the principal, was in the chair. H. R. McKeen, director of the Peterborough Forward Movement, was the speaker of the evening, and his thirty-five-minute speech will be long remembered. The old as well as the young were enthralled with the way in which he handled his subject.

Fourteen children from the Junior W.A. of St. George's Church rendered an operetta entitled Jack Frost. Mrs. J. L. Hughes, who trained them, acted as accompanist, and the audience was greatly pleased with the charming little production. Other numbers on the program were: Piano duet, Jack Cuffe and Ashton Fife; guitar selection, Oswald Wells; piano solo, Dorothy Finnie; vocal solo, Mr. Willis, accompanied by Miss Willis; piano solo, Chrissie Milby; vocal duet, Millicent Elston and Bruce Harton.

Mrs. Andrews, president of the Home and School Association, moved a vote of thanks to all who had help- to make the evening one of the best ever held in the school, and Miss Eva Elliott seconded the motion in a few words.

Refreshments were served by the Home and School ladies. Mrs. Grose was convenor of the committee, and was assisted by Mrs. Fife, Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. Price, Mrs. Gregson, Mrs. Drysdale, and Mrs. Lockie. The program committee was headed by Mrs. Elliott, with assistants in Mrs. Drysdale, Miss Eva Elliott, Mrs. Lockie, and Mrs. Price.

300 CHINESE DROWN.

Lose Lives in Collision Between Steamers Near Shanghai.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 20. — (Canadian Press.)— Three hundred Chinese today were reported to have been drowned in a collision between the Chinese steamer Hsin Ta Ming and the Japanese steamer Atsuta Maru. The accident occurred Saturday night off Chian Kiang.

LIST OF MISSING NOW SET AT FIVE

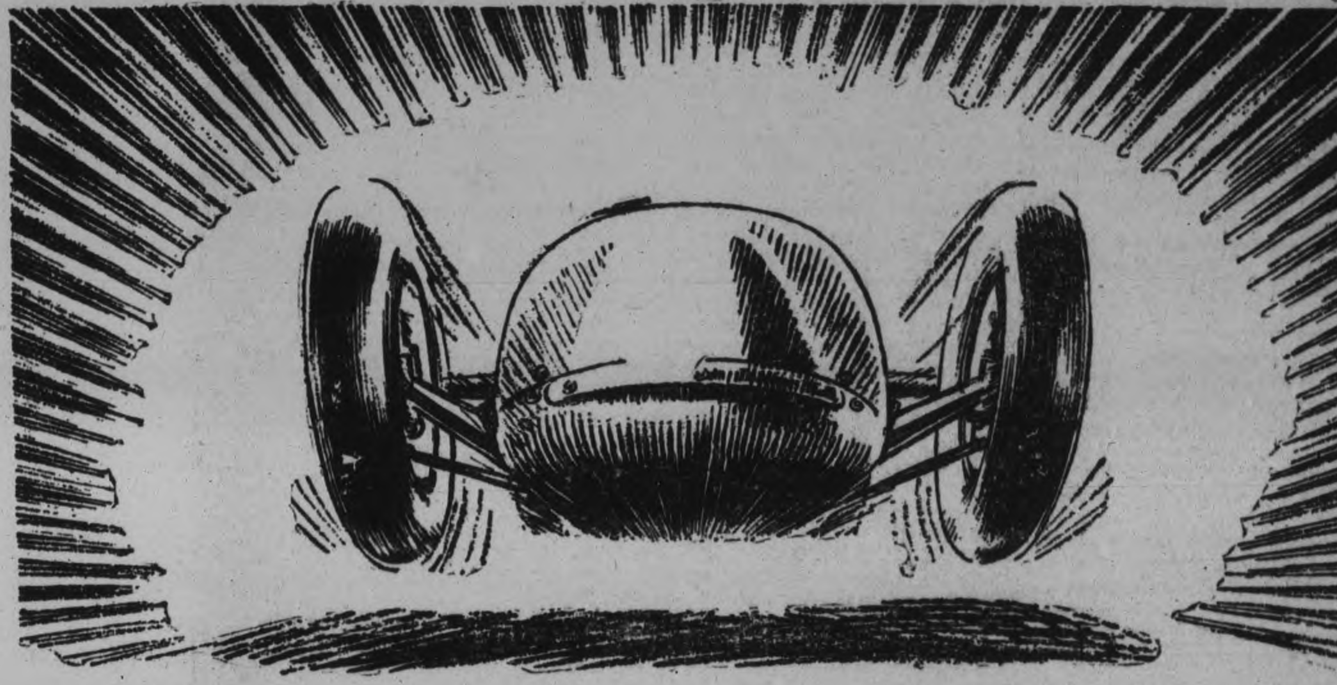
Federal Investigation Into Ferry Boat Accident is Proceeding.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20.—(Canadian Press.)—With the reported list of missing persons increased to five by the addition of a young woman's name, the Federal investigation into the accident aboard the ferryboat Peralta, remained to be completed here to-day.

Miss Isabel Robertson, Oakland, was reported missing yesterday. The girl was believed to have taken the Peralta to Oakland after shopping in San Francisco. Investigators spent five hours aboard the Peralta yesterday in an effort to determine what caused the bow of the boat to "dip" and hurl approximately thirty passengers into San Francisco Bay on Friday evening.

Never before have the City of Peterborough and surrounding districts been worked up to such high pitch by a store sale. W. H. Meredith's announcement that his store had been sold over his head and his intention to make a clean sweep of stocks before moving to the new location, acted like dropping a bomb among the men of Peterborough. Saturday the store was packed full of purchasers, and at press time crowds were still surging through the doors. The fact that good Overcoats and Suits are being purchased as low as $4.95, tells why the public is responding so heartily.

A Sensational Sacrifice is being prepared for Tuesday and Wednesday. Don't miss it. (Advt.)



Another Triumph for CASTROL!

Captain Malcolm Campbell's "Blue Bird" Travels at Stupendous Speed of 207 Miles per Hour!

HURTLING down the sands like some monster from another world, the "Blue Bird" racing car, under the iron hand of its master, Captain Malcolm Campbell, has just established a new world's speed record at Daytona Beach, in Florida. The report flashed over the telegraph wires gives his speed as 207 miles per hour!

The speed seems almost incredible! Imagine! Four times faster than the crack express trains of the world. Almost as fast as a shell from a great siege gun! The whole world gasps in admiration at Malcolm Campbell's splendid achievement.

A year ago Major Segrave, another famous Britisher, over the same Daytona seashore course, set up a world's record by driving his "Mystery" car at 203 miles an hour, thus breaking Captain Campbell's previous record of 173 miles an hour! Captain Campbell now returns the compliment!

It is significant that both these famous men use Wakefield CASTROL exclusively, not only in their racing cars but in their private motor cars.

Follow the expert's lead. Fill your car with CASTROL today. There is a grade for every car. CASTROL is not just "another oil." It is the super lubricant—the King of Motor Oils.

ESSENTIALLY CANADIAN.

Commenting on the annual meeting of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, The Montreal Gazette very truly remarks, "The Sun Life's Canadian indentity is a rich asset to the Dominion."

It is of vital importance to this country that companies of such strength as the Sun Life should always remain Canadian.

The Sun Life's record of expansion is added to by the story of its last year's achievement in writing life assurance amounting to nearly $350,000,000, the largest sum ever written in one year by a Canadian company.

The company has now assurance in force exceeding a billion and one-half dollars, a showing that is not equalled by any other company writing ordinary business in the British Empire, while its income last year exceeded one hundred million dollars.

These striking figures are mentioned because of the light they throw upon the strength and solidity of this great Canadian enterprise, which, as has been pointed out by a contemporary, is "indeed a world company but essentially and always Canadian."

That it may remain permanently so will be the hope of all those who see that it is in the best interests of this country that such institutions should never come under foreign control.

THE COST OF EDUCATION.

Figures issued by the Citizens' Research Institute as to the cost of municipal government in a group of the smaller Canadian cities, Peterborough among the number, show, as might be expected, that the per capita expenditure on education in this group, as in the larger cities, was the largest single element in the municipal expenditure.

In this respect the statistics indicate that the administration of educational matters in Peterborough involves less expense than the average for the whole group.

The per capita expenditure for education in this city in 1926 was $14.36, while the average for the 34 smaller cities studied was $15.39, and for the larger cities of Canada $15.47.

The city's appropriation for this purpose would have to be increased by a little over $22,000 to give Peterborough the per capita average of the group of municipalities investigated by the Institute.

Three Rivers, Quebec, among the smaller cities of the Dominion, spends the least on education, only $3.09 per head of population, while Quebec also supplies the municipality that spends the most, Westmount's educational facilities costing $24.20 per capita. Belleville escapes the most lightly among Ontario cities with $10.08 per capita, and Walkerville is the hardest hit with $22.98 per capita.

OTTAWA'S REQUEST.

If "nerve" is an asset in municipal life the City Council of Ottawa must be regarded as one of the most useful civic governments in the Dominion.

The Federal Government is to carry out a program to beautify the capital, and its plans include the demolition of several properties.

Manifestly the completion of such a work as this would make Ottawa a more attractive city.

Any other Council would have been delighted to know of the plans of the Government, but the Ottawa Council contained one bright mind which conceived the idea that the city should be reimbursed for the loss of taxes sustained as a result of the destroying of these properties.

And the father of this startling theory managed to persuade enough of his fellows to authorize a deputation to wait upon the Premier to ask the Government to furnish compensation.

The reception given the request was as any reasonable person might have expected, and it would doubtless have been a relief to the Prime Minister to be able to say in unvarnished terms just what he thought of the proposal.

He, however, said enough to show the deputation that they didn't know a good thing when they saw it.

TO RECRUIT A WORKING FORCE.

Contributions of both service and financial support are required for an effective Chamber of Commerce. The "Peterborough Forward" campaign being conducted for the Chamber of Commerce has advanced through the organization and educational phases, and tomorrow the work of enlisting progressive citizens for participation in its community work begins. While the financial campaign is of great importance, the membership campaign is probably more vital to the organization's and the city's future. It is through the membership that the Chamber of Commerce gains service.

First reports of the effectiveness of the financial campaign are to be received tomorrow noon. Solicitors have been busy since last Wednesday calling on all who are considered prospects for contributions to the activities fund. With no reports yet submitted, the results they met with are unknown. It is believed, however, that the business interests of Peterborough realize their responsibilities and that they will provide the Chamber with a substantial fund to carry on its work of building the city. The aim is to finance the organization so that it can undertake new and broader activities.

Starting tomorrow, campaign workers will seek membership applications. The chairman of the campaign organization has well stated that "less than seven cents per day will carry a full membership. Where can a business man get so much service for so small an amount? Is there a business of a professional man in Peterborough who is willing to admit that he cannot afford seven cents per day to increase his business?"

Individuals are prone to wonder sometimes what they can get out of a Chamber of Commerce membership. They forget that the progress of a community means progress for every citizen. A new industry, for instance, means a few more families earning and spending money in the community. It means more tenants for those who have homes to rent. It means more employment, and makes more certain every man's position. Better business means more money in circulation, and the benefits spread to all lines of activity. The merchants can do better for their customers under prosperous conditions than they can when business is lax and money is tight. If a Chamber of Commerce can improve business conditions and can add to industries of a city, the benefits of its work spread to every person who claims that city as his home.

One can search the country over for the cities that are enjoying the greatest measure of prosperity, and when they are found investigation will prove that they have live, well-financed Chambers of Commerce. Without such an agency, a city is not equipped to take advantage of opportunities to expand. There must be some organization in which the resources of the city can be centred, in which brains, enthusiasm and money can be united for effective action, and an organization like the Chamber of Commerce has been proved to be the best for such a purpose that progressive communities have yet designed.

KEEPING CANADIANS AT HOME.

Sir Joseph Flavelle approaches from a new angle the question of Canadian migration to the United States. He says that prior to the enactment of the new quota law in that country Canadians took their chances in competition with all comers.

> "Now, men and women in this sparsely settled country have a preferred position to secure employment in every State in the Union. Northern-bred, possessing the virile qualities of vigorous forefathers, understanding the ways and entering into the spirit of the North American Continent, men and women from Canada have made good. In recent years the drain has been accelerated through the application of the quota and through unparalleled prosperity."

He hopes that the effort to apply the quota law to Canadians will succeed. He says that businessmen in Canada do not sufficiently recognize how greatly opportunities for Canadians in the United States have been increased by the present quota law, and he says that it is our job to make such opportunities in Canada. This duty lies not only with Parliament and Governments, but with men of affairs in all forms of enterprise. He believes that much more could be done in this way. "We cannot shake off our responsibility by blaming Governments." This is true. Businessmen and educational establishments in the United States make tempting offers to Canadians. They want our best, and thus we suffer in regard to quality as well as quantity. The Government cannot prevent this. It can be met only by Canadian employers being equally appreciative of Canadian ability. The Dominion Government is establishing an institution for scientific research. We should try to keep the experts at home.

At the same time the Government and Parliament should do all in their power to retain the Canadian population and offset the attractions of the United States. One suggestion well worth considering is that Canadians should be offered the same inducements to settle on the land as newcomers. At present it costs a Canadian far more to move from Montreal to the West than an immigrant from Great Britain to cross the ocean and make the railway trip as well. This ought not to be so. A Canadian living in the East and desiring to settle in the West ought to be offered the same inducements as a newcomer to Canada, however desirable.

It is not necessary to rob the East of desirable population in order to populate the West. But when a farmer intends to leave Canada because he cannot make as good a living as he would like here, he should be encouraged to apply to our Government and see whether his position cannot be improved without leaving the country. There are farmers settled on poor land who might be moved with advantage. There are others cultivating farms which, while composed of good land, are too small to be divided among two or three sons. Both the men and the country would be benefited if these were assisted to obtain farms where land is both plentiful and fertile. The expense would be less than that of bringing immigrants from Europe or repatriating Canadians in the United States, and there would be less danger of disappointment through placing on the land men who are not fitted for farming life.

There are other cases where young men leave the farm because they prefer the life of cities and towns. Once that change is determined upon, the young man is likely to feel that he had better go to the United States, where there are larger and more numerous cities. It is said that Canada ought to meet this by building up more cities and towns. But as we have pointed out, Canada has already gone very far in this direction, so that while in 1891 the rural population was more than twice the urban, today the proportions are almost fifty-fifty, and in Ontario and Quebec the urban population far exceeds that of the rural districts. Ontario from a point east of Toronto to Hamilton, thence through the Niagara Peninsula west to London, and then to the boundary between Ontario and Michigan, is a hive of manufacturing industry as well as a fertile and highly cultivated farming country.

This process may go on, and it would be accelerated by the development of water power on the upper St. Lawrence. But we cannot expect in a few years to build up a New York and Chicago in Canada. Our neighbors have the start of us in industrial development, and we must recognize that while doing all in our power to lessen the gap.—London Advertiser.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 20 (Canadian Press)—Owing to the continued absence of any important demand from exporters for Canadian grain here the volume of business on Saturday was again small. The undertone to market for Canadian Western oats and Argentine corn was firm.

A feature of the export trade in Spring wheat flour was the good demand from British West India importers and quite a large volume of business was done in this direction for prompt and nearby shipment. The demand from England was also good and a fair trade was done. The domestic enquiry was quiet.

Prices for all grades of Winter wheat flour were well maintained with a small business passing.

An active trade was done in all lines of millfeed and the feeling was steady. The movement of standard grades of rolled oats was small, but the tone of the market was firm.

Further weaknes sdeveloped in the egg trade and prices for fresh extras were reduced 1 cent per dozen. On the other hand storage eggs were strong and values were marked up two cents per dozen. The receipts were 600 cases.

A moderate amount of business was done in butter and prices were unchanged. The receipts were 14 packages.

The cheese market was a little more active owing to the demand that developed from England and sales of odd small lots were made. The receipts were 37 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 20 (Canadian Press).—Announcement of big flour sales apparently pointing to surprising scarcity of flour in the Eastern part of the country led to higher prices Saturday for wheat. As much as 300,000 barrels were reported to have been bought overnight for shipment East, the largest business of the kind this year.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm, ½ to ¾ cents net higher, with corn ⅝ to ½ to ⅝ cent up; oats ⅛ cent off to an equal advance, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of two cents.

Large-scale Eastern purchases of flour reported Saturday were direct from millers, and this circumstance was construed here as evidence that stocks of flour in second hands East and in course of distribution have been unduly curtailed. Saturday's flour sales were estimated as alone representing 1250000 bushels of wheat. In this connection it was recalled that wheat demand of late by domestic mills have been unsually keen. Talk was also heard that Russia will buy wheat and flour before long, despite official denials that purchases are contemplated.

Contributing to strength of the wheat market Saturday were reports current that considerable crop damage has resulted from alternate freezing and thawing weather East of the Mississippi. Advices were also at hand that snowfalls in some districts West proved to be less than had been indicated. Other bullish factors included word that Spain has authorized immediate importation of 1,600,000 bushels of wheat.

An opposite influence, however, came from news that European countries have raised fifteen million tons more potatoes than a year ago, implying relative lessening of demand for breadstuff grain.

Corn rallied with wheat and as a result of prospective soft weather next week. Meanwhile, country offerings to arrive were somewhat larger.

Oats were dull and unsettled within a narrow range.

Provisions held about steady.

GOD'S MINUTE

I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help. My help cometh from the Lord, which made heaven and earth. He will not suffer thy foot to be moved; He that keepeth Thee will not slumber.—Ps. 121:1-3.

O God, Giver of light and power We thank Thee for our Mountains of Transfiguration, for hours of insight and joy. But vision has not insured effectiveness in service. Like Thy disciples at the foot of the Mount of Transfiguration, "We are not able", and we come to Thee with the great question, "Lord, why could we not cast it out?" We know that all things are possible to him that believeth and that faith-filled prayer, whether it be fellowship with Thee or intercession for another, is efficient prayer. Help Thou our unbelief. Help us to come so closely and truly into Thy fellowship that we shall be filled with power not our own. May we be truly identified with Thee. May we perfectly imitate Thy mind, and so be filled unto all the fulness of God. So teach us in the school of true prayer, that this day may be one of continued joy because Thy power has free course in us. This we ask in the name of Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

A Thought

WHEN ARE WE HAPPIEST?

The happiest hours seem to have been in our childhood days. When we were young our imagination was more vibrant, our world was new, and all looked so wonderful.

How true it is that distance dissipates the disagreeable things while memory clings only to the pleasures of the past!

At seven, the sun shone on both sides of the street for a certain little boy, but now at nearly nine times seven the present has a shady side to this same street—a side that is equally as inviting where tired imagination can rest and watch even a much more wonderful world.

Recollections are the mirages in memory. Reality is here and most of us find more fun in living in comfort than we found in the days when the sleeping attic was like the Arctic.

Then again: They say that old friends are best, and if this be true, and it is true, then my friends of the present are just nine times better than they were when I was a boy.

You cannot sell me out of the idea that the present is the time to be cheerful and happy.

In older age we have friendships that are stronger because we have known our friends longer and if friendships are not the sum total of true happiness, or the so-called happiest hours, I'm in my second childhood.

W. A. VALENTINE TEA.

Lakefield Ladies Have Very Successful Afternoon and Evening Entertainment.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 20.—The parish hall was prettily decorated for the annual Valentine tea of the Women's Auxiliary of St. John's Church on Tuesday afternoon, which was well attended in spite of the very disagreeable weather.

Mrs. Creighton and Mrs. Mahood formed the reception committee, and Miss Hetherington, Mrs. Nesbitt and Mrs. Kendall the committee in charge of the home cooking display. Attractive-looking home made candy was sold by Mrs. Kenneth Mackenzie and Mrs. Kelsey, while the ladies in charge of the fancy work table were Mrs. Barker, Mrs. Callahan, Mrs. S. White and Miss Atwood. Afternoon tea was served by a committee consisting of Mrs. T. Waldon, Mrs. Junkin, Mrs. W. Watson, Jr., and Mrs. Stenner, presiding at prettily decorated tables.

A progresisve euchre was held in the evening, at which ladies were admitted free while gentlemen paid according to the size of their feet. Six tables were played, the prizes going to Mrs. Callahan and Mrs. T. Simpson, while Miss Grace Watson and M. Hampton won the consolation prizes.

THIS IS TRUTH, NOT ERROR.

In the sixth chapter of Ephesians, verse 12, we read that we wrestle not against Flesh and Blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against Spiritual wickedness in high places. One cannot help but notice that these powers are somewhat manifested in peoples to-day in order to further the Devil's Lie that there is no Hell in the sense of being the abode of the wicked and that the "Bible Hell is the grave where all await the resurrection" and that all with absolutely no exception will go there. Let us see what the Word of God has to say upon this all-important question for the same Book that tells us of a "Heaven" to be gained also tells us of a Hell to be shunned for it must be thus saith the Lord.

Psalm 9 : 17 says, "The wicked shall be turned into hell and all the nations that forget God." If the word Hell means the grave, why does it specifically say "The wicked" and they that forget God? We might ask with reason, "What happened to the bodies of dead Saints who were not looked upon as wicked nor did they forget God? The Hebrew word for Hell is "Sheol," and the Greek word "Hades," but by altering the name you do not alter the nature of the place. If Hell is the grave, how is it that the rich man spoke when he was there, seeing that the grave is the place where the body goes which is but the house in which the soul lives. Job asked a solemn and important question, "Man dieth and wasteth away; yea man giveth up the ghost, and where is he?" Job 14 : 10.

Let us look at Luke 16, where we have the Lord's own words. Oh, one will say, "that is only a parable," but it does not say so. When our Lord spoke in parables he always told us so; there is no proof that it is a parable. "The Lord Jesus," as Mr. F. W. Grant remarks, "never adopted the superstitions He condemned, nor made, the traditions of men, the basis of His own authoritive teaching. One thing is certain, and that is, He could not possibly exaggerate by a hair's breadth the happiness of the redeemed, or the miseries of the lost. And if the figurative language describing the rich man's doom is so terrible, what must the reality be? When the rich man prayed to Abraham for a drop of water to cool his tongue, even that, the smallest of all mercies was denied. As a reason for its refusal Abraham said. "Between us and you there is a great gulf fixed; so that they which would pass from hence to you cannot; neither can they pass to us that would come from hence," so that Hell is not the grave. Death then means fixity of state either for Hell or Heaven.

The words of the Psalmist (Psa. 16: 10) and fulfilled in Christ, "Thou wilt not leave my soul in Hell (Sheol) or suffer Thine Holy one to see corruption," is worthy of note. His Soul descended in Sheol or the underworld made up of two compartments, Paradise and Hell, with an impassable Gulf between. Before the resurrection of Christ the Soul and Spirit of the righteous dead went to the Paradise compartment of Sheol and there Christ met the repentant malefactor as promised in Luke 23 : 43. In Eph. 4 : 8-10 we read when He ascended up on high He led a multitude of captives (margin). Now that He ascended, what is it but that He also descended into the Lower parts of the earth. "Surely no one would say He descended into the grave when His own loved ones took him and laid him in the tomb. When he arose triumphant from the tomb, Paradise and its inhabitants were transferred to the Third Heaven, where Paul was caught up (2 Cor. 12 : 1-4). There all the Saints go, that they may be with the Lord. (2 Cor. 5 : 9), awaiting the resurrection of the Body, which alone has entered the grave.

II. Corinthians, 5 : 6, Therefore we are always confident, knowing that, whilst we are at home in the body, we are also absent from the Lord.

Verse 8, We are confident; I say, and willing rather to be absent from the body and to be present with the Lord. And when our Lord comes our bodies shall be raised—united with the soul to be with Christ forever. (1 Cor., 15 : 51-54), Behold I show you a mystery we shall not all sleep, but we shall be changed (He is speaking to Christians only, see chapter one). In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye at the last trump, for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed, for this corruptible (that is the dead in the graves) must put on incorruption, and this mortal (the living saints) must put on immortality. Immortal is never used in connection with the soul.

The name of the Compartment where the unsaved go and where the rich man went was Tartarus, the word that is translated Hell in 2 Peter, 2 4, which at the consummation of all things with death will be cast into the Lake of Fire that burneth with brimstone with the Devil and his angels, Rev. 20 10 14.

Now and now only is the time to decide where you will spend Eternity for we read in 2 Cor. 6 2, "Now is the accepted time; behold now is the day of salvation." Salvation can neither be earned, merited, nor purchased. He that believe not is condemned already because he hath not believed in the name of the Only Begotten Son of God, John 3 18, and further, "How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation," Heb. 2-3, and further, There is none other name under Heaven given among men whereby we must be saved. Acts 4 12, so that we see that under Heaven is the sphere where man is to be saved, also among men, see Mark 2 10.

For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life. John 3 16.

Verily, verily, I say unto you, he that heareth My Word and believeth on Him that sent me hath everlasting Life and shall not come into condemnation but is passed from Death unto Life. John 5 24. What shall the end be of them that obey not the Gospel of God? 1 Peter 4 17.

Surely the Scriptures are sufficient to convince the reader that there is no second chance. For it is appointed unto men once to die but after this the Judgment. Hebrews 9 27.

BIBLICAL SHIELD IN CHARM

Mahzel, a device taken from the shield of David, and which has been carried by devout Jews for 5,500 years, is being commercialized in Europe as a lucky charm. The fad started when it was told that Levine had the sign on his airplane when he flew the Atlantic. Mahzel also appears on the Ark in all synagogues.

SPRINGVILLE UNITED

SPRINGVILLE, Feb. 18.—"When John the Baptist pointed to Jesus and said 'Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world,' he gave expression to the greatest thought that ever entered the mind of man," said Rev. A. H. McConnachie in Springville United Church on Sunday. "The thinking person will inquire how he came by that thought. Man, we know, usually gathers his great thoughts and ideas by conscientious study and reading. The Bible affords material that is heavily laden with wonderful ideas.

"The Scientist labours in his laboratory and as a result of his efforts aids in the unveiling of nature and the knowledge of her secrets. He is inspired with his great thoughts because he has discovered something that will help humanity and something that will live on through the ages. He has thought God's thoughts.

"The astronomers some years ago discovered that there was a certain disturbing in fluence among the heavenly bodies. They located the situation of the cause of disturbance and after years of search one of our planets was found. This planet was made by God, therefore it was his plan that it should be discovered. Great ideas come to men who are trying to improve the mind.

"David Livingston, as a result of great labour, discovered in Africa, some of the most wonderful waterfalls in the world. God made these wonders and intended that they should be discovered.

"Some people are saved from littleness and meanness because of big thoughts given them by God. These people are too big to be slanderers or gossips.

"John had read in the Bible of the coming of the Messiah. He was spiritual minded and saw farther into the future than others. He was prepared for the Messiah but his preparedness does not account for his great thought as voiced in our text. John pointed to Jesus in a crowd and the thoughts spoken by him were the inspiration of the spirit of God. This was not his first meeting with Jesus as he had already baptized him. His words were not the result of study when he said, 'Behold God's Lamb.'

"Every day in the temple a spot less lamb was offered by man. This was a symbolical offering not to be compared with God's offering. The Jewish race made offerings which were limited to themselves for the spiritual well-being of their race. Other nations had their own gods which they worshipped.

"John breaks down all barriers and points to one who is the "Lamb,' not only of the Jews, but the whole world. 'He taketh away the sin of the world.'

"How does Jesus accomplish this? We have no positive answer. It is not given to any man to make explanation. We acknowledge the truth and must be content with that. Jesus Christ died for our sins and in some way God uses this that we may have salvation. We must be satisfied with this fact without knowing how it is done.

"There is a violent contrast between the sacrifices in the Old Testament compared with those in the New. In the Old Testament we are told of the unwilling sheep or lamb being dragged to the altar and it's blood shed. In the New Testament we have no element of unwillingness in the sacrifice of Jesus Christ.

"Jesus felt the burden of our sin, even in the Garden of Gethsemane, but he was given strength by God to bear His burdens.

"Saint Augustine said, 'The blood of Christ is love.' There was more than blood laid down on Calvary. Infinite love was poured out for man's salvation. The blood of Christ is far more precious than the blood of bulls or goats. Jesus paid more than a ransom price.

"John was looking to the time when Jesus would be sacrificed on Calvary when he said, 'Behold God's Lamb, which taketh away the sin of the world.' God sees the time when the whole world will be cleansed. That time has not come yet. Provision is made for all but it has not been accepted by all. With some it is still as if Jesus had never died, to save their sins. Let us change all today. Let us look to the crucified Lamb of God and believe that our sins have been laid on Him."

TRENT RIVER UNITED CHURCH

TRENT RIVER, Feb. 18.—Rev W. R. Archer, pastor, chose his afternoon text from the book of Chronicles also 1st Corinthians 9-22, emphasizing the characteristics of zeal and enthusiasm. The literal word enthusiasm means "God within." If we find we have lost all our enthusiasm let us question ourselves and ask God to come into our lives. In all parts of the world where persecuted Christians went they became like a torch in a dark land. A lot of Christian people have enough power just to make the grade themselves, like a locomotive—what about the burden of others? There are two ways of measuring man's usefulness—zeal and ability. If he possesses both his usefulness increased. We need men in the church whose hearts are on fire. The speaker gave several examples of outstanding heroes such as Martin Luther. There are illustrations without number wherever we turn. Paul's life was one of Christian service. Paul didn't pick out a child of court and try to win, but he took them as he found them. If we could find Christians like that to-day! Always on the job—He that wins souls must be wise. If many parents would talk to their children about being a Christian instead of how much money they were going to make, the children draw conclusions their parents do not care. Preachers do not care as they are paid for their work. In conclusion the minister exhorted all mothers and fathers to be a priest in their own home, see that their children are fed on the bread of Heaven when life's work is over. If we will surrender ourselves to Christ all will be right.

CLASS FOR NURSING.

Lakefield Women's Institute Will Open Instructions in Home Nursing Soon.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 20.—The February meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the Council Chamber last week with about forty members present, in spite of the icy walks and roads. The debate arranged between the Women's Institute and the Junior Institute was postponed until March owing to the illness of one of the participants. The Institute is arranging for a class in home nursing which will be held from March 5 to 16, in the auditorium of the Memorial Hall, under the direction of Miss Alexander of Toronto, who is being sent by the department. Not only members of the Institute are eligible for the course, but any woman or girl who cares to take advantage of the opportunity. Fees for members are to be twenty-five cents and for non-members fifty cents. Mrs. Leslie Harrison, the secretary, has arranged to take the names of all who wish to take the course.

IRON SALVATION

The normal body in health contains only about one-eighth of an ounce of organic iron. Yet no animal body could exist if there were not at least some of this vital element present. In anemic persons this amount is often very low, being sometimes only ten per cent of the normal quantity.

At first thought it would seem that this deficiency could be easily made up by simply using more food rich in iron. This is, of course, a valuable help, but the enforced feeding with iron-bearing foods is not alone sufficient to cure an advanced case of pernicious anemia.

When a liberal mixed diet is used there is usually enough iron taken into the system to supply all the bodily needs. The great fault is that the body cannot convert this iron into blood and tissue. This is due to various toxic states of the system which interfere with proper metabolism. Simply stated, the trouble is this:

The body encumbered with excess poisons is unable to change the iron of the food into the needed iron of the blood. If this condition of toxemia is allowed to continue, no amount of stuffing with iron-carrying foods will be of any help.

First of all, it is necessary to cleanse the body from these toxins, and then the correct foods can, with benefit, be used, and the iron elements transformed into living cells.

If your doctor says you are anemic, start immediately a bodily housecleaning. A short fasting diet of fresh fruit is always helpful in eliminating effete matter from the system. Daily enemas and sponge baths should be used to assist elimination. Large quantities of water taken at regular intervals will furnish the fluid for flushing the kidneys and circulatory systems.

A few days of this regime will do more at first to bring about a rapid change than all the food you can stuff into your stomach.

When regular meals are resumed, continue to take daily enemas and use every method you know of to assist in elimination of poisons. The diet should then consist of plenty of green-leaf vegetables and a reasonable amount of lean meats. These foods contain the largest amount of available iron.

Do not be misled into submitting to intravenous injections of inorganic iron, as this mineral has no more valu in the blood stream than small particles of iron filings. The vegetables transmute mineral iron into the organic form, and only in this form can the body make use of iron. The fresh amount needed daily is very small—about the quantity you can balance on the point of a pen-knife. A salad of greens each day will furnish you with all your system can assimilate.

The most important point to remember is to care for your body in such a way that the digestive and assimilative functions can easily transpose the needed vegetable iron into blood and vital tissue.

Good health is not dependent ONLY upon the use of the right foods. ELIMINATION of bodily toxins, BREATHING fresh air, and plenty of vigorous EXERCISE will help immeasurably in building the clean blood stream upon which your life depends.

Questions and Answers.

Question: Mary R. writes: "I have a swollen gland in my neck and am writing to you to ask what is good for it. I have had it lanced a couple of times, but after a while it seems to come back. It doesn't hurt me. I am a strong, healthy girl of sixteen and some people say I will outgrow it, but I don't think so."

Answer: Your only hope to cure the swollen gland is to take a careful diet which will not overload your lymphatic circulation. It is best, for a short time, to eliminate all of the heavy foods and live on fruits and green vegetables for a month or two and give your glands a chance to empty themselves of any accumulated wastes. Lancing only injures the glands still further, and extends the trouble to other glands nearby. Hot applications or electrical treatments are sometimes helpful in emptying out the swollen glands.

Question: A. B. S. asks: "Will you please explain how to cook coddled eggs?"

Answer: Place the unbroken eggs in a deep pan which is not standing on the fire, and pour over them boiling water. At least one quart of water should be used to each two eggs. Allow to stand for from five to ten minutes. When broken open, the egg should have a jelly-like consistency, but should at the same time be so well cooked that there is no transparent albumen which has not been coagulated. If the pan is covered, less time will be required to get the same effect, but it is possibly more desirable to have the eggs cook very slowly for perhaps eight to ten minutes, as in this way they are cooked more thoroughly.

Question: J. B. asks: "Is there any cure for adhesions of the gall bladder besides an operation?"

"Proper Food and Exercise"

Sleep Restores Our Used Energy

SLEEP is Nature's great provision for rest and recuperation. If we lived always and in all things in obedience to the laws of Nature, sleep would be our regular means of daily rest during which all our muscles, nerves and vital organs as well as our mental faculties, would be refreshed and our energies restored. Throughout all nature runs the law of rest. There can be no recuperation without rest.

REGULAR HABITS WILL KEEP ANY ONE WELL

Work, or any form of activity in which energy is used by the brain or body, expends vital force. It cannot be regained except by the right kind of rest, either in sleep or a proper balancing exercise.

During the inactivity and relaxation of sleep, the heart works with the least expenditure of force, the lungs continue their rhythmical exhalations and inhalations without effort and all other continuous functions of the body are at the minimum. No fatigue poison is being created and the process of recuperation and restoration goes on without hindrance. Be sure that you get your full quota of sleep in every twenty-four hours.

Liberal Reduction Diet

BREAKFAST: Orange juice or grape-fruit; two soft boiled or poached eggs; two slices of gluten bread toasted dry; coffee substitute or weak tea, no sugar but a little cream may be added. Between breakfast and lunch, two glasses of water. LUNCH: For lunch a clear soup; thin vegetable luncheon; gelatin, tapioca pudding or raw fruit for dessert. If bananas are taken, they should be exceptionally ripe. Two glasses of water should be taken between lunch and dinner. DINNER: Broiled lean meat, chicken or fish; one or two vegetables; gelatin salad; dark bread without butter; weak tea or coffee substitute without sugar; for dessert, stewed fruit unsweetened or tapioca pudding.

LIGHT FEEDING OF TURNIPS GOOD

Steers Can Be Fattened For Market Quickly and Economically.

In the Maritime provinces swede turnips have been largely relied upon to furnish succulence in the ration of fattening steers. The question is often asked as to whether these should be fed in large, in small, or in decreasing amounts during the fattening period.

During the winter of 1916-17 two pens of steers were fed one of which received a uniformly heavy amount of turnips during the entire experimental feed period. The second pen received the same as the first pen at the start of the test, but this was gradually decreased until the completion of the period. It was found that steers in the second lot made greater and more economical gains than those receiving the heavier feeding.

During the winter of 1926-27 steers receiving 15 pounds of roots daily during the entire feed period made gains as great as those receiving 30 pounds per day. With pens fed turnips at a diminishing rate during the test period there appeared to be no advantage in heavy feeding. Some slight advantage was noted between pens fed roots at a diminishing rate, and those fed at a uniform rate during the experiment, the former making the more economical gains.

Pens fed turnips in any quantity or by any method made greater gains than the check pen receiving no turnips.

No direct data are available at this Station indicating the optimum amount of turnips to be fed.

Turnips exercise a decidedly beneficial laxative and tonic effect and for this reason if for no other their use is to be recommended.

"Fruit-a-tives" the Foe of Constipation

NEW MILLS, N.B.—"I can honestly say 'Fruit-a-tives' are the best internal regulator I have ever used. Other remedies, and I have tried many, cause pain and griping, but 'Fruit-a-tives' always act easily and effectively. I most sincerely recommend them."

Mr. S. MacNair.

Made from the intensified juices of fresh fruits combined with tonics, "Fruit-a-tives" is a natural medicine. It strengthens the system to act naturally without the continuous use of laxatives—25c and 50c a box.

Cohen protested amount involved in the case by asserting the vase could be replaced for $5.

Campbellford Concert

The BENEFIT CONCERT, under the auspices of the Canadian Legion here, is meeting with the approval of the townspeople generally. But in spite of the fact that it has been well advertised in three papers, both daily and weekly, there are still some people who want to secure seats, and apparently do not know that the plan has been at Wood's Drug Store, and that the Seats are selling rapidly. To say that this Concert is to be second to none would not be boasting. Dorothy Allan Park's press notices would fill pages in any newspaper. Mary Agnes Logan is a Concert Pianist with enough gold medals and letters to burn. They are each leaders in their professions.

To the People of Campbellford, it is absolutely unnecessary to introduce Cherry Turner and Cecil Searles. They have been favorites since their first appearance. To any lover of music, this event ought to be heralded as a rare opportunity to enjoy First-class Entertainment at a price well within range of everyone. Also, it ought to be borne in mind that the Legion does not intend to increase its bank account one cent by this Concert. The entire proceeds are for the purpose of assisting a Comrade who is, for the present, and through no choice of his own, down, but most certainly not out. These men stood between the "Folks Back Home" and the Grey German Hordes. Now they are wondering to what extent the "Folks Back Home" will lend a hand. They are not asking for charity, but are offering more than value for value. That ought to appeal in this modern "Bargain Day." 1d-43-342

WINTER FEEDS FOR MILK COWS

Well-Balanced Ration Required for Milk Production.

HAY NECESSARY

The aim in feeding for winter milk production is to produce the greatest amount of milk and butter at the least possible expense. In order to do this we must imitate, as closely as possible, conditions during the early summer, when there is abundance of palatable, succulent feed.

The ration must be well balanced. That is, there must be sufficient protein to balance the carbohydrates. Legume hay is usually the cheapest source of protein. Therefore, the dry roughage should contain as large a percentage of either clover or alfalfa hay as possible.

Succulent feeds keep the cows in good health and are very palatable, therefore, either roots or silage should be fed to enable the cows to make the best use of the other feeds in the ration.

For maximum milk production the ration should contain a liberal allowance of concentrates. Concentrates are usually the expensive part of the ration. Therefore, in feeding concentrates, each cow should be fed individually. The amount it will pay to feed will depend partly on the price of concentrates as compared with roughage and partly on the amount and quality of milk each cow is producing.

At the Fredericton Experimental Station the cows are fed all the mixed clover and timothy hay they will eat with from 25-40 pounds of corn silage or up to 50 pounds of roots. Heavy producers are fed 1 pound of grain for each 3½ pounds of milk. Medium producers are fed 1 pound of grain for each 4 pounds of milk that they produce. The grain ration fed is composed for the most part of 1 part bran, 1 part crushed oats, 1 part linseed meal and 2 parts brewers' grain, and 1 per cent of salt is added at mixing.

It should always be borne in mind, that cows will not make the most profitable use of feed consumed unless they are fed and watered regularly, given comfortable quarters and allowed to exercise each day.

BULL PLAYS 'POSSUM

PUT-IN-BAY, O., Feb. 18.- Rattlesnake Island, off Lake Erie coast here, was without beef recently, because a "dead" bull injured the butcher and forced him to retreat to the mainland. In winter the island stores its beef on the hoof and hires a butcher to do the slaughtering. On this occasion, Mr. Butcher shot Mr. Bull and the animal fell apparently dead. But as the knife descended for the "bleeding" Mr. Bull scrambled back on the hoof and chased Mr. Butcher back to his boat and the mainland.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE RED DRUM STICK

"Mew! Mew! Meaouw!"

That is the sound which Uncle Wiggily heard coming from behind a snow-covered bush one day as the rabbit gentleman stood near Mr. Whitewash, the Polar bear, who had offered to give Tap Tap a ride on his back.

"Mew! Mew! Meaouw!"

"Did you hear that?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Surely I did," growled Mr. Whitewash. "It was only the wind blowing in the trees. Hop up on my back, little deer, and I will take you to the North Pole where I am going on a visit."

As I told you in the story before this, Uncle Wiggily met in the forest Tap Tap, a little lost reindeer, who had run away from the North Pole to look for his father. The father deer worked for Santa Claus. Uncle Wiggily was wondering how he could send Tap Tap back home when along came jolly Mr. Whitewash who offered to ride the deer on his back. And then sounded the funny noise.

"Excuse me, Mr. Whitewash," said Uncle Wiggily, timidly twinkling his pink nose, "but I can't believe that sound was wind blowing in the trees. It didn't sound like that to me."

"Maybe that was my adddy calling for me," suggested Tap Tap.

"Oh, no!" chuckled Mr. Whitewash. "A reindeer doesn't mew."

"No, but the Bob Cat does," exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "And that's who I think it is—the bad Bob Cat after me. Let's run!"

Mr. Longears was starting to hop off through the trees, and Tap Tap was getting up on the Bear's back, when out of the bushes walked Kittie Kat, the pussy girl.

"Oh, my goodness!" cried Uncle Wiggily, stopping suddenly. "Was that you mewing, Kittie?"

"Yes," answered the pussy girl, "it was. I thought I was lost and I was crying, but I'm all right now, 'cause I found you. But I'm hungry and I want to go home. My paws are cold in the snow, too!"

"Poor little child!" murmured Uncle Wiggily. "I'll ride you home on my back, the same as Mr. Whitewash is going to ride the little deer. I'm glad you weren't the Bob Cat, my dear Kittie."

"So am I!" purred the pussy girl. "But who is this little deer?"

Uncle Wiggily told how Tap Tap was lost in the woods, seeking his father who had, several days since, gone back to the North Pole with Santa Claus.

"And now," went on the rabbit gentleman, "if we are all ready we had better start. I'll take you home on my back Kittie, and Mr. Whitewash will take Tap Tap."

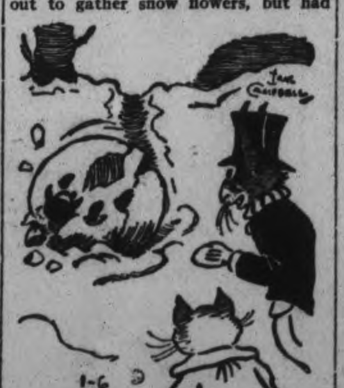
"Hop up, little deer!" growled the big Polar bear in his pleasant voice. No one minded if it was a bit gruff.

So Tap Tap hopped up on the shaggy white back, and Kittie Kat climbed up on Uncle Wiggily's shoulders. Away they started, Mr. Whitewash going to the north and Uncle Wiggily to the south toward his hollow stump bungalow.

"Good-bye!" called Kittie to Tap Tap.

"Good-bye!" answered the little deer. "Maybe I'll see you next Christmas!"

Uncle Wiggily called a farewell to Mr. Whitewash and then the rabbit gentleman plunged into the forest to take Kittie Kat home. She had come out to gather snow flowers, but had found none and she was cold and hungry.



Out rolled Jackie Bow-wow

"But I'm glad you found me, Unkie Wig!" she said. "I'm having a nice ride. Giddap up, horsie!" she mewed, pretending the rabbit gentleman was a pony. Then all of a sudden, Kittie Kat saw something sticking up out of the snow and called: "Whoa, horsie! I want to get a red drum stick. Whoa!"

"What is it you want?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"A red drum stick," answered Kittie "There it is," and she pointed to a clump of old bushes, in the midst of which grew a sumach tree. On one of the branches was a cluster of dried, red berries in the shape of the big stick which the bass drummer uses. "I want that red drum stick," purred Kittie.

So Uncle Wiggily pranced over to the sumach bush, stooping low down so Kittie could reach the red drum stick which she broke off.

"Now I'll have some fun!" she mewed. "Giddap, horsie! I'm going to have fun with my red drum stick!"

"So am I going to have fun!" suddenly growled a voice in the bushes and Uncle Wiggily's pink nose turned pale. For he saw something that made him shiver. It was a big snowball, moving slowly along, and who was pushing it, and why, you shall hear some night when the story will be about Uncle Wiggily and the funny snowball.

SHE COUGHED NIGHT AND DAY COULD NOT SLEEP

Mrs. Leonard Haywood, Victoria Corner, N.B., writes:—"Last fall I took an awful cold which I caught while driving in an open car on a cold day.

"I coughed night and day, could not sleep at night, and my eyes ran water so that I could hardly see a thing.

"My husband got me a bottle of

A junior gymnasium Valentine party was held on Saturday morning at the Young Women's Christian Association, attended by one hundred and fifty members of the babies', junior and intermediate classes, in fancy dress. A programme of games, gymnasium dances and drills was presented, followed by the service of ice cream and cake. During the morning, the swimming awards won by junior members at the life saving examinations last fall were presented by Mrs. G. Wood, the prizes having just arrived from England. Proficiency certificates were presented to Ruby Milburn and Ruby Tuck, who learned to swim last summer, and to Helen Tewsley. The bronze medallion and certificate was presented to Hazel Bradley, also to Jean Maconomy. The judging of fancy dress costumes required considerable time. Mrs. Wood finally presented the prize for the babies' class to Pat Graham as Pierrot, Ardyth Richardson as a little Swiss girl, and Irene Blain as a Valentine. The following received honorable mention: Betty Jean Puffer, Pentland Welwood, Dorothy Franks, Beryl and Vivian Carter, Loraine Wellwood, Betty Richardson, Betty and Irene Jary. In the junior class, the prizes went to Jean Gillespie as an Old-Fashioned Girl and Phyllis Pink as Northern Lights. Honorable mention: Jean Matchett, Doris Glover, Jean Nicholls, Edith Abraham, Margaret Lundy, Leon Comstock and Beverley Cowell. The prize for the Intermediate class was presented to Beatrice O'Grady as a Dutch girl, and honorable mention was made of Celia Letellier, Margaret Dunlop and Irene McGregor.

CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING

MR. AND MRS GEORGE K. THROOP.

On the 19th of February, 1878, just fifty years ago, in the town of Cobourg, George K. Throop and Sarah Steel were married by the Rev. Nathaniel Burwash, who later became Chancellor of Victoria University. To-night, surrounded by their children and their children's children they, at their comfortable little home, 104 Lock street, will celebrate the diamond jubilee of that ocassion.

For fourteen years after their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Throop lived in Cobourg, where he worked as a butcher, but in 1892 Mr. Throop thought Peterborough had greater opportunities for himself, his wife and his family, so he moved to what was then a town. While Winch Brothers were in business he worked in their butcher shop, and then he went to the Matthews Packing Company for 18 years. When the De Laval came to Peterborough he was one of the first workmen employed and has been with that company ever since. To-day, although 74 years of age, he never misses being at the factory gates with the opening whistle in the morning. Mr. Throop was born in Cobourg and is the son of Kent Throop. His father was born in Hull, England, and came to Canada when he was quite young. He had one brother, who died in Cobourg some years ago.

Mrs. Thorop was born on the outskirts of the city of Glasgow 67 years ago. At the age of 12 she and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Steele, came to Canada and took up residence in Cobourg. She has one brother, Jim, of Victoria County and one sister, Mrs. Thomas Goody of Cobourg, living. Both Mr. and Mrs. Throop have been blessed with good healthy and to-day Mr. Throop moves around like many men ten years younger, and Mrs. Throop, although the mother of ten children, is active.

Two boys and five girls are living, Albert J. of this city, who is the accountant in Adamson and Dobbin, Harold of the Quaker Oats, (Lillian), Mrs. George Duncan, (May), Mrs. J. H. Campbell, (Elizabeth) Mrs. F. C. Campbell, (Mable) Mrs. W. E. Stewart of Toronto, (Mina), Mrs. W. Bruce Munroe of Detroit. There are also eleven grandchildren. Two girls, Mable and Grace, and one boy, John, are dead.

Fifty were precent at their wedding in Cobourg in 1878 and of this number only six are living.

When Mr. and Mrs. Throop moved to Peterborough what is now the south end of the city was farming and pasture land. H. Best had a farm near Princess street is. The customs house was built the year they moved and where the Bank of Commerce is now T. Cavanagh was operating a hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Throop attend Park Street Baptist church. He is a member of the Ancient Order of United Workmen and also of the Independent Order of Foresters, and has generally voted Conservative.

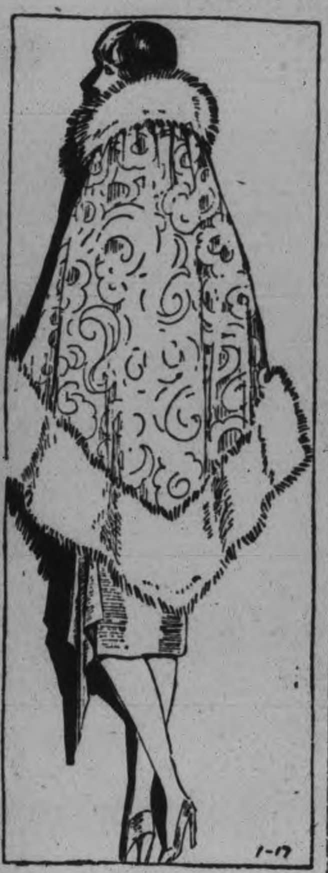
DRESS
By MARY MARSHALL



Following the vogue for the short evening cape is this wrap of reddish gold lame trimmed with red fox.

I can see very little to recommend a short evening wrap. As a matter of protection and warmth it seems as if an evening frock ought to be completely covered. Besides it seems to me that the effect is better when there are fairly long unbroken lines. But apparently some of the dressmakers do not agree with me, for in Paris this season there have been shown quite a number of these shorter evening wraps and I hear now that a number of the best dressed women have adopted the fashion of wearing them.

I suppose the fashion was favored by the fact that with the new uneven hemlines found on so many of the evening frocks some of the skirt drapery was bound to show anyway, and the effect perhaps is better to have quite a bit of the skirt showing than just a wisp here and there dangling below the edge of the evening wrap.

What these new shorter evening wraps lack in length they make up for in width, for they are usually made in the form of voluminous capes, sometimes entirely of fur and sometimes of velvet or brocade with a fur edge.

White evening wraps to wear with all-white evening ensembles have been much favored this winter, and I can imagine no more luxurious addition to any woman's wardrobe than an evening wrap of white ermine trimmed with white fox. But a wrap of that sort is not—or at least should not be—chosen as a generally useful evening wrap. It belongs exclusively to the white or very light evening gown.

When one evening wrap and that a simple one must be chosen for all occasions black velvet is perhaps the best possible choice.

This is the pattern diagram that comes each week with the Mary Marshall fashion service.

Now's Your Time to Make a New Slip

HERE you are, with the diagram for your new slip.

The first thing to do is to get a tape-measure, and then put down certain of your own measures on the diagram. The first measurement to get is that from A to B—that is from the bottom of the hem of a slip of the right length, to the line across the front at the top. This represents the length of the finished slip.

The next measurement to take is that across the fullest part of the bust. Allow two inches extra. If you measure 34, have your slip 36 inches finished. The distance on the diagram A-B is a quarter of this measure, plus a quarter inch on each seam edge.

The idea seems to be, with the new slips, to have them fit as snugly as possible under the arms. But to make them slip easily over the head a little extra space is allowed at the hips. So the line from B to C is slanted out an inch. The distance from C to E is three inches, unless you are large. If you are more than forty-two inches bust, this distance should be increased to six or seven inches.

The line from E to F is straight. To get the length of this line measure up from the bottom of the pattern somewhat more than halfway. For instance, if your slip is to be finished 32 inches, this distance from E to F should measure about 20 inches. Allow as much as you want for a hem. A deep hem that comes to the knees, if you like—such a turned-under hem is indicated by the dotted lines. Or, if your material is not thin, a shallow hem will answer just as well.

Now when you have got these measurements all made, cut a pattern from newspaper. Lay it on a lengthwise fold of material. Cut one double section for the back of the slip, one for the front. Now slash each side of front and back in from C to D, about three inches. Seam up the back and front together, from B to C and from E to F, in neat French seams. Then gather the edges D to E and on again to D, into the distance D to C and on again to C. That is, gather an edge of perhaps twelve inches to fit into about six inches. Seam the gathered edge against the plain edge, D to E gathered into D to C.

Now turn under the top—where you should have allowed for a hem. If you want, just a plain inch-wide hem. Or, if you want, a hem, and below the hem an insert of lace, as suggested by the dotted lines in the diagram.

Now, because of the little seam you have taken where the gathered skirt portion goes into the plain waist portion, your slip will be a little shorter under the arms, which is just what you want. Cover the raw edge of this seam with seam binding.

Arrange ribbons or strips of the material for shoulder straps.

"IT IS IMPORTANT TO USE ONLY THE BEST SOAP FOR YOUR WASHING"

by
HILDA DORAN ROSS
Home Economics Counselor

"IN my work as Home Economics Counselor, I have had hundreds of women tell me how they dread washing clothes because it means backaches and sore muscles and red smarting hands. My advice to them has been to use pure soap. In all my experience, the best soap I have discovered for all household washing is Princess Soap Flakes. Finest of pure soap—not just harsh soap bleached.

"And Princess Soap Flakes make washing easier. The thin white flakes foam up quickly into suds which dissolve the dirt and grease and eliminate so much rubbing. They are easier on the clothes and easier on you.

"Princess Soap Flakes will not harm anything which could be washed in plain water. And because they are all pure soap they are economical—a little goes a long way."

DON'T HAVE RED HANDS
Princess Soap Flakes will not harm your hands because they contain no harsh chemical filler or free caustic.

Lyrics of Life - By Douglas Malloch

SCUFFING

My mother doesn't think I'm such
  A very dreadful case;
My father doesn't scold me, much,
  Or spank me any place.
But you would think, to hear them tell,
  That I was awful rough,
For every day they seem to yell,
  "I wish you wouldn't scuff."

"You've spoiled the varnish in the hall.
  (You know what he deserves?)
It's hard on floors—and, worse than all,
  It's hard on people's nerves.
And look at your new rubbers. Land,
  They wear out fast enough.
That's one thing I can't understand—
  I don't see why you scuff."

I told them that I never did;
  Though that is what they claim.
You know the way that any kid
  Will always get the blame.
And I don't think they ought to say
  I scuff my rubbers through;
And, if I do it, anyway
  I don't know why I do.

REGISTER 38 GOALS IN THREE GAMES WHILE HOLDING OPPOSITION SCORELESS

Sweden Wins Second Place in the Championship Standing By Defeating Great Britain 3 to 1 in Other Game Played On Saturday.

ST. MORITZ February 20 (Canadian Press Cable).—Canada won the Olympic hockey championship here yesterday by registering their third sweeping victory in the final series without a goal being scored against them. Switzerland opposed the Canadians yesterday, but they provided no better opposition than England and Sweden had, and the Grads triumphed 13 goals to 0. In the other game played yesterday Sweden won second place in the championship standing by defeating Great Britain in a lazily contested game, 3 goals to 1.

The Canadians commenced scoring early in the first period when Taylor, defence player, rushed though the Swiss ranks for a goal. Hugh Plaxton made it 2 to 0 before the first rest.

Real Hockey

The Grads opened up somewhat in the second period and ran in six rapid fire counters. At this juncture the Canadians showed the European spectators a flash of real hockey when they scored three of their six goals within the space of two minutes. One of them followed a snappy combination play by H. Plaxton and Trottier.

Dave Trottier's roving disposition brought him three more goals in the final period, while H. Plaxton scored the other two.

The Canadians in all have registered 38 goals in the Olympic series at the same time holding their opposition scoreless. They defeated Sweden in the first of the final series on Friday last by 11 goals to 0 and in a good natured contest Saturday, the Grads whitewashed England, 14 goals to 0.

The Canada-Switzerland summary follows:

First Period:
1—Canada, Taylor..............5.00
2—Canada, H. Plaxton.........6.00
Second Period:
3—Canada, Porter 5.00
4—Canada, Trottier 3.15
5—Canada, H. Plaxton (Trottier) 0.30
6—Canada, Porter 0.30

Americans Defeated By Pittsburgh 2 to 0

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 20.—Canadian Press. — The Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the New York Americans here on Saturday night for the first time in two years 2 to 0, and by virtue of the victory took undisputed possession of third place in the American Division of the National Hockey League.

The Pirates' two wing stars, Darragh and White, accounted for the tallies. Darragh crashed home the initial goal on a brilliant solo effort in the second period, and white added the other counter with a similar thrust in the final session.

Captain Roy Worters turned in another spectacular exhibition for the Pittsburgh team Hines and Conacher stood out for the Americans.

MAROONS WIN FROM LEAFS

Clinch Third Position In Canadian Division of National League.

FINAL COUNT 2-1

MONTREAL, Quebec, Feb. 20. — Canadian Press. — The Montreal Maroons battled their way to a 2 to 1 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs here on Saturday night, and thus obtained undisputed possession of third place in the standing of the Canadian division of the National hockey league. The Maroons are one point ahead of Connie Smythe's battling Leafs and one point behind the second place Ottawa Senators. The Montreal team however has played one game less than either the Senators or the Leafs.

Saturday night's game was one of the fastest seen here this season and despite much close checking the rapid pace was maintained throughout as the teams battled for the supremacy. It was a strenuous battle with the locals being forced to come from behind to take the honors.

The Leafs took a one goal lead in the initial session when Keeling picked up a loose puck at the side of the Maroon defence and burned a drive between Benedict's pads. Herberts had started the play. He carried from his own defence past the Montreal blue line where he lost control of the puck. It was knocked to one side where Keeling shared the rubber to get away his fast shot.

Even Score.

In the middle frame the Maroons tied it up when Jimmie Ward, dashed around the right side of the Toronto rear guard and with big Art Duncan draped all over him managed to shove the disc past John Ross Roach The Toronto goalie stopped Ward's initial shot but the clever Montreal right winger grabbed the puck again and back handled it into the corner of the net

The winning counter came in the final period, Hooley Smith scoring the deciding goal five minutes after the start when he accepted a perfect pass from Stewart right in front of the Toronto net. The high priced centre star made no mistake, and gave Roach no chance on his short but tricky shot.

The game was a real battle with the ten thousand spectators being kept on the alert throughout by reason of the dazzing pace and the closeness of the play. It was the best exhibition given by the two teams here this season. They had met at the Forum twice before but both previous cases were marked by the brand of hockey that tends to slower and less interesting play.

The Maroons were value for their victory but they would not have been disgraced had the visiting Leafs won the case. The Montreal players showed more of a punch when around the opposing net than did the Torontonians. The locals also had a margin in territorial play and invariably tried to worm the puck in close before shooting. On the other hand the visitors tried more long shots than the locals. Shots on goal were about equal for the three periods.

The locals were without the services of Red Dutton, the regular defenceman, who is out of the game with an injured ankle. The Leafs were still minus Doc Carson and Captain Happy Day, who were badly injured in recent games. Day is out for the season but Connie Smythe expects to have Carson back in a week.

The teams:

BOTH TEAMS IN FINE SHAPE FOR TONIGHT'S GAME

Lew Lebarr's Youngsters And Saints Clash in Second Fixture.

ICE WILL BE FAST

Both Outfits Are Confident That They Can Win the Series.

With fast ice assured for to-night's game at Brock Street Rink between the Peterborough and St. John's Junior O.H.A. teams, the second of the three game series for the city title, both outfits are happy. The Petes' supporters claim the blue and white team will skate the Saints into the ground on good ice, while the St. John's rooters assert their favorites like fast going, too ,and that the conditions on Friday night when they defeated Lew Lebarr's youngsters 2 to 1 were not at all to their liking.

Anyway, there will be a lively sheet ready for the teams to-night, and the game promises to be as lively as the ice surface. The Saints' win in the first battle was not generally expected, and it has had the effect of giving them added confidence for the rest of the series, and at the same time will act as a spur upon the young Petes, who will be out there to-night working their heads off to wipe out the slender lead held by the St. John's team.

Friday's game was a great battle under the conditions, and there is every reason to expect that to-night's tussle will be even more interesting. Both teams are confident and in good shape for the struggle.

The game is called for 8.15 o'clock, and a big crowd is expected in view of the popular prices, and the interest created as a result of Friday's game.

MADOC, Feb. 20.—Madoc High School hockey boys journeyed to Havelock on Tuesday for one of the semi-finals in the interscholastic games.

Although somewhat cloudy it was hoped that the ice would be good, and playing possible, but soon after six o'clock, the rain came down in a steady pour, and all hope of playing was out of the question.

It was agreed that a sudden death game be played in Madoc, weather and ice permitting.

Northern Team Averts Shutout By Goal in Last Two Minutes of Play.

At least one Peterborough team is in the hunt this year and finding the hunting quite to their liking! On Saturday afternoon, the local Collegiate entry in the Inter-Scholastic series, took a three-hour train trip to Orillia, met the Bracebridge High school outfit on neutral ground and for fifty-eight of the sixty minutes' combat, blanked the Northerners. Young Doxsee, the locals' net guardian, lost credit for a 6-0 shut-out when he allowed a long heave to drift past him in the last two minutes of play. Thus the local students won the right to meet the winner from down Belleville way for the championship of the Province.

Owing to the extensive loss of time which would be involved in travelling back and forth between Bracebridge and Peterborough for home and home games, it was arranged to play off a sudden death battle on Orillia's splendid new arena (it is 190 x 90) and in conformity with this arrangement, Manager Carl Brown and his lads left here for the Lake Couchiching town at 8.25 in the morning. Arriving at noon, they found the time of the game set for 1.00 p.m., but it was nearly an half-hour later before Referee N. Cook, of Orillia, let them go for the start of a most interesting, if slightly lop-sided struggle. The audience attracted thereby was not large, but it was a most enthusiastic one with both teams sharing in the applause—if any.

Bracebridge Inexperienced.

The Bracebridge lads, playing their first game in the series, proved a hard-checking but rather inexperienced lot when at close quarters. Rather than adopting a strictly offensive style of play, they seemed more inclined to let the Petes come to them and, for this reason, they spent the first few minutes of the battle near their own blue line, while the opposition climbed in hampered by close back-checking—all of which would have been very well had the defenders been able to uncork a quick getaway. But they couldn't, or at any rate, didn't, and while Doxsee took it easy, Mason in the other nets was kept busy most of the time.

As the time went on the Northerners opened up more, however, and their rushes became more dangerous. They deserve credit for putting up a plucky clean battle against a more experienced and faster aggregation such as the locals proved to be.

Petes Look Good.

On their general deportment throughout, the Peterborough students looked like a mighty good bet for the inter-scholastic crown. Young Doxsee, replacing Merrett, who has set out to be independent, having secured a position outside of school, after putting up such a great scrap in Port Hope a week or so ago, proved a strong boy in the nets, while Woods and Spencer, the rear guard held off the Bracebridge goal hunters quite consistently. They supplied a good deal of the attacking punch too, while up in front Cuthbertson of St. John's fame, Hewett, and Dunkerley showed a working knowledge of what to do with the rubber. Taylor and Theobald do the relief work and do it well.

While the Petes drew the majority of the six penalties in the afternoon tilt they played the puck rather than the man and for this reason, their next opponents are likely to face a six-man combination every minute.

First Period

The first period was a fair indication of what the final outcome would be, for the Petes went up on the offensive and stayed there. They had the first two shots of the game when Woods took a trip up the right boards and drove one at Mason and for several minutes play centred on the Bracebridge blue line. Cuthbertson threatened with a drive from close in, but Mason made the save and play shifted back to centre ice. The wide ice surface caught both teams off formation and combination attempts were easily interfered with as both forward lines either bunched or spread too far apart. Hewett, on the Petes' right wing seemed to have a clear path, for he it was who managed to break through for long drives. Elliott, opposing him, singularly enough, was the first to cause Doxsee any concern when he cleared from his own corner and worked up to within range of the Petes' net, only to have his attack derailed. His teammates, however, began to break away oftener and play evened up. Woods and Langford took occasion to try solo stunts, but they and the opposing sharpshooters found difficulty in locating the nets, so that sixteen minutes had passed before the first counter was notched by Hewett on a pass out from the corner by Cuthbertson. Woods and Ecklestone drew penalties at this stage and Cuthbertson also visited the [illegible] before the gong.

Second Period

The second period saw both teams playing better hockey though the advantage remained with the Petes. The Bracebridge boys, however, began to take chances and as a result, found it not possible to work through. Woods and Langford handed out some stiff defensive measures, which, however were quite within the rules but the big ice surface again played a hand and many good starts went flooey.

Things began to slow up, but Cuthbertson came through with a nice piece of stick-handling, slid across the end and took a [illegible] at Mason with good results, and the Petes were sitting two goals up. He repeated the process a few minutes later when he [illegible], lost and recovered the rubber and drifted in for a short drive into the Bracebridge nets.

Ecklestone [illegible] led the attacks on the Petes, and once Doxsee had to flop to avert disaster. He handled three shots before the Petes cleared and Woods [illegible] to the other end, rounded the defense and shot for the fourth counter. Langford drew a penalty for tripping Ecklestone, and while he was off, Gibson went up his side and [illegible] through for a shot.

Third Period.

Fawcett and Ecklestone went up for drives at Doxsee as the final session opened, and it looked as if the P.C.I. might lose at least a part of their advantage, but the shots went wild and what few didn't, the goalie handled nicely. Hewett turned the ball [illegible] the other way when, after four minutes of play, he shot from outside the blue line and the count stood 5-0. Cuthbertson had hard luck when he worked through, only to miss an open net, as did Woods, but the latter tried again a few minutes later on a nice rush. He took a half-hearted drive at Mason, who, in his anxiety to clear, allowed the rubber to slide by for the Petes' sixth and last goal.

Cuthbertson drew another rest for an accidental trip, but the opposition failed to convert until, with two minutes to go, Fawcett shot from the right rail and Doxsee was caught unprepared. This ended the scoring threats of both teams and the gong found them in mid-ice.

The teams:

Bracebridge—Goal, Mason; defence, Whaley and Fawcett; wings, White and Elliott; centre, Ecklestone; subs, Slater and Gibson.

Peterborough—Goal, Doxsee; defence, Spencer and Woods; wings, Dunkerley and Hewett; centre, Cuthbertson; subs, Taylor and Theobald.

Referee—Norm. Cook of Orillia.

CEMENT TEAM WINS OPENER

Defeats Grove Grads 5-4 in Lakefield District League.

CONTEST IS KEEN.

LAKEFIELD, February 20. — The district hockey schedule opened on Friday night when the Grove Grads and the Canada Cement team faced the rubber in the Lakefield Rink. The crowd was of the slimmest, probably because of several counter attractions which crowd the last days before Lent. Neither team was cheered to victory by many fans, but nevertheless both played a fast, clean game, and played just as well as if the rink had been crammed with supporters. Good sportsmen all, as minus the cheers and applause which have been the accompaniment of every game of the season, they battled gamely for the victory, which was very decisive in the last few seconds of the game. Stars—well, yes, there were stars in both teams, which were evenly matched in every respect. For the Grads, Loosemore and Hamilton easily took the honors, although all played well. Loosemore played his usual consistent game, his speed and skill being strong factors. Hamilton was in his old form, and his play recalled the days when not a "grad," but only a schoolboy, he was the star of The Grove first team. He played a splendid game, his rushes with the puck were outstanding, and he would have scored over and over but for the jealous guardianship of the Cement goal by "Ab' 'Graham, who staged a comeback into the hockey field on Friday night. "Ab" was the Stonewall goalie of the days when Kennedy's Colts were Lakefield's pride, but for the past couple of years he has been missing from the nets.

For the Cement Company the Sabatino brothers played a splendid game, with Hill a whirlwind on the defence, and hard to stop on the attack. A newcomer was Bill Wingett, a young player with a good future in hockey, fast and clean and skilful; all he needs is practice.

The first period was slightly in favor of the Cement boys, who played hard and checked well, but the advantage was slight as the Grads were getting into their stride and let very little go past. Louis Sabatino scored the first goal five minutes after the bell rang, and although a strong effort was made by both teams it was ten minutes before another score was made, when Louis again found the nets. Three minutes later Hamilton scored for the Grads after a quick rush with the puck, which scattered the Cement boys and took Graham by surprise.

The second period was a draw in advantage and score. It was thirteen minutes before a goal was scored, and then Hamilton duplicated his rush and again scored. Wingett broke the tie two minutes before the bell rang. The second perod brought the only penalties when John Sabatino and Fred Hudson were relegated to the penalty box to rest after a lively encounter, in which fists bore a conspicuous part. The third period was anybody's period, and the play was keen, but, as was apparent throughout the whole game, individual play was substituted for combination. Morin of the Cement found the nets thirteen minutes after the period opened, and two minutes later Graham ,who stopped a shot from Loosemore, shot the puck into his own goal ,adding one to the count of the Grads. Hamilton followed in one minute with another shot, which again tied the score, and while both sides worked hard and many brilliant rushes were made by both teams, it was only one minute before the final bell that Wingett scored the winning goal for the Canada Cement aggregation. The score was 5-4.

British Driver Averages 206.95602 Miles Per Hour in Giant Speedster.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 20.—(Canadian Press).—Malcolm Campbell, British racetrack driver, yesterday drove his Napier Bluebird Special at an average speed of 206.95602 miles per hour to set a new world's automobile speed record. The former record was 203.79 miles per hour, made here last year by Major H. O. D. Segrave, of England, in his Mystery Sunbeam Special.

Campbell hurled his racer over the first mile in 16.76 seconds, driving south with the wind. This was at the rate of 214.79713 miles per hour, exactly 11 miles an hour faster than the former world's record set by Major Segrave.

On the return run north, against the wind, Campbell covered the mile in 18.03 seconds at a speed of 199.66722 miles per hour.

The average elapsed time was 17.398 seconds at an average speed of 206.95602 miles an hour.

By setting the new record, Campbell won the $5,000 cup offered by Sir Charles Wakefield of England for the first driver to break Major Segrave's record.

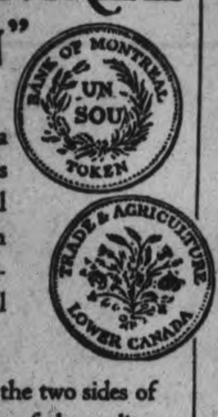
AN EARLY BANK OF MONTREAL "TOKEN"

FOUNDED before Canada had any currency of its own, the Bank of Montreal early obtained authorization from the Government to issue copper tokens for small change.



Reproduced herewith are the two sides of the "Bouquet" token, one of the earliest coins issued by the Bank. The intermingling of the rose, shamrock and thistle indicates the three branches of the British people—the English, Scotch and Irish—while the use of English on one side of the coin and French on the other is significant of the mingling of the two races in this country.

"Trade and Agriculture" indicates the early connection of the Bank with both urban and rural life in Canada.

Throughout its long history the Bank of Montreal has always been active in serving the financial needs of all the people.

NORWAY WINS WINTER SPORTS CHAMPIONSHIP

Sportsmen Give Brilliant Exhibition in Skating and Skiing Events.

CANADA SIXTH.

United States Second and Sweden Third in General Competition.

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 20.—(Canadian Press.)— Norway won the Olympic Winter Sports carnival through brilliant efforts in the skating and skiing events, although she did not take part in the hockey competition at all. Canada swept the hockey boards clean, defeating all comers by overwhelming scores and taking her place sixth in the final scoring all all the events. The United States was second in the general competition and Sweden third. Finland, which was second in the rankings at the last competition, finished fourth this year, with Australia fifth.

The Canadians as per schedule, took the hockey championship by beating Switzerland 13 to 0.

Canada supplied the fireworks of the closing day with an exhibition of hockey such as has never been witnessed outside of the Western Hemisphere.

The United States took the bobsleigh finals. William Fiske captured first place, John Heaton second, and Paul Kilian of Germany third. Argentina, a land of little snow, took fourth and fifth places on the chutes, with Senors Gramajo and Hope. The fastest time of the event was made by Heaton who made the grade in 38 7-10 seconds, ten seconds slower than the world's record held by Martineau of England.

The combinations of John Heaton and William Fiske of the United States took chances streaking down the bobsleigh chute that would make a man smoking a cigarette sitting over a powder magazine appear as a first-rate insurance company risk.

"What nerve," the spectators gasped as Heaton, travelling at the rate of 60 miles an hour, steered his bobsleigh around the sunny corners.

During the last few days, tremendous competition developed between Old King Sol and Jack Frost, the latter winning as there is still snow and ice in Chamonix last night as the victors celebrate and the losers mourn.

If official point scoring by the teams of various nations, such as was practiced at Chamonix, had been adopted here, the rankings of events just competed would read: Norway 90 ½ points, United States 50½; Sweden 40; Finland 39½; Austria, 22; and Canada 13½.

Switzerland, the nation that organized the winter sports, must be content with six points. This is figured on a basis of ten points for first place, with 5, 4, 3, 2 and 1 for the next positions in all events.

Norway captured six places in the thirteen events, the United States, Finland and Sweden, two first places each. The other blue ribbon event, hockey, went to the Canadian skaters without a struggle.

Norway's representatives were first in the 500 and 5,000 metres speed skating events, in the figure skating for women and in three of the ski competitions, the jumps, sprints and combined jumps and cross country run.

Sweden carried off first honors in the ski marathon and figure skating for men. Finland finished first in the 1,500 metres and tied for first in the 500 metres.

The complete scores of the women's figure skating events which were held Saturday found Sonja Henie of Norway first with 8 points. The first of the Norwegian girls over Beatrix Loughran of the United States was a distinct surprise. Canadian entries, Cecil Smith and Constance Wilson, scored 32 and 35 points respectively, their perfect score being nothing. Fritzie Burger of Austria, was second in the competition with 25 and Beatrix Loughran third with 28.

Another title went to Norway Saturday when Albert Anderson captured first place in the ski jump with a leap of 64 metres. Simond Ruud, another Norwegian, was second with a jump of 63 metres while Rudolf Purkert, Czechoslovakia, placed third, Axel Herman Nilsson of Sweden fourth, Sven Claf Lundgren Swede, fifth.

WALES TO RETURN FOOTBALL TROPHY

Cardiff City Eliminated in Competition in Fifth Round Play.

LONDOON, Eng., Feb. 20.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—After a sojourn of one year in Wales the English Football Cup will come back to England. This was inevitable following the elimination of Cardiff City; the holders and last surviving Welsh team in the competition, in the fifth round played Saturday. Victorious clubs who will figure in the sixth round, the draw for which will be made to-dayl are:

Manchester United, Sheffield United or The Wednesday, Arsenal, Tottenham Hotspurs, Stoke, Huddersfield Town, Blackburn Rovers and Notts Forest.

The surprises of the game Saturday were Tottenham Hotspurs' win over Leicester City in Leicester, the defeat of Cardiff City by Notts Forest, and the poor showing of Aston Villa, who were trounced by Arsenal. The 'Spurs' victory will elevate them to the position of favorites to win the cup, though the Arsenal, runners up last year to Cardiff City, are very high in the running. London soccer fans are hoping for a final between the 'Spurs and Arsenal.

The cup ties drew capacity gates, and probably close to 400,000 people in the aggregate watched the struggles. The weather was good everywhere.

Former Ambassador Threatens Legal Action If Shown There.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (Canadian Press).—The proposed showing in the United States of the British moving picture "Dawn," depicting the life and death of the war nurse, Edith Cavell, executed by the Germans in Belgium, has brought indications of renewed trouble for the film in this country. An announcement has been made by A. Selwyn, that he has bought the American rights to the picture. The Berlin Foreign Office made an official protest against the showing of the picture in England, and James Gerard, former United States Ambassador to Germany, threatens legal action if an attempt is made to show it here.

VISITORS WIN 4 TO 2 VICTORY FROM EXAMINER

Local Newsboys Defeated by Port Hope Times in Exhibition Game.

THRILLS AND SPILLS

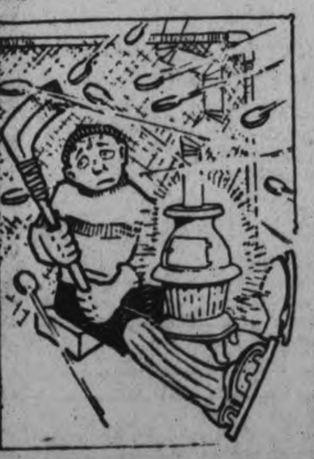
Homesters Unable to Overcome Early Lead of Visiting Paper Men.

Obtaining a two-goal lead in the first period the Port Hope papermen defeated the local Newsboys 4-2 in an exhibition game played on Saturday night at Brock street arena. Both teams furnished plenty of action on a fast sheet of ice, but the visitors showed flashes of combination which gave them a slight edge over the Examiner crew.

Collins showed some of his old time style, scoring the two counters for his team and featuring in many lone rushes. Intermediate O.H.A. players gave added strength to the Port Hope aggregation. Micks worked like a professional between the posts for the visitors, and handled many a fine shot safely. Hagerman and Francy gave sterling performances, the former drawing the first penalty of the game in the second when he wanted to stage one of Jack Dempsey's comeback battles with Collins.

First Period.

The play opened with fast lone rushes and many long shots which kept the goalies busy. Port Hope's combination began to work havoc among The Examiner crew and for a while forced the play into Scates' territory. Dormer and Collins showed up well in back checking and intercepting passes which completely broke up the Hagerman, Hyfield and Hills combine. Hills and Hagerman displayed nice stick handling when the pair went down the right wing, but failed to score. The first counter was scored when Hills gathered a stray puck and put the rubber in the nets from outside the defence line.



"Moonshine" Scates, The Examiner goalie, had a hot time protecting his end of the battle from the attacks of opposing forwards.

Dugan checked at centre, went through right defence and passed to Dormer, but Micks again showed his ability by clearing in grand style. Adams tallied for the visitors after a three-man attack on The Examiner goalie. Hyfield gave a good exhibition on the defence for The Times men but his shots were handled nicely by Scates.

Second Period.

The Examiner newsies had more pep in the second slession and from then until the final gong the game was a more evenly matched struggle. Francy's attacks showed nice stickhandling but his passes were not appreciated by his teammates. Collins worked hard with Dugan, the former scoring early in the second from a long back-hand shot. Hagerman retaliated after a fine combination play to beat Scates with a low shot. The local boys pressed hard, led by Dugan and Collins, the former tying Micks in a knot behind the net while the puck journeyed in front of the open goal, but no score resulted. Collins and Hagerman were given the gate for their rough house tactics.

Third Period.

Soon after the face-off Collins' long shot bounded past Micks for his second marker of the game. The Port Hope goalie was well entertained by the long sharp shooting of The Examiner forwards. Adams and Hagerman combination play was spoiled by Hills overskating the puck with only Scates to beat. Dugan led several attacks only to be balked at the final moments by Micks. Wakely scored the fourth counter for the visitors on a pass by Francy. Robson drew a penalty for hammering Dugan into the boards. With Robson off Dugan had a beautiful chance to score when he beat the defence and had Micks at his mercy. He slipped right in the mouth of the net, and the goalie cleared. The Examiner pressed hard, carrying the attack into the Times' territory and the game was brought to a close with a scrimmage near the visitors' goal. Final score 4-2.

Line up:

Examiner—Goal, Scates; defence, Taylor and Grey; centre, Dormer; wings, Dugan and C. Clarke; subs, Collins, Cullen and N. Clarke.

Port Hope—Goal, Micks; defence, Francy and Wakely; centre, Hyfield; wings, Hagerman and Hills; subs, Adams and Robson.

Referee—Jim Gillespie.

Beatrix Loughran and Sherwin Badger of the United States finished fourth. Ludovica Jacobson and Walter Jacobson of Finland, fifth; and Josey Venlerverzue and Robert van Zeevroeck of Belgium, sixth.

LOSES RECORD.

KANSAS CITY, February 20 (Associated Press). — Lloyd Hahn, Boston A.A. flier, lost his first race in two years and dropped out of his four coveted world's indoor records when Ray Conger, Illinois A.C. flash, led him to the tape in a special 1,000 yards race here in the record time of 4 minutes 11 seconds.

The race was the feature event of the Kansas City A.C. indoor meet. Hahn, who held the record of 4min. 12 4-5sec., finished under protest after Conger passed him within 50 yards of the tape, and lodged an immediate protest with the referee, claiming he had been elbowed off the track by his flashy opponent.

SCHOOL GIVES FINE CONCERT

Miss Eleanor Cummings Directs Pupils of Galloway's School —Bethany News.

PLAY COMING.

BETHANY, Feb. 20.—The Valentine entertainment under capable direction of Miss Eleanor Cummings, teacher of Galloway's School, 8th Line of Manvers, fully made up for the school concert which had to be postponed at Christmas because of illness, and Miss Cummings received many expressions of approval following the splendid program, in which about forty took part.

Two humorous plays were given by pupils, "Uncle Joe's Will," and "Our Lysander," while the graduates presented "Vice Versa." Splendid music was furnished by the orchestra, composed of Viola Gray, Harvey Gray, Hiram Ward, and Harry Preston, and Mr. Preston also delighted the audience with several cornet solos. "The Negro Singing Society," composed of boys of the school, sang songs full of merriment, and Ralph and Winnifred Preston presented a costume song, "Reuben and Rachel." Others singing solos were, George Neil, Hannah Clarke, Viola Gray and Isobel Sisson. Recitations were given by Viola Gray, Clara Beer, Ella Sisson, Phyllis Mann, Mary Strong, Betty Beer, Aileen Sisson, and Irma Strong. Several short Valentine playlets rounded out a very enjoyable program.

DOUGLAS FIR LEADING WOOD

The Douglas fir is at present one of Canada's most important woods. It is second only to spruce in the quantity of lumber cut. No other single species is furnishing so much of Canada's lumber. More than 750,000,000 feet board measure are being cut each year and this cut will doubtless increase with the growing scarcity of large structural timber of other species and as the qualities of the wood become more widely known.

Manitoba Lady Highly Praises Dodd's Kidney Pills

"Without Dodd's Kidney Pills, I feel life would be a burden," writes Mrs. Mary McMillan of Austin, Man. "I always keep a box in the house. I am very much troubled with my kidneys, being bothered with Backache, Headache and Urinary Troubles. Was unable to sleep at night, but after taking Dodd's Kidney Pills feel completely relieved."

Many women suffer periodically with Backache and, as middle age approaches, the pain grows more severe. Rest may give temporary relief, but Dodd's Kidney Pills strengthen the Weak Kidneys and remove the cause of the pain. A trial will surely convince you.

To attempt the impossible and attain perfection is almost correct in speaking of "Wings". Different people are impressed in various ways but, from a flying viewpoint, I found the first crash and the strafing of the bridge and roads, most realistic. All flying men are heavily indebted to Paramount for this epic of the air.

"TAXI DANCER" A PICTURE FULL OF GENUINE ROMANCE.

Without doubt one of the most sensational pictures of the new season, "The Taxi Dancer," which opens at the Regent Theatre to-night, lives up to all the advance heralding we had heard regarding it. Strictly speaking, I suppose this production would be classed as a melodrama, yet it is so softened by romance, and its plot is actuated by so much realism throughout that one is unconscious of its more sensational moments.

"The Taxi Dancer" was directed by Harry Millarde, and is based on the novel of the same name by Robert Terry Shannon. Millarde had a difficult task in filming this novel, for he had an abundance of plot that might have confused a less experienced director. Instead the director has told his story with a charming and powerful simplicity, granting the audience a certain amount of intelligence by refraining from the obvious at all times. His climax is worked up to naturally and with a telling effect, while the ending is a satisfactory one that sends the viewers out into the night with a pleasant glow.

The adaptation of this production was written by A. P. Younger, scenarist of "Brown of Harvard," and other successes. It is a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR of THE BENSON MURDER CASE

© Charles Scribner's Sons

THE STORY THUS FAR

The jewel case in the apartment of the murdered Margaret Odell had been opened with a steel chisel after a futile battering with a poker. This leads Vance to the theory that Skeel did not commit the crime, but was hidden in the closet while the strangler did his work. Vance shatters Cleaver's alibi that he had been in Boonton the night of the murder. Alys La Fosse tells him Mannix had been in her apartment from ten-thirty until two the night of the murder. Vance traps her in a falsehood and she admits Mannix did not come until after midnight, which was after Margaret Odell was strangled.

CHAPTER XXXI.

"I like you more and more," said Vance; and when she gave him her hand at parting he lifted it to his lips.

As we rode downtown Vance was thoughtful. We were nearly to the criminal courts building before he spoke.

"The primitive Alys rather appeals to me," he said. "She's much too good for the oleaginous Mannix. . . . Women are so shrewd—and so gullible.

"A woman can read a man with almost magical insight; but, on the other hand, she is inexpressibly blind when it comes to her man. Witness sweet Alys's faith in Mannix. He probably told her he was slaving at the office Monday night. Naturally, she doesn't believe it; but she knows—knows, mind you—that her Louie just couldn't have been concerned in the Canary's death.

"Ah, well, let us hope she's right and that Mannix is not apprehended—at least not until her new show is financed. . . . My word! If this being a detective involves many more revues, I shall have to resign. Thank Heaven, though, the lady didn't attend the cinema Monday night!"

When we arrived at the district attorney's office we found Heath and Markham in consultation. Markham had a pad before him, several pages of which were covered with tabulated and annotated entries. A cloud of cigar smoke enveloped him. Heath sat facing him, his elbows on the table, his chin resting in his hands. He looked pugnacious but disconsolate.

"I'm going over the case with the sergeant," Markham explained, with a brief glance in our direction. "We're trying to get all the salient points down in some kind of order, to see if there are any connecting links we've overlooked. I've told the sergeant about the doctor's infatuation and his threats, and of the failure of Traffic Officer Phipps to identify Cleaver. But the more we learn, the worse, apparently, the jumble grows."

He picked up the sheets of paper and fastened them together with a clip.

"The truth is, we haven't any real evidence against anybody. There are suspicious circumstances connected with Skeel and Doctor Lindquist and Cleaver; and our interview with Mannix didn't precisely allay suspicions in his direction, either.

"But when we come right down to it, what's the situation? We've got some finger-prints of Skeel, which might have been made late Monday afternoon. Doctor Lindquist goes berserk when we ask him where he was Monday night, and then offers us a weak alibi. He admits a fatherly interest in the girl, whereas he's really in love with her—a perfectly natural bit of mendacity.

"Cleaver lent his car to his brother and lied about it, so that I'd think he was in Boonton Monday at midnight. And Mannix gives us a number of shifty answers to our questions concerning his relations with the girl. . . Not an embarrassment of riches."

"I wouldn't say your information was exactly negligent," observed Vance, taking a chair beside the sergeant. "It may all prove devilish valuable if only it could be put together properly. The difficulty, it appears to me, is that certain parts of the puzzle are missing. Find 'em, and I'll warrant everything will fit beautifully—like a mosaic."

Heath relighted his dead cigar and made an impatient gesture.

"You can't get away from Skeel. He's the boy that did it and if it wasn't for Abe Rubin, I'd sweat the truth outa him. And by the way, Mr. Vance, he had his own private key to the Odell apartment, all right." He glanced at Markham hesitantly. "I don't want to look as if I was criticising, sir, but I got a feeling we're wasting time chasing after these gentlemen friends of Odell—Cleaver and Mannix and this here doctor."

"You may be right." Markham seemed inclined to agree with him. "However, I'd like to know why Lindquist acted the way he did."

"Well, that might help some," Heath compromised. "If the doc was so far gone on Odell as to threaten to shoot her, and if he went off his head when you asked him to alibi himself, maybe he could tell us something. Why not throw a little scare into him? His record ain't any good, anyway."

"An excellent idea," chimed in Vance.

"I'm fairly free this afternoon, so suppose you bring him down here, Sergeant. Get a subpoena if you have to only see that he comes. And make it as soon after lunch as you can."

He tapped on the desk irritably. "If I don't do anything else, I'm going to eliminate some of this human flotsam that's cluttering up the case. And Lindquist is as good as any to start with. I'll either develop these various suspicious circumstances into something workable, or I'll root them up. Then we'll see where we stand."

Heath shook hands pessimistically and went out.

"Poor hapless man!" sighed Vance, looking after him. "He giveth way to all the pangs and fury of despair."

"And so would you," snapped Markham, "if the newspapers were butchering you for a political holiday. By the way, weren't you to be a harbinger of glad tidings this noon, or something of the sort?"

"I believe I did hold out some such hope." Vance sat looking meditatively out of the window for several minutes. "Markham, this fellow Mannix lures me like a magnet. He irks and whirrets me. He infests my slumbers. He's the raven on my bust of Pallas. He plagues me like a banshee."

"Does this jeremiad come under the head of tidings?"

"I sha'n't rest peacefully," pursued Vance, "until I know where Louey the furrier was between eleven o'clock and midnight Monday. He was somewhere he should not have been. And you, Markham, must find out.

"Please make Mannix the second offensive in your assault upon the flotsam. He'll parley, with the right amount of pressure. Be brutal, old dear; let him think you suspect him of the throttling. Ask him about the fur model—what's her name?—Frisbee——" He stopped short and knit his brows. "My eye—oh, my eye! I wonder. . . . Yes, yes, Markham; you must question him about the fur model. Ask him when he saw her last; and try to look wise and mysterious when you're doing it."

"See here, Vance"—Markham was exasperated—"you've been harping on Mannix for three days. What's keeping your nose to that scent?"

"Intuition—sheer intuition. My psychic temperament, don't y' know."

"I'd believe that if I hadn't known you for fifteen years." Markham inspected him shrewdly; then shrugged his shoulders. "I'll have Mannix on the tapis when I'm through with Lindquist."

(Friday, September 14; 2 p.m.)

We lunched in the district attorney's private sanctum; and at two o'clock Doctor Lindquist was announced. Heath accompanied him, and, from the expression on the sergeant's face, it was plain he did not at all like his companion.

The doctor, at Markham's request, seated himself facing the district attorney's desk.

"What is the meaning of this new outrage?" he demanded coldly. "Is it your prerogative to force a citizen to leave his private affairs in order to be bullied?"

"It's my duty to bring murderers to justice," replied Markham, with equal coldness. "And if any citizen considers that giving aid to the authorities is an outrage, that's his prerogative. If you have anything to fear by answering my questions, doctor, you are entitled to have your attorney present. Would you care to phone him to come here now and give you legal protection?"

Doctor Lindquist hesitated. "I need no legal protection, sir. Will you be good enough to tell me at once why I was brought here?"

"Certainly; to explain a few points which have been discovered regarding your relationship with Miss Odell, and to elucidate—if you care to—your reasons for deceiving me, at our last conference, in regard to that relationship." sons for deceiving me, at our l ast con

"You have, I infer, been prying unwarrantably into my private affairs. I had heard that such practices were once common in Russia. . . ."

"If the prying was unwarranted, you can, Doctor Lindquist, easily convince me on that point; and whatever we may have learned concerning you will be instantly forgotten. It is true, is it not, that your interest in Miss Odell went somewhat beyond mere paternal affection?"

"Are not even a man's sacred sentiments respected by the police of this country?" There was insolent scorn in the doctor's tone.

"Under some conditions, yes; under others, no." Markham controlled his fury admirably. "You need not answer me, of course; but, if you choose to be frank, you may possibly save yourself the humiliation of being questioned publicly by the People's attorney in a court of law."

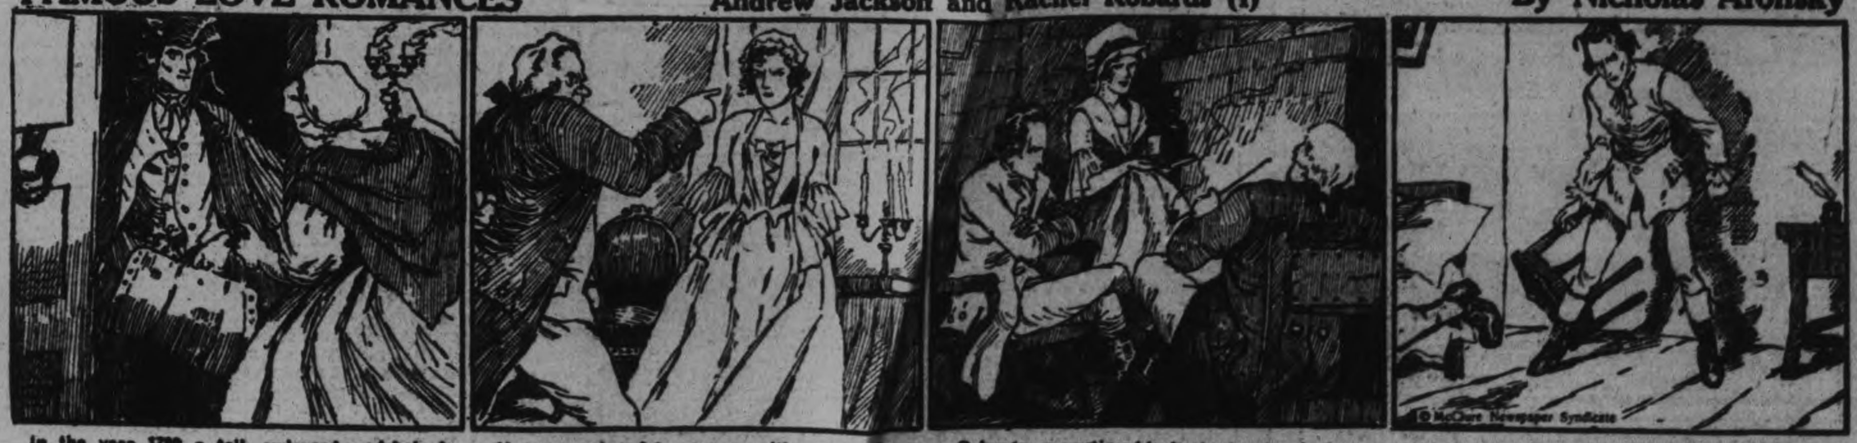
FAMOUS LOVE ROMANCES - Andrew Jackson and Rachel Robards (I) - By Nicholas Afonsky



© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

In the year 1789 a tall, awkward, red-haired young lawyer, then twenty-two, sought lodging with the widow Donelson, whose husband, colonel in charge of the station there, had been found dead in the woods, killed by Indians, five years before. The newcomer was fearless, a crack shot, a skilled horseman.

He was assigned to a room with a young law student named Overton, who had come from Kentucky to try to make peace between Captain Lewis Robards and his wife Rachel, daughter of the widow Donelson. Robards, jealous of his fun-loving young wife, had quarreled with her until she had left him.

Robards, regretting his hasty temper, had sent Overton to beg Rachel to return to him. A little after Jackson began to live at Mrs. Donelson's, Robards came to plead his own cause. There was a reconciliation, and Robards settled down to live in his mother-in-law's boarding house with his young wife.

Rachel was as daring a rider as Jackson—one could outdance any one in the neighborhood. She was a good story-teller, "good company." Soon Robards became jealous of Jackson, without cause. Jackson, in a rage, threatened to cut off Robard's ears if he ever again coupled his name with Rachel's.

BOB FOTHERGILL
THE BURLY TIGER MAKES THE SKINNY BOYS ENVIOUS OF HIS SPEED

Too much of the old avoirdupois usually is the worst evil that besets the noble athlete, but baseball has its strange exceptions. To look at some of the fat boys who are in the major league, one wonders how they withstand the strenuous competition, but a look in the record books gives cause for more wonder, but in a different way. No manager would refuse Bob Fothergill of the Detroit Tigers or Hack Wilson of the Chicago Cubs a job in his outfield and there are many pitchers in the American League who gladly would trade records with Garland Buckeye of the Cleveland Indians.

Babe Ruth can hardly be called a delicate lad and plenty has been written of his baseball accomplishments.

Hack Miller, son of a strong-man and a "behemoth" in his own right, didn't find his excess beef too much of a handicap to stick with the Cubs for several seasons. He is still hitting them on the nose in the minors.

And who will ever forget the roly-poly "Ping" Bodie, who performed for the Athletics, Yankees and White Sox a decade ago. "Ping" furnished the fans plenty of excitement with his robust hitting, and ever more excitement to the scribes with the ponderous meals he would stoke away. But "Ping" overdid it and finally ate his way right out of the majors and back to the Pacific coast, which goes to prove there is a limit to everything.

Works All Day, Stays Up Late, Gains 5 Lbs.

"It's easy for me to do a full day's work and stay up late nights since taking Vinol. My weight has increased 5 pounds."—Earl Dunlap.

Vinol is a delicious compound of cod liver peptone, iron, etc. Nervous, easily tired, anemic people are surprised how Vinol gives new pep, sound sleep and a BIG appetite. The very FIRST bottle often adds several pounds weight to thin children or adults. Tastes delicious. McDermid & Jury, E. L. Payne, McDermid Drug Co.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

The Dugout

(By J.R.H.)

The dugout is to-day blown up—busted—shelled and mined. In other words, it is napoo.

For two weeks we've had a little fun and got a lot off our chests. We've thrown a lot of bricks and a lot have been thrown back, two or three of which bounced off my back. About twenty guys have letters here not answered, but if they feel sore about it they can come and see me personally—or take it out at the Legion concert.

Publicity is usually dry stuff, and it is just to offset the statistical and argumentative big advertisements for the Legion that the Dugout was started. It served its purpose, and is abandoned, but the same kind of applesauce can be had if a gang gets together at the Legion Hall. There's a lot of worth-while business to be done, but in between times there's a lot of fun too.

If you haven't joined the Legion, now's your chance — and we'll be tickled to death to have you join with us.

Good-bye, gang—and don't forget the Legion party.

IN MEMORIAM

CROSS.—In loving memory of John Cross, who passed away Feb. 20th, 1924.

The years may wipe out many things
But this they wipe out never:
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.
Loved in life, treasured in death—
A beautiful memory is all that is left.
—Ever remembered by Alice and Will.

CROSS.—In fond and loving memory of a dear husband and father, John Cross, who passed away Feb. 20th, 1924.

What would I give to clasp your hand,
Your happy face to see;
To hear your voice and see your smile
That meant so much to me?
Surrounded by friends, I am lonesome;
'Midst the season's joys I am blue;
A smile on my face hides a heartache,
Thinking, dearest, of you.
—Always remembered by Wife and children.

Obituary

ROBERT F. MOORE

As a distinct shock to a large circle of friends in the city, came word this morning of the death of Robert F. (Bob) Moore, after an illness of only three or four days. The young man suffered an attack of pneumonia, which necessitated his removal to Nicholls Hospital, where he passed away. He was in his twenty-sixth year.

Robert Moore was the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Moore, 67 Morrow Street, and had lived here all of his life. Educated in local schools, he entered the employ of Campbell and Best, Hunter Street, through both of which he became well known. It will be recalled that only last Tuesday evening, he contributed the splendid tenor solos at the annual concert of St. John's Church choir, of which he was a member. His home was at 162 Smith Street.

Surviving, are his sorrowing parents, his wife, and an infant son, Paul; two brothers, George H. of Peterborough, and Elmer, at home; and two sisters, Agnes at home and Mrs. E. A. Chesher, of Hopeville. The funeral will be held from his father's residence, 67 Morrow Street, on Wednesday afternoon, at two o'clock.

C. H. PENNEFATHER.

WINDSOR, Feb. 20.—Clarence Hubert Pennefather, manager of the Walkerville branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, died on Saturday at his home, following a brief illness. He was 54 years of age. Mr. Pennefather began his banking career 37 years ago at Stratford with the Bank of Montreal, which he later served at Fort William, London, Ottawa, Quebec and Brockville. He joined the staff of the Union Bank next, and when that company merged with the Royal Bank he was manager of the branch at Peterborough. Mr. Pennefather came to the Border Cities from there three years ago.

He was a member of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club, Toronto; the Essex Golf and Country Club, the Canadian Bankers' Association, and had been active in the work of the Chamber of Commerce here. His brother, E. T. B. Pennefather, is Assistant Manager of Capitol Trust Corporation at Ottawa.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday morning from St. Anne's Church, Walkerville, with interment in St. Alphonsus' Cemetery, Windsor.

MRS. CATHERINE O'GRADY.

The death occurred on Saturday evening at 138 Perry Street, of Mrs. Catherine O'Grady, an old and highly respected resident of Douro, in her 88th year. The deceased lady was always willing to extend a helping hand to any person in need, and was beloved by all who knew her.

Mrs. O'Grady's husband predeceased her nine years ago. She was the mother of fourteen children, nine of whom are dead. One son was killed in action during the great war. Those left to mourn her loss are Mrs. Mary Condon and Patrick O'Grady of Douro, Mrs. Jeremiah O'Connor and Mrs. Thomas Raymond of Rochester, and Miss Margaret at home. There is also one brother, Michael O'Leary, of Jackson, Mich.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday morning from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Condon, Douro, to St. Joseph's Church and Cemetery.

EARL OF ERROLL.

COBLENZ, Germany, February 20 (Canadian Press). — The Earl of Erroll, formerly Lord Kilmarnock, and British High Commissioner of the Inter-Allied Commission since 1921, died suddenly on Sunday night of heart disease. H ewas born in Kingston, Ont., and had a distinguished career in the Army.

IN POLICE COURT

His Worship Magistrate Langley dismissed the charge of selling liquor laid against Harold Gibbs, a local taxi driver, by Provincial Officer J. Stewart, this morning.

Provincial Constable N. Maker and Provincial Officer Joseph Stewart, searched the premises of a local citizen lately and found a bottle of liquor. On inquiry it was said it had been bought from Harold Gibbs.

The Magistrate in delivering judgment, and dismissing the case, without costs, said the evidence was on one man asserting one thing and the other giving a definite denial. "I cannot find anything in the evidence to support the statement that Gibbs sold the liquor."

Rex. Dawe pleaded guilty to crossing intersections at a greater rate of speed than ten miles an hour, and was fined $5 and costs.

A local girl pleaded guilty on a charge of assault, and was fined $5 and costs.

The high pressure salesman who drifted into Peterborough selling Lindsay Distillery stock between the 7th and 21st of February, appeared before Magitrate Langley this morning charged with false pretenses. From one local citizen he secured $475.96. He used the names of many prominent business men as those who were prepared to buy stock in $25,000 and $5,000 lots.

He did not elect nor plead and was remanded until Feb. 27th. Bail was fixed at $4000.

MINES.

F. G. Oke & Company wire as follows:

TORONTO, Feb. 20. — Apparently there was little accumulation of good news over the week end and the mining market therefore appears to be acting in sympathy with the trend of the larger industrial exchanges.

This is the last day for Amulet rights which are traded in for cash on the Standard Exchange and would not be surprised at the announcement of some good news on Amulet at the next meeting of the Board of Directors of this company. Diamond drilling is reported as continuing in a most satisfactory manner and ore is being located at greater depth than hitherto encountered. There seems to be a great diversity of opinion on street regarding the actual ore reserves and the future of Amulet, but we are given to understand from reliable sources that Amulet is proving up remarkably well and that it will eventually prove one of the chief copper producers of the Rouyn section of Northwest Quebec.

Kirkland Lake Gold was conspicuous during this morning's trading by its rapid decline to as low as $1.70 per share which is believed to be caused by the lack of information regarding results on the 2,725 ft. level. It is known that the company have cut the extension of the vein system of the 2,725 ft. level but no reports are given as to ore widths, lengths and values.

The opinion has been expressed that these dimensions are more or less disappointing and values likewise. However, we are informed that Kirkland Lake Gold intend to sink to much greater depths and that the indications are that more favorable ore deposition will be found as depth is attained.

The demand for Pend O'Reille and Sudbury Basin seems to have dropped off considerably, most likely in face of declining market conditions, but it seems quite likely that when the market improves these stocks will be among the first to advance, particularly in view of their well regarded properties and other assets.

F. G. Oke and Company.

Wheat Prices Higher; Corn Moves Up, Too

Chicago, Feb. 20. — Buying for houses with European and Eastern connections lifted wheat prices early to-day to the highest point since the first part of December. Reports of food scarcity in Russia appeared to be acting as a decided incentive to purchase. Opening 3-8 to 7-8c up wheat later scored additional gains. Corn rallied with wheat, starting unchanged to ½c off but subsequently showing a general advance. Oats were firm. Opening prices were:

Wheat March 132¾, May 132 7-8; carn, March, 94 May 97 3-8; oats March 54¾, May 55¾.

Mine Shares Weak; Kirkland Shares Lead

TORONTO, Feb. 20. — (Canadian Press).—Continued weakness was shown on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning, with Kirkland Lake issues generally and Kirkland Lake Gold particularly bearing the brunt of the selling. Kirkland Gold slumped to a new low at 1.70 and closed around 1.75 for a loss of 13 points. Teck Hughes sold off 25 at 845 and Wright Hargreaves eased 17 at 438. Lake Shore, however, recovered 30 points from its week-end drop, firming to 22.80. Pend Oreille re-acted to 17.50, then firmed to 18.50 for a net loss of 2.25. Sudbury Basin firmed to 19.80, a gain of 30, but Hudson Bay Smelting at 16.70 was 40 points weaker. Bidgood was strong feature with a ten-point gain at 70.

Toronto Market Active; Rather Weaker To-day

TORONTO, Feb. 20 (Canadian Press). Trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange was fairly active this morning, although prices tended downward. International Nickel continued its downward trend, losing 3⅝ points at 80¼. Massey Harris eased half at 37⅝. Canadian Oil, after opening at 55⅛, closed for a loss of 1½, and F. N. Burt lost 1 at 68. American Sales Book and Imperial Oil were both down one. Canadian Canners Common First Preferred and Second Preferred were all fractionally lower. British American Oil was leader of the unlisted section and after selling at 33½ eased down to 32½ at the close. Hiram Walkers, Northern Bakeries, and Cockshutt Preferred lost two, 1½, and four points respectively. Service Stations, Page Hersey, Christie Brown, and Imperial Tobacco recorded fractional gains.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(Canadian Press.) — The stock market went through a secondary reaction to-day after an early rally failed to hold. United States Steel Common and several other leaders touched new lows on the current decline, on setbacks of one to three points, while several of the specialties broke four to nearly seven points on the renewal of bear selling and long liquidation. Trading was in larger volume than on Friday but failed to maintain the terrific pace set in Saturady's record breaking half holiday session.

There was no change in the credit situation. Call money was in plentiful supply at renewal figure of 4¼ per cent. with funds offered in outside market at 4 per cent. Day's business news also was rather colorless in character, only items of importance being reduction from $3 to $2.50 in quarterly dividend on Laclede Gas and publication of American Can Co. report showing slightly smaller earnings per share in 1927 as compared with the year before.

HUMANE SOCIETY CONCERT SUCCESS

First of Series of Sunday Evening Program Much Enjoyed.

The first of a series of Sunday evening sacred concerts was held last night in the Regent Theatre, under the auspices of the Peterborough Humane Society. The program, which was a most enjoyable one, was in charge of G. F. Liddle, organist and choirmaster of George Street Church. The program was as follows:

Vocal solo—Mrs. Walter Byers.
'cello solo—Jack Thackery.
Vocal duet—Mrs. Byers and John Anderson.
Vocal solo—Douglas Carlisle.
Community singing, led by G. F. Liddle.
Vocal solo—Miss E. Scott.
Vocal solo—John Anderson.
Chairman—George A. Gillespie.

Next Sunday evening the George Street Sunday School Orchestra, which has become very popular, will render several numbers in addition to other varied numbers and community singing, all of which should prove very enjoyable.

At 10.01 on Sunday morning a fire with an unusual origin claimed the attention of the firemen. A resident of 92 Aylmer street had been fixing the fire of his furnace and when finished had hung the hot poker where it came in contact with a coat. The cloth took fire, hence the alarm, but the damage was mostly to the coat.

PETERBOROUGH MEN ELECTED ON BOARD OF MOTOR LEAGUE; MINISTER REVIEWS PROGRESS

Advances Have Been Made in Highway Work and Control, Says Mr. Henry.

TORONTO MAN PRESIDENT.

Peterborough Club Presents Good Report—F. G. Stinson and H. C. Huffman Directors.

Nominated by Peterborough Automobile Association, F. G. Stinson and H. C. Huffman were elected last night to the directorate of the Ontario Motor League at the 21st annual general meeting held at the close of the convention of the Ontario Motor League and annual conference of affiliated clubs, which were followed by the annual dinner and general meeting of the League. All the meetings were held in the King Edward Hotel, Toronto.

The Peterborough delegation to the meetings consisted of James Juby, president of Peterborough Automobile Club; Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Fisk, Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Fisk, Miss Miller, niece of Mr. Fisk, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Robeson and Thomas Dutton, S. Thomson, formerly of the Peterboro branch of the Bank of Commerce, was also present.

Officers for 1928 of the Ontario Motor League are: R. A. Stapells, president; J. A. Ross, Toronto, Dr. P. E. Dolittle, Toronto, and Elmer West, Sault Ste. Marie, vice-presidents.

Mr. Stapells presided over the morning and afternoon sessions, C. L. Burton, retiring president, occupying the chair at the banquet in the evening.

The opening session was held in the Yellow Room at 10 a.m., when reports of club activities were presented by representatives of affiliated clubs. The Peterborough delegation, arriving at the Don Station, made an appearance in time to permit of Mr. Juby giving an excellent, concise and admirably phrased resume of the activities during 1927 of the Peterborough Automobile Association. Duties in connection with the campaign of the Peterborough branch of the Chamber of Commerce prevented F. G. Stinson from attending.

Hon. G. S. Henry.

The principal speaker at the evening session was Honorable G. S. Henry, Minister of Highways and Public Works. Nineteen twenty seven, said Mr. Henry, saw greater additions than any previous year to the paved roads of Ontario. There were more than half a million motorists in the province, he stated.

Discussing the new permit system, Mr. Henry said it had been discovered that there were many individuals in the province who were not physically capable of driving. These under the new system were prohibited from driving. Mr. Henry referred to the provisions that had been made to allow drivers, especially those partially disabled veterans, to go through a test enabling a person to give satisfactory evidence of fitness. In many cases, he said, it had been found that partly disabled ex-soldiers were really very safe drivers. It was the aim of the Department to drive the unfit motorist off the road entirely. Mr. Henry also expressed the belief that the new law requiring lights on all vehicles would be appreciated by drivers of horses, as being more to their safety than that of the motorists. Mr. Henry said he had no hesitation in cancelling on application the license of a man convicted of driving a car while intoxicated. Men sometimes appealed to him against this. "It is my livelihood," they would say. "It will be a real hardship." To this he invariably replied, "That is why your license is cancelled." If a man had not sufficient sense to keep away from the steering gear of his car after he had taken liquor, he had to be taught a lesson.

In the session after luncheon in the afternoon R. M. Smith, Deputy Minister of Public Works and Highways, reviewed progress made during the past year.

He referred to the introduction on highways of reflecting signs which could be seen one thousand feet away. One of these was now on the Hamilton highway, and since its installation not a single accident had been recorded in that vicinity

Last year, he said, a safety campaign was inaugurated. Most of those present were familiar with the success of that campaign which met with the co-operation of every motor association in the province

Last year, said Mr Smith, foreign cars entered Ontario in numbers greater than the total owned in the province On any day of July or August more than 30,000 cars crossed the boundary The Department was also in receipt of hundreds of letters asking what it was doing during the winter Were the roads open? Where could cars travel? These were types of the questions that were asked by U. S. citizens contemplating winter journeys in the province. The State of New York had asked the Ontario Department of Highways to co-operate by meeting it at the border in an effort to keep the lines of road communication open to let New York cars proceed right into Ontario. This request had been granted. Clearing away snow this year had been an easy task until the present time. Last year, the Department kept 800 miles of highway open throughout the win-

BOARD ENFORCES ORDERS.

The report of the Queen Mary Hospital, submitted to the Board of Health at its regular monthly meeting this morning, showed that at present there are ten patients confined in the hospital, one has diphtheria, three scarlet fever, one of these patients being admitted from Buckhorn, and six suffering with smallpox.

Dr. Waite submitted his monthly report on the milk inspection. Two samples had shown a slight sediment and Dr. Young reported that both these vendors had been notified.

The total expenses for the month at the hospital amuonted to $764.75. The Medical Officer of Health was instructed to close the two houses at 4 and 6 Crescent street as unfit for habitation and a menace to the public health. These two houses are near the Lock street bathing beach and have been reported as menacing the health of those who wished to use the beach for bathing.

The board is determined to force those whom they have notfied several times to connect with the sewer. This morning the final notice was ordered to be sent out and if the owners failed to comply with the regulations a police court action would follow.

The city council will be asked to contsruct a sewer on Townsend street, between Stewart and Aylmer, as there are several houses on this portion of the street that are unable to get sewer connection.

Mr. Wearing, city solicitor, was authorized to collect the outstanding accounts of Queen Mary hospital.

Those present were Alderman Ackerman (chairman), Mayor Denne and Messrs. Turner, Reynolds and Dr. T. W. H. Young.

Fred L. Roy and Chris Graham Answer Claims of Madden Howard.

PICKEREL SOLD.

That the Indian guides at Rice Lake are under a delusion if they think that they and others can continue to slaughter fish through the ice in the winter time and still be in a position to get big money guiding tourists in the summer, is the opinion of officers of the Peterboro Fish and Game Protective Association, as expressed to-day in commenting on Madden Howard's references to fishing through the ice..

Fred L. Roy, president of the Association and C. G. Graham, the secretary, maintain that the stories of the extent to which this slaughter has been carried on, have been conservative. They state that there were 1500 pounds of pickerel on sale in Peterboro in one day recently and the quantity sold here does not represent the Rice Lake catch by any means, for fish are being shipped to Toronto via Hastings, and Port Hope has also received shipments to such an extent that the Port Hope Guide has been calling for legislation to stop the winter killing.

Messrs. Roy and Graham declare that Indians who make good money as guides in the holiday season are following a penny wise, pound foolish policy in defending fishing through the ice, a practice that will eventually rob them of the revenue they obtain each summer from tourists.

No More Entwined Hearts On Desks To Tell Tales On Havelock Children

HAVELOCK, Feb. 21.—No more can John and Lucy write their names in entwined hearts on their school desks. No longer shall the history of schooldays be notched with blunt knives on the tops, sides, seats and insides of Havelock school work benches. The edict has been issued by the School Board.

When, in the storybooks, Uncle Thomas returned from making his fortune in United States, it was always his delight to point out to admiring nephew, John, the place where he scratched his name 20-30-40 years before—"Yes, sir, right under the teacher's nose." And then Uncle Tom swelled out and put across the bluff what a young scamp he was, without mentioning the fact that teacher laid him over said desk and dusted the seat of his pants with a flexible cane.

Even reporters have a time-honored privilege. At the press desk in the Peterborough Council Chamber there have sat scores of reporters who enlivened the sometimes drab, oftentimes wearying, sessions of council by digging their names in the sides of the desk. There is no record of their ever pointing with pride—or, for that matter, of their ever being spanked. But Havelock's new idea may give the Council a plan.

Every child who wilfully, negligently or with malice afterthought, or bemused by love, scratches or causes to be scratched, a scratch on one of the Havelock School's new desks, will be compelled to pay the cost. The Board so decided at its meeting last week.

BRITISH FLIER ADDS LAURELS TO REPUTATION

Captain Hinkler Makes Longest Solo Flight in Moth Plane.

IN FASTEST TIME.

Hopes To Better Smith Record For Hop From London To Australia.

BANDOENG, Java., Feb. 21 (A.P.).—Albert Hinkler, British flier, who arrived here yesterday after a 600-mile flight from Singapore, en route to Australia, has added fresh laurels to his reputation.

Already possessed of the distinction of making the first non-stop flight from London to Rome, Captain Hinkler, since he hopped off from Croydon, England, in his baby plane on February 7, has made what is called the longest solo flight and the longest flight accomplished in such a light plane. His was also the fastest journey ever made between England and India, but his time of fourteen days from Europe to Java is four days longer than was required by Lieut. Koppens, a Dutch pilot, who last October flew a monoplane from Amsterdam to Java.

Captain Hinkler expects to continue his journey today with a hop to Sourabaya, Java. He now appears likely to realize his hope of bettering the record of 28 days for a flight from London to Australia, made by the Smith Brothers in 1919.

LIBERAL LEADER HOLDS BALLOTS

Sinclair Refuses To Turn Over Ballots To Committee at Present.

TELLS WHO HAD THEM.

TORONTO, Feb. 21 (Canadian Press).—Hectic verbal tilts between W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader, and Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, and other members of the Privileges and Elections Committee featured the meeting of the committee today. The committee is investigating the los sof ninteeen ballots which Mr. Sinclair stated are in his possession and which are like those used in the last provincial election in Ottawa South.

Attempts were made to induce Mr. Sinclair to produce the ballots before the committee, culminating in a motion that he be subpoenaed to produce them at the next meeing. Mr. Sinclair persisted in his refusal to disclose the ballots until the ballot boxes of the elections are produced for examination. If a supoena is issued and Mr. Sinclair still refuses, he could be sent to jail for contempt.

R. R. Sparks, the defeated candidate, who Mr. Sinclair stated supplied him with the ballots, will also be subpoenaed to give evidence at the next meeting.

Burgomaster Max Retires From Office

BRUSSELS, Feb. 21.—Adolph Max, the burgomaster of Brussels, whose name became familiar to the whole world in 1914 and whose personal achievements symbolized the civilian heroism of the Belgian people during the dark days of national defeat and enemy occupation, has announced his intention to retire.

The name of Burogmaster Max is closely associated in that appalling epoch in world history with that of Cardinal Mercier, Archbishop of Mechlin, another heroic civilian.

Both men stayed behind in occupied territory when the Belgian army was at the other end of the country grimly holding on to the last triangle of national soil and when the Government and King Albert had been forced to flee to France before the oncoming legions from across the Rhine.

Prizes for Series No. 2 were also awarded last night, to Miss Irene Heenan and M. J. Allen.

MAY REVISE ARBITRATION PEACE PACTS

Japanese Delegate Causes Stir By Announcement at Preliminary Conference.

CONDITIONS CHANGED.

Britain Proposes Regional Non-Aggression Between Nations of Same Areas.

GENEVA, Feb. 21 (A.P.).—Believing that possibly they are too far-reaching, Japan may revise her arbitration treaties, which exclude from arbitration disputes that affect Japanese territorial and political independence, Japanese vital interest or Japanese honor.

This announcement, made by Viscount Saito last night at the preliminary security conference convoked to promote disarmament, created somewhat of a sensation. The delegates are wondering whether Japan will go a step further than the United States and France, when they negotiated the recent pact of arbitration and outlawry of war.

Viscount Saito declared that world conditions had changed since the old treaties were signed, and the Japanese Government was giving the treaties close examination from the standpoint of whether they were too far-reaching, or at least too indefinite.

It is remarked, that the arbitration treaty between Japan and the United States will soon expire and must be renewed and it is being asked how far the United States would be diposed to meet any sweepinng Japanese proposal calculated to make the new treaty a more effective instrument against war.

Russia's draft convention for disarmament was deposited yesterday with the League of Nations by Boris Stein, Soviet observer at the security committee conference. This convention is similar to the proposals Maxim Litvinoff, assistant commissor of foreign affairs, presented at the last meeting of the preparatory disarmament conference for absolute elimination of all armaments by all the nations.

Regional Accord

Great Britain, through Lord Cushendun, proposed definite regional non-aggression accords between nations of the same world areas, and last night began cabling home to ask for instructions in case a pact should be suggested for Latin-America

The opinion in Latin-American circles here is that a security regional pact in Latin-America with one or more nations guaranteeing its operation, as Great Britain and Italy guarantee the Locarno pact, is impracticable. The absolute equality of all the signatories, it is said, would be a primary requisite, as Latin-American States would not either welcome the United States nor the A.B.C. nations as guarantors.

One idea informally heard expressed was that there could be one regional accord in Central America, another for South America. But Lord Cushenlon, who is Lord Cecil's successor at Geneva, found little favor for his proposal of definite regional pacts from Dr. Ernst von Simson, German industrial expert. He voiced the fear that such accords would create hostile groupings of states within the League; he advocated the development of conciliation and emphasized the idea, which is gaining ground in League circles, that more attention should be paid to measures to prevent war and less to the preparations of penalties against an aggressor nation after hostilities had started.

Herr von Simson favored nations undertaking to guarantee the military status quo when war threatens and enforcing an armistice on the belligerents.

CHEMONG PARK TO HAVE POWER LINE

Commission Expects To Start Construction Work About Middle of April.

Gordon S. Matthews, president of the Chemong Park Cottagers' Association, has received notice from B. Mulholland of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission in regard to the power line from Peterborough to Chemong Park and Bridgenorth that there appears to be enough contracts signed to warrant this construction.

"There is no doubt," writes Mr. Mulholland, "that the regular approval will be received for this work and it is probable that we will be able to start construction about the middle of April and be able to deliver power to Chemong Park about the middle of May."

"I think, therefore, that you would be quite in order in advising the cottagers at Chemong Park to go ahead with their wiring so that they may be able to receive power about the end of May."

The power line will be of great benefit not only to Chemong Park cottagers and residents of Bridgenorth, but to the farmers along the line who are going to take advantage of the opportunity.

Wolf Kills Deer In Villager's Yard

APSLEY, Feb. 21.—An unpredented incident occurred in Apsley on Thursday night when a deer was killed, beyond all doubt by a wolf, in Stanley Windsor's garden right in the heart of the village. Handicapped by the crust on the deep snow which was not strong enough to carry its weight, the panic-stricken animal was evidently striving to reach sanctuary in the shape of the driving shed, which it is well-known both by humans and animals, its cowardly foe would hardly dare to enter, when it was overtaken and killed within a few yards of safety. The victim was a yearling doe, and a big portion of it had been devoured when discovered the next day. Several tracks of wolves quite near habitations have been seen lately; their natural timidity of civilized surroundings being overcome by extreme hunger. This example of their boldness has caused quite a thrill of excitement among the villagers, and no one cares to be out alone at night.

CAMPAIGN OFF TO GOOD START THIS MORNING

Men Meet For "Early Bird" Breakfast Before Starting Their Work.

ENCOURAGING REMARKS.

Director Outlines Work To Be Done and Leaders Urge Men To Great Efforts.

The Chamber of Commerce membership campaign got away to a good start this morning at 7.30 o'clock with the early bird breakfast at the Empress hotel. Despite the prophecy that Peterborough business men in general could not be gotten from their comfortable beds so early in the morning, every official was present and every team represented by captain and the majority of the members.

Some of them were so enthusiastic over seeing the sun come up for once that, like the early bird, they broke into song. This had to be repressed for the sake of hotel guests yet sleeping.

Following a hearty breakfast the campaign was outlined by Mr. McKeen, in which he showed the motives that prompted the executive council in putting on the campaign, the incentives that should prompt the citizens of Peterborough to have such an organization as the Chamber of Commerce represetnative in membership, adequate in finance and personnel, active through committee service.

"Never have I seen a town anywhere that has the future this one possesses, nor have I found a town with a greater opportunity to do what needs to be done. In order that there may be no question along that line your secretary, Frank Stinson, has authorized me to say that he is ready to step aside and clear the deck. The membership that signs up this week will have opportunity to elect an entire new executive council as soon as the campaign closes. The funds subscribed will be expended by this new executive group. They will adopt a program of work and budget the income to the several projects according to their importance.

"Yours, gentlemen, is a real opportunity to become participators in a real forward movement for Peterborough. The fact that so many of you are here at this early hour indicates your interest."

Mr. McKeen then outlined what had been done so far in the campaign. The educational speakers have held 44 meetings in clubs, schools, churches, mass meetings and other organizations, and spoken to nearly 8,000 people. There has been printed in The Examiner 3 to 5 news stories each day and the management has given the campaign an editorial each day. The office force has mailed to the prospects some 6,000 pieces of mail in order that they may know the general plan.

The funds come from two sources, said Mr. McKeen. He then read the following explanation from the bulletin issued to-day:

"Individual membership in the Chamber of Commerce is based on a uniform payment of $15.00 dues per annum. This group participates in the management, control, committee service and general administration of the Chamber of Commerce. In other words, the voting membership.

"It is obvious that more funds are necessary to carry on the projects of the Chamber of Commerce than the amount secured from individual memberships if it is to successfully meet the competition of other communities for men and money.

"To meet this requirement the Activities Fund investment is provided to furnish support from those individuals, firms, organizations, associations and corporations having larger interests or investments that justify this increased support to the budget of the Chamber of Commerce.

"The Activities Fund investment may be in any sum additional to the CITY'S BUSINESS DISCUSSED BY OFFICIALS AND CITIZENS AT BANQUET GIVEN BY MAYOR

Aldermen, Board Members, Employees and Leading Citizens Are Guests of Mayor Denne — Various Viewpoints Are Expressed.

EFFICIENT AND ECONOMICAL OPERATION OF CITY'S SERVICES IS AIM OF ALL

Problems Are Taken Up and Appeal Made By Mayor for Co-operation From Everybody in Endeavor to Keep Tax Rate Near Last Year's Figure.

Co-operation was the keynote sounded last night at the banquet tendered by His Worship Mayor Denne to the aldermen, civic employees, members of the various civic boards, and representative citizens. Assistance in keeping the tax rate at the lowest possible rate consistent with proper maintenance of the civic services, thereby making 1928 a banner year for Peterborough, was asked by His Worship, who pointed out that the average citizen knows little of the matters which have to be considered by the aldermen and other boards, and how much money they have to pay out without any voice in the spending of it.

Despite the weighty matters discussed, the banquet was a happy one. A splendid meal was provided by Chris Graham, in efficient manner. Between courses City Solicitor Joseph Wearing acted as song leader, and his choice of songs for the various groups was most appropriate. Ald. Stocker had the only solo of the evening, singing "Way Down Upon the Swanee River." Possibly the best of the choruses was that of the five ex-Mayors present. With J. J. Turner and W. H. Buller as basses and Dr. Holloway, A. A. McIntyre, and W. H. Taylor as Tenors, their rendition of "Gone Are the Days When I Was Young and Gay" was most pleasing. The aldermen sang 'My Wild Irish Rose' in splendid voice.

Nor were the speeches entirely filled with dry statistics and pleas for economy. Stories, true and otherwise, some with those present as the butts, but all giving rise to laughter, punctuated the addresses. Altogether, as the Mayor remarked, the banquet served to bring together aldermen, officials, and leading citizens in order that they might meet on friendly terms and learn how they might give better service.

In opening his remarks, Mayor Denne expressed sorrow that His Honor Judge Huycke, the Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., Ald. McIntyre, and Street Foreman Jack Thirnbeck had been obliged to tender their regrets at being unable to attend. He stated that the purpose of the meeting was to get co-operation because the average citizen doesn't know how the money is spent.

Tax Rate Low.

The Mayor quoted some Dominion statistics to show that Peterborough was sixth lowest in tax rate in the Dominion for cities of its size, while twenty-four cities spent less per capita. Last year the tax rate was 36 mills, but His Worship could not see how it could be maintained at that figure this year. The demands from various bodies had gone up, but the Council could not keep the rate at 36 mills by reducing its expenses a great deal. This would mean, however, that the necessary services of the city would suffer and there would not be efficiency.

It would be possible to give efficient service at 37 mills, which would mean $3.00 more in taxes from the average assessment. It had been his experience, while on the Council, that every year each organization asked for more money, and he feared that to give them all they asked for would result in a 39-mill rate. It is necessary, however, to see that the Board of Works projects go through as much of the work given by the city in this manner prevent charity applications, and it would not do to pauperize the citizens for the sake of cutting the estimates.

Much Beyond Control.

The Provincial government has billed the city $36,000 for work done last year on the Provincial Highway to Port Hope. There are many citizens, especially those who drive cars, who ask the city to bring pressure to bear to have the Chemong Road paved by the province. If this were done the city would have no voice in the choosing of the type of pavement nor how the work should be done, but would have to pay part of the cost. The Suburban Area Road Commission can go ahead and do road work, and even if the ctiy thinks it extravagant it has to pay. The County Council built an addition to the court house. The plans were submitted to the City Council, which had to pay a large part of the cost, but it had little to say in the matter.

"The average citizen," declared His Worship, "doesnt' think of that. He thinks that the council is spending all the money and criticizes it. Then if something is done he kicks again. There are 75 miles of sidewalks in the city, yet complaints came in as early as 6.30 on that slippery morning last week because they had not all been sanded. Most citizens would not sand the walks in front of their property if the ctiy provided them with a pail of sand.

"If the tax rate is high you get value for your money," he continued. "You get fire protection, police protec-

Lindbergh To Get Medal Worth $1,500

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Two bills authorizing the secretary of the treasury to issue Lindbergh medals were approved yesterday by the House of Coinage Committee. One of the bills would provide fifteen hundred dollars for the coinage of a gold medal to be presented to Col. Lindbergh in commemoration of his aerial achievements. Duplicates in bronze would be sold to the public. The other measure would provide that the commission would direct the sale of Lindbergh medals, proceeds from which would be devoted to the purchase and equipment of the Lindbergh homestead at Little Falls, Minn., and for the purpose of constructing and equipping a Lindbergh museum at St. Louis, Mo.

COUNCIL GIVES MEN DAY OFF

Aldermen Accept Recommendation of Fire, Water and Light Committee.

VERY SHORT MEETING.

What was probably the shortest meeting in the history of Peterborough City Council was that held last night after the Mayor's banquet. The meeting lasted about seven minutes, just long enough to pass the day off in seven for the Fire Brigade, as recommended by the Fire, Water and Light Committee at its meeting on Thursday.

The arranging of the days off to give the largest force possible on duty at all times will be left to Chief Gimblett.

Ald. Cotton explained that he had gone into the matter thoroughly and was convinced that the matter could be arranged without weakening the brigade. He pointed out that all the firemen are subject to call and that complying with the law would be for the best interests of the firemen and the city.

Ald. Hamilton asked if the step would have any effect on the request of the council for a lower fire insurance rate to be presented to the underwriters tomorrow.

"We are not cutting the force," said Ald. Stocker.

"It's not how we look at it but how will they look at it," replied Ald. Hamilton.

"We've added $30,000 in new equipment during the past year without any suggestion from them," pointed cut Ald. Cotton. He added, in answer to Ald. Hamilton's question, that the men will continue to get two weeks' holidays.

The Weather

This morning was clear, bright and decidedly frosty. The smoke from innumerable chimneys rose vertically for a considerable distance, and then drifted slowly toward the south-east. At six o'clock the temperature was at 13 degrees below zero; no lower during the night. While I cannot say positively at this moment just what the temperature was at Cobourg or Apsley, this morning, it is quite probable that at the former place it was about zero, while at the northern village it was 25 below. The influence of Lake Ontario on the lakeshore towns is quite marked, but it's influence here is little felt. In the case of Apsley, it is not only farther north, but of considerably higher altitude.—W. P.

A.Y.P.A. PARTY AT MILLBROOK

Valentine Social Brings Happy Hours To Many of St. Thomas' Church.

PRIZES GIVEN.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 21.—The A.Y.P.A. of Saint Thomas' church held another successful entertainment in the parish hall on February 14, a "Valentine Social" being the form the program took on Tuesday evening.

Seating accommodation was all taken, a large number being in costume; a tax of five cents was imposed on those failing to comply with the request to 'dress up' for the occasion.

The chairman was Rev. P. C. Howard, who extended a hearty welcome on behalf of the A.Y.P.A. of which Mrs. Howard is president, and the singing of "O Canada" appropriately opened the program. Community singing, led by Miss Gladys Gray with the ukelele, followed. Miss Muriel Smith presiding at the piano during the evening.

An accordion selection by L. W. Hutchinson was followed by a solo, "The Little Irish Girl", by Mrs. (Rev.) Howard, "The Rosary" being as encore. Further community singing kept everyone 'going' until the feature of the evening, the parade of those in costume, was announced by the chairman. Three classes were allowed: "Hard Times", "Old Time", and "Valentine", and there were a number to respond when each was called. The judges were: Mrs. J. A. Vance, Mrs. G. F. Harrington, and Dr. L. J. Stuart.

The little folk made the initial march around the room, the first award going to little Susanne Grassett, who looked very cute as a page boy of the time of King Edward VIII; Marjorie Vance (Hard Times) had second place.

The "Hard Times" list came next, Eddie Nattress, a most relastic 'tramp', easily winning first place. Miss M. Christie and David Fowler were awarded the prizes for "Old Time" costumes, and the Misses Gadys Gray and Muriel Curtiss won out when those in 'Valentine' attire were on parade; Henry Draper came first in the junior class in this list.

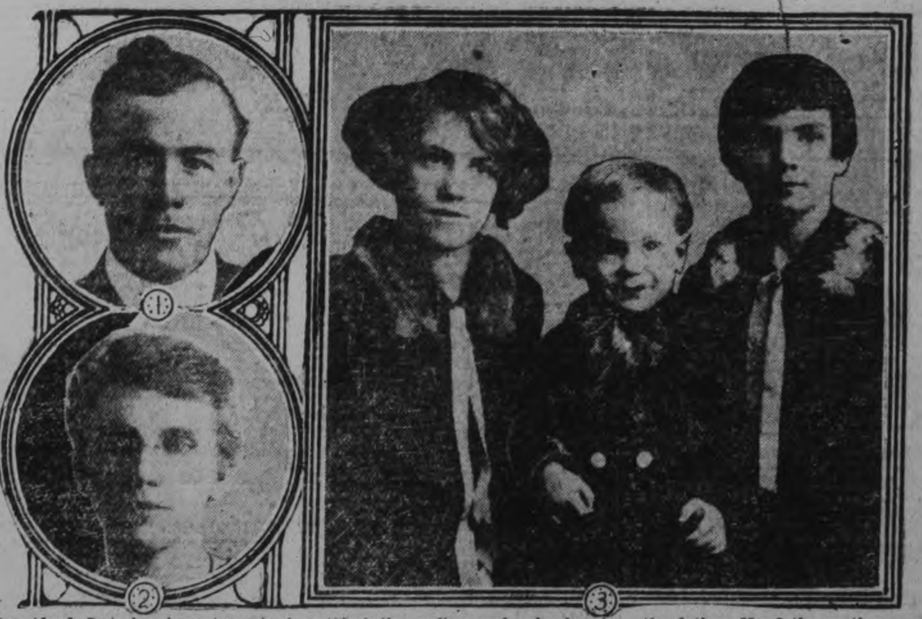
Rev. P. C. Howard presented the prizes, and games and contests suitable to Saint Valentine's Day made the time pass rapidly until refreshments were served. The colors of red and white, appropriate to the date being observed were carried out as largely as possible in the supper menu, one item being red jellies in white containers, topped with whipped cream.

Community singing and the National Anthem concluded a highly successful gathering. Under the able leadership of Rev. and Mrs. Howard, and with the hearty co-operation which is a leading feature in the A.Y.P.A. activities, the membership has now reached a total of 65, and there is every prospect that more names will shortly be enrolled.

Around the City

Fire Chief Gimblet requests the co-operation of citizens in cleaning away drifted snow from hydrants which happen to be in front of their property. The week end storm practically covered some of them, and this service from citizens will be appreciated.

RECEIVES MYSTERIOUS MESSAGE



Brantford, Ont., has been terrorized by a mysterious telephone message received by Mrs. Frederick S. McEwan, from a woman who threatened to kidnap and harm one of the McEwan girls unless $2,000 was placed under the door at night. Mrs. McEwan notified the police and school principal, who warned all the pupils. A dummy package of money was placed at the designated spot by police who kept an all-night vigil but no one appeared to get it. Photo No. 1 shows the father, No. 2 the mother, and No. 3 the children, Verna, 9; Lela, 13, and two and a half year old baby. The kidnap threat came just as Hickman was sentenced to hang for kidnapping and murder in California.

MAYOR PROPOSES THOROUGH AUDIT

Irregularities Disclosed Lead To Many Rumors of Shortages.

TORONTO, Feb. 21.—(Canadian Press).—A thorough audit of the books of every municipal department handling money is proposed by Mayor Sam McBride as a result of disclosures of irregularities in the accounts for which three civic employees were suspended a few days ago. Total cash shortages may amount to forty thousand dollars. George Ross, Finance Commissioner, said that six men had been suspended last year on account of irregularities and rumors of defalcations were widespread through the city over the week-end.

GIRL'S MOTHER WANTS HER BACK

Will Try To Have Anita del Valle Placed in Some Institution.

TORONTO, Feb. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Mother of Anita Del Valle, Toronto girl now held by Akron, Ohio, police said that if the police of the American city would release the girl she would go to Akron and bring Anita back to Toronto and endeavor to place her in some institution where she would be kept under restraint for a year or so. The girl was in a stolen motor car driven by Bud Sheppard, also of Toronto, when Sheppard was killed by a police officer while fleeing from arrest for reckless driving. Previously Anita married Jack Sullivan, Arizona bandit who is now in penitentiary for his escapades.

SCHOOL BOARD ASSISTS TEAM

Havelock Boys Unable to Play Game When Weather Acted Up.

TRUSTEES MEET

HAVELOCK, February 21. — Havelock School Board decided at its meeting last week to make a grant of $25.00 to the school hockey team. This was requested by Mr. Hildred because of shortage caused when the weather prevented a game between Madoc and Havelock on February 14.

The School Repair Committee was instructed to act with Mr. Hildred in arranging to prevent the spreading of noxious gasses from science apparatus, and Mr. Yuill was instructed to obtain maps as required.

Word was received from the Ontario Educational Association that there would be a public speaking contest held in Belleville on February 25. A letter was received from Mr. Morris stating that the Ontario School Trustees' and Ratepayers' Convention will be held in Toronto on April 10, 11, and 12, 1928. Chairman Anderson was appointed as delegate. The following accounts were ordered to be paid:

A. C. Denike, $99.60; James Paget, $3.50; R. E. Campney, $5.70; R. J. McCutcheon, 50c; E. N. Moyer, $1.40.

The question of increasing salary of janitor was discussed, but no change was made. Mr. Buchanan will receive the regular salary, and he will be paid extra for any heavy repairs that he may make on order of the Board, such as painting or kalsomining.

Those present were: Trustees Anderson, Rigby, Fraser, Rocke, and Jamieson.

NORWOOD CHOIR GIVES CONCERT

Audience in United Church Hears Splendid Musical Numbers.

SUPPER SERVED

NORWOOD, Feb. 21.—On Friday evening the choir of the United Church gave a very splendid sacred concert under the leadership of Professor J. Edwards. Much praise is due to all those who took part. At the conclusion of the concert the ladies of the congregation served a dainty supper in the Sunday schoolroom to show their appreciation of the good work which is being done by the choir. The following is the program:

Anthem—"Sing Unto the Lord."

Baritone solo—"Anchor," Roger McMillan.

Male quartette—"Speed Away," J. Edwards, J. A. Finlay, E. C. Squire, W. Stares.

Soprano solo—"Jesus Lover of My Soul," Mrs. R. Lawlor.

Organ solo—"Festival Prelude," Prof. J. Edwards.

Baritone solo—"O Rest in the Lord" Emlyn Edwards.

Mixed quartette—"When I Survey

HASTINGS PEOPLE ENJOY CONCERTS

Valentine Entertainments by Anglican and Presbyterian Young People.

ANGLICAN CHURCH.

HASTINGS, Feb. 21.—In the beautifully-decorated Sunday School room of the Anglican Church, the young people last Tuesday presented a splendid Valentine program, under the chairmanship of W. P. Plant. The audience was welcomed by Rev. W. A. Pepper, who explained the legend of St. Valentine.

Contributions to the program were: Miss Jessie Kirk, solo, "Our Valentine"; Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Blackburn and family, chorus accompanied by Mr. Blackburn with a cornet; Doreen Gillespie, recitation; Jessie Kirk, Hilda Redferd, Irene Jeffries, monologue, "Pictures from Mother Goose"; Miss Della Plant, Mrs. Redferd, Wesley Dainard, Eddie Redferd, dialogue, "Making Soap"; Muriel Primrose, piano solo; three little boys, monologue, "Pictures from Mother Goose"; Emma and Dora Hubbs, duet, "High, High, Up in the Hills"; Sidney, Ernest, and Stanley Blackburne, recitation and song, "Canada"; Jessie Kirk and Kietha Mouncey, duet, "Dew, Dew, Dewy Day"; Mrs. Mouncey, Emma Hubbs, Mildred Welman, dialogue, "Who On Earth Is It?"; Keitha Mouncey, solo. There were several selections by the orchestra, Valentine were distributed, and lunch was served.

St. Andrew's Church.

Sixty people were present at the meeting of Young People of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church last week, when Thomas Chaplin presided and the following program was given: Pansy Killinbeck, Scripture reading; interesting talk on St. Valentine, Miss Maud Spiers; junior girls, "Good Old St. Valentine; Isabell Fowlds, recitation; topic, "Hymn Writers", Mrs. Thomas Chaplin; Kathleen Clapper, current events; senior girls, drill and dialogue.

HORSES ARRIVE FROM THE WEST

George Rusaw Purchases Twenty-two Horses From Saskatchewan.

TRENT RIVER, Feb. 21.—George Rusaw received last week a carload of twenty-two western horses which were shipped from Kinkaid, Saskatchewan. They are well matched teams of black, grey, white, sorrel, and brown, ranging from 1200 to 1800 pounds each, and from 4 to 8 years old. As they were allowed their freedom in the West, they have never been fed on grain, but always received hay. Mr. Rusaw has purchased these horses for sale.

SOCK SOCIAL PROVIDES FUN

Hastings Ladies' Aid Manages Successful Event, Raising Thirty Dollars.

GOOD PROGRAM

HASTINGS, Feb. 21.—Twenty-five inches was the longest sock worn at the Ladies' Aid Social of the United Church, held recently, while some wee tot wore one two inches long. A vocal solo "Socks", composed especially for the occasion, was sung by Neil McDonald. "Putting on Airs" was sung by Miss Madeline Bond, impersonating a boy, and Miss Irene Sargent. The men sang "Do it Yourself", while a vocal duet was given by Taylor Huycke and Mrs. Gordon Faux, and an instrumental trio was presented by Misses Gladys Stevenson, Evelyn Beavis and Helen Wilcox.

A one act play entitled "The Rummage Sale" was given, the characters being: Mrs. Perkins, Muriel Cruikshank; ice man, Gordon Fairman; policeman, A. V. German; Aunt Liza Ray, Hazel McDonald; clerks, Misses Ruby Cruikshank, Blanche Stubbs, and Velma Oliver; tramps, Will Knight and Walter Dodd.

For the second part of the program the audience was divided into four groups according to birthdays, three months in each group, and were required to furnish an impromptu program, the judges being Mrs. James Stevenson, Mrs. G. Faux and Mrs. H. Edwards, who gave a box of candy to the winning group.

The first group gave two numbers, Miss Velma Oliver, a recitation and Miss Madeline Bond a vocal solo.

The second group gave a chorus, and recitations by Miss Wilhelmina Rusaw.

Fred Munroe gave a recitation and Miss Mable Beamish a violin selection for the third group.

For the fourth group I. Bond gave a very humorous reading and R. C. Doxsee an impromptu speech.

The judges decided in favor of the second group. While lunch was being prepared a contest was staged between the four groups, the third group being awarded a prize for their intelligence. Proceeds of the evening amounted to $33.85.

MISSIONARY PLAY GIVEN AT MILLBROOK

"Tired of Missions" Presented at Mission Circle Social.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 21.—The Valentine social evening, held in the Sunday school auditorium of the United church on Tuesday, February 14, under the auspices of the Golden Links mission circle, was a very enjoyable occasion, the one drawback being the decidedly unfavorable weathere which lessened the attendance. Some of the little folk from the country who were taking part were unable to come in owing to the heavy rain, and the state of the roads.

The pastor, Rev. F. H. Howard, was chairman, and after a brief devotional period, the formal program was proceeded with. Chinese lanterns enclosed the lights, and Valentine runners bright with red hearts and gay lads and lassies, made up the decorative scheme.

A reading, "The Legend of Saint Valentine" by Miss Jean L. Burnham was followed by a recitation, "My Dime," by Bernice Smith, after which a song, "I Am Going to Try," was given by fourteen girls. Jack Stinson gave as a recitation, "The Laziest Boy," and two little girls, Bryer Edmunds and Mary Burnham played a piano duet.

"The Maid and the Mite Boy" (illustrated) was recited by Myrtle Nattress, and Dorothy Crossley read "The Real Message of Saint Valentine." A solo, "In the Harvest Fields," by Mrs. H. W. Johnston, was much appreciated, the play, "Tired of Missions," by 17 girls being the concluding number.

Five girls, Ethel Gay (Wilma Fallis), Belle Briggs (Elinor Fallis), Dora Brown (Annie McMahon), Susie Scott (Alvira Davis), and Gwendolyn Silk (Flossie McMahon) members of a missionary study class, are discussing the falling away in interest and attendance, and suggesting a literary club for a change, when their teacher, Miss Weir (Hazel McMahon) enters and overhears their remarks. Deeply hurt at their reiterated 'tired of missions,' Miss Weir promises a change of program at the next meeting. Scenes on four of the mission fields were acted, presenting vividly what happens when the people at home fail to support the workers.

YOUNG PEOPLE FORM SOCIETY

Officers Elected at Organization Meeting at Keene Presbyterian Church.

KEENE, Feb. 21.—Marjorie Renwick was elected president of the newly organized Young People's Society of the Presbyterian Church, at a meeting last week. Mrs. William Campbell is Honorary president, and the other officers are: Vice-president, Ross Comrie; secretary-treasurer, Marion Comrie; devotional convenor, Viola Wilson; literary convenor, Nellie Hunter; membership convenor, Kate Thompson; social convenor, Harold Wilson; pianist, Nellie Hunter. Rev. Mr. McCleary presided during the election.

Following the election, the Young People's Society of St. Paul's Church, Peterborough, was entertained.

FATHERS AND SONS JOIN IN SERVICE

Cavan United Church is Scene Of Enjoyable Gathering.

CAVAN, Feb. 21.—On Sunday evening a Father and Son service was held in the Cavan United Church with Rev. J. O. Totten in charge. Lawrence Dunbar of Garden Hill, a representative of East Durham in the Tuxis Boys' Parliament, was present and gave a very enjoyable address on the recent session held in Toronto. He also explained the word "T-U-X-I-S"; "X" is in the centre representing Christ with "U" and "I" on either side. "T" stands for training and "S" for service. Tuxis as a whole stands for training "U" and "I" for Christ, he said. He also spoke of the aims of the movement, of the four-fold training given and the use made of the funds raised His address was delivered in a pleasing manner, showing what participation in a movement of this kind does for a boy, enabling him to gracefully take his place on a platform and in convincing manner speak of the benefits of the society to which he belongs.

Ralph Staples, a Cavan Tuxis boy, led the responsive reading, and the choir assisted by several numbers.

ENTERTAIN STAFF LAKEFIELD SCHOOL

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Simpson Are Hosts at Delightful Party.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Simpson entertained the teachers of the Public and High School at a dinner party last Friday evening, at their home on Queen street. Owing to the proximity of St. Valentine's Day, the dining-room was decorated appropriately; red and white being used in the color scheme. The place cards, the cupid which hung over the table, all spoke of the Valentine season and its message of love and good will.

Following a most exquisite dinner the guests adjourned to the living room, where the evening was spent in contests which were cleverly planned. The first was a drawing contest which called forth much laughter especially among those who do not excel in art. The results were original and in many cases very artistic.

The next contest which required a certain amount of mental effort was called "Days of celebration" and pictures were displayed representing the various days which Canadians honor. This was followed by a dressmaking contest in which the company was divided into two groups each of which was given sufficient crepe paper to make a dress. The models, who patiently stood while the dresses were being created, were Miss Curtis and Mr. Wannamaker. Following this, Miss Hill and Miss Curtis paraded as mannequins, while the whole company looked on and admired. Miss Hill's gown was of pale pink crepe, tastefully made with a fetching hat to match and was compared to a Columbia rose, while Miss Curtis wore yellow and green with a bandeau of the same and carried a fan to match, and was promptly called a daffodil. Both young ladies looked so charming and their dresses were so dainty and each in its own way so complete that it was impossible to say which was prettier. The evening passed very quickly as the contests were so interesting that none dragged or became monotonous.

ORANGE CORNERS SCHOOL CONCERT

Miss Parker Directs Enjoyable Valentine Day Entertainment by Pupils.

ORANGE CORNERS, Feb. 21.—In the prettily decorated school house, a jolly Valentine Day entertainment was presented under direction of the teacher, Miss Parker. The Junior Red Cross Club meeting of the week was combined with a gathering of the parents and older brothers and sisters of the pupils.

Louise Bray told of the benefits of a school club, and the following program was given: School chorus, recitation, Alden Bailey; riddles, Nellie Casey; recitation, Jane McConnell, "The Robin's Valentine"; address, "The Story of Salt", Sam Carew; recitation, Hilda Howden; recitation, "If St. Valentine Knew", John Casey; recitation, "I'se Yo' Valentine", Nellie Casey; recitation, "A Valentine in the South", Vina Fife; instrumental, Jane McConnell; recitation, "Our Hot Lunch", Lawrence McConnell; play, "Tommy's Tummy"; instrumental, Lawrence McConnell; reading, "Mother's Valentine", Jake McConnell; recitation, "My Pearls", Nelson McConnell; reading, H. Finley. A huge box of Valentines was distributed, and lantern slides shown, followed by a dainty lunch. Mrs. Albert Finley and Mrs. Bray expressed the appreciation of the audience to Miss Parker.

Cutting Costs with Electrical Cooking
Light, Boil, Bake and Fry Wash and Iron for one month $3.00
IT was recently estimated that the average home burns half a ton of coal a month in the kitchen, costing approximately $7.50. Compare this with the average monthly electric bill of $3.00—at the rate charged in Toronto and many other points in Canada—which covers electrical costs for cooking, lighting the house, washing and ironing, etc.
Not only does the Moffat Range add new convenience and new delight in cooking, it, at the same time, lightens the family budget. Economy is effected in Moffats Electric Ranges because of the efficiency of every detail in their construction. The slight repair costs of the heating elements over a period of many years is almost negligible.

REVISION OF THE PRAYER BOOK

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 21.—Rev. A W. Mackenzie was the special preacher. in St. John's Church on Sunday morning and delivered a carefully prepared and thoughtful discourse on the Revision of the Prayer Book, which is stirring the Old Land. It is well to know and understand what all this means When St. Augustine landed in England from Rome in the sixth century he found the British Church already established and independent of outside authority. The services of the Church, as the centuries passed, became more ornate, and elaborate vestments were worn by the clergy. In the sixteenth century the Reformation came, but the Church preserved its continuity and was the same church just as a garden, which has been cleared of weeds, is the same garden. The Crown took an active part in the Reformation and as Queen Elizabeth declared that the nation and the Church were bound together, so she declared herself the head of both, her independence made the movement more strongly national than it would otherwise have been and so the Church and state were linked together.

In the earlier days of the Reformation the Church stood for extreme simplicity in its services and the costly vestments were exchanged for the black cassock and white surplice. The altar was moved to the nave of the church but was restored to its old position in the est end as it was felt that it made for greater reverence. In the prayer book of 1549 there was contained what was known as the Black Rubric, which specifically mentioned that the kneeling at the altar to receive the Holy Communion was an act of reverence and not of adoration. The whole difference lay in the doctrine of transubstantiation, and in the fact that following the Reformation the service was in English. Since that time the Prayer Book has exercised a most powerful influence on the nation, it has determined the character and tone of English devotion and formed a standard of faith and religious thought and has also affected the whole development of English literature.

About one hundred years ago a strong movement developed in England and Scotland which, although different in many ways, were united in their opinion that religion was something more than the creature of state and parliament. The Magna Charta contains this clause—"The Church of England shall be free." This movement has grown in England and within the past ten or fifteen years has increased greatly in strength and is known as the Anglo-Catholic Movement. It was formerly called the High Church Party, while the Evangelical faction was known as the Low Church Party. The former movement is decidedly in the ascendancy to-day, having the support of most of the priests and bishops. The Church recognized both parties, showing its breadth and tolerance by never persecuting; the Prayer Book, their common possession was a bond of union.

Into many churches have come practices which are illegal, such as the reservation of the sacrament, adoration and teachings which cannot be distinguished from the Romish doctrine of transubstantiation.

The General Assembly was called to consider whether the proposed changes would be sanctioned or forbidden. It was decided to sanction them and the Prayer Book rubrics were revised and brought before Parliament which rejected the proposed changes. It is to be presented again in a somewhat modified form and on that hinges an important chapter of our Church's history. The Anglo-Catholics are inclined to set the Church above the Bible, not realizing what a glorious heritage the Scripture is. The Church of England reflects the English character, being often inconsistent in practice, but good-natured and tolerant, and averse to crushing minorities and in most cases proving her point less by authority than by the reasonableness of her tenets.

It is not improbable that the matter will end in the disestablishment of the Church, something earnestly desired by many loyal churchmen. The Church faces this crisis as she has faced every other crisis in her history with an abiding faith in God who doeth all things well.

CLEAN KIDNEYS BY DRINKING LOTS OF WATER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts.

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.

DOCTORS SHOW MANY HOW TO QUICKLY BREAK UP COLDS

Advise Inexpensive Home Method That Brings Sure Relief—Often in a Few Hours

Even Extreme Hospital Tests Show How Soon It Stops a Head Cold, Cough, Chest Cold

An inexpensive home method—so pleasant children love it—offers the quickest and surest way to get rid of a stuffy head cold, bad cough or deep seated chest cold, according to tests of doctors at the hospital. And druggists say that the same quick relief that came to C. H. Reddy and little Elsie Durant has been experienced by hundreds of Peterboro people who have used it in their own homes.

Caught Cold in Draft—Soon Relieved by Doctor's Advice

Mr. Reddy contracted a stuffy cold while seated near an open window in a street car. In spite of the cold tablets and salves he used, the cold grew worse—spreading from his nose passages deep down into his chest and bronchial tubes.

Then he called on the hospital for advice. Doctors there gave him Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—a concentrated mixture of ingredients which hospitals have found to be the quickest to end colds.

With the first swallow he felt its comforting, healing warmth—from nose passages deep down into his chest. Relief began instantly and in a day or so the cold was completely gone.

Soon Back at School — Rid of Threatening Cold

Still another of the many grateful users of Cherry Pectoral, is Mrs. W. H. Durant whose daughter, Elsie, was kept from school by a severe cough and cold that brought fear of pneumonia.

Doctors ordered the child to bed, with double strength doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral every half hour until relief came—then once every hour until her little bronchial tubes, lungs and nose passages were free from cold and normal again.

The following day she looked like a different child. In another day or so all traces of the cough and cold had disappeared and she was back in school—well as ever.

Note: Other cases reported daily—all certified by the physician who treated each case.

Doctors find that this hospital medicine does far more than stop coughing instantly. It is absorbed by the whole system. This quickly checks phlegm, heals irritation and drives out the cold from the nose passages, throat and chest.

Just a few pleasant spoonfuls of Cherry Pectoral now and you'll feel like a different person tomorrow. Hospital directions with each bottle.

DOG HAD RABIES OF SERIOUS TYPE

Officials Take Prompt Steps To Prevent Any Harm Resulting.

KINGSTON, Feb. 21.—(Special).—One of the worst cases of rabies on record in Ontario has been found at Perth Road, Frontenac county. A stray dog had been noticed snapping at people and fighting with dogs of the neighborhood. Several people were slightly bitten, but their winter clothing prevented the teeth of the animal breaking the flesh. Finally Dr. William Nicholls, Dominion Veterinary Inspector of this district, was notified by telephone and he ordered the dog shot on sight. A posse was organized and next morning the dog was located and shot.

Dr. Nicholls took the head to Queen's Medical Laboratory where the case was pronounced as one of the worst type of rabies ever seen at the college. Dr. Nicholls immediately went to Ottawa and consulted the Federal authorities. Another inspector accompanied him to the Perth road district and several dogs that were known to have been fighting with the stray animal were shot. Others thought to have had contact with the diseased canine were quarantined and several farms were also quarantined. The owners are not allowed to sell milk.

The dog is known to have travelled between Lake Opinicon and Perth Road, and yesterday Dr. Nicholls made another trip to the district to make further enquiries and extend the quarantine.

THE PROVINCIAL FINANCES.

Beyond the fact that it will show a considerably larger surplus than was at first anticipated, it is predicted that the Budget to be brought down by Hon. J. D. Monteith in the Provincial Legislature next week will contain nothing to create any great excitement.

So far as the burden of taxation is concerned, it is said that we will merely hold our own; there will be no reductions to cheer for and no increases to cause grief.

The financial condition of the Province will, it is expected, be shown to be in excellent shape, and the Treasurer is expected to announce a surplus of $350,000, a showing that is in sharp contrast to the heavy deficits previously recorded in the days of the Farmer Government, and better than Hon. Mr. Monteith himself hoped for, even as late as December last, when in his pre-sessional statement he estimated that the surplus would be around $285,000.

A year ago in his Budget estimate the Provincial Treasurer predicted a surplus of $150,000, so that he is doing $200,000 better than he counted upon in 1927.

The Budget, which is to be brought down on Tuesday of next week, will not, of course, contain a proposal to increase the gasoline tax, although that can be expected next year, in view of the recent statements of Premier Ferguson in Peterborough and elsewhere.

A NEW SPEED RECORD.

Following upon the sensational performance given on the same course last year by Major Segrave of England in his Mystery Sunbeam Special, the feat of Captain Malcolm Campbell, British race-track driver, in driving his Napier Bluebird Special at an average speed of almost 207 miles an hour will again have the effect of serving notice on the world that British scientific and engineering skill and British nerve and courage still rank with the highest.

It takes brains and technical knowledge of supreme quality to construct an engine and build a car capable of producing a speed rate of three and a half miles a minute; and it takes cool skill, iron nerve and utter-fearlessness to successfully pilot such a car faster than any similar machine has ever travelled.

There never was a second during the whole test when Captain Campbell was not facing death; so far as risk is concerned, most of the aviation stunts of recent years have been child's play compared to the chances undertaken by the British driver in setting a new world's record.

The world's admiration will be divided between the genius which designed the Napier Bluebird and the bravery and skill which drove it to a fresh speed mark.

CANADA'S VICTORY.

While the victory of the Varsity Grads in the Olympic series was a hollow one, inasmuch as the European teams offered but weak opposition and the Canadians won by a total score of thirty-eight goals to nothing in the three games played, there will be few people in this country to declare that it was not worth while to send over a team.

The point that should not be overlooked is that a place in the Olympic calendar has been given to a sport that is of Canadian origin, and it is not to be thought of that the country giving hockey to the world should not be represented in the world competition for supremacy in this great sport.

The European countries having adopted hockey and apparently being anxious to continue to carry on the game, there is not the least doubt that the educational value of the demonstration of how hockey should be played by the expert Canadians is appreciated by the players of the teams assembled at St. Moritz.

They will benefit by it, and although they cannot be expected for some time to produce teams equal in calibre to those sent over from the home of hockey, there should be an improvement noted four years hence.

As for the Grads themselves, they have conducted themselves in a manner to give their homeland much valuable advertising in Europe, and their sportsmanship will be appreciated as fully as their skill.

THE CASE OF THE FARMER.

Should a prospector come dashing into Peterborough some fine day and wildly announce that he had discovered a great vein of gold-bearing quartz a few hundred miles north in the bush, there would be a wild scramble on the part of a large portion of the citizenship to go rushing to the new strike. Some of them would be absolutely foolish about the risks they would take and the means of transportation they would use.

Yet there is a "gold mine" within a radius of 30 to 50 miles of Peterborough that will produce "pay dirt" more consistently and over a longer period of years than the richest vein of ore in the hills.

The agricultural territory lying about the city of Peterborough is the gold mine. Just like any other mine, though, it requires "working."

There is a general tendency on the part of business groups and Chambers of Commerce to neglect, if not altogether ignore, this portion of community wealth. The time has come when this source of community wealth can no longer be neglected or ignored if our communities shall advance as they should.

In the final analysis, community prosperity in Canada is based upon agricultural prosperity, directly or indirectly. That is particularly true of industrial Peterborough.

In making his recommendations for the re-organization program of the Chamber of Commerce, Harry R. McKeen insists that agricultural development shall have a large place in the program.

What are the facts? is the question he fires bluntly at both business man and farmer.

That means an agricultural survey of this part of Ontario. Not merely a few well phrased complimentary comments, but a fact revealing survey of actual conditions. Both business and agriculture need this information.

This inventory of the trading territory should cover the following points as a minimum:

The acreage showing the amount of improved and unimproved lands, the area in cultivation and amount available for immediate cropping.

The annual production of grain, fruit, vegetables, live stock, dairy products, showing whether there was a surplus or shortage for home consumption; the income from the several crops. So far as possible, an analysis of cost production.

Transportation facilities showing railways, highways, water routes and local roads over which commodities are transported to and from the farm area, and an analysis of the best routing for products into the market.

Marketing facilities, local and national, are becoming more and more important and complicated. Any improvement in methods that can aid in a more prompt and profitable distribution of production from the farm to ultimate consumer needs wide dissemination.

Financing agriculture is a crying need generally. Much has been done. Three types of loans are needed. The short-time loans locally to carry over a seasonal need. The longer-time loan for a carry-over period or the purchase of stock, machinery, buildings or equipment. The long-term loan for the purchase of land through an amaritization plan. These may reveal that some radical changes are necessary in cropping systems and marketing methods.

Typical examples! Example always teaches more than precept. The storp of what some man actually does will do more to inspire a community than all the theorizing of the experts. The successful man who produces a profitable crop or a prize-winning animal or vegetable leads the way.

The Peterborough Chamber of Commerce is interested in all this for two reasons—for the sake of business and for the sake of the farmer. Business and agriculture are the Siamese twins of community development.

FREEDOM—TO PAY TAXES.

Ministers of finance, or their equivalents in countries where they are known by some other and more resounding name, are hard put to it these days when they start out to find new sources of revenue. The money they must find to balance the national budgets would have appalled the public a generation ago, but today, so adaptable is the human mind, people have resigned themselves to the inevitable and are more apprehensive of possible increases than concerned with insistence on economies that might result in diminishing the burden to which their shoulders are now accustomed. An observant commentator of days gone by once remarked that "there's no escape from death nor taxes," or some other phrase to similar effect. His size-up of the situation was correct in his age and time has confirmed its accuracy.

In the Speech from the Throne at the opening of the new session of the Legislature announcement was made that the personages popularly known as "high pressure" salesmen had been deemed fit and proper subjects of Government control by means of the license system. This, besides its primary value, provides another source of revenue, small, perhaps, but every little counts. It adds another to the long and ever-growing "list of contributions" that Governments invite from the patient public as necessary for the general well-being. Nations have no prouder boast than that of being "free," but there is no freedom from taxpaying. Sydney Smith, Dean of St. Paul's, famous as a wit and writer a century ago, drew up a celebrated catalogue of the imports that accompanied an Englishman from the moment of his emergence from bed till he again resumed his slumber. It was scarcely more formidable than the list today.

Should your girl propose (this is Leap Year) and everything be set for the happy ceremony, somebody reminds you not to forget the wedding license. That costs five dollars. Providing you have a little money set aside, you proceed to build a house and you nail up the first plank when the building inspector comes along and you find a permit necessary. Close on his heels comes the plumbing and drainage inspector. Two more permits. Then along comes the electrician and you find it advisable to take out an electrical permit or face the risk of tearing the house down for failure to comply. You proceed to furnish the house and decide a radio would be a very nice thing to have. You pay a hundred and fifty or so for a set and then find you can't turn it on until you get another permit. You decide to buy a car and find you get "hauled up" if you don't have a license, and what is more, it costs another iron man for a permit to drive and another for your wife. And that isn't all. Every time you take "Lizzie" out for a spin and fill up at the gas tank you contribute three cents per gallon to the Government, the explanation being that this pays for the roads.

So far so good, comments The Stratford Beacon-Herald. You then decide that since the Government says its legal to buy the liquor, it might be just as well to stock up. But, alas, two more green-backs are extracted from the roll to get the privilege of buying. Yet these are only a few of the permits and licenses one is "free" to stack up. Here is a list of other amusements, etc., for which the little slips of city hall approval are necessary: Theatres, bowling alleys, ball parks, recreation clubs, skating rinks, merry-go-rounds, shows, circuses, club or lodge rooms, music halls, hotels, restaurants, dining rooms, auctioneers, billiard tables, bill posters, cigarettes, hawkers, peddlers, transient traders, eating houses, junk dealers, second-hand stores, revolvers, electric signs, carters, cabs, taxi-drivers, livery stables, etc. All of which would indicate that the present system has very closely approached the degree of perfection as set forth by Colbert, the celebrated Minister of Finance of Louis XVI., when he said: "Pluck the goose so as to obtain the most feathers with the least squawking."—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It looks as if the goalkeepers of the Canadian Olympic hockey team should refund their expense money.

The "slow old" British seem to be able to move some after all, as Captain Campbell's 206.95 miles an hour would apparently indicate.

Well, anyway the Grads are a nice bunch of boys and they earned their trip.

It is said that at least one hundred members want to take part in the Budget debate. Now, if we could only count on one constructive idea from each of them the delay would be worth while.

Given representative membership and adequate finances, the Chamber of Commerce can do much for Peterborough—and there is much to be done.

Delegates to the Boy Scouts' conference here last week carried away with them many souvenirs of Peterborough's industries. All of which is excellent advertising.

Cheer up, Sweden, Great Britain and France! The Grads whitewashed our team several times, too.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, February 21 (Canadian Press). — The export trade in Canadian grain here yesterday was moderately active and sales of a few loads of wheat were made to foreign buyers. The domestic trade was inactive, but the undertone was strong and prices for No. 2 Canadian Western oats were advanced ½c per bushel.

The movement of spring and winter wheat grades of flour was small, but prices were unchanged.

The millfeed market was fairly active and the undertone was firm. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was quiet and values were unchanged.

The egg market was without any new feature to note, prices being steady under a fair demand. The receipts were 646 cases.

A moderate amount of business was worked in potatoes and prices were well maintained.

An active trade was done in imported beans and values were firm. Sales of small quantities were made at $3.20 per bushel, ex-store, and choice white hand-picked in car lots were quoted at $3.00 per bushel, ex-track.

The demand for butter continued steady, and the undertone was firm. The receipts were 12 packages.

The only business reported in cheese was in small lots for local account, but the undertone was steady. The receipts were 290 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, February 21 (Canadian Press). — Bulging prices at Liverpool and reports of famine conditions in Russia gave decided strength yesterday to the wheat market here. Despite a big increase in the amount of wheat on ocean passage, export purchases of North American wheat yesterday totalled about 1,000,000 bushels.

Closing Chicago quotations for wheat yesterday ⅛c to 1¼c net higher, with corn ⅛c off to ¼c up, oats unchanged to a shade lower, and provisions at 5c to 15c advance.

On the lively upward swings which were witnessed in wheat prices yesterday, July delivery established a new high record for the season, and nearby months went to the topmost point since last December. Houses with eastern and foreign connections led the way aggressively in the buying of future deliveries, and there was also evidence of future delivery demand from domestic millers. Spread traders purchasing wheat against sales of corn were likewise conspicuous. Most of the gains in wheat values yesterday were held at the finish, the close in Chicago being the highest in weeks. Profit-taking in late trading was heavy, but sales were quickly absorbed by commission houses. A bullish influence was the fact that export rye, for East Street, St. John's, is commanding 15½ cents over Chicago May, the topmost basis thus far on the crop. Furthermore, domestic winter wheat prospects were construed in some quarters as unfavorable.

Notwithstanding corn selling on the part of spreaders who were buying wheat, the corn market sympathized with wheat strength. Favorable weather for the movement of corn had only a transient bearish effect, and was counterbalanced by reports that country roads are in bad shape. Oats were dull but steady.

Provisions worked higher with corn and hogs.

A Thought

WHEN IS A SECRET A SECRET?

A woman may keep a secret a short time, but she is no cold storage plant, neither is a live man a mummy

Secrets are no longer secrets when told.

What gets my goat is to have someone whisper something into my ear and then tell me not to tell it.

The moment a man starts to tell me a secret I stop him, for I do not want the responsibility of safeguarding a secret that the man himself could not keep.

Again: If he tells me, he will probably tell others, and this increases the possibility or probability of a leak along the line.

Your "under the rose" stuff spilled to any one save a very confidential friend is no evidence that there is great confidence in his or her ability to keep a secret, but it is pretty good proof that you cannot keep things to yourself.

155 BUSHELS PER ACRE

Hussar, Alta., Can.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir.—I helped to thresh for Mr. George Greening fifteen acres of oats which yielded 2325 bushels, measured and weighed by the machine and the field measured by the seeder. The owner had a bet with his neighbor that it would not beat seventy-five, but it more than doubled that amount. It was sowed two bushels per acre. The owner did not know the name of it; it looked to be the old, common white oat, a long slim kernel and weighed 38 lbs. per bushel. It had heavy straw and stooked up like a heavy field of fall wheat and still there was from four to five bushels left on the ground; as part of it was lodged or could not be cut. It was threshed at the rate of six bushels per minute, and almost clean enough to put into a seeder. Wheat is yielding from five to sixty-five bushels per acre, according as the hail struck it. The average is around 35 bushels and there are six different grades caused by frost and damp threshing, which is hard to get right with bad weather conditions, much rain or snow and frosty and foggy mornings which delays the work. If wheat is not threshed dry it will never be right. There was but sixty per cent of the threshing done up to October 16th. There was much rain and snow. Very little No. 1 wheat being threshed, most all the grain is hauled in trucks from the machine which costs 1 cent a mile up to 15 miles, then a little less. It costs fourteen cents for threshing; nine cents for oats. It takes eight teams to keep an ordinary machine running from daylight until dark. Lunch is at 3 o'clock. The mountains have been capped with snow since September 2nd.

God hath attended to the voice of my prayer.—Ps. 66:19.

O Thou God of all grace, Father of mercies, the Hope of believers, Saviour of the penitent soul, hear our prayer.

Thou has revealed Thyself in such lovely characteristics and endearing relations, that we may remove all fear, and be encouraged in all trouble, and be led to say, "Let us draw night to God."

Teach us, Lord, because we know not truth of ourselves. May we see divine things in a heavenly light, so that our minds may be informed and at the same time our hearts be sanctified.

Consecrate our whole life to Thy service and glory. Search us, O God, and know our hearts; try us, and know our thoughts; see if there be any wicked way in us, and lead us in the way everlasting.

Accept our thanksgiving and praise for Thy generous blessing in material refreshment and spiritual strength. Keep us under Thy guardian care so that whether we eat or drink or whatever we do, we may do all in the Name of the Lord Jesus and to the glory of God, through Christ our blessed Redeemer and Friend. Amen.

CITY BUSINESS IS DISCUSSED

tion, pavements, sewers, library, schools. You are all interested and have to realize that the money for these things has to come from somewhere, but if we cut down the tax rate you will have to do without a lot of things."

E. Bruce Fowler.

In calling upon E. Bruce Fowler, chairman of the Board of Education, the Mayor pointed out that the board's estimates had gone up $6,900 this year and asked Mr. Fowler to tell about it.

"I hardly think it's fair to ask me to speak first," Mr. Fowler began, but His Worship cut in with, "You're the largest spender."

Mr. Fowler expressed the opinion that The Examiner must have wanted to help him, because only last night it had published an editorial which set out the position of Peterborough in regard to education costs, which he proceeded to read. This showed that Peterborough's per capita cost of education is $14.36, whereas the average for cities of this size is in Canada is $15.39 and for larger cities $15.47.

Peterborough has, continued Mr. Fowler, one of the best systems of school buildings to be found in cities of its class in the province. A recent appraisal had shown the Public schools, with contents, to be worth $704,000 and the Collegiate $146,000.

"I make no apology for this expenditure," declared the speaker, "because I believe that the city which provides adequate educational facilities is attending to the first business on the list, the education of the children who are its future citizens." He expressed the opinion that it would be more profitable for the government to try to retain these instead of seeking immigrants from abroad, a sentiment which was echoed by J. R. Corkery, of the Separate School Board, a few minutes later.

The staff of the Peterborough schools ranks with the best in the province, Mr. Fowler continued. There are altogether 81 teachers in the Public schools and 23 in the Collegiate. These are paid according to schedule and $203,000 of the $238,000 asked for by the board goes to their salaries. "If there is one class of civic employee who should be well paid," declared Mr. Fowler, "it is the teacher, but we should get service for our money."

Referring to the purchase of the Grace church proprety, Mr. Fowler said that the school children had used it for thirty-one years and it was needed to fill out the Queen Alexandra school grounds. Under an agreement made several years ago the board had either to buy the land or put up a fence on the boundary line. Considering that the Board has had the use of the land for so many years the price was not excessive, he submitted.

"I am sorry that the estimates are higher," he stated in conclusion, "but at the same time we are giving service. I think the people are willing to pay when they know the money is being wisely spent." He assured his hearers that full value is being obtained for every dollar spent on the new Collegiate etxension, which will be a building of which the city may be proud.

Before resuming his seat the chairman informed the Mayor that the Board had collected from the County and adjoining townships for those county pupils who were attending the schools.

J. R. Corkery.

J. R. Corkery, chairman of the Separate School Board, was the next speaker. He congratulated the Mayor on arranging such a happy occasion, providing not only a chance to meet in fellowship but also a chance to learn more about the city's business. A lot of the criticism heard about the council was he said from men who knew nothing about its difficulties. Continuing, Mr. Corkery said:

THE RIGHT WAY TO BANISH FAT

Combat a cause which modern research has discovered. Turn food into fuel and energy, rather than into fat. Supply a natural element which your system lacks. That is the method embodied in Marmola prescription tablets.

People have used Marmola for 20 years—millions of boxes of it. They have told others the results. Now, in almost every circle, you can see the results in new beauty and new vim. Why not learn the way to attain them?

A book in each box of Marmola tells you the formula, also the reasons for results. You will know why the effects come, and why they are beneficial. Go ask your druggist—in fairness to yourself—for a $1 box of Marmola.

"Education is one of the foremost duties of the state. The money is being spent for a purpose which will show results in bringing up the future citizenship This country sustains a great loss in the emigration of many of those after money has been spent in bringing them up; our next duty should be in keep them here."

He concluded by assuring those present that his board spends no more than is necessary for the important work it is doing.

That there was no criticism about the schools, but that he thought the citizens should know where the money goes was the comment of Mayor Denne on these two addresses.

J. J. Turner.

That the mayor is head of a big family, looked to for guidance and action, was the comparison made by ex-Mayor J. J. Turner, after expressing regret that it was impossible for a voluble fellow like him to follow Ald. Lowe's example on his first appearance in council, "Stand up, speak up, and shut up." He drew from his long experience in municipal life for many illustrations of the trials and tribulations of a mayor or alderman.

The city is officered, he continued by as fine and loyal a body of public servants as there is to be found anywhere. The point he wanted to make was that the council could get nowhere without the co-operation of these men. There are also faithful, efficent men in the various boards and commissions Mr Turner followed these tributes with a statement differing from those usually heard about taxes when he declared:

"There is no money I pay more cheerfully than my payment to the city."

A chain is no stronger than its weakest link Mr. Turner continued, and the faithful service of the outside men, such as one he had seen on the way down, digging out the gutters so that there would be no embarrassment either to the city or the citizens, or the men who sand the streets, is a great part in the work of the city. These things make the city a happier and more comfortable place in which to live.

The Mayor had spoken about the cost of the Hunter street bridge. In Mr. Turner's' estimation the city had never spent money better than in building that bridge to keep faith with a firm worth many times more than the cost of the bridge to the city.

Similarly the money given the Canadian General by tax exemptions had returned to the city many times in increased values and prosperity.

weakened by colds or influenza, or if can't run without energy, and that the Mayor is the source of energy of the council, was another simile employed by Mr. Turner. Some people don't know the sacrifice involved in such positions, he continued. The job is as big as the Mayor makes it, he declared in conclusion.

Dr. W. T. Holloway.

Ex-Mayor Dr. W. T. Holloway was the next speaker. In congratulating the Mayor on his happy thought in arranging such an event, he stated his opinion that Peterborough is about the right size for everybody to get acquainted. He referred to the help given him last year and the year before by the then Ald. Denne and other members of the Council, when they had sat for many hours trying to do their best for the city.

When the Collegiate extension had first been proposed, when he was candidate for Mayor, he had expressed himself as of the opinion that the cost, nearly $500,000, was more than the city could handle at the time, but when the Board of Education had cut it down by about $150,000, there had not been a dissenting voice, and the matter had been passed without referance to the people.

He had nothing but good to say of his successor in the Mayoralty. One of Mayor Denne's outstanding words is co-operation, and he has demonstrated it by inviting the men there to talk over the city's business.

Peterborough is in a good position, Dr. Holloway continued. Two years ago he had gone with a deputation seeking unemployment relief from the Province. When he had heard the statements of the Mayors of Windsor and Ottawa, he had kept quiet because he was ashamed to ask for such a small amount. Even Belleville is visited by many more out of work men than Peterborough.

This led the speaker's thoughts around to the Police Station, where such visitors are lodged, and he advised that money be spent on cleaning it up. He also told the audience that Chief Newhall is not so harsh as he had been painted, as he had quarrelled with the Chief in trying to get him to be a little more stern with breakers of traffic laws, etc. He also reminded his hearers that the city is carrying its own risk in the matter of accidents, and urged that the citizens should be more thoughtful and not enter suits in the case of minor mishaps.

H. R. H. Kenner.

Principal H. R. H. Kenner, of the Peterborough Collegiate, was then called upon. He spoke of the increased attendance at secondary schools as one of the features of the age. When he came to Peterborough in 1893 there had been seven teachers and 200 pupils. Now there are two schools and about 900 pupils and 23 teachers in the Collegiate alone. The slogan for Peterborough is that there should be secondary education for every boy or girl, for those going in for teaching or the learned professions, for those entering business, or for those going into industrial life.

There should also be, he considered, separate curricula for girls and boys. Certain academical subjects should be included in both, but as statistics show that more than seventy per cent. of women over 21 have at some time or other charge of a home, they should get instruction in home economics, cooking, laundering, budgeting, etc. He hoped that this will be possible when the Collegiate extension is opened.

That the Board of Education would be well advised to spend thirty or thirty-five thousand dollars on fixing up the old South Centrau school to take some of the burden off the Central school was the opinion expressed by the Mayor before calling on Chairman Vincent Eastwood of the City Trust Commission.

RELIEF FROM STOMACH TROUBLE

Is stomach trouble making you miserable? Is constant indigestion, pain, gas, getting on your nerves? Is this condition affecting your whole system, preventing you from eating, sleeping, working properly? Many men and women have suffered just as you are suffering now and have found blessed relief in Tanlac.

For instance, take one of the best known builders and contractors in Ottawa, Mr. Felix Nadeau, 142 George Street. He writes, "Hardly a day passed in fifteen years that Stomach Trouble did not make me miserable. The pain in my stomach and back was so severe that at times I could not rise. But two years ago Tanlac put me right on my feet. It relieved the Stomach Trouble; and so built up my whole system that I gained sixteen pounds in weight."

This is the great thing about Tanlac—it builds and re-builds health and strength—makes you eat and sleep as normal, healthy people should—and helps you to enjoy life to the full. The cost is less than 25c a dose—and your money refunded if it does not give perfect satisfaction. Get a bottle at your druggist's today.

Vincent Eastwood.

Mr. Eastwood reviewed the history of the commission, which he said was established in 1861 in a time of financial difficulties. It is not, he said, a spending money, but it looks after the funds raised by the city for the payment of interest and sinking fund on debentures. It has proved its worth many times.

Peterborough is, through the careful financing of the City Trust, he explained, in a better position than most cities. The debt is $4,500,000 and the commission has on hand securities, etc., now amounting to $1,500,000 or nearly thirty-five cents on the dollar should immediate payment be required on these bonds. The commission has the responsibility of seeing that the money is properly invested, and puts as much as possible of its holdings into the citys' own debentures of those classes in which it is legal for it to invest. That it functions well is proven by the fact that the city's bonds sell much better than those of many other cities of its class and as well as those of much larger cities.

Joseph Wearing.

"The thing that impresses me most," began City Solicitor Joseph Wearing, the last speaker of the evening, "is that you couldn't find a body of men anywhere who sit down with a better knowledge of the business they have on hand or a greater desire to do the best possible for the city than the Peterborough Councils of recent years." He had, he said, a better opportunity than most to know that this is true. The people of Peterborough don't realize the calibre of the men they elect to the council or the amount of time they put into their work. Peterborough stands where it does because of the type of men willing to take office and do their best for the city.

The Mayor closed with an appeal to the ctiy employees to co-opertae even if their estimates are cut down, because it is not that the council doesn't want to do things but that it can's that they are thrown out. When Alderman Ackerman and ex-Mayor Turner moved a vote of thanks he declared that there should be no thanks as it was his duty to get the men together to talk over the city's business in an attempt to make 1928 a banner year.

The Guests.

There were present ex-Mayors W. H. Buller, A. A. McIntyre, W. A. Taylor, J. J. Turner and W. T. Holloway, Aldermen Phelan, Cotton, Stocker, Huffman, Hamilton, Macdonald, Ackerman, Greene and Lowe, E. Cement Plant at Lakefield Grows Rapidly

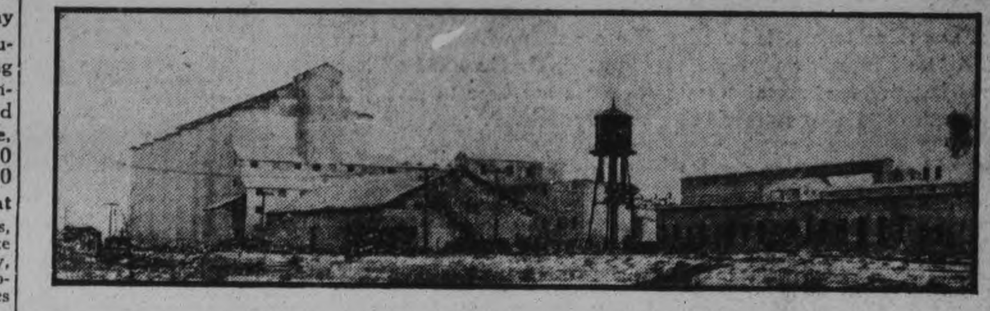
Has Increased Its Capacity To Ten Times the Production Of Quarter of a Century Ago

Under Management of E. W. Bailey, Plant Has Expanded Again and Again Until It Can Now Produce 4,000 Barrels of Cement a Day, Shipping 40 Carloads a Day In Summer.

INDUSTRY IS GROWING IN ITS IMPORTANCE WITH NEW BUILDING USES FOUND FOR CEMENT

Working the Year Round, Cement Will Be Stored In Huge Silos All Winter To Be Sacked and Shipped During the Favorable Season—Boom in Lakefield.

When the Lakefield Portland Cement Company constructed a cement plant in Lakefield in 1900, the sponsors of the plant probably had high hopes, but it is doubtful whether they could have imagined the growth of the plant to its present gigantic proportions. The cement plant at Lakefield is now one of the biggest in Canada, equipped with the most modern machinery and equipment, drawing power from 3 sources, and its daily shipment of cement during the summer months will provide traffic for many railway train loads.



The plant built by the Lakefield Portland Cement Company commenced to operate in January, 1901, and ran with varying capacity from then until December, 1909. During this period the plant was enlarged twice, starting with a capacity of 400 barrels a day, increasing to 1,000 barrels a day. The cement was at that time made under the wet process, drawing its marl from Buckley's Lake where there is still an unlimited supply, and its clay from the Company's property at Drummonds Station, nine miles below Peterborough.

The wet process was until a few years ago the standard for the production of cement. The primitive manufacture of lime was a very simple operation. The limestone was quarried by hand and stacked in cylindrical upright kilns where a fire of wood or coal was maintained until the rock was calcined. Then the fire was raked out and the burned lime drawn out through the fire chamber. As natural cement was a direct outgrowth of the lime industry, its manufacture was carried on in much the same way. A higher burning temperature was maintained and the fuel and the stone were usually mixed in the kiln, being put in in alternate layers. The principal difference in the process was due to the fact that the clinker in the kilns would not slake and had to be pulverized before it could be used. Millstones such as were used for grinding grain were used for this purpose and for many years all the cement made was ground in this way.

The making of Portland cement added further stages to the process. Instead of putting the rock from the quarry directly into the kiln in large pieces the two raw materials had to be thoroughly mixed in the proper proportions. In order to get a uniform and intimate mixture it was necessary to reduce the elements in the ordinary way and grind it with the proper quantity of clay, enough water being added during the grinding to form a batter, or as it is called in the industry, slurry. Since the kilns would operate only when loaded with large pieces, the wet mixture was run out into large basins and when solidified was broken into chunks of suitable sizes for the kiln. The clinker as it came from the kiln was broken up and sorted by hand, the thoroughly burned portions being passed on to the grinders while the under-burned parts were put aside to be put into the kiln again at the next fire.

The greatest advance in this stage of the industry was marked by the appearance of the rotary kiln in England between 1877 and 1885, but a description of the Lakefield Cement plant as it is to-day will show the wonderful strides that have been made in the industry since the design of the first rotary kiln.

Merger Effected.

In the Fall of 1909 the Lakefield Portland Cement Company plant at Lakefield with twelve other plants scattered throughout the Dominion merged into what is now known as the Canada Cement Company. This Company operated the Lakefield plant in the years 1911, 1912 and 1913, closing down in the latter part of December 1913. Since then the plant has not been in operation due to the war period and the lack of demand following the war, the market for Portland Cement being taken care of by the other larger mills of the Company.

At one time the Lakefield mill was doomed for destruction as it was not the Company's intention to operate any of its wet process mills, due to the fact that coal since the war has increased in price about three times over the pre-war cost and the fact that the output from the wet system is very much less per kiln than in the dry system. The wet process carries about forty to fifty per cent of moisture that must be taken care of by the generation of great heat using a tremendous amount of coal in the burning. Salvation came in 1920 when it was discovered that there is available close to the Lakefield plant a large deposit of limestone. The deposit was examined and preliminary tests made during the summer of 1920 with results so satisfactory that it was decided to diamond drill the rock to obtain reliable and definite tests. The result of these tests was so satisfactory to the Company that it was decided to change the mode of manufacture from the wet to the dry process by adapting the old mill for this change. The capacity decided on at that time was 1000 barrels a day.

In the fall of 1920 work was started to make the necessary changes, but before it had gone very far, the Company's officials had decided to increase the output from 1,000 to 2,000 barrels a day, which meant that more extensive changes were necessary to take care of the increase. About a year later when work was still in progress, the Company again decided to again increase the capacity, this time from 2,000 to 3,000 barrels a day, which meant the complete demolishing of the old plant and the erection of a whole new, efficient and up-to-date mill. Construction work has been carried on steadily during the past seven years. It was not forced at any time as the market was not ready for the output of the Lakefield mill, the other mills of the Company being quite capable of taking care of the demand, and the consumption not having yet reached the pre-war basis.

The added capacity called for more power than was available from the two power plants which the Company owned at Young's Point and Lock No. 24. This situation was met by the purchase of the power site formerly known as the Dixon Company Mill at Lakefield. Work was started on this power plant in June, 1926, and has been continued except for a period of four months during last winter. This power plant when completed will give an additional 2,500 to 3,000 h.p. Construction of the power plant and all buildings with the exception of the cement silos has been carried on by the Company without contracts under the supervision of J. A. Creasor, C.E., resident construction engineer of the Company and S. Barr, chief engineer of the Company, whose headquarters are in Montreal. The silos were erected by the Spencer Construction Company, and the McDonald Engineering Company of Chicago, specialists in this class of work. All the construction work has been ably superintended by E. W. Bailey, plant superintendent.

Finished Tests Made.

The first stone for the manufacture of cement was put through the crushers on October 3 and two kilns were started on November 7 for testing the product. Owing to lack of power the whole mill will not be in operation until the completion of the new power plant which will not be ready until the end of March. The materials have been put through all the processes and finished cement made which passes all Government specifications and is of specially high quality.

During the period of construction the Company has employed as many as 400 men on construction work. When the plant is in full operation it is expected that 150 men will be employed during the busy shipping season. As far as possible, preference has been given to Lakefield men during the whole period of construction.

It is interesting to note that the plant site covers twenty acres and that Concession road passes through the plant's property. The whole plant will be electrically operated, including all machinery, shovels and cranes.

A description of the materials available at Lakefield and all processes involved in making cement will enable the reader to better understand the magnitude of the business that will this summer blossom into full operation within a few miles of Peterborough.

The quarry is located due east from the plant about half a mile, where the Company owns 200 acres of which the quarry takes up 80 acres. The quarry has an elevation over the ground level of about fifty feet, and is a stratified formation with layers of rock from two inches up, between which there are layers of shale which has a much lower lime content. This shale replaces the clay which was formerly used in the wet system. This unusual formation makes what is known as natural mix so that it is not necessary to add any other material, and the rock and shale taken from the quarry only require to be properly blended to produce a very high grade of cement.

Obtaining the Rock.

The rock is obtained by drilling with a well drill and a 6-inch hole from the top to the required depth. After dynamiting the rock is loaded by electric shovels for transportation to the crushers over the Company's own railway, hauled by electric locomotives with special cars of 10 yards capacity each. The plant in full operation requires from 1,000 to 1,200 tons of rock a day.

The rock, as delivered by the car to the crushers comes in very large pieces and is dumped into the Allis Chalmers, 36 x 60 roll crusher, then passed through a second crusher which is a Pennsylvania swing-hammer mill which reduces the stone to one-half inch size. After passing the crushers it is conveyed by belt up an incline to the storage bins for drying.

Drying and Crushing.

The stone is fed by mechanical feeders through four Bonnott dryers six feet in diameter and fifty feet long, the heat being supplied by pulverized coal. The material after being properly dried passes over to the dry rock storage bins which have a capacity of 10,000 tons. From the storage bins the material is fed into Krupp ball mills which pulverize the stone to a fineness of 42 mesh on a 100 screen. After passing the ball mills the material is conveyed again to the sample bin storage, consisting of eight bins having a combined capacity of 5,000 tons. While the pulverized material is passing over to storage, samples are taken to determine the analysis and it is from these samples that the chemist takes the right proportions to obtain the proper lime content that will make cement. The proportions are determined by the chemist, who measures them by what is known as the Volumetric system. After the material is properly proportioned, it is conveyed to bins over the tube mills of which there are now installed 6 Bonnott mills, five feet six inches in diameter and twenty-two feet long. The material on leaving the tube mills passes by way of a bridge across Concession road to the kilns for burning.

Burning and Clinker.

Here there are installed 6 Bonnott kilns, 7 feet in diameter and 100 feet long and 3 Vulcan kilns, 7 feet 6 inches in diameter by 100 feet long, which are all lined with 8-inch fire brick. The material is fed in at the feed end by automatic feeders to the kiln which is heated to a temperature of 2700 degrees Fahrenheit by pulverized coal. The material on leaving the kiln is known as cement clinker and is elevated and conveyed through clinker coolers to clinker storage, passing over a McCaslin conveyer to an automatic Merrick weighing machine which records the amount of barrels produced.

Grinding Clinker to Cement.

There are installed in the clinker grinding department, five No. 66 Kominuters which reduce the clinker to a fineness of 20 mesh for the finished grinding. These mills are lined with heavy steel plates and loaded with 6,600 pounds of steel balls, ranging from 2 inches to 5 inches in diameter, and are operated by 75 h.p. motors. The material after passing the Kominuters is conveyed to bins over the six No. 18 Smidth tube mills which are 6 feet 6 inches in diameter and twenty feet long. These mills are lined with hard iron blocks, 2 inches thick and carry a load of 20 tons of 1¼-inch hard iron balls. It is in these mills that the clinker receives final grinding to cement. It must be ground to a fineness of 97% on a 100 mesh screen. The finished material on leaving the tube mills is conveyed and elevated to cement silos of which there are 16 round cement bins measuring 38 ft. inside diameter and 75 ft. high, and 6 square bins 16 feet 6 inches square and 75 feet high. The total storage capacity of these bins is 500,000 barrels. One half of the storage was built in 1926 by the Spencer Construction Company of Chicago, and the other half, a duplicate storage, was built in 1927 by the McDonald Engineering Company which has since merged with the Spencer Construction Company. The silos proper were erected in record time of twelve days from the foundation to the top of the bin walls, the work going on continuously night and day, with moving forms specially adapted for this class of building. This is one of the finest pieces of concrete work erected in this section of the country.

Power and Lighting.

Practically all the motors installed, from 75 h.p. to 285 h.p. units are manufactured by the Lancashire Dynamo and Motor Company and are equipped with ball bearings. The tube mills in the raw material department and clinker grinding department of which there are twelve, are all driven by 285 h.p. motors at 2,200 volts and are controlled by Ellison switches and starters, manufactured by the Ellison Company of Manchester, England. These large tube mills are connected by Falk speed reducers between the motor and the driving shaft to reduce the speed to suit the mill. This is a new departure in cement practice, doing away with the need for driving belt. Not only are the tube mills driven through speed reducers to obviate the use of belts, but all screw conveyors and elevators are direct connected through speed reducing units in the same way, ranging in size from 15 h.p. to 35 h.p.

There are installed throughout the plant about sixty-five motors of various sizes, all below 75 h.p., operating on 550 volts and 75 h.p. and over on 2,200 volts. Lead covered steel armoured cable laid underground supplies the power to the various departments at 2,200 volts. All power and lighting circuits are run in conduit so that there is no open wiring of any kind seen throughout the entire plant. In fact the Lakefield plant is in every respect the last word in electrical installation.

Power Plants.

The Company will have three power plants for power supply to the Lakefield plant. One is located at Young's Point, generating 500 h.p. at 550 volts, stepping up to 11,100 volts for transmission. This was installed by the Canadian General Electric Company for the Lakefield Portland Cement Company in 1900 and is driven by four 68-inch vertical type Lefell water wheels installed by the William Hamilton Company. The power rights at this plant are all owned by the Company.

At Lock 24 there is installed a 1,000 Kilowatt, 11,100 volt, 3 phase generator which delivers its power to the plant over a private pole line and private right of way. The power rights here are leased from the Government. The generator is driven by four 68-inch Lefell turbines installed by the William Hamilton Company in 1904.

At the new power plant now in course of construction at Lakefield on the site of the old Dixon Mill will be installed a 2,500 kilowatt, 2,200 volt vertical type generator supplied by the Swedish and General Electric Company, Sweden, driven by a Nagler propellor type wheel, manufactured by the Allis Chalmers Manufacturing Company, Milwaukee.

The new power plant will also act as a sub station for delivery of power over seven circuits to the various departments of the plant at 2,200 volts.

The power plant was designed and under the supervision of Kerry Chase Limited, consulting engineers, Toronto, acting for the Canada Cement Co. The electrical installation for the plant has been made by the Company's own staff under the Company's electrical engineer, W. G. H. Cam, Montreal, and E. S. Kelsey, resident chief plant electrician and his assistant, F. A. Cramp. The rights at the new power site are owned outright by the Company. The feeders from the power plant to the works are carried on Bates steel poles and cross arms set in concrete.

Efficient Staff.

The Company has a very efficient staff at Lakefield, working under direction of Mr. Bailey who has been connected with the Lakefield plant since he started with the Lakefield Portland Cement Company, 27 years ago. He was born in England. H. R. Wagar is chief clerk, George Woodhouse, timekeeper, S. Grylls, storekeeper, and all the machinery throughout the plant has been installed under the able direction of R. G. Mulkins, master mechanic. The Company has built an up-to-date chemical laboratory in charge of N. S. Osborne, chief chemist and his assistant, T. G. Greutezner. In this laborain the course of manufacture and it is here that the finished cement is tested according to the very high standard set by the Canada Cement Company.

Many Conveniences.

At the south end of the plant the Company has erected a large building, 230 feet by 42 feet in which will be housed the stores department for storage of spare parts for the entire plant, a large machine shop, blacksmith and sheet metal shop, carpenter shop and electrical repair department. There are also provided wash rooms, shower baths and locker rooms for the convenience of the employees. A unique feature of the plant is the water supply, Lakefield village not yet having a municipal water system.

There is a first-aid room provided for emergencies and minor injuries and this is in charge of the safety-first engineer, J. Hill. The whole of this building is steam heated and presents a very fine appearance. The conveniences are much appreciated by the employees.

Packing and Shipping.

When the cement has gone through all its many manufacturing processes and is completed and stored in the silos, one of the most interesting details has still to come before the product is loaded on the railway cars. From the silos the cement is conveyed by screw conveyors and elevated to tanks over four Bates automatic packing machines which fill the bags and weigh the contents in the same operation. In this operation the bags are placed on the spouts (of which there are three on each machine) and the cement is blown into the sack, automatically stopping when the required weight has been filled into the bag. The bag is then pulled off the spout, dropping to a conveying belt which takes it to the car door where it is piled on a truck and stacked on the car. The average car holds 190 barrels of cement and takes about thirty minutes to load, four being loaded at the same time.

Big Possibilities.

Having reviewed the history of the Lakefield plant and compared the marvellous prospects of to-day with those of early years of the cement industry, it is interesting to speculate on what the future holds for this plant.

The capacity of 400 barrels a day in 1900 has been increased to a capacity of 4,000 barrels a day when the plant is completed and running to full capacity. It will in winter store cement in the silos for shipment during the summer, and during the shipping season from 40 to 50 railroad carloads of cement will leave Lakefield every day, a total of about 8,000 barrels a day.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S BARREL OF FUN.

(Copyright, 1927, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"What do you think of this, Uncle Wiggily?" asked the Grocery Cat as the rabbit gentleman hopped into the store one cold afternoon. "Take a look at it."

The Grocery Cat rolled from behind the counter a small barrel, not as large as some you may have seen with flour in, nor yet so small as some that stand in candy store windows with five cents' worth of gumdrops inside. It was a sort of rabbit-sized cask.

"What is it?" asked Uncle Wiggily, sniffing with his pink, twinkling nose, for sometimes the Grocery Cat played tricks. "Is there talcum powder in that barrel and will it blow up?"

"Oh, my goodness, no!" mewed the Grocery Cat. "That's a Barrel of Fun!" and he turned it around so the rabbit could see, printed on one side in jolly, red letters:

BARREL OF FUN.

"What does it mean?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "I don't see much fun about a barrel like that."

"The fun is inside," chuckled the Grocery Cat. "Look!" He took the cover off the barrel and showed Uncle Wiggily that it was filled with sweet crackers, cookies, cakes, lollypops, gum drops and all manner of good things to eat.

BARREL OF FUN
8-19

"That's a Barrel of Fun! mewed the Grocery Cat.

"What do you do with these Barrels of Fun?" asked Uncle Wiggily, for he saw several more of them back of the counter.

"I sell 'em," anwered the Grocery Cat. "Folks like you buy 'em and take 'em home to the children. You give the children cakes, candy, crackers and peanut butter sandwiches out of the barrel and you get a barrel of fun that way, seeing the children made so happy."

"It's a good idea!" said Mr. Longears. "I'd like to take one of those fun barrels home to my forty-'leven little bunnies—forty-twelve there are, counting Baby Bunty. I would take home a Barrel of Fun, but I can't carry it."

"Roll it!" mewed the Grocery Cat. "Or slide it along. There's snow on the ground and it's slippery. You'll get a barrel of fun just sliding it home and when you see how happy the children will be you'll never be sorry you bought this."

"I'll take one," said Uncle Wiggily. So the Grocery Cat rolled another Barrel of Fun out from behind the counter. Uncle Wiggily paid forty-sixteen cents for it and began rolling it home along the snow-covered path.

The rabbit gentleman had not gone far before he saw some of his little bunny boys and girls playing with Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow.

"Oh, Daddicums, what you got?" cried Tooter Longears.

"This," said Uncle Wiggily, "is a Barrel of Fun," and opening it he took out some lollypops and gum drops and tossed them to the animal boys and girls.

"Oh, goodie!" they cried, and when Mr. Longears saw how happy they were he was glad he had bought the Barrel of Fun.

So he hopped along a little farther and he saw some more of his forty-'leven little bunny children playing with Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the squirrels.

"Oh, Daddicums! What have you there?" asked Jingle Longears.

"This, my dear," answered her father, "is a Barrel of Fun," and he gave all the children some sweet crackers and cookies and peanut butter sandwiches.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the jolly youngsters, and Uncle Wiggily, as he hopped on, chuckled and said to himself:

"I've had more than a barrel of fun out of this already."

So he went on a little farther and he came to where some more of his bunny children were playing with Toodle and Noodle Fat Tail, the beaver boys. And to them, also, Mr. Longears gave candy and cakes until at last the barrel was empty.

"But I'll earn money to buy another," said Uncle Wiggily as he rolled the empty barrel toward home, for he wanted to show it to his wife. And just as Mr. Longears reached the top of a hill, at the bottom of which was his hollow stump bungalow, all of a sudden the Fuzzy Fox leaped out of the bushes and tried to catch the rabbit.

"No, you don't!" cried Mr. Longears. Into the empty barrel he leaped and inside he rolled safely, head over heels, down the hill, and so he got away from the Fox.

"My goodness! What's this?" cried Mrs. Longears as she heard a bumping noise at the front steps.

"This," chuckled her husband as he popped out, "is a Barrel of Fun! It was jolly fun to fool the fox and feed the children candy." The next day he bought another barrel for his wife and Nurse Jane. And if the lace curtain doesn't laugh at the swiss cheese for not having more holes, I'll tell you soon about Uncle Wiggily's icicle party.

The above diagram shows the approximate location of five refuse dumps in the Hollinger mine, information regarding which has been placed in the hands of coroner's jury investigating last week's disaster. Workmen are removing tons of sawdust, paper, charred beams, casings and other inflammable material from the underground stope. Mine officials kept a close watch on the removal process preventing pictures or samples being taken.

VARIED PROGRAM GIVEN AT RECITAL

Pupils of G. F. Liddle Assisted By Gladstone Brown and Stanley Northrop.

(By Jeanette).

There was a large attendance at the interesting recital given in George Street United Church last evening by the artist pupils of G. F. Liddle assisted by Gladstone Brown of Toronto, tenor and Stanley Northrop, violinist, pupil of Miss Edwina Palmer. The proceeds of the recital were donated toward the Sunday School Building Fund.

The vocal numbers were given by Mr. Brown and artist pupils of Mr. Liddle, Miss Helen Lyons of Lindsay and Douglas Carlisle of Peterborough. Miss Dorothy Hinds of Toronto, who is organist and choir director of St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church, Toronto, and who was a pupil of Mr. Liddle in Midland, played pianoforte numbers, and Stanley Northrop gave violin selections, with accompaniments played by Harry Northrop, his brother. Mr. Liddle played accompaniments for the vocal numbers. Mrs. L. Ingram, another pupil of Mr. Liddle, was prevented by illness from appearing.

Mr. Carlisle and Stanley Northrop were the favorites of the evening, judging by the applause vouchsafed their numbers. Mr. Carlisle, whose very fine baritone voice, with a range that includes some beautiful high tones and a very deep bass, is always a delight to listen to, was at his best in a beautiful interpretation of Tennyson's poem, "Crossing the Bar," that formed the encore to his final group of songs. He sang also the lovely "Italian Boat Song," "Caro Mio Ben" (in English), the "Romance" from "Tannhauser," and a recitative and aria from Judas Maccabeus; "I Feel the Deity Within" and "Arm, Arm, Ye Brave," in which the deep resonance of his powerful voice was heard to much advantage.

Stanley Northrop, the youthful violinist, whose earnest attention to technical proficiency, pleasing tone and fine memorizing powers, give promise of a very successful future for this young musician, played Vivaldi's "Concerto in G Minor," and Tenhave's "Allegro Brilliante," with an encore in a charming Waltz.

Applause followed each effort of the visiting soloists. Miss Helen Lyons showed an extraordinary facility in handling difficult and exacting vocalizations with ease and ability. Her voice is a splendidly-trained, bright soprano of dramatic quality, demonstrating musicianship of a very thorough type. She sang the aria, "With Verdure Clad" from Haydn's "Creation," a trio composed of three pretty numbers; "A Regret," "In My Little Garden" and "Indian River Song"; the Cavatina, "Noble Seigneurs", by Meyersburg, the soprano aria, in French, "Il es doux, il est bon," from Massenet's "Herodiade," and a trio of numbers that exhibited strongly the very fine, delicate pianissimo quality of the half voice used in "Songs My Mother Taught Me," and the capricious dainty bits, "Someone' 'and "We Shall See," followed by applause that brought a pretty encore. Possibly the most effective solo by Miss Lyons was the familiar and lovely selection, "By the Waters of Minnetonka," with violin obligato played by Stanley Northrop.

The paino playing of Miss Dorothy Hinds was exceptionally brilliant. The Chopin numbers were rendered with forceful tone and expressive effect that brought out all the temperamental handling of varied music demonstrated in the compositions of the great Pole. His "Third Ballade" with its difficult broken octaves and smashing chords, was a showy and vivid selection. Other attractive numbers were Liszt's "Liebestraum," Leschetisky's "Two Larks," Chopin's Etude, Opus 10, No. 12, and two compositions by Wachs in contrasting style to the former melodies. These were swift, light, trilly things, like a staccato conversation, with a merry atmosphere. They were "Capricante" and its encore, "Pervenche." The pianist's entire program was given entirely from memory.

Last, but certainly not least was Gladstone Brown, of Toronto, possessor of a very fine, expressive tenor voice, with a wide range and much power and sweetness. Mr. Brown sang a group of old English songs, "Passing By," "To a Miniature" and "Go Down" a (chanty of the water-ways), the recitative and aria, "My Ams" and "Sound an Alarm," and a final interesting group, in a lovely song by Cadman, "I Hear a Thrush at Eve," a little song called "I Wonder Why" and a forceful number in "The Fighting Chance." An encore rendered in splendid, expressive voice was "Mother o' Mine."

MISS WARREN HERE ON FRIDAY

Distinguished British Artist To Lecture On Scottish Scenes.

AT ST. JOHN'S HALL.

Miss E. M. B. Warren, A.R.B.A., B.W.S., the distinguished British artist, is to visit the Women's Canadian Club on Friday evening, February 24. Miss Warren held the rapt attention of a crowded audience throughout her lecture to the Women's Canadian Club last year on "Old London—Its Beauties and Interests," illustratetd by rarely beautiful slides made from her own water color paintings. The announcement of her return will be received with genuine pleasure, for many requests came in for an effort to be made to secure a return visit. Miss Warren now spends six months of each year in Canada, the other six in England and other portions of Europe. Spain claimed her attention this year, and in the course of her rambles there, many more beautiful paintings will have evolved from her clever brush, for Miss Warren has a keen and observant eye for the beauties of nature.

Miss Warren is an Englishwoman, born in London, and as a young girl, on the advice of the great John Ruskin, took up the study of art. So interested was Ruskin in her undoubted talent, that though old in years, he took her for a personal pupil, an interest and friendship which lasted to his death. One of Miss Warren's lectures is devoted to "John Ruskin—His Life, Work, Home and Haunts," illustrated not only by slides, but my many original, unpublished letters and drawings by the great critic and writer.

The fact that Miss Warren was asked by the president of the Royal Academy and the Art Committee to paint a picture for the interior of the wonderful Doll's House presented to Queen Mary, and exhibited at the Wembley Exhibition shows the high esteem in which the art of Miss Warren is held in her Motherland. In complying with this request, Miss Warren took as her subject, "The Tomb of the Unknown Warrior," painting it on one inch and a quarter of ivory.

The Women's Canadian Club has chosen from Miss Warren's list of lectures the one entitled, "Through the Land of the Heather,' an illustrated ramble from Edinburgh to Glasgow, the Scottish lakes, the Caledonian Canal, etc. This lecture is on Friday evening at eight o'clock, in the fine hall of St. John's Church. Those desiring to attend are advised to be there in good time, remembering the difficulty in securing seats on Miss Warren's last visit to the club.

Legion Notes

The Canadian Legion Hall was crowded last night with Legionnaires, ex-service men and their friends on the occasion of the regular monthly concert and dance, and those present certainly showed their appreciation of the many artists who took part, by their vociferous calls for "some more."

The program arranged was composed of the best of local talent, and the pleasing rendition by each artist was of a high order. The president of the Legion, Captain J. Abraham, presided, and to the strains of the National Anthem, the audience rose en masse, after which Maurice Park gave a splendid solo, such as he always does, to be repeatedly called for a further number.

After this encore J. John gave a humorous monologue, which created much laughter. Again the artist had to acknowledge the repeated calls of the audience for another feature, which was promptly given and thoroughly enjoyed.

Tom Stazicker, another veteran, with his pleasing baritone songs, was much in evidence, and he too excited enthusiasm by the masterful way in which he displayed his vocal powers.

The redoubtable F. Clarke, with his banjo solo, gave a splendid exposition of his ability upon this instrument and came in for a full share of applause.

Teddy Markham, Peterboro's comedian, was the next number and his antics and mimicry created roars of laughter. Time after time he was called, and responded in his usual cheery manner.

Miss Hetherington gave a splendid piano recital, which was appreciated by those present, followed by Master A. Clarke, whose manipulation of the ivories indicated a future for him as a pianist.

Arnold Everett the chairman of the Legion Concert Committee also gave two splendid solos. His talents are well known to the citizens of Peterborough and were, as usual, of the highest order.

This concluded the concert program and the president then announced, with deep regret the death of Comrade Harry Payne whose death had taken place at Nicholls Hospital during the afternoon.

The remainder of the evening was spent in old time dancing, Messrs. Freeman and Clarke supplying the music, with T. Ryan as floor manager. Dancing continued until midnight when the strains of the National Anthem brought to a close on of the most enjoyable evenings yet spent by the veterans and their lady friends.

The President and Committee state a further concert and dance will be held on Monday, March 19th.

The President and members of the Concert Committee desire to express their thanks to all the artists who took part to Messrs. Freeman and Clarke and to Miss Hetherington who played the accompaniments and to all who in any way contributed to the success of the evening.

CLUB ADOPTS CONSTITUTION

Young Conservatives of Riding Hold Regular Meeting.

The Macdonald-Cartier Club composed of the young Conservatives of the riding of West Peterborough, held its meeting in the Downeyflake Tea Rooms last evening, with a good attendance of members and friends. In the absence of the President, Bernard Park, the chair was occupied by Mrs. H. Fallis, President of the Women's Conservative Club.

The club adopted the constitution which is being used by the Young Conservative Association of Canada and will hold some interesting debates in the near future.

V. J. McElderry gave a very interesting talk on the responsibility of the young people to their country.

The business part was followed by a social evening of cards and dancing.

Around the City

The fire brigade had a busy day on Monday, due, partly, to the high winds. At 11.11 a.m., it was called to 661 Armour Road to attend overheated pipes. Twenty five minutes later it travelled to 131 Rubidge St. for the same reason; and at 4.50 p.m., a chimney fire broke out at the lockmaster's home, near the lift lock. It was extinguished by chemicals as was a chimney fire at 561 Gilmour street, to which the brigade was summoned at 7.47 last night.

PETERBOROUGH MEN ON BOARD

ter. This year it had succeeded in keeping open about 1,400 miles. The present was the first year in which they had been able to contract this class of work. By a new scheme they had let contracts for clearing 600 miles of snow. Each contractor had fifty miles to keep clear. So far the task had been very easy. However, the other day he was looking at some pictures taken on April 17, 1923. One of those was of his own car stalled in a drift which reached to the roof, so that there was still plenty of time for heavy snow falls.

He believed that the tourist traffic would increase during the present year by twenty or twenty-five per cent. The Peace bridge and the Windsor bridge would lead to increased numbers of entries, and the tunnel between the two countries and another bridge under consideration at Sarnia were factors that would mean more cars.

Major W. S. Gilbraith.

Major W. S. Gilbraith, vice-president of the Detroit Automobile Club, and a familiar visitor at Ontario Motor League conventions, in addition to bringing the greetings of Michigan motorists, gave a thrilling description of his recent trying experience when he was held up and kidnapped by three bandits. Major Gilbraith's descriptions of his thoughts and reactions throughout his terrible ordeal were listened to with rapt attention.

W. G. Robertson, secretary of the Ontario Motor League, gave a brief address, explaining its aims and objects.

The annual subsription, said Mr. Robertson, amounts to five dollars, one of which is retained by the local club to cover the expenses involved

Preceding the open discussion, which centred chiefly around Emergency Road Service, Legal Defence, Highway Accident Prevention and proposed legislation, T. N. Phelan, K. C., explained some of the points at issue.

The Motor League, said Mr. Phelan, came into existence through consideration of economy, the motorist being in the great minority as compared with the total population. Group service was the ideal originally aimed at. But good roads were now secured, motor legislation had been stabilized, and the thought was that the future of the League lay in service to the individual. This was the idea behind the Emergency Road Service. Nowhere else did he know where equal value could be secured for five dollars. The only intention was to give good service. At the present time, their legal aid service was confined to cases in the county courts not involving more than $500. They could not undertake to prosecute the cases of members in all damage claims, for in that case they might find themselves fighting on behalf of one member against another member. Answering questions from members, Mr. Phelan explained that a magistrate convicting a man of driving forty miles an hour on the open road was not entitled to endorse the motorist's card as driving in a reckless manner. He also stated that state or province leagues having legal defence aids had reciprocal arrangements with the O.M.L. No traffic officer, he said, had any right to take the license card of any motorist charged with exceeding the speed limit. The officer, it was explained, can ask to see the license card, but has no right to retain it.

J. P. Bickell, registrar of motor licenses and secretary of the Highway Safety Committee, said that of all the organizations connected with the safety campaign of last year, none was more entitled to credit than the Ontario Motor League. In the latter part of September the Minister of Highways named a committee to consider ways and means of lessening the number of street and highway accidents. Careful study was made of the methods adopted to attain the same ends in the various States of the Union to the south.

It was the conclusion of the committee, he said, that most highway accidents were preventable and their number could be lessened by a campaign of education and urging common-sense methods of driving. Level crossing accidents, those arising from cutting in, from the presence of the thoughtless pedestrian, from children playing on the street, glaring headlights and the lack of effective brakes were held to account for the average accident. Lack of care, courtesy, or common-sense were the three main heads under which the causes of accidents were classed. The newspapers, service clubs and local automobile clubs co-operated and radio talks were broadcast, dealing with the proper uses of the roads of the province, messages were further broadcast by automobile club officials in strategic points. Motion pictures were used to reinforce the printed and spoken words. Garage owners throughout the province were instructed in the proper methods of testing headlights. The total advertising messages in papers were 17,419,010 in 97 publications, and 500,000 windshield stickers were issued to motorists. Among the signboards used, seventy-nine were illuminated. On the whole the campaign was successful, according to reports from police, motorists and other observers. The glaring headlight has become much less a menace. He was glad to say that the committee would not disband, but it was hoped that it would function during the present year, and the co-operation of the Ontario Motor League was confidently bespoken once more.

In answering questions, he said the headlight was entirely an owner's problem. It was up to the individual to see that his headlight was in conformity with the legal requirements.

Open discussion among the members revealed an opinion that one of the most disquieting features of motor traffic is the practice of driving with one light or without a tail-light. The carrying of an extra bulb was suggested as a way out of this difficulty.

Discussing legislation, Mr. Phelan stated the position of the League. On principle the League favored the gasoline tax but considered the license fee should be correspondingly reduced. The O.M.L. was against compulsory insurance of motor cars. The League believed that there ought to be a central bureau for the registration of motor cars. Opposition to this came from the Association of County Court Clerks, who feared to lose the small fee that accrued to them for the registration of a chattel. Due to opposition, a bill dealing with the question was shelved.

Explaining the opposition to compulsory issuing of certificates of title to a car, he said the real object of a document of title was to prevent the taking out of the province of stolen cars. The method had been tried in Michigan, but it had not been found to work so effectively as was thought. A thief would not hesitate to forge a document of title to a car that he had stolen.

Criticizing the present state of the law in one respect, Mr. Phelan thought it unjust that the onus of proof that he was not to blame was placed on the owner. Once a motorist went before the jury, he was pretty much in the position of a man found with stolen goods. He did not see why the ordinary requirement of the law that a person coming before the court with an assertion should be asked to prove it, should not apply to the motorist. The motor car was no longer the exclusive plaything of the rich.

Mr. Phelan also came out flat-footed against compulsory insurance. One advantage, which he admitted that the scheme possessed, its only advantage in his opinion, was that it did provide some measure of redress for the man struck by an impecunious driver.

The disadvantage of compulsory motor insurance was in its cost. It had been found by the League that the cost of insurance of cars was too high. The reason was that the insurance companies were accepting all applications, paying no consideration to the question as to whether the man had a bad record for accidents or using it for illegal purposes. The pressure of the League led to the introduction of written applications. If all cars were insured compulsorily, this compulsory insurance would only be a step to state insurance. This was well illustrated to workmen's compensation. He did not think state insurance for workmen's accidents had proved economical for employers, nor was it always satisfactory to the workman. Mr. Phelan thought some method could be devised by which a small tax could be collected from each motorist, to aid in meeting such claims.

C. H. Collins, of Toronto, instanced a case on the Lindsay highway, where he was struck by one of two men racing on the roadway. He was so far on the extreme side that two of his wheels were in the ditch; nevertheless he was struck and his car was damaged to such an extent that the repairs cost seventy-two dollars. The man who struck him had no money, and he was unable to collect damages. Cases like this, he said, convinced him of the need for compulsory insurance.

Some discussion was aroused when the following motion was brought forward: "That central registration of liens and mortgages be adopted and no titles."

Mr. Phelan pointed out that the present system left the buyer of a second-hand car exposed to the risk of losing his car to the claim of a holder of a mortgage. Under present circumstances, a buyer would have to write to each of the fifty county clerks of the province to find out if a mortgage was duly registered against the car. The resolution suggested that one central bureau be established, which would help to lessen the difficulties confronting prospective buyers. This was carried.

On the motion of Charles Collins, of Toronto, the meeting also adopted Mr. Phelan's recommendations regarding the onus of proof of freedom of the motorist from negligence in cases of accident. This recommendation will be forwarded to the Department of Highways.

C. L. Burton

C. L. Burton, in his introductory remarks at the banquet, contrasted conditions today with those of 1907, when the League came into being. Twenty-one years ago, he said, there were but 550 motor vehicles in the province. Today there are no less than 441,000. The motor car has become a great factor in transportation and annually carries more passengers that do the railways. In these developments the O.M.L. had played an important part.

In every case of prosecution where a member considered he had been unfairly charged, and he had yet to meet the man who considered he was fairly charged (laughter), the League took up the case and in increasing numbers had been successful in securing reversals of decisions. During the past year, all records for the gaining of new members had been eclipsed. More than 100,000 road signs had been erected by the O.M.L. in roaways of the province. One of the new departures of the the League had been in connection with aviation. He believed this would be the nucleus of an important feature Canada had been backward with regard to aviation. The United States had 32000 miles of air routes; Germany had more than 12,000 miles mapped out; in Great Britain immense progress had been made in aviation; and Canada had a big leeway to make up in order to equal the progress made by the other great countries.

Dealing with tourist traffic Mr. Burton said three million cars entered Canada last year fully half of this total passing into Ontario.

The League had co-operated with the Department of Highways and other institutions in the northern crusade at the opening of the Ferguson Highway in North Ontario. He wanted to pay tribute to the work of the Hon. G. S. Henry, Minister of Highways. The province now possessed a network of highways equal to any in the continent.

The motorists of the province greatly appreciated this work of the Department. The decision of the goverpement to leave the gasoline tax unchanged for the present year, said Mr. Burton was warmly welcomed by the League.

Compulsory Insurance.

The League has been following closely experiments in different forms of compulsory insurance being made in the United States. Up to the present, results have been insufficient to warrant the making of final deductions.

Traffic Control.

Problems of traffic control in Toronto and other large cities have been studied intensively by the League, and representations have been made to civic authorities. In Toronto the League has co-operated with other organizations in a Joint Traffic Committee.

Central Registration of Liens.

The League has opposed the issuance of certificates of title on a compulsory basis, on the ground that the advantage of such a scheme would

COUNCIL MEETS.

Rawdon Council Shows Assets of $10,843.82—Discusses Routine Business.

BONARLAW, Feb. 21.—The Rawdon Council met on February 6, with all members present. The auditors, Messrs. McGee and Heath, gave a report, showing assets of $10,843.82. Stuart Brady applied for a loan of $700 for tilling land, and the clerk will make application to the Government for this. F. C. Snarr applied to have a side road repaired between the Seventh and Eighth Concessions, which the Council agreed to consider. The following accounts were rendered and ordered to be paid: William Andrews, com. statute labor, $450; L. and R. W. Meiklejohn, account, $20.76; W. McMullen, $15.54; Albert Brownson, $35.10; James Stapley, $7.80; Nelson Prest, $8.80.

The Council adjourned during the funeral of Mrs. Armstrong.

ELEVEN BOILS ON HER ARM AT ONE TIME

Mrs. S. Petuh, Fisher Home, Alta., writes:—"I was troubled with boils and had eleven of them on my arm at one time.

"I tried all kinds of medicine, but got no relief.

"I took two bottles of

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

and have never been troubled since."

CAVAN INSTITUTE MEETS

Mrs. D. J. Hunter Entertains Women's Institute at February Meeting.

CAVAN, Feb. 21. — The February meeting of Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. D. J. Hunter, with a good attendance. The program was in charge of Mrs. A. Kennedy and Mrs. F. M. Staples. Slips had been distributed at the January meeting on which the ladies were requested to write "Features I appreciate in the Institute" and "Suggested improvements in the Institute for 1928." These were read by Mrs. Matchett and Mrs. Staples, which proved very interesting and contained many good suggestions. Mrs. R. Howden gave an interesting reading describing a husband's experience in accompanying his wife on a shopping expedition on Bargain Day. A reading was also given by Mrs. J. Armstrong entitled "Thinking of Others as we journey along life's pathway." Miss E. Hunter gave two solos in a pleasing manner.

Mrs. C. Carr reported that she and Mrs. Lloyd Sutton had visited a family in need and had bought the necessary requirements. Plans were made for a play to be given soon. Mrs. R. Matchett read a letter from Miss E. M. Fisk, a teacher in Haliburton, acknowledging a bale that had been sent from the Institute containing clothing for school children.

A group of ladies presented a quilt which they had made and intend to sell in the near future. Plans were made for a social evening. The social committee, including Mrs. R. Matchett, Mrs. P. Perrin, Mrs. H. Tinney and Mrs. D. J. Hunter served lunch.

Hastings

HASTINGS, Feb. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. William Londerville spent a few days last week in Oshawa on business. They intend moving to Oshawa, where they will operate a large boarding house. They have had considerable experience in this line, as they have accommodated a number of tourists for the past few years. Mr. Reg. Warner has leased their property here.

Mr. H. Gill of Peterborough was a business visitor in town recently.

Mr. Walter Fowlds, who has been ill, is improving slightly.

Mr. George West of Campbellford spent Thursday in town.

Rev. A. C. Hie recently attended the conference held in Toronto of the Religious Educational leaders of United Church of the Bay of Quinte, Montreal, Toronto and Hamilton. Extensive plans were inaugurated which will have a far reaching effect in the Sunday Schools and Young People's Societies of the United Church of Canada. The next meeting of this group will continue three days in Toronto about the middle of April.

Mrs. Willliam Warner is seriously ill.

Ennismore

ENNISMORE, Feb. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. G. Harris and son, Jack, of Peterborough, visited Mrs. Harris' parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Davis.

Mr. W. Kearns left recently for the lumbering camp at Coehill.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Twomey, of Downeyville, were recent visitors with Mrs. Twomey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Scollard.

Miss Zetta Davis of Peterborough visited her home here recently.

Miss Maria Pluard has been visiting friends in Buckhorn.

Mr. Gerrard Scollard spent a few days recently at his home here.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

MISSIONARY PLAY

and Miss Mary Smith (Elsie Spence) were visited by Susan (Jean Stinson), a pupil who asks permission to bring her little sister, who has been sick, to the Christmas tree that year. The missionary teachers promise there will be a tree though they are in deep trouble because the girl at home failed to send the promised bundle of toys, etc. They decide they must hunt up what is in their boxes and what can be donated by other workers, and just do the best they can to "make a Canadian Christmas out of scraps," rather than 'disappoint out little Susans, and their sick little sisters.'

The scene then shifted to China, where Dr. Leonard (Margaret Luxon) and a nurse (Marjorie Skitch) have an appeal from a wealthy Chinese girl, Lo Chou (Marguerite Hawken), for room in the Christian hospital for her sick mother. The need of the new wing, long promised and still delayed, was very apparent as Lo Chou's request would have had to be refused had not the nurse insisted on giving up her own room for the patient.

They go out and Wu Tu (Elmo Davis) arrives asking training at the mission school to be a doctor. She too must be refused because the girls in Canada 'grew tired and have not sent the money pledged for her education.'

The same story was repeated in India when Sita (Margaret Fallis) appeals to the missionary's wife (Miss P. Burnham) for a worker for her village. Though the need is acute 'there is no one to go to your village; you must go back alone and tell them all you know.'

A final scene in Korea is a repetition of the others, the missionary (Dorothy Crossley) having to send home a Korean girl (Dorothy McDowell) because the school is closed and there is no teacher—indicating the lack of interest and of funds sent from the home folks in Canada.

Thoroughly ashamed of their carelessness and selfishness, the girls eagerly ask Miss Weir not to disband their class, and promise renewed activity, with giving to the limit of their power. The audience joined with those on the platform in singing, "The Whole Wide World for Jesus," as the play was closed.

Valentine contests, with the service of refreshments, brought a very pleasant evening to a conclusion. The program was prepared by the Wide-Awakes C.G.I.T. group.

PIMPLES AND ERUPTIONS

On Face. Looked Awful. Cuticura Healed.

"My face broke out with pimples and sore eruptions. They did not trouble me much until about six months ago when suddenly they became large and red, and I could not sleep at night for the terrible itching and burning. I could not go out; my face was awful.

"My mother read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I sent for a free sample. I purchased more, and when I had used three cakes of Soap and three boxes of Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Basil Lee, 60 Gammage St., London, Ont., Sept. 1, 1926.

Sample Each Free by Mail. Address Canadian Depot: "Stenhouse, Ltd., Montreal." Price, Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c.

Derby Hat Showing Return to Formalism

NORTHAMPTON Mass., Feb. 21. — Canadian Press. — The popularity of the Derby hat is regarded by William Neilson, President of Smith College, whose students are all girls, as an indication that we are reverting to Victorian formalism. "We have turned the corner and are now moving with our backs on the jazz age," he says.

PLANE MISSING IN FAR NORTH

GONE SINCE FEB. 17.

OTTAWA, February 21. Canadian Press. — An airplane of the Government's Hudson Straits expedition, piloted by Flying Officer A. Lewis, and carrying Flight Sergeant Terry, and one native, has been missing for the past three days, the Department of National Defence announced yesterday.

The plane left Burwell on a patrol and observation trip on Feb. 17 and the men reported late that day that their position was unknown, and that they were landing on the ice.

That is the last information received although search by dog team along the coast has been undertakel. Lewis' plane was equipped with emergency rations, sleeping bags and a small stove to meet an emergency of this kind, and it is trusted that endeavors now being made will result in the prompt finding of the missing plane and men.

DANCE GIVEN BY WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Grandfathers Are Honored at Village of Millbrook.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 21.—The dance given in the Town Hall on Monday evening, under the auspices of the Women's Institute, was largely attended and much enjoyed.

The floor was in excellent condition, and, as usual, the music furnished by the Stewart-Moncrief Orchestra, gave every satisfaction.

The young people of the community and surrounding district were the guests of the Institute on Monday night, the last public gathering sponsored by this organization being "Grandfather's Night," when the older folk received special recognition.

Supper was served about midnight, and dancing resumed afterward for a time. The Institute will cater for the banquet to be held here in the Armouries on Tuesday, February 21, when the Honorable John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, will be the chief speaker. The event is being arranged under the auspices of the local Agricultural Society, in honor of James Seymour and Sons, who have brought signal honor to the community by having in their herd of pure-bred Holstein cattle the world's champion cow in butter fat production, and the Canadian championship in both butterfat and milk.

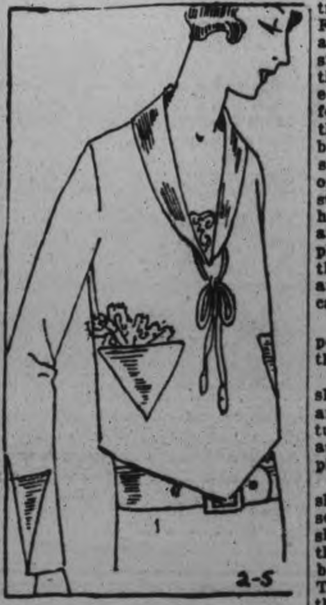
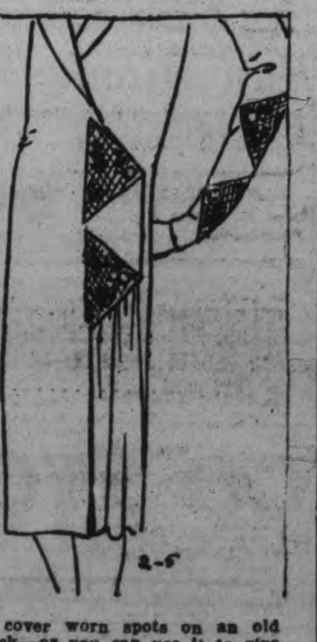
Triangle Gives New Trimming Detail





THE triangle is the newest sort of trimming—and it is not a bit hard to make. It's just—a triangle.

The sketches show different ways of arranging triangular trimming. Pockets, for instance. For these you will want triangles about five inches on each side—equal-sided triangles. Cut them carefully, straight on one edge—and use that straight edge for the top. For the pockets bind the three raw edges with seam binding. Turn them under the same distance—about a quarter of an inch. Stitch the top—or straight-edge — turn-under for a hem. Baste under the others, and then baste the pocket in place. Be careful not to stretch the two bias edges. After they are basted in place, stitch them carefully and securely.

You can use these triangle pockets on the skirt as well as on the blouse.

Two different suggestions for sleeve trimming with triangles are shown. Cut the triangles, turn them under a quarter inch at the edges, baste carefully in place, and stitch down.

In the right-hand sketch snakeskin silk is used. A button is sewed on one point of each of the sleeve triangles. The triangles on the front of the frock have real buttonholes worked in them These triangles are applied like the others, neatly stitched flat on the fabric.

You will sometimes find a triangle longer or shorter on one side than on the other two more effective than the equal-sided sort.

You can use triangle trimming to cover worn spots on an old frock—or you can use it to give the very last touch of smartness on a new frock. The triangles may be of velvet, silk, satin, ribbon.

ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Celebrate 35th Wedding Anniversary.

PONTYPOOL, Feb. 21. — The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton gathered at their home recently to celebrate with them the thirty-fifth anniversary of their wedding and presented them with two chairs. Bert Richardson was chairman for the evening and congratulated Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton on attaining this anniversary. Both the bride and the groom expressed their thanks for the kindness of their friends.

The remainder of the evening was spent in games and dancing, and a lunch was served at midnight.

Basket Social.

The Ladies' Aid held a very enjoyable basket social last Tuesday evening. The program consisted of readings by Misses M. Marvin and M. Matchett instrumentals by Mrs. James Richardson. A one act play was given by the young people entitled "My Wife's Relations. The characters were: Norton Selma, J. Payne; Mrs. Selma, Miss M. Kellar; Cousin Hector, M. Cain; Aunt Patience, Miss R. Richardson; Aunt Charity, Mrs. G. Wilder; Uncle Dobson, D. Bowins; Ted Tyrell, Kellett; Sister Emma, Miss I. Shaw; Mrs. Frankland, Miss M. Matchett; Katie Miss M. Marvin.

The baskets were auctioned by Bert Richardson, and the proceeds amounted to forty dollars

Congregational Meeting.

The United Church held its annual business meeting recently and the reports from the various departments showed an encouraging balance. The following elders were elected: Robert Beggs, Robert Payne and Ernest Bowins The Stewards are Edward Cain Thomas Webb, W. H. Hooper and Mrs. E. Shaw.

At the conclusion of the meeting the Y.P.L. was held under the leadership of John Payne, who gave a paper "What is our duty as citizens?" A sleigh drive to Lotus was decided to be held on the 23rd, with M. E. Hinton, leader of the losing team to look after the transportation.

Birkdale Specified Suit

are fashioned for men and young men. For the youthful taste there are single and double-breasted models, full of the spirit of good style, smart stripings in new fawns and browns. To meet the requirements of the more conservative there are two and three-button single-breasted, in patterns and colorings of restrained good taste. The sizes range from 35 to 44. All Birkdales priced at $35.00.

Tailored to Specifications

That Are An Absolute Guarantee of Quality and Fineness

FROM the cutting of the cloth to the final pressing of the finished garment, every important detail of every Specified Suit is carried out according to our laid down specifications. Hand work is used where hand stitching makes for smarter appearance or better wear.

The foundation materials—canvas, haircloth and tapes—must be of specified quality—and are thoroughly shrunk before being used.

The collar is put on by hand to fit smoothly—and extra hand stitches put into the collar and lapels are assurance that they will hold their shape in wear.

Pockets in coat and vest are securely stayed and strengthened with linen.

All seams are sewn with silk—and buttons and buttonholes are reinforced and sewn with linen thread.

And finally—the materials are all exceptionally fine all-wool finished and unfinished worsteds—in a pattern and color range that provides selections for almost every taste. Also plain blue all-wool Botany serge.

A.Y.P.A. ENTERTAINS

Valentine Party in Honor of St. Mark's, Bonarlaw.

MARMORA, Feb. 21.—The senior A.Y.P.A. of St. Paul's entertained a number of the young folks from St. Mark's, Bonar Law, at a Valentine party in the Masonic Hall recently. The hall was very artistically decorated for the occasion. Heart hunting, archery and a fortune wheel were among the amusements for the evening. Lunch was served at the close of the program. Mr. J. F. Baker accompanied the young people.

The accompanying address was read by Miss Laura Harrison and signed by Mildred Harrison, Laura Harrison and Dalton Way.

MASONS' SOCIAL GREAT SUCCESS

Golden Rule Lodge, Campbellford, Entertains Friends.

CARDS AND DANCING.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 21.—The officers and brethren of the Golden Rule Lodge, 126, A.F. and A.M., were at home to their friends and visiting brethren in the High School auditorium last night. Following the customary program, cards began at eight o'clock and dancing started shortly before ten. Among the brilliant social affairs of the town, the Masonic At Home holds an enviable position and the function this year has most certainly not tended to in any way lower that high standard. The auditorium was a colorful scene in its gala attire. The formal attire of the Masons themselves was only surpassed by the fashionably attractive gowns of their ladies.

To insure success, the Varsity Entertainers, Toronto, were engaged to supply the music for dancing. This orchestra was popular last season at Trent River, where they played at Coral Gables Casino. In order to cater to the older members of the fraternity, quadrilles were quite in order and Dr. G. A. Hay "called off." Among the round dances were numerous lucky number and novelty dances, which greatly added to the evening's entertainment. At midnight lunch was served in the Domestic Science Room on the ground floor of the building.

The competition for the prizes for cards was exceptionally keen. For all the prizes but the consolation it was necessary for contestants to cut the deck to decide the winner. In some cases there were as many as four players tied for first place. The prizes for games went to Mrs. Walter Henson and J. C. Birmingham. The lone hand prizes were won by Mrs. George West and Charles H. Davidson. Mrs. T. E. Hall and Dr. T. E' Scott received the consolation prizes.

The dancing continued till after two o'clock and the major portion of the guests remained till the "last dog was hung." But this is not at all unusual at local Masonic affairs. When the Masons lay aside their trowels and mortar boards to don the clothing of leisure they invariably achieve success which few other affairs enjoy and certainly none surpass.

EUCHRE PARTY HELD.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 21.— Mr. and Mrs. George O'Sullivan were host and hostess last night at a most enjoyable euchre party held at their home under the auspices of the Catholic Women's League of St. Mary's Church here. There were sixteen tables of players and the evening was spent in a most enjoyable manner. Lunch was served at midnight by the ladies of the society and consisted of sandwiches, coffee and cake. During lunch the Rev. Father Phelan presented the prizes and briefly expressed his pleasure at seeing such a splendid turnout when the weather was so disagreeable and the roads and streets almost impassable in places on account of the drifting snow. The prizes for games went to Mrs. James Hoey and Hilton Beatty. Those for games were won by Mrs. Matthew Mulhearn and Alcibe Jean. As well as these customary prizes for euchre, there was a lucky chair prize which Mrs. James Hoey won. This is by way of a novelty prize and corresponds to the door prize at a former party. These euchre parties are proving a decided success.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1928

Menacing aspects rule today, according to astrology, which reads in the configuration certain adverse influences.

It is a day most unfavorable to women and they may find efforts to celebrate the patriotic anniversary thwarted.

Under this sway the mind may be inclined to take offence readily and it is well to beware of entrance to a quarrel.

Accidents may be easily caused while this rule prevails and special care should be taken in driving automobiles.

The stars appear to frown on theatrical performances under this sway, making for critical audiences.

It is not an auspicious rule for lovers who may be inclined to jealousy and fault-finding.

The stars are read as inclining men to many wooings and to quick changes of heart.

Fickleness is likely to be more than usually common among women as well as men. It is wise to be slow in fixing the affections.

This is not a lucky wedding day, since it is likely to lead to serious differences of opinion and ambition.

There is a sign of promise for those who associate with persons of wealth and influence today.

It is lucky to bestow gifts under this direction of the stars unless the gifts happen to be engagement rings.

Modistes and importers of women's attire should be cautious in spring buying, if the stars are rightly read.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a year of minor difficulties that end in success and prosperity.

Children born on this day probably will be highly emotional and fond of excitement. They should be trained in thrift, for they may be extremely irresponsible in financial matters.

Cavan

CAVAN, Feb. 21.—Messrs. James Paul and George Berry were visitors to Ida recently.

Miss Viola McBride returned on Saturday from a visit in Toronto.

Miss Muriel Newton returned to Toronto after spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Newton.

Miss Olice Smith, Peterborough, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Smith.

Mrs. Rowen recently visited friends in Bethany.

Mr. William Pudsy visited friends in Lindsay over the week-ennd.

Mr. Elton Sutton of Peterborough spent the week-end with Mr. R. Sutton.

Hints on Etiquette

1. What is the surest way to prevent children from being quarrelsome?

2. What is one of the first rules of etiquet that should be instilled in young minds?

3. How can children be taught never to bully servants?

The Answers.

1. By example. Grown-ups in a home should never lose their tempers or create a scene.

2. Courtesy towards those in an inferior position.

3. If parents are always fair to servants and keep their tones courteous, children will follow suit.

YOUR CHILD'S EYES.

A great deal of good has been accomplished in the past few years through the dissemination of information about the care which should be given in protecting the eyes of the young child. Infections from carelessness at childbirth were formerly responsible for many thousands of cases of blindness each year with children who become blind even before one year of age.

In most states the laws require the physician to sterilize the baby's eyes as soon as the child is born. These laws usually compel the drugless practitioner or the midwife to use sterilizing measures even though they are not otherwise permitted to use medicinal preparations. It has been found that the use of a mild antiseptic to cleanse the eyelids will kill almost any kind of infection if it is applied immediately after birth.

The baby does not usually recognize objects until at about six months, and mothers are frequently alarmed because the eyes do not move in harmony when the baby is very young. Complete coordination of eye movements usually does not occur until the baby is about three months old.

Mothers must be warned to keep their babies' eyes protected from strong lights during the first few months of life and at least until the baby is old enough to sit up and strong enough to protect himself by turning away from strong lights.

In good health the baby's eyes are not apt to give much trouble, but if the feeding is improper, surroundings unhealthy, and sanitary habits not practiced, there may develop a chain of childhood disorders which not only affect the future health of the child, but also have a distinct effect upon producing errors in vision or eye diseases.

The diseases which more commonly affect children during early life are those which affect the conjunctiva, the membrane which lines the eyelids and extends over the outside of the eyeball. When these membranes become inflamed it is usually because the baby has been fed on a diet composed principally of devitalized foods. A plain milk diet, supplemented by orange juice feedings, will prevent conjunctivitis and in fact almost any of the diseases of the eyelids which are supposed to come from almost any of the diseases of the eye-infections. Granular lids, although undoubtedly of an infectious origin, will not develop if the child is properly fed and the eyes kept clean by being washed with plain water two or three times daily.

It is wise for everyone to use care in not spreading infections through the use of common towels, and every member of the household should have both a fresh face and bath towel at least once daily.

Children who suffer from eye-strain do so because of definite eye defects or because of a systemic acidosis which irritates the eyes the same as it affects other less sensitive parts of the body. A child who suffers from eye-strain may develop headaches, nervousness, irritability, drowsiness, digestive disturbances, dizziness, car-sickness, and be awkward in school. If the eye defect continues, or the causative acidosis is not corrected, the eyes may lose their power for vision, may become more tired each day, or there may be dread of light, watering, sties, cross-eyes, and often frequent blinking.

As soon as he is able to read, the child's eyes should be examined by an optometrist who will advise the proper care of the child's eyes so that defects may be corrected and the eyes strengthened to normal.

Questions and Answers.

Question—N. V. writes: "I wish you would tell me a cure for a person that is always half frozen. The only time I am ever comfortably warm is on a hot summer day. These cold mornings I just shiver from head to foot. I take a lot of exercise and get plenty of fresh air, also eat the most wholesome food I know how, but nothing seems to help my shivers."

Answer: You must depend upon increasing your circulation through taking more exercise, and especially through taking long walks each day. After returning from your walk take a cold shower each time.

Question—J. B. L. asks: "How much water should a person drink during the day?"

Answer: The quantity of water used depends upon your bodily necessities and these vary in each individual case. A good rule to use is to take as much water as necessary to keep the urine a light color. If the urine ever becomes dark during the day it is a sign you are not using enough water. The additional water should be taken between meals and not with food.

Question—Mrs. D. L. asks: "Would you advise X-ray treatment for diseased tonsils and adenoids? Is there any danger of drying up the glands of the throat by the X-ray treatment? A woman who has taken this treatment is troubled with a pus discharge from the throat. What might be the cause of it?"

Answer: X-ray treatment for tonsils or adenoids is a very dangerous method to use, as the other glands in the throat, and even the brain itself, may be injured. The toxic cause of enlarged tonsils will remain even if these glands are shrunk by the X-ray and therefore a patient may continue to have an excess formation of mucus or still be troubled with pus pockets in the throat.

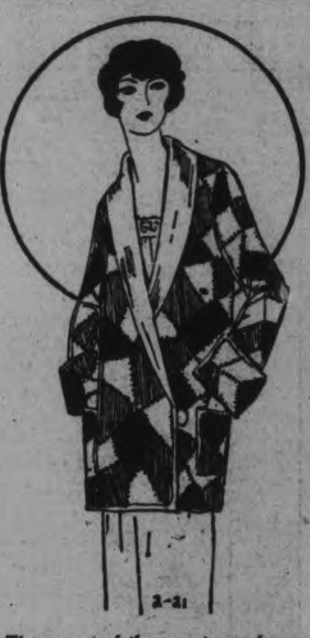
DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL



The gayest of the smart new lounging jackets are made from patchwork of bright colored silks and velvets.

An interesting trousseau present that I saw the other day consisted of a lounging jacket made from patches of the various materials—silks, velvets, brocades and metallic materials—used in the making of the bride's trousseau. Angular pieces of irregular sizes and shapes were fastened together in "crazy quilt" fashion and then worked with one-two-three stitch at their joinings.

The jacket was lined with flesh-colored chiffon crepe which also formed the shawl collar. Here and there a patch of the flesh-colored chiffon crepe was used in the jacket to link up the color scheme—if you see what I mean.

Almost every woman who does any home dressmaking has bits of attractive fabrics that might be used in this way, and to give such a jacket added distinction might be cited the fact that the idea is one that comes red hot from Paris, where one of the smartest of negligee makers has made numerous negligees of this sort.

In choosing your patches it is best to use together silks, velvets, brocades and similar choice materials. Then if you want to make a more substantial lounging jacket you might combine in crazy-quilt manner patches of lightweight woolen materials, lining the jacket with a thin cashmere—in not too light a shade.

In making your silk and velvet crazy-quilt lounging robe you may have some left-over pieces and from this you really ought to make a cushion top also in crazy-quilt manner. It is considered decidedly "tricky," you know, to have a soft lounging cushion to match your lounging robe.

Then there are crazy-quilt handbags of various sorts. Some of them to carry with cotton summer frocks are made from small irregular patches of cotton prints and ginghams. Larger bags for fancy work may be made from the richer fabrics—silks, velvets and brocades.

Young Doctor Fry explaining his discovery in 1728

What young Dr. Fry did in 1728 benefits you in 1928

It was the ardent advocacy of the principles of purity and quality in the manufacture of Cocoa, by the successful young scientist Dr. Joseph Fry in 1728, that enabled him to found the great House of Fry—and with it the vast cocoa and chocolate industry as we have it today.

200 years of consistent and scrupulous care in making FRY'S Cocoa and Chocolate have given them world wide pre-eminence.

Fry's Purity - Flavour

As you sip your next cup of FRY'S Cocoa, remember you are drinking not only one of the most famous beverages in the world, but one which gives you the greatest value for your money in nourishment and energy-making constituents.

SOMETHING MORE

The preacher had not always proved
  That there's a heaven beyond the stars,
And then across my screen she moved,
  And healed my wounds, and hid my scars.
I knew her mothering awhile;
  She mothered all the men she met;
And all men her Madonna smile
  Remember yet.

Because her company was peace,
  And dignity her locks of gray,
The littleness of life would cease,
  And thoughts of hate would pass away.
And even now, when passions stir,
  When men grow angry, as men will,
They only need to think of her,
  And all is still.

And now they tell us she is gone.
  "Gone where?" our hungry hearts reply;
And every man's haert answers "On"—
  For so much goodness could not die.
Yes, if I doubted heaven before,
  That there was heaven for men like me,
I know there must be something more
  For such as she.

CLEANS RUGS

Never shake nice rugs. It snaps them and breaks the edges. Brush well, while they are hanging on a line, and go over with a damp cloth.

RUSTY RADIATORS

To prevent radiators from rusting in rainy weather, go over them with an oiled cloth. This is a good plan even if they are painted.

Remove Blackheads this easy way

Don't let unsightly blackheads mar your complexion and worry you. Here is a new way of removing them—painless, simple and effective.

Simply fill a cup with comfortably hot water and tip into it a teaspoonful of Radox Salts. Dab on the part of the face affected. After a few minutes' treatment wipe your face dry and those ugly blackheads will have vanished. Lastly apply a little cold cream. Read this letter:

"I suffered from blackheads in the chin. I treated them as directed with Radox Bath Salts, and to my great delight found that I could rub the blackheads out with a rough towel. Now I have not a single blackhead left." B.B.

The Radox way eliminates all painful "squeezing out." Your skin is left free of red blotches—smooth and healthy. To-day ask your druggist for the economical ½-lb. pink package of Radox. It costs only 60c.—and to-night you'll be rid of bothersome blackheads. 11

St. John's Gain 2 Goal Lead in City Series

SAINTS COME FROM BEHIND TO TAKE SECOND GAME OF SERIES WINNING OUT IN LAST PERIOD

New Junior Team Again Defeats Peterborough Outfit, This Time 5-4.

FINAL THURSDAY

Third Battle of the Junior Series Promises to be a Real Thriller.

(By F.D.C.)

After coming from behind in a hectic third period that was crammed full of exciting hockey, St. John's Junior O.H.A. team won the second game of the three game series with the Peterborough Junior O.H.A. crew at Brock street rink last night, beating Lew Lebarr's Lakeshore group outfit 5 goals to 4.

As the Saints also won the first battle by 2 to 1 they will enter the third game on Thursday night with a lead of 2 goals, a close enough margin to make this fixture loom up as the feature game of the series.

Last night's struggle was tense and close enough to leave the argument as to which is the superior team still far from settled, and thus while the Saints fans will argue that they should have had a bigger lead the Petes' partizans will come right back with the contention that Lew Lebarr's boys were outlucked rather than outplayed.

The element of luck entered into several of the Saints' counters while one of the Petes' tallies was also a soft one on a deflected puck. But to offset these horseshoe goals both teams had the toughest kind of breaks when they failed to score on close-in chances, so perhaps the vagaries of fortune were fairly evenly distributed.

Played on lightning fast ice it was the sort of game that keeps a crowd on its toes all the way. The pace never slackened and every man out there worked his head off to bring victory to his team. By the end of the first period the Petes had pulled up on even terms on the round and they carried their one goal lead on the game through a scoreless second period to start the last dash a goal up on the night's play and even-steppers in the two games. And with the blue and white having somewhat the better of the argument in the second session the more experienced Peterborough Juniors looked good to come on in the final twenty minutes, and take the lead in the series. But the Saints came back with a last period rally that soon gave them three markers in a row and although a penalty to Jarvis gave the Petes an opportunity to ram in two fast counters and tie the score, the Saints flashed in front again half a minute after and held their margin until the finish. It was a memorable period and sent the fans away talking to themselves. They will all be back Thursday night to see the series wound up, and anybody else who wants to see a spectacular hockey argument should be there with them.

While everybody, regulars and subs alike, threw themselves into the game with grim determination, the honors of the night were carried off by the two goalers, who performed in great style, and by the Saints' three regular forwards, Terry Hall, Cuthbertson and Hartley, and Jones, Cripps and Calladine for the losers. Both Payne and Gillespie killed off a host of dangerous shots, often when their defence had been beat.

Playing almost without relief, Hall, in fact, going the full sixty minutes, the aggressiveness and great checking of the Saints' three forwards, proved perhaps the biggest factor in their team's victory. Hartley, Terry Hall and Cuthbertson laid down a checking barrage that at times the Petes found impossible to shake off, while on the attack all three were dangerous, Hall getting three counters and Cuthbertson bagging the other pair. Hall's shooting was a feature of the battle. Both Jarvis and Johnston handled themselves well on the defence while the subs gave a good account when doing relief work.

For the Peterborough outfit Buck Jones at centre played some of his flashiest hockey of the winter, both on the attack and defensively. Calladine, although he failed to cash in on some beautiful chances on his own account, gave neat passes for several of his team's goals, while Cripps' aggressive work in the last period nearly pulled the game out of the fire for the Petes. Kenneally, Allen and Lebarr all worked their heads off to even up the series.

The line-up:

Peterboro Juniors.

Goal: Gillespie.
Defence: Calladine, Lebarr.
Centre: Jones.
Subs.: Cripps, White, Hatton.

St. John's.

Goal: Payne.
Defence: Johnston, Jarvis.
Centre: Cuthbertson.
Righ wing: Terry Hall.
Left wing: Hartley.
Subs.: Dunkerley, J. Hall, Weir.
Referee: Walter Jackson.

The Saints had the edge in the early stages of the first period, helped by the fact that Kenneally drew a penalty right off the reel, and then came close to scoring three or four times. First Jarvis picked up a loose puck behind the Petes' nets, carried it round in front, and with Gillespie at his mercy, shot wide. Right after this Hartley missed a great chance on a rebound, and Terry Hall walked right in on top of Gillespie, only to be beaten. Payne was called upon to handle several shots from well out, but the close in chances early in the game went to the Saints, who failed to cash in. And finally it was the Petes who scored. Lebarr broke away with a couple of team-mates, and instead of passing, let drive from outside the defence, and his low swift shot to the corner beat Payne to tie up the round. The deadlock did not last long, however, for Terry Hall blazed a low one from the blue line to even up the count on the night's play.

It was even going for the next few minutes, and then Calladine broke loose and handed Jones a nice pass close in. Payne went to his knees to save, and Jones coolly lobbed the puck over the goalie's shoulder to put his team in front. It was a pretty play.

There was no score in the second period, but plenty of excitement. First Kenneally was penalized, then Johnston was chased, and before he got back Calladine visited the penalty box. Then came a general jam when Lebarr slashed Johnston, precipitating a fight that promised to involve both teams and some of the fans. When order was restored LeBarr was given a six-minute penalty as the aggressor, while Johnston drew a four-minute rest. The Petes had a margin of the play for the balance of the period, Calladine especially working in several times for close-in shots but failing to beat Payne.

The last period saw the fastest scoring and the most thrilling hockey of the night. The Saints set the pace to start with, and then close checking kept the play in the Petes' territory. Finally St. John's got a break when Lebarr's stick deflected a low shot from Terry Hall's stick neatly into the net. That tied the score on the game, and a minute later, when Cuthbertson secured from a face-off in Peterboro territory and slid a low one past Gillespie, the Saints went out in front. Then Jarvis pulled off a nice rush, and when he slipped the rubber across the goal-mouth, Cuthbertson tapped in another counter, making the score 4 to 2. Jarvis drew a penalty and the Petes took advantage of their one-man advantage to drive in two goals and sew up the game again. Cripps got both, the first on a lucky one from the corner, the puck going into the net off Payne's skate, and the second on a fine play with Calladine, Cripps putting a perfect pass to the best possible use. With the score tied and seven minutes to go, it was anybody's game, but half a minute after Terry Hall blazed a high one from the blue line that Cripps tried to stop, only to deflect the rubber past Gillespie.

That lucky marker settled the argument, for the Saints had enough left to protect their slight lead for the rest of the battle, and skated off winners for the second time in succession.

The Summary.

First Period—
1 Peterboro Jrs.—Lebarr, 12 mins.
2 St. John's—T. Hall, 1 min.

PORT HOPE TO MEET SENIORS HERE TOMORROW

Exhibition Game Should Prove an Interesting Battle at Brock St. Rink.

SOME NEW FACES

Manager Ed. Wright Will Trot Out Fresh Line-up to Meet Invaders.

Manager Ed. Wright of the Peterborough seniors, has arranged an exhibition game for Wednesday night at Brock street rink that should provide an interesting night for hockey fans. He is bringing the Port Hope intermediate team here for a battle and will send out a new line-up to represent Peterborough against the Ontarios, the team to include several players from the local junior clubs as well as Wright and Brennan, the stars of the Havelock team.

Port Hope has several outstanding hockey stars. 'Dempsey" Crossett, their big defence man, is regarded as one of the most promising prospects in the O.H.A., they have a crack goaler in oJe Mirks, and Wall and other players are well worth seeing.

The Petes' manager is looking forward to next season and Wednesday night's game will give him a chance to try out some of the juniors who graduate this year, besides giving the fans an exciting hockey game.

He expects to trot out a line-up that will keep the Ontarios busy.

Wright, of the Havelock team, has made a big hit with Peterborough fans in the games played here this season, and they will be glad to see him work again. A Havelock contingent will be here to watch Wright and Brennan perform.

GAINS DISPLAYS AGRESSIVENESS

Toronto Boxer Defeats McCarthy in Bout at Coliseum.

TORONTO, Feb. 21.—Those boxing fans who attended the Shamrock A. C.'s show at the Coliseum last evening went away with a better conception of the true ability of Larry Gains, Canadian heavyweight champion, than they have been able to form by watching previous bouts. Gains was extended in beating Pat McCarthy of Boston, and his showing gives his followers more cause for satisfaction than have most of his previous bouts.

McCarthy made the dusky Toronto boxer forget his safety first 'hit-and-run' tactics, call them what you will. Gains showed a streak of aggressiveness that was more pronounced than even in his bout against Mike McTigue. And what is more, he seemed to like it. When the going was roughest the Canadian champion shook off punches with a grin and sailed into his opponent with flailing arms.

Summarizing the bout on points, Gains was the winenr by a clean-cut margin. He was just a little better than his opponent at practically all stages of the struggle without showing any great superiority in more than a couple of rounds. McCarthy lived up to advance notices, and was dangerous all the way. He did but little backing up, and was always ready to meet Gain halfway. The resultant bout was one of the best heavyweight affairs witnessed here, faster than is usual for a contest between big men, and with plenty of hard hitting and not a little science.

GOALIE HAILED SHUTOUT KING

Senator Goaltender Holds Opponents Scoreless in Six Consecutive Games.

OVERTIME SESSIONS

NEW YORK, N.Y., Feb. 21 (A.P.-.—Alex Connell, goalkeeper of the world's champion Ottawa Senators, has justified his unofficial title of "Shutout King" of the National Hockey League by holding the opposing sharpshooters scoreless in six consecutive games.

For six full playing periods of sixty minutes and three overtime sessions of ten minutes each, Connell has guarded the Ottawa cage and thwarted the efforts of the league's best marksmen. Canadian sports writers who know their hockey, claim his performance set a new professional record.

Connell began blanking the opposition on January 31, when the Senators defeated Toronto 4—0. The Montreal Maroons were the next victims, losing 1—0, and then came three consecutive ties, two with the New York Rangers and one with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Since the season opened, the Senators have won six games by shutouts and have played in six scoreless ties. Hal Winkler of the Boston Bruins and Roy Worters of the Pittsburgh Pirates have also good shut-out records, but nothing to compare with Connell's consecutive string. Boston has won seven shutout games and played three scoreless ties, while Pittsburgh has five shutouts and five scoreless deadlocks to its credit.

FINAL GAME IN JUNIOR SERIES THURS. NIGHT

St. John's Have Two-Goal Lead Going Into Last Battle.

WILL BE TUSSLE

Teams Are Fighting as if O. H. A. Title Were at Stake.

Although the St. John's team have won the first two games in the city series they have only a two goal lead, and as goals on the three battles decide the winner, the issue is very far from being settled.

The Saints won the first game 2 to 1 on heavy ice, and the second 5 to 4 on a lightning fast sheet. Now the team will tear into each other for the third time on Thursday night, and in spite of their two wins the new Peterborough junior O.H.A. outfit will have to step on the gas all the way to hold the Petes, who are determined to wipe out the sting by winning the round in the final game.

That it will be a hectic struggle no one who saw the first two games will deny. The series has produced some of the hardest fought hockey of the season and the teams are so evenly matched that the final tussle will be packed with exciting moments and thrilling hockey. The Petes have the advantage in weight and in experience and were called upon to win the series handily, but the Saints, all of whom are playing their first year in the O.H.A., have provided unexpectedly strong opposition.

While nothing is at stake but prestige, the two teams are battling as if the junior O.H.A. championship hinged on the result, and that spirit has produced two memorable games that promise to be surpassed in interest by the final tussle between the rivals on Thursday night.

The fans cannot afford to pass up this struggle which should be one of the hockey epics of the year.

LAKEFIELD WINS FROM ST. JOHN'S

Grove Grads Defeat Peterborough Team 2-0 in Exhibition Game.

NO PENALTIES

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 21.—The Grove 'Grads' and a team representing St. John's of Peterborough, minus some of their regular players, played a friendly game of hockey at the Lakefield rink on Saturday evening at seven o'clock. Owing to lack of advertising and the early hour the crowd was negligible, but the game was played with as much enthusiasm as if the empty benches were filled with fans. Both teams had been playing on the previous night, and owing to the fact that the rink was promised the band at eight o'clock, the entire game was played with practically no intermission. By the end of the third period the pace had told on both teams and the play slackened perceptibly. However, it was a good, clean game, with no penalties and the score stood 2-0 for Lakefield at the end of the game.

The first period was the speediest and while both teams tried hard to score, strong defence and alert goalies held the game. Time and again, the Grads got away with a good combination play, but they were seldom allowed past the blue line and the Peterborough boys, who had a fast forward line were checked by Moore and his guardians in their turn.

Five minutes after the second period opened Loosemore found the Peterborough net and five minutes later he scored again. From then on Hutchinson's citadel was impregnable and no more scoring was done. The third period lacked the speed and the close combination which marked the first two periods and when the bell rang the teams looked thoroughly tired out.

Vinette, of the Peterborough team, was their strong man, with Hartley playing a keen game. Hutchinson in goal was good and stopped many hot shots.

For the home team Moore played in his best form and Stabler, Hudson, Hamilton and Loosemore were the outstanding players, although all played a keen game. Putnam, who played for the first time is a strong defence man and will be heard from again.

The following is the line-up:

Grads— Goal, Moore; r. defence, Wood; l. defence, Tate; centre, Loosemore; r. wing, Hudson; l. wing, Stabler. Subs, Hamilton and Putnam.

St. John's—Goal, Hutchinson; r. defence, Jarvis; l. defence, Calladine; centre, Dallin r. wing, Hartley; l. wing, Vinette. Sub, Weir.

Score 2-0. Penalties, none.

League Opens.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 21.— The District League got away to a good start on Friday night when the 'Grove Grads and the Cement team clashed The old hockey players are nearly all in the game again and there are several newcomers. When inclined to poke fun at the "hay wire" league, we must remember that it was due to the local league that our O.H.A. teams are kept up to strength, and it is from the local league we have to look for recruits for future teams.

An amusing incident took place when some one asked one of the former 'Colts' team if he was playing and he replied in the affirmative, saying he was a Rat now. The Colts team is disbanded and some of the players have retired from the game.

OUTLAWS DEFEATED BY JUNIORS 4 TO 2

All Saints' Junior Teams Play Exhibition Game at Cognawaga Rink.

The All Saints' Juniors stepped in to the Cognawaga Rink on Saturday afternoon and defeated the Outlaws in an exhibition game to the tune 4 to 2. The game was fast and furious from gong to gong, with the Juniors having big edge on the play all the way through. The Outlaws played good hockey and at times flashed a bit of a-la-pro stuff but lacked the finishing touch to sink a marker.

The Juniors opened the score board with a nice rush that netted them a counter and a few minutes later the Outlaws stormed the opposing goal with a combined attack, but to no avail. In the final moments of the play Outlaws scored on a long shot to end the period 1—1.

The second was a duplicate of the first with the Outlaws determined more than ever to win, many times they came down only to be repulsed by their opponents. With the play in Outlaw territory, the Juniors sank two counters within a few moments of each other.

The third was just one rush after another, the Outlaws rallied and scored, while the Juniors did the same. The game ended with teams see-sawing back and forward till the final gong.

Line up:

Juniors—Goal, Lundy; defence, Hope and Dyer; centre, Whatley; wings, Worsencrof and Hughes.

Outlaws.—Goal, C. Levington; defence, Peryer and Gimblett; centre, Beavis; wings, Parrington and Hope. Sub., J. Hope.

Frank Lundy acted as referee.

VALENTINE SOCIAL HELD

St. Andrew's Young People of Warkworth Have Social Evening.

WARKWORTH, Feb. 21.—An enjoyable evening was held last week when the young people of St. Andrew's church held a Valentine social. After the devotional exercises a short program of recitations, songs, and instrumental music was given, after which the evening was spent in games and contests. The postman arrived and each one received a valentine.

HUGGINS THINKS TEAM STRONGER

Expects More Opposition During 1928 Ball Season, However.

LUCKY LAST YEAR.

Miller Huggins is inclined to believe that his 1928 entry in the American League pennant race will be as good as his 1927 machine—perhaps a bit better in some respects—but he has no idea that his team will gallop away to victory by any such margin as nineteen games.

Seems a bit paradoxical, but Huggins brings logic into the discussion to prove his contention.

Expects Harder Fight.

"We won in 1927 by that mile-wide gap because we were particularly effective against certain clubs, and because we were able to knock off the strong contenders in important series. I naturally would like to see the same results achieved in the coming season, but don't you think it is a lot to expect? Only once before in the history of major league baseball did one club win twenty-one games from another as we did from the St. Louis Browns. There have been any number of powerful clubs and any number of weak ones in the past but the weak ones were not beaten so consistently. I doubt if you will see another such run of success as the Yankees had against the Browns.

"I think, too, that the Boston club will give us a harder fight this year than the Red Sox of 1927 were able to give us. Bill Carrigan has some young pitchers who are coming along fast and I look for a stronger club in the Hub this year.

"Then, again I do not believe that any club, without unusual luck in escaping accidents, can beat out the Athletics and Senators this year as far as we did last season. We were lucky in being able to use Gehrig, Ruth, Lazzeri and Combs in practically every game of the season, when an accident to any of them would have meant a lot to us. Other clubs were not so fortunate in having their stars in the game every day.

"I look for a much harder fight from the Mackmen this year. Connie's team started well last Spring, then the pitchers began to disappoint and in mid-season the Yankees were well out in front. I look for steadier pitching this year from Mack's headliners, and with that club going at normal speed no other club figures to get very far ahead.

"Washington's finish last season was far worse than it should have been. The big falldown came in the prolonged slump which the Yankees started for the Senators just before the final Western trip. The ground lost in this series of reverses was too great, and the Senators never again showed any signs of being in the pennant hunt. They made a good recovery, but those lost games could not be redeemed.

Sees 3-Cornered Fight.

"As I see it now, the battle will be a three-cornered affair in which the Yankees, Mackmen and Senators will do the heavy fighting. I believe that the Yankees should win, but I know if the players work on the theory that it is only a breeze they will not win. In fact, one big fight which the Yankees must make in the coming campaign is against the Yankees. That has been true of other pennant winners and series winners of the past. Too much confidence in a team's own ability is more dangerous than the opposition from the other clubs.

"I will have to be shown more pitching strength by the Detroit staff before I can regard the Tigers as a strong pennant contender. The club has a lot of hitting strength but is not up to the grade in pitching. I believe, however that Moriarty's men are a first division team, and some unlooked for pitching strength may put them into the fight.

"I figure the White Sox, Indians Browns and Red Sox something like that order. The Sox have good pitching, but are not impressive otherwise. The Indians have not been able to acquire the talent which the new officials have been trying to obtain. I cannot figure the Browns as good at this time as they were last Winter despite all the changes, and the Red Sox, with numerous changes, are a possible seventh place club."

MAN ARRESTED FOR CAR THEFT

Thought To Be One of Trio Who Visited Campbellford Recently.

ASSAULTED OFFICER.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 21.—Word was received by the local police at a late hour last night from Chief Bain of Trenton, that Frank Madden had been arrested in Toronto, Saturday, Feb. 18, and had been brought back to Trenton to answer to a charge of theft in connection with the loss of an automobile in Trenton some weeks ago. Madden is also wanted in the town of Cobourg on a similar charge.

Several weeks ago Madden and two accomplices made their appearance here and were fortunate enough to make good their escape leaving only one member of their little company in the toils of the law. Word was sent here that there had been a car stolen from Trenton and the same evening the car was picked up at a local service station when it stopped to have its gas supply replenished. Two of the men made good their escape but the third was picked up and brought before the court. The next day it was learned that the two fugitives were in hiding on the outskirts of the town and the police went after them. One of them hit Officer Light over the head with a bottle, and they took advantage of the results of the blow to make a dash for freedom. Officer Duncalfe did a twenty-mile chase but when darkness set in the pair had managed to gain a well travelled road and thus their trail was lost.

Various reports have been circulated through the community since that time, but to the one that Hankinson had been arrested in a Toronto hospital some time ago, and that he had confessed the entire affair believing himself to be in a dying condition, Chief Bain of Trenton made absolute denial. As far as is known this is the first of the two men who escaped the local police, to be arrested. Wanted on two charges of theft of automobiles, one in Trenton and the other in Cobourg, there is also the possibility that there may be a charge laid of resisting an officer in the execution of his duty. This will be in connection with the Campbellford chapter of the story and more precisely with the struggle which took place between the two men and Chief Light in the Parcels' shack, which is situated on the south side of the C.N. R. tracks near the station.

DUTCH COLONIAL HOME
W. E. Van Egmond & Stan. E. Storey, Architects.

The quaint atmosphere of the Dutch Colonial style has been caught and rendered to perfection in the charming little home shown here. It possesses a sense of calm tranquility and freedom from harsh or protrusive features which is pleasurable to behold.

An interesting detail is the use of a green painted wrought iron handrail at the front entrance, a feature which may be found adding its charm to many original Colonial homes. The two front bay windows have a softening effect on the exterior design which many will find a decidedly pleasant relief to the usual Colonial homes. The walls are of grey siding, and the roof of variegated red and brown, shingles, while the windows, shutters, doors, and iron railing, are pleasingly accentuated by being painted green with white trim.

Inclusion of a bedroom with a toilet "en suite" on the ground floor is an unusual feature of the plans. It may be noticed that no bath is provided here, which suggests a very satisfactory compromise for those undecided whether to install one or two bathrooms in their future home.

A woman would find her ideal in the kitchen arrangement and equipment, which includes sink, refrigerator alcove, pot cupboard, electric range, dining alcove, and cabinet; observe also the direct convenient access to rear door, cellar stairs, dining room and main hall.

Ascending the stairs we find on the landing a large storage closet, while the upper hall gives access to a study, bath room, linen closet, and three bedrooms.

Oak has been used for the finish floors and the ground floor trim, with enamelled pine trim on the first storey.

Landscaping has been left to the owner who, with a 27 ft. by 32 ft. house on a 45 ft. by 125 ft. lot, has ample opportunity to demonstrate his skill.

This house complete and equipped with hot water heating cost approximately $7,500.

Readers desiring further information regarding a house of this design should communicate with MacLean Builders' Guide, 345 Adelaide St. West, Toronto, Ont., who will see that it is supplied. When writing please mention design number 112. Copyright, 1928.

AT THE GRAND.

Innovations are coming thick and fast in motion pictures, but all other pretentious efforts have been surpassed by Paramount in its stupendous production of "Wings" which comes to the Grand next Friday and Saturday.

It takes master-hands and master-minds to blend aviation with romance, love, adventure and even comedy in a picture that much more than half its footage was photographed in the air. In fact all of the hundred or more army fliers, the squad of camera men and the director William A. Wellman himself took their lives in their hands at various times in the making of "Wings". A famous British Ace, Captain W. C. Campbell, rendered invaluable assistance to Director Wellman in the filming of this amazing picture, as did also Lieutenant Ted Parsons, who was one of the leading aces in the Lafayette escadrille.

Atmospheric touches suggested by such veteran birdmen, together with an absorbingly interesting story by John Monk Saunders, who was formerly a war-pilot and the breath-taking stunt flying executed by the greatest aviators of the present day combine to make "Wings" a marvelous show for all who ever have flown, would like to fly or who are interested in aviation.

Robert A. Carter, managing editor of the magazine Air Stories, who with members of his executive staff witnessed during a showing of the picture at the Criterion Theatre, New York, where it is now entering its Twenty-Fifth week, says that "Wings", will do more toward the education of the general public in aviation than any factor we have yet had. Mr. Carter, who was a flyer in the Royal Flying Corps during the war, is considered an authority on aviation.

Clara Bow heads an excellent cast which included "Buddy" Rodgers, Richard Arlen, El Brendel, Jobyna Ralston, Richers Tucker, Garry Tucker, "Gunboat" Smith, Harry B. Walthal, and hundreds of others.

AT THE CAPITOL.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS IN "THE GAUCHO."

One of the entertaining pictures which Douglas Fairbanks presents in his usual workman-like style—a style that doesn't leave any detail unthought-of to add to its artistic production—is "The Gaucho," running at the Capitol Theatre for the first half of this week. He has a cast that is singularly fitted for the various roles, and a very interesting background for his exploits. The athletic gentleman who is really a little man, but always gives the illusion of height in his pictures, is as lithe and agile as ever. He runs like a monkey up a high palm tree, vaults over high walls with the utmost ease, and also uses his brains. The episode of the taking of the City of the Miracle, single-handed, and the clever manner in which he turns the tables on his foes, by way of a cattle stampede that also stampedes them are both instances of his quick wit and daring. The swashbuckling, bombastic, swaggering "Gaucho" dominates the picture in this colorful South American romance.

Something very entertaining in the way of film psychology is the ending. "El Gaucho" has been saved from a dreadful disease by the intercessory prayers of the angel-faced girl of the shrine (Eva Southern), and it looks as if he were about to fall a victim to the beautiful grace of this lady with the "Blessed Damozel" ways. The madcap mountain girl (Lupe Velez), who has enchained his errant fancy, appears to be sinking into the discard. But she is a woman of action and of strong emotion. In a manner all her own, she betrays him to the enemy, then helps him to victory against them—and the Gaucho plays true to form. It is an interesting and very satisfactory ending. The lovely maiden of the shrine is left to her posing prayers and the two lovers ride off together to further exploits.

The story has already been fully outlined in these columns, but the recital does not give much idea of the fascinating tale that unfolds itself for the watchers of the silent drama that centres about the adventures of "El Gaucho" and his friends. Fairbanks is a real artist in this picture. He maintains its mood to the very last minute, never departing from the role of the daring adventurer with a childish heart.—Jeanette.

AT THE REGENT.

JOAN CRAWFORD'S RISE IN FILMS IS METEORIC

Joan Crawford, one of the newest luminaries of the screen, who has been given the leading role in "The Taxi Dancer," now playing at the Regent Theatre, came to the movie studios direct from the "Passing Show Revue," where she was "discovered" by Harry Rapf, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer executive.

Miss Crawford was signed to join the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer stock company of actors, after a six months' driling in the art of screen acting. She came to the Culver City Studios direct from the legitimate stage, where she was given small parts and bits to play, until she learned the art of screen acting, make-up, and was drilled in the most difficult scenes to register before the camera. That she made good is attested to by the fact that she not only was given a contract, but was cast in one of the leading roles in "Sally, Irene and Mary" after but a few short months before the camera.

Miss Crawford's name on the stage before she entered the movies was Lucille Le Lueur, but M-G-M executives considered it too complicated for professional purposes and a contest was accordingly held in a movie weekly to secure a new name for her. Tens of thousands of fans have participated in an effort to provide the brunette beauty with a new name and finally Joan Crawford was chosen with a $500.00 reward given to the one who sugested this name.

Playing with Miss Crawford in "The Taxi Driver," which was directed by Harry Millarde, are Owen Moore, Marc MacDermott, Claire MacDowell, Douglas Gilmore and other players of note.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR of THE BENSON MURDER CASE

© Charles Scribner's Sons

THE STORY THUS FAR

Vance believes Skeel was innocent the murder of Margaret Odell and he lay hidden in a closet while strangler did his work. Markham ridicules the theory but Vance is unshaken. He shatters Cleaver's alibi being out of the city the night of the murder and urges Markham to check up thoroughly on Mannix's whereabouts. Dr. Lindquist, who had lied once before, is brought in again and questioned.

CHAPTER XXXII

Doctor Lindquist winced and considered the matter at some length.

"And if I admit that my affection for Miss Odell was other than paternal—what then?"

Markham accepted the question as an affirmation.

"You were intensely jealous of her, were you not, doctor?"

"Jealousy," Doctor Lindquist remarked, with an air of ironic professionalism, "is not an unusual accompaniment to an infatuation. Authorities such as Krafft-Ebing, Moll, Freud, Ferenczi, and Adler, I believe, regard it as an intimate psychological corollary of amatory attraction."

"Most instructive," Markham nodded his head appreciatively. "I am to assume, then, that you were infatuated with—or, let us say, amatorily attracted by—Miss Odell, and that on occasions you exhibited the intimate psychological corollary of jealousy?"

"You may assume what you please. But I fail to understand why my emotions are any of your affair."

"Had your emotions not led you to highly questionable and suspicious acts, I would not be interested in them. But I have it on unimpeachable authority that your emotions so reacted on your better judgment that you threatened to take Miss Odell's life and also your own. And in view of the fact that the young woman has since been murdered, the law naturally—and reasonably—is curious."

The doctor's normally pale face seemed to turn yellow and his long splay fingers tightened over the arms of his chair; but otherwise he sat immobile and rigidly dignified, his eyes fixed intently on the district attorney.

"I trust," added Markham, "you will not augment my suspicions by any attempt at denial."

Vance was watching the man closely. Presently he leaned forward.

"I say, doctor, what method of extermination did you threaten Miss Odell with?"

Doctor Lindquist jerked round,—thrusting his head toward Vance. He drew in a long rasping breath, and his whole frame became tense. Blood suffused his cheeks; and there was a twitching of the muscles about his mouth and throat. For a moment I was afraid he was going to lose self-control. But after a moment's effort he steadied himself.

"You think perhaps I threatened to strangle her?" His words were vibrant with the intensity of his passionate anger. "And you would like to turn my threat into a noose to hang me? Paugh!"

He paused, and when he spoke again his voice had become clearer. "It is quite true I once inadvisedly attempted to frighten Miss Odell with a threat to kill her and to commit suicide. But if your information is accurate as you would have me believe, you are aware that I threatened her with a revolver. It is the weapon, I believe, that is conventionally mentioned when making empty threats. I certainly would not have threatened her with thuggee, even had I contemplated so abominable an act."

"True," nodded Vance. "And it's a rather good point, don't y' know."

The doctor was evidently encouraged by Vance's attitude. He again faced Markham and elaborated his confession.

"A threat, I presume you know, is rarely the forerunner of a violent deed. Even a brief study of the human mind would teach you that a threat is prima facie evidence of one's innocence. A threat, generally, is made in anger, and acts as its own safety-valve."

He shifted his eyes. "I am not a married man; my emotional life has not been stabilized, as it were; and I am constantly coming in close contact with hypersensitive and overwrought people. During a period of abnormal susceptibility I conceived an infatuation for the young woman, an infatuation which she did not reciprocate—certainly not with an ardor commensurate with my own.

"I suffered deeply; and she made no effort to mitigate my sufferings. Indeed, I suspected her, more than once, of deliberately and perversely torturing me with other men. At any rate, she took no pains to hide her infidelities from me. I confess that once or twice I was almost distracted. And it was in the hope of frightening her into a more amenable and considerate attitude that I threatened her. I trust that you are a sufficiently discerning judge of human nature to believe me."

"Leaving that point for a moment," answered Markham non-committally, "will you give me more specific information as to your whereabouts Monday night?"

Again I noted a yellow tinge creep over the man's features, and his body stiffened perceptibly. But when he spoke it was with his habitual suavity.

"I considered that my note to you covered that question satisfactorily. What did I omit?"

"What was the name of the patient on whom you were calling that night?"

"Mrs. Anna Breedon. She is the widow of the late Amos H. Breedon of the Breedon National Bank of Long Branch."

"And you were with her, I believe you stated, from eleven until one?"

"That is correct."

"And was Mrs. Breedon the only witness to your presence at the sanitarium between those hours?"

"I am afraid that is so. You see, after ten o'clock at night I never ring the bell. I let myself in with my own key."

"And I suppose that I may be permitted to question Mrs. Breedon?"

Doctor Lindquist was profoundly regretful.

"Mrs. Breedon is a very ill woman. She suffered a tremendous shock at the time of her husband's death last summer, and has been practically in a semiconscious condition ever since. There are times when I even fear for her reason. The slightest disturbance or excitement might produce very serious results."

He took a newspaper cutting from a gold-edged letter-case and handed it to Markham.

"You will observe that this obituary notice mentions her prostration and confinement in a private sanitarium. I have been her physician for years."

Markham, after glancing at the cutting, handed it back. There was a short silence broken by a question from Vance.

"By the bye, doctor, what is the name of the night nurse at your sanitarium?"

Doctor Lindquist looked up quickly.

"My night nurse? Why—what has she to do with it? She was very busy Monday night. I can't understand. . . . Well, if you want her name I have no objection. It's Finckle—Miss Amelia Finckle."

Vance wrote down the name and, rising, carried the slip of paper to Heath.

"Sergeant, bring Miss Finckle here tomorrow morning at eleven," he said, with a slight lowering of one eyelid.

"I sure will, sir. Good idea." His manner boded no good for Miss Finckle.

A cloud of apprehension spread over Doctor Lindquist's face.

"Forgive me if I say that I am insensible to the sanity of your cavalier methods." His tone betrayed only contempt. "May I hope that for the present your inquisition is ended?"

"I think that will be all, doctor," returned Markham, politely. "May I have a taxicab called for you?"

"Your consideration overwhelms me. But my car is below." And Doctor Lindquist haughtily withdrew.

Markham immediately summoned Swacker and sent him for Tracy. The detective came at once, polishing his pince-nez and bowing affably. One would have taken him for an actor rather than a detective, but his ability in matters requiring delicate handling was a byword in the department.

"I want you to fetch Mr. Louis Mannix again," Markham told him. "Bring him here at once; I'm waiting to see him."

Tracy bowed genially and, adjusting his glasses, departed on his errand.

"And now," said Markham, fixing Vance with a reproachful look. "I want to know what your idea was in putting Lindquist on his guard about the night nurse. Your brain isn't at par this afternoon."

"Do you think I didn't have the nurse in mind? And now you've warned him. He'll have until eleven tomorrow morning to coach her in her answers. Really, Vance, I can't conceive of anything better calculated to defeat us in our attempt to substantiate the man's alibi."

"I did put a little fright into him, didn't I?" Vance grinned complacently. "Whenever your antagonist begins talking exaggeratedly about the insanity of your notions, he's already deuced hot under the collar.

"But, Markham, old thing, don't burst into tears over my mental shortcomings. If you and I both thought of the nurse, don't you suppose the wily doctor also thought of her? If this Miss Finckle were the type that could be suborned, he would have enlisted her perjurious services two days ago, and she would have been mentioned, along with the comatose Mrs. Breedon, as a witness to his presence at the sanitarium Monday night.

"The fact that he avoided all reference to the nurse shows that she's not to be wheedled into swearing falsely. . . . No, Markham. I deliberately put him on his guard. Now he'll have to do something before we question Miss Finckle. And I'm vain enough to think I know what it'll be."

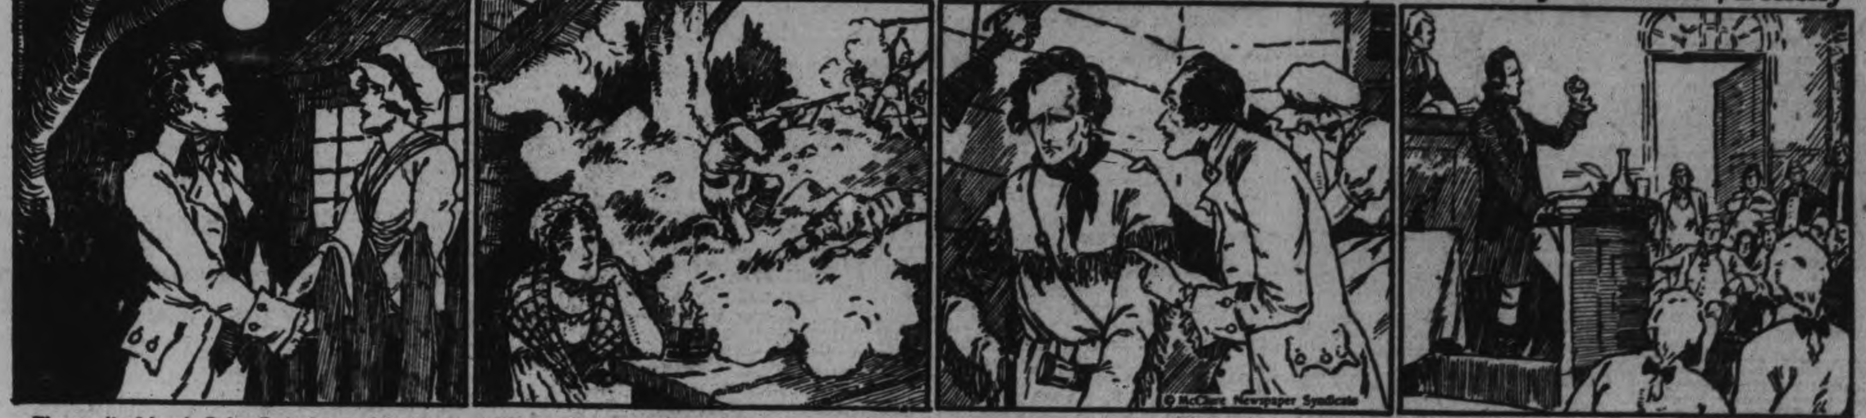
FAMOUS LOVE ROMANCES Andrew Jackson and Rachel Robards (II) By Nicholas Afonsky



© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

The result of Lewis Robard's jealousy of Andrew Jackson was that he went to Virginia, which then had legal jurisdiction over Nashville, to seek a divorce. Word soon came that it had been granted. Jackson, who had left Mrs. Donelson's when the trouble began, in love with Rachel, began to pay court to her.

They were married in the summer of 1791. For the first time Rachel had a log cabin of her own. She and Jackson were sincerely in love and Rachel was happy whether her husband, U. S. attorney for the state, was away riding circuit, trading cattle for land, or making friends and enemies of his neighbors.

Two years later trouble came to the Jacksons. Overton brought the news that, when Rachel thought her husband had got a divorce, he had only got authority from the Virginia legislature to bring suit. He was now suing. Jackson and Rachel were married again, as soon as the divorce was actually granted.

Many of Jackson's biographers blame him for not knowing the real state of affairs before he married Rachel. The scandal later caused them much unhappiness, and at last led to Mrs. Jackson's death. At the time nothing was thought of it, for the next year Jackson was sent to Congress, then meeting at Philadelphia.

SCARLET CHAPTER ELECTS OFFICERS

Important Business Discussed at Annual Meeting of Peterborough Chapter.

With the best attended meeting of the year, the Royal Scarlet Chapter of the City of Peterborough held its annual meeting on Friday, February 17th, in Victoria Hall, with Wor. Commander Sir Kt. J. Wilson in the chair. After some very important business was transacted, Past Wor. Com. Sir Kt. Stewart Anderson was requested to take the chair and conduct the election and installation of officers, which resulted in the following officers being duly installed for the ensuing year:

Wor. Commander — Sir Kt. George Raines.

Immediate Past Commander — Sir Kt. J. Wilson.

Dep. Commander — Sir Kt. Frank Millard.

Chaplain—Sir Kt. James Pickering.

Scribe—Sir Kt. Clifford Brien.

Treasurer—Sir Kt. Herbert Mullen.

Sir Herald-at-Arms—Sir Kt. Al. Spencely.

Lecturers—Sir Kt. Richard Martyn and Sir Kt. M. Sproats.

Conductors—Sir Kt. S. Cummings and Sir Kt. William Wilson.

Herald—Sir Kt. Thomas Brien.

Sentinel—Sir Kt. S. Anderson.

After the election the newly elected officers gave some very interesting addresses and according to the optimism shown by them this looks like a banner year.

Owing to the fact that the Wor. Commander and Dep. Commander vote in other capacities at Grand Lodge, Sir Kt. Thomas W. Brien was appointed to represent this Chapter as proxy.

be far outweighed by the cost. The League has no objection to offer, however, to a plan for central registration of liens on motor vehicles. It is understood that a measure of this kind will be considered at the present session of the Legislature.

General.

The services afforded the individual member of the League are being extended from time to time. The personal advantages of membership make it worth while for a motorist to belong to the League from a purely selfish standpoint. On the other hand the League's services of a general character of which all motorists reap the benefit, are not being curtailed. There is, accordingly, every reason to believe that the membership of the League will continue to grow with the usefulness of the organization—and more members will mean still greater usefulness in the days to come.

membership. The amount invested should be the representative pro rata share of the investor in relation to his or their investment in the community. The first $15.00 subscribed is credited as a membership, and should be assigned to some individual for purposes of voting.

Following this the prospect cards were assigned by drawing. Captains' names were placed in a hat by Chairman J. J. Turner, and drawn out by Colonel J. Wells Fraser. Each team of six men was assigned 70 prospect cards to call upon during the next four days. The first three days the teams will confine their activity to the geographical division assigned. Friday will be open season and clean-up day.

J. Wells Fraser made a short speech in which he thanked the men for rallying so splendidly to the support of the organization, and predicted that the amount asked—$12,500 — would be promptly subscribed if the teams saw the prospects.

President Gillespie and James Dutton, with their assistants, scarcely waited for breakfast to be over before they were seeing the big fellows.

"It is now up to us. Let's do our full duty," said Mr. Gillespie as he left the hotel. "I have but one ambition, and that is to leave the organization adequately financed when I close my second year as president."

"Everybody on their toes," was the parting shot Major Chris Graham gave his men.

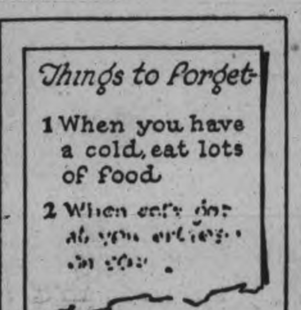
"Beat Chris Graham's crowd," was the order issued by Charles Lacheur. Father Costello, still suffering from a cold, told his crew, "I'm counting on every one of you."

"The campaign got away nicely, and I'm delighted," said J. J. Turner.

"Proper Food and Exercise"
By ARTHUR A. McGOVERN
Former Physical Director,
Cornell Medical College

Winter Colds Are Jobs for Physician

VERY few persons are fortunate enough to escape colds during the winter months. There are many and varied kinds of colds, such as head colds, chest colds and colds of the bronchial or intestinal types.



Things to Forget
1 When you have a cold, eat lots of food
2 When

A rule of health that is old and WRONG!

Each of these conditions has a significance which should not be treated lightly. Serious complications may result from attempting to cure such maladies with home remedies. Any form of a cold is one of Nature's danger signals warning us that the physical resistance is low. Taking medications to rid one's self of a cold is not getting at the cause of the trouble.

If you have contracted a cold, your physician should be consulted immediately, so that he may properly prescribe not only for the cold but for the functional condition which has caused the system's resistance to become low.

Remember the traditional "ounce of prevention." Wear sufficiently warm but not too warm clothing. Avoid overeating, and hot and stuffy rooms. Seek proper ventilation, but avoid drafts. Rest and exercise and the open air without undue exposure are helpful.

Laxative Diet

BREAKFAST: A stewed fruit; a large dish of cereal, to which add two tablespoonsful of bran or agar agar; dark bread toasted, copiously buttered; coffee substitute, hot water. LUNCH: A vegetable lunch; or a fresh fruit salad; dark bread, whole wheat or bran muffins; tapioca, rice pudding or gelatin; glass of buttermilk. Between luncheon and dinner, two glasses of water. DINNER: Soup; broiled lean meat, chicken or fish; two vegetables; a baked potato may be taken with plenty of butter, be sure to eat the skin; one slice of dark bread or one muffin; gelatin dessert; for desert any cooked or raw fruit; a hot drink.

Obituary

HARRY N. PAYNE.

As a distinct shock to his many friends and comrades of the Great War in the city and county, came word of the death of Harry Norman Payne, who passed away at the Nicholls Hospital, yesterday afternoon, in his 45th year.

The deceased was a veteran of the Great War, having served in France with the 4th Battalion. He served altogether four years and six months and was discharged with the rank of Sergeant.

Since his return from overseas he has been an active member of the G.W.V.A. and Canadian Legion. He was also a member of the Euchre Committee which has been so active in working for the relief of others. Comrade Payne was himself a disability man, having suffered in silence from a severe heart condition derived in the war as a result of gas poisoning, and which culminated in death yesterday. Knowing his own sufferings he was always ready with a helping hand to assist others. His genial face and pleasant smile will be sadly missed around the Veterans' Hall and by those whom he worked with. He was a member of L.O.L. 321.

He is survived by a sorrowing daughter, Miss Alice R. Payne of Lakefield, and three brothers, David of Warsaw Herbert and Frederick of Mossbank, Sask.

The remains will lie at his residence, 237½ Princess street to-night, and will be taken to the Canadian Legion hall, where the service will take place to-morrow. After the service, which is at two o'clock, the body will be placed in the vault at Little Lake cemetery until interment can be made at Warsaw.

F. G. Oke and Company wire as follows:

TORONTO, Feb. 21. — The mining market again showed little strength this morning and for the most part lower prices resulted.

Abana featured the declines apparently on account of a newspaper report of yesterday evening to the effect that a pool in Abana stock was to be dissolved on March 1. The report further stated that all ofe the pooled stock was purchased by the holders at cheap prices which appears to have had the effect of scaring those holding free stock to sell in anticipation of a quick break in price when the pool is dissolved. However the fact that some 75 to 80 per cent. of this pooled stock is reported bought under the market when Abana was selling at materially higher levels, seems to have been entirely overlooked. Some of this pooled stock we are informed was bought at much higher prices than Abana is now selling. The other 20 to 25 per cent. of shareholders have been approached by strong financial interests to sell their pooled stock under the market at various times, and as offers have been refused they may be regarded as the usual percentage of shareholders who buy a buy a stock with the intention of holding it until the company involved reached a point of production and profits. As a result when the pool is liquidated we expect to see very little if any stock thrown on the market and in view of some $12,000,000 to $15,000,000 worth of ore reported on Abana now, with indications far exceeding this total, and production in sight for 1928, it seems as though Abana stock is selling far below its intrinsic value. Consequently we believe there is little doubt that Abana will react to considerably higher levels as soon as the actual state of affairs makes itself apparent.

Another stock which has had a substantial reaction of late without any apparent reason is Howey Gold.

Reports regarding underground development were anticipated long before now but as yet these have not materialized and it looks as if impatience has resulted in considerable selling of the stock.

Sudbury Basin Strong Amid General Weakness

TORONTO, Feb. 21. — (Canadian Press.)—Sudbury Basin was the outstanding feature on the stock market mining exchange to-day, climbing $2.25 at 22.35 in the face of a generally easier movement. The weaker issues, greatly in the majority, were led by Noranda, which lost 75 cents at 17.25, a new low for the year. Pend O'Reille dipped to 17.00, a loss of 65 cents, and the Kirkland Lake issues generally sagged. Another weak feature was Howey Gold, slumping eleven at 198. The big Porcupine mines were generally firm.

Toronto Exchange Exhibits Firmness

TORONTO, February 21 (Canadian Press). — A stronger tendency was shown on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. International Nickel, opening at 81¼, eased down to 79¾ for a net loss of one point. Alberta Pacific Grain was a strong feature, selling up 2½ at 60, and Canadian Oil made a sensational gain of 3½ points at 54. Page Hersey was a very active stock, and after selling up as high as 97 eased down at the close to 95 for a gain of one. British-American Oil again led the unlisted section, gaining 1¼ at 33¾. Cockshutt Preferred and Canada Dredge Preferred both recorded gains of one point at 115 and 109 respectively. International Petroleum, Service Station and Hiram Walker were fractionally firmer. Northern Bakeries, Seagram, Shredded Wheat, and City Dairy suffered fractionally, while Canadian Industrial Alcohol Rights lost 15 at 150.

Wheat Prices Firm While Corn Drops

CHICAGO, February 21 (Canadian Press). — Wheat started steady to a shade higher on the Chicago Board of Trade, and showed firmness in the early trading. March and May opened unchanged to ⅛c higher and July ¼c to ⅜c higher. Corn was easier in the absence of outside inquiries, local trades being in the minority at the start. The volume was moderate and offerings to arrive were not numerous. Prices ranged from ¼c lower to unchanged.

Oats at the start were unaffected by corn, seeming rather to be inclined to follow wheat.

PETERBOROUGH RINK IS STILL IN RUNNING

J. N. Bacon Defeats Toronto Granite Rink in Toronto 'Spiel.

TORONTO, Feb. 21 (Canadian Press).—Two victories have been gained by the Peterborough rink of curlers at the great Toronto bonspiel, which began yesterday. This morning the rink skipped by J. N. Bacon and comprising in addition, R. Sturgeon, H. F. Foote and G. F. Liddle, ousted the Gray rink of the Granites Club, Toronto, in the first round of the Seiberling Trophy by a 14—7 score. Yesterday the local curlers defeated a Napanee rink skipped by C. I. Maybee in the North American Life Trophy contest, the result being 10—9. This afternoon the Peterborough men began their second round Seiberling battle against Little of Toronto. Ray Best, the original skip of the Peterborough rink was unable to carry on, being called away by the illness of a relative.

County Council Sets Road Rate At Three Mills

OWNERS OF CHAMPION COW HONOR GUESTS AT BANQUET SPONSORED BY FAIR BOARD

Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, Principal Speaker at Dinner.

MANY IN ATTENDANCE.

Citizens From Large Area Join in Tribute To James Seymour and Sons.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 22.—The Honorable John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, was the principal speaker at the complimentary banquet tendered James I. Seymour and Sons on Tuesday evening, because of the honor they have brought to the community, the county, and the country at large, through having in their herd of pure-bred Holstein-Fresian cattle a cow, "Idylwilde Korndyke," which holds the world's championship in butter fat production, and the Canadian championship in both butter fat and milk production, under the R.O.P. test.

The event, which was highly successful throughout, was held in the Armouries, and was sponsored by the Agricultural Society, covers being laid for over three hundred guests who sat down shortly after 7 p.m. The tables were centered with runners of a deep red shade, spring flowers and dishes of rosy-cheeked apples completing the decorative scheme. The local branch of the Women's Institute catered for the banquet. The blessing was pronounced by Rev. John Riddel, pastor of Grace Presbyterian church.

Seated at the right of the chairman, Harold Tate, president of the Agricutlural Society, were the guests of honor, Mr. and Mrs. James Seymour, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Seymour, and the other three sons, Messrs. Harry, Will and Carmen; to the left of the toastmaster was Honorable Mr. Martin, and other guests at the head table were W. J. Bragg, M.P., F. W. Bowen, M.P., A. J. Fallis, ex-M.P.P., Mayor Denne, G. A. Gillespie, H. Knox, J. J. Duffus of Peterborough, T. W. McIndoo, vice-president of the Peterborough Agricultural Society, E. A. Neilson and J. Y. Kellough, of the Department of Agriculture, Port Hope, L. H. Winslow, vice-president of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, Rev. P. C. Howard, Rev. F. H. Howard, Rev. J. Riddell, Reeve Hootan, Councillors J. R. Eakins, P. Stinson, and others.

The Hon. J. S. Martin.

After the toast to the King had been duly honored, the list was preceded with, Honorable Mr. Martin responding to "Agriculture," which had been proposed by the member for Durham, W. J. Bragg, M.P.P.

Mr. Martin was received with vociferous applause when he arose to speak, his opening remarks being: "I have been more than delighted with this entire evening, with the object in view, the spirit which has been manifest, and the fine repast which we have enjoyed."

Paying tribute to 'the man and his sons who have achieved a world-wide reputation,' the speaker went on to mention the pride he had in living on a farm, and declared that while banquets were frequently tendered those in other walks of life for having reached some desired goal, accomplishments in the line of agriculture were on the whole ignored. "I am glad you in Cavan have not waited for the years ahead, but are now speaking your appreciation of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour, and their boys, and are telling them what you think of them in this present hour, not delaying until they are dead." (Applause).

The care, labor, watchfulness involved, the length of the test, and other details compulsory where a world record is to be established were referred to in a most complimentary manner by Minister of Agriculture, who added: "They who have been through all this can tell you what it means, because they are the only ones who know. You saw the spirit of modesty which Mr. Seymour showed—he isn't bragging, but it is apparent that he deeply appreciates the honor you are so justly conferring upon him. We all have a feeling of thankfulness when our neighbors do something worthy of merit. I glory in the fact that you people of Cavan have done this that you have done to-night." (Applause.)

"Agriculture is a big subject, and too many of us are apologizing for being farmers, when we ought to be proud of the fact. There is no finer occupation in Canada; I pass up a lot of the professions, but this time-honored profession of the cultivation of the land, producing food and clothing for mankind, I believe to be the most important in the world."

Rural Life Best.

Mentioning the fact that, after his graduaiton from the University, he had taught school for a time and had 'made a break and gone back to the land; our homestead was sold, so I built up a homestead of my own, beginning with one and one-half acres, and now owning two hundred acres,' the speaker went on to emphasize the

Mystery Surrounds Death Of Woman

SOMERVILLE, N.J., February 22 (Canadian Press). — Efforts to solve the mystery surrounding the death of an unidentified and apparently cultured woman of about 33, whose garments were saturated with oil and then ignited, and whose body, in flames, was found on Monday night near the Bernardsville - Morristown Line, centred here last night.

The woman's body was brought to the Somerset County Hospital, where an autopsy was ordered in an attempt to ascertain whether the victim had been slain or had taken her own life.

HINKLER ENDS LONG JOURNEY

Arrives at Port Darwin, Fifteen Days After Leaving London.

BETTERS RECORDS.

PORT DARWIN, Australia, Feb. 22 (Canadian Press). — Bert Hinkler, British flier, arrived here today from Bima, Sungawa, completing a flight from England in fifteen days.

Hinkler in landing today also bettered by thirteen days the record for a flight to Australia from London, established by the Smith Brothers in 1919, when they covered the distance in twenty-eight days.

Making the flight alone, Hinkler came from England with clocklike regularity, stopping successively at Rome; Malta; Bengazi; Cirenica; Torbruk, Tripoli; Ramleigh, Palestine; Basra, Irak; Jask, Persia; Karachi, India; Calcutta, India; Rangoon, Burma; Singapore, Bandong, Java, and Bima. The most dangerous stretch was about a thousand miles over the Timor Sea from Bima to Port Darwin.

To fulfill his program, Hinkler has to reach Bundaberg, Queensland, his native place, about seventeen hundred miles from Port Darwin.

Set New Records

LONDON, Feb. 22 (Canadian Press) Bert Hinkler Australian aviator, who arrived in Australia today, is acclaimed in London as having performed one of the most remarkable features of flying skill and endurance that has yet been accomplished,.

Claims are made that the fifteen day flight established five new air records, being the fastest flight between England and Australia; the longest plane flight ever made; the longest solo flight in any kind of airplane; the fastest journey between England and India; and the first non-stop flight between London and Rome.

It developed today that Hinkler was poorer by about ten thousand dollars than he would have been if he had completed arrangement for a policy with Lloyds which he previously was stated to have taken out. The underwriters said that Hinkler had arranged for a policy of about ten thousand pounds sterling against reaching Australia within sixteen days, but for some reason left without completing the negotiations.

No Help Needed

LONDON, Feb. 22 (Canadian Press).—The Daily Mail today said that the real object of Bert Hinkler's flight to Australia was to test a new undercarriage. This the British flier invented himself and to it he attributed his success in the present flight. The plane he used is fitted with folding wings and an under carriage which swings back when, the wings are folded, enabling the flier to house the machine in a garage and making it easy for one man to handle.

Hinkler sent a message to London saying he never had the least assistance in moving the machine since he started.

In the Legislature.

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (Canadian Press).—Yesterday, first reading was given to a bill to amend the Municipal Act. Attorney-General Price made a statement respecting the adjournment of the inquest into the deaths at the Hollinger Mine fire. The debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne was resumed. E. Blake Hiller (Liberal, East Elgin), R. G. Sandy (Progressive, Victoria South), T. L. Kennedy (Conservative, Peel); Dr. G. A. McQuibban (Liberal, Northeast Wellington); C. Gardiner (Progressive, East Kent), and L. Macauley (Conservative, South York), spoke.

C.P.R. Brakeman Seriously Injured In Train Wreck Near Roblindale

KINGSTON, Ont., February 22 (Canadian Press). — James Walsh, C.P.R. brakeman, was thrown through a caboose window and badly cut about the face and head, when the freight train on which he was working ran into a broken switch at Roblindale Station, on the main line of the C.P.R. between Toronto and Montreal, and was wrecked. The engine and eleven coaches were thrown off the track. No one else was injured. Traffic on this line was held up for about twelve hours.

The freight was travelling west at about 35 miles an hour when it ran into the broken switch. The accident happened about two o'clock yesterday afternoon and had the freight train not struck the broken swith, there might have been much more serious results, as the Montreal flyer, No. 19, was following the freight about twenty minutes behind at this point. The track was torn up for several hundred yards, and a wrecking crew was immediately called to repair the damage. The flyer was sent around via Sharbot Lake. This accident took place just twelve miles west of the recent fatality at Dockrill, where a number of people lost their lives owing to a head-on collision between a freight and passenger train, due to the freight over-running the siding.

MRS. E. C. S. HUYCKE PASSES AWAY AT HOME AFTER A LONG ILLNESS

Life of Useful Endeavor Brought To Close Yesterday.

BORN IN COBOURG.

Deceased Lady Noted in City For Her Assistance in Patriotic Work.

A life time of sincere Christian endeavor has closed in the passing of Rose Meredith Field, wife of His Honor Judge E. C. S. Huycke. Terminating a lengthy illness, her death occured at her home, Engleburn, in Peterborough, on Tuesday, Feb. 21, and for a wide circle of acquaintances the word of her death carried a note of genuine regret. To Judge Huycke is extended sympathy in the loss of one who for more than 40 years has been nearest to him.

The late Mrs. Huycke was the daughter of John Collard Field, for a number of years Member of Parliament for Northumberland, and Thirza Pearse, who resided at Cobourg, but are now deceased.

Until illness overtook her, deceased was prominent in community service work. To the ladies of Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E., she was particularly well known as the founder and first Regent of the Chapter; the Red Cross knew her helping hand during war days, and the Ashburnham Ladies' Patriotic League has been appreciably benefited by her membership.

Mrs. Huycke was also a member of Trinity Church her passing marking the loss of one of its most faithful adherents.

Surviving are His Honor Judge Huycke; two daughters, Rosamond (Mrs. James Blaiklock) of Montreal, and Audrey (Mrs. William Duffield) of London, Ontario; also three sons, Wilfrid of Peterborough, and Douglas and Meredith of Toronto. Her youngest son Arthur lost his life in the Great War.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, "Engleburn," on Thursday, February 23, the service being at 3.00 p.m., proceeding to Little Lake Cemetery half an hour later, for interment.

The Rev. David Wren, of Trinity Church; Archdeacon Davidson, now of Toronto but formerly of St. John's Church here, and the Rev. Dr. Mallott, formerly of Trinity Church, but now of Belleville will conduct the services at the house and graveside.

Routley Spaniel Is Adjudged Best

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 22 (Canadian Press).—Trent Valley Firelight, owned by Herbert S. Routley of Peterborough, Ont. was adjudged the best Springer Spaniel at the dog show here yesterday. After receiving the award for best bitch in her class, the Canadian dog defeated the best Springer Spaniel dog, Roy Rymer's Trent Valley Handsome, fore the purple ribbon.

At the Westminster Kennel Club Show in New York last week, Trent Valley Firelight won several honors, including the award for the best bitch in her class.

CONDEMNED GIRL HAS NO PARENTS

Counsel Denies Stories About Doris McDonald—Is Seeking Reprieve.

OTTAWA, February 22 (Canadian Press).—The Journal on its news page says to-day:

"Contrary to previous reports, Doris McDonald, who with her husband, George McDonald, is under sentence of death for the murder of Adelard Bouchard, has no living parents. This statement was made to the Journal early this morning by J. A. Legault, K.C., of Montreal, counsel for the condemned couple, who arrived last night to intercede with the Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, in an effort to obtain a reprieve.

Mr. Legault denied that Mrs. Snyder, of Chicago, Ill., is the girl's mother.

"Their execution has been set for March 23, and Mr. Legault advised the Journal that should he make an appeal he would not do so before March 15, in order to gain as much time as possible.

"According to Mr. Legault, Doris McDonald is dying of consumption, and at present is in a very critical condition in the women's jail at Montreal."

FIRE DESTROYS FARM HOUSE NEAR VILLAGE OF LAKEFIELD

E. R. Tate Suffers Heavy Loss When Dwelling is Burned.

OUTBUILDINGS SAVED.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 22. — Lakefield village suffered a heavy loss yesterday afternoon when one of the picturesque landmarks of the district, the farm house of E. R. Tate, known as "Bendennis," was completely destroyed by fire As it was situated in Douro, about one mile from the Lakefield railway station, the local fire brigade had to get permission from the reeve to leave the town limits in answer to the alarm sent in by Walter Hamblin, who was first to notice the blaze

Outbuildings Saved.

Owing to the poor condition of the roads for travel the fire had made great headway before the brigade reached the scene. The house was almost completely destroyed but the barns and cutbuildings were saved, owing to the good work of the firemen who were further handicapped in rescue efforts by the high wind and the zero weather. Most of the furniture was saved, and while the loss was believed heavy the property was partially covered by insurance.

Overheated Stove.

Mrs. Tate, who was in Lakefield village at the time visiting her mother-in-law, Mrs. F. J. Tate, had left the house unoccupied, and it is believed that the blaze was caused from an overheated kitchen stove. E. R. Tate, owner of the property, is manager of the Lakefield Canoe Company.

Appeal To League For Famine Relief

GENEVA, Feb. 22 (Canadian Press).—The Albanian Government has appealed to the League of Nations in behalf of the famine stricken population of Northern Albania. Serious distress has come to that part of the country in consequence of the bad harvest last year. The Government has requested that the suffering of the Albanians be brought to the attention also of various charitable societies, so that relief work may be organized as quickly as possible.

C. A. S. BOARD GIVES NOTICE TO OFFICIALS

Matron ano Caretaker Asked For Their Resignations From Position.

NEGLECT CHARGED.

Committee Named To Engage Successors—Changes Made in Board.

The resignations of the caretaker and matron of the Shelter, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Brooks, was asked by the Board of Management of the Children's Aid Society at thei regular monthly meting held yesterday in the City Council Chamber, after charges of neglect and ill-treatment of the wards had been made by several members.

A number of the ladies of the Sewing Committee that meets once a week at the Shelter reported having seen Mr. Brooks correct some of the smaller children in a manner that they considered unnecessarily severe and several of the men corroborated the statements. That the children were not kept clean, "either in their flesh or in their clothing," as one of the ladies worded it, was another complaint. The salary of $1200 paid the caretaker and matron, is supposed to include payments for help to be hired by them, and sufficient assistance has not been procured by the matron. "'These people are naturally trying to make all they can out of the job," said another, "but one woman can't take care of all those children and do it properly."

The president, Rev. Dr. Blagrave, manifested a good deal of concern over the recital of several incidents in connection with Mr. Brooks' program of correction of the wards, and the meeting was unanimously of the opinion that regular and frequent visits should be made by the Board members to the Shelter to ascertain that conditions were as they ought to be. The discussion culminated in the resolution asking for the resignations of Mr. and Mrs. Brooks, to whom two months' notice is necessary.

Unable to Manage Son.

In the report of the Superintendent, J. Edgar, was a reference to a young boy named Toplis, formerly of Peterboro, now living with his father and stepmother in Toronto. The boy was made a ward of the society some years ago The father wrote Mr. Edgar asking that the son be brought back to Peterboro, as he is getting into trouble through petty thefts in Toronto. Another suggestion was that he be placed in the Industrial School. Mr. Edgar will go to Toronto and bring the boy to the Shelter.

Mr. Edgar spoke of interviewing the County and City Councils, with a request for a grant of $1500 from the former and of $2000 from the latter. He hoped that Alderman Stocker would use his influence in procuring the increased grant from the city.

Alderman Stocker "I don't think you will get a dollar more than last year. I don't want to raise your hopes. With all the paring we can do I'm afraid the rate is going to be a mill higher than last year's."

Sundry Business.

On the request of Mrs. W. H. Gibbs convenor of the Purchasing Committee Mrs. H. W. Darcy was appointed as substitute for herself, during busy periods in her own home.

A letter from the Kiwanis Club was read, saying that Dr. E. H. Wood had been appointed to represent this organization, in place of the previous appointee, Dr. Ray Scott, who found it impossible to give sufficient time to the meetings. It was pointed out that Dr. Wood is already a member of the Board, but could represent the Kiwanis club also if he wished.

Ensign Greene of the Salvation Army, was appointed to take the place of Commandant Frank Ham, lately removed from the city.

It was decided to advertise at once for a new caretaker and matron for the Shelter, and a committee to look after the appointment was named, in Alderman W. Stocker (convenor), Mesdames W. H. Gibbs, J. Welsh, H. W. Darcy, J. Fanning and Mr. J. Abraham. The committee was increased in size over that of the previous committee, which functioned at the time of the appointment of Mr. and Mrs. Brooks.

The report of the Superintendent was as follows: Applications, 4; children brought to the Shelter (not wards) 9; placed on parole (not wards), 1; returned to parents, 5, involved, children, 53; made wards, 3; complaints received and investigations made, 10; mail received, 41; mail sent out, 96; approximate mileage covered, 250; places visited, 4; Cordova Mine, Warsaw (twice) and North Monaghan, police court attendance, 3; wards in foster homes heard from, 8; wards placed out, 2; wards visited, 1 During the month of January, seventeen children were

What County Council Did.

Refused to make a grant towards the War Memorial.

Granted a yearly retiring allowance of $550 to H. Nesbitt.

Petitioned the Government to finance all provincial highway construction and maintenance.

Petitioned the Government to increase the tax on gasoline to five cents a gallon.

Set county road rate at 3 mills.

Struck estimates of $9,250 for Suburban Area Roads.

Appointed committee to meet South Monaghan Council and discuss possibility of that township joining the county.

Decided to discuss with the Minister of Highways the advisability of issuing debentures to meet highway construction costs.

COUNTY REFUSES TO MAKE GRANT TO PETERBORO WAR MEMORIAL; MUNICIPALITIES HAVE THEIR OWN

Council Believes Ratepayers Do Not Support Plan for Further Grant.

H. NESBITT RETIRES

Members Decide to Petition Government to Increase Tax on Gasoline.

Peterborough's War Memorial committee will receive no financial aid from the County Ratepayers was the decision reached by the members of the County Council at the special session held yesterday in the County Council chambers. A great majority of the municipalities of the County of Peterborough have already built war memorials to the memory of their soldier dead and the members did not think that they would be justified in asking the ratepayers of the county to make further grants towards the large memorial that is to be erected in this city this summer.

The concensus of feeling expressed by many of the members was that the local committee was too late in seeking aid, for if they had come to the county council eight years ago things might have been different to-day.

When the council opened its special session the Warden was absent and ex-Warden Middleton was elected to occupy the chair. Later on Mr. Smithson came in and reported that he had been held up by snow blocked roads.

Mayor Denne introduced a delegation composed of himself, H. G. Thompson and George Macdonald from the Citizens' War Memorial committee. Mayor Denne asked that the council consider the grant to the war memorial at this special session as before the June session the committee wished to put on a drive to secure funds and they would like to know what the county was going to do in the matter. "The memorial is for the whole county and every name will be on it. Peterborough has started the campaign with a grant of $5,000 and members of the old 93rd aBttalion have contributed $1,500," said His Worship. The other members of the delegation had nothing to add to the plea of the Mayor. When leaving Mr. Macdonald gave the members an invitation to visit the Quaker Oats plant.

H. Nesbitt Retires.

H. Nesbitt, for almost 60 years jailer at the Peterborough gaol, tendered his resignation to the council and the council, on motion of Reeves Rye and Curtis, granted him a yearly retiring allowance of $550 for the remainder of his life, as a recognition of his faithful services to the county. Mr. Nesbitt has wanted to retire for some time and has at several times asked to be relieved, but nothing was done about the matter until the special session.

A petition was passed asking the Government to assume the upkeep and all building charges in the future on provincial highways, and also to increase the gasoline tax from three to five cents a gallon. Every year it is costing more to keep up the county roads and the local council have almost reached the point when some tangible help will have to be given as the government intends to build 8 miles of highway in the township of Smith and has under consideration 32 miles through the eastern township.

The county road rate will be three mills the same as last year and the city of Peterborough will be asked to contribute $9,250 for suburban area roads.

Appointed Committee.

Deputy-reeve McIntyre introduced the question of the township of South Monaghan joining the County of Peterborough and as a result of the discussion the township council of South Monaghan will be asked to meet a committee of the Peterborough County Council composed of Reeve Rye, Smithson and Curtis and Deputy-reeves Waterman and McIntyre and consider the question. Mr. McIntyre said that the ratepayers in the lower part of South Monaghan were anxious to be given an opportunity to unite with Peterborough county. In the discussion that followed it was explained that the uniting of South Monaghan township with Peterborough county would mean the two bridges across the Otonabee river, at Wallace's Point and Bensford, would have to be maintained by the county of Peterborough and the government, each paying 50 per cent., where as it is now Peterborough county only pays 25 per cent. and Northumberland and Durham 25 per cent. Peterborough county would also fall heir to a further 6 miles of Provincial highway. The area and population of South Monaghan was said to be about the same as Ennismore.

CITY'S PARKS TO COST $6,325; PROPERTY AND HEALTH $12,974

Committees Strike Estimates for Submission to Finance Committee.

NO MEMORIAL GATE

Start to be Made on Improving James Stevenson Park During 1928.

Estimates pared to the last nickel were submitted by the chairman of the Railways and Parks and Property Committees of the City Council last night and as a result not an item was changed in either case. The totals passed on to the Finance Committee were:

Parks	$ 5,500
Bathing Beaches	825
Parks Committee total	6,325
Health	$ 5,400
Market Upkeep	100
Property	474
Queen Mary Hospital	7,000
Property Committee total	$12,974

Chairman Alderman Greene explained the changes in the Parks Committee estimates. More is needed for lighting Victoria Park because the lights are left on all night, whereas until complaints were made they had been turned out earlier. The extra amount spent for tools was the cost of the power mower and other unforeseen items. Curbing, grading, and seeding had gone over the estimate because the committee had taken on the work at the corner of Charlotte and Park Streets. More money was needed for sundries because the gasoline mower, which was bought second hand, has to be put into shape, and there are many trees to be trimmed.

No allowance was made for a second memorial gate at one of the parks presented by Mrs. Nicholls. The one put in had cost much more than was estimated, and the chairman said that he thought it wise not to have one this year. It had been planned to build one every year for three or four years. Ald. Lowe suggested that it be put in and then the estimate could be struck out by the Finance Committee if the rate were to be too high. Ald. Phelan objected to this course, as it would be published that it was to be done, and it would look bad to change it.

A profit of one dollar on James Stevenson Park over the amount spent on its upkeep last year was reported by the chairman as the reason for putting in $1,000 for this work. The park cost $938 to keep up last year.

Both Ald. Greene and Ald. Ackerman, of the Property Committee, made notes of a possible appropriation for moving the Lake Street bathing house up the bank so that a sewer connection might be made.

Ald. Ackerman, as chairman of the Board of Health, reported that the use of the earth closet would not be permitted.

There is $1,000 in the estimates for James Stevenson Park improvements. This is intended as a start towards cleaning up and beautifying the outer portions of the grounds. Ald. Greene reported that he had written to Harrisburg for information and suggestions. Ald. Stocker regretted the necessity of going outside the country for a landscape gardener, but Ald. Greene explained that this was merely a request for hints, and possibly pictures, not for advice or plans.

It is a question of getting a man, the chairman continued, and Ald. Stocker suggested Henry Moore, of Toronto. Ald. Lowe asked what could be done with $1,000, and the chairman admitted that not much could be done, but the plans would be prepared and a start made.

That the time is coming when the city will have to engage a supervisor or foreman of parks was prophesied by Ald. Greene. Such a man would supervise the work in the parks, at the bathing beaches, and at the rinks.

"We'll be wanting a man at $2,500 and a car," declared Ald. Stocker.

"Give him a bicycle," suggested Ald. Huffman, to which Ald. Stocker re-

STOP BY-LAW IS ENFORCED

Eight Drivers Appear in the Court and Five Are Convicted.

DOCKET IS HEAVY.

Eight non-stop cases appeared on the docket in the local traffic court this morning; in five, convictions were registered, and the others were remanded. The police are keeping a close check-up on many motorists and those not obeying the law are appearing in the regular traffic court every Wednesday morning. In each case $3 and costs was assessed against the defendants. Magistrate Langley issued a warning that in the future the fine would be increased.

The police court docket this morning was the heaviest for some time.

Samuel Davies pleaded guilty to a vagrancy charge and was remanded one week for sentence. Davies, who is an ex-convict, was arrested last night loitering around the streets. On inquiry the police found that he had been asking about certain safes in the city. He, along with four other "tramps" arrived here in the early part of the week.

The prisoner asked the Magistrate to give him a job. "We can get one for you at the jail where there is wood to cut and windows to clean," was the Magistrate's reply.

William Connors pleaded guilty to reckless driving on the provincial highway and was fined $10 and costs and had his license suspended for three months. Provincial Constable N. F. Maker laid the charge. An accident occurred on December 31st and since then Constable Maker has been endeavoring to locate the owner of the car, as Connors failed to stop at the scene of the accident. He had to make one trip to Toronto and then found that he was after the wrong man, as the car had changed hands. On the day of the accident Connors was following his brother's car from Port Hope, when he col-

ARTISTS PLEASE BIG AUDIENCE AT CAMPBELLFORD

Dorothy Allan Park and Mary Agnes Logan Make Conquest.

FOR LEGION BENEFIT.

Campbellford Violinist's Contributions To Program Are Also of High Order.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 22.—Dorothy Allan Park has added another community to her long list of conquests. Mary Agnes Logan has won great popularity with Campbellford audiences. Cecil Searles' violin numbers, accompanied by Cherrie Turner at the piano, were insistently encored. The members of the Campbellford Branch of the Canadian Legion last night introduced two new artists to the Campbellford theatregoers and did it most acceptably. They have proved that they are capable of doing things worth while, and they have raised funds for the purpose of assisting a comrade in distress.

Practically the entire program was composed of the more popular classics, but in her last group, Mrs. Park sang two numbers which were much lighter than the others on her program. Appearing first, Miss Logan played a group of three numbers, Tambourin, by Rameau; Minuet, by Handel and Gavotte by Glazounoff. Her quiet, unassuming style and easy manner won the applause of the entire house. Mrs. Parke's first group consisted of four short numbers which appealed to the audience; Time, You Old Gypsy Man, Warren; Down Vauxhall Way, a song of Old London by Oliver; I Heard You Singing, Coats; and Hatfield Bells, by Martin, were her numbers. Of the four, Hatfield Bells won for her the major portion of the applause.

Liebesfreud (Kreisler) a violin solo played by Robert Cecil Searles was encored. He responded with The Rosary which was also loudly applauded. Cherrie Turner accompanied Mr. Searles.

Ballet Music by Schubert, The Swan by Palmgren, Etude Mignonne by Schutt, and the Cradle Song by Grainger were the four numbers which composed Miss Logan's second group. Before playing the last mentioned, Miss Logan announced that although Chopin's Barcarolle was indicated on the program, she preferred to change the number to Grainger's Cradle Song. Though the Barcarolle is an exceptionally popular classic and also a delightful melody, the

Berlin To Greet Foreign Potentate

BERLIN, Feb. 22.—(Canadian Press.)—The young German republic to-day or the first time will officially welcome a foreign potentate when Amanullah Khan, king of Afghanistan, accompanied by his wife and seventeen high dignitaries and a large retinue of servants, will arrive at Berlin.

The reception will differ from the welcome extended to royalties before the war, in that there will be no German emperor to greet the visiting ruler and no guady state coaches to bear the Afghans to their quarters. Instead, a new ceremony has been worked out by the foreign office, in which President von Hindenburg will be the principal actor.

The Oriental guests after passing through streets replete with Republican emblems, will find generations of Hohenzollerns gazing down upon them from paintings and etchings in the various palace rooms.

Amanullah Khan will probably be greatly interested when on Thursday the Socialist Reichstag president, Herr Loebe, will entertain him at luncheon.

FARMERS HEAR HARRY McKEEN

Director Stresses Importance of Their Industry To This District.

UNDER U.F.O. AUSPICES.

Bad roads and the prospect of a cold drive, failed to daunt a number of farmers who came into the city from the surrounding district last evening, for the purpose of hearing the address of Harry R. McKeen campaign director of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce Forward Movement in the W.O.W. Hall, George street.

Mr. McKeen was slated to address this, a meeting of the U.F.O. Club on "Agriculture as an Industry," but as the group in attendance was not a large one it developed more into an "informal conference," as one member expressed it, with Mr. McKeen taking the lead in the discussion. Himself the owner of a large fruit farm down in the Ozark country, Mr. McKeen thinks and speaks from an agricultural viewpoint, and his address last night not only proved his interest in agriculture, but his knowledge of its many phases.

The vote of thanks was ably moved by Mr. Petrie, at the conclusion of the address.

Mr. McKeen

Mr. McKeen opened his address with a discussion of what he termed "agricultural bunk" as instances of which he mentioned, the city fellow with no knowledge of agriculture who tries to tell the farmer how to farm, and the professional economist who has been responsible for many farmers coming to regard their lot as a hopeless one so far as making a financial success of it is concerned.

Mr. McKeen felt that agriculture should be regarded as an industry just as manufacturing, mining or lumbering is considered and that the same business methods should be adopted by farmers as have proven successful in other lines. He went on to discuss the question of marketing, buying and selling, agricultural finance, and good roads, as well as giving a clear cut idea of how the "cash crop" should be budgeted so that the farmer may live comfortably and economically, the stock be well cared for, the taxes met, and the regular up-keep in the form of repairs handled.

He spoke of the opportunities for carrying on different types of agriculture in Ontario such as dairying, poultry raising, and fruit growing as applied to the farm, and concluded by drawing attention to the fact that the success of the city depends not only upon its industries but on the agricultural industry as well. No more could the farmer get along without the interest of the city man than could the city man get along without the assistance of the farmer. The U.F.O. represented the farming community; the Chamber of Commerce, the city. Both must work together.

SHIPPING BOARD HAD BUSY YEAR

More Than Hundred Thousand Dollars Realized From Stock Sold.

PRIZES AWARDED.

The business for the year 1927 of the Peterborough U.F.O. Shipping Board was the largest on record, a total of 5,134 head of live stock being sold. Of this number 1,629 were veal calves. The total for 1926 was 4,061 head. This was stated at the annual meeting held recently.

The value of the live stock at the place of sale was $114,881.91. After deducting freight charges, stock yard expenses, commission for selling to the United Farmers' Co-operative Company, paying the shipper's salary, and placing a sum in the reserve, the owners received $107,994.17. The report of the auditors, Henry D. Coons and James A. Young, showed a substantial balance in both the current and reserve acounts. Owing to the increase in business, the Board decided to lower the shipping rate on cattle to five cents a 100 points.

At the beginning of 1927, three cash prizes were offered to the farmers who marketed the highest percentage of select hogs through the Board, the minimum to be fifteen. The prizes went to W. Finnie of Otonabee, 93.75 per cent. selects, and to Ray Northey and W. A. Roseborough of Smith, who had 77.77 per cent. and 75 per cent. respectively. Considering the average for the Province, these figures speak well for local farmers.

During 1928, shipments will be made every two weeks from Lakefield and Peterborough. The policy of the Board is to give the farmers efficient marketing service at cost. Since organization in June, 1922, live stock to the value of $510,519.64 has been marketed.

The mebers of the Board for 1927 were: C. E. Moore, Stanley Higgins, Edward Hamblin, J. E. Galvin, David Payne, James Shield, and Charles Brown. The stock shipper is E. H. Brown, who has served in this work for the last five years.

PLANS DISCUSSED AT ANNUAL MEETING

Roseneath Agricultural Society Holds Annual Meeting—Reports Good Year.

ROSENEATH, Feb. 22.—Plans were discussed for erection of new buildings at the Agricultural Society meeting held recently. A new hall for the exhibit of ladies' work and fine arts, either in combinationwith a grandstand or skating rink, or possibly both, was discussed, and a committee was appointed to get estimates and plans for report at the next meeting. A horse stable, costing $660 has been erected during the past year. The treasurer's report showed a cash surplus of $3,375, being an increase from last year of $650.

Fred J. Slade was appointed delegate to the Ontario Fair Associations to be held in Toronto.

Officers for 1928 were elected as follows: President, F. J. Slade; 1st vice-president, C. W. Varcoe; 2nd vice-president, Harry Mouncey; directors, E. Brisbin, E. Timblin, W. A. Macklin, A. J. Campbell, W. Mason, C. D. Harper, A. Lean, W. J. Jibb, W. Arnold, Dr. Hershey, Andrew Brown, Milton McMillan, P. Brahaney, W. Taylor, A. McFiggen, D. J. Varcoe, H. Blodgett, G. Parker, J. Grieves, A. Crisis Continues In Cotton Trade

MANCHESTER, Eng., Feb. 21.—(Canadian Press.)— The crisis in the cotton trade continues, the joint conference suggested by the employers with the operatives unions was held yesterday and the situation was discussed for three hours.

No decision was reached and adjournment was taken until Monday. The workers' unions proposed a statutory commission, to be appointed by the government, as the best means of eliciting all the facts in the cotton inquiry. The employers disapproved of this and suggested twelve representatives from each side, whereupon the union representatives asked for an adjournment to consult their executive committee.

The employers are reported to be insisting upon a reduction of wages by 12½ per cent. and an increase of working hours from 48 to 52.

LAST OF SEASON'S EUCHRE PARTIES

Mrs. William Millage and Fred. Moore Win Season's Prizes.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 22.—The last of the season's series of euchres under the auspices of the A.Y.P.A. was held last Thursday evening. Fourteen tables were played and a pleasant evening spent. The prizes were won by Mrs. Frank Callaghan and Fred Moore, the consolation prizes going to Mrs. C. F. Webster and M. Smith. The special prize donated by B. Q. Dench was won by Mrs. Armstrong.

The season's prizes were also presented by W. Chappell, president of the society; Mrs. William Millage won the ladies' prize which was a handsome double damask table cloth, and Fred Moore the men's, which was a gold-plated safety razor.

Mr. Chappell thanked all who had helped to make the parties so successful.

Ladies of St. Paul's.

Twelve tables were played at the party held by the ladies of St. Paul's Church in the Holy Name Society rooms last Friday evening.

Prizes were won by Miss Gertrude Summers and Captain F. Morin, while Mrs. Abrams and A. Coughlin won the consolation prize.

This is the last of the card parties of this series till after Easter.

ONE BOX RELIEVED HER KIDNEY TROUBLE

So Says Quebec Lady After Using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mde. A. Picher Suffered Greatly With Her Kidneys

BULSTRODE, P.Q., Feb. 21.—(Special).—"I have only taken one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills and found an agreeable relief from pain," writes Mde. A. Picher, who resides at this place. "I had bad pains in my kidneys and am now relieved. I always keep a box in the house."

What Madame Picher states is all that has ever been claimed for Dodd's Kidney Pills—that they are good for sick kidneys. The road to good health lies through the kidneys. If they are kept strong and well, all the impurities are strained out of the blood. If they are weak and out of order the impurities stay in the blood and disease is the sure result.

Dodd's Kidney Pills keep the kidneys in good condition to do their work of cleaning and purifying the blood.

Weak, nervous, run-down women should give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial at once.

MANION BERATES LIBERAL BUDGET

Conservative Member Continues Debate on Government's Financial Proposals.

DISCUSS CUSTOMS DUTIES.

OTTAWA, February 22 (Canadian Press).—"The great mass of the people get nothing from this budget." The words used by Hon. R. J. Manion in the House yesterday were typical of further Conservative criticism of the budget. Debate on the Government's financial proposals again held the stage and at adjournment was still unfinished. Dr. Manion declared that the Government, surprised that its unwise policies had not ruined the country, had formed a Mutual Admiration Society, with the Minister of Railways recently complimenting Providence on being associated with the Government.

Dr. Manion charged that the only kindness of the Government to the working man had been in giving permits to go to the United States.

H. E. Lavigueuer, Liberal, Quebec-Montmorency, thought the budget one of the best offered to Parliament since Confederation.

W. R. Fansher, Progressive, of Lost Mountain, thought a conference, representative of the various classes in the Dominion, should be held to discuss the best means of levying Customs duties.

T. L. Church (Conservative, Toronto North-West) contended that as a discoverer, Sebastian Cabot wouldn't be in it with the man who could go into the vaults of the finance department and discover the $54,000,000 surplus.

RESCUERS SEEK ENTOMBED MINERS

Trapped in Mine Following Explosion at Pittsburgh Coal Fields.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 22 (Canadian Press).—Rescue squads were last night hacking and cutting at a barrier of debris in the darkened passages of the main workings of the Valley Camp Coal Company mine at Parnassus, near here, in an effort to ascertain the fate of seven miners unaccounted for following an explosion which took a known death toll of six. Rescue crew leaders had lost practically all hope of finding the men alive, but the effort put forth underground was not diminished because of this belief.

Four of the dead workers lost their lives at the time of the blast and the other two succumbed when overcome by fumes created by the explosion when they went to work, hours after the accident, in a section of the mine several miles from the main entrance. They had entered the workings from another opening and were unaware of the disaster. This pair was a member of a crew of five, three of whom were brought to the outside by a mine mule which hauled out a car on which the men had fallen when overcome.

The identified dead included Mine Foreman Thomas Durtost, William Casey, G. N. Beck, Louis Venzel and John Poole Durtost was decapitated.

Rescue workers, returning to the surface for rest periods, said there were indications that the explosion was a heavy one. The far-reaches of the mine were described as badly damaged and filled with poisonous fumes.

ROSENEATH BANK MANAGER HONORED

J. C. Moore is Presented With Travelling Case and Purse.

ROSENEATH, Feb. 22.—Milton McMillan's home was the scene of an enjoyable evening, when the friends of J. C. Moore met to bid him farewell. Mr. Moore has been manager of the Royal Bank here and is now promoted to another community. During the evening a travelling case fitted with ebony, and a purse of money were presented to him by Lewis Roberts, showing the esteem in which Mr. Moore is held in the community. The accompanying address was read by James Grieves and signed by William Arnold and Milton McMillan. Rev. Mr. Brown acted as chairman for the remainder of the evening and called on a number of gentlemen for short addresses. These addresses touched on the different phases in which Mr. Moore had become their friend through athletics, through business relations, fraternally and intimate comradeship.

Mr. Hallett, the new manager, was present and introduced to the company.

Lunch was served at the close of the evening.

DIRECTOR VISITS SCHOOL MEETING

H. R. McKeen Addresses Prince of Wales H. and S. Association.

The Home and School Association of Prince of Wales school held its regular monthly meeting on Monday evening in the auditorium. Due to the inclement weather the attendance was not so large as usual, though there were nearly 100 present.

The principal address was given by Harry R. McKeen, who has had charge of the Chamber of Commerce Forward Movement.

The first part of Mr. McKeen's address was devoted to the school pupils present. As in the other schools the students aided him quite materially in driving home his points. 'You are going to take somebody's place in the world," said Mr. McKeen. "Everybody in Canada will have a successor. The good and the bad. There may be one new type of job for ten thousand, but practically all of you will succeed somebody. Whom will you succeed? The tramp, the criminal, the failure or the constructive type?" He showed them that the business world to-day demanded accuracy, attention, courtesy, honesty and reverence and that it was willing to pay for it in a big way in wages.

"You are laying foundations right here in school for a good wage or a pooro ne through the sort of habits you establish."

The speaker then discussed the value of the Home and School Association in the development of the social and intellectual life of the community. He showed that each participator in the program was making a definite contribution not only to their own development but the entire community as well.

'Think of the hours of study and practice behind the performance on piano or violin. The work necessary for a reading or solo. All these things add to the strength of both individuals and community. Mr. McKeen showed the interest the Chamber of Commerce had in the strength of the local organizations. "It wants more business for the city, that you may have through wages, merchandising, profits and income more money to spend for necessities, comforts, conveniences and luxuries. These bring happiness and content and provide more business because of your needs."

In addition to the address the following program was rendered:

Piano solo—Rupssell Rowan.
Reading—Vernon Huffman.
Piano solo—Muriel Wilson.
Dance — Jean Maconomy, Verna Huffman.
Piano solo—Tom Allan.

Who knows more about the value of life insurance than a bereaved wife?

Ask her what life insurance means!

* * * *

All too often husbands and wives in the heyday of life become blinded to the future by present favorable circumstances and good health.

This frequently results in one of life's greatest tragedies — mothers and children left alone to face a world they never knew.

It's all the more pitiable since life insurance protection can be secured so easily and at such low cost from The London Life.

$10,000 Insurance

Age 25 - - $ 94.50
Age 35 - - $122.00
Age 45 - - $208.00

These extremely low premiums are subject to substantial reduction by annual dividends.

If you are tempted to postpone the taking of adequate life insurance protection think twice and consult an expert.

advantages of rural life over that of the city. Good roads, electric light and power, the doing away with the isolation in the winter months which was an unpleasant feature of earlier years on the farm, the independence in the matter of food supplies, etc., were all listed as assets on the side of rural community life to-day.

"Boys have their ears open. If they hear their fathers continually complaining of the farm they will mould their own ideas accordingly. You want to take different ground and speak of the advantages and the opportunities if you would have your boys remain indifferent to the drift toward the city. To grow a good specimen of physique there is no place like the country." (Applause.)

Agriculture a Career.

Not personally in favor of farmers retiring to small village or larger centre, but rather choosing to hire help and "boss" the job, or reduce the amount of land cultivated, Mr. Martin advanced the thought that no other occupation gives as high a percentage of those able to retire as farming does. "Emphasize the dignity of agriculture — make it to be looked upon as a career in Canada as it already is in England."

The short courses in agriculture, through winter schools of three months' duration, which had been held all over the Province, and which had proved highly successful, were dealt with in detail, the Minister having found as many as 150 boys and girls in attendance at individual schools.

Gambling in land, running it up to $300 or even $500 per acre, had proved a disastrous course in the United States following the war, and now the farmers are in extreme distress, and they are flocking to the cities, as many as 5,900 leaving the farms in one year. Canada has no such conditions, hence in this country the outlook for agriculture, and particularly the dairying industry, is very bright. The speaker believed firmly that "their tariff will have to be torn down, because they will not be able to produce enough for themselves, and this will work to the profit of Ontario.

"If you like live stock, go in for dairying; you have an example of what can be done in this line right here in your own township, and to them you are donig honor to-night," was Mr. Martin's concluding remark as he took his seat amid prolonged applause.

F. W. Bowen, M.P.

The toast to "Our Country" was proposed by F. W. Bowen, M.P., the hearty applause testifying to his popularity as he began his remarks, expressing his appreciation of the honor of being present, and extended congratulation to the guests of the evening on the record they had established.

"Time would fail me to speak of all our country stands for, and all it means to us. But I would like to point out that resources alone will not make a country great, it must have people of fine character." The development of natural facilities, and the two transcontinental railways, with the advantages which these offer, the three-quarters of a million dollars recently set aside by the House for research work, the discovery of an earlier-maturing wheat and all that means to the West, were some of the points receiving attention in Mr. Bowen's address.

"Our Guests" was proposed by L. H. Winslow, who spoke particularly of the fact that Mr. Seymour and his sons had "put Durham on the map," and even had led people in this and other lands to know where "Ida" Post Office is—a fact of which he knew by personal experience many had been ignorant before. His congratulations were added to those already extended.

"For They Are Jolly Good Fellows" was sung heartily, and three rousing cheers and a tiger given as Mr. Seymour rose in response to the toast, the applause continuing with unabated vigor as Mrs. Charles Thorndyke, president of the Women's Institute, presented Mrs. Seymour with a beautiful sheaf of flowers.

The Guest of Honor.

In a very modest way Mr. Seymour acknowledged the ovation accorded him, stating, "Words fail me to express the gratitude we feel for the honor bestowed upon us here tonight."

Turning to the Minister of Agriculture, the guest of honor said: "Looking over this gathering, sir, I perceive a characteristic of Cavan—they don't do things by halves." (Applause). Referring to the "big surprise" it had been to himself and his family to learn of the banquet being given in their honor, the speaker added their heartfelt appreciation of the honor, and also of the other honors which had come to them from the Canadian National Exhibition, from Ottawa, from the O.A.C. at Guelph, and other sources.

In concluding his brief remarks, Mr. Seymour made some reference to his world-famous cow, and said: "She's on the job again. Come and see her, we will make you thoroughly welcome," and sat down amid a fresh outburst of applause.

In proposing the toast to "Agriculture," which Honorable Mr. Martin responded to, W. J. Bragg gave some time to the breeding, testing, feeding, etc., which had been necessary to produce a cow with a world record, and went on to refer to the fact that 33 per cent. of the people of Canada live on the land, and that 36 per cent. of the entire wealth of the country is from the farm, "hence correctly we say agriculture is the basic industry of our country." Personally, the speaker knew if the fine fall fair held in Millbrook each year, and the encouragement it is to those engaged in rural occupations. He closed with offering his warmest congratulations to what had been achieved in giving Durham County a conspicuous place in world record annals.

The Holstein Association.

G. A. Gillespie of Peterborough proposed the toast to "Our Holstein Association, and this was replied to in a most able address by C. T. Houck, of Chippawa, ex-president of the Holstein Association of Canada.

There might be a "touchiness" among those preferring some other breed of cattle, so he would not confine his remarks to Holsteins alone. Some of the profits that would accrue if farmers gave as much attention to their cattle as to their cars were pointed out, and the optimistic outlook for the dairy industry was strongly emphasized. "With hundreds of thousands of cattle listed in our books, it means something to stand supreme over them all, and proclaim "one of ours" as at the highest peak.

The fact that "in dairying we do not rob our country of something that cannot be restored, and we are doing producing for our fellowmen something without which they could not exist," was pointed out, and the amazing growth of the Holstein Association demonstrated by statistics, $85,000 having been the net receipts last year, and 19,000 the total registration.

Giving the calves proper care, refusing to sell the best animals just because a good price was offered and thus running the risk of lowering the type, and the advantages which the Dominion Government offers in the facilities for the R.O.P. test, were among the things dealt with in Mr. Houck's concluding remarks.

Mayor Denne

Mayor Roland Denne of Peterborough spoke briefly, claiming a share for his city in the honor which had come to the community, since some members of the Seymour family are affiliated with the Peterborough Exhibition, "and they all come to our city," and went on to emphasize particularly the advantage of an exhibition board to a community, declaring his lack of sympathy with the slogan "cut out the small fairs"; rather he felt it should be "help the small fairs!" for he believed they were a meeting place, and an asset of no small value from the educational standpoint.

T. W. McIndoo, Vic-president of the Peterborough Exhibition Board, endorsed what President Denne had said, and spoke of his personal acquaintance with the Seymour family, and his knowledge of the labor involved in having won a world record with a cow from their herd. "They put their very best selves into developing the best cow, and as a result the county, the province, and the Dominion have had this high honor conferred upon them."

Rev. F. E. Howard, on behalf of the Agricultural Society, as well as all present, spoke of the fine service rendered by Miss Ella Elson, who had presided at the piano during the evening, playing the accompaniments for Harry Bennet, entertainer from Toronto, who had enlivened the proceedings with a number of comic songs, and F. W. Bowen presented her with a handsome sheaf of flowers—the gift of the organization which sponsored the gathering. Miss Elson expressed her thanks briefly.

"The Ladies" was the final toast proposed by Rev. P' C. Howard, and ably replied to J. J. Duffus, of Peterborough.

The prizes which were to have been presented to the Junior Farmers for the fine record which a number of them have been making in recent months were a feature of the program which had to be postponed until the date of the oratorical contest on March 23, in Millbrook. J. Y. Kellough, who would have made the presentation, was obliged to leave the hall before this item was called, A. J. Fallis, ex-M.P.P., explaining that, owing to the lateness of the hour, this change had necessarily been made.

The singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and the National Anthem brought to a close an evening that will long be remembered as an outstanding event in community history.

number which Miss Logan substituted was equally pretty and well received, although of an entirely different nature.

In Mrs. Parke's next group there were five short numbers, The Blacksmith, Brahms; Romance, Rubenstein; To a Water Lily, Greig; The Tryst, Sibelius; and Hopak by Mausorpky. This was the heaviest group of the three which Mrs. Park sang.

The "Blacksmith" was a short number in which the accompaniment played a very prominent part in making the song more realistic. "Romance," the second number of the group, held the audience spellbound, as did also the next number, "To a Water Lily." The fourth number of the group, "The Tryst" (Sibelius) was the heaviest number of her entire program. In it, Mrs. Park availed herself fully of the wonderful range and tone of her voice. Though none but students well versed in the vocal classics could possibly realize the full beauty of the number, everyone could and did appreciate the perfection with which it was sung and marvelled at the beauty of tone of Mrs. Park's rich mezzo-soprano voice. "Hopak," the final number of the group, could not be praised for the words of the song, but for its musical beauty too much can not be said.

The "Viennese Refrain" (Kreisler) was the second number by Mr. Searles, and its popularity demanded an encore. He responded graciously with Beethoven's "Minuet in G." The sustained applause marked the appreciation with which the numbers were received.

For her final group, Miss Logan played 'Shepherds Hey" and "Londonderry Air," both numbers by Grainger; "Arabesque," by Leschetiszke, and "Triana" by Albeniz. It would appear from the sustained applause which followed each of these four numbers, that the audience were loath to accept the fact that this was Miss Logan's final appearance for the evening.

"Eriskay Love Lilt," a Hebridean love song, arranged by Kennedy Fraser, was the opening number of Mrs. Park's final group. Sung partly in the Gaelic tongue, the words did not mean much to those who listened so intently, but the music of the song was most appealing. "I Know Where I'm Goin'," an Irish folk song by Herbert Hughes, though unusually light and airy for such an artiste, was very prettily sung and well received. "The Three Foxes," and "Buckingham Palace," her two closing numbers, were extremely light and their childish words and tuneful melody appealed to the lighter side of the appreciative mind. As was the case in "The Blacksmith" the accompaniment played for "Buckingham Palace" played an important part in the success of the number. Played in perfect time and with just the proper volume to display the voice of the singer, Miss Logan supplied an accompaniment which was perfection itself. The combined efforts of both Mrs. Park and Miss Logan won great applause.

The stage setting was specially arranged for the concert by the Regent Theatre. Furniture for the stage was by courtesy of the A. D. Bennett Company, and the piano was supplied by A. L. Riendeau, Front Street. The lighting effect added greatly to the pleasing appearance of the ensemble. It was through the courtesy of these and other friends of the local branch of the Canadian Legion that the success of the entertainment is largely due.

Since the concert there has been nothing but the highest compliments paid to the artistes and to those who were responsible for arranging such an excellent musical entertainment.

Obituary

DUNCAN KERR.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 22.— The funeral of the late Duncan Kerr was held yesterday morning from his late residence, Front street, to St. Mary's church where requiem mass was sung by the Rev. Father Phelan. Interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery. Deceased was in his eighty-second year and was born in Alexandria, in the County of Glengarry, and was of Scottish parentage. Coming to Campbellford about fifty years ago Mr. Kerr entered the hotel business and for many years was known as the keeper of one of the most hispitable and luxurious hotels in the district. Not till twelve years ago did Mr. Kerr retire from the active proprietorship of the St. Lawrence Hotel here. Since that time it has been managed by his son, James Kerr.

The late Duncan Kerr was a lifelong member of the Roman Catholic church and a most devout churchman. Of a naturally quiet and unassuming disposition, Mr. Kerr was not given to fraternal associations generally, but was a member of the C.M.B.A. In days gone by, Mr. Kerr was well known as one of the best in the district curling circles. He was also considerably interested in harness horse racing and his horses have frequently been listed among the winners of the events of the Grand Circuit of several years ago. He was also one of a company who arranged one of the greatest celebrations Campbellford has ever enjoyed. This was on a 24th of May many years ago.

The late Mr. Kerr is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. MacDonald and Mrs. P. J. Wimms, all of Montreal and two brothers, James of Alexandria and Edward of Toronto. Of his six children, the youngest, Helen, predeceased him recently. James, of town, is the eldest and the son of the late Duncan Kerr and the late Maria Daly, his first wife. Three sons, Edson, Paul and Bernard, reside in Toronto. An only daughter, Clyta (Mrs. Hamather) resides in Saginaw, Mich. He is also mourned by his widow.

With the passing of Mr. Kerr, Campbellford loses one of its most highly esteemed citizens. As a final demonstration of the high regard in which he was held, citizens from every walk in life gathered at the church to pay tribute. In his oration, the Rev. Father Phelan spoke very highly of the deceased as a citizen, churchman and Christian gentleman.

Honorary pallbearers at the service were D. J. Lynch, Thos. McAvoy, Robert Lowery, James Daly, Fred Dinwoodie and Peter Corkery. The pallbearers were Matthew Mulhearn, Robert Lee, J. Hoey, J. C. Birmingham, R. Cook, M. Murphy, H. Lowery, and P. Leonard.

THE WAR MEMORIAL.

The decision arrived at by the County Council in special session yesterday not to contribute toward the fund for the erection of the local war memorial will occasion little surprise.

Undoubtedly the failure to approach the county years ago before the various townships had taken steps to establish their own memorials was a mistake that paved the way for yesterday's decision on the part of the county body not to participate in the plan.

The majority of the county legislators take the position that at this stage when most of the townships have gone to the expense of erecting memorials to their own war dead, there would be no justification for making a grant to establish a general memorial for city and county.

Had such a proposal been made at the beginning the answer might have been different, but under the circumstances the County Councillors have strong grounds for the attitude they have adopted.

If it had been intended from the outset that the local war memorial was to be a city and county effort, the county legislators might well have been consulted at an early stage in the proceedings.

POWER FOR THE FARM.

The extension of the Hydro power system from Peterborough to Chemong Park and Bridgenorth, work upon which is expected to be completed in time to have the power turned on before the end of May, is a forward step that will mean much to the summer sojourners at Chemong Park, and more to the residents of Bridgenorth and to the farmers along the route.

The number of the latter to take advantage of the extension will not be large at the beginning, but it is expected that other farmers will eventually be encouraged to avail themselves of the convenience of electric light and power, and the service will prove a boon to a large section of Smith Township.

The extension of rural power lines is a matter of great importance to the farmers of this Province, and The Examiner is glad to note that in this section of Ontario we are beginning to catch up to other portions of the Province where the blessing of electric energy has been enjoyed for some time.

Power and light for the farmer bring conditions in the rural districts more in line with the conveniences enjoyed by urban dwellers, and from that viewpoint the expansion of the Hydro system in the country districts should be a source of satisfaction.

THE PRINCE OF WALES'S GIFT.

So numerous were the letters received acknowledging the peony plants which the Prince of Wales had distributed throughout Canada last fall as a memento of his visit that His Royal Highness has requested that his formal acknowledgment to the Bank of Montreal, through whom the letters were forwarded to him, be taken as constituting a general reply.

It will be remembered that His Royal Highness asked the bank to undertake for him the distribution of Canadian-grown peony plants to His Excellency the Governor-General, the Prime Minister and members of his Cabinet, the Lieutenant-Governors and Premiers of the Provinces; also to all cities, towns and incorporated villages throughout Canada. The distribution was made through the branches of the bank with the co-operation and assistance of His Majesty's mails, and the hundreds of letters received from Mayors and other public officials showed how greatly the royal gift was appreciated. These letters, conveying the thanks of the various communities and expressing loyalty and devotion, were bound in a handsome portfolio and transmitted by the Bank of Montreal to Vice-Admiral Sir Lionel Halsey, Comptroller of the Prince of Wales's household. The following letter from Sir Vincent Meredith, Bart., to the Comptroller, dated from the head office, Bank of Montreal, January 21st, accompanied the portfolio:

> "Sir,—I have the honor to forward to you under separate cover for the information of His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, a portfolio containing copies of letters of appreciation and grateful thanks for the gift of peony plants that His Royal Highness so graciously sent to the cities, towns and villages, through the medium of the branches of the Bank of Montreal, throughout Canada as a memento of his visit to the Dominion during the Diamond Jubilee year. Through the courtesy and co-operation of the Honorable the Minister of Finance and the Honorable the Postmaster General, the services of His Majesty's mail were promptly placed at our disposal and this greatly facilitated the distribution.

THE COST OF GOVERNMENT.

Several recent editorials in The Examiner, based on a most interesting bulletin on the cost of municipal government, issued by the Citizens' Research Institute, were quoted by speakers at Mayor Denne's most enjoyable and successful dinner the other night.

It may be of interest, not only to the guests present at that function, but to the citizens generally to delve into these statistics a little more in the hope of discovering other data of value.

And one of the most striking facts to be obtained from a study of the survey is that the cost of general municipal government in Peterborough is lower than in any of the thirty-three smaller cities in Canada.

We in Peterborough pay but $2.92 per capita to meet the cost of general government, much the lowest per capita cost listed under this head.

The next lowest is South Vancouver, B. C., with $3.52 per head, and the scale climbs steadily throughout the list until Port Arthur with $17.47 per head is found at the top, although it is only fair to state that in the case of Port Arthur and other cities with a high per capita cost under this head the debt charges for other than education and local improvements are included under general government.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.

(From The Ottawa Journal.)

"A Buffalo preacher told the local Kiwanis Club yesterday that capital punishment is 'the last relic of barbarism.' Not so. Murder is a relic of barbarism, and murder has survived capital punishment in several States—the State of Michigan, for instance."—Hamilton Herald.

Judge F. W. Brennan of Michigan, who recently passed sentence upon the murderer of little Dorothy Schneider, used to think like the Buffalo clergyman. He changed his mind over the Schneider case, saying that it had convinced him of the necessity of capital punishment, particularly as murderer whom he had previously sentenced to life imprisonment had escaped, and afterwards committed another murder.

To take any man's life by law or otherwise is a very grave thing. But it is questionable if a less penalty than death for murder has any deterrent effect upon anybody. Sometimes discourses are heard to the effect that imprisonment for life is a more terrible, or at least a more frightening penalty, than death. Such theory is little better than an insult to the intelligence of most of the public, who have noted the features of murder trials anywhere. The criminal who fears the death penalty is ready to plead insanity or anything else to escape it. His lawyers, if they think they cannot argue the plea of insanity with success, are always urgent in pleadings to court and jury to make the penalty imprisonment. The murderer is almost unheard of who does not prefer a sentence of imprisonment even for life to the sentence of death. To even a criminal who really prefers death to imprisonment—we do not believe there have ever been such—there is always the hope of release from the imprisonment.

An angry citizen noting in a Michigan paper an article maintaining the view that capital punishment is a mistake, wrote to differ, and his picturesque language is perhaps worth quoting. He said, in part:

> "Revolting as capital punishment is, murder is more horrible and revolting. The murderer in the secretiveness of his own heart plots the crime. The poor victim does not have the slightest chance against him.
>
> "But the dastardly murderer when he is caught has every chance to escape the most devilish of all crimes—murder. Much maudlin sentiment is wasted upon him. Much sob-sister philosophy is printed and preached for his defense.
>
> "In our weeping and wailing for the human rat who did the murder we forget the poor victim and her family and friends. We sometimes almost talk of them as though they were urging organized society to make a victim of this vicious animal. We speak of the State killing another victim. Before we are through with our ridiculous vaudeville trials we have stirred ourselves into such a state of maudlin sentimentalism that we talk as though we had an archangel on trial and that the blood-thirsty believers in capital punishment must have a victim to appease their thirst for blood.
> "Great jurists like William Howard Taft are asking that we pay some attention to the poor victims and to the protection of decent citizens from the vicious, dastardly murderer and less attention to the protection of the murderer. We have a right to self-protection and we have a right to use the method that will obtain the best results, and we are on the verge of using more virile discipline to restrain the vicious criminals.
> "You sneer at primitive vengeance, at the punitive methods of dealing with crime. What are you going to put in its stead? You do not know. You have some faint ideas about what you would do, but if at this moment you were called upon to give us a system of dealing with criminals that will protect society, you could not do it."

The writer made a further point, however, which is pertinent whether we believe in capital punishment or not:

> "I believe in the relentless enforcement of capital punishment as is done in England and other countries that have been experimenting with crimes longer than we have. Those countries have the feeble-minded and all other types of minds just as we have, but they do not have the deadly hurricane of crime that exists in America."

"As is done in England." And so far in Canada. Namely, not merely capital punishment, but prompt and resolute enforcement of all law. It is the certainty of law enforcement that makes capital crime rare in England as compared with the United States where murders are many and executions few. The machinery of justice when it operates with almost complete certainty will hold crime in check, but no severity of punishment will prevent crime if offenders do not fear detection, capture and prompt justice.

In the natural course of events, the leading punster of The Toronto Star will now proceed to point out that the Conservative amendment to the Budget Cahan't possibly pass.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, February 22 (Canadian Press). — The only business transacted with foreign buyers on the Montreal grain market yesterday was the sale of a few loads of mixed oats to the continent. There was an improved demand for ocean grain room here, and engagements of twenty-five to thirty loads were made from West St. John to Antwerp for February-March loading at nine to ten cents per 100 pounds, but the demand for room to the United Kingdom was very limited.

Trading in cash grain in the domestic market was quiet, the demand being only for odd cars of oats for all rail shipment from Fort William. A firm feeling prevailed and prices were unchanged.

A moderate amount of business was done with United Kingdom buyers in spring wheat flour, but the local trade was quiet. The undertone to the market was firm. There was an improved demand for winter wheat, the market was firm. There was an improved demand for winter wheat flour, and an increased volume of business was done at steady prices.

Prices for all lines of millfeed were firmly maintained under a continued demand. The tone of the market for standard grades of rolled oats was stetady, but the volume of business was small.

A good trade continued in fresh eggs owing to the increased consumption which was attributed to the good quality of the stock coming forward and the reasonable prices prevailing. The market for storage grades was rather quiet on account of the small offerings. The receipts were 1,551 cases.

The inquiry for potatoes continued fair, and values were unchanged.

Owing to the light receipts of imported beans and the small stocks in first hands on spot, the undertone to the market was very firm. The demand was steady and sales of broken lots of choice white hand-picked were made at $3.20 per bushel, ex-store, and car lots to arrive at $3.00 per bushel, ex-track.

The trade in butter was less active than it has been of late, but the undertone continued firm. The receipts were 14 packages.

Extreme dullness marked the cheese trade, but the feeling was firm. The receipts were 203 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, February 22 (Canadian Press). — Corn went up with a rush yesterday to the highest prices since summer, May getting within ⅛ cent of the dollar mark, and July reaching a new top record for the season. It was feared the prospective warm weather will bring about a further curtailment of corn receipts at terminal markets.

Closing quotations on corn were firm, 1⅝c to 2¼c net higher, wheat ½c to 1¼c up, oats showing ⅜c to ½c to ⅝c advance, and provisions 2 cents to 7 cents down.

In addition to likelihood of unfavorable weather for the movement of the corn crop, indications of export business yesterday tended to stimulate speculative demand.

Extensive profit-taking on the advance yesterday in the corn market failed to result in any lasting setback. Numerous standing orders which previous sellers had given to stop losses at various fixed limits were automatically forced into action and were instrumental at times in accelerating the upward impetus of values. Meanwhile, the cash corn trading basis was firm, with No. 2 yellow selling here at $1.02 a bushel, an unusual premium above the price of May delivery. It was noted that North American supplies of corn had increased 1,519,000 bushels for the week, but are yet 40,985,000 bushels against 45,997,000 bushels last year.

Wheat was helped upward by corn strength, but offerings increased on the rallies. World available supplies of wheat and flour increased 5,354,000 bushels, making the total 69,000,000 bushels more than the total a year ago. Oats also were firmer with corn, but were rather dull.

STERLING EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, February 22 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as:

Demand—$4.88¼.
Cables—$4.88 11-16.

GOD'S MINUTE

This, the love of God, that we keep His commandents.

O Lord, Thou art the high and lofty One Who doth inhabit eternity, Whose Name is Holy: Thou dwellest in the high and holy place, with him also that is of a contrite and humble spirit.

We bow before Thee, humbly asking Thy pardon of our sins, through our Saviour. We thank Thee for Thou didst so love us as to give Thy beloved Son that we might live; and we rejoice that no one shall be able to pluck us out of Thy hands.

We pray Thee that Thy Kingdom may come, and Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Do Thou support and empower everyone who labours for Thee at home or on the mission fields. Do Thou comfort and uphold all who are sick or bereaved, or troubled. May these trials bring them closer to Thee.

We do desire that Thou wouldst give us grace and power to live rightly to-day, to do our work and to glorify Thee. Oh, keep us from falling or doing anything to grieve Thee or to bring sorrow to ourselves, or to anyone.

We ask all in the Name of our Saviour. Amen.

A Thought

FEAR OF FAILURE.

Many a man hesitates about breaking out of his rut to try the business of selling because he is afraid of failure. Many a man looks out into the busy world and wishes that he had the courage to jump into the current and make something of himself beside the drone or slave to routine that he now is, yet never does it because he thinks he is safe where he is. Both of these views are distorted.

RADIO SETS SQUEAL.

Dear Sir: — May I here congratulate the unknown regenerative set owners in the North Stewart street district on the extraordinary performance which they gave on Sunday last. It has taken many months of rehearsing to reach this efficient stage, which was I think unbeatable. Considering the many stations that are heterodyning, it seems a cruel thing to have the remaining clear ones disturbed with yelps as they are in that district. This is continuing daily, morning, noon or night, which leads me to think that there are very many regenerative sets in this neighborhood.

I hope and feel sure hundreds more would agree that a litttle more care and thought from these fans would make listening a pleasure instead of compelling us to get off the air as is being done now owing to these violent screams and yells.

It may perhaps not be generally known to our regenerative friends that every yell they make on their set is actually reproduced on everybody's set for a very large area around.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your courtesy in publishing my letter and trusting at least that a little benefit will result.. Yours respectfully,

CARE AND THOUGHT.

PROTECT THE 'LUNGE.

Editor Examiner.
Dear Editor:

I was pleased to read in today's issue of The Examiner the opinion expressed by Madden Howard in regards the pickerel taken from Rice Lake, I am not in a position to say how many pickerel are taken through the ice, but I agree with Mr. Howard when he says the reports are exaggerated.

I have read with much interest of the writings in regards the preserving of fish in the Trent waters, and I would heartily support any measure that would lead to same, but as Mr. Howard says, the pickerel are not a game fish, and my experience as a guide on Rice Lake is, that the American tourist and sportsman coming here to fish would rather catch one maskinonge than a dozen pickerel, so I think that from a sportsman's point of view, the objection to the taking of a few hundred pickerel is a little overdone. Why not protect our game fish (namely the maskinonge and bass) during the spawning season? One female 'lunge' killed while spawning means the destruction of thousands of eggs, and unless these parent fish are spared during this season, our game fish will be a thing of the past.

Much money is spent every year in advertising the Trent waters as a "fisherman's paradise" but one fisherman who can go home and say that he had a good catch of "muskies" or "bass" will do more towards advertising than hundred of dollars will do.

Thanking you Mr. Editor, I am,
Yours for the game fish,
H. THOMPSON.

NO FISH FROM TRENT.

To the Editor of the Examiner.
Dear Sir:

Will you kindly give me space in your valuable paper to tell you the truth about a statement made by a member of the County Fish and Game Protective Association, who states he saw sixty men fishing on Rice Lake within a small radius. He also says the same conditions exist on the Trent River, where hundreds of pounds are being taken out daily and shipped to Toronto. Now, sir, it is too bad that a paper with the extensive circulation and status of The Examiner should be given such bunk to print, in good faith, by a man who is evidently endowed with a huge imagination on which he draws very largely.

Now after extensive enquiry I learn that there has not been one fish of any kind caught through the ice between Hastings and Healey Falls this winter. Now, with all deference to tourists, who leave a lot of money in the country, we think the natives who carry on twelve months in the year and who are largely responsible for the good roads spoken of, are worthy of some consideration at the hands of the self-styled sports. Now, sir, I have lived here fifty years and have always been a close observer of the habits of fish and game, and I will venture to say, and firmly believe I am right, that the tourists catch more 'lunge and bass here in one week than the natives the whole season, both legally and illegally. The 'lunge is what I call a weed fish as they get their food at or near the weeds and they hide in the weeds. The weeds get ripe and the frost comes and they are out from under cover and along comes some tourist with his guide and live bait and trails it at his nose, and he is landed. This goes on here for weeks till it is frozen up, and my candid opinion is if you can get a closed season from at the least the 15th of October it will conserve the 'lunge. Now, as sports, let us get down to brass tacks and put the blame for the depletion of the fish in the right place, for

It was a very happy thought that inspired the ladies in charge of arrangements for "Ye Old Curiosity Shoppe" tea, held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church in the Sunday school parlors, yesterday afternoon and evening. There was an old-time, romantic flavor to the scene last night in the big interior, when the old-fashioned gowns of the ladies, the 'homey look of the large tables and the quaint costumes of those taking part in a program of old-time musical numbers, made a very attractive and pretty picture. Even the refreshments carried out the old-fashioned idea, with tiny round doughnuts, caraway cakes, heart-shaped cookies and "conversation" lozenges. The attireof those assisting was of old-fashioned flavour also and attracted much admiring comment. Some of the ladies were scarcely recognizable in the flounced, stiff, lengthy skirts and tight bodices of an older age, with crinoline and black lace shawls, little bonnets with velvet chin straps, or big, plumed hats, jet ornaments, heavy chains and cameo brooches. The musical program for the afternoon and evening, in charge of Mrs. M. B. Chenhall, consisted of vocal solos by Mrs. Hazel Davidson McClelland, the Misses Bertha Hill, Elizabeth Harrison and Greta LeBarr. Mr. H. Flowers also gave a vocal solo and a duet was rendered by Mrs. Walter Byers and Mr. Horace Hope. A reading was given by Mrs. McClelland and Mr. Andrew Allan read from Dicken's "Pickwick." Accompaniments were played by Mrs. C. S. McClelland, Mrs. W. A. Logan and Miss Emma Lou Chenhall. The exhibits of antiques which were placed in the alcoves were very interesting and well merited a much lengthier exhibition than was possible in the afternoon and evening of one day. Brought from the treasure chests of many homes, it was impossible to make a complete list of these beautiful souvenirs of older days. Perhaps the largest collections were those owned by rMs. F. Clayton, Mrs. Ada Craig, Mrs. W. H. Hill, Mrs. C. A. White, Mrs. A. McLeish, Mrs. H. B. Cowan, Mrs. O. M. Steer and Mrs. W. A. Logan. Quite extraordinary in its beauty and unique charm was a lemonade set of Bohemian agate. There were old christening robes, some of them a century in age and worn by many generations, quilts and spreads, an odd wreath of woollen flowers under glass, tintypes and daguerrotypes, a Turkish copper coffee grinder and a half a dozen little coffee cups without handles, ottomans and samplers, crepe and lace and Paisley shawls, old lamps, a piece of the kalabash tree under which the poet Moore sat to write some of his famous compositions, Dresden figurines, an ivory-handled Italian fly-swatter, china of every type, ranging from some of the famous Ironstone of England to dainty copper lustre ware, and samples of five colors in the old willow pattern, developed in pink, brown, green and two shades of blue, with various bits of the ancient briar-rose china of 1746, and a modern piece in the Paragon ware commemorating the birth of the little Princess Elizabeth of England, with the design in the rose of England and the two magpies that flew about the church at her christening. There were pewter teapots and pieces of hammered brass and sterling silver, bits of cloissonne with platinum veins, a Turkish tabouret and old-time marble-topped tables, a Scotch carpet and an ornament in Scotch clay with a top of twenty-two carat gold, lacquer ware, an old dinenr gong and clock and a pair of white china dogs, old, board-bound books, a nosegay made of the scarlet feathers of the South American lapin bird, an ash tray of Roman clay, a brass mirror and wall sconces, an Irish blackthorn and a carved stick with a man's hand guarding the approach of a writing serpent, a cross made from Chinese coins, a Chinese picnic set of luxurious type and an ebony English tea wagon with top inlaid with mother of pearl. The old-timer poster advertisements of 1869 and 1878 were on view, with a roundabout rigmarole announcing the advent of a day of fun and pleasure in the community, and the arrival on the scene of the Prince of "Tembucdahyirucagiuphilis." An old-fashioned quilting scene in one of the alcoves was carried out with a real quilting frame by Mesdames Dayell, Lyons, Robinson, Hendry, F. White. The tea room, where the tables were arranged with bowls of daffodils and yellow candles in silver candlesticks, was in charge of Mrs. C. E. Blewett. The guests were received by the president, Mrs. J. W. F. Hall, general convenor, and her reception committee, composed of Mesdames J. Garbutt, W. Stacey, M. Squair, W. Taylor, A. Cameron. Convenors of the antique exhibitions were Mesdames Garbutt, C. A. White, A. McLeish, J. Marsh, Jas. Skinner. Ladies looking after refreshments were Mesdames Fee, Vincent, Raper, Stinson, Wiley, Henry. Ladies pouring tea at the long tables were Mesdames E. F. Mason, Robt. Hall, D. Jordan, H. B. Cowan, W. Smith, C. S. McClelland, S. McKee, R. H. Hunter, Gilgour, Sr., J. McCaw, R. H. Fortye, R. R. Hall, W. Hill, assisted by Mesdames J. P. Pulkinghorn, D. W. Clark, H. Taylor, W. Weir, W. Burrell, H. Gilgour, O. M. Steer, D. McLean, Bennett, E. Taylor, H. C. Sherwood, C. H. Williamson, T. Jackson, A. Jones, H. Stenson, Ada Craig, and the Misses Nina Davidson and A. Hunter.

Hints on Etiquette

1. How can the annoying habit of making folks wait be prevented in adults?

2. When do adults' table manners begin to form?

3. How young can a child be taught to hold his table silver properly, and have other good table manners?

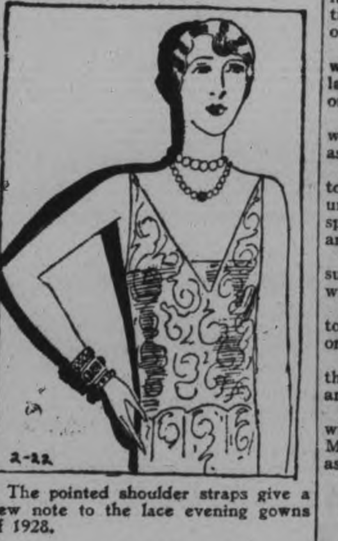
The Answers.

1. By teaching them when children to be prompt at meals and in getting off to school and quick to execute orders.

2. When, as babies, they first eat out of a cup or spoon.

3. In his high-chair.

DRESS
By MARY MARSHALL



The pointed shoulder straps give a new note to the lace evening gowns of 1928.

The pointed shoulder strap is one of the most characteristic characteristics of the new evening gowns. Only, of course, it isn't a strap at all but a continuation of the bodice shaped so that at the top of the shoulder it consists of two points fastened together—or tapers down to a mere narrow band.

The V neckline thus outlined almost invariably extends quite low and there is either a "modesty piece to fill in the space or else the under foundation of the frock is here allowed to show. Draped lace frocks are frequently made in this way with colored or metal foundation slips showing at the front and often under the arms as well.

Once women couldn't get evening handkerchiefs small enough. They were mere postage stamps of material edged with lace. And women tucked them easily into the opening of their white evening gloves—hardly a palmful, any of them. But somehow, somewhere the fad for large evening handkerchiefs started and now every woman who keeps abreast of the fashions has laid in a supply of them. Large are they, but not bulky, for they are made of the lightest chiffon, often edged with fine lace.

With a frock of chiffon a square of chiffon to match edged with fine lace may be carried. Many women made these handkerchiefs themselves. The edge of the chiffon is neatly rolled and then overcast to the edge of the lace, which is mitered at the corners.

One of the newest of evening handkerchiefs consists of a large square of pastel chiffon neatly rolled along the edges. Two round medallions of fine lace about two inches across were used for trimming. Each medallion was cut in two and each of the four corners of the handkerchief was then finished with a half medallion.

HOROSCOPE
The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 1928.
(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

This is one of the rarely fortunate days, according to astrology, and favorable to the development and fruition of talent.

This is a rule favorable to inventions and it is foretold that machinery which revolutionizes modern life is to be substituted for present-day appliances of many sorts.

There is a sign of greatest promise to engineers and to builders of houses as well as builders of bridges.

This year should be an auspicious time for pushing plans that contemplate record-making achievements.

While the stars presage immense enterprises and daring feats, the impulse toward supreme activities will be reflected in men and women who will attain to high ambitions.

This is a happy wedding day since it presages persistent loyalty and material success.

Engagement to marry made under this direction of the stars should be most lucky, for wisdom as well as admiration enters into this day's attraction of the sexes.

Merchants and manufacturers are well directed while this configuration lasts and they should be able to count on a year unusually large profits.

Nurses and all who minister to the wants of others should benefit from the aspects today.

At this time the human voice is likely to receive attention and there will be unusual effort toward improvement in speech, for the stars affecting diction are read as strongly benefic.

Neptune is in a menacing aspect supposed to affect whatever concerns wines and other alcoholic drinks.

Lawyers are especially well directed today which presages for them extraordinary activity.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of adventures, pleasures and profits.

Children born on this day probably will be extremely clever in business. Many subjects of this sign are orators as well as executives.

TORONTO WOMAN IS GRATEFUL
To Gin Pills For Relieving Pain and Listlessness
Household duties were burdensome; pain wracked her body; medical skill accomplished nothing; then—and how often this happens!—a friend advised Gin Pills. This former sufferer writes:
"For about one year I had trouble with my back. I got tired so easily, had a terribly listless feeling at all times. I had medical attention all during this period but couldn't obtain relief.
"After using the first box of Gin Pills I got relief and, after taking three boxes, I feel that I am completely relieved. I always keep Gin Pills in the medicine cabinet."

FIFTH PETERBOROUGH TROOP.

Whew! How we grow! The fifth Peterborough troop now have five real live patrols and is willing to make more. After flag break and inspection the boys were warmed up by some snappy games, under the supervision of A. S. M. Harry Wilkes. After these had been participated in the troop was called up for re-organization of patrols. S. M. George Gimblett then made up five complete patrols. The patrols are as follows: Bulldogs, Wolves, Beavers, Buffaloes and Crows. The patrols then broke to their corners. Later the troop was instructed on the new plan of "opening of meetings."

At this juncture the troop was visited by Mr. J. John, the president of the local association. He spoke to the boys for a few minutes and wished them all luck. The boys responded accordingly with three cheers, which was heard for blocks.

The troop was then dismissed and a troop council was held. All patrol leaders and seconds were present. "Parents' Night" was discussed and met with approval. The boys are all working to make this a real success. Vic Johnson was made press secretary, A. Smedmore will act as troop secretary for the coming meetings, Richard Walsh was appointed troop treasurer and Lloyd Asling will be the new quartermaster and instrutcor of games. Camp was discussed and this year the Fifth is going to have a model camp. Ralph Beatty was appointed camp secretary and treasurer. Several other minor affiars were discussed and the council was dismissed.

All patrol leaders and seconds are requested to meet at the troop rooms for instruction every Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

The Fifth Peterborough Troop hockey team now leads the league and intends to hold that position. All other teams work hard to get there and the Fifth team will meet them in a real game.

Well, there goes 'Lights Out' boys, so let's say no more.

NURSE'S WORK QUIETLY DONE

Well Babies' Clinic Nurse Goes Unobtrusively About City.

VISITS MANY HOMES.

Unobtrusively, there is a large work being carried on among the families of Peterboro by means of the nurse of the Well Babies' Clinic. Daily she makes visits to the homes of mothers having small babies, giving instruction on the care of the baby and its proper clothing and feeding and preparation of these foods, on general hygienic conditions, the value of sunshine and ventilation, on the danger from deadly infection of the fly, on bathing the child, talks on bedside nursing, and the right way to make poultices. She also gives lavage and other treatments under the direction of the doctors.

During 1927, 500 of these visits were made.

NEW PLANE MOTOR USES LESS FUEL

Has Third Greater Cruising Radius, Inventor Claims.

CHICAGO, February 22 (Canadian Press).—Assured that three nations, including Canada, will grant him patents on his gasoline turbine aero plane motor, R. E. Lasley, engineer, of Libertyville, Ill., a suburb, went forward to-day with plans to test his invention on a trans-Atlantic flight. France has issued him a patent, and both the United States and Canadian Governments have notified the inventor that patents will be issued, Lasley revealed. He said his engine will have a third greater cruising radius for the amount of fuel used than any present airplane engine.

LIFE MEMBERSHIP PIN FOR MRS. CLEGG

Presentation Made at Regular Meeting of Trinity Church W.M.S.

Mrs. A. Clegg was the recipient yesterday of a life membership pin from the Women's Missionary Society of Trinity United Church, the presentation being made by Mrs. A. Cunningham at the conclusion of the regular business meeting held yesterday afternoon in Reid Street Hall. Mrs. A. Parker spoke in glowing terms of the wonderful work done by Mrs. Clegg and of her many years of faithful service in the society.

A splendid attendance featured this meeting, which was in charge of Mrs. A. Bentley's group, and was presided over by Mrs. A. F. Bookhout, who passed a vote of thanks to Mrs. J. Forbes Allan, special speaker of the afternoon. Mrs. Allan spoke on "Prayer," emphasizing its spiritual values and the importance of constant and earnest prayer in the lives of all. A pleasing vocal solo was given later by Mrs. T. E. Curvin.

TRUCK KILLS BOY GOING TO CHURCH

Toronto Lad Instantly Killed While On Way To Mass To-day.

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (Canadian Press).—While on his way to attend the opening Mass of the Lenten season at St. Anthony's Roman Catholic Church today, ten-year-old James Lee was struck by a motor truck and almost instantly killed. Running into the truck he sustained a fractured skull and internal injuries and died while being taken to hospital.

The boy's parents came to Toronto two months ago from Smith's Falls, Ontario.

TALKS ON TRIP ABROAD.

W. R. Morris Gives Address To May Home and School Association.

A talk by W. R. Morris on his recent trip abroad featured the regular meeting of the May's Home and School Association, held in the new Confederation School on Monday evening. After a short business session, dainty refreshments were served and Olive Cookman gave a reading.

Must Not Use Name Presbyterian

REGINA, Sask., Feb. 22.—The Private Bills Committee, Saskatchewan Legislature, last night decided that the title "Presbyterian Church in Canada" cannot be legally used. The decision came when United Church people fought a proposed amendment to their bill to compel the appointment of a Property Commission. The decision will probably affect non-concurring congregations over the whole Dominion.

SCOUTS WANT FIELD OFFICER

Local Association Asks Headquarters for Organizing Assistance.

ACCOUNTS PASSED

A resolution was passed at the executive meeting of the Peterborough Boy Scouts' Association, held on Monday, to ask the Toronto Scout Headquarters to send to Peterborough a field man for a week or so to promote interest in Scouting locally. In this way the present troops would be enlarged and new ones organized.

A review of the business in connection with the conference held here last week, was made.

President J. John presided, while among those present were the Rev. J. D. Paterson, W. H. Dickin, Thomas Barrie, J. A. McKone, J. J. Turner, W. G. Howden, A. Hope, E. Wolff, and F. Taylor. The passing of accounts was the first and main business of the meeting, most of them being in connection with the conference; then followed a report of the dinner committee, submitted by W. H. Dickin, and a verbal report of the finance committee by W. R. Morris. Among the interesting facts that he gave, was one to the effect that since the last of January, approximately $164.00 had been received in membership fees. A part of this sum will go to the summer camp while the remainder will be used in other channels of expenditure mentioned in the budget presented at the annual meeting held last October.

PANCAKE SOCIAL IS GREAT SUCCESS

All Saints' A. Y. P. A. Gives Good Supper and Program.

The A.Y.P.A. of All Saints' Church held a pancake social in the Sunday School room last evening. It was well attended. The making of the pancakes was in the capable hands of Mrs. S. Worboy, Mrs. Price, Mrs. Young and Miss B. Dawson.

The musical program was in charge of Miss M. Rome, Miss H. Driscoe, and Miss O. McCracken. Games and contests were in charge of Miss Worboy and Ted Rye.

The splendid program was as follows:

Violin Solos by George Gatfield and Clifford Rusaw.

Vocal Solo—G. E. Chandler.

Readings by Miss Gwen Parnel and Mr. John.

Banjo Selections by Frank Clarke.

Accompanist, Miss Marguerite Rome.

lided with a car on the side of the road. The rate of speed was said to be ten miles an hour. Witnesses claimed he did not stop. Mr. Connor admitted not stopping, but when he got to Peterborough he had his brother return to the scene of the accident. It was the number on his brother's car that was obtained and which resulted in Mr. Maker's long search.

A local man pleaded not guilty to two charges: one of assaulting two of his children and the other of failing to provide for his wife and four children under 16 years of age. He was remanded for one week.

A Grant pleaded guilty to failing to stop at the corner of McDonnel and Aylmer, and was fined $3.00 and costs.

J. D. Fitzpatrick, A. V. McCorry, Frederick O'Rourke and George Lindsay pleaded guilty to the same charge and each was fined $3.00 and costs. In the case of O'Rourke it was a horse-drawn vehicle.

E. Redmond pleaded guilty to driving a horse-drawn vehicle without a light and was fined $3 and costs.

ST. JOHN'S MEN HOLD BANQUET

A. H. Cuttle Gives Address on Laymen's Service to Church.

GOOD PROGRAM GIVEN.

A goodly number of the men of the congregation attended a banquet held in St. John's Parish House under the auspices of the Men's Club, and enjoyed the excellent provisions of the Church Women's Associations. Jack Marshall's orchestra was on hand and the musical program was enlarged by songs by D. G. Melton with Mr. Mann at the piano. Jack Cridland, president of the Men's Club, occupied the chair. After the toast to the King, the Vicar Rev. Dr. Blagrave, made feeling reference to the passing of Robert Moore a member of the choir and of the A.Y.P.A. and one of the most lovable and popular boys in town.

The speaker of the evening was A. H. Cuttle, at present Diocesan Finance Commissioner, who for years has been in business in Toronto and always a great worker in the church. Mr. Cuttle gave an inspiring address on the opportunities for laymen's service in the church, and through the church to Canada and to the world at large. Votes of thanks were moved to the speaker and to the ladies by W. H. Kent, People's Warden, with Major S. T. Medd as seconder, and by W. Stevenson with J. Patte as seconder, which were heartily endorsed by the audience.

SCREEN NEWS EXPERT HERE

B. E. Norrish Will Address Engineers On Subject Tomorrow Night.

PUBLIC INVITED.

The regular meeting of the branch will be held in the Chamber of Commerce on Thursday, Feb. 23, at 8.15 p.m. It will be addressed by B. E. Norrish, Managing Director of Associated Screen News Ltd., Montreal.

The subject will be "The New Era of the Motion Picture," a non-technical presentation of the progress being made in that popular field.

Mr. Norrish was responsible for the news pictures of the Belanger-Jarvis featherweight championship fight in the Coliseum, Toronto, several weeks ago These pictures were voted by theatre patrons as being more distinct and clear than those taken of the Tunney-Dempsey fight at Soldiers' Field, Chicago.

All citizens interested in up-to-the-minute information on the subject of 'Screen News' will be welcomed by the local branch.

HENS FROM HERE WIN FOUR PRIZES

Birds Bred By Frank Head Beat Imported Ones at Picton Show.

A pen of four Barred Rock hens sold last November by Frank Head won first, second, third and fourth prizes in their class in Picton poultry show, where they were exhibited by their present owner, Mrs. R. Cowan, of Picton. Mrs. Cowan recently imported a trio of two hens and a rooster of this breed from W. H. Holden, Fort Wayne, Ind., paying a high price, but the Canadian birds defeated those from the United States in the show.

MARK STREET LADIES FORM BIBLE CLASS

Mrs. H. Nellist is Elected President at First Meeting.

Mrs. H. Nellist was elected president of a newly organized Bible class of Mark Street Church at a meeting held at her home on Sophia Street, on Monday evening. MOTORISTS MUST PAY FOR UPKEEP Gasoline Bill Now Stands For Third Reading in Quebec House.

QUEBEC, Que., Feb. 22 (Canadian Press).—Motorists must pay more for the upkeep of roads, it was made clear by the Provincial Government in the Quebec Legislative Assembly yesterday when the bill increasing the gasoline tax from three to five cents was considered. The bill now stands for third reading. Premier Taschereau said the Government did not increase the tax with any pleasure but due to having taken over the highway maintenance last year, and heavy losses incurred, it had been felt that more money should come from the people using the roads.

Hon. Jacob Nicol, Provincial Treasurer, said that while it was true that license charges in Ontario are less than in Quebec, there are four times the number of cars in that province and the road system in this province was as large as in Ontario, and better maintained.

COUNTY COUNCIL REFUSES GRANT

erborough war memorial Reeves Curtis and Scott introduced the motion that in view of the fact that many of the municipalities had already built memorials that this council as a body take no action in regards to the request of the deputation.

Reeve Scott, in seconding the motion, said, "We have already built a $2,000 memorial in Asphodel and I do not think that the ratepayers are in favor of giving again. If Peterborough had brought this question up eight years ago to the council I believe there would have been a different feeling."

Reeve Rye was the next man on his feet. "Peterborough did start eight years ago, but was held up, and I believe the Reeves of Asphodel and Havelock would feel small when they see the memorial in Peterborough dedicated to the soldier dead of the city of Peterborough and county if your own township or municipality had not taken a part in its erection."

Reeve Hawthorne said: "As far as the ratepayers of Dummer are concerned I feel they are not in favor of making a grant. Dummer erected an expensive memorial that cost the ratepayers five mills or $5,000. Why did they not ask in the first place for the co-operation of the surrounding townships for then we might have worked together."

Reeve Tanner explained that Lakefield thought she had done her part when she erected a $32,000 Memorial Hall.

Warden Smithson closed the debate when he said: "The whole thing is very regrettable, but the city is to blame for the townships took action in 1920."

The representatives from North Monaghan and Smith townships that have not already erected a memorial were the only one to vote against the motion.

The councils of Hastings and Peterborough will meet the minister on Thursday in Toronto, and discuss many highway problems. The commkittee appointed to try and secure a better rate of interest from the Bank of Commerce reported they had been able to get a rate of five and a half per cent. instead of five and three-quarters.

The council will discuss with the Minister of Highways the advisability of issuing debentures to cover the $50,000 highways charges levied against the county for last year's provincial highway construction.

To-day the council is attending in a body the Good Roads Convention in Toronto and have ordered a special table for the banquet in the King Edward Hotel to-night.

ZION LEAGUE SERVICE

Topic Given by George Brunton, "Choosing Life Partners."

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, Feb. 22.—Zion League services were held recently, with George Brunton, convenor of the citizenship department, in charge, and Aylmer Petherick as leader. There were thirty present, with the Chevrolet and Whippet groups tied for points. The chart showing the progress will be ready for next meeting; it is being prepared by Misses Bessie Meiklejohn and Laura Watson. The devotional period was in charge of Rev. C. Daniel and Miss Nellie Bennett.

"Choosing Life Partners" was the topic given by George Brunton, after which a discussion period was held, which brought out the opinions of many; it being generally agreed that the ideal place to form the affections which lead to lift partnership is within the influence of Christ and the Church.

Gladys Simpson and Jennie Fry continued their reports of the week's session at the Cobourg Winter School. Other items on the program were a reading by Gladys Petherick and a vocal trio by Misses Evelyn Barnum, Evelyn Totton and Fred Barnum.

The next meeting will be a social one, under direction of Gladys Simpson.

COBOURG LODGE MEMBERS HERE

Oddfellows Visit the Otonabee Lodge and Confer Degree of Truth.

JEWELS PRESENTED.

Notwithstanding the cold weather, and bad state of the roads, Cobourg Lodge No. 136, Independent Order of Oddfellows, was strongly represented in the city Monday evening when they paid a fraternal visit to Otonabee Lodge, No. 13, I.O.O.F., and exemplified the work of the 'Degree of Truth.'

The work was put on in a manner that drew enthusiastic applause from the members of the Order who were present in large numbers, extra seating facilities having to be provided to acommodate them all.

The occasion was a return visit to one paid by Otonabee Lodge in December last to Cobourg, where they also conferred a degree.

The especial feature of the evening was the drill put on by the team, when during their marching they formed the number of Cobourg Lodge, 136, the initial letters of Friendship, Love and Truth, also including the letters I.O.O.F. and the three links.

Degree Captain Gilbert Wicks and his very efficient team highly deserve all the praise bestowed on them for their pleasing part of the degree.

Numbered among the many pleasant events of the evening was the presentation of veteran jewels to Bros. Hugh Robertson, P.G., and C. E. Adams, of Otonabee Lodge, after twenty-five years' continuous membership in the Order, Brother Adams having thirty-seven years to his credit.

District Deputy Grand Master R. J. Martin made the presentation of the jewel to Bro. Robertson, and Bro. Adams received his at the hands of Bro. E. Hircock, one of the well-known and popular members of Cobourg Lodge. Both recipients made suitable acknowledgment of the honor bestowed upon them by their brother Oddfellows.

A hearty vote of thanks was unanimously passed, and tendered to the degree team by Noble Grand Tuggey, the same being acknowledged on behalf of the visitors by Degree Master Wicks.

An adjournment was then made to the dining-room, where a hot dinner was enjoyed, during which the I.O.O.F. Orchestra played a very acceptable program, with Bros. Harold Follis, pianist, Clifford Russeau, violin, Reg. Dyer, clarionet, E. J. Hotston, cornet, and Matt. Drysdale, traps.

A short toast list was also ran through, including the King, Grand Lodge, and the Visitors, acknowledgment of which was made by D.D.G.M. Martin, Noble Grand G. L. Green of Cobourg Lodge, Degree Master Gilbert Wicks, and Brother E. Hircock.

The visitors left for home about half-past 11 o'clock.

Veteran Jewels were also sent to the following members of Otonabee Lodge living out of the city, viz.:—Brothers H. W. Rider, Welland, Ont.; F. H. Cookson, New Hamburg; A. H. Goodwin, Aldersyde, Alt.

The visitors were: Gilbert G. Wicks, Degree Master; Garnet L. Green, Noble Grand; J. R. Service, Vice Grand; P. Mackin, J' Pierce, C. Ash, R. Henry, H. Tetlock; G. Thomas, G. Rorabeck. E. Hircock, W. Thermogene: the warmth that heals—

Rheumatism

Rheumatism in its various forms is very subtle, very cunning, very persistent. Thermogene in its one form is equally subtle and far more persistent.

You don't have to wonder whether it is taking effect. From the very first moment you know it. It tells you so. It glows, it penetrates and it goes on glowing and penetrating, sending warmth deep down into the tissues and drawing chills out—irresistibly. When its healing warmth has done its work, Thermogene may be removed layer by layer— safely and comfortably.

Perspiration Odour is no respecter of Persons- or Seasons

Winter and Summer one perspires . . . everyone . . . from one to two pints daily, the doctors say.

One needn't be in a warm room, it may not be a sultry summer day, for sometimes excess perspiration is caused by emotion or plain nervousness.

But, whatever causes perspiration odour, no one need ever offend because of it . . . not while there is Lifebuoy Soap to be had practically everywhere.

Lifebuoy Soap used for face, hands and bath makes one sure of not offending. The creamy antiseptic lather not only cleanses but also purifies the pores and keeps them antiseptically clean and sweet from bath to bath.

Lifebuoy is orange red, the colour of its pure palm fruit oils . . . it costs no more than the toilet soap you are using now.

THE WAR MEMORIAL.

Editor The Examiner.

Dear Sir:

I have been following with much interest your most thorough and helpful effort to secure revision of the lists of names of soldiers, casualties in the Great War, and who were of the thousands of Canadians who volunteered for service. I know that all over the province, and possibly in other provinces, the same inaccuracy in regard to names has prevailed.

The list which I supplied at the request of the ladies having charge of the details in reference to the monument or memorial to be erected as an expression of public recognition was the only compilation available, short of appealing to the military authorities and to the accepted records at Ottawa, the results from which might not have been more accurate than the lists here supplied.

After the closing down of the war, and the arrival of the regiments home, in early 1919, I took up the work of making the list, and compiled it from the discharge sheets as sent out by the Patriotic Fund organization, at Ottawa. These sheets were despatched as speedily as possible on arrival of the troop ships at destinations, the records having been carefully prepared while the vessels were on the ocean and the men in transit.

It took five months of time to complete the work. The sheet supplied to the secretaries of the Patriotic Fund, with its great organization reaching from the Atlantic to the Pacific, in all the ramifications, were the same sheets as sent to the several military headquarters in the districts. Kingston was the main discharge depot for Ontario province, though at Brockville, Toronto, London and Windsor, other depots assisted. Those were months of almost incredible activity, and it is not strange that many inaccuracies prevailed. The work, as completed by myself, comprised several hundred pages, giving names of all who returned, list of casualties supplied from the Pensions Board at Ottawa, also from the several detention hospitals where men were taken for treatment, and held, some of them, for several months. Also those, wounded, who were kept in England, pending recovery. The work also included lists of pensions granted to wives, mothers and children of the families of those who gave their lives in the field and in other situations. I made four copies of the book. One is in the public library, one at the office of the City Clerk, one with the G.W.V.A., and the copy which was placed at the service of the Committee.

I doubt if ever an accurate list may be compiled. For the first five months of the year 1915, married men were not accepted for service, unless they produced a release or written permission from their wives. Being in charge of the local branch of the Patriotic Fund I came across several cases where men had enlisted, in this city, under assumed names, to evade the stipulation in regard to consent of the wife. These instances came to light on the application of the wife and mother, to share in the allowances from the Fund, and word at once forwarded to the authorities at Kingston and Ottawa, giving the explanation and asking that the real name of the soldier be substituted. I have little doubt that in the mass of detail such was never done. But as the Fund was dealing with the wife, or mother who was with us, the identification of the man being on service was all that was necessary, so far as the Fund was concerned. The Fund being a civilian organization and the monies contributed being in the form of a gift, it was free from all red tape, military rules or political interference, and invariably did what seemed the common sense thing to do, to dispense the money free from all hesitation, once the matter of service was learned.

Over four thousand men came and registered with the Fund activities, both married men and single. Many of the latter on account of mothers (widows), sisters or some other relative who had benefitted by the care or help of the man going on duty. All these cards of registration were checked over by the lists of men discharged, and as to casualties and pensions as well. There were many variations from the names given on applying to the Fund office, and names as afterwards appeared on the sheets of discharge, sent out from the depots.

Men came and offered registration, giving the familiar nickname by which their friends and fellow-workmen had been in the habit of addressing them, wholly different from the given name by which they had been christened. Hundreds of the fine and loyal Englishmen who flocked to the colors were named "Albert Edward", after their King in the home land. By the same token scores of their wives bore the name of "Florence", after the famous organizer of the English Red Cross, Florence Nightingale.

I think you are right in raising the question as to placing on the shaft or foundation blocks of the memorial all names. Almost a physical impossibility. Certainly if the names be lettered to show the full name as given it will add so much to the cost, especially if all names are to be cut into the stone. Then the letters will have to be comparatively small to save room. Exposed to the Canadian weather and extremes of heat and cold, the surface of the stone, having never undergone exposure until taken from the quarry, will begin to distintegrate in the years to come and become almost illegible. These are, of course, physical objections, but none the less pertinent. We want the memorial to last for years and to, if at all possible, retain its beauty and significance. Yet we owe to the gallant men who gave their lives that so far as a commuuity may devise, they be individually not forgotten.

And this observation may be offered. While the city and those who have worked so earnestly and faithfully to carry to completion the object in view, that it would have attained an end impressive and lasting if the memorial had taken the shape of a massive pinnacle-crowned tower, built of our Stoney Lake granite, and erected on the top of Armour's Hill, within the foundation a room, or space, where all the names could have been cut on the marble of the lining of the room, and stay, free from weather. For the long years to come every man, woman and child walking our streets would see the structure towering over East City, and at night crowned with a galaxy of electric lights as a beacon and benediction. But what would you have.

Yours, etc.,

F. H. DOBBIN.

Being kept in with a cold is no joke

THERE are two other people who don't think it's so funny either. His mother who has to stay home with him and take care of a cross and disappointed young son. And his teacher who has to help him catch up with the lessons he is going to miss.

The worst part of it is, he's one of maybe half a million children who are right now staying indoors for the very same reason. And a whole lot of them could avoid most of these colds if only their resistance was built up ahead of time. If your children seem to "catch everything that goes around", try giving them Nujol.

For Nujol not only prevents any excess of the body poisons (we all have them) from forming, but also aids in their removal. It certainly would do no harm, anyway, to try Nujol, would it?

Try Nujol for, say the next three months. Then compare their report cards with those they had last year. See how the absences from school have dropped—how the school marks have jumped. Nujol was perfected by the Nujol Laboratories of the Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey).

See for yourself if Nujol doesn't help build up healthy resistance to colds and resulting ills—as thousands of other mothers have discovered. Keep a bottle of Nujol handy and give it to them regularly. Contains absolutely no drugs or medicine. Be sure you get the genuine.

Obituary

FRANCES WHITTINGTON.

A very sad death took place in Otonabee at three o'clock Saturday afternoon, February 11, when Frances Margaret Whittington, aged fifteen years and nine months, died.

She is deeply mourned by her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John Whittington and by one sister, Laura, and one brother, Stewart, also by all her schoolmates with whom her kindly disposition had made her a general favorite.

Rev. A. E. Thornley conducted the funeral service on Monday afternoon when many friends and relatives gathered to express their deep sympathy to the sorrowing family. Six of the cousins were the pall-bearers. Interment was in Little Lake cemetery.

Three Drivers Lead Field For Dog Derby Honors

SEPPALLA GAINS GODDARD'S LEAD

Veteran Cuts Down on Manitoba Driver in Second Day's Race.

FINAL TEST TODAY

QUEBEC Feb. 22. — Canadian Press. — The feature of the second stage of the sixth International dog derby yesterday was the performance of Leonhard Seppalla, Nome, Alaska, driver, and his dogs. Last night he was but one minute and a fraction behind Emil St. Goddard, of The Pas, Man., and experts predict that he will close that gap and perhaps take the lead to-day. Sepalla, 50 years of age, turned in a wonderful demonstration of fitness in cutting down the lead of ten minutes gained on the first lap Monday by the Manitoba driver.

To-day's final stage should witness a stern duel between these two drivers though both are keeping an eye on a former winner of the event, Earl Brydges, also of The Pas, Man. Brydges also gained on Goddard's lead yesterday, clipping nearly four minutes off the margin. Brydges is now five minutes behind Sepalla.

All three drivers finished yesterday's grind in perfect condition and their teams were said to be fresh and ready for the final test to-day.

The drivers and their teams raced under Arctic conditions yesterday and over a keen surface. A forty mile wind brought discomfort to the racers and spectators alike and several of the race entrants came across the finish line with frost bitten feet.

Last night it was considered that the three leaders would maintain their places at the head of the field of 15 drivers. Paddy Nolan, Irish-Canadian, fourth on Monday, dropped behind yesterday, and it is expected that Chevriere or Dupuis will nose him out for fourth place in the classic.

Brydges in his attempt to beat out the leaders is placing great confidence in a nine year old dog, "Rattler," which appears tireless.

The race is proving a decided test for the dogs and it is being demonstrated that northern bred dogs, especially bred and trained for racing, show the most endurance.

Brydges' team are northern huskies; St. Goddard's are huskies with a greyhound strain, while Sepalla s are an Eskimo type of husky.

Young Paddy Nolan, Irish Canadian, whose driving was a feature of the first stage Monday, had to withdraw from the contest last night. He did not finish yesterday's test and was brought by motor truck from some miles out. Two of his dogs were exhausted and Nolan, who is a youth was exhausted.

Over-measured Stride.

A novice at the game he overmeasured the stride of his dogs on Monday. He covered almost half the course Monday only a minute behind Emil St. Goddard. With Nolan outclassed for fourth position, there is an interesting struggle going on for that place between two old dog "mushers," George Chevriette and Francis Dupuis, running only some nine minutes apart in Dupuis' favor. Dupuis was the 'dark horse' who won the race in 1926 and when the race started Monday he was considered a possible winner this year.

Then comes "Shorty" Russick from The Pas Man., who is also in the running for fourth place. But Shorty's leaderless team of pups only some fifteen months old, cannot follow the trail. They are wolfhound huskies and do not feel the strain themselves but without a leader cannot possibly follow the pace.

When all is said about the pospects of the tough and hardened men of the trail it must not be overlooked that there is a woman driver in Mrs. E. P. Ricker, of Poland Springs, Maine, who is running in ninth position out of eighten contestants. While not overly enthused yesterday morning in tackling the stiff breeze and again repeating her battle of Monday the howling and tugging of her dogs when she appeared in her stables, turned the point.

The other drivers, Carrier, Lapointe, Lavigne, Skeene, Pouliot, Alain and Routhier have driven a hard but losing race, but will continue to-day.

SUPREMACY TO BE DECIDED IN THURSDAY TILT

Two Local Junior O.H.A. Teams to Clash for the Third Time.

GOALS TO COUNT

Saints Are Two Up Going Into The Final Battle.

First game, St. John's 2, Petes 1.
Second game, St. John's 5, Petes 4.

Third game Brock street rink tomorrow night, total goals in three games to decide winner.

When the Peterborough and St. John's Junior O.H.A. teams clash tomorrow night at Brock street rink in the third game of the city series there should be a real crowd on the sidelines, for the rival outfits have provided the fans with two thrilling battles and the third is likely to be even more exciting.

St. John's have won the first two games, each by a single goal, so that their lead is only two on the round, a margin that Lew Lebarr's team hopes to wipe out in to-morrow night's fixture. The ice promises to be fast and the conditions all presage a red hot battle all the way, with the issue in doubt until the last bell. The rivalry between the two teams is keen and they will work their heads off in the final clash to pile up a winning margin on the round. The teams came through Monday's hard battle in good shape and the players are raring to go. The line-ups will likely be the same as in the last game and Walter Jackson, who refereed the first two games, will again handle the bell.

The game will start at 8.15 o'clock and should attract a big crowd.

Gas in the Stomach Is Truly Dangerous

Gas, Pain, Bloating and a feeling of fullness after eating are almost certain evidence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach.

Too much acid irritates the delicate stomach lining, frequently causing chronic Gastritis and dangerous Ulcers. Food ferments and sours, forming a gas that distends the stomach and often seriously affects the Heart.

It is genuine folly to neglect such a condition or to treat with artificial digestive aids that cannot neutralize the stomach acid. A better way is to get from your druggist some Bisurated Magnesia (powder or tablets) and take a little after each meal. This famous but simple and inexpensive stomach sweetener and anti-acid can be depended upon to prove its value in less than five minutes. In most instance, relief comes instantly! Pleasant and perfectly harmless to use—Bisurated Magnesia does give wonderful relief in nine out of ten cases. Ask your Doctor or Druggist.

MAGNUS SATRE ANNEXES SKI CHAMPIONSHIP

Outdistances Field of 27 U. S. and Canadian Skiiers in 10-Mile Race.

MAKE GOOD TIME

Two Brothers of Victors Take Second and Third Places.

LAKE PLACID, N.Y., Feb. 22 (Canadian Press).—With one brother close on his heels and another following in third place, Magnus Satro of Norway yesterday outdistanced a field of 27 of the best skiers of the United States and Canada in the ten mile race here and annexed the Eastern cross-country ski championship.

Olav Satro finished in second place, two-fifth of a second behind Magnus, whose time was 1 hour, 16 minutes, 45 seconds. Johan, the third brother, placed third, nearly two minutes behind them.

It was Magnus' second victory in a championship race over his brother Johan, from whom he recently wrested the national cross country ski championship.

In yesterday's race, Martin Jansen of the Norway Ski Club of New York City, and Bryce Grayson Bell and B. Clark, both of Ottawa, Ont., were next in order after the Satro brothers, but all three were less than 6 minutes behind the winner. Victor Schneider of Detroit, a former German champion, and Edmund Condon of Ottawa, a former Canadian champion, failed to place among the first ten. All runners finished in good condition.

The race was a feature of the eighth annual Lake Placid club ski tournament, held here because weather at Greenfield, Mass., made it impossible to hold it there as originally planned.

In zero weather and with a stiff breeze whipping up the snow, but with a brilliant sun shining, the course led around some of the smaller Adirondack mountains and through woods, but was on the whole fairly level. The ski jumping contest will be held today and the 25-mile ski race on Thursday.

VICE-SKIPS BEGIN ANNUAL BONSPIEL

Local curlers after a week of waiting for hard ice got away to a good start last night with the vice-skips' bonspiel. This event is the real major meet of the season in the club's activities for it is the time that the would-be-skips get an opportunity to show what they know of directing the curling of their rink.

T. H. Hooper was the first man to go to the benches when he was beaten by the veteran George Till. Alderman Huffman was administered the same dose by A. W. Archibald. W. G. Menzies was up ten points on N. H. Hamley. W. E. Metcalfe beat G. D. Carlisle by one point. J. W. Brightman received the worst set back when "Doc" Green beat him by 14 points

The matches will be played alternately in Havana and the City of Mexico, in both of which cities there are excellent facilities

Average Playing Life Of Big League Hockey Player Is About Five Years

NEW YORK, N.Y., February 22 (Canadian Press). — The average playing life of a "big league" hockey star is only five years, the Madison Square Garden Corporation, controlling the New York Rangers in the National Hockey League, has decided.

Annually, the corporation writes off 20 per cent. on the cost of its players' contracts, the same amount allowed for all equipment, as an asset. According to these figures, players cease to exist theoretically after five years.

Insurance companies class puck chasers with sky-writers, aeroplane wing-walkers, and trans-Atlantic fliers, refusing in some cases to insure them at all, hockey authorities reveal. Because of the high depreciation, the Garden, in effect, carries its own insurance.

Statistics show the hockey ice is delivered the teams at the Garden for just half price. The other half of the cost of the $130,000 refrigerating plant in the Arena is charged to keeping the Garden gool for summer events. Attendance at hockey games here this season is 60 per cent higher than last season.

ALL SAINTS' WIN 3-1 VICTORY IN CHURCH LEAGUE

Win From George St. Team in Juvenile Tilt, Played at Brock.

FEW PENALTIES

Immaculate Conception Defeated by Sacred Heart 7-1 in Midget Fixture.

Playing good combination All Saints defeated George Street 3—1 in Juvenile Church League tilt played at Brock Street Rink last night. Hanging back in the first, the Saints struck their stride in second period, and from then until the final gong put up a good exhibtion of fast hockey. Both goalies did good work with Reynolds for victors taking the honors for the way he kept his net clear from the attacks of opposing forwards.

On the whole, the game was singularly clean; most of the penalties being served out in the final period; Hope was the "bad boy" for All Saints, taking three terms in the cooler while Saunders and Payne had one each.

First Period

Play opened with All Saints showing flashes of combination that wrought havoc among their opponents who seemed to bunch. O. Price scored the first counter for victors with a neat bit of stickwork from the side. Young placed what seemed a sure shot from centre ice, but Braund cleared like a veteran. All Saints' forwards began to lag while the George Street gang forced the play into Reynold's territory; Lord worked hard on his rushes and showed fine stick work, but his shots were turned aside quite easily by the Saints' goalie. During the remainder of the period both sides worked hard to count up a marker, but the goalies handled themselves perfectly.

Second Period

Opening the second period George Street youngsters pressed hard, keeping Reynold's busy, while Payne was chased for rough-house work. Frost scored the second goal for All Saints on a rebound from Hughes' shot, who tackled Braund on a lone rush. Frost again tallied after a scrimmage in front of the George Street net. Bill Hope, on defence for the Saints, put up a good game, while Saunders and Lord tried hard several times but Reynolds was too good for them. Saunders scored the sole marker for George Street on a rebound from the boards. Hope served his first penalty for body checking. For the next few moments most of the play was in Reynold's territory, but the Saints' goalie came through with a sterling performance. Hope was again chased for trying to stage a private battle with Payne. During the final moments of the frame, the play became rough with spills galore, Saunders and Hope being chased off the ice while the period ended with the score 3—1.

Line-up:

All Saints.—Goal, Reynolds; defence, Young and Sproates; centre, Frost; wings, Price and J. Price; Subs, Hope and Hughes.

I.C. Defeated 7—1

Sacred Heart defeated Immaculate Conception 7—1 in Midget Church League tussle played at Sacred Heart Arena last night. V. Lazure and M. Collins played an exceptionally good game for the victors, while J. Martin and Courneyea were not far behind. Murdock tallied the only counter for the Immaculate Conception crew. Line up:

Immaculate Conception.—Goal, R. Leonard; defence, B. Vinette and M'Carthy; centre, Odette; wings, Murdock and Discoll; sub, Vinette.

Sacred Heart.—Goal, H. Grady; defence, J. Martin and V. Lazure; centre, D. Jones; wings, B. Hatton and S. Burke; sub., M. Collins and R. Courneyea.

FANS WILL SEE NEW FACES IN LOCAL LINEUP

Port Hope Ontarios meet Picked Team Here Tonight.

WILL BE A BATTLE

Visitors Have Formidable Team and Expect to Grab Off Win.

Manager Eddie Wright will give Peterborough fans a new line-up to look over to-night and at the same time provide an opportunity to see Crossett, Ware, Micks and other stars of the Port Hope intermediates in action.

Manager Peter Brown brings his Ontarios to Brock street rink to-night and the Lakeshore crew, who were close contenders in their own group against Oshawa, expect to grab off a win here. The Ontarios are a shifty lot of puck chasers and the fans will be glad to give them the once over.

The Peterborough line-up to-night will include Wright and Brennan, the Havelock wing players, and several junior players who graduate this year will be given a chance to perform.

The clash with Port Hope should provide an exciting tussle and bring out a real crowd.

PELL TAKES EASY VICTORY

Disposes of Cyril Simpson, English Champion, in Semi-Finals.

FOR RACQUETS TITLE

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 22 (Canadian Press)—George C. Pell, defending his title as American racquets champion, had no difficulty yesterday in disposing of Cyril Simpson, in the semi-finals at the tennis and racquet club. The scores wre 15—12, 15—5, 15—10.

In the finals today Pell will meet C. N. Bruce, former champion of England, who yesterday defeated Stanley G. Mortimer, former American champion 15—3, 15—10, 15—4.

In the Pell-Simpson match, the Englishman was within a point of winning the first game when the score was 12—13, but Pell's corner shot and drive to the corner was too much for Simpson's backhand. There after Pell had his opponent at his mercy most of the time. —

Bruce's assortment of clever push shots proved too much for Mortimer.

Bruce and Pell have met twice before. Last year in the British championships and last week in the gold racquet tournament at Tuxedo; Bruce was the winner. Both are 42-year-old veterans of the game.

LOCAL CURLERS BEATEN TWICE

Bacon Rink Eliminated From First Two Competitions at Toronto.

STILL IN SEIBERLING

TORONTO Feb. 22 (Special.) — With two wins and two defeats as their record, the Peterborough curlers, consisting of R. Sturgeon, H. Foote, G. Cairns and J. J. Bacon found themselves at the conclusion of yesterday's games out of the running for two of the trophies listed on the programme of the Toronto Bonspiel. After winning their way through the first round of the North American Life competition, the Peterborough men were beaten in the second round yesterday afternoon at the Arena Gardens by the Scarboro rink skipped by George Little, the result being 10-7. The local curlers were also eliminated from the competition for the Wrigley Cup by P. H. Douglas of Hamilton, by a score of 10-9. Messrs. Bacon and Company are still in the running for the Seiberling trophy, the second round of which will be concluded to-day.

Bobcaygeon, D. Hetherington, skip, were ousted from the first round of the Seiberling trophy, by H. A. Bruce of Stratford, the score standing at 13-8. Playing in the same competition at the Granites' Club, Judge O'Connor steered his Cobourg fellow curlers into the second round by a 13-10 victory over H. W. Sanders of Stouffville. Also in the first round of the Seiberling competition, B. Scott of Lindsay got the better of C. Bulley of Toronto Granites with a 10-9 win. Two other Lindsay wins in this competition were that of F. C. Nugent over Dr. O. G. Paxton of Toronto Victoria, score 14-7, and of E. J. Carew, who defeated another Toronto Victoria rink skipped by B. Cronyn, by 15-4. A second Cobourg rink skipped by E. L. Macnachtan, went down before C. H. Peacock of Toronto Granites, by 5-10.

The games played yesterday in the North American Life and Wrigley trophies reduced the field in these events to 32. With the greatly reduced number of entries still in the running it is expected that the remaining games will be confined to Toronto Victoria, High Park and the Granite clubs, where artificial ice is used, although prevailing weather is such as to assure a plentiful supply of the natural product.

F. G. Oke & Company wire as follows:

TORONTO, February 22. — Features of this morning's market were those of Sudbury Basin and Pend O'Reille, former stock selling as high as $24.00 per share, while the latter sold as low as $15.00 early this morning. The reason for the lower prices on Pend O'Reille is not so apparent, but the strength of Sudbury Basin is considered a result of the reports issued regarding a split in stock of three shares for one share and an expected cash reserve in the treasury of the new company of well over $2,000,000 and also some 200,000 shares of Sherritt-Gordon. In view of the remarkable discoveries reported from Sudbury Basins property and only 300,000 shares issued and authorized of the stock now selling at $24.00, this places a valuation of only a little over $7,000,000 on the assets of the company which can be considered as comparing very favorably with market values in other copper stocks traded in.

Teck Hughes, Howey, and Wright Hargreaves were stronger this morning, the latter presumably on account of reports of exceptionally high-grade ore being encountered on the property.

Contrary to expectations, Amulet was off a few points this morning, but we believe in view of mine development and additional cash to be received by the Amulet treasury by the recent financing that at current quotations, Amulet appears a very attractive purchase.

The opinion is expressed on street that stocks are becoming of very sound technical position and that very little buying power in the market in most stocks would likely result in a strong advance. This condition has been ably demonstrated during the past week or two of trading when a few thousand shares to buy has resulted in material and quick advances. As a result there appears little doubt that sooner or later realization of the good buys will make itself apparent when we can except greater strength to be shown throughout the whole market.

International Nickel Leads Rising Market

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (Canadian Press).International Nickel was the feature of a strong market on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. After opening at 81⅞ it eased down to 81¼ for a net gain of 1¼ over yesterday's close. City Dairy Common made a gain of 2½ points at 47. Building Products was active and sold up 1½ at 39. McKinnon Voting Trust, Shredded Wheat, Brompton, Massey Harris, and Canadian Oil were firmer. British American Oil continued strong, advancing ½ at 35½. Canadian Malting at 35 and Northern Bakeries at 43½ were up 1¼ and 1 point respectively. Mackay selling at 110 was down one, Arnolds down ⅞ at 16¼, and Carlings, Cosmos, and Seagram were fractionally lower.

Mine Shares Firm; Sudbury Basin Climbs

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (Canadian Press).—The market on the Standard Mining Exchange displayed a firmer tone during the first session today, with Sudbury Basin a strong leader. This stock went above 24.00 and closed at noon at 23.75 for a net gain of $1.75 a share. Pend O'Reille sagged in the early trading, selling down to $14.50 then coming back to 16.90 for a net gain of forty cents. Wright Hargreaves strengthened considerably after weakness yesterday, selling up to 4.60 today and closing around 4.50 for a gain of about half a dollar. Ankerite at 75 was eleven points higher and Bidgood, Barry Hollinger, and Dome were other strong features.

CANADA FAVORS STANDING BOARD

Representative in Geneva Cites U. S.-Canada Joint Commission.

DISARMAMENT BEST.

GENEVA, February 22 (Canadian Press). — Canada is strongly in favor of permanent commissions of conciliation and investigation as distinct from "traditional arbitration." Dr. W. A. Riddell, Canadian representative in Geneva, speaking before the League of Nations Security Committee to-day, cited the success of the Joint Commission now existing in settling disputes between Canada and the United States. Expressing satisfaction that more has been heard concerning preventive measures at the present session of the committee, the Canadian delegate said that it was the opinion of his Government that security could be more effectively advanced by disarmament than by increased pledges of armed resistance.

TEAMS REPORT PROGRESS MADE

H. L. Beal's Group Leading in Chamber of Commerce Campaign.

HAS 25 MEMBERS.

The first team luncheon of the teams conducting the Chamber of Commerce membership campaign was held at the Empress Hotel to-day at noon.

The reports from the captains indicate an enthusiasm and activity on the part of the teams that is most commendable and promise of splendid financial reports at the luncheon to-morrow.

H. L. Beal's team leads the list with 25 memberships. A. S. Reynolds' team had 23, and the others ranged down to as low as one.

The Activities Committee, headed by James Dutton and G. A. Gillespie reported progress on their work among the larger firms and corporations who have the matter of contributions up with the home offices.

In his address before the teams, Mr. McKeen outlined answers to the sales resistance arguments presented from various angles. He emphasized the necessity of seeing the prospects personally.

The second luncheon will be held at noon Thursday when complete reports will be available.

THREE BURNED IN FARM HOUSE

Owner, Wife and Son Lose Lives in Fire in Bruce County.

FOUND IN BEDS.

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Feb. 22 (Canadian Press).—John McLean, his wife, and ten-year-old son Bruce were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their home near Underwood, Bruce County, early today. Neighbors awoke to find the house in ruins and a search revealed the bodies.

The fire evidently broke out during the blizzard last night and caught the family unawares. Investigation of the ruins disclosed the three bodies lying on beds. They were apparently suffocated by smoke and there was no evidence of any effort being made to escape from the inferno created when the house caught fire.

The McLeans had lived near Underwood for two generations, John McLean's father being one of the pioneers of the district. The dead man had advertised an auction sale of his farm for Wednesday, intending to sell his implements and retire to live in Port Elgin. Coroner Ferguson, of Kincardine, is making investigation, but has not decided whether an inquest will be necessary. The bodies were burned almost beyond decognition.

FIRE CAUSES LOSS ESTIMATED $50,000

Ruins Goods of Several Firms in Toronto Building To-day.

TORONTO, Feb. 22.— (Canadian Press.)—Fire of undetermined origin, starting on the second floor of the Nichols building, King street west, today, resulted in a loss of fifty thousand dollars. A large quantity of knitted goods on the premises of the Dainty Knit Limited was destroyed before the fire was placed under control. Other firms in the building suffeed from water damage to stocks. No one was in the building when the fire broke out.

MARCIL RESUMES CHAIR OF CAUCUS

Will Preside Over Discussions of Liberal Members, As For Years Past.

OTTAWA, February 22 (Canadian Press).—At a caucus of Government supporters to-day, E. W. Tobin, who had been elected chairman, withdrew in favor of the Hon. Charles Marcil, who in turn was elected to the chair. Mr. Tobin was elected vice-chairman. Mr. Marcil resigned a few days ago in order to have a free hand with his motion respecting the Mexican Consul. This was later withdrawn and Mr. Marcil resumes the position in the party council which he had previously held for many years.

Liners Race For Port To Land Liquor Cargo

VANCOUVER, Feb. 22.—(Canadian Press.)— With a prize of $2,500,000 at stake, two liners are dashing for the port of Vancouver at full speed. The motor ship Pacific Reliance and the Steamer Moerdyck are competing against the time limit of February 29 set by the Canadan government for importations of liquor to private bond in British Columbia. Unless the liquor is unloaded and warehoused here one week from to-day, the consignees will face a problem in disposing of it. It is believed the steamers will win the race, unless fog sets them back.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

MEEHAN SCORES ANOTHER SMASHING SUCCESS

Leo Meehan has become internationally famous as the director of all Gene Stratton-Porter's stories which have been transferred to the screen. "The Girl of the Limberlost", "The Keeper of the Bees", "Laddie" and "The Magic Garden" have successively been made under his direction, and have established him as a film mentor of exceptional accomplishments.

But it is said that he has set a new mark for himself in the production of "Judgment of the Hills", the remarkable F B O drama of the Kentucky mountaineers which comes to the Capitol theatre tomorrow. The story has been told with such feeling, and the entire production handled with so much realism and attention to detail, that it has been hailed as a veritable dramatic gem.

"Judgment of the Hills" is a picturization of "Down Our Way", the last—and undoubtedly the greatest—story written by the late Larry Evans. It deals with a highly dramatic series of events in the Kentucky hills, and its strong emotional appeal have to Meehan an opportunity to produce his masterpiece. There are no spectacular scenes in "Judgment of the Hills," but the hearts of its characters are laid bare in one of the most genuinely affecting pictures of the year.

Meehan is rapidly assuming a place as one of the leading students of screencraft, and as a director who not only feels deeply, but has the happy faculty of transferring that feeling to the screen.

AT THE [illegible]

Can the Jews outwit the Irish or the Irish outfight the Jews? This age-old paradox is the question settled by George Sidney in his latest screen comedy for FBO, "Clancy's Kosher Wedding," which will open at the Regent Theatre on Thursday.

As "Hyman Cohen," proprietor of a small clothing store in the east side of New York, Sidney struggles to outwit his next door neighbor and rival in business, "Timothy Clancy," played by Will Armstrong. Matters are further complicated by the love of young Tom Clancy for beautiful Leah Cohen.

A prize-fight between Tom Clancy and Izzy Murphy for the hand of Leah and the financial difficulties that arise from the betting by the Clancys and the Cohens settle the relative merits of the sons of Abraham and St. Patrick.

In his portrayal of Cohen, Sidney is said to have given the best characterization of his long career on stage and screen, while Armstrong has received high praise from many critics for his rendition of the 'fightin' Irishman."

Others of the cast of "Clancy's Kosher Wedding," directed by A. E. Gillstrom, include Ann Brody, Mary Gordon, Sharon Lynn, Rex Lease, Ed Brady and Jesse Devorska.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR of THE BENSON MURDER CASE

© Charles Scribner's Sons

THE STORY THUS FAR

Vance believes Skeel innocent of the murder of Margaret Odell and that he lay hidden in a closet while the strangler did his work. Markham ridicules the theory but Vance is unshaken. He shatters Cleaver's alibi of being out of the city the night of the murder and urges Markham to check up thoroughly on Mannix's whereabouts. Dr. Lindquist says he spent the night with a patient, and Vance threatens to bring in the night nurse and question her.

CHAPTER XXXIII

"Let me get this right," put in Heath. "Am I, or am I not, to round up the Finckle woman tomorrow morning?"

"There'll be no need," said Vance. "We are doomed, I fear, not to gaze upon this Florence Nightingale. A meeting between us is about the last thing the doctor would desire."

"That may be true," admitted Markham. "But don't forget that he may have been up to something Monday night wholly unconnected with the murder, that he simply doesn't want known."

"Quite—quite. And yet, nearly every one who knew the Canary seems to have selected Monday night for the indulgence of sub-rosa peccadilloes. It's a bit thick, what? Skeel tries to make us believe he was immersed in Khun Khan. Cleaver was—if you take his word for it—touring the countryside in Jersey's lake district. Lindquist wants us to picture him as comforting the afflicted. And Mannix, I happen to know, has gone to some trouble to build up an alibi in case we get nosey. All of 'em in fact were doing something they don't want us to know about.

"Now, what was it? And why did they, of one accord, select the night of the murder for mysterious affairs which they don't dare mention, even to clear themselves of suspicion? Was there an invasion of demons in the city that night? Was there a curse on the world, driving men to dark bawdy deeds? Was there Black Magic abroad? I think not."

"I'm laying my money on Skeel," declared Heath stubbornly. "I know a professional job when I see it. And you can't get away from those finger-prints and the professor's report on the chisel."

Markham was sorely perplexed. His belief in Skeel's guilt had, I knew, been undermined in some measure by Vance's theory that the crime was the carefully premeditated act of a shrewd and educated man. But now he seemed to swing irresolutely back to Heath's point of view.

"I'll admit," he said, "that Lindquist and Cleaver and Mannix don't inspire one with a belief in their innocence. But since they're all tarred with the same stick the force of suspicion against them is somewhat dispersed. After all Skeel is the only logical aspirant for the role of strangler. He's the only one with a visible motive; and he's the only one against whom there's any evidence."

Vance sighed wearily.

"Yes, yes. Finger-prints—chisel-marks. You're such a trustin' soul, Markham. Skeel's finger-prints are found in the apartment; therefore, Skeel strangled the lady. So beastly simple. Why bother further? Send Skeel to the chair, and that's that! . . . It's effective, y' know, but is it art?"

"In your critical enthusiasm you understate our case against Skeel," Markham reminded him testily.

"Oh, I'll grant that your case against him is ingenious. It's so deuced ingenious I just haven't the heart to reject it. But most popular truth is mere ingenuity—that's why it's so wrong-headed. Your theory would appeal strongly to the popular mind. And yet, y' know, Markham, it isn't true."

The practical Heath was unmoved. He sat stolidly, scowling at the table. I doubt if he had even heard the exchange of opinions between Markham and Vance.

"You know, Mr. Markham," he said, like one unconsciously voicing an obscure line of thought, "if we could show how Skeel got in and out of Odell's apartment we'd have a better case against him. I can't figure out—it's got me topped. So, I've been thinking we oughta get an architect to go over those rooms. The house is an old-timer—God knows when it was originally built—and there may be some way of getting into it that we haven't discovered yet."

"'Pon my soul!" Vance stared at him in satirical wonderment. "You're becoming downright romantic! Secret passageways—hidden doors—stair-ways between the walls. So that's it, is it? Oh, my word! . . . Sergeant, beware of the cinema. It has ruined many a good man. Try grand opera for a while—it's more borin' but less corruptin'."

"That's all right, Mr. Vance." Apparently Heath himself did not relish the architectural idea particularly. "But as long as we don't know how Skeel got in, it's just as well to make sure of a few ways he didn't get in."

"I agree with you, Sergeant," said Markham. "I'll get an architect on the job at once." He rang for Swacker, and gave the necessary instructions.

Vance extended his legs and yawned.

"All we need now is a Favorite of the Harem, a few blackamoors with palm-leaf fans, and some pizzicato music."

"You will joke, Mr. Vance." Heath lit a fresh cigar. "But even if the architect don't find anything wrong with the apartment, Skeel's liable to give his hand away 'most any time."

"I'm pinnin' my childish faith on Mannix," said Vance. "I don't know why I should; but he's not a nice man, and he's suppressing something.—Markham, don't you dare let him go until he tells you where he was Monday night. And don't forget to hint mysteriously about the fur model."

(Friday, September 14; 3:30 p.m.)

In less than half an hour Mannix arrived. Heath relinquished his seat to the newcomer, and moved to a large chair beneath the windows. Vance had taken a place at the small table on Markham's right where he was able to face Mannix obliquely.

It was patent that Mannix did not relish the idea of another interview. His little eyes shifted quickly about the office, lingered suspiciously for a moment on Heath, and at last came to rest on the district attorney. He was more vigilant even than during his first visit; and his greeting to Markham, while fulsome, had in it a note of trepidation.

Nor was Markham's air calculated to put him at ease. It was an ominous, indomitable public prosecutor who motioned him to be seated. Mannix laid his hat and cane on the table, and sat down on the edge of his chair, his back as perpendicular as a flagpole.

"I'm not at all satisfied with what you told me Wednesday, Mr. Mannix," Markham began, "and I trust you won't necessitate me to take drastic steps to find out what you know about Miss Odell's death."

"What I know!" Mannix forced a smile intended to be disarming. "Mr. Markham—Mr. Markham!"

He seemed oilier than usual as he spread his hands in hopeless appeal. "If I knew anything, believe me, I would tell you—positively I would tell you."

"I'm delighted to hear it. Your willingness makes my task easier. First, then, please tell me where you were at midnight Monday."

Mannix's eyes slowly contracted until they looked like two tiny shining disks, but otherwise the man did not move. After what seemed an interminable pause, he spoke.

"I should tell you where I was Monday? Why should I have to do that? . . . Maybe I'm suspected of the murder—yes?"

"You're not suspected now. But your apparent unwillingness to answer my question is certainly suspicious. Why don't you care to have me know where you were?"

"I got no reason to keep it from you, y' understand." Mannix shrugged. "I got nothing to be ashamed of—absolutely! . . . . I had a lot of accounts to go over at the office—winter-season stocks. I was down at the office until ten o'clock—maybe later. Then at half past ten——"

"That'll do!" Vance's voice cut in tartly. "No need to drag any one else into this thing."

He spoke with a curious significance of emphasis, and Mannix studied him craftily, trying to read what knowledge, if any, lay behind his words. But he received no enlightenment from Vance's features. The warning, however, had been enough to halt him.

"You don't want to know where I was at half past ten?"

"Not particularly," said Vance. "We want to know where you were at midnight. And it won't be necess'ry to mention any one who saw you at that time. When you tell us the truth, we'll know it."

He himself had assumed the air of wisdom and mystery that he had deputed to Markham earlier in the afternoon. Without breaking faith with Alys La Fosse he had sowed the seeds of doubt in Mannix's mind.

Before the man could frame an answer, Vance stood up and leaned impressively over the district attorney's desk.

"You know a Miss Frisbee. Lives in 71st Street; accurately speaking—at number 184; to be more exact—in the house where Miss Odell lived; to put it precisely—in Apartment Number 2. Miss Frisbee was a former model of yours. Sociable girl still charitable to the advances of her erstwhile employer—meanin' yourself.—When did you see her last, Mr. Mannix? . . . Take your time about answering. You may want to think it over."

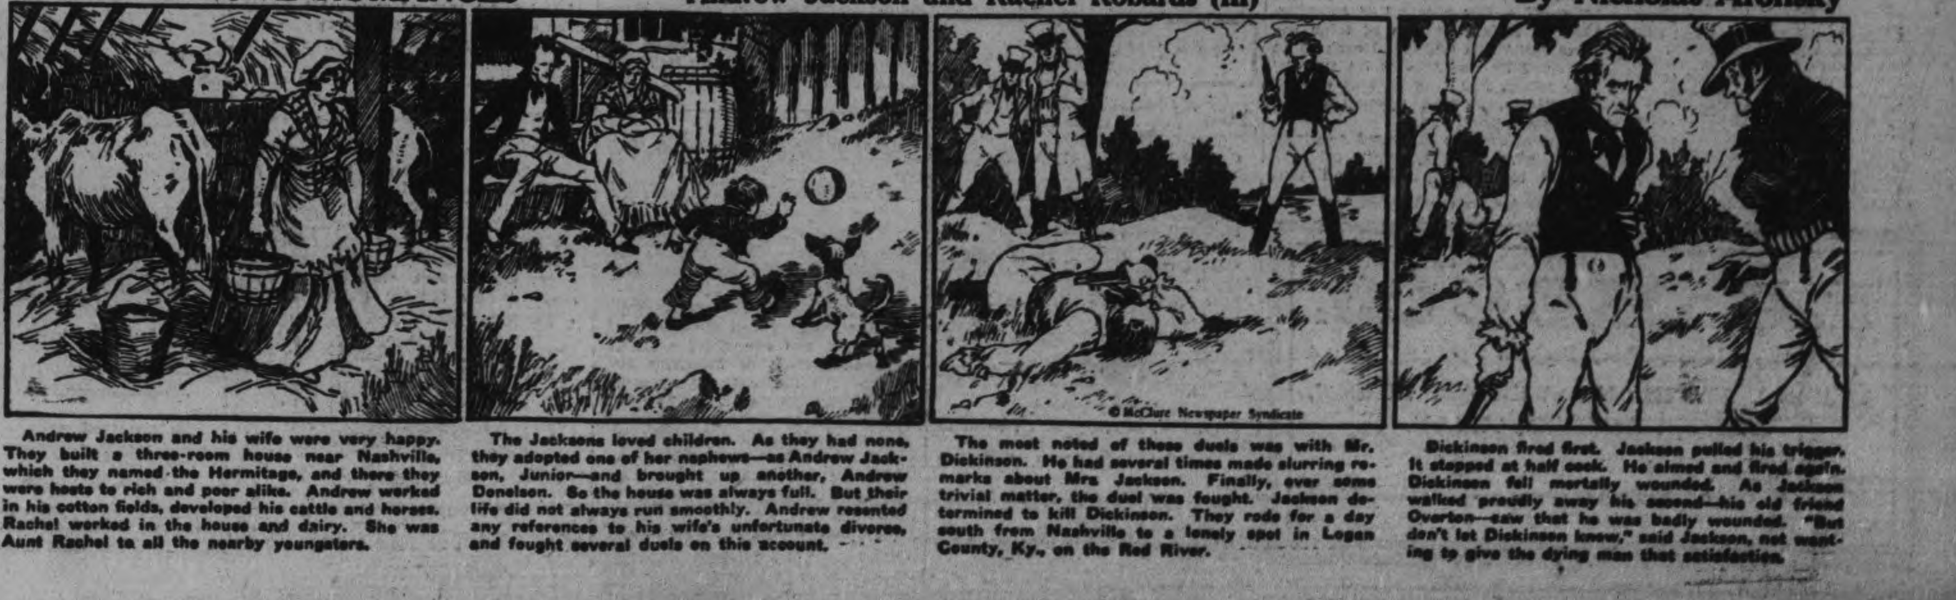
FAMOUS LOVE ROMANCES Andrew Jackson and Rachel Robards (III) By Nicholas Afonsky



© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Andrew Jackson and his wife were very happy. They built a three-room house near Nashville, which they named the Hermitage, and there they were hosts to rich and poor alike. Andrew worked in his cotton fields, developed his cattle and horses. Rachel worked in the house and dairy. She was Aunt Rachel to all the nearby youngsters.

The Jacksons loved children. As they had none, they adopted one of her nephews—as Andrew Jackson, Junior—and brought up another, Andrew Donelson. So the house was always full. But their life did not always run smoothly. Andrew resented any references to his wife's unfortunate divorce, and fought several duels on this account.

The most noted of these duels was with Mr. Dickinson. He had several times made slurring remarks about Mrs. Jackson. Finally, over some trivial matter, the duel was fought. Jackson determined to kill Dickinson. They rode for a day south from Nashville to a lonely spot in Logan County, Ky., on the Red River.

Dickinson fired first. Jackson pulled his trigger. It stopped at half cock. He aimed and fired again. Dickinson fell mortally wounded. As Jackson walked proudly away his second—his old friend Overton—saw that he was badly wounded. "But don't let Dickinson know," said Jackson, not wanting to give the dying man that satisfaction.

Look out for colds these days!

CITY'S PARKS TO COST $6,325

torted that the man wouldn't take the trouble to push one.

Ald. Greene explained that the man would be a working foreman. He would look after the parks, buying the flowers and planting them where now the city hires a gardener to do the work, and much of his salary would be made up from such savings. Work that now had to be hired out, such as painting the park benches, would also fall to him.

That the Council should come to some agreement with the City Trust about repairs to the City Buildings and find out, amongst other things, if the rents from parts of the property cannot be used for this was stressed by Ald. Ackerman. It is a case of robbing Peter to pay Paul, according to Ald. Hamilton, as when the City Trust does such work it charges it to the city in its next year's demand. This view of the matter was concurred in by Ald. Phelan.

When the Isolation Hospital estimates were going through Alderman Stocker asked if the outside municipalities were notified when patients were brought in, as the city is notified by various hospitals. It was pointed out by Mr. Armstrong that the city cannot do this as the hospital does not receive public aid and would have to accept every patient offered to be allowed to do this.

"There should be some agreement with the municipalities," insisted Ald. Stocker.

"They won't make one," was the reply.

"They shouldn't be admitted," continued the alderman, recalling that one municipality, when told it would be held responsible for the cost of some patients, had taken them away and hired a vacant house and nurses to look after them.

"It would be hard to turn back a sick man when he was brought there," pointed out the chairman, adding that such admissions are under the jurisdiction of the Medical Officer of Health, who makes the arrangements.

The estimates for the two committees are as follows:

J. J. DUFFUS IN TORONTO.

Attends the Conference and Dinner Given By Dealers at the new Willys-Overland Plant.

Mr. J. J. Duffus was at the Conference of dealers and the dinner given by Mr. T. A. Russell at the new Willys Overland plant, West Toronto, on Monday, which was attended by Premier Ferguson, members of his Cabinet, members of Parliament and hundreds of citizens of the Province of Ontario.

The new plant is now thoroughly equipped to manufacture automobiles and trucks on a large scale.

This Company now manufactures its own bodies—a feature which has not been undertaken by them heretofore.

The tremendous reduction in the price of Whippet and new line of Willys Knight cars and trucks has increased production several fold over that of last year.

The new Whippet Cabriolet, which is now the lowest price Cabriolet in the world, the other Whippet lines with their 1928 improvements, the new Willys Knight 56—the lowest Willys Knight car ever manufactured together with the other Willys Knight models and trucks, ranging in capacity from one ton to two and a half tons, offers to the buying public the best selection of cars at more attractive prices than ever before.

CEREAL CREAM SALE OPPOSED

Milk Producers Say It Cuts Into Sale of Both Cream and Milk.

CLAIMS DISPUTED.

TORONTO, Feb. 22. Canadian Press. — Opposition of the Ontario Milk Producers' Association to the selling of eight per cent. or cereal cream, or 'cereal treat,' in Ontario, particularly in Hamilton, Ottawa and Toronto, was voiced before the agricultural committee of the Ontario Legislature to-day when it convened for the first time.

While representatives of the producers were firm in the stand that eight per cent was a substitute for table cream and would reduce the sale of cream in Ontario, counsel for certain dairies contended that the sale of cereal cream increased the sales of both milk and cream.

The committee finally decided to continue the discussion on Friday.

FEDERAL HELP IS WITHDRAWN

Assistance in Unemployment Relief Work Was War-time Measure.

NOT NOW JUSTIFIED.

OTTAWA, Feb. 22 (Canadian Press).—Withdrawal of Federal contributions to the provinces from unemployment relief is announced in a letter from Premier King to Premier Bracken of Manitoba dated February 20. The Prime Minister, in part, states that the policy of the Government, as set out at the Dominion Provincial conference was "That such assistance as had been given from the Federal treasury had justification as a wartime measure to meet conditions arising out of the war and the re-establishment of returned men in civil life." Mr. King continues:

"It was stated at the conference that justification for Federal assistance in the matter of unemployment on this ground no longer exists. In our opinion other circumstances have not arisen which at the present time justify contributions from the Federal treasury to either provinces or municipalities as assistance in dealing with the problem of unemployment."

ASK FOR BRIDGE ACROSS OTTAWA

Hawkesbury Men Want Premier Ferguson To Negotiate With Quebec.

CONFERENCE PROMISED.

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (Canadian Press).—Asking construction of an inter-provincial bridge between Hawkesbury, Ontario, and Grenville, Quebec, over the Ottawa River a deputation headed by the Mayor and Reeve of Hawkesbury was introduced to Premier Ferguson today by Edmund Proulx member of the Legislature for Prescott. They pointed out that the Dominion Government wanted the two provinces to co-operate in building a bridge and to arrange for its construction. The Premier promised he would confer with the Quebec authorities and the Dominion Government in the matter.

TOOL MAKING SHOP OPENED

W. Juniper Adds Another Industry To City's List.

EXPERIENCED DIE-MAKER.

W. Juniper, with 25 years' experience in making tools, has opened up the Peterborough Tool Works, at 176 Simcoe Street.

He has installed the very latest equipment for a tool and die shop.

His equipment consists of a 15-inch Von Wyck lathe, No. 2 Universal milling machine with all attachments including a vertical milling head; a 15-inch backgear shaper; a Gould-Eberhardht 24-inch drill press, a Garvin hand screw machine, a bending machine, and many other small machines necessary in an up-to-date tool shop.

Mr. Juniper has formerly been employed in the Canadian General Electric and Westclox.

His aim is to improve tools and dies, and to make tools safer for the workmen.

He has several jobs for the Peterborough Lock Works and expects to require the services of an apprentice at an early date.

THE STRIKE OF THE LADIES' AID

A play entitled "The Strike of the Ladies' Aid" was successfully staged on Friday evening in Victoria Hall to a well filled house, by Mark Street Ladies' Aid. Every part was taken to perfection, but special mention should be made of little Prunella Pruner (Laura Chartren) she doing her difficult part with great skill.

The cast of characters was as follows:

Mrs. Cheerbody, President of Ladies' Aid—Miss E. Whattam.

Miss Sadie Razor (she makes cutting remarks)—Mrs. Thornley.

Grandma (quite deaf) — Mrs. W. Graham.

Mrs. R. A. Croker (a born pessimist)—Mrs. S. Matchett.

Mrs. Takem Pills (she enjoys poor health)—Mrs. Aker.

Mrs. O. U. Sliver (but she isn't)—Mrs. J. Speer.

Mrs. O. B. Proudfoot (she puts on airs)—Mrs. E. Ward.

Miss Cherry Blossom (inclined to be sentimental)—Mrs. W. Pomeroy.

Mrs. Claude D. Weather (the mother of nine)—Mrs. George Hurl.

Mrs. O. Gadabout (she makes calls)—Mrs. W. Binks.

Mrs. U. Stirafuss (she starts something)—Mrs. C. Mounce.

Miss Carie Germ—Mrs. H. Cooper.

Mrs. Ima Whatnot— Mrs. A. Long.

Mrs. Amelia Prunes—Mrs. A. Chartren.

Prunella Prunes (a youthful visitor)—Laura Chartren.

Others assisting in the program: Mesdames Curvin, Rowe, Rathbone and Andrews, and Messrs. V. Boorman, W. Binks, C. Agnew and L. Agnew.

Boorman's orchestra furnished excellent music.

Messrs. G. Wesley and K. Throop assisted in staging the play.

Beg Your Pardon.

By an oversight the name of Mr. Clinton Powers was omitted in the report of the Canadian Legion Concert; this artist who played the saxaphone during the evening was much appreciated by those present.

Over fifty representative business men, comprising captains and members of teams taking part in the Peterborough Forward Movement Membership Campaign, gathered for luncheon in the Empress Hotel at noon to-day and for well over an hour enjoyed and profited by a comparison of notes and discussion of various features of the campaign. Presiding was J. J. Turner, while ranged about the head table were the captains and a number of guests.

Following the luncheon reports of the work done by the various committees were received—all of them indicative of a successful morning's work. Seventy new members had been enrolled with funds totalling accordingly, and Director Harry R. McKeen expressed himself as satisfied with the manner in which the men were warming to their task, and the general sympathetic response on the part of citizens and industrial concerns in the city.

Mr. McKeen gave out some constructive criticism and good advice on canvassing for members and concluded by expressing the regret that Secretary Frank G. Stinson, always a help in the work during past weeks, had been confined to his home through illness.

Archdeacon Davidson.

The meeting was graced with the presence of the Venerable Archdeacon Davidson, formerly of St. John's church, but now of Toronto. He was introduced by J. W. Fraser and forthwith delivered a five minute talk on "Peterborough, Its Possibilities for the Future," in which he stressed the need of a live Chamber of Commerce which stands for co-operation and tends to wipe out narrow, unethical business methods in any city. At present, those who live elsewhere but have an interest in Peterborough see its possibilities perhaps more plainly than do the average citizens, but he hoped that, through the Chamber of Commerce, the citizens would awaken to a sense of their opportunities and responsibilities to make Peterborough the finest inland city in Ontario.

Chairman Turner dismissed the gathering after making several observations on various phases of the campaign work. He announced that it had been decided to request the home office to allow Mr. McKeen to remain in the city until the campaign is over.

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

Mrs. George, Field Secretary W. C.T.U., London, Gives Illustrated Talk.

Mrs. George, field secretary of the W.C.T.U., of London, Ontario, gave a very interesting, illustrated talk on alcohol and its ill effects, at the February meeting of the W.M.S. of St. Andrew's Church. She spoke of the effect on the human body, giving illustrations by chart of how alcohol in its mildest form destroys life.

The devotional period was led by Mrs. W. F. Nelson, who read a leaflet entitled "Enthusiastic Co-workers with God." Mrs. Hohner, soloist of Trinity Church, was also present and gave a beautiful solo, "Only a Beam of Sunshine," which was much enjoyed. Mrs. A. Porteous, in responding for the Watch Tower, read an interesting letter from Dr. Taylor, a missionary at Indor, India.

A fine feature of the meeting was a paper read by Miss E. Ferguson, taken from the study book, the subject being "New Paths for Old Purposes."

CHICAGO MAYOR FEARS BOMBERS

His Home and Those of Thirteen Officials Are Guarded.

JUDGES PROTECTED.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23 (Canadian Press).—The home of fourteen Chicagoans, including those of the Mayor, the Police Chief, the Comptroller, the City Collector, and some city judges, all more or less closely aligned with the administration, were under guard today, as fear of a bomb wave spread.

Guards were placed last night about the residences of Superior Judge E. Eller and his father, Morris Eller, City Collector. Morris Eller's home was bombed Sept. 2, 1926.

Around the City

At 8.25 this morning the fire brigade received a call from 461 McDonnel street. Owing to a back draft in the chimney the smoke was spreading through the house, the occupants of which were relieved to learn that there was not a fire threatening.

The bank clearings for the week ending to-day total $837,521.

St. Cuthbert's Vicar To Take a Vacation

BLACKBURN, Eng., Feb. 23.—(Associated Press.)— The Reverend E. B. Lauria, vicar of St. Cuthbert's church, Darwen, whose alleged Anglo-Catholic practices in the church ritual have led to serious disorders in protest on recent Sundays that were halted only after the services had been disrupted and police summoned, is to take a vacation for three months.

The leading parishioners of St. Cuthbert's held a conference here last night at which the Bishop of Blackburn presided and granted the vacation at the request of the vicar so that all parties might have time to consider the issue.

The disorderly demonstrations at the church began shortly after the Malines Conversations concerning rapprochement between the Roman Catholic and Anglican churches. The congregation appeared to take particular offence against attempts to hold a sung Eucharist, and burst into loud singing of hymns and the national anthem. At other times they shouted loudly "Give us the Church of England." No service for more than six weeks has not been marred by these demonstrations.

THREE PERSONS KNOWN AS DEAD

Thirty Others Unaccounted For in Southern Hotel Fire.

CLERK IS HERO.

SHELBY, North Carolina, Feb. 23 (Canadian Press). — The known deaths in the Central Hotel here today was increased to three with the death of Henry Kerr, 55, hotel clerk, who was burned while arousing guests. At noon the flames had been checked, and firemen were able to enter the building. Thirty-five persons are unaccounted for and four others are in hospital here as a result of a fire that today destroyed the Central Hotel.

Thirty guests have not been located but it was said that this did not necessarily mean they had been killed, as it was impossible to make a complete check. There were sixty-five registered.

The fire originated in the linen room from an undetermined cause shortly before daybreak. Henry Kerr, the clerk, ran from room to room on the upper floors of the building awakening guests. He kept at his task even when the flames were leaping along the hallways and finally staggered to the street to be taken to the hospital in a dying condition.

GENERAL McBRIEN MAY BECOME CHIEF

Interviewed Two Members of Toronto Police Commission Yesterday.

TORONTO, Feb. 23.—Following the intimation that Major-General James H. MacBrien, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., former chief of staff, Department of National Defence, and president of the recently formed Aviation League of Canada, might be appointed Chief of Police, to succeed Chief Dickson, whose resignation is under conisedration by the Board of Police Commissioners, it was learned yesterday that Major-General MacBrien was in consultation with Judges Coatsworth and Morson, two members of the board, in the former's office yesterday morning, regarding the position.

When the conference was over, Judge Coatsworth admitted that the matter of the officer's appointment had been discussed, but that that was all that could be said of the matter just yet.

Major-General MacBrien also refused to tell what had actually transpired at the meeting, although he did remark that even if the position were offered him, he would be unable to give a definite answer just yet, owing to his connection with the organization work in the Aviation League and other things.

While Major-General MacBrien is konwn principally as a military man, it is not generally known that he has had police experience. He was a member of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, and also served in the South African Constabulary. He was born in Ontario, and is not yet 50 years of age.

His military service is well known. While in Toronto he served with the Royal Canadian Dragoons, at the outbreak of war going to France, where he gained rapid promotion. He was twice wounded and was six times mentioned in despatches. He became Chief of the General Staff, Overseas Military Forces of Canada, in 1919; Chief of General Staff, Canadian Militia, 1920, and Chief of Staff, Department of National Defence, 1923. He resigned from the latter post last year.

NO OFFER FROM SIMPSON'S TO BUY DEPARTMENT STORES

Receiver Says Negotiations Under Way With Another Firm.

IDENTITY GUARDED.

Assent of Creditors and Bondholders To Transfer is Expected.

TORONTO, Feb. 23. (Special.) — Correcting a rumour that has been current for some time in Toronto business circles that the Canadian Department Stores Limited were about to pass into the hands of the Robert Simpson Company Limited, G. T. Clarkson, the receiver, declares that negotiations are afoot which are likely to end in the transfer of the business to a concern that has made an offer; Simpson's, said the receiver, have made no offer towards taking over the Canadian Department Stores.

The names of the prospective buyers are being so closely guarded that not even the officials connected with the Toronto stores know who are likely to be the new owners.

It is stated that the deal if it goes through will receive the assent of the first mortgage bondholders, the income bondholders and the remaining creditors The amount of money to be laid down will be large, because not only have the bondholders to be satisfied, but it is expected that the trade creditors will be paid at the rate of fifty cents on the dollar of their claims.

MAN ACQUITTED IN MURDER CASE

Omer Dube Freed By Jury of Charge of Killing Landlady.

REBUKED BY JUDGE.

SUDBURY, Ont., Feb. 23.—At midnight Omer Dube, war veteran, was acquitted of the murder of Mrs. Irene Therrien last May. The jury deliberated 70 minutes and brought in its verdict at 11.48 p.m.

While Dube was freed he received a scathing rebuke from Mr. Justice Wright. "The jury has been lenient, perhaps merciful; you might well have been found guilty on the evidence if the jury had so minded," he said.

"You have had a very narrow call and you have only yourself to blame for your unfortunate position. You are a wrecker of this man's home and your conduct is most reprehensive. You are a murderer of this man's happiness and I hope you will profit by this lesson, and it will teach you to conduct yourself properly and live as a decent citizen should."

Throughout the afternoon on the witness stand, Dube had stuck to his story that he knew nothing of the murder, and had categorically denied the truth of statements attributed to him by Crown witnesses. He admitted improper relations with the murdered woman continuing over a period of nearly ten years.

To-day In Parliament.

OTTAWA, Feb. 23. — (Canadian Press.)— To-day the budget debate will be resumed in the House of Commons by Thomas McMillan (Liberal South Huron).

Yesterday the folowing speakers took part in the budget debate: F. G. Sanderson, (Liberal, South Perth), Peter McGibbon, (Conservative, Muskoka), W. B. Fansher (Progressive, Lambton) and A. G. Anderson (Conservative) Toronto High Park. Mr. Fansher moved the Proressive party's sub amendment to the budget.

Now You Tell One

Perhaps not new, but good:

Heard over the radio a few nights ago: "Sambo, why do you call that dog 'Expectorate?' A good-looking dog like that is deserving of a better name."

"Why, I call him that because he's a Spitz."

Lindbergh Arrives At Selfridge Field

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 23 (Canadian Press).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who left St. Louis in an airplane yesterday morning, accompanied by four friends, for an unannounced destination, landed at Selfridge Field, near here, at 3.55 p.m. He declined to state the purpose of his visit here, stating that "my visit is a personal one. I want to drop out of public life for a while."

It was unofficially reported that arrangements had been made for a conference with Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company, upon aviation matters.

Progressives Introduce Sub-Amendment To Robb Budget In The House of Commons

OTTAWA, Ont., February 23 (Canadian Press). — Progressives yesterday had a sub-amendment to the Budget. Their amendment —which was moved by B. L. Fansher, of Lambton East—takes the ground that in reducing the income tax the Government is seriously departing from the principle of direct taxation, that the tariff reductions proposed in the Budget are inadequate to bring relief to the consuming public, and the sub-amendment also regrets that the sales tax on necessaries of life has not been eliminated.

Under the old rules of the House, only one amendment to the motion to go into ways and means—the main Budget motion—was permissible. But under the amended rules adopted last session, a sub-amendment is allowed. When the division comes, the House will first divide on the Progressive sub-amendment; then on the Conservative amendment, and then, if the issue is again pressed to a division, on the main motion. Thus, for the first time, there is likelihood of three divisions on the Budget.

Debate yesterday followed the usual course, with arguments from both sides of the House.

HOPE TO HAVE ROAD NETWORK OVER PROVINCE

Members of Good Roads Association Meet in Toronto This Week.

MANY FROM HERE.

City and Townships Well Represented—Premier Gives Address.

TORONTO, February 23 (Special to The Examiner). — Optimistic predictions of a network of highways completely eclipsing those now in existence in the Province were made yesterday by F. A. Senecal, president of the Ontario Good Roads Association ,which opened its twenty-sixth annual convention yesterday in Convocation Hall, University of Toronto. Among the 300 members who are registered are included the following delegates from Peterborough County: A. Huston, Otonabee; W. G. Waterman, Frazerville; F. D. McMahon, R. R. 8, Peterborough; John J. Moore, Keene; John F. Leeson, R. R. 10, Peterborough; M. McKeown, Bruce Johnston, R. R. 5, Peterborough; W. F. Curtis, Havelock; H. D. Coons, R. R. 1, Lakefield;H. B. Rye, North Monaghan; W. Anderson, Havelock; J. F. Breckenridge, Havelock; A. Patterson, North Monaghan; Ambrose Doris, Keene; Mayor Roland Denne, Aldermen Walter Stocker, Harry Huffman, and C. H. Ackerman, with City Clerk Simon R. Armstrong visiting Toronto in connection with the protest of municipalities against increased assessments for hospitals looked in at the convention and exchanged greetings with a number of the members and officials. The Mayor was accompanied by Miss Denne.

In his address, Mr. Senecal referred briefly to the tablet at Woodstock to the memory of Andrew Pattulo, the founder of the Ontario Good Roads Association. The convention paid silent tribute to his memory and to that of T. McNealey, James Rankin, and W. A. Campbell, members of the Association who had passed away during the year.

"The Association," said Mr. Senecal, "has still a gigantic task ahead of it. These conventions are the clearing houses for ideas on the securing of still better roads in the Province. In the next decade we shall see an improved highway in front of every farm in Ontario."

Committees Appointed.

Much of the time of yesterday's session was employed in the appointment of committees for resolutions and nominations.

In the afternoon Mayor Sam McBride made an appearance and in a brief address welcomed the delegates to Toronto, expressing the wish that their deliberations might result in further improvement in the arteries of communication in the Province.

Premier Talks.

Premier Ferguson, in his address, paid tribute to the work of the Association, and emphasized the value of any organization that was laboring to bring about a state of affairs that would induce the farmer to remain on the land. "We hope,," he said, "to establish a great research bureau of agriculture. In improving conditions and developing agricultural industry, let us remember that we must keep the farmer and his family in comfortable conditions."

Engineers Attended.

Members of the conference of road engineers and superintendents who convened yesterday morning in the Parliament Buildings, attended the Good Roads convention later in the day. They have been assembling ofr the past three days, and their gathering is expected to conclude to-day. Another important session of the Good Roads convention is fixed for to-day, when many of the resolutions will come up for consideration.

Visit New Block.

At the conclusion of yesterday's meeting the members of the convention were taken through the East Block of the Parliament Buildings, and inspected the new offices of the Department of Highways.

Profits Shown For Carling Breweries

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 23.—(Canadian Press.)— Net earnings of the Carling Breweries Ltd., for the period from June 11, 1927, to December 31, 1927, totalled $214,347.46, according to the directors' report presented at the annual meeting of the shareholders held yesterday. The gross profit for the period amounted to $358,970.93. Depreciation of plant and equipment totalled $51,200, while the reserve for contingencies was $74,530.45.

The allowance for income tax reached $18,892.43.

The net increase in the fixed assets of the company for the same period was $128,231.41, bringing the total assets to $1,433,573. The increase represents the amount expended in additions to the plant and new equipment. The balance sheet as at December 31, 1927, disclosed current assets of $882,940.97 compared with current liabilities of $372,168.02, leaving net current assets or working capital of $507,772.95.

LOCAL CURLERS PLAY FINE GAME

Eliminate Three Strong Rinks From Seiberling Cup Competition.

REACH FIFTH ROUND.

TORONTO, Feb. 23 (Special).—As a result of three superb displays of curling, the Peterborough rink, comprising R. Sturgeon, H. Foote, G. Cairns and J. Bacon, found itself at the close of the play yesterday safely landed in the fifth round of the Seiberling trophy competition at the first annual Toronto Bonspiel. The victims of the skill of the Peterborough curlers were James Grant, Wexford, who was defeated by 11-9 in the second round, R. L. McGill of Galt whom they conquered in the third round by a 14-3 score, and R. H. Edmunds of Millbrook, vanquished in the third round by 12-4. The second and third round games were played at the Granite Club and the fourth round battle was waged at the Toronto Victoria Club.

All three events, the Seiberling, Wrigley, and North American Life contests, will reach the semi-finals today, and it is expected that some of the semi-finals will be played before the evening. It is even possible that the finalists in all three competitions will be known late to-night. According to present plans, the final games will be played on Friday afternoon at the Toronto Club. Of the out-of-town rinks, three from Barrie and one each from Peterboro, Orillia, Sarnia, Galt, Scarboro and Cobourg have still an active interest in one or other of the events. Three rinks from Toronto Victoria, two from the Granite Club, and one from Lakeview still carry the Queen City standard. Today the Peterboro rink is scheduled to meet Emmet Smith of Haileybury in the fifth round of the Seiberling trophy, the game to be played at the High Park Club.

Best Eliminated.

The semi-finals of three events of the Toronto Bonspiel were commenced to-day, and by the end of the day's curling the ground should be cleared for the finals.

The leading rink is Fred Kelk's Granite rink of Toronto, which has been undefeated in eleven matches and is well in the lead for the grand aggregate. They are followed by W. Pilligrem's Meaford rink, which has had ten wins and one loss.

Fifth round, Seiberling trophy, at High Park:

Haileybury	Peterboro
J. M. Robb	G. Cairns
D. E. Sutherland	H. F. Foote
D. H. Miller	R. G. Sturgeon
E. E. Smith	Ray Best

SUPPORT FOR REGIONAL PACTS SEEN AT GENEVA ASSEMBLY

Committee To Discuss Rudolph Holsti Arbitration Memorandum To-day.

TWO PROBLEMS.

Three Concrete Proposals Are Submitted By German Delegation.

GENEVA, February 23 (Canadian Press). — Support for regional pacts was again evidenced in the concluding stage of the general discussion of the League Security Committee yesterday. The committee to-day will enter upon a detailed consideration of the arbitration memorandum submitted by Rudolph Holsti, Foreign Minister of Finland.

What each delegation means by regional pacts will be more clearly indicated in the later stage, the essential point being whether these shall be made between groups who agree to afford mutual assistance against any one of their number becoming an aggressor, or whether merely by groups combining for mutual assistance against an outside state.

The declarations yesterday afternoon of the delegates of Argentina and Chile displayed an anxiety to avoid European entanglements. Both welcomed an extension of the principle of arbitration, but intimated there would be difficulty in following along Locarno lines in backing up coercive measures.

Must Seek Other Methods.

Treaties which would suit Europe, they argued, would not suit South America. Other methods would have to be sought, both for psychological reasons and owing to special conditions affecting certain Spanish-American states by absence or relaxation of their relations with the League of Nations.

Canada yesterday returned to the famous Article Sixteen, clearly having in mind the United States, when Dr. W. A. Riddell, the Canadian representative, expressed the opinion that any increase or elaboration of obligations should await progress in solving the problem of the possible attitude of neutral states not members of the League. Canada favored commissions of conciliation and investigation, as distinct from arbitration.

The German delegate put forward three concrete proposals. These were that members of the League, parties to a dispute, shall advance (1) in case of a dispute to accept provisional recommendations for the extension of such dispute; (2) in case of danger of war, to accept the League Council's recommendations to re-establishing or maintaining the military status quo existing normally in peace time; (3) in case hostilities have broken out, to accept the Council's recommendations for an armistice.

A drafting committee of 12 was appointed, on which ,in the absence of the vice-president of the committee, Senor Urrutia, of Colombia, South America, is represented by Argentina.

STAGE DRIVER USES SLEIGH

Warsaw Feels Pinch of Winter Frosts—Churches Closed.

BASKETRY STARTS.

WARSAW, February 23. — On Sunday morning the thermometer registered 12 below zero, but by two o'clock in the afternoon it went up to 20 above zero, followed by a storm which continued all night and all day on Monday. The stage reached Warsaw about six o'clock, the driver having to use the team and sleigh, which he has not had to do very often.

No service was held in the Presbyterian or the Anglican Churches on Sunday owing to the storm, but the United and Baptist churches were quite well attended.

The class in basketry started on Monday morning with the necessary twelve members. Some of the members were detained because of the storm.

GRAHAM BROMLEY APPOINTED CHIEF

Former Member of Peterborough Police Force is Now at Elmira.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 23.—Constable Graham C. Bromley, who has been a member of the police force in Galt since August 1925, has received the appointment of Chief Constable at Elmira. The appointment was announced after a special meeting of the Finance Committee of the Elmira Council and Mr. Bromley will leave shortly to take the position. Mr. Bromley has had nine years of police experience and was for some time a member of the Peterborgugh police force.

Dadabhoy Motion Adopted At Delhi

DELHI, India, Feb. 23.—(Canadian Press Cable via Reuters).— The council or state of the Indian legislature yesterday adopted by 34 votes to 13 a motion by Sir Maneckji Dadabhoy to appoint a committee to work in conjunction with the British commission for Indian reforms, headed by Sir John Simon.

Sir Maneckji urged that Indians should not throw away their golden opportunity of accelerating progress and reforms by sulking like school boys. Pundit Desikuchara recommended that since it was not practical politics to achieve a freedom by revolution, Indians should by intelligent co-operation obtain absolute control of the government with Parliament's help.

Sir Sankakan Adir declared that the committee could influence the commission's recommendations. In any case it had an excellent opportunity of submitting a report embodying a constitution for presentation to Britain, the United States and the rest of the civilized world as India's minimum demand.

SAM RAY IS 78; HERE 42 YEARS

Veteran Tobacconist, in Best of Health, Still Keeps Store.

FAMED AS SPORTSMAN.

Seventy-eight years old to-day and still going strong, seems to best describe one of Peterborough's veteran citizens, Samuel Ray, who is receiving congratulations and best wishes from a legion of friends made and held during forty years' residence in Peterborough.

Sitting in the office of his tobacco store on Hunter Street West, Mr. Ray, in conversation with The Examiner, recalled the old days of real sport in this city into which he entered, and in which he became well-known as a player of baseball, cricket, lacrosse, curling, and as a hunter.

"I was born in Whitby in 1850, and came here in 1886," said he. "The first year I was here, I managed the old Peterborough Athletic Association ground across the river, and thoroughly enjoyed it. The next year I entered this business (the tobacco store), and I've been here ever since."

He recalled the days when Peterborough was but half the city that it is to-day, and mentioned many of the old athletes with whom he played.

Sharing in the joy of the occasion are Mrs. Ray, one son, and three daughters, all of whom reside in this city.

PROGRESS SHOWN RESEARCH REPORT

Sixty-eight Researches Were in Progress During Year 1926-27.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 23. —(Canadian Press.)— Sixty-eight researches were in progress by the National Research Council of Canada during the fiscal year 1926-1927, the report of the Council tabled in the House of Commons yesterday discloses. During the same period 44 post-graduate research scholarships were also in operation under the auspices of the Council with the object of training outstanding university graduates in science and research. The total organization actively at work mustered 513 persons, of whom 401 served without remuneration.

Three classes of post-graduate scholarships are granted annually by the council Bursaries ($750), scholarship ($1,000), and fellowships ($1,200). These are to enaple students who have graduated with distinction from a university to continue their training in science until qualified for the decree of PhdD.

Churchill's Answer To Question in House Greeted With Cheers.

ASKED BY CONSERVATIVE.

LONDON, February 23 (Canadian Press).—Questioned by a Conservative member in the House of Commons to-day as to whether he would consider the "possibility of approaching the United States Government with a view to securing its assent to the payment of part of the British obligations in kind," Chancellor of the Exchequer Winston Churchill's answer was a crisp "No." The reply was greeted with cheers.

SPEEDSTER HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Lockhart Loses Control of Car While Attempting To Set Record.

RUNS INTO SURF.

DAYTONA BEACH, Florida, Feb 23 —Canadian Press — Frank Lockhart, internationally known race driver of Indianapolis, narrowly escaped instant death late yesterday, when he lost control of his powerful Stutz Black Hawk Special during an attempt to set a new world's automobile speed record and hurtled with it into the surf while travelling at 225 miles an hour.

Observers who rushed into the sea and pulled the wrecked machine back to the beach found Lockhart helpless but conscious, with water up to his neck. It was necessary for mechanics to cut away the side of the car to release him.

"I'm all right," was his only expression after he had been dragged from the water.

The racer's wife was among the crowd of several thousand persons who witnessed the accident, and was one of the first to reach the water's edge. She fainted when she saw that he had been hurt and did not see him lapse into semi-consciousness as he was rushed away in an ambulance.

Lockhart's car, speeding at a terrific rate, was about to enter the measured mile—official clocking distance for the speed trial—when it was seen to careen sharply to the right, strike an incoming wave and rise into the air turning a complete flip and landing 40 or 50 feet out in the ocean on its wheels.

The visibility was extremely poor because of low hanging clouds, but Lockhart had decided late in the day to essay the race against time due to the short length of time remaining for the trials, which to receive American Automobile Association sanction, must be made before the present speed carnival ends to-day.

225 Miles an Hour.

After two trips over the measured mile up and down the beach, Lockhart was making the first run northward. He had a start of several miles before entering the official stretch and was believed to have had his racer virtually wide open. Timers clocked him at the moment of the spill at 225 miles per hour.

Just what caused his machine to veer into the ocean was not immediately determined but it was considered probable that a rough spot on the beach or any slight obstruction such as other drivers had encountered in previous tests, was responsible.

To those who witnessed it Lockhart's escape alive was considered miraculous, because of the double threat of instant death in the crash of the car and drowning.

The little car was dented and revealed a definite sag in the middle of the frame, but the mechanics' first estimate of damage to it, ran from "total wreck" to "not badly damaged."

At the hospital, anaesthetics were administered to Lockhart in preparation to a thorough X-ray examination to determine whether an operation was necessary. He was semi-conscious and appeared to be suffering little pain, the physicians said.

Between 5000 and 6000 persons were in the stands when the accident occurred.

NORHAM LADIES ENJOY MEETING

Mrs. W. Campbell Entertains Members of Ladies' Aid at Her Home.

BIBLE CLASS MEETS.

NORHAM, February 23. — Mrs. W. Campbell entertained the members of the Norham Ladies' Aid at its monthly meeting recently, when there was a good attendance. Mrs. D. Evans presided, and Mrs. S. Brenton and Mrs. G. Palmatier had charge of the program, while Mrs. Lorne Evans gave a humorous recitation, Mrs. Newman a very interesting missionary reading, Mrs. M. Person contributed a solo. A contest on "The Contents of a Work Bag" was enjoyed ,and Valentines were given as prizes. Plans were made for the monthly social evening, after which lunch was served, the hostess being assisted by six members of the society.

Mission Band.

The Willing Workers' Mission Band met last Saturday afternoon with Miss Edith Brenton as president, leading the devotional exercises. Birthday offerings were brought in and sunshine boxes were distributed. Several blocks were brought in for the quilt which the girls are making. A missionary reading was given by Ida Clare and Irene Tweed gave a recitation, "The Big Brotner." Mrs. Clare took a portion of the study book, "Please Stand By."

After the program a Valentine party was held. Everett Newman was postman and saw that everyone present received a Valentine. A treat of home-made candy was then enjoyed.

OMEMEE CHURCH HEARS REPORTS

Trinity United Has Completed Splendid Year of Service.

MANY DEPARTMENTS.

OMEMEE, Feb. 23.—Reports presented at the annual meeting of Trinity United Church on Friday showed a marked activity in every organization of the church. Rev. E. W. Rowland presided Percy Race, treasurer and envelope steward gave account of the finance, with a substantial balance after meeting the minister's stipend and other expenses totalling $1,088.77 He also reported for the Maintenance and Extension Fund which amounted to $550. T. C. Ivory gave the secretary-treasurer's report of the Trustee Board, this being the committee responsible for the various running expenses of the church. He also extended a vote of thanks to the Ladies' Aid for a gift of $100.

The Ladies' Aid commenced the year with a balance of $282.85, and the amount of $774.65 had been raised. The expenditures amounted to $525.20, which included the redecorating of the parsonage, furniture, donation to the Trustee Board, and flowers that had been sent, leaving a balance of $249.45.

A. Scott, treasurer of the Sunday School for more than a score of years, gave the report of the finances which showed a balance of $8.59.

Mr. Harry Lamb made an appeal to the parents for assistance and sympathy as well as for finance. The average attendance is about 85.

The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Robert Wilson and was very gratifying. Mrs' J. Shield gave the report of the Women's Missionary Society. The total membership is 44, with 11 life members During the year, three crates of fruit had been sent to the Fred Victor Mission and the Deaconess Home in Toronto, also a bale valued at $70 to the needy, and $298.61, which exceeded the allocation, was sent to the branch treasurer

Mission Activity

Mrs. E. W. Rowland, before giving the report of the Mission Band, carefully explained the work of the W.M.S., and also the expending of the money, taking each department in turn, the Young Women's Auxiliary, C.G.I.T., Baby Band and the W.M.S. The work of this society cannot be measured in dollars and cents, she said. It begins in early childhood and later in the Mission Band the boys and girls are trained to give to, and think of, others. The membership of the band totals 23, with 7 life members. It holds third place in the Lindsay Presbyterial; Queen Street, Lindsay, coming first, and George Street, Peterborough, second

The Young People's Union report was presented by Lillian Race, showing that after contributing $100 to the support of Howard Veals, a missionary, now home on furlough, a neat balance remains.

Miss Lila Parsons, the leader of the choir, presented the report of that organization which showed a membership of 22 under the temporary leadership of Mrs. C. R. Cornell, who was appointed a few weeks ago to fill the vacancy of Miss Parson's father. Recently a set of music shelves has been installed in the choir loft.

F. G. Sandy and Cecil Cornell moved a vote of appreciation to all who had contributed to the success of the work

WORTH OF A MAN TOLD AT MARMORA

Interesting Addresses in Both United and Anglican Churches.

MARMORA, February 23. — "The Worth of a Man" was the subject taken by Rev. C. J. Beckley,, of the United Church, for his address on Sunday evening, the text being, "What is man that Thou art mindful of him" and "What will a man give in exchange for his life?" In introducing his text he referred to a statement made at a medical association meting held in Montreal a year ago, to the effect that divided into his chemical constituent parts, a man is worth 98 cents. The insurance company places a man's worth at five thousand dollars. Rev. Mr. Beckley showed that none of the professions allowed for a man's full worth, which cannot be measured by his intelligence though that placed man above the animals. A man's worth was to be seen in his goodness when the finest of character found expression through the powers of the body.

The choir gave a very impressive interpretation of the anthem, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought."

St. Paul's Church.

"The Greatest of These" was the subject at St. Paul's Church on Sunday morning. Rev Mr Caldwell in opening, spoke of the three cardinal virtues as investment Dealing with faith, he spoke of the real part it played in youth; it brought forth prayer, Bible reading, church attendance, and works "Have you forgotten the individual position taken up at Confirmation? Do you recall the exercise of faith in the days of sorrow? Faith has never failed us We would ask that our faith be increased, and its works. We may increase it not by simple memories, but by using it Another asset St. Paul tells us about is hope; each one has hope, and it is a splendid security. So often we hear it said, 'While there is life there is hope.' Hope is natural to each of us. Is it not a saving grace among many people? It is necessary if we would live with a high aim and for a holy end. Let us increase in hope. Open your account of hope and do not close it, and the season of Lent will be of great advantage to you. Then we come to the 'greatest of these.' Love is the bond of perfection. Charity must be called up if our spiritual concerns are to prosper. Charity is bound to God; have we forgotten this? Love we do need, which spends itself and wants to be spent. Let charity regulate our lives, directing us in the path of life. The more we call upon the great attribute of love, the better will our investment be. Let us be filled with these virtues that we may do the things of Jesus Christ."

Commencing next Ash Wednesday, Lenten services will be held every Wednesday evening. Mite boxes were given out for savings for the missionary work of the church.

OMEMEE Y.P.U. PLANS VISIT

Will Visit Bethel With Entertainment On February 29.

LADIES MEET.

OMEMEE, Feb. 23.—"Highways of Canadian Literature,' was the topic discussed by Miss Ross, Principal of the Omemee High School, at the week-night meeting of the Young People's Union on Monday, when Miss Mary Weir was leader. On Wednesday, February 29, the Omemee branch will visit Bethel, and will furnish the program for the joint meeting.

Devotional exercises were led by Miss Eva Race and Miss Christina Connell; reports of the treasurer and secretary were received, and Miss Eva Race and Miss Winnifred Bradburn contributed a piano duet. The branch donated $2 to the treasurer of young people's work at Port Perry.

Miss Winnifred Bradburn, T. McCammon and Arthur Stinson will arrange the program to be given at Bethel.

In extending a vote of thanks to Miss Ross, Rev. E. W. Rowland commented on the splendid nature of her address.

Trinity Ladies' Aid

At the regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid of Trinity Church, Mrs. W. Moncrief read the Scripture lesson, and the devotional exercises were led by Mrs. D' Weir. Mrs. W. Henderson presided. Letters of appreciation were read by the secretary, from several who had been remembered by flowers at the time of sickness or bereavement. A suggestion was offered that small tables be purchased for use as tea tables, but no action was taken. The members of the flower committee asked assistance of the members in a bake sale or social, which they intend holding in the near future, and they HYMNS DISCUSSED BY MARMORA Y.P.A.

W. J. Cottrell Gives Address at St. Paul's Senior Meeting.

MARMORA, February 23. — St. Paul's Senior A.Y.P.A. met at the rectory on Tuesday evening with a good attendance. W. J. Cottrell, missionary convenor of the branch, gave a half-hour talk on "Little Known Facts Concerning Well - known Hymns," the subject having a missionary vein running through it. A hymn-guessing contest was then put, Miss Stella McGarvey being the winner. The meeting closed with an indoor game which provided much amusement.

H.N.S. AT HOME.

Stormy Weather Fails To Spoil Happy Event at Lakefield.

LAKEFIELD, February 23. — Owing to the bad storm which closed the country roads and made local traffic exceedingly difficult, the "At Home" under the auspices of the Holy Name Society was not as largely attended as it otherwise would have been, but those who braved the elements and attended were well repaid, as it was a jolly party and much enjoyed. The orchestra, which had been engaged from Peterborough, could not make the trip through the roads, so the music was volunteered, and was of excellent quality, and not a bar was wasted. When the news came in that the orchestra had failed, the impression got abroad that the party was cancelled, which affected the local attendance.

Considerable consternation has been caused in German naval circles by an order issued by the Commander-in-Chief of the Baltic Station, condemning bobbed hair in the wives of naval officers. The officers regard this as an unwarranted interference in their private agairs.

The Least Excitement Made Her Heart Palpitate and Flutter

Mrs. Ambrose Orser, Elginburg, Ont., writes:—"I suffered for some time with a bad heart which seemed to be controlled by my nerves. The least little excitement would cause it to flutter and palpitate, and at times I would have real bad spells. I suffered in this way for some time when, one day, I saw advertised, so decided to try them. I had only taken a few boxes when I noticed that I felt better, so I continued taking them and in a short time my heart felt entirely different.'

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

Price 50c. a box at all druggists and dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

LADIES' AID CHOOSES OFFICERS FOR 1928

Lakefield United Church Women Are Led by Mrs. Joseph Harris.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 23—Mrs. Joseph Harris was elected president of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Wesley United Church, at the annual meeing, which was held at her home recently. Other officers elected were: Vice-president, Mrs. N. Ball; secretary, Mrs. Albert Northey; treasurer, Mrs. Evans Blewett, and committee Mrs. Fred Armstrong and Mrs. Howard Pearson.

Reports of the work from April 1 to December 31 were given. The year closed with thirteen names on the roll, an increase of one during the nine months. The year began with a balance on hand of $51.69, and on December 31 it amounted to $471.41; of this amount $234.20 was paid for re-roofing the church sheds; $63.41 on the Maintenance and Extension Fund, and $75.00 for current expenses. The church fence and gates were painted and knives, forks and spoons bought for the hall. The balance on hand on December 31 was $4.79.

Mr. Wesley complimented the Ladies' Aid on their work which, he said, indicated that all the members of the society must be live, and that they co-operate well in the church's work.

HOW TO FIGHT EXCESS FAT

There are hard ways, like starvation, but fewer and fewer employ them. There is a pleasant way, modern and scientific, which combats the cause. A vast number of people now use it. And the slender figures now seen everywhere are largely due to that.

That method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. And everybody, in almost every circle, sees the change. New beauty, new health, new vitality.

Each box of Marmola contains the formula, also the scientific reasons for results. So users have no fear of harm. Learn the facts about Marmola, because of the good it has done. Ask your druggist—now—for a $1 box with the book. Then decide.

What Your Want In the WANT ADS

HOW THE SUN LIFE MADE THIRTY-EIGHT MILLIONS PROFIT IN THE YEAR 1927

Participating Policyholders Receive Ninety-Five Per Cent. of Profits—Dividends to Policyholders Again Increased—Company Seeks Legislation to Maintain Canadian Control.

MONTREAL, February 23.—The phenomenal record of the Sun Life Assurance Company is an inspiration to all Canadians. Its income of $102,000,000 is already equal to the total revenue of the Government of Canada in the year 1910, and $38,000,000 is certainly an amazing sum to have earned as profit in one year. Not many corporations anywhere can report such figures. The President's intimate, practical comments at the annual meeting explaining how these huge profits were made were illuminating.

Of even greater moment, however, were his statements regarding the danger that this great Canadian institution may pass from Canadian control. Some months ago, Mr. Macaulay referred to the activity of Wall Street in the buying of Sun Life stock, and cautioned policyholders and shareholders of the menace it involved to an institution which was founded and developed by Canadians and which has obtained its phenomenal growth under Canadian management. Subsequent events have justified these misgivings, and at the meeting to-day the first public intimation was given that the Sun Life directors are seeking legislation at the present session of Parliament which is intended to effectively forestall this danger.

Precautions to Maintain the Company Canadian in Character.

In concluding his address to the shareholders and policyholders the President made the following reference to the matter:—

"There is but one cloud on our horizon. Our very prosperity has created a remarkable demand for our capital stock. We desire to ensure that this great company shall always remain strictly Canadian in its control and in particular that its investments shall never come under Wall Street domination. A bill which we have introduced into Parliament will be submitted for your approval. If it be passed, it will give us the protection we so much need, and I know we can rely on the whole-hearted sympathy and support, not only of our stockholders and policyholders here present, but of our army of policyholders throughout the country."

The meeting unanimously approved of the measure in question. How important and how vital to Canadians are the interests at stake is disclosed in the report submitted to the annual meeting of the Company.

In moving the adoption of the report, Presiden Macaulay said:

"You gentlemen have become so accustomed to our presenting every year a statement surpassing all previous records that you come prepared to hear another report of that description. I am quite sure, however, that not one of you, in his most optimistic mood, expected a report so favourable as that which you now have. Our record for 1927 is indeed a remarkable one. Let me touch on the main features:—

Remarkable Growth, Strength and Profits.

"The new assurance completed amounted to $328,000,000, an increase of over $62,500,000.

"The amount in force at the close of the year had risen to $1,487,000,000, and at the present moment is well over $1,500,000,000

"The income exceeded $102,000,000, an increase over the previous year of $23,800,000. To me, this is very impressive. Not only has this item passed the one hundred million mark, but the increase alone is equal to what was our total income but eight years ago, which had been accumulated by forty-nine years of strenuous effort. A life company with a total income no greater than our increase would be an important corporation.

"The assets have increased by $56,000,000, and now exceed $400,000,000.

"But the most wonderful of all these wonderful figures is the amount earned as profit—$38,000,000. How great this figure is may be judged from the fact that the earnings of the previous year, in which we so rejoiced, were $20,500,000. It would be hardly reasonable to assume that our earnings of future years will continue on such a tremendous scale, and we have therefore set aside a large part of this sum to provide for future contingencies.

A Great Surplus and Contingency Fund.

"Our securities have been valued on a very conservative basis, but from even those moderate values we have set aside another $5.000,000 to provide for market fluctuations, making the total deduction under this heading $10,000,000.

"We have also set aside the following amounts:—

"A further $1,500,000 for unforseen contingencies, raising that fund to $12,500,000; $500,000 to provide for possible greater longevity of annuitants, raising that item to $2,000,000; and $1,300,000 to increase our reserves on tropical business; besides writing off another $1,000,000 on our Head Office and other buildings.

"We have distributed $11,100,000 in profits to our policyholders, and have also set aside $6,200,000 to cover profits accrued on policies.

"After providing for all these amounts, we have added $11,000,000 to our undivided surplus, raising that sum from $34,000,000 to $45,000,000.

Scale of Profits Increased for Eighth Successive Year

"The announcement, however, that will be received with the greatest enthusiasm is that for the eighth consecutive year we have increased the scale of profit payments to our policyholders. The basis of distribution for 1928 will call for nearly $900,000 more than would the basis of last year.

Profits to Policyholders Unexcelled in the World

"We can already say that in profitableness to our policyholders, we are not excelled by any life company in the world; but we are not satisfied and will not be satisfied until we can make an even stronger statement than that. Years ago, I told our field force that we hoped to be able to announce an increase in our profit scale for ten consecutive years. We have maintained that record for eight years, but the ninth and tenth years have yet to come, and their story has yet to be told. Our huge undivided surplus and our great contingency funds are the best guarantee our policyholders can have as to their future dividends.

Large Dividends the Result of a Wise Investment Policy

"You ask how we are able to make these huge profits. The $38,000,000 earned may be divided as coming approximately $14,000,000 from the regular life assurance operations of the Company, $5,000,000 from profits actually realized by the redemption or sale of securities and $19,000,000 from increase in market values. And, of all the profits made in the participating branch, the policyholders get niney-five per cent.

"I would not have you suppose that we ever speculate. We do not. We, of course, do not hesitate to sell bonds or other fixed-interest securities when they rise to such premiums that the yield is no longer satisfactory, but when we buy a stock we buy for permament investment, we buy to keep, and we never sell merely becaues the market value may have risen to a high figure. We have, however, had an epidemic of security redemptions, and as a result we have the $5,000,000 of realized profit.

High Interest Rate Earned, With No Arrears.

"Even the normal earnings of a life company depend very largely on the rate of interest it can obtain on its investments. The current rate of interest has been steadily dropping for years, and there is every indication that it will continue to drop—for how long we cannot tell. The outlook for investors in bonds and mortgages is not encouraging. That fact causes us no anxiety. We have enlisted many large groups of the brainiest, most experienced, most energetic and most successful men on the continent to work for us to maintain our interest earnings. We get their co-operation by becoming stockholders in the outstanding basic corporations of the country, so that we share in all the profits that they make. The dividends which we receive on our stock holdings are already two millions more than were payable on the same stocks when we bought them. Our interest account, of course, includes also our dividend receipts, and our record is illuminating. In 1921 the average rate earned by us was 6.07 per cent; in 1923 it was 6.20 per cent; in 1924, 6.38 per cent; in 1925, 6.41 per cent; in 1926, 6.69 per cent; and in 1927, if we use the same basis of calculation as in previous years, the rate would be 6.81 per cent. We, however, do not wish to show such a high rate, and as we always make a charge of 5 per cent against our interest earnings for investment expenses, you will note that we are quoting only the net rate, 6.47 per cent, after deducting that investment expense. The falling rate of interest has no terrors for us.

"The quality of our securities may be judged by the fact that not one dollar of interest or dividend on any bond, preferred or common stock listed in our assets is in arrear for even one day.

Business Doubled in Four Years.

"The position we have attained justifies enthusiasm, but we must always look on the present as a mere vantage ground from which to plan for the future. What is that future to be? Year after year we have been confidently predicting the glorious future yet to come, and that promised future is now unrolling itself before our eyes, in all its greatness and strength. But what of today's future? I have just been reading my own remarks of two years ago, and already the figures of which we were then so proud look small and outgrown. We have doubled in size now every five and a half years since the Company began, but our last doubling has taken only four years, and we are today growing more rapidly than ever before in our history. I predict that the figures of two years hence will make even the figures of today look small and outgrown in their turn.

Sun Life Sets Its Own Pace.

"People sometimes say when speaking of our progress:—'Yes, life assurance is growing wonderfully.' So it is; but the Sun Life is not content to grow only at the rate of life assurance generally. Statistics now available indicate that in 1927 the aggregate new business of all the companies operating in the United States exceeded the total for 1926 by only one per cent and in Canada by seven per cent. But the new business of the Sun Life of Canada shows an increase of twenty-three per cent. We set our own pace. Our prosperity and popularity, and the enthusiastic support of our six hundred thousand policyholders makes our growth both rapid and certain. The future still before us will, I am convinced, be more wonderful than anything we can now imagine. And it is indeed a happy thought that all that growth in size and all that growth in prosperity mean increased service to humanity, and service at steadily lowering cost to our policyholders."

The President closed his remarks by a reference to the need of safeguarding the future of the Company, as above quoted.

DEMANDS INQUIRY.

YOUNG ORATORS ENTER CONTEST

Eight Pupils of Campbellford High Scool Are Competing.

SPEAK NEXT WEEK.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 23.— The senior oratorical to be held in the Campbeluford High school on the evening of Wednesday, February 29th, is to be a keenly contested affair. This will be a competition for the Dr. O. C. Watson trophy and to decide the person who will represent the school in the Star contest to be held in the near future. The subject on which the students will speak is "The Future of Canada." Already there are eight entries for the honors and as all or nearly all of these students had previously achieved a certain amount of distinction along this line, it is expected that the decisions will be close. The entrants to date are Helen Atkinson, Marjorie Ackerman, Kathleen Crosson, Rosina Clarke, Jean Nelson, Reta Palliser, Roy Johnston and Cecil Stephens.

The contest will be held in the auditorium at eight o'clock next Wednesday evening and the general public is invited. Principal Greig wishes it to be generally understood that there will be absolutely no admission fee and hopes for a good attendance. The judges have not, as yet, been either selected or finally decided up on. Mr. Greig expects to have some gentleman from out of town and therefore less liable to have any previous opinions formed.

Millbrook

MILLBROOK, Feb. 23.—The literary society, in connection with the Continuation School held its regular meeting in the library on Wednesday afternoon, the special feature being a "Travel Talk" by Mrs. (Canon) Allen, covering the trip abroad which she and the rector took last summer when they were nine weeks in England and on the Continent.

The address was full of instruction and interest, and of great practical value to the pupils

Eddie Nattress is president of the literary society this year, and Elsie Spence, secretary. The annual rhetorical contest takes place next week, the subject being "Canada's Future," continuing the Confederation topic which was the one set for last year.

Mrs. E. Armstrong, who has been visiting her nieces in Toronto for the past week or two, returned home on Tuesday evening.

Mr. Harry Doxsee, who has been making an extended visit with his mother, Mrs. R. Doxsee, and his sisters, Mrs. G. W. Sayles, Millbrook; Mrs. E. Fennell, Norwood, and Mrs. Harry Stenson, Kirkland Lake, returned to his home at Schenectady, N.Y., last week.

Mrs. A. E. Earchman of Ottawa is visiting her sister, Mrs. Edgar Fallis this week.

Miss Mary Stewart of Peterborough and Mrs. William Tully of Otonabee were guests this week of the Misses Nellie and Maud Finnimore, and also called upon Mrs. W. T. A. Deyell and her sister, Miss Edith Stewart, and Miss Etta Needler, while in town.

The many friends of Miss Nellie Finnimore will be glad to learn that there is considerable improvement in her health, after her long illness. She is now able to walk about a little in her home. The nurse, Mrs McMillan, is, however, still in charge. Dr. H. A. Turner is the physician in attendance.

Mrs. G. E. Burnham spent the week-end with her son, Mr. Ernest L. Burnham, in Toronto.

The Silver Jubilee birthday sale of the Rexall stores is being observed all this month at the local drug store, of which Ivan L. H. Gray is the proprietor.

Ice-cutting on Attwooll and Sheppard's pond was completed for this season on Tuesday of this week, about five thousand blocks having been taken out. This was at least one thousand more than in any previous winter, more people, apparently, storing a supply this year; the ice was of the very best quality, about nineteen or twenty inches in thickness, clear and hard throughout.

Every Cold is Serious

Any cold is serious enough when its dreadful possibilities are considered, but when there is soreness or tightness in the chest and a dry hard cough you can look for bronchitis, which is often confused with an ordinary cold.

It is usually known by aching limbs and body pains, chilly feelings, weariness and weakness, pain in the chest and a tight, tearing cough. Fever, dry skin, thirst, coated tongue and constipation are other symptoms.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine seems almost like a specific for bronchitis because it is so successful in loosening up the cough, aiding expectoration and preventing the inflammation from reaching the lungs.

FREE TREES FOR ONTARIO.

It should be of general interest to learn that the Ontario Government through the Forestry Branch is again offering the people of the Province free trees for planting.

This year the department has for distribution some 10,000,000 forest trees of all classes, which are to be used for purposes of reforestation or for the establishment of windbreaks, and it is hoped that there will be enough applications to exhaust this supply.

Under the regulations any resident of Ontario may obtain 3,500 trees free for reforesting work, and an additional 500 spruce or cedar trees for use as a windbreak.

Farmers with waste land at their disposal are blind to their own interests if they do not take advantage of this chance to replenish their wood lots or establish new plantations that will eventually prove a source of wealth.

There are no strings to the offer; all that is required is that the application shall be made before April 1, and that the applicant fill in a form answering a few simple questions and guaranteeing that the trees will receive reasonable care and protection.

These applications, it is announced, should be made to the Ontario Forestry Branch, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

OUT OF THE PUBLIC PURSE.

The number of people in Canada who make their living out of the public purse is surprisingly high.

Figures issued recently at Ottawa show that no fewer than 68,276 persons are now holding Federal Government jobs throughout the Dominion, and this total, of course, does not include the thousands of employees of the Canadian National Railways.

When you add to this 68,276 the large numbers of people employed by the various Provincial Governments and the still large numbers in the service of the various municipalities, you begin to realize that it takes a remarkably high percentage of the population of nine million Canadians to look after the public business of this country.

To the outsider it looks as if some of this overhead could be cut with very beneficial results from the viewpoint of economy and lower taxes.

Unfortunately, however, the inside view is always different; the problem never seems to cause any one in authority the least concern.

And thus the army of public servants continues to increase and each year sees a larger personnel and a correspondingly larger overhead.

EMPIRE SHOPPING WEEK.

Canada is to have during the week of April 21-28 an Empire shopping week.

The name almost fully explains the object of the effort: it is being held simply and solely for the purpose of stimulating the purchase and sale of Empire produce and manufactures, in accordance with the slogan, "Empire buyers and Empire builders."

Empire shopping weeks are not a novelty, although this is the first to be held in Canada.

In other parts of the Empire, notably in Australia, the British West Indies and in Great Britain, they have been tried out most successfully.

In connection with the Canadian Empire week the advisory council compromises the president of many national organizations, including the National Council of Women, the Daughters of the Empire, the Retail Merchants' Association, the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, the Trades and Labor Congress and the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

They feel that there is a need for increasing the purchase and sale of Empire products, inasmuch as of Canada's imports of over a billion dollars last year over eight hundred million dollars worth came from foreign countries, a very uneconomic trade from an Empire point of view.

One main thought steadily kept in mind in connection with the campaign is that a natural first preference be given to the products of Canada, other Empire products receiving the next preference.

In other words, Canadians are to be asked first to buy in Canada, and if then they must purchase outside of the Dominion, to buy Empire products.

HOW IT IS WORKING OUT.

The general opinion in regard to the forty-minute limit on speeches in the House of Commons seems to be that the new rule is very successfully justifying itself.

The majority of speeches being delivered in the present session are improved, not only because of their brevity, but because more care has been taken in their preparation.

It was noticeable, too, that Mr. Cahan, who led off the debate on the Budget for the Opposition, apparently was influenced by the time limit, even although it did not apply to him on this occasion; and his speech was shorter than his record would have led one to expect.

The member for St. Lawrence-St. George has never been noted for the brevity of his speeches, even when dealing with subjects of much less importance than the Budget.

In the past he has been guilty of some lengthy discourses.

On this occasion, however, when given the honor of opening his party's onslaught, Mr. Cahan succeeded in delivering an impressive speech, one of the best it is said he has made in the House, and certainly more effective than if he had taken twice as long to present his arguments.

In general, this should be the usual result of the time limit.

It will compel members to give more time to arranging and condensing their data, and thus tend to a more systematic and effective presentation than was customary under the old conditions.

And it will serve also to cut the length of the debate—an improvement that is manifestly in everybody's interest.

HOLE-IN-CORNER POLITICS.

The Halifax Herald, The London Free Press, The St. Thomas Times-Journal and other Canadian newspapers seem to be a unit in resisting attempts to close aldermanic committee meetings to the press. The Star, of course, has taken a similar attitude with respect to the Walkerville Council, which still persists in holding its committee sessions in the dark. An attempt is being made in St. Thomas just now to take action along the same lines and many protests have been registered. In Halifax, The Herald has found it necessary to take severe issue with the Mayor on the same point.

Privately-held committee meetings cannot be justified on any ground. The only argument advanced by Aldermen who wish to work in this way is that at meetings attended by newspaper representatives they sometimes hesitate to express their opinions because they do not wish to be quoted. The answer to this is that no elected representative can properly refuse to have his opinion of a public matter quoted. A man entrusted with the people's confidence and elevated to some office, is the people's representative and, in a sense, one of their leaders. He must have opinions and he must express them, and he cannot afford to be placed in the position of attempting to cover up thoughts, words or actions. For a public man to say he favors closed meetings is equivalent to declaring there are things he does not wish the ratepayers to know. Such an attitude, of course, cannot be reconciled with any democratic principle.

The newspapers offer the only means for the public to keep in touch with its officials, to know what they are doing. The newspaper is, in effect, the public's auditor and inspector. Unless it is given a chance to do its duty—and closed meetings are a denial of this chance—the public cannot be other than in the dark as to the matters discussed and acted upon at the meetings in question, and the attitude of the various elected representatives. Closed meetings are a throw-back to autocracy and should not be tolerated by the people of any community.—Border Cities Star.

UNSKILLED LABOR AS DRUG.

Skilled workers in mechanical lines are in demand in Canada, according to reports of the Employment Service, while there are virtually no calls for unskilled men. Here is a statement that should make the older boys and young men stop, read and heed. Every youth who is not going into the professions or white-collar jobs should learn a trade, and, in fact, some of those who are contemplating becoming lawyers or doctors or ministers would be better off in many ways if, instead, they were to become skilled mechanics. In deciding on an occupation, a youth should select something for which he feels he is adapted. If he has an inventive or a mechanical turn of mind, he should not adopt a professional career. Unless he is "cut out" for a profession, he is courting failure if he decides to make it his life work. The fact that some professional men are enjoying big salaries doesn't mean that he will. These men had a peculiar aptitude for the profession they adopted and spent many years of study and application before success began to smile upon them.

The professions may look easy to an indolent youth, but they are not. They are hard taskmasters, giving fame and fortune only to those displaying ability, natural and acquired. So, if a young man thinks of entering a profession he should give pause while he asks himself if he is willing to pay the price of success. And in choosing his life-work, he should have the sympathetic co-operation of his parents. There are some parents whose pride would be injured if their sons were to decide on a mechanical rather than a literary career, ignoring the fact that they would be happier and better off if they were to become good mechanics rather than poor professional men.

Every young man should have a definite calling, whether mechanical or literary. If he is not going to train for a professional or a white-collar job, he should learn a trade. His parents should insist upon this. A skilled workman is rarely out of work, commands good wages and, if he has ambition and acquires technical training, opportunities for which are nearly always available, can qualify for an executive position with high wages and an opportunity to display his individuality and his skill. An ambitious mechanic is a thousand times better off than an unambitious professional man.

But between the opportunities of a skilled man and an unskilled laborer there is no reason for doubt or dispute. The reports of employment bureaus show that the mechanic has the call over his brother who hasn't taken the time or trouble to learn a trade. Many young men go into the ranks of unskilled labor because at the start they earn more money than they would if they were learning a trade. They don't stop to look into the future. If they did they would see that in later life, with a good trade at their finger-tips, they would make far more money than if they were merely a laborer, and employment would be more certain, while their prestige in the community would be far higher. For this reason, young men should go into the skilled rather than the unskilled ranks.

In several countries the old-time apprenticeships are coming back. These are somewhat severe, but they teach efficiency and discipline, and fit the apprentices for a successful future. Let us have more apprenticeships. If we do, there will be less unemployment and want, happier homes and more contented nations.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, Feb. 23.—There was a rather sudden and unexpected change in the general tone of the cattle market yesterday morning. With a total offering of about 1,400 cattle, including 400 carried over from Tuesday, buyers were indifferent and bids were from 25c to 40c lower than yesterday.

Owing to the recent storms and bad condition of roads, many cattle have been held back. Anticipating a heavy delivery of these hold overs buyers saw an opportunity to take 25c off prices all round.

Trade opened very slow, and up to noon hour, few cattle had gone over the scales, and these were mostly cows at 25c lower than yesterday.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 23 (Canadian Press).—The demand from the United Kingdom and the Continent for Canadian grain here yesterday showed a decided improvement and a larger volume of business was done in wheat and oats for nearby shipment.

A feature of the local cash grain market was the demand that developed from New York exporters for Manitoba wheat, and sales of No. 4 grades were made at 14¼c per bushel under the Winnipeg May option, c.i.f. Bay Ports now at West St. John.

There was also a steady demand from local buyers for oats and quite a few cars were sold for all-rail shipment from Fort William. Spot prices for coarse grains were firm with a moderate trade passing.

Owing to the continued strength in the Winnipeg wheat situation, a stronger feeling developed in the market for Spring wheat grades of flour here and values were marked up ten cents per barrel. Another feature of the trade was the increased demand from foreign buyers and a fair volume of business was accomplished, including sales for May shipment. An active trade was also done in Winter wheat flour and prices were steady.

Considerable business was again transacted in all lines of millfeed and the undertone was firm. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats was somewhat limited, but prices were unchanged.

The undertone to the market for fresh eggs was firm under a good demand. The trade in storage eggs was quiet. The receipts were 513 cases.

Owing to the fact that the United States markets for New Brunswick potatoes is now on a higher level than the Montreal market very little stock is coming forward here and available supplies of these grades are light at present.

On account of the above a stronger feeling prevailed in the market for Quebec varieties and prices advanced five cents per bag with a fair demand.

A stronger feeling prevailed in the market for imported beans and prices for car lots were advanced ten cents per bushel. This was attributed to the small supplies on spot and the good demand. Sales of choice white hand-picked to arrive were made at $3.10 per bushel, ex-track, while smalled quantities sold at $3.20 per bushel, ex-store.

The trade in butter continued slow but the undertone was steady. The receipts were 81 packages.

Some business was done in cheese with local buyers, but the foreign demand continued inactive. Prices were unchanged. The receipts were 68 boxes.

GOD'S MINUTE

He that hath My commandments and keepeth them, loveth me,—John 14, 21.

Most Gracious God Almighty, all wise, all loving, our Heavenly Father, we rejoice that Thou has called us to be Thy children.

We confess before Thee, that we are indeed like little children, with all their weakness and imperfections, but without their humility, purity, teachableness, and trustfulness. Cleanse us from our sins. Grant us joy and peace in believing in Thee. May we have the love that believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things.

In our home, in our daily work and recreations, and in all our relations to others, make us strong and steadfast to do the right and shun the wrong. Bless us, that we may become a blessing to others.

Remember, we beseech Thee, all classes and conditions of men—the sick, the sorrowful, the poor and needy, the widows and orphans, the little children with their sweet faith and childlike joys, the young and vigorous, bearing the responsibilities of life.

Bless the missionaries at home and abroad. Be pleased to make Thyself known in the labors of the faithful pastors and teachers, and let Thy truth and righteousness govern the nations of the earth, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

A Thought

PRESENT OR ABSENT.

It is a good thing to be somewhere as well as to be somebody. The right to be somebody involves a duty to be somewhere. The man who at roll call is marked absent from his accustomed place of service ought to see to it that his presence elsewhere is better worth noting in his favor than being absent is worth noting against him. It is not wrong to be absent when one has absented himself for the sake of being present where his presence is better worth while.

WOULD PROHIBIT SELLING

Editor, The Examiner:

I have been much interested in the discussion going on about the Fish and Game Law, especially regarding the fishing through the ice in the Winter.

I would be the last one in the world to object to showing courtesy to our American tourists, but not at the expense of our own country doing without all fish they require for their personal use or that of the farmers living along the lake shore, who are too busy to fish in the Summer; nor do I see why, if the parties fishing catch more than they require, they should not be allowed to present one to a neighbor. I make mention of the people along the lake shore because people at a distance would not go far to fish in the cold weather.

Why not call for legislation to prohibit the selling and shipping of fish during the Winter? This together with the above suggestions or better suggestions from the Fish and Game Protective Association should please each and all.

REPLYING TO MR. HOWARD

Peterborough, Feb. 22, 1928.

The Editor,
Peterboro Examiner, City:

Dear Sir.—In your issue of Feb. 20th, I read with considerable interest the article on page 1, "Indian guide says pickerel eats game fish." I am quite willing to admit that I am not interested so much in "What the pickerel eats," as much as I am in "Who eats the pickerel?"

Mr. Howard is a man of wide experience in matters pertaining to the catching of fish. He, of all men, should and does know, that there is no fish in our waters that can stand the intensive legal fishing in the summer; netting, spearing, and shooting in the spring, and caught by the ton through the ice in the winter.

With reference to the quantity of fish that is being taken out of Rice Lake. The officers of the Peterboro County Fish and Game Protective Association have made the statement, and are quite prepared to prove it, that pickerel were being offered in Peterborough for sale literally by the ton. This statement is not mere guess work, but was made after a careful check up of the local situation. In your issue, under date of Feb. 14th, is an article under the heading, "Pickerel sale is very heavy," in which Mr. John Simmons, the well-known fruit and fish dealer on Charlotte Street, says that he alone purchased 250 pounds in one day. He also makes the statement that these fish can be purchased from the Toronto wholesale houses.

Shipments have also been made to the American market and to Montreal.

It is quite true that the pickerel is not generally regarded as a game fish, but the fact remains that it is the one fish left in our waters in any quantity. The average tourist who can go out and catch a half dozen pickerel in a day comes in satisfied. Admitted, he is always in the hopes of hooking on to a lunge, but if the lunge is not there, he is pretty well satisfied with pickerel.

This ice fishing is simply a case of "burning the candle at both ends"—some day the flames meet, and somebody's fingers get burned, but by that time it is too late.

With reference to Mr. Howard's statement, "I have seen some (bass and lunge) caught, but they were pushed back into the water." Mr. Howard can "tell this to the tourists."

Yours truly,
FRED L. ROY,
President, Peterboro County Fish and Game Protective Association.

"Those wheels are out of alignment!"
A wobble — a worn bearing — a badly lined-up wheel — anything that keeps tires from tracking true will rob you of mileage and make your motoring costly.

EVEN if the tread doesn't show it to your eye — our experienced tire men will usually notice the first signs of trouble. Give us the chance to save you the price of a new tire.

Wheels do get out of alignment. Catch it before it gets really bad and you will lower your tire bills and get greater tire mileage. Let our service man check up your tires every week. Let him test tire pressures and look for hidden trouble. A little care may save you a half-hour on the roadside — and knock dollars off your running costs.

MINES.

F. G. Oke and Company wire as follows:

TORONTO, Feb. 23. — The most outstanding stock in this morning's easy prices on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange was that of Amulet which broke to $3.05 without any apparent reason other than general selling. We are informed from many different and reliable sources that developments on Amulet are of a most encouraging nature and that minewise the company was never in a better position.

The public, apparently appear disappointed regarding the reticence of the Amulet management in giving some rough estimate of ore reserves but in view of the nature of the exploratory work, that is to say diamond drilling, it is particularly difficult to make an official statement. However, we are now told that the management have decided to enlarge the shaft of No. 4 Area which is already down to a depth of 150 feet, into a three compartment shaft and continue the sinking operations to a depth of 250 feet. It was in this section of the property that the first work underground was undertaken and where some $3,500,000 worth of ore was put in sight with a very limited amount of underground exploration and development. In view of these facts we wold not be surprised to hear other favorable reports on Amulet when this underground work becomes productive of results.

Apart from this work which is to get under way at once, a large mining plant and equipment is expected to be on the property as soon as the railroad is completed when mining operations will be commenced on a large scale and most likely a central operating shaft sunk at what will be considered the point of economic advantage. Also the recent financing, Amulet should have some $500,000 cash together with a further 500,000 shares of treasury stock, is as and when required for further finances. The rest of the market was easy, the bright spots being those of Aconda and Pend Oreille.

In the case of the latter company, it seems as though much higher prices may be anticipated in view of the manner in which the stock is at demand at current quotations, and it looks as though the floating supply of Pend Oreille stock is becoming quite scarce.

Bakeries Placed In Receivership

TORONTO, February 23 (Canadian Press). — Mr. Justice Fisher has made a receiving order for the Gilbert & Taylor Bakeries, of Belleville. These were taken over by the Inter-Provincial Bakeries, and the question will now be fought out whether the assets of these bakeries are assets of the Interprovincial Company. G. S. Holmstead is named interim receiver.

Standard Mine Market Business Irregular

TORONTO, Feb. 23 (Canadian Press).—The market on the Standard Mining Exchange today was irregular with losses outnumbering gains. Pend O'Reille had another strong session, working over the 19.00 mark for a gain of more than $2 a share. Sudbury Basin, the other leader, weakened to close at 22.75 bid, compared with yesterday's close of 24.00. The Kirkland Lake issue again lost ground. Wright Hargraves eased to 4.35, down twenty, and Kirkland Lake to 1.51, down eight. Teck Hughes at 8.45 was steady. Malartic was a strong leader of the cheaper issues with a sixteen point gain at 90. Barry Hollinger at 81 and Bidgood at 73 were firmer and Granada was up two at 24. Howey Gold firmed to 1.25, up five, and Noranda firmed at 18 while Amulet lost ground at 320.

Stock Rally Resumed With Less Momentum

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (Canadian Press).—The rally in stock prices, which set in on Tuesday, was resumed today, but appeared to have lost much of its momentum. Pools succeeded in marking up a number of specialties three to six points, but renewed weakness of United States Rubber and heavy offerings of United States Steel Common on the bulges tended to restrict bullish operations in other sections of the list.

In view of a sharp reaction a few days ago considerable interest was manifested in the weekly brokers' loans statement, to be issued by the New York Federal Reserve Bank after the close of the market. The decline in stock prices ordinarily would indicate a substantial contraction in loans, although the situation has been complicated by the calling of assessments for the St. Paul stocks under a reorganization plan during the period covered by the loan statement, it being assumed in some quarters that these payments would tend to keep the loans up.

Wheat Prices Go Up As Mercury Goes Down

CHICAGO, Feb. 23. — Canadian Press. — Cold weather over the domestic winter wheat belt, together with reports of food scarcity in Central Europe, led to early high prices for wheat to-day. Better conditions for the corn crop movement tended to ease down the corn market Opening 3-8c to 1 3-8c up wheat later scored addtional gains Corn started at ¼c decline to 3-8c advance and subsequently underwent a moderate general set back; oats were firm.

Opening prices were: Wheat March 134 1-8; May 135 1-8; corn March, 95 7-8; May 99 ¾; oats, March 55 1-8; May 56 3-8

Trend Is Uncertain On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Feb. 23. Canadian Press. — Toronto stock exchange continued uncertain to-day, though some degree of firmness was shown. The strong leader was Seagram's, selling up 1¾ at 22¾. British American oil firmed a half at 35¼, after early morning weakness, and International, the third feature was steady at 80 after touching 81½. Arnolds at 17, Canadian Oil at 56, International Petroleum at 36½, and Carlings at 33¾ were all improved somewhat. A weak spot was Brazilian, down 4 at 199. Slightly easier movement occurred in Abitibi at 74½ Loblaw at 98¾, Page-Hersey at 94¼ and Walkers at 56½.

ART STUDY CLUB TAKES UP ROSETTI

Mrs. C. B. Adair Gives Paper on Nineteenth Century Artist-Poet.

The life and work of Dante Gabriel Rossetti was outlined by Mrs. C. B. Adair at this week's meeting of the Art Study Club of the Women's Art Association.

Rossetti was born in 1828, the child of Italian parents living in London, his mother having a strain of English blood from her own mother. There were four children in the family, all gifted as poets, writers and critics. Dante Gabriel was a poet as well as a painter, who wrote a poem first, then painted a picture which gradually evolved in his mind from the written verse. His childhood was influenced by the dream world which he made for himself, his family and brothers and sisters being cut off from much companionship with the outside world, on account of their feeling of strangeness in a strange land.

At the age of six years, Dante Gabriel commenced to write poetry. The chief influence of his childhood was the worship of Dante. He knew his poems by heart and the mystical writer became his guide through life. Later, he studied art at the Royal Academy and then lived for a time with Holman Hunt, whose orderly existence was much disrupted, and yet enriched, by the presence in his studio of the volatile young Italian, who hummed and moaned and raved and raged as he painted.

Later, Rossetti became identified with a new school whose paintings were much criticized by the public. TWO Art study

In 1850 he met and loved Elizabeth Siddall, daughter of a Sheffield tradesman. But he did not marry her until ten years later, and then she lived for two years only, dying and leaving him desolate. He immortalized his wife in song and picture, her form and face making the model for many of his artistic and literary conceptions, following out in this way the manner of Dante's immortalization of Beatrice.

"Rossetti had a taste for deeply lustrous colors and rich accessories. What explains his fabulous success is purely the condition of spirit that went to the making of his work that nervous vibration, that combination of suffering and sensuousness, and that romanticism drunk with beauty which pervades his paintings and poetry."

"Rossetti had the most wonderful coterie of contemporaries that could be imagined. Has there ever been such a group of brilliant men living at one time: Swimburne, Tennyson, Bowning, Keats, Dickens, Hunt Millais Whistler, Hall Caine and Ruskin. In 1861, Rossetti produced several fine designs in stained glass and in the revival of stained glass painting as an art he has a larger share than is generally attributed to him.

"During the later years of his life he was afflicted with insomnia and became greatly addicted to the use of chloral. His many friends stayed with him, even when he was most trying, and Hall Caine lived at Rossetti's home during the last six weeks of the latter's life. Nearly all of his pictures were exhibited at the Royal Academy and at the Burlington Fine Arts Club in 1883, one year after his death, and when sold, brought their weight in gold."

POPE RECEIVES CANADIAN PARTY

Praises Them For Undertaking Pilgrimage To Holy Land.

ROME, Feb. 23 (Canadian Press).—Pope Pius today received the members of the Canadian pilgrimage to the Holy Land, under Monsignor Joseph Prudhomme, Bishop of Prince Albert,. The Pontiff gave each his hand to kiss and in a brief speech praised their zeal in undertaking a long voyage which he was sure would be rich in abundant spiritual gifts for all of them.

Scout News

THE CHIEF SCOUT

Lieut. General Sir Robert Baden-Powell was born in London, Feb. 22, 1857. His father was an Oxford professor, a Fellow of the Royal Society, the author of many learned theological works, and a clergyman well known for his versatility of talent, his broad and original outlook and his kindly and generous disposition. The Chief Scout's mother, the daughter of Admiral . H. Smythe, a distinguished sailor and scholar, also was possessed of exceptional talents and attainments.

On returning from South Africa in 1903, "B.P." found that his little book "Aids to Scouting," written for soldiers, was being used by teachers in England for the training of boys in character and citizenship. He therefore set to work to write a new book on the same lines, but specially for boys. In preparation for the writing of this book he began a study of every system of boy training, ancient and modern, of which he could secure information. In doing so he collected what probably is the largest library on the subject in the world.

The next step came in 1907, when Baden-Powell conducted an experimental boys' camp for Scout training at Brownsea Island; and the year following "Scouting for Boys" was issued, in six fortnightly parts. Long before the series was completed patrols and troops of Scouts had sprung up through Great Britain.

So truly, however, so wonderfully, had the new scheme of play-learning met boys' instincts and tastes that the writer of "Scouting for Boys" soon found that an organization had ground up around him, and finally was compelled to give it leadership. In 1910 the movement had grown to such proportions that "B.P." left the army in order to give Scouting his full attention.

Republic of Finland
5½% External Gold Bonds
Due February 1, 1958

Principal and interest (February 1 and August 1) payable in United States gold coin in New York City, without deduction for any Finnish taxes present or future. Coupon bonds in denominations of $500 and $1,000, registerable as to principal only. Sinking Fund sufficient to redeem entire issue by drawings at par.

Finland has long enjoyed a high credit standing in financial centres. The population is one of the most industrious in Europe and the standard of education is high, less than 1% of the population being illiterate.

The total funded debt, as of December 31, 1927, amounted to $91,368,894, and based on the present estimated population of 3,500,000 represents a per capita debt of $25.45, which is exceptionally low. For the year 1927 actual ordinary revenues totalled $97,230,000 as compared with ordinary expenditures of $83,380,000, a surplus of $13,850,000. During the preceding five years ordinary revenues have exceeded ordinary expenditures by an average of $14,799,000.

Finland is densely forested, and its lumber, pulp and paper industries together with agriculture are the most important factors in Finland's national economy. We recommend these bonds for sound investment and shall be pleased to forward further particulars upon request.

Price 92.50 and interest

Yield if not drawn prior to maturity 6.04%; yield on average expectation of redemption over 6.22%.

SOUTHERN STARS LOSE ON HOME ICE

Donegal Team Wins in Free Rink League, Four Goals to Three.

A very fast and brilliant hockey game was played last night on the South-End Rink, when the Donegal Hockey Club defeated the Southern Stars by a score of 4 to 3. With a fast sheet of ice and nice weather, about 200 spectators witnessed a very clean and fast hockey game. Good combination and back checking won the honors for the North-end boys. It would be a hard task to pick the stars of the game, as every one played his part exceedingly well on both teams. Both goalies did good work and saved many times. The spectators were delighted with the game, especially with the clean play. No penalties had to be given. This was the first loss in eleven games. The Southern boys feel that they can return the compliment when they meet again on Friday night at the North-End Rink. Frank LaRone promises to have a good sheet of ice for the occasion.

The teams were:

The cup will be presented next Friday evening when all-star teams will give an exhibition.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat trouble. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflamation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or 'flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Peterboro's Famous Lift Lock

GENERAL CONTEST RULES
How to Enter

1. The contest is open to everyone except:
   (a) Employees of The Peterborough Examiner, Ltd., or their immediate family.
   (b) Prize-winners in any similar contest who have won any of the major prizes.

2. Additional puzzle-charts may be obtained free by writing to the Contest Department or by calling at The Examiner Office.

3. Every figure in the puzzle is complete and entirely free from tricks or illusions. If any contestant is in doubt about any of the figures, send in the chart with the figures marked and the Contest Department will gladly give a ruling on the figure.

4. When you have solved the puzzle, fill in completely the solution blank, which must be accompanied by a remittance for at least a six months' subscription at the regular rates to The Evening Examiner. (See subscription rates.) See also the prize-list and note how the value of your prize is increased by paying for a year's subscription and by getting subscriptions from your friends. Renewal subscriptions, or subscriptions in arrears, if paid during contest period, count the same as new subscriptions and will be extended from the present expiry date, but not more than $15.00 will be received on any one solution or subscription.

5. In order that subscribers who pay carrier boys weekly may participate in this contest, books of tickets containing 22 weekly tickets for $3.00, or 44 for $6.00, will be sold. These remittances must be made direct to the Contest Department with your solution. Otherwise it cannot be registered. Each ticket is valued at 15c and will be redeemed from the carrier boy at that price.

6. Readers who give their subscription to some other contestant and later want to send in an answer themselves, may do so providing they fill in the coupon, giving the name of the person they paid their subscription to and the amount paid. No further payment is necessary.

7. The contest will close on March 15, 1928, but send in your solution as soon as possible as we are offering special prizes for the first correct solutions. (See full details under "Special Prizes.") There is nothing gained by holding back your answer once you have solved the puzzle, as a contestant may make several remittances on any answer sent in while the contest lasts up to a total amount of $15.00.

8. Contestants may send in a different answer to the puzzle with each remittance, but if one of your answers is correct the money sent in on your other answers will not increase the total value of your prize, and not more than one regular prize will be paid to one family.

9. Everyone has an equal chance. You can win the first prize and extra cash for only a six months' subscription, but note how the value of the first five prizes increases if you send in more money. Aim to win the maximum Grand Prize. The Evening Examiner is now recognized as the leading daily in Peterborough district and surrounding counties and no difficulty should be found in getting your friends or neighbors to subscribe for it.

10. Contestants who remit by mail or pay at the office should see that these remittances and answers are made on a proper contest coupon to ensure them reaching the Contest Department.

11. If the correct answer is not sent in by any contestant the prizes will be awarded for the nearest correct solutions. In the event of a tie a second puzzle will be presented which will be as practicable and solvable as the first. Only those tieing will be permitted to solve the second puzzle. Should two or more persons be tied in the second puzzle the prizes will be divided equally among those tieing. No cash will be accepted on the second puzzle.

12. In entering the contest, contestants agree to abide by the rules of the contest and to accept the decision of the judges as final. The Contest Department reserve the right to alter and amend its rules if necessary for the protection of contestants or The Peterborough Examiner. It also reserves the right to refund any subscriptions and to disqualify any contestants whom they consider should not be in the contest. Contestants are assured of the same impartial treatment which characterizes The Examiner in all its dealings.

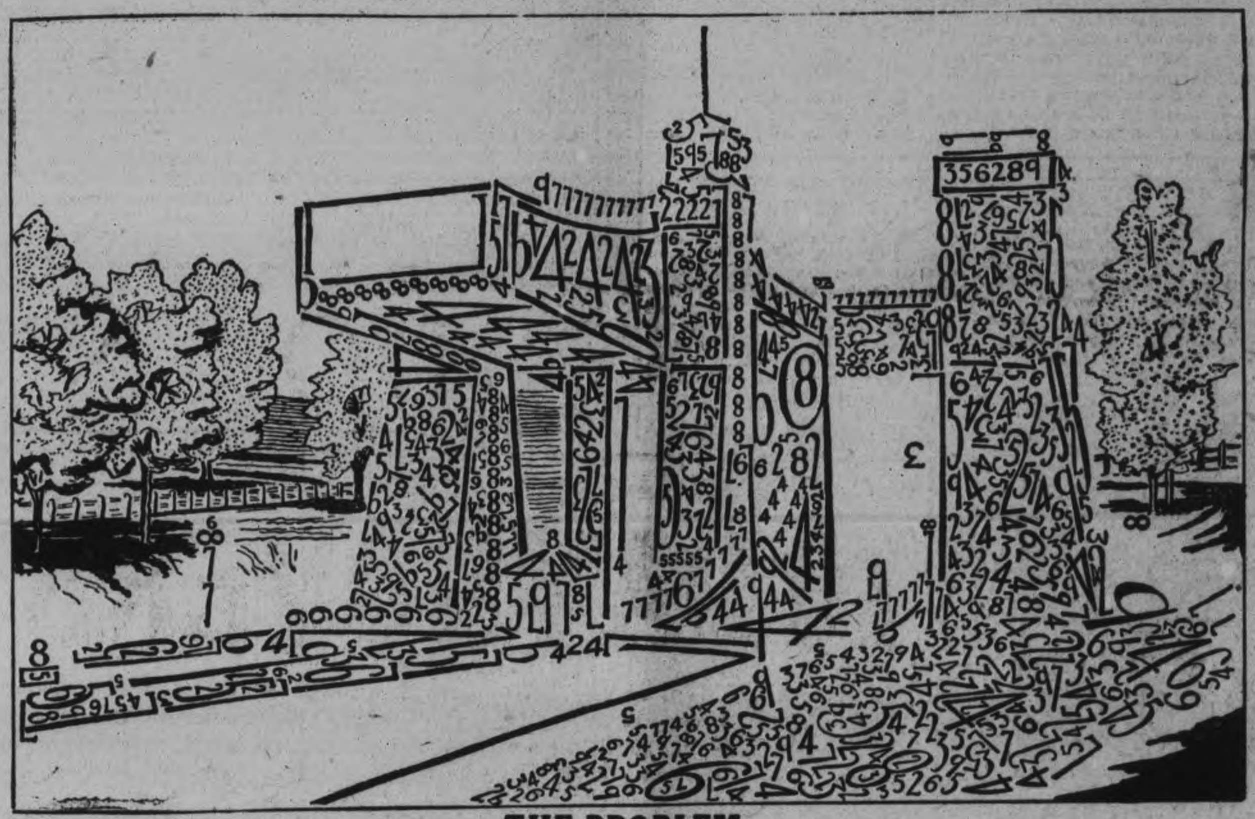
HOW MANY TONS DOES THE LIFT LOCK WEIGH?



THE PROBLEM

The problem is to add together all the figures shown above, which, when added together, represent the total number of tons that the Lift Lock weighs.

The puzzle is entirely free from tricks or illusions, every figure is complete and stands alone. The figures range from two to nine. There are no ones (1) or ciphers (0) in the puzzle. The sixes are curved, while the stem of the nines are straight.

We wish it clearly understood that every figure can be plainly seen. There is nothing hidden in the trees or shadows, but the problem of adding these is a real test of accuracy.

Remember, each figure is added separately. For example, 9777 is counted 9 plus 7 plus 7 plus 7, or, in other words, simply add them as if each figure stood one above the other in a single column.

REMEMBER, NO ONE KNOWS THE CORRECT ANSWER UNTIL THE CONTEST CLOSES

To ensure this we had Mr. E. M. Elliott, County Treasurer, and Mr. Frank Adams, City Treasurer, each erase one or more figures from the original drawing, which they carefully noted and sealed in an envelope and gave to the manager of the Royal Bank for safe keeping until the contest closes.

TWENTY-SIXTH TO FIFTIETH PRIZES—$5.00 in cash each.

SPECIAL PRIZES—While the contest will not close until March 15, we are offering Five Special Prizes for the first five correct, or nearest correct, solutions secured by us. The prizes will be: First Prize, $8.00; Second Prize, $7.00; Third Prize, $5.00; Fourth Prize, $3.00; Fifth Prize, $2.00.

A TIP ON HOW TO WIN

Take a pencil and put down the numbers as you stroke them out, then add them up. Some suggest that you cut the chart into dozens of pieces, then check them from all sides; or if you wish, try blotting them out with colored ink or pencil. Others think the best way is to pick out all the twos, threes, fours, etc. Any they miss the first time they find later. Or suppose you try taking a combination of figures which, when added together, makes a total of ten. For example, 5 and 3 and 2 make 10. Tens are not only easily added together, but there is less danger of making a mistake.

1. Everyone has the same opportunity. A person sending in only $3.00 in subscriptions has the same chance of winning the first prize as a person sending in more money. The advantage of sending in more money is to increase the value of the first five prizes.

2. This is a contest for Central Ontario district, or to any subscriber of The Examiner, no matter where he resides.

3. Don't forget to answer all the necessary questions on the solution blank.

4. If you collect a subscription from a friend or neighbour, that person can also submit an answer to the puzzle without further payment.

THE JUDGES

In order that each Contestant shall have fair and impartial treatment, we have arranged with Mr. Roland Denne, Mayor of the City and Alderman Nagel Phelan to act as judges for the contest. Any complaints in this connection will be referred to these judges whose decision will be absolutely final.

IN PETERBOROUGH CHURCHES

St. James' United

The special service held on Sunday evening in St. James' United Church for boys, was exceptionally well attended, notwithstanding the stormy weather.

On the platform with the pastor, Rev. J. H. Dudgeon, were J. Ward, president of the Peterboro Boys' Council, C. H. Cutmore, who led the opening service and Howard Macdonald, Peterboro's representative at Boys' Parliament, the speaker of the evening.

A service of song preceded the regular service, led by Mr. Cutmore, assisted by the boy choir in the gallery. The Scripture lesson, the second epistle of Paul the Apostle to Timothy, 2nd chapter, was read by Mr. Ward, and the pastor led in prayer for the boys' work.

Howard Macdonald said he wished to present a clear understanding of what "boys' work" really means to the boys and to their parents.

He recalled the cry of King David, "Is the young man, Absalom, safe?" This anxiety would be unnecessary in the case of a modern parent whose son was identified with this boy's work. The program of the Boys' Council is essentially a spiritual program. Its objective a four-fold development of the boy as found in St. Luke's Gospel 2:52: "And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man." The intellectual, the physical the spiritual and the social sides making an all round character of the boy Jesus. In seeking the intellectual it is like looking at a mountain afar off. "If we see a light, we are learning in the 'Jesus way' but if we see only a misty cloud we are leaving out the spiritual influences in our lives," he said.

"With the co-operation of the church and of the parents together with the boys' program none of the thousands of boys who have entered this game of life need go unsaved. It means a great deal to the boy who is 'trying to put it across,' to have his backing. The boy problem is discussed at all the meetings of the Boys' Parliament.

"It requires $13,000 a year for the carrying on of this Boys' work and the objective is reached by the selling of bonds at from one to five dollars each. The benefit to the boy and the happiness it brings him, is your interest. The money is used for summer camp work, training schools for leaders, literature, etc. Unless the money is raised it means no C.S.E.T. for our boys, no Trail Rangers, no leaders. Peterboro's share in this fund is one hundred dollars."

An appeal was made for leaders in this boys' work by the recitation of a poem which closed Mr. Macdonald's address.

The anthem "'Sun of my Soul," by the choir added much to the interest of the service, especially the duet "My Faith looks up to Thee" sung by Mrs. Kitney and Mr. Albert Lee.

A chorus by the boy choir, who are members of Mr. Wilford's S. S.class, and a very sweet violin solo played by Arnold Spencer, concluded this splendid service for boys.

GEORGE STREET UNITED.

On Sunday morning the elders of George Street United Church were publicly introduced to the congregation and installed in office in a very solemn and impressive service conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. E. Todd.

Mr. Todd's subject for the morning service was "My Concern" and he quoted several passages of Scripture containing the personal note, which runs continuously through the New Testament.

"We are citizens of a big world yet we live in our own little world. Here from time to time we get glimpses of something in the big world. Generally we live pretty much under our own little vine and fig-tree and think of our own little world of responsibilities.

We often forget that every single soul in God's universe is linked up to God and bears a definite relationship to God.

"The ancient Hebrews taught us this, that every little thing in his life mattered to God I wonder if you and I can not learn from these ancient Hebrews? We say there is a difference between our world and theirs—Ours a bigger world in which science, philosophy and phsycology have taught us big things and to think in longer thoughts which will eventually rebound to the advantages of the human race.

"It depends on the thing we are looking for. God does not demand that we go out of our own thoughts and ways but He comes to us in our own ways.

"We live in an intellectual atmosphere and we do not see God in the everyday happening in our lives as clearly as in ancient days. Have we advanced so far in our civilization that in explaining the sequence of things we get away from God? Are we gripped by the great truth that God is in the everyday of life?

"Moses, Abraham and Isaiah taught us this: With all our assumption of learning we are undone unless we feel the presence of God in our lives. It sounds very fine to say: 'The Lord will perfect that which concerns the universe, the Lord will perfect that which concerns the human race', but is it complete if we do not say: 'The Lord will perfect that which concerns me'?

"What avail if you cannot find God at your own hearthstone, in your own home, in your own soul? I make an appeal for the personal note in my message to you this morning for your salvation. Jesus Christ died for you on the cross for your redemption.

"We heard a great deal about social welfare work and many take a supercillious attitude of the individual work of our fathers. While not underestimating social welfare work the individual work is the pivot on which the whole life of God turns. People come to the cross not in bunches or gangs but indivdually, and individually go out and give their life to others.

"The only way I can be of service is to allow His spirit to have an outlet through me into the lives of other men and the world."

At the evening service Mr. Todd's subject was "The First Adventurer", and he read the 12th chapter of Genesis.

"In the New Testament Abraham is spoken of as the man who went out, the first adventurer. The first man who went out in a new country not knowing where he was going. It would not be fitting to leave out the name of father Abraham, who left the world better on account of having lived, from our list of great adventurers.

"There are some men of whom we can say the same. The world has never been the same since he lived.

"Its a great thing to have some one rise up and call you blessed because you have passed this way. Take for example Moses, Abraham, Paul, Abraham Lincoln. What more can man ask than that we have helped the world?

"Abraham was confronted with a choice either to return to the land of his fathers or go into an unknown country. It is always a critical time when a man strikes out into unknown, unexplored country.

"Abraham had many reasons for wishing to stay in the land of his fathers. Wealth and plenty at home, home ties, and early relationship. All called him to remain but something within him called him to go west. It was not alone the spirit of adventure but because the Lord God commanded him to go into Canaan and he obeyed not knowing where he was going.

"I want to discuss a few things with you concerning Abraham's character. Honestly do you know the Bible at all? You give it a place of prominence in the home but are you familiar with its great characters? The Bible does not try to gloss over the weakness and failings of it characters as other books do. Other books make heroes of men, put them on pedestals.

"Abraham acted a deliberate lie. He and Sarah went out as brother and sister into this strange land. It was a very great sin of Abraham yet did the Bible try to gloss it over. Many of the outstanding figures of the Bible made grave mistakes yet God made great outstanding characters out of them. What could He do with us?

"This old world of ours is based on straight lines not on crooked. 'It pays to be honest, it pays to be true.' Honesty is the principle on which this old universe has its constitution. The man who would be permanently successful in business must found his business on straight lines.

"Young people if you are ever going to make anything of yourself in this world be above board and straight. I think Abraham discovered this principle. When Lot and Abraham were about to quarrel over the pasturage of their flocks, Abraham let Lot have his choice. He simply refused to quarrel over the matter. Lot took the fertile lands of the Jordan and Abraham went to the hills, yet Abraham died rich in all the things this world has to offer.

"One of the things that is filling this old world with so much pain and suffering is selfishness. It see it in the home, in business, and in the everyday happenings of life. It's the thing that is keeping back the kingdom of God. We have been praying 'Thy kingdom come' only with out lips but not willing to do the thing God wants us to do. Is not Abraham worth holding up as an ideal standard to emulate in our lives?

"Abraham obeyed God and went out into the strange land and God lifted him up above the level of a mere adventurer because he took God with him and built an altar unto the Lord.

"Many young men and women are here tonight who are now living away from home in a vastly different world from what they have been accustomed to. I challenge you to take God with you into your lives. My experience of life is that the man who takes God with him can not go far wrong. The man who goes up without God is ready for a fall.

"It is a grand thing to live in this day and generation, when there are so many great adventures at hand, but my brother, my sister, do not go without God. Every day means just this: No danger or harm can come to a man who has God with him.

"Abraham had God with him and every step of the way was marked out for him. Send us to our homes determined that God will have his way within our hearts, and that we will have his companionship wherever we go."

BORDER ARTIST WAS BORN HERE

Harold W. McCrea Gains Fame as Painter in Western Ontario.

IS KNOWN ABROAD.

Harold W. McCrea, an old Peterborough boy and son of G. R. McCrea of Water street has been winning laurels in Windsor and the Border Cities with his art work and to-day is regarded as one of Canada's most promising young artists. Gil Purcell of the Editorial Staff of the Border Cities Star has the following to say about the artist and two of his latest paintings:

The sloping roof of "Willistead" shone through the flickering green leaves of the trees that almost shut it from view, like an old English manor house nestling in the verdant shade of its arboreal protection. And, not far off, a playful stream rushed on its way over a gentle falls, bounding along on its rock-edged path and winding away into the distance—a touch of the natural beauty of the north country in Ontario. Miles, in fact, separate the civic building in Walkerville from the hurrying river of the Peterboro district, but together they grace the walls of the Prince Edward Hotel ballroom in the current art display.

"Willistead" and "A Northern River" are two of the gems in the diadem worn by Windsor in her first attempt to gain a place in the realm of art And most fittingly they are from the brush of a Windsor resident, a member of the Ontario Society of Artists—the Border's only contributor to the popular display of work by members of the Society.

As well as being offerings from the Border to the cause of art, "Willistead" and "A Northern River" are the links that bind the residence and the birthplace of their author in a representative union. For the Walkerville library is a pretty spot among the beauty places of the Border—where H. W. McCrea resides—and the lively grace of the river's surging rush is a touch of the beauty of the Peterboro district—where H. W. McCrea was born.

For nearly two years now, the man characterized by E. Wyly Grier, O.S.A., R.C.A., as "one of the most promising young artists of Canada" has made the Border Cities his home. Today he lives and paints at his Hall avenue residence, though much of his work is conducted at his studio in Detroit.

More than a score of years of study and labor have developed the artistic talent of the painter who left Peterboro as a youngster to study art in Toronto. Scarcely more than a boy, lanky Harold McCrea daubed away on rough canvases in the Ontario School of Arts under the vigilant eye and didactic care of the late William Cruickshank, R.C.A. Later the Peterboro lad transferred the sphere of his studies to the Chicago Art Institute where he added to the store of knowledge necessary to success in the game of brush and palette.

In the years since his first studies fitted him to travel under the name of artist, H. W. McCrea has been much more than a painter of landscapes. Much of his work has been done for newspapers, and he proved his adaptability to cartoon and feature work in line for news reproduction. Magazines and trade journals have busied him at commercial work, but the expectant thrill and mellow satisfaction of work in oils have ever exerted their charm over the Border Cities artist.

The work of the day, be it commercial or aesthetic, like the actors' play, "must go on." Yet, on occasion, it is set aside while the tall, thoughtful worker in his khaki smock draws aside the cover from an unfinished canvas and goes to work once more on the landscape "Winter" he is now preparing for the Ontario Society of Artists. A sketch made last winter is the guide, and the beauty of a bit of Ontario's north country is the subject for wha will be H. W. McCrea's latest "oil."

Even Alberta has posed to be pictured by his facile brush. More than a decade back, H. W. McCrea worked at art for his brother, a big-town printer in the small tow n of Hanna, Alberta. Together they handled art printing on a large scale in the tiny plant where H. G. McCrea publishes The Hanna Herald, a periodical accepted as among the finest weeklies in Western Canada. And in his idle moments, the McCrea of Windsor caught the drab sand-swept stretches of the Hand Hills as the pulsing sun dropped back of the distant Rockies, and in other rare moments of impressiveness.

Perhaps the most far-reaching effort of the practical, but retiring artist has been his work to aid the art-loving, naturally-talented youngsters whose been his work to aid the art-loving tricts, unaided, through lack of finances to follow studies in Toronto. Eight years ago, H. W. McCrea and Ralph McMullen, now associated in their daily work, joined with H. S. Palmer, R.C.A.; to conceive the National Institute of the Arts—a system of correspondence tutorials through which knowledge of art might be communicated to ambitious students in outlying districts. The late Sir Edmund Walker, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, was one of the prominent business men of Canada who sponsored the idea, but the supreme compliment to its feasibility came when the course of studies was purchased by the Ontario Government. Today the course is being distributed through the department of education in bulletin form to the schools of the province.

Three of Mr. McCrea's works were accepted by the committee and hung at the British Empire Exposition at Wembley, England, and numbers of his canvases are exhibited in private collections. He is represented by works in the National Gallery of Canada, at Ottawa, and in the Art Gallery of Toronto. He is a member of the Ontario Society of Artists, of the Graphic Arts Society and of the Toronto Arts and Letters Club.

In the years that Harold McCrea has journeyed through Canada and the United States with an eye ever on the alert for the scene that is made for the canvas, he has found no spot he prefers to the north country of Ontario.

Quebec Approves Gas Tax Increase

QUEBEC, Que., Feb. 23 (Canadian Press).—By a vote of 62 to 10 the Legislative Assembly yesterday approved of the bill increasing the gasoline tax from three to five cents.

The House also gave third reading to a bill to provide for the construction of a bridge across the Richelieu River at Sorel. It will cost $800,000.

Sage Tea Dandy to Darken Hair
By DOROTHY LANG

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a bottle of 'Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound' at any drug store. It costs only 75 cents. Millions of bottles of this famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound to-night and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

Never gets Nervous Never has Headaches

Gives TANLAC All The Credit

Gratitude, heartfelt gratitude, prompted Mrs. George Baker, 12 Earl Street, Kingston, Ont., to write the following letter about Tanlac. She feels that Tanlac really saved her daughter's life and is proud and happy to tell everyone about it.

"When I think of the wonderful change that has taken place in Kathleen's health, I feel like praising Tanlac to everyone. Before taking Tanlac, Kathleen was dreadfully weak and nervous and had such severe headaches she was almost frantic. Her sleep was broken and restless—she had deep circles under her eyes—and she would eat hardly anything. But Tanlac has built her up until she is bubbling over with health and energy. She eats heartily, sleeps soundly, never seems to get nervous or have a headache, and enjoys life to the limit. Tanlac is, indeed, a grand medicine."

For 20 years, Tanlac has been bringing sick people back to health. Fifty-two MILLION bottles of Tanlac have been used by people whose lives were being made miserable by disorders of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels—who were weak and tired—who suffered with Nervous Attacks, Dizzy Spells and Headaches. Thousands of happy, hearty men and women of today owe their continued health to Tanlac. Try it yourself. It costs less than 2c a dose—and your money will be promptly refunded if it does not give perfect satisfaction. Get it to-day at your druggist's.

No Woman is Beautiful Who is "Skinny"

Gain Pounds of Weight in 3 Weeks with Yeast and Iron—or pay nothing

All over the country women and men are amazed at the almost magic effects of IRONIZED YEAST. After a single course treatment—thin, weak bodies are brought up in weight and strength. Flesh made round and firm. Hollows filled out. Skin made satiny smooth with the glow of girlhood. How is this done?

Yeast and Iron have always been considered two of the greatest body and blood builders by medical science. They contain those vital food elements that build up flesh, correct skin and digestion troubles and enrich the blood IRONIZED YEAST contains these ingredients in a highly concentrated form which give results in half the time required by yeast and iron taken separately.

IRONIZED YEAST gives you all the weight-building benefits contained in various sickening oils without upsetting the stomach.

So it is natural that after taking IRONIZED YEAST in a single course treatment you will notice an amazing improvement in your health, appearance and spirits. The skin loses its sallow, pimply, blotchy look, pounds of good flesh are taken on and your digestion and bowel action are wonderfully improved.

So, don't have a skinny, weak body that looks as though it had never been fed enough. Don't go around with an ugly skin. Pleasant, tasty tablets in a handy package. Safe for everybody; contain no harmful drugs.

Standing makes back and legs ache

Factory workers tell how they relieve tired aching muscles

"... It's as good a job as any mill worker could ask—nice people to work with, good pay, fair conditions—but a factory job anywhere is bound to be hard work."

ONLY the mill workers themselves know how legs and feet can ache and how lame backs can be after a long day walking up and down a spinning frame.

Something they must have to take the ache out—to relieve the stiffness and fatigue which might otherwise make it necessary for them to miss many a day's work.

Most of them look so fresh and untired—so strong and active as they go to and from the factories. And so we asked them what they do to prevent aching and strain from standing at a spinning frame all day.

From three-quarters of them came promptly the answer, "I never use anything but Sloan's."

Everywhere the leading remedy for muscular pain

Everywhere you go you hear the same story from people whose work brings a strain on their muscles.

Read the experience of this New York woman—

"I had such a backache I didn't know what to do. I used Sloan's Liniment, and in half an hour I was better. Now, when anyone has a pain, I say, 'Use Sloan's.'"

Another woman writes—

"The pain in my back was like a knife stab and it left me helpless. Sloan's Liniment was given me to ease the pain and I am now able to do all my own work."

Sloan's Liniment is scientific—absolutely reliable because it works by the quickest, surest method known to relieve pain. It stirs up the circulation—brings new blood right to the spot where the pain is, sweeps away the cause of the trouble.

You can get it in any drug store. A bottle that will last you a long time for 35 cents. Use it for—

Rheumatism Lame muscles
Sciatica Stiff neck
Lumbago Colds and Neuralgia congestions
Sprains and bruises

A company doctor who cares for hundreds of workers every year says: "People whose work exposes them to strain or to damp and cold usually suffer from a good deal of muscular soreness. We find that Sloan's gives them quick, positive relief."

Factory workers say that after a long day on their feet they find Sloan's their best help for tired backs and legs

SLOAN'S Endorsed universally by those who do the world's hard work

Obituary

MRS. CATHERINE O'GRADY.

DOURO, February 23.—The death occurred in Peterborough at the residence of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Alberta O'Grady, of Mrs. Catherine O'Grady, a lifelong resident of the township. Deceased had reached the ripe old age of eighty-eight years, and had been in failing health for the last two or three years. She is survived by one son, Patrick O'Grady of Douro, and four daughters, Mrs. Mary Condon of Douro, Miss Margaret O'Grady of Peterborough, Mrs. Thomas Raymond and Mrs. Jeremiah O'Connor, of Rochester, N.Y. Her husband and nine children predeceased her. Mrs. O'Grady was a kindly neighbor and a devoted wife and mother, and is another of the splendid pioneers who have passed to their eternal reward. Besides her immediate family there are thirty grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Owing to the two-day storm and bad roads, many were prevented from attending the funeral, which was held on Tuesday morning from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Condon, to St. Joseph's Church and Cemetery. Rev. J. F. McGuire sang the requiem mass and conducted the services at the vault. The pall-bearers were: Patrick O'Brien, Jeremiah Moher, Edward Sullivan, William McManus, Douro, and Charles and Patrick McNully, Norwood, nephews.

MRS. HUGH STEWART.

STIRLING, February 23. — Mrs. Stewart, widow of Hugh Stewart, passed away on Friday after a short illness. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon at her late home, interment being in Stirling Cemetery. The deceased was in her seventy-fifth year. Her maiden name was Kyle, and with her husband she was one of the pioneers of the northern part of the Township of Rawdon. About twenty-five years ago they moved to the village, on South John Street, where Mr. Stewart passed away in June, 1927.

Mrs. Stewart leaves to mourn her death, three daughters, Mrs. John McGowan, Mrs. Clarke in Stirling, and Miss Tryphena, also one son.

MRS. W. KEEGAN.

STIRLING, February 23. — Mrs. Keegan, widow of William Keegan, of Front Street West, ill for a short time, became suddenly worse, and passed away on Friday evening.

The funeral took place on Monday afternoon from St. John's Anglican Church, interment being made in the Stirling Cemetery. Rev. Mr. Levason of Bonarlaw officiated in the absence of Rev. Rural Dean Byers, because of illness. One daughter, Gertrude, is left to mourn the loss of a devoted mother.

HARRY MEIKLEJOHN.

STIRLING, February 23. — The illness of Harry Meiklejohn, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Meiklejohn, which was reported last week, proved fatal, notwithstanding all the medical skill that was called to his aid. On the advice of Dr. W. T. Connell, Professor of Medicine at Queen's Medical College, Kingston, he was taken to Belleville General Hospital, where Dr. Bogart, of Kingston, performed an operation on Wednesday last. The patient rallied for a time, but on Friday it was known that no hope was held out, and he passed away at five o'clock in the evening.

Harry was a great favorite at the school, and his fellow-students of the Stirling High School, accompanied by Mr. Halpenny, the principal, attended the funeral in a body, acting as bearers of the profuse floral offerings.

The pall-bearers were: Ned Potts, Duncan Marshall, Clinton McGee, Thomas Ward, Donald Morton, and James Hulin.

The service was held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, the auditorium being filled to capacity long before the funeral hour. Rev. Robert Simpson, of Woodville, a former pastor, was the preacher ,assisted in the service by Rev. A. N. Reid, B.A., minister of St. Andrew's, and Rev. C. W. Barrett, of St. Paul's United Church. The hymns sung were favorites of the deceased, who was in his sixteenth year, and leaves his parents and one brother Allen, who is in his first year at Queen's University.

JAMES P. COLLINS.

The death of James P. Collins occurred at St. Joseph's Hospital on February 16. The deceased was in his seventieth year, and death, following a serious operation, came as a surprise to his many friends.

His entire life was spent on his farm in the Township of Otonabee, and was characterized by his increasing interest in municipal and school affairs. All could bear testimony to the principles of honesty and charity which governed his life.

On Saturday morning, February 18, the funeral cortege proceeded from his late residence to St. Joseph's Church and Cemetery. Solemn requiem high mass was sung by Rev. Joseph P. Collins of Parry Sound, son of the deceased, assisted by Rev. J. J. O'Brien of Sacred Heart Church, Peterborough, as deacon, and Rev. K. A. Corkery, St. Peter's Cathedral, Peterborough, as sub-deacon. Rev. H. Black of Lindsay acted as master of ceremonies. Rev. J. V. McAuley of Ennismore and Rev. James McGuire of Douro assisted in the choir.

The absolution was imparted by His Lordship the Rt. Rev. M. J. O'Brien, of Peterborough, who also spoke at length of the ideal Catholic home and the importance of remembering the purpose for which man was created. In conclusion, His Lordship referred to the perfect abandonment with which this good man rendered his soul to his Creator, and the consolation of a father having a son in the holy priesthood to impart to him the final absolution.

The following clergy were also present in the sanctuary: Rev. P. J. McGuire, Rev. P. Costello, Rev. J. J. Guiry, Rev. G. Maher, Rev. C. Carrol and Rev. C. Maloney, all of Peterborough; Rev. P. J. Galvin of Downeyville and Rev. J. J. McCarthy of Norwood.

The funeral was largely attended by the many friends and acquaintances of the deceased. The Holy Name Society, of which the late Mr. Collins was a member, lead the procession from the church to the cemetery.

Left-Handed Writers Also Praise this Pen

Left-handed writers as well as right-handed writers who prefer a round point, praise the yellow banded Waterman's Number Seven. This point, and the five other styles in the new Number Seven Series, already have made thousands of friends. The various nibs, distinguished by the colour bands around the pen cap, suit all styles of hand-writing. Read the colour index in this advertisement. Then visit your local Waterman dealer and select your nib by colour.

Guaranteed since 1883 and until 1983—one hundred years of pen service.

Yellow—ROUNDED—a different pen nib. Makes a heavy characteristic line without pressure. Suits left-handed writers.
Pink—FLEXIBLE, FINE—as resilient as a watch spring. Fine, tempered point, ground fine to shade at any angle. Loved by stenographers.
Purple—STIFF, FINE—writes without pressure. Makes a thin, clear line and small figures with unerring accuracy. Popular with accountants.
Red—STANDARD—suits most writers. A splendid correspondence nib. Medium flexibility. For home and general use.
Green—RIGID—tempered to armor-plate hardness. Will not shade even under heavy pressure. Unequalled for manifolding. The salesman's friend.
Blue—BLUNT—an improved stub nib. This point makes a broad line. May be held in any position. Liked by rapid writers.

TRENT RIVER, Feb. 23.—The Efficiency League met last Thursday evening at the church. Next Monday, February 27, the League is being entertained by the Havelock League, program to be furnished by the visiting League.

Miss L C Chaplin, assistant teacher at the Public School, has sufficiently recovered from her recent illness to be out again.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Dafoe of Havelock have been spending a few days with the latter's sister, Mrs. A. Wight and family at "Cedar Isle."

The pupils of the Public School held their Valentine concert on Friday afternoon in conjunction with the Junior Red Cross meeting which is held every Friday afternoon.

On Saturday the Store closes at six o'clock as usual. So Saturday afternoon is a busy time. Why not plan your week-end shopping for Friday?

Friday Is Bargain Day.

And throughout the Store Friday Bargain Tickets mark merchandise that is substantially reduced in price. Outstanding savings on things for the home and things personal make Friday a most advantageous day to visit the Teco Store.

Here listed are bargains for tomorrow, each one a thrift opportunity well worth taking advantage of. The range and variety of these items is most attractive, but in some cases quanties are limited.

So we urge you to SHOP EARLY!

Friday Is Bargain Day

If Your Shopping List is Long!

—Ask the first clerk who waits on you for a Transfer Card.

—No matter how many purchases you make there is but one money transaction, and this when you are all through your shopping, at the Transfer Pay-In Office, Second Floor.

—You can enjoy all of your visit to the Store without the inconvenience and worry of looking after your parcels as you go about.

—When delivery of goods is desired, you arrange this also at the Transfer Pay-In Office, all purchases being arranged for at once. This saves time, and also minimizes the danger of a mistake in address.

Shopping by a Transfer is undoubtedly the simplest and pleasantest way if your shopping list is long.

Teco Prices

Teco Prices ought to be low, and are low, for several reasons. First, our unequalled buying facilities enable us to buy at bottom prices. Second, our Cash Dealing avoids the extra work and losses attending the credit system. Third, our restriction on Delivery in the way of an extra charge on orders under $5.00 on portable goods. Seeing is believing. You are cordially invited to inspect our Prices and look through our Stock. No one will be importuned to buy.

TWO LAKEFIELD LADIES HONORED

Presentation Made to Mrs. Waldon and Mrs. Marling.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 23.—The members of the W.A. of St. John's Church gathered at the Rectory on Friday evening, February 17, for a double purpose, to make presentations to Mrs. Marling and to Mrs' Trude Waldon, and also to enjoy a pleasant social evening. About twenty members were present, Mrs. Marling, herself, being the late arrival. Referring to Mrs. Marling's prediliction for hockey matches it was jokingly suggested that she might have gone to see the game, but she duly arrived.

After all were assembled Mrs. Mahood read a short address and presented Mrs. Waldon with a combined prayer and hymn book, as a remembrance of the W.A., on the eve of her departure from the village. Miss F. M. Atwood presented her with a bunch of daffodils. Following immediately Mrs. Mahood read the following address to Mrs. Marling:

"Dear Mrs. Marling: We, the members of St. John the Baptist Church W.A., ask you to accept this life membership certificate and pin as a recognition on our part of your many years of faithful service as a member and officer of our society; praying that God may grant you many years to enjoy your lifemembership and to continue the good work which you so willingly have done."

Mrs. Mahood then conducted the brief service which is arranged for the reception of life members and presented the certificate, whil Mrs. Barkr pinned on the gold badge. Mrs' Junkin presented a bouquet of daffodils which was sent from Toronto by her sister-in-law, Miss Barling. The ceremony was followed by the ladies all uniting in the Auxiliary prayer after which Rev. W. J. Creighton gave the blessing.

The whole affair was a genuine surprise to both ladies as each had been asked to be present to see each other receive her gift, so when the double presentation was made each was quite overcome by her part of it. Both Mrs. Marling and Mrs. Waldon thanked the members of the W.A. heartily for their gifts and the kind thoughts which prompted them.

The remainder of the evening was spent in a social manner with games and conversation and refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. Creighton are ideal hosts and there was no formality or stiffness and the evening was a red letter night in the history of the W.A.

Personals

Mr. Everett Graham of Wesley was in the village on Saturday.

Miss Mabel Walker of Peterborough was the guest of Miss McKibbin over the week-end.

Miss Ray spent the week-end in Peterborough.

Mr. Ernest Waldon has returned from a month's visit with relatives in Detroit.

Miss Mary Ogilvie and Master Hugh Ogilvie of Toronto are guests of Mr. G. G. Ogilvie.

Mrs. Harry Everett of Chandos is spending a few days in the village.

Mrs. G. G. Connell was in Toronto last week.

Miss Zelda Northey of Peterborough spent the week-end at her home in the village.

Mr. Fred Hudson of Pickering College, Newmarket, was a week-end guest at "The Grove."

Mrs. J. H. Payne is spending a week at Warsaw.

Mrs. Grier and Mrs. Creasor entertained at a bridge tea on Wednesday afternoon last. Prizes were won by Mesdames Wood and Fitzgerald.

Saturday night was Band Benefit Night at the Rink, and the proceeds were given to the Citizens' Band, which furnished music every Saturday night throughout the season. There was a good crowd, good firm ice, and a pleasant evening was spent by everyone.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Charlton were in Peterborough on Wednesday last.

Miss Mary Mackenzie was the guest of friends in Peterborough for a few days last week.

Mrs. Armstrong of Toronto is visiting her sisters, Mrs. F. Morin and Mrs. A' Wannamaker.

Mrs. I. D. Church of Mount Julian visited friends in the village last week.

Miss Florence Mackenzie is visiting friends in Toronto.

Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, February 23. — Charles H. Davidson is attending the Good Roads Convention in Toronto this week.

Mr. George Benor, Peterborough, was a visitor to town for a few days this week.

The High School Cadets are entered for the Dominion ammunition contest and are turning in some excellent targets. Some of their scores are as high as sixty-nine, with a possible of seventy. There are various awards for this contest, varying all the way from bronze medals to gold medals and parchments for super-marksmen.

When a local business man was charged in police court with breach of the L.C.A., or with a charge relative thereto, it was found that the wrong charge had been brought, and it was thrown out. Another charge was laid under the criminal code and has not yet been heard in court. The man being ill and unable to appear, his physician was summoned to testify to this effect, and the case laid over till a future date.

CAREW TROPHY IS STILL HELD

Millbrook Rink Defeats Challengers From Stouffville Club.

FENELON FALLS NEXT.

MILLBROOK, February 23. — The Carew Challenge Cup retains its place among the collection of silverware displayed in J. Steele's store window, and brought home from various bonspiels by rinks of the local club, having been won for the second successive time this season, by the score of 14-11, from Stouffville in the game played here on Wednesday, February 22, beginning about 1 p.m.

Keen ice, and a fine exhibition of good, clean curling by both rinks, featured the game throughout. Three years ago a rink from Stouffville came here to play, taking home with them the Carew Trophy after it had been held for a scant two weeks by the local club.

The issue was by no means certain from the start on Wednesday, for it was not until the fifth end that Millbrook scored at all, the visitors then being 6, and 3 points being chalked up for the local four. At half-time the score stood 6-10, with Millbrook leading, and from that time on it was evident that the rink skipped by J. Steele was likely to retain the cup. The rinks playing were:

Stouffville.	Millbrook.
L. Button	R. Smith
C. Armstrong	Geo. Hetherington
T. Birkett	L. C. Russell
W. Saunders	J. Steele
Skip ... 11	Skip ... 14

By ends, the score was:

Stouffville . . . 1212000010100012—11
Millbrook . . . 0000342101011100—14

Sixteen-end games, and a ten-day time limit between play are compulsory conditions attached to the passing along of the Carew Cup. This handsome trophy was donated by Frank Carew, of Lindsay, some years ago, during a bonspiel in his home town, the curling clubs represented by the rinks competing at that 'spiel being made eligible to enter a challenge for the cup.

The rink playing here on Wednesday, and skipped by that veteran of the ice, J. Steele, was not the one which has twice brought home the Carew Trophy, and successfully defended it here against Cobourg within recent weeks.

Mr. Steele, who has been a regular attendant at the Peterborough bonspiel for the past thirty-five years, made more than one of his famous shots on Wednesday, saving the situation when it was quite apparent that only a very clever play could prevent the visitors from making a heavy count.

As far as can be learned, Fenelon Falls is next in line in the list of challengers for the Carew Cup.

DON'T SUFFER THE TORTURES OF RHEUMATISM

If you want gratifying relief from those awful knife-like pains and drive out those dull grinding aches take one teaspoonful of Rheuma night and morning. You should soon realize that when Rheuma goes in rheumatic agony goes out.

Rheuma helps to force the dangerous poisons out of the system in the natural way—that's the secret of Rheuma's success.

It matters not whether you are tortured with pain, suffering with sore inflamed joints or distressed with occasional twinges, Rheuma is guaranteed by McDermid & Jury, and all druggists, to end rheumatic suffering or money back.

Rheumatism is a dangerous disease. It often affects the heart and causes death. If you have it in the slightest degree get a bottle of Rheuma to-day.

Symptoms That the Blood is Thin Should Not Be Neglected.

Weak, lacking in strength, energy and ambition, nervous, sleepless, poor appetite, digestion disturbed—these are the symptoms of a great majority of people who have been benefited by the use of Dr. William's Pink Pills. The great value of this medicine in cases of this kind is proved by the statement of Mrs. W. Hensher, Kingston, Ont., who says:—"Following a severe cold I was left in a run-down, nervous condition; I had pains in the back and limbs and could scarcely move about. I did not sleep well at night and was despondent and discouraged. I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and can truthfully say that after the use of six boxes, the change in my condition was nothing short of marvellous. The pains vanished, I slept well, had a good appetite, and in every way felt well and strong. I also gave the pills to my daughter, who was in an anaemic condition and feeling quite miserable, and in her case, too, they restored health. I hope my experience may help some other weak person."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box by The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. A little book, "Building Up the Blood", which contains many useful health hints, will be sent free on request.

DO NOT STUFF TO GAIN

One of the most common questions asked me by correspondents is "How can I gain weight?" There are perhaps just as many who are trying to lose excess avoirdupois.

While the process of taking off fatty weight is very simple and certain definite results, this does not hold true with those who are excessively thin and wish to add to their weight. Their problem is a much more difficult one.

In the first place, we must realize that some are born with a "tendency" to a slender body, while others are inclined to be stout. That is, we are born with a leaning to one of several types. This inclination cannot be changed to any great extent in one lifetime. One will usually observe a resemblance to one of the parents or grand-parents with similar physical and mental characteristics. If it is advantageous or desirable to change this "inclination' it is possible to do so to some slight extent, but no great modification can be expected, such as to displace the tendency to be lean with a disposition to be fat.

As a race horse is born and not made, and differs in many respects from the plow horse, even do we humans come into the world according to various types. The race horse is always lean, and becomes useless and short lived if an attempt is made to put weight on him and turn him into a plow horse. The plow horse is "naturally" heavy, and, whereas his best efficiency may be obtained if not allowed to grow too fat, his general contour and disposition are such that we can never make a lean, fast, race horse of him.

If you are naturally thin, you may, by diligent training, develop a beautiful, graceful body of a race horse type, with a keen mind, and built for a long life with plenty of mental and physical alertness; but do not make the mistake of ever expecting to grow "large and bulky!! If it were possible to do this the results would be very disappointing, and those who attempt it are only courting disease and ill health

When I am asked the question, "Can I gain weight?" I always answer, "I do not know. I do know that you can become healthy if you are willing to live a healthful life, with healthful habits, but I will give you no advice designed primarily to make you gain weight."

Of ocurse, if you are actually "skinny" and have an emaciated and gaunt body, you can always develop your body up to a certain perfection of grace and comliness which will give you a beautiful form, of slender type. The ideal to keep in mind should be one of PERFECT HEALTH, so do not be content until you achieve your desire for health.

Your doctor can tell you by various tests if you are 100% efficient, and your mirror will not deceive you if you are satisfied with a look of strength and health, without the desire for "mere bulk." The scales alone cannot measure health, so do not be concerned if your weight does not tally with your height according to average measurements.

Study how to be healthy, and improve the efficiency of all of your bodily functions by such remedies as diet and exercise. Train your mind and body to be more poised! Do not allow such thoughts as "fear," "hatred," "criticism," or "intolerance" to control you, as these destructive emotions are a potent factor in keeping you thin.

Eat only what you can digest and turn into good tissue, and, under no circumstances should you ever attempt to increase your weight by any "stuffing' process. This will only be productive of such symptoms as biliousness, coated tongue, gall bladder and liver trouble, and innumerable diseases of the digestive organs.

Do not be misled by attractive advertisements of remedies to make you gain weight! There is no law to stop these promises, but you will be wise if you remember that nature cannot be bribed into making miraculous changes to suit your whim, and that the only chance you may have for gaining a beautiful body will be to live according to natural laws.

Questions and Answers.

Question: B.I.G. writes: "In one of your articles you say that certain exercises will straighten one's back, no matter how crooked. I have had a lateral curvature for thirty years. Am thirty-three now. My spine is crooked, left hip being larger, and right ribs protruding. Is there anything I can do to correct this, and if so how long would it take?"

Answer: You must have misunderstood the article where you thought I said that certain exercises would straighten any kind of a crooked back. If there is not complete ankylosis, a curved spine can certainly be straightened to some extent through developing the muscles which should hold it in position, but a complete cure is not always possible due to the bony changes which hold the spine out of its normal position. The exercises you should take are those where all of the back muscles are used, with special attention being given to those exercises which will develop the parts of your spine where the muscles have degenerated by not being used. A competent lture instructor will beabl able to show you these corrective exer ises which you can do in your own-home.

The Lucky Star of the Home

IS YOUR HOME under the sign of the Blue Star Seal? If it is, then you know how complete is the convenience and help of a Gas Range at its best.

The Blue Star Seal is a symbol of approval placed on gas ranges that conform to the tests of the Laboratories of the Canadian and the American Gas Associations. These tests are based on standards of safety, efficiency and durability set by the Bureau of Standards, the Public Health Service, and the gas industry of the North American Continent.

The seal of approval means that the gas ranges thus marked are constructed properly, that they will operate with the highest degree of efficiency and economy, that they will hold up and be a permanent source of satisfaction, help and safety.

The Blue Star is not a manufacturer's trade mark, but the Seal of recommendation of a century-old industry.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1928.

Good and evil aspects conflict today, according to astrology which reads in the stars certain menacing influences.

It is a day in which the mind may reflect clouds and for that reason amusement should be sought, especially by the aged.

The seers explain that in this new era the planetary government is unfavorable for the aged, causing them to be despondent and even desperate.

While the year will bring to an end many famous careers and seemingly develop few to take the places of those who occupied the seats of the mighty it is to be remarkable for its real progress, the seers declare.

This should be a favorable day for merchants and for all engaged in strictly commercial pursuits.

Real estate is subject to the best possible direction of the stars, all the signs indicating a growing desire on the part of persons of every class to possess lands.

One of the prophecies for the year is that a discovery will make it possible to irrigate the desert in a wholesale manner that will mean added wealth for the nation.

Mines and mining are subject to benefic aspects making for new discoveries of minerals and for novel methods of treating them.

This is another unfavorable day for dealing with one's personal finances and it is wise to delay racing tell-tale figures.

All planetary signs appear to teach that thrift and the wise administration of one's income will be of foremost importance in the coming year.

While this configuration prevails it is wise not to seek any sort of political support for those who wield power may be difficult to deal with.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a fortunate year, but they should avoid extravagance.

Children born on this day probably will have very busy successful lives. The subjects of this sign usually enjoy being in the limelight.

Petes Defeat Port Hope Intermediates 8-4

WRIGHT'S ALL STARS PLAY GOOD COMBINATION HOCKEY TO DEFEAT LAKESHORE CREW

Overcome Early Lead Obtained By Visitors in First Period.

SHARP STRUGGLE.

Wright and Brennan Put Up Good Game—Few Penalties.

Manager Eddie Wright's All-Stars gave Port Hope Intermediates a real tussle on Brock Street ice last night, and when the final bell was rung the locals were up on the long end of the score, eight goals to four. The Peterborough fans were introduced to a new line-up, including Wright and Brennan of the Havelock Intermediates, and players from both the local Junior and O.H.A. teams.

Except for the second period the struggle was close throughout with the visitors from the Lakeshore town always pushing hard. Manager Peter Brown had on his team F. Hills, Crossett, R. Ware, and Micks, players who have in former years brought hockey fame to that town.

The visitors had the best in the first period, and ran in two goals to the locals' one. The Peterborough forward line, which was playing its first game together, was rather disorganized, and as a result J. LeBarr was called upon to make many saves. In the second the local forwards struck their pace, and with playing combination hockey they scored five goals and held the visitors scoreless. In the third both teams tallied twice. Port Hope placed four men up, but their speed had slackened and they failed to take advantage of many opportunities to score that were handed to them. The Petes in this period were more outlucked and only for the splendid game played by Micks in goal, the score would have been higher.

The game throughout was very clean, and Referee Walter Jackson only handed out two penalties, one to each team. Port Hope was a heavier team, and their checking told on some of the light local players. The two visitors from Havelock showed up to good advantage, and appeared to play better hockey than on their previous occasions in this city. Wright was always a dangerous man, and with his stick handling he beat the Port Hope defence many times. He and Brennan accounted for four of Peterborough's goals. McFee and Foley played a good game on the defence and stopped many of the visitors' rushes. McFee scored twice and Foley once. Williams in centre played a good game, and although he was up against a good man on the Port Hope team he upheld well his end of the game. Jarvis, LeBarr and Cripps were used as subs., always playing flashy hockey.

For the visitors R. Ware was the leading goal getter with two to his credit. He along with Crossett played a defensive game, and handed out many stiff body checks in their area. F. Hills and Crossett scored the other two goals for the visitors.

The Line-up.

Peterborough—Goal, J. LeBarr; defence, McFee and Foley; centre, Williams; wings, Cripps and Wright; subs., Brennan, Jarvis, and Ted LeBarr.

Port Hope—Goal, Micks; deefnce R. Ware and Crossett; centre, K. Ware; wings, A. Hills and Hagerman; subs., F. Hills and Francey.

Referee—Walter Jackson.

First Period.

The game started with Cripps going strong in the Port Hope territory, but in a few moments the visitors pushed ahead and carried the play right up in front of the local nets. Hagerman brought Jack LeBarr to his knees, but failed to tally when the Peterborough goalie cleared the puck nicely. McFee tripped Hagerman when he was making a rush for a sure goal, and was banished to the penalty box for two minutes. Port Hope tried often to score and kept the game in the Peterborough territory, but were unable to take advantage of the odd man. With all on and after five minutes of play, Brennan took a nice pass from Williams for the first goal. When the goal was scored, Micks was out along the left boards trying to check Williams and the mouth of the net was left open. For the next few moments Port Hope played their best hockey of the evening, and after twelve minutes and 3 seconds of play, R. Ware was rewarded with a goal which beat the local defence and he picked the corner of the net. In three minutes more Crossett stick-handled between the defence and beat LeBarr for Port-Hope's second goal. In the remaining time LeBarr saved often for the locals, and kept the visitors from tallying.

Second Period.

The second was all Peterborough's, the visitors appeared to be dead, and in practically every position they were outskated. Williams started the tallying when he hooked one in around the end of the net. Wright took a pass from LeBarr and scored the second in six minutes of play, and 55 seconds later Foley took a pass from McFee for the locals' third goal. In exactly three minutes again Foley and McFee went down the ice together and with nice combination McFee took a pass from Foley in front of the net and scored another goal when Micks was sprawling on the ice. Brennan on an individual rush scored the fifth goal of the period.

Third Period.

The third opened with both teams going strong, carrying the puck from end to end, with much hard checking. Wright scored first and then Port Hope tried a little combination and were rewarded when R. Ware slipped in his second goal of the game from the left boards. During this period Brennan and McFee checked most effectively, and after ten minutes of play McFee tallied from the blue line. Two minutes later F. Hills scored from in front of the net. Crossett was penalized for mixing it up around the Port Hope net, but the timekeepers were lenient, and only allowed him to serve a few seconds. Port Hope threw all their men up in an endeavor to snatch the game from the fire, but the locals were too much for them, and gave Micks several interesting moments around his own net.

The Summary.

First Period:
1—Peterborough, Brennan, 5min.
2—Port Hope, R. Ware, 7min.
3—Port Hope, Crossett, 3min.
Second Period:
4—Peterborough, Williams, 3min.
5—Peterborough, Wright, 3min.
6—Peterborough, Foley, 55sec.
7—Peterborough, McFee, 3min.
8—Peterborough, Brennan, 4min.
Third Period:
9—Peterborough, Wright, 1.50min.
10—Port Hope, R. Ware, 5min.
11—Peterborough, McFee, 4min.
12—Port Hope, F. Hills, 4min.
Penalties — Port Hope, Crossett; Peterborough, McFee.

Pell Defends Title In Racquets Final

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 23. Canadian Press. — Clarence C. Pell, American racquets champion, defended his title to-day at the expense of C. N. Bruce, former champion of Great Britain. In the finals of the national racquets championships at the Tennis and Racquet Club, Pell defeated his English adversary in straight sets 15-8 15-11, 15-13.

It was the third meeting of the two men, who are both 42 year old veterans of the game. Last year in the British champions, and last week in the gold racquet tournament at Tuxedo, Bruce was the victor. In yesterday's match, however, Pell had control of the situation throughout.

CAMPBELLFORD WINS AT HOME

Defeats Madoc 8-2 in Trent Valley League Game.

MANY PENALTIES.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 23.— Set down on ken ice in their own home town, the Campbellford team showed rare form last night when they won from Madoc by a six goal lead, with the score standing at eight to two. The game was a postponed fixture from earlier in the season when soft weather had made natural ice unfit for hockey. The Madoc team beat Campbellford in Madoc to the tune of two to one. Last night the home team appeared to have the edge on the play practically the whole of the time. Though their penalties were thick and heavy during the last two periods, they managed to score four goals in each of the first and third periods. The Madoc sextette held them scoreless during the second spasm.

The number of tempers which got beyond control of the players was a noticeable feature of the game, but on no occasion did anything like a fistic display take place. A couple of thrown sticks, "dirty looks," and threats muttered when the referee was out of earshot were the chief evidences of really hot tempers. On one occasion the Madoc goaltender, Lennahan, left his net to protest to the referee, but he was sent back. His grievance was that Cowell had a most irritating habit of taking a shot at him should the puck be in Cowell's possession when the bell rang. Since Cowell is noted for the speed and accuracy of his shots, it is not to be wondered at that Lennahan registered a complaint.

Nor did Cowell keep his "Irish" continually in Sunday school trim. More than one of his penalties was directly due to the fact that something was making him more than slightly peeved. Vernon Weir, of Belleville, as referee, had his hands full trying to keep things straight. When Madoc scored their second goal in the second period he was called upon to exercise his authority when the local players protested the counter. The goal was ordered to be counted, however, and the game proceeded. When Cowell went to shoot for the eighth goal for Campbellford a moment before time was up. Lennahan stepped out of the net and let him score. Cowell did not hesitate to accept the invitation.

Of the two goals scored by the visitors, one goes to Watson and the other to McConnell. The eight local goals are divided among four players, Cowell gets four, Ingram two, Ibey and Reynolds each get credit for one.

First Period

From the outset the home team showed up better than the visitors, and although there were breathless moments close to both nets, Campbellford got the first count when Cowell scored on a shot from the Madoc blue line. Later, Huck McArthur took a trip down the ice with Cowell on his left wing. Cowell scored on McArthur's pass. Cowell got his third goal from about centre ice at the Madoc blue line. Things began to look pretty bad for the visitors, and Ingram's solo rush which ended in the fourth goal for the home team, did not brighten the situation appreciably for them. Blue was hurt in a body-check and had to be taken to the dressing rooms. Ibey took his place. Ingram, for Campbellford, was right up to form last night and played a wonderful game during the entire period. Fox, in goal, added laurels to his already enviable reputation. Madoc failed to score at all during the period and the bell found the count at four to one in favor of the home team. During this period, there were no penalties given either side.

Second Period

In the second period, Madoc seemed to hit somethink like their usual stride. Although Fox made some wonderful stops, Watson fooled him soon after the play started. Cowell drew a penalty for slugging and both McArthur and Watson were sent off for an interference with each other. Blue was the next to be penalized and his was for a trip. Cowell came back on for a few minutes but returned to the penalty box for an accidental trip. Blue regained his liberty when the game was pressing hard around Fox and the Campbellford net. Cowell came back and there were six men on each team once more. Just when it looked impossible, Fox stopped a short fast shot and the puck stuck in his pads. Ingram got two minutes on the bench for checking; his stick tripped the Madoc player when he stepped on it. Fox returned to the limelight when he saved both an open shot and a red hot rebound.

McConnel took a shot at the Campbellford net and the Campbellford players contended that the puck did not go in the net but hit the edge of the top piece. The upshot of the argument was that the goal was counted and the goal umpire relieved of his duty. Almost as soon as the game began again, Ibey got a penalty for an accidental trip. When he tried to make up for lost time by following in after an open rebound but the gong rang with the score still four to two and without Campbellford having scored at all during the period.

Third Period.

Nothing of special interest happened in the third period till Cowell took a shot at the Madoc goal just after the referee rang his bell. Lennahan left his net to protest to the referee but returned after a brief conference and continued the game. Cowell got another penalty for tripping. This seemed a bit thick to the Campbellford fans and they made their opinoins known by their yells of protest. Fox's work during the next few minutes was worthy of the hall of fame. Ingram got the fifth goal for Campbellford on a back hand shot from fairly close to the net. Ibey got the sixth counter almost immediately afterward on a pass from McArthur. Huck McArthur was easily the star player during the final period. Blue got his head jammed against the boards and had to be carried off. Cowell came on in his place. Ingram got his name in the casualty list when he slammed into the boards at the Madoc end and had to be relieved by Reynolds. This left the home team without any subs till Ingram was able to continue.

Reynolds scored the seventh goal for Campbellford by quick work after an off side face off. With the score seven to two for the local team, Lennahan stepped out of the net when Cowell shot the eighth goal a moment before the gong ended the game with one of the highest scores of the league for any game this season.

Campbellford is scheduled to meet Tweed in Tweed on Monday night for a replay of the game which Tweed protested earlied in the season. It is understood that arrangements are being made for a special train to Tweed for the game. During the season considerable interest has been shown by local fans and there seems no reasonable doubt but that the train will be well loaded.

The teams:

Referee: Vernon Weir, Belleville.

GRADS WIN SECOND GAME

Defeat Rink Rats in Lakefield District League Fixture.

CLEAN HOCKEY.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 23. — The second game of the District League was played on Tuesday evening between the Rink Rats and the Grove Grads. The former team was lacking several members who were on duty with the fire brigade at the Tate fire but nevertheless the team made a creditable showing. The Grads were lacking Hudson, their trusty forward, but had two new players, Kelly and Bagg, both of whom gave a good account of themselves. John Sabatino handled the bell to the general satisfaction of all present. Hamilton was the 'strong man' of the Grads' team but he was held down by the consistent checking of the Rats and failed to score as often as he otherwise would. Stabler and Northey did some neat combination work but they in their turn were checked steadily. As the game advanced combination was replaced with individual 'lone star' efforts. The game was clean and was minus any penalties.

The first goal was scored by Loosemore one minute after the game opened, and two minutes later Northey made it a tie; one minute later Stabler scored, and ten minutes later scored again. Hamilton found the nets two minutes afterward and the first period closed with a score of 2-3 to the advantage of the Rats.

The second period was the property of the Grads as they rolled up four counts to one registered by the Rats. The scoring was Loosemore, 4 minutes, Bagg 2 minutes, Northey 3 minutes, Loosemore, 1 minute and Hamilton 2 minutes.

The third period opened with the Grads two in the lead, Stabler took this down one by scoring 3 minutes after the bell rang; Northey made it a tie 11 minutes later, but Bagg won for the Grads by a lucky shot one minute before the final gong sounded. The line-up was as follows:

Grove Grads		Rink Rats
E. Moore	goal	H. Hill
W. Kelly	r. d.	C. Wannamaker
C. Hamilton	l. d.	S. Trude
G. Loosemore	centre	E. Northey

Junior Hockey.

A junior exhibition game of hockey was played between a Peterboro team and the Rink Mice of Lakefield, at 7 o'clock on Tuesday evening The Peterboro team, were by their own story a pick-up team, and the fact that no two wore the same uniform bore them out in this. The score was 10-7 for the local team, who although rather smaller than their opponents were superior in team work and speed. A remarkable feature of the game was the fact that the referee was changed several times during the game, the Peterboro players taking it in turn to act in this capacity. It was not unusual to see the referee exchange his bell for a stick and join the play. One of the visitors' defence men chose what appeared to be a lull in the game to arrange his hair but a speedy forward of the Lakefield team took advantage of his preoccupation and scored. Both teams played hard —there were no penalties. The following is the line up:

Rink Mice: Goal, B. Allen; r. defence; G. Wannamaker; l. def., H. Suart; centre, R. Kennedy; r. wing, P. Allen; l. wing, D. White; subs: G. Stenner and H. Jewell.

Peterboro: Goal, McWilliams; r. def. Reid; l. def. Clayton; centre, Cadd; r. wing, Wagar; l. wing, Pullyblank, subs, Hamilton and Kingdon. be Thy childrens

ST. GODDARD WINS QUEBEC DOG DERBY

Shows Uncanny Racing Skill in Defeating Large Field of Mushers.

SEPPALLA SECOND.

Breaks Time Record Made Last Year By Twenty-three Minutes.

QUEBEC, Que., Feb. 23 (Canadian Press).—Dog racing fans were proclaiming a new hero here last night in the person of 21-year-old Emile St. Goddard, who yesterday won the sixth Eastern International Quebec dog derby from as classy a field as ever started in the event. St. Goddard won through the exercise of uncanny racing skill and lifted the much coveted gold cup which has been at stake in six successive years.

In winning yesterday the youthful musher avenged his defeat in the New England derby by Leonard Seppalla, 50-year-old Nome, Alaska, racer. Seppalla, despite two days intensive effort to cut down the lead gained by St. Goddard in the opening stages of the Quebec derby, trailed his youthful opponent by a few minutes.

St. Goddard used all the strategy of a veteran musher to hold his lead and win yesterday. In the first stage of the race Monday he drove furiously and gained a ten minute lead over his nearest competitor, Seppalla. He failed to hold this lead the second day and lost nine minutes to Seppalla. Tuesday night he carefully reviewed the race and decided that one of his dogs was lagging. He left this dog behind yesterday and with his famous leader "Tobey" hitched abreast of the fifth dog in his team started out to win.

St. Goddard covered the entire course of 123 miles in 11 hours 14 minutes and 17 seconds, breaking the record he established last year by 23 minutes and 18 seconds.

Seppalla waged a sensational fight to wipe out the defeat he suffered in the race last year, but his short-legged Alaskan Malamutes were unequal to the task.

Earl Brydges, The Pas, Manitoba, who finished third, also made a strenuous bid for first place and was dogged by hard luck when he lost several minutes yesterday when held up at a railway crossing by a freight train. He started yesterday's grind immediately behind Goddard and until blocked by the train had tenaciously held that position. From then on, he seemed to have lost the pace and never recovered ground.

Fight for Fourth

The interesting fight for fourth place between C. Chevrette and Frank Dupuis developed into a win for Chevrette. He finished in 12 hours, 26 minutes and ten seconds, leading Dupuis by about 13 minutes.

"Shorty" Russick, veteran racer from The Pas, finished the race under great difficulties. He was forced to discard his lead dog after the first day and never was able after that to get any speed out of his leaderless team of fifteen-month-old dogs. They continually swerved from the course.

The official times for the stage raced yesterday and for the three stages of the race follow:

	Yesterday's Time.	Total Time.
Emil St. Goddard	3.39.07	11.14.17

KENT WINS ASHTON DERBY

Defeats Field of Seventeen Starters in Annual Dog Classic.

25 MILE COURSE.

ASHTON, Idaho, Feb 23 -Canadian Press. — Tud Kent of Ashton, won the annual Ashton dog derby over a field of 17 starters yesterday. The Ashton musher led practically all the way along the 25 mile course.

Kent's time was announced as 2 hours, 13 minutes and 57 seconds — considerably slower than the course record of one hour 55 minutes and 57 seconds, established two years ago.

Roy Peterson of St. Anthony, Idaho, was second with an elapsed time of two hours, 13 minutes, 55 seconds; Roy Stover, McCall, Idaho, finished third in two hours, 17 minutes and 1 second.

MADOC WINS 12-1.

High School Boys Clean Up Havelock in Cancelled Game.

MADOC, Feb. 23—The Madoc High School boys scored 12-1 victory in game with Havelock school on Friday evening last. This was one of the semi-finals in the Interscholastic series. This game was played because of the cancelled game on February 14, and was attended by a large crowd, being one of the most sportsmen-like games of the season, few penalties being incurred by either team.

CAN ST. JOHN'S HOLD THE LEAD IN FINAL GAME?

Two Goal Margin Will Make To-night's Battle a Real Thriller.

EVENLY MATCHED.

Junior Outfits Have Provided Some of the Season's Best Hockey.

Will the St. John's team be able to hold their two goal lead over the Peterborough Juniors in the third and last game of the series at Brock street rink to-night?

Supporters of the Petes answer this question with "no," declaring the blue and white team, although defeated twice by a single goal, will rise to the occasion to-night and pile up enough counters to take the round.

The Saints' partizans, on the other hand, point out that the red and white crew have won twice under varying ice conditions and that their chances are just as good in the final clash.

There is the dope from the two camps and the fans are about as equally divided in opinion. The only thing that everybody who saw Monday's game can agree upon is that to-night's fixture will be an exciting struggle from gong to gong and there will be no let-up until the hour is over.

Both team will probably stick to the same line-up as in Monday night's game and they are evenly matched enough to make certain a thrilling battle all along the line.

The game will get under way at 8.15 o'clock and much the biggest crowd of the series will see the teams battle for the third and last time.

Boxers Are Ready For Bout To-Night

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 23.—Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, and Jackie Fields of California tapered off training yesterday for their 10-round engagement at the Coliseum tonight. Boxing experts figure it to be one of the toughest matches Mandell has taken on since he became champion nearly two years ago.

Fields won a 12-round newspaper decision over Mandell on the coast last year. He outweighs the titleholder by about five pounds, campaigning generally in the junior welterweight class. Since Fields cannot make less than 140 pounds Mandell's crown is not in danger, but the experts figure he is taking considerable risk with his chin.

THE NEW FORD CAR SMASHED ALL RECORDS BETWEEN LOS ANGELES AND PHOENIX

Averages 58.26 Miles Per Hour Over Dirt and Gravel Roads—Lowers Running Time 1 Hour and 39 Minutes for the Round Trip.

Speeding along desert roads at more than a mile a minute, a new Ford Tudor Sedan, absolutely stock and completely equipped, broke three Los Angeles-Phoenix, records.

On the trip to Phoenix, by way of Yuma, the drivers took the car over 145 miles of dirt and gravel roads that were rough and rutted, but maintained an average speed of 58.26 miles per hour, demonstrating the ability of the Ford Motor to sustain high speed hour after hour under gruelling conditions. The time was 8 hours, 14 minutes and 50 seconds, lowering the record by 19 minutes 10 seconds.

The return trip to Los Angeles by way of Blythe, took the car over 254 miles of dirt and gravel roads even rougher than those encountered on the trip to Phoenix. The former record was lowered 1 hour, 39 minutes and 50 seconds, the running time being 8 hours, 50 minutes and 10 seconds.

Three Los Angeles Ford dealers took turns driving. They are Dud R. Day, of Lawrence & Day, Inc., Jack Frost and Frank French of Frost & French.

The trial test was officially timed by Western Union.

VETERANS IN CAMP EARLY

Seven of Major League Squads Open Quarters in Florida.

HORNSBY IN TRAINING.

ATLANTA, Ga., February 23 (Canadian Press). — As baseball's energetic rookies started work in the constantly enlarging area of major league training camps to-day, it was significant that many veterans are beginning earlier this year.

With seven of the ten big time squads just opening their Florida camps, no less than a dozen tried campaigners, who in the past usually have started conditioning around March 1, are already on the scene.

Sammy Rice, veteran Washington outfielder, surprised Clark Griffith by his arrival at Tampa on Tuesday night. Rice has been training at Hot Springs, Ark., for some time.

Tris Speaker, recently signed by the Philadelphia Athletics, arrived with a portion of Mack's squad at Fort Myers yesterday.

Rogers Hornsby is working hard with the Braves at St. Petersburg, and Dazzy Vance is already with his Brooklyn mates at Clearwater. Vance has been playing a jam-up game of golf all winter, and his physical condition is reported excellent. While he has not yet signed his 1928 contract, he apparently hopes to be on edge by April.

Jess Haines, and Grover Alexander were on hand on Tuesday to greet the St. Louis Cardinals at Avon Park. Both apparently are in fair form already. The Cardinals went about work with an air of seriousness yesterday, while the Red Sox started intensive drill at Bradentown, and the Athletics were going through their paces at Fort Myers.

The mayor and leading citizens joined a brass band in welcoming Bob Quinn, Red Sox owner, and his squad at Bradentown yesterday morning. A light workout was staged during the afternoon.

At the Cardinal camp, Al Sothern assisted McKechnie in drilling 13 pitchers, four catchers, and two infielders, while Connie Mack worked 14 early arrivals at his camp.

Meanwhile four other clubs continued light workouts begun early in the week, the Senators at Tampa, the Browns at West Palm Beach, the Braves at St. Petersburg, and the Phillies at Winterhaven. They will be joined late this week by the Yankees, who will halt at St. Petersburg; the Reds within a few days at Orlando; and the Robins at Clearwater.

Meanwhile at New Orleans, the Cleveland Indians were forced into idleness because of rain.

The Chicago White Sox will arrive at Shreveport, La., on Monday.

Reverses Decision Kaplan-Mays Fight

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. Feb. 23.—The Bridgeport Telegram today will say that Henry J. Gerrity, state referee, has reversed his draw decision in the Louis "Kid" Kaplan-Bobby Mays fight in New Haven last Monday night in favor of Kaplan. An error in adding up the points at the close of the ninth round prompted Gerrity to make the new decision, the Telegram says. The count, filed with State Commissioner Donoghue, showed 42 points for Kaplan and 41 for Mays. It is the first reversal of a decision since the present state athletic commission was organized.

AT THE GRAND.

In "Wings", the widely-discussed aviation picture which begins an engagement at the Grand Opera House tomorrow. What seems to have been impossible has been accomplished by William A. Wellman who directed the taking of the picture for Paramount. It is difficult to imagine love, romance and comedy being blended in a motion picture the greater part of which was actually photographed in the air, but such has been the accomplishment of Mr. Wellman, with thrills aplenty. A delightful love-story absorbingly interesting is carried through the entire action of the piece with Clara Bow as the central figure. "Buddy" Rodgers and Richard Arlen who have both been "Aces" also figure prominently in the plot.

"Wings" is now in its twenty-fifth week at the Criterion Theatre, New York, where it is showing to capacity audiences at every performance with as many standees as the law allows. It is also thrilling thousands in Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia.

AT THE REGENT.

GEORGE SIDNEY'S GREATEST ROLE.

Famous Portrayer of Jewish Comedy Stars in Film at Regent.

Many thousands of film fans who have followed George Sidney, the famous character comedian, through his numerous appearances in the role of a New York east side Jew will have the opportunity to witness him in what is said to be his greatest picture, "Clancy's Kosher Wedding," an FBO production, which is booked for the Regent Theatre, opening to-day.

Sidney's latest film is an hilarious comedy based upon the experiences of two rival clothing store proprietors, one Irish and the other of Hebraic extraction, both residing on the East Side, background of much real romance, humor and pathos.

Sidney is featured as "Hyman Cohen," father of a beautiful girl who loves an Irish fireman, son of Cohen's business rival, much to the disgust of the volatile little Jewish haberdasher. For a number of years Sidney has been familiar to theatre-goers in similar roles, and by many has been accorded a position as the leading portrayer of Jewish character on the screen to-day.

In "Clancy's Kosher Wedding," Sidney is supported by a cast whose caliber is well adapted to bring out the highlights of an exceedingly humorous and human story. It includes Ann Brodsky, Mary Gordon, Sharon Lynn, Rex Lease, Ed Brady and Jesse Devorska.

The most dangerous years of married life are, according to an eminent lawyer, the first year and those between the fifteenth and twentieth years. He bases his statement on divorce statistics.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR of THE BENSON MURDER CASE

© Charles Scribner's Sons

THE STORY THUS FAR

Vance believes Skeel innocent of the murder of Margaret Odell and that he lay hidden in a closet while the strangler did his work. Markham ridicules the theory but Vance is unshaken. He shatters Cleaver's alibi of being out of the city the night of the murder and urges Markham to call Mannix in for questioning again. "You know a Miss Frisbee," Vance said to Mannix. "When did you see her last? Take your time about answering. You may want to think it over."

CHAPTER XXXIV.

Mannix took his time. It was a full minute before he spoke, and then it was to put another question.

"Haven't I got a right to call on a lady—haven't I?"

"Certainly. Therefore, why should a question about so obviously correct and irreproachable an episode make you uneasy?"

"Me uneasy?" Mannix, with considerable effort, produced a grin. "I'm just wondering what you got in your mind, asking me about my private affairs."

"I'll tell you. Miss Odell was murdered at about midnight Monday. No one came or went through the front door of the house, and the side door was locked. The only way any one could have entered her apartment was by way of Apartment 2; and nobody who knew Miss Odell ever visited Apartment 2 except yourself."

At these words Mannix leaned over the table, grasping the edge of it with both hands for support. His eyes were wide and his sensual lips hung open.

But it was not fear that one read in his attitude; it was sheer amazement. He sat for a moment staring at Vance, stunned and incredulous.

"That's what you think, is it? No one could've got in or out except by Apartment 2, because the side door was locked?" He gave a short, vicious laugh. "If that side door didn't happen to be locked Monday night, where'd I stand then—huh? Where'd I stand?"

"I rather think you'd stand with us—with the district attorney." Vance was watching him like a cat.

"Sure I would!" spat Mannix. "And let me tell you something my friend that's just where I stand—absolutely!" He swung heavily about and faced Markham. "I'm a good fellow, y' understand, but I've kept my mouth shut long enough. . . That side door wasn't locked Monday night. And I know who sneaked out of it five minutes to twelve!"

"Ca marche!" murmured Vance, reseating himself and calmly lighting a cigaret.

Markham was too astonished to speak at once; and Heath sat stock-still, his cigar half-way to his mouth.

At length Markham leaned back and folded his arms.

"I think you'd better tell us the whole story, Mr. Mannix." His voice held a quality which made the request an imperative.

Mannix, too, settled back in his chair.

"Oh, I'm going to tell it—believe me, I'm going to tell it.—You had the right idea. I spent the evening with Miss Frisbee. No harm in that, though."

"What time did you go there?"

"After office hours—half past five, quarter to six. Came up in the subway, got off at 72d, and walked over."

"And you entered the house through the front door?"

"No. I walked down the alley-way and went in the side door—like I generally do. It's nobody's business who I call on, and what the telephone operator in the front hall don't know don't hurt him."

"That's all right so far," observed Heath. "The janitor didn't bolt the side door until after six."

"And did you stay the entire evening, Mr. Mannix?" asked Markham.

"Sure—till just before midnight. Miss Frisbee cooked the dinner, and I'd brought along a bottle of wine. Social little party—just the two of us. And I didn't go outside the apartment, understand, until five minutes to twelve. You can get the lady down here and ask her. I'll call her up now and tell her to explain the exact situation about Monday night. I'm not asking you to take my word for it—positively not."

Markham made a gesture dismissing the suggestion.

"What took place at five minutes to twelve?"

Mannix hesitated, as if loath to come to the point.

"I'm a good fellow, y' understand. And a friend's a friend. But—I ask you—is that any reason why I should get in wrong for something I didn't have absolutely nothing to do with?"

He waited for an answer, but receiving none, continued.

"Sure, I'm right.—Anyway, here's what happened. As I said, I was calling on the lady. But I had another date for later that night; so a few minutes before midnight I said goodbye and started to go.

"Just as I opened the door I saw some one sneaking away from the Canary's apartment down the little back hall to the side door. There was a light in the hall, and the door of Apartment 2 faces that side door. I saw the fellow as plain as I see you—positively as plain."

"Who was it?"

"Well, if you got to know, it was Pop Cleaver."

Markham's head jerked slightly.

"What did you do then?"

"Nothing, Mr. Markham—nothing at all. I didn't think much about it, y' understand. I knew Pop was chasing after the Canary, and I just supposed he'd been calling on her. But I didn't want Pop to see me—none of his business where I spend my time. So I waited quietly till he went out—"

"By the side door?"

"Sure.—Then I went out the same way. I was going to leave by the front door, because I knew the side door was always locked at night. But when I saw Pop go out that way, I said to myself I'd do the same. No sense giving your business away to a telephone operator if you haven't got to—no sense at all. So I went out the same way I came in. Picked up a taxi on Broadway, and went——"

"That's enough!" Again Vance's command cut him short.

"Oh, all right—all right." Mannix seemed content to end his statement at this point. "Only, y' understand, I don't want you to think——"

"We don't."

Markham was puzzled at these interruptions, but made no comment.

"When you read of Miss Odell's death," he said, "why didn't you come to the police with this highly important information?"

"I should get mixed up in it!" exclaimed Mannix in surprise. "I got enough trouble without looking for it—plenty."

"An exigent course," commented Markham with open disgust. "But you nevertheless suggested to me, after you knew of the murder, that Cleaver was being blackmailed by Miss Odell."

"Sure I did. Don't that go to show I wanted to do the right thing by you—giving you a valuable tip?"

"Did you see anyone else that night in the halls or alleyway?"

"Nobody—absolutely nobody."

"Did you hear any one in the Odell apartment—any one speaking or moving about, perhaps?"

"Didn't hear a thing." Mannix shook his head emphatically.

"And you're certain of the time you saw Cleaver go out—five minutes to twelve?"

"Positively. I looked at my watch, and I said to the lady 'I'm leaving the same day I came; it won't be tomorrow for five minutes yet'."

Markham went over his story point by point, attempting by various means to make him admit more than he had already told. But Mannix neither added to his statement nor modified it in any detail; and after half an hour's cross-examination he was permitted to go.

"We've found one missing piece of the puzzle, at any rate," commented Vance. "I don't see now just how it fits into the complete pattern, but it's helpful and suggestive. And, I say, how beautifully my intuition about Mannix was verified, don't y' know!"

"Yes, of course—your precious intuition." Markham looked at him sceptically. "Why did you shut him up twice when he was trying to tell me something?"

"I simply can't tell you, old dear. Awfully sorry, and all that."

His manner was whimsical, but Markham knew that at such times Vance was at heart most serious, and he did not press the question. I could not help wondering if Miss La Fosse realized just how secure she had been in putting her faith in Vance's integrity.

Heath had been considerably shaken by Mannix's story.

"I don't savvy that side door being unlocked," he complained. "How the hell did it get bolted again on the inside after Mannix went out? And who unbolted it after six o'clock?"

"In God's good time, my sergeant, all things will be revealed," said Vance.

"Maybe—and maybe not. But if we do find out, you can take it from me that the answer'll be Skeel. He's the bird we gotta get the goods on. Cleaver is no expert jimmy artist; and neither is Mannix."

"Just the same, there was a very capable technician on hand that night, and it wasn't your friend the Dude—though he was probably the Donatello who sculptured open the jewel-case."

"A pair of 'em, was there? That's your theory, is it, Mr. Vance? You said that once before; and I'm not saying you're wrong. But if we can hang any part of it on Skeel, we'll make him come across as to who his pal was."

"It wasn't a pal, Sergeant," said Vance. "It was more likely a stranger."

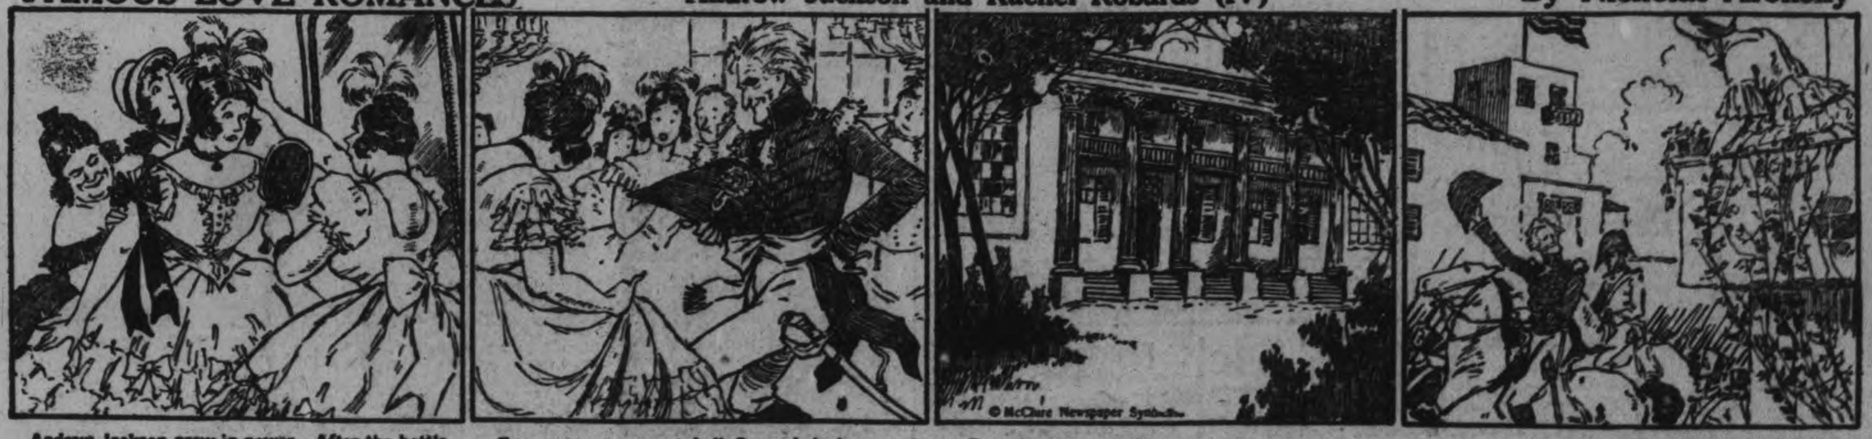
FAMOUS LOVE ROMANCES — Andrew Jackson and Rachel Robards (IV) — By Nicholas Afonsky



© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Andrew Jackson grew in power. After the battle of New Orleans in 1815 he became the hero of that city. He sent for Rachel to join him. She came, a bit dowdy, unused to the ways of the world of fashion and elegance. The tactful Creole ladies helped her—bought her clothes, told her what to do, and loved her for her simple kindliness.

One night at a great ball General Jackson and his wife caused much merriment by dancing a country dance together to the music of "Possum up the Gum Tree." The General, a long, haggard man with limbs like a skeleton, and Madame la Generale, a short, round dumpling, bobbing opposite each other like a couple of drunken Indians.

But the days of this sort of fun were almost over. In 1816 a wave of religious fervor swept the country, and Rachel "got religion." She grew penitent, and worried about her husband's salvation. They had gained in wealth, and built their fine new Hermitage, and Jackson built a small church nearby for his Rachel.

In 1821, when the United States took Florida over from Spain, Andrew Jackson was made military governor, and rode into Pensacola, under the balcony where his adoring Rachel was watching him. Rachel sympathized with the mourning Spanish inhabitants, but thought the loss of their lands was to punish their gaiety and godlessness.

FIELD SECRETARY ADDRESSES W.C.T.U.

Mrs. George Emphasizes World-Wide Peace and Prohibition in Talk Here.

Mrs. George of Parkhill, Ont., field secretary of the W.C.T.U., was the special speaker at the meeting of the local branch of the society held yesterday afternoon in the green room of the Y.W.C.A. The president, Mrs. A. J. Throop, was in the chair.

Emphasizing in her address the two questions which she declared of paramount importance to-day, world peace and world prohibition, Mrs. George gave a brief review of world-wide efforts along the lines of the latter movement. This year in Japan a law was passed by which ten million children will receive scientific temperance instruction. In Italy the cause of temperance is steadily advancing under Mussolini's rule, and great efforts are being made to promote the use of fresh grapes instead of wine. Students in Egypt are making "Good Health" posters which are a portion of an exhibition to which prominent men and women are invited and which are a part of the programme of good health and scientific temperance. The young people of England have taken as their slogan: "England free from the national drink evil in this generation." Thousands are enrolled in this active service co-operating in the overthrow of the drink evil The Canadian movement is called "The Crusade of Youth," and the young patriots pledge loyalty to their country and to God.

To-day there is no barrier to the educational work which may be done. Mrs. George read a letter sent to Mrs. McKee, Provincial Secretary of the W.C.T.U., by Hon. G. H. Ferguson, Premier of Ontario, and Minister of Education, which said:

"I have your letter of the 20th in which you make what I regard as a very helpful suggestion towards carrying on the work of temperance education through the schools of the province.

"A circular will be sent to the teachers for the purpose of having your suggestion put into operation. I think it would be a good idea to have the chapters to which you refer in the Hygiene course drawn especially to the attention of the pupils and then provide for having their knowledge of the subject tested. I can assure you that the government is always glad to co-operate in the development of public opinion with regard to this subject."

During the brief business session which followed Mrs. George's address, arrangements were made for holding a tea in March and a sale of cooking next week

Changed oftener, washed oftener—

Our modern standards demand fresh, clean clothes

MEN insist on it, as well as women. Children's happiness and welfare depend on it. To all of us now it is a necessity, not a luxury.

Garments are more valuable, of finer fabrics, more beautiful colourings. Each garment makes more trips to the tub. What of its safety?

Poor quality soap may blur a garment's colours, weaken its fabric, ruin its value, shorten its life. Do you realize how much more value is going into your tubs now than before? How are you protecting it?

Remember, it is difficult to detect the harmful quality of cheap soap, —until it is too late, and the damage has been done forever.

To protect your garments you must have the certainty that the soap you use is safe.

You do not have to hunt. No need to make risky experiments. There is one soap you know is safe. Over forty years have proved it.

Surprise Soap has always been safe, for finest fabrics and delicate colours. They all need the SAFETY, and gentle thoroughness of Surprise Soap more than ever before.

Surprise Soap was first made in St. Stephen, N.B., 44 years ago on the policy that quality should be the first consideration.

This policy has never been altered and quality has improved with advancing knowledge, keeping pace with the modern requirements.

ASSAULTED GIRL HAD LIVED HERE

Mabel Barker, Slugegd Over the Head in Detroit Suburb Recently.

RELATIVES IN CITY.

The following news item from a Detroit paper refers to a former Peterborough girl, Miss Mabel Barker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Barker, 1512 Beaufield Avenue, Ferndale, Detroit, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Allen, Morrow Street, Peterborough:

"While on her way to a church Valentine party last night (Feb. 14) Mabel Barker, 19 years old, Ferndale High School student, was struck over the head by an unidentified man.

"The assault took place at 8 p.m. within 50 feet of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Livernois and Lewiston Avenues, Ferndale, where the party was being held.

"The Rev. Gilbert Appelhof, Jr., pastor of the church, heard the girl scream and was the first to reach her. The assailant had disappeared and the entire Ferndale police force, which was called to search the wooded district surrounding the church, found no trace of him.

"Miss Barker suffered severe lacerations of the scalp. She was taken to the office of Dr. C. R. Henry, at Woodward Avenue and the Nine-Mile road, in a dazed condition and after treatment was removed to her home.

"'When I was about 100 feet from the church,' she told the police, 'I noticed a young man coming toward me. He was short and wore a green slicker and cap, which was pulled down over his eyes. His appearance frightened me, and I started to whistle to keep up my courage.

"'When I passed him he suddenly pulled a club from underneath his slicker and hit me. I screamed and he ran away without saying a word.

"The police found a hickory club about two feet long near the spot where Miss Barker was beaten. She is a senior in the Lincoln High School. Her father is employed by the service department of the Oakland Motor Car Co."

Mr. and Mrs. Barker lived on Prince Street, Peterborough, before moving to Detroit. Mrs. Barker was Nellie Allen before her marriage and is remembered by many friends in this city.

NO MORE PILES

Pile sufferers can only get quick, safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—bad blood circulation in the lower bowel. Cutting and salves can't do this, an internal remedy must be used. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds because it relieves this blood congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has a wonderful record for quick, safe, and lasting relief to Pile sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store and druggists anywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee.

HOG BREEDERS HOLD FIELD DAY

Lectures and Demonstrations On Various Features Given at C.P.C. Plant.

ABOUT 100 PRESENT.

Despite very unfavorable weather and snow blocked roads one hundred farmers from the counties of Peterborough, Northumberland, Durham and Victoria attended the field day at the Canadian Packing Company plant on Tuesday. This special day was put on under the auspices of the Dominion Livestock Branch, the Ontario Department of Agriculture, and the Canadian Packing Company. The object in view was to demonstrate to the farmer what better return well bred hogs would make for him.

Grading Inspector D. A. McKinnon of this city acted as chairman for the occasion and inspiring addresses were delivered by Dr. Barnes of Ottawa, G. W. Foster, Kitchener, L. W. Pearsall, Toronto and Mr. McKinnon. There were also cutting and wiltshire demonstrations by G. Foster, Toronto and J. Seymour of this city.

At 10.30 in the morning Dr. Barnes delivered a lecture on hog and plant inspection. He outlined what causes disease amongst hogs and classed tuberculosis as the most prevalent disease found. He gave figures that were astounding, showing the number of carcasses condemned on account of this dread disease. Plant inspection, he claimed, was a necessity in Canada, for without it, it would not be possible to export bacon and the wealth of this country depends to a great degree on her export trade.

After dinner the delegates were taken through the plant by J. Seymour and F. Hall, after which, in the absence of G. S. Matthews, plant manager, they were welcomed by C. McLean. Mr. McKinon thanked the C.P.C. for its co-operation.

G. W. Foster of the Dominion Livestock branch, Kitchener, explained the difference in various sides of bacon. He had on display for the purpose of demonstration to the audience the various kinds of sides. "During the past few years Canada has made wonderful progress in hog production, both in quality and quantity, but there remains a lot to be accomplished yet," said Mr. Foster.

Frank Lefevre gave a cutting demonstration and illustrated the differences between the carcasses of select hogs and those of the thick smooth hogs. The demonstration was greatly enjoyed by all from the fact that it was done with such skill. Mr. Foster explained the differences between the two carcasses from the packer's and consumer's standpoints.

L. W. Pearsall, Director of the Ontario Hog Graders, Toronto, dwelt at considerable length on the new hog grading regulations that have been added to the act. The regulations compel all shippers and drovers to grade the hogs locally or to mark them so that the information can be sent back to each individual farmer so that he can know exactly how his hogs graded. This amended act came into force on February 6, and was brought about by the producers, packers and shippers.

All made a trip to the hog yards were a practical demonstration was given on the various types of hogs. Mr. Pearsall laid great emphasis on good breeding as being absolutely essential, so that the best type of hogs might be produced for market. The young men present were shown the best method of judging a class of bacon hogs.

The final speaker of the day was Mr. McKinnon, who gave a short talk on the selection of the young brood sow. "Two much attention cannot be paid to the selection of the young brood sow. She must show length, smoothness, strength, and breediness. The essentials to look for are a clean-cut head and neck, smooth compat shoulders with a true arch at the top, strength and depth back of the shoulders, a reasonable length of side and string of ribs, good depth of rib, strong loin and wide hips, and a supply of well developed and well placed teats; the last point being important in the brood sow. The hog should have qualities of strength and depth but not of an extreme length. There should also be smooth and compact shoulders, smoothness, and strength of bone and muscle, said Mr. McKinnon.

CFCA SENDS OUT EMPIRE PROGRAMS

TORONTO, February 23 (Canadian Press).—After successfully picking up programs broadcast from England and re-broadcasting them, the local radio station CFCA succeeded to-day in re-broadcasting programs sent out from Sydney, Australia. This achievement is similar to that of a Buffalo station in the last few days, and is believed to have been the first successful Canadian re-broadcast of an Australian program.

THE STRONGHOLD OF WINTER SPORTS

The story is told of a well-known Toronto insurance man who with his wife went to Quebec for the winter sports, neither of them going outside the hotel once until they left. While their friends find a great deal of humor in the fact, they unconsciously pay great tribute to the "Chateau Frontenac." There is usually so much to see and do inside this hospitable hostelry that there are no dull moments for any guest who chooses to remain within its turreted walls, but for those who would rather participate in the outdoor amusements, every facility is provided in the way of personal attention and real equipment and comprehensive programs are arranged by the sports director to take advantage of the conditions and exigencies of the day.

Obituary

HON. McCALLUM GRANT

HALIFAX, N.S., Feb 23 (Canadian Press)—The Hon. McCallum Grant, twice Lieutenant Governor of Nova Scotia and one of the most widely known men in the province, died early to-day in his 84th year. Mr. Grant suffered a slight stroke two weeks ago, but he seemed to have recovered and was not confined to his bed. Yesterday he again complained and about two o'clock this morning the end came suddenly.

GEORGE MONCRIEF.

Known and respected throughout the district in which he had lived all of his life, word of the sudden death of George Moncrief on Monday last, came as a great shock to his host of friends in Monaghan township and in Peterborough.

A friend of young and old alike the late Mr. Moncrief had lived on his farm in North Monaghan, retiring only two years ago, to take up residence with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bowles, of Springville. He attended Springville United Church, and was known in its congregation as a man of pleasant approach and a good citizen.

Surviving are one son, Wilbert L., of Omemee; two daughters, Mrs. A. Bowles of Springville, and Mrs. G. H. Seabrook, of Hastings; two brothers, Richard and William of Frazerville and Chicago, respectively and three sisters, Mrs. R. Morrison, Mrs. J. Johnston, both of whom live in Peterborough, and Mrs. George Lockie of Kamloops, B.C.

The funeral was held from the residence of Albert Bowles, Springville, on Wednesday afternoon, February 22, at 2.00 p.m., the Rev. Mr. Maconachie of the United Church of that village conducting services at the home and at the graveside in Frazerville cemetery.

Six nephews acted as pallbearers, namely, Stanley and Ernest Johnston of Otonabee and Peterborough, respectively, Earl Moncrief of Peterborough, Norman of Monaghan, Kenneth and Walter of Frazerville.

CAROLINE MEYERS SMITH.

The death took place in Warsaw on Wednesday, February 22, of Caroline Meyers Smith, known and esteemed throughout the district as one of its oldest residents. She was in her ninety-first year.

Born in Napanee on February 17, 1837, she later removed to Warsaw, where she has lived ever since. After the death of her husband, she resided with her daughter, Mrs. A. F. Choate. In religion deceased was an Anglican.

The funeral will take place from the residence of her son-in-law, A. F. Choate, on Friday, February 24, 1928, at 1.30 p.m., Rev. T. J. O'Conor-Fenton conducting the service. Interment in St. Mark's Cemetery, Warsaw.

FORMER PETERBOROUGH LAWYER ADDRESSES LOCAL KIWANIS CLUB

Judge Daniel O'Connell, of Toronto, Gives Address on Canada's Development.

WEEKLY LUNCHEON.

Many Pleasing Features on the Program at Happy Gathering.

Diverting from custom, Peterborough Kiwanians held their weekly luncheon at the Empress Hotel last evening rather than to-day at noon and by so doing were privileged to have as their speaker a former member of the Peterborough Law Association, His Honor Judge Daniel O'Connell, of Toronto. Canada's development geographically, constitutionally and industrially, a subject of wide scope was outlined and enlarged upon by His Honor, in an address of over one hour's duration and in a manner that left little to be desired, as interesting, accurate and complete as it was. Doubtless it will go down in Kiwanis records as one of the outstanding addresses of the year.

Presided over by President Joe John, the meeting was a bright and happy one throughout, as it was featured by a couple of vocal solos by H. Snelgrove, and the regular booster announcement. Art Blade, of Imperial Oil Co., donated the prizes for this and accompanied the donations with a two minute talk on why his company is on the top.

Among those who were guests of the club and who enjoyed the evening's address were the Rev. W. Allan, William P. Hartford of Chicago, W. H. Fine, R. R. Hall, J. G. Sullivan, S. Lawson, of Toronto, J. W. Stinson, and H. Snelgrove.

To Joseph Wearing, of the Peterborough Law Association, fell the honor of introducing the chief speaker. In so doing, Mr. Wearing recalled the days when His Honor Judge O'Connell was practising law in Peterborough, mentioned incidents of his personal acquaintanceship with him when he was known as "Dan" O'Connell and extended the welcome of Peterborough Kiwanis club to him on his return to the city on this occasion.

Judge O'Connell.

His Honor Judge O'Connell prefaced his address with a number of humorous stories quite indicative of an Irish sense of humor mentioned by Mr. Wearing.

We have just celebrated in this country the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation, and perhaps it would not be out of order to take a while to view the geographical, constitutional, and industrial conditions of our country through the years before and after Confederation.

After the Battle of the Plains of Abraham, this country was ceded to Britain, and formally so by the Treaty of Paris in 1760. After being ruled as a Crown colony until 1774, the boundaries of Quebec were extended south to the Ohio and west to the Mississippi, remaining so until after the rebellion of the colonies, when the land that had been added was transferred back to the American colonists.

By the Constitutional Act, our country was divided into Upper and Lower Canada. The Government was not a diplomatic nor properly organized one, and in the Union Act which was made necessary as a result, they were made one colony.

The Maritimes, the Western Territories, and Upper and Lower Canada began to consider the possibilities of Confederation. Thus came in 1867 the British North America Act. To-day we see our country, a vastly different one to that of 1867. In 1870 Canada had ceded to it the North-West Territories and the Province of Manitoba took form in the Union. British Columbia also came in, followed by Prince Edward Island. In 1880 the northern territories were extended ,and finally came into the Union the Provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Sitting on Top of the World.

Thus has Canada grown, literally and metaphorically we are sitting on top of the world.

A great deal of discussion has taken place whether Canada has or has not achieved a new status. The British North America Act is the written constitution of Canada, and this discussion is due to failure to distinguish between this written and the unwritten constitutions of Canada. In the unwritten part is where Canada has changed — the British North America Act remains the same.

The Governor-General in those days was the representative of the Crown. Sir Edward Blake made it clear, however, that the Governor-General should take advice from a responsible group of ministers.

Main Development.

However, Canada's main development toward a new status has come as a result of her part in the Great War, indicative of this progress is the fact that the Governor-General is no longer the representative of the British Government, but the representative of the King; a committee of the Imperial Conference passed a statement wherein Canada has become a member of the British Commonwealth of Nations; finally, Canada was honored by being a signatory of the Treaty of Versailles, and finally she has become a member of the League of Nations, her representative

Canadian Shippers Have the Advantage

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 24 Canadian Press. — Representatives of American dairymen yesterday testified before the Federal Tariff Commission which is investigating milk and cream production in the United States and Canada, that the present duty does not equalize production costs, but gives the Canadian shippers an advantage in the domestic markets.

Cream imports have shown an increase of 250 per cent. in the past five years, W. H. Bronson, of the New England Milk Producers' Federation, said. He declared that such imports advanced 50 per cent. in the year 1922-23, despite the increase in tariff from 5 to 20 cents per gallon.

"The agricultural industry requires tariff protection more than anything else," Representative Taber, Republican, New York, said adding that the dairy industry in particular was in need of a higher tariff wall.

FINAL TRIBUTE TO MRS. HUYCKE

Friends and Other Citizens Attend Funeral in Large Numbers.

TOUCHING ADDRESSES.

The funeral of the late Mrs. E. C. S. Huycke took place from the family residence in Engleburn Park on Thursday afternoon, being attended by a large number of representative citizens, the clergy and the bar of Peterborough, as well as relatives and friends from Cobourg, Warkworth and Picton.

The services, both at the house and graveside in Little Lake cemetery were most impressive. The Rev. David Wren had charge of the services and he was assisted by the Rev. Dr. Mallott, of Belleville, and former pastor of Trinity church here, and Archdeacon Davidson, of Toronto, a former rector of St. John's church.

Dr. Mallot through his work here, had come to know the late Mrs. Huycke in her home and he spoke briefly, yet comfortingly of her devotion to her family, her fine, ladylike and amiable qualities, and the cultured hospitality which had ever greeted the guest in her home.

Archdeacon Davidson said that he was persuaded that the whole heart of the community had gone forth to this distinguished citizen of Peterborough and his family in the long tedious passing of Mrs. Huycke, which was expressed by this remarkable gathering of citizens. He spoke with glowing enthusiasm of the important but trying work of women generally, of whom the late Mrs. Huycke was a fine example. As housekeepers, mothers and home-makers, they skillfully and patiently performed perhaps the most useful work in life, and sometimes the burden and strain of it al lwas a contributing influence to a breakdown in health. Women, especially as mothers of large families, were national benefactors, and the flag of the country might often be appropriately placed upon their biers, especially when ,as in the case of Mrs. Huycke, they had practically fought and worked for their country through their children. It was written that "those who turned many to righteousness should shine as the stars forever and ever," and the mothers who inculcated the basic truths of morality and religion in their children which endured through life and often turned them into the paths of wholesome goodness would thus shine out even though they now had no idea of the value of their services. They would live on through the children who would carry on their teaching to fruition with tender remembrances of the gentle givers.

The pallbearers were George J. Sherry, G .W. Hatton, K.C., Col. Duncan Walker, E. G. Patterson, G. N. Gordon, K.C., and Robert Harstone.

SPEED DRIVER DRIVES BLAZING CAR INTO SEA

American Out To Break 4-Cylinder Speed Record Has Close Call.

AT DAYTONA BEACH.

Anderson Sets New Record For StockCars at 106.52463 Miles.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 24.—(A.P.)—The second mishap of the motor race meet here occurred yesterday afternoon when the Whippet automobile driven by Wilbur Shaw, Indianapolis, in preparation for an attempt at the four cylinder record, burst into flames and was steered into the ocean to avoid serious consequences.

The car was badly damaged and Shaw was uninjured. Attributing the blaze to a backfiring motor, he had the tiny machine towed to a garage, unfit for further use before the meet closed officially yesterday.

Frank Lockhart, who narrowly escaped death Wednesday when his Stutz Black Hawk somersaulted into the ocean, talked to newspapermen at his hospital bed yesterday, against the advise of physicians. He was "giving it all it coud take," he said, when the machine streaked into a rain squall at 225 miles an hour and he saw nothing until he stopped in the sea.

"I was feeling my way, wide open, in the mist," he added, "and started instinctively pulling the car higher on the beach, away from the ocean. When I struck soft sand, I knew I was too high and pulled her down again — but too quickly. The next thing I knew I was in the water."

The young track veteran attributed his escape to the sturdy construction of the car and the quick work of the men who pulled it from under the surf. He said he was "perhaps over-anxious at the start" and blamed this condition on the edict, which he said, forced him to try for a record Wednesday or yesterday.

Lockhart plans to rebuild his car immediately and make another attempt at the world's speed record. The only injury that worried him yesterday was a cut on his wrist which severed several tendons.

It will not affect his driving, physicians said.

Exhibition Run.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 24.—Making an exhibition run on the ocean speedway here yesterday, Captain Malcolm Campbell, England, negotiated the measured mile stretch at an average speed of 206.79713 miles per hour in his giant Napier Bluebird racer. This was slightly less than his world's record of 206.9 set here last Sunday.

The Britisher had announced before his start that the run would not be an attempt to better the record, because weather and beach conditions were unfavorable.

In one of the closing events of the meet, Gil Anderson, of Indianapolis established a new world's record for stock cars when he drove his Stutz over an official mile course for an average two way speed of 106.52463 miles an hour.

The former record, set here last week by Wade Morton, of Auburn, Indiana, was 104.34782.

Tom Rooney, of Chicago, in another Stutz, also bettered the former record when he clipped off the mile in an average speed of 105.54089 miles an hour.

The Peterboro' Examiner's Figure Puzzle Contest

Send in Your Solution Now—New Subscribers Have Privilege of Solving Puzzle as Well as Person Sending.

Great interest has been taken in the figure puzzle contest now being run by the Peterborough Examiner since the contest began, and the time is now beginning to draw toward the close of the contest. Many contestants have already solved the puzzle and for various reasons are withholding sending in their answer. Some of the reasons for not sending in their answers now, are that these contestants are endeavoring to secure new subscribers or they are afraid that if they put in their answer now, that they cannot send in any more on this particular answer.

We would like to point out that it is more advantageous to send in your solution with the subscription you already have than it is to withhold these until near the close of the contest as this will allow any subscribers whose names you send in to participate in the contest without paying any extra cash. This is one of the features of the contest, also we might state that if you send in your answers now it is quite permissible for you to pay any amount you desire on this same answer until you have the maximum of $15.00, therefore, we would urge all contestants to send in their solution as soon as possible and thus avoid the last minute rush of the contest.

British Delegate Takes Stand Against Any Too Rigid Form of Bilateral Treaty

GENEVA, February 24 ((Canadian Press). — A firm stand was taken at the session of the League of Nations Security Committee yesterday by Lord Cushendun, the British delegate, against multilateral arbitration treaties or any too rigid form of bi-lateral treaty.

Alluding to the speeches of the Argentine and Chilean representatives at a previous sitting, Lord Cushendun said they had called attention to the totally different circumstances for which they needed to provide as compared with European States, and asked why it should be imagined that one treaty could fit the diverse circumstances of the different European states. Canada had reported to the Court dealing with disputes between Canada and the United States, and the circumstances of each state, he argued, should determine the type of tribunal.

This viewpoint was supported by Senor Valdes Mendeville, the Chilean delegate. The Canadian representative, Dr. Riddell, said he had no instructions to oppose multi-lateral treaties, but he thought that the delegates would get further if they confined themselves to bi-lateral treaties, and there was evidently no support for one definite model of a bi-lateral treaty.

The South Americans had a type they were not likely to abandon, nor would Canada abandon the treaty which had worked well with the United States, in favor of some theoretical, worked out at Geneva.

It is probable that a drafting committee will submit alternative forms of treaties.

NEW ERA FOR MOTION PICTURES AS USEFUL TOOL IS PROPHESIED

Cinema is on Verge of Becoming Important to Engineer and Industrialist.

ADVANTAGES SET FORTH.

Manager of Associated Screen News Addresses Engineering Institute Members.

"We are entering into a new era of the motion picture in which it is about to be discovered as a new tool of general utility," declared B. E. Norrish, managing director of the Associated Screen News, Limited, of Montreal, in an address to the Peterborough Branch of the Engineering Institute.

"The time is near at hand when an understanding of the capacities of the camera and the projecting machine is likely to be as fundamentally important to the engineer and the industrialist as the table of logarithms or any of the common instruments of applied science.

"But the larger importance of the motion picture is yet to be developed and we are now on the threshold of that development. It is time to quit thinking of the movies as the peculiar and special property of the amusement world. It is only an incident in its commercial development that the motion picture should find the first place of its career in the theatre. Fundamentally the motion picture is but the most recently evolved of a long line of instruments of expression, and record running through history down from the stylus and pen and brush and the printing press to the evolution of the camera."

"The slightest familiarity with optics will assure you that the motion picture camera can see more, more accurately, farther, and faster and is more reliable than the eye. Also the motion picture projector can show the fruits of this better and with more accuracy.

A Common Property

"There is special significance in the rise of the amateur camera and the home movies on the 16mm. film in the past two years. Where a few years ago only a few hundred people knew how to make movies and only a few thousand knew how to put them on the screen, we shall very shortly have hundreds of thousands who have at least a working knowledge of the methods involved. On this continent there are 20,000 motion picture theatres and in the last two or three years more than 100,000 home projectors have been sold. The motion picture is well on its way to becoming a common property and we shall have a large public that is highly literate in the terms of the movies.

"The motion picture has in the past followed the natural and uni-

MUNICIPAL ACT CHANGE SOUGHT

W. H. Bradburn Gives Notice of Amendment Covering Rural Fire Protection.

SOCIAL LEVY INCLUDED.

TORONTO, Feb. 24 (Special to The Examiner).—Notice of an amendment to the Municipal Act, aiming at the securing of additional protection against fire for Ontario municipalities has been given by W. H. Bradburn. Mr. Bradburn is a member of the Committee of the Legislative Assembly on Municipal Law, and his projected measure is largely the fruit of his experience and knowledge gained in this committee and during his activities in Peterborough City Council.

The salient feature of the new departure is its suggestion that townships be authorized to make contracts with neighboring municipalities for assistance from the fire department of the larger body, with permission to levy a special tax rate to cover the costs of such an arrangement.

Developments in recent times between Peterborough and adjoining townships have directed the mind of the member towards this problem.

Proposes Appointment Of Commission To Study the Canadian Coal Problem

OTTAWA, Ont., February 24 (Canadian Press). — Finlay MacDonald, Conservative of Cape Breton South, proposed to the House last night that a commission should be appointed to study the whole problem of moving Canadian coal to Central Canada. Mr. MacDonald's commission would consist of five members, and be representative of:

1—Coal companies.
2—Railway traffic departments.
3—Industries consuming coal.
4—Business men.
5—Miners.

Mr. MacDonald felt sure that such a commission would find a remedy for the problem of marketing coal.

Yesterday's continued debate on the Address brought only two speeches from the Liberal side of the House. For the rest, Conservatives and Progressives held the floor. Thomas McMillan, Liberal of South Huron, charged Progressives and U.F.A. groups with sitting on the Opposition side merely to give themselves a place in the sun.

Later in the day, John Evans, Progressive of Rosetown, returned the compliment by declaring that party funds were subscribed by bootleggers, distillers, and rum-runners. He described the Budget as a rich man's feast.

At 10.15, further debate on the Budget went over till to-day.

U.S. COMMITTEE SLASHES NAVAL BUILDING PLAN

Consists of One Aircraft and Remainder Ten Ton Cruisers.

NO SUBMARINES.

Present Program Cost $274,000,000 Compared With $740,000,000 of Former Plan.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 24 (A.P.)—Slashing Secretary Wilbur's recommendation for 71 new warships, the House naval committee decided yesterday to authorize the construction of 16 ships, one of them an aircraft carrier and the remainder cruisers of the ten thousand ton class. It turned thumbs down on new submarines.

This action, taken at a protracted executive session, was described by Chairman Butler as "practically unanimous and in line with the original United States proposal to the unsuccessful Geneva arms conference.

Wilbur had urged the committee to approve a building program of 25 cruisers, five aircraft carriers, nine destroyer leaders, and 32 submarines, respresenting the program as having the backing of President Coolidge.

Butler estimated the committee's program would cost $274,000,000 as compared with $740,000,000 for the administration's plan, both figures excluding the increase in aircraft and personnel for which the additional ships would call.

The committee in refusing to provide for submarines, turned a deaf ear not only to the naval secretary, but also to an emphatic protest by one of its own members, Representative McClintick, Democrat, Oklahoma. Regarding destroyer leaders, the committee said that the navy department had not as yet requested funds for the remaining twelve of large number of destroyers authorized under the 1916 building act.

The committee provided that the fifteen cruisers should be started within three years and completed within six and that the aircraft carrier be started within two years; that each year the navy request Congress for funds to carry out the construction and that a failure by Congress to provide funds in any year would not cause authorization for construction to lapse.

Representative Britten, Republican, Illinois, said these provisions would insure the building of the ships and prevent them from becoming a paper fleet.

No Time Limit

Mr. Wilbur had requested that no specific time limit be set for completion of the ships, and President Coolidge subsequently was reported as concurring in that recommendation.

The committee also adopted a provision that " in the event of an agreement for further limitation of naval armaments by international conference to which the United States is a signatory power, the president hereby is authorized and empowered to suspend in whole or part any of the naval construction authorized under this act.

After considerable discussion over the inclusion of two salvage ships, the committee voted to direct the naval secretary to prepare plans and costs of such ships and submit them for consideration. These ships would be of use for both submarines and other sea disasters.

Representative Vinson of Georgia, Democratic leader on the committee, said that fifteen cruisers would give a total tonnage in this class of 305,000 tons, or approximately the amount proposed in the original American Geneva proposal. The aircraft carrier would be of 13,800 tons displacement as compared with the 33,000 tons displacement of each of the two new carriers, Lexington and Saratoga.

N.B. LEGISLATURE TOLD OF PROGRESS

Industrial Growth Has Followed Power Development—Session Opens.

FREDERICTON, N. B., Feb. 23. — Canadian Press. — The industrial expansion created through the development of Grand Falls on the St. John River, and the "marked benefit" produced by the new mining act passed at the last session of the Provincial Legislature, were referred to in thes peech from the throne, with which the Hon. W. F. Todd, Lieutenant-Governor, to-day opened the third session of the sixteenth New Brunswick Legislature since confederation

The fact that New Brunswick's bonds sold in November at the highest prices up to that time since the great war was pointed to as evidence that the "credit of the province stands justly high," and in this connection was a reference to the financial statement for the past year, which showed a "real surplus on current accounts for the first time."

SINCLAIR REFUSES TO PRODUCE 19 BALLOTS FOUND ON STREET; DEADLOCK FOLLOWS HOT DEBATE

Will Exhibit Them When the Ballot Boxes Are Opened.

COMMITTEE ADJOURNS.

Liberal Leader Says Government Determined There Will Be No Inquiry.

TORONTO, Feb. 24. — Canadian Press. — Deadlocked when W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader, refused to produce any of the ballots he had stated were picked up on an Ottawa street, the Ontario Legislature's Privileges and Elections Committee to-day, adjourned to report to the Legislature this afternoon and asked for further instructions

The committee was investigating Mr. Sinclair's charges that unused ballots similar to the ones used in the last South Ottawa contest had been found on the street, and had subpoenaed Mr. Sinclair to produce the ballots to-day. The Liberal leader, however, contended the subpoena was a "general, roving one," and did not require production of the ballots. He declared he would submit the ballots as soon as the scrutiny of the election ballots was commenced.

Moving an adjournment, the Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, took the stand that the production of the ballots was necessary before the committee could instruct its subcommittee which has been appointed to scrutinize the ballot boxes.

Torrid verbal passages, similar to the heated arguments of the last sitting, again marked to-day's session with Mr. Sinclair declaring that the inquiry could have been terminated long ago "but for the determination of the government that there should not be any inquiry."

R. R. Sparks of Ottawa, told of receiving 19 ballots in question from a legal firm and handing them on to Mr. Sinclair. He was convinced there had been irregularities, he said.

Reported Many Cities Suffered During Quake

JERUSALEM, Feb. 24. - Canadian Press. — Nazareth was among the many cities which suffered from the earthquake which rocked Palestine Wednesday.

Reports received by government headquarters in Jerusalem, indicate that the earthquake was felt in Hebron, Haifa, Afuleh, Acre, Ludd, Jericho, Tiberius, Nazareth, Nablus, Ramleh.

Everywhere many houses, including municipal and government buildings, were damaged, Telegraph and telephone communications were interrupted

In Jerusalem the government houses on the Mount of Olives, which suffered in the earthquake of last July, were again damaged.

The Hebrew University on Mount Scopus again suffered damage, many walls of the buildings being cracked. In many cities and villages the population passed the night in the open, afraid of a repetition of the shock.

EXTEND TIME OF CAMPAIGN

Committee Decides To Give Teams More Time To Finish Canvas.

MR. McKEEN TO STAY.

The Chamber of Commerce membership campaign will continue into next week. This decision was reached on Thursday, when the executive committee, consisting of G. A. Gillespie, J. J. Turner, James Dutton, J. Wells Fraser, Chris Graham and Charles Lacheur met in conference at the Empress Hotel.

The reports from the Activities committee and team captains indicated that they could not see all their prospects in time to close the canvas this week.

As Mr. McKeen's term of service closes Saturday of this week, on motion of J. Wells Fraser, the American City Bureau was wired in the name of the committe asking that Mr. McKeen to be allowed to remain in Peterborough to continue the direction of the work, each of the men present signing the telegram.

During the afternoon a telegram was received by President Gillespie from the bureau reading as follows: "Although it means an adjustment of our future schedules of services to other towns, we gladly extend the time of Mr. McKeen into next week just as long as local leaders and workers continue to co-operate. This action is taken in the interest of greatest possible measure of success. —O. Ray Stone, Manager.

"This action on the part of the bureau," said Mr. Gillespie this morning, "indicates that they think more of service rendered than they do of fee received, for the contract would justify them demanding the fee for service rendered and send the director on to his next job."

"It will be a pleasure for me to assist the local organization in rounding out the work of the campaign." said Mr. McKeen, on seeing the telegram. Your people do not all see the significance and importance of having this organization in position to do the things that Peterborough must do else they would all be making investments in membership. Peterborough grows on me from day to day. It has a great future but this will only be attained by team work on the part of its citizenship in assuming some responsibility for it through organization.

"Archdeacon Davidson was correct yesterday when he said, 'Peterborough looked better to those on the outside than to some who reside here.' To me it is a city of opportunity. This can only be realized though through effort on the part of home people."

The executive committee and captains will meet for conference at the council room of the Chamber of Commerce this evening at 7.30 to make plans for next week's work.

The dinner planned for this evening has been postponed until the closing night of the campaign. Luncheon will be announced through The Examiner and by bulletin.

INSURANCE RATE CUT CONSIDERED

Mayor Denne, Alderman Ackerman, Phelan, and Stocker and City Clerk S. R. Armstrong interviewed the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association in Toronto on Wednesday and asked for a better fire insurance rate for this city. They were given a very courteous hearing and came away with the promise that the matter would be considered and the council would be advised by letter of the action taken.

THREE HURT AT CROSSING

Dr. H. F. Scott, of Campbellford, Badly Injured—Companion Shaken Up.

TRAIN HITS CAR.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 24.— Dr. H. F. Scott, of Campbellford, was seriously hurt, and two other men badly shaken up when the car in which they were driving collided with a C.N.R. freight train at 12.30, west of Stirling, this afternoon.

The two who escaped serious injury were William Blue, a Campbellford hockey player, and a man by the name of Rogers.

Dr. Scott, who was most seriously injured, was put into the caboose and is being rushed to a Peterborough hospital. The extent of his injuries is not known yet.

The ambulances of D. Belleghem and Sons and A. Comstock and Sons were waiting at the C.N.R. Station when the engine and caboose of the freight train pulled into the station. Rogers and Blue appeared to be shaken up badly with possibly some ribs broken. Dr. Scott, who was being attended by Dr. Holcroft of Stirling is seriously injured around the hips and back.

The engineer on the train claimed he did not see the car approaching as there was a blinding snow storm at the time.

The three injured men were rushed to Nicholls Hospital.

MAY BE EXPELLED.

Husband of Kaiser's Sister in Trouble With the Authorities.

BERLIN, February 24 (Canadian Press). — The feasibility of expelling Alexander Subkoff, young husband of the Princess Victoria Schaumberg-Lippe, from Germany is being considered by the police as an outcome of an incident yesterday morning when he was charged with having knocked a page boy senseless.

The police are investigating Subkoff's status in Germany inasmuch as he has no passport and is technically a man without a country since the Soviet Government has refused him a Russian passport.

Although the Princess Victoria, who is a sister of the former German Emperor, has the same legal status as her 27-year-old husband through her marriage, an expulsion order would not necessarily apply to her as there is no question of her being guilty of any misdemeanor.

MRS. WALDON IS HONORED

Lakefield A.Y.P.A. Presents Departing Member With Club Bag.

ONE OF ORIGINALS

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 24.—The A.Y.P.A. held a very successful banquet on Monday evening, February 20, in the Parish Hall. At seven o'clock about thirty sat down to the tables which were most attractively decorated in Valentine colors with hearts used as place cards. The supper was a bountiful one, daintly served by the committee the members of which had spared no effort to make the function successful. They succeeded admirably, with an appetizing menu and a good evening's program of amusements.

Before leaving the table Miss Graham read the following address to Mrs. Trude Waldon, who leaves shortly to join her husband in Detroit:

"Dear Mrs. Waldon—Our little quartette of "Originals" will by your departure be converted into a trio, and we hope that as we will always keep your memory green, our A.Y.P.A. will always remain to you a pleasant memory. During the past seventeen years you have seen members come and members go; you have made gallons of tea, hundreds of sandwiches and scores of cakes. You have seen the branch grow from a modest beginning with modest ambition to a live branch, at last reaching a time when it is being referred to in parish circles as a "splendid organization."

You helped us carry on in the dark days of the war when the banner was kept aloft by a little band of women and girls, and in the years since the Armistice you have always been in the forefront. You have had the office of president, vice-president and secretary in turn and have served well and to the utmost of your ability, and now, on the eve of your departure, we meet together to present to you a remembrance of St. John's A.Y.P.A., Lakefield, hoping that it may serve you as faithfully as you served the branch. May God bless and keep you, is our best wish for you.

Signed on behalf of the branch:
Walter Chappell, president; Wilfred S. Remnant, vice-president; Ernest Robertshaw, treasurer."

Mr. Reg. Murduff presented Mrs. Waldon with a handsome club bag and a box containing some sweets for use while travelling. Mrs. Waldon was quite overcome by the evidence of appreciation from her fellow members and replied in few words assuring her hearers that friendships such as these cannot be broken and assuring the branch of her continued interest and thanking all for their splendid co-operation which had made possible much of the achievement in the past.

Mrs. Waldon will return in the summer for a month or two when she hopes to renew the ties which have bound her to the A.Y.P.A.

It was especially delightful that all four of the original members of the branch were present on the happy occasion, each one taking a special part. Miss Amy Watson was a member of the committe in charge, Miss Graham read the address and Mr. Murduff made the presentation while Mrs. Waldon, the fourth member, was the recipient of the honors.

Seventeen years ago Rev. A. H Ben Oliel, now in Collingwood, organized the branch and was its first president. Since his departure in 1915, there have been three presidents, Mrs. Waldon, Mr. C. C. Stenner, and Mr. W. Chappell, all three of whom were present.

A hearty vote of thanks was given to the committee for its splendid work in arranging the entertainment and banquet. The members of the committee were Mrs. W. Chappell, Mrs. C. C. Stenner, Miss A. Watson and Mr. E. Robertshaw. The evening was spent in games and contests, winding up with a jolly little dance.

During an attack of bronchial pneumonia, the heart of an Australian baby stopped beating eight times but massage was successfully applied by the doctors and the child lived.

OMEMEE Y.P.A. HAS BANQUET

Annual Gathering of Anglican Church Society is Jolly Affair.

GOOD PROGRAM

OMEMEE, Feb. 24.—The annual banquet, held on Monday evening last, by the Omemee branch of the A.Y.P.A. may be aptly described as a good time enjoyed by all. In spite of the weather which sought to block the roads, there was a good attendance. Gaily decorated tables were filled with the tempting delicacies of a bountiful festive board.

Rev. A T. Weir proposed the first toast to the King, and the toast to the church was proposed by N. Burgomaster, who touched briefly on the church's history and pointing out the value of her services to her people. Immediately upon drinking the toast, one verse of "The Church's One Foundation" was sung, after which J. Bent spoke in reply, and confined his remarks to the early forms of the church and the manner in which they did things in those days.

Miss M. Dickson favored the gathering with a solo entitled "Come out Mr. Sunshine," after which W. G. Stephenson led in some lively community singing.

H. Walklet proposed the toast to Canada and spoke of his appreciation of this country, also voicing his impressions of the Canadian church. "O Canada" was sung after drinking the toast, which was replied to by G. Dickson who presented Canada as a land of opportunity and set forth the advantages that make it an ideal country.

J. Wilby gave an interesting reading "The Green Eye of the Little Yellow God."

The toast to the A.Y.P.A. was given by H. Burgess, who inserted some humor in his own particular way to the amusement of all. After drinking the toast, the gathering sang "Blest be the tie that binds." This toast was replied to by Miss M. Dickson, the branch president, mentioning some facts concerning the organization and touching on the fourfold principle of the A.Y.P.A., namely, Worship, Work, Fellowship and Edification.

Miss Lenore Jamieson gave a delightful piano solo after which followed the reading of the "Spotlight", the branch magazine, by Horace Hill, the editor which afforded great amusement as jokes on different members were read aloud.

This being leap year, the ladies drank a toast to the gentlemen, proposed by Miss Ethel Stephenson, saying nice things, and otherwise, about the gentlemen. S. Tripp replied in a humorous manner, thanking the proposer for her kind remarks and citing examples of great men of days past and present. He also hazarded a guess at the future of some of the young men of the branch.

W.C.T.U. PROTESTS SMOKING BY MINORS

Madoc Organization Sends Resolution to Village Council Asking Action.

MADOC, Feb. 24.—A resolution to be presented to the Village Council, was discussed and passed at the regular meeting of the W.C.T.U. held at the Trinity Church parsonage recently, regarding the observance of the law as to selling of cigarettes to minors. It is with alarm and concern that the members see youths very frequently using cigarettes—and the law is very clearly defined in this matter.

Mrs. John McCaffrey presided, and the devotional part of the meeting was taken by Mrs. F. Jenkins. The president read a few articles dealing with phases of the Government Control Act, as it has worked out at the border City of Detroit, in regard to the American tourist. Only 5 per cent of those coming to Canada by Detroit, took out permits last summer.

A letter, full of wishes for success, unity and service, was read from the Provincial President.

A social half-hour was enjoyed by members and a number of visitors.

State and Defence Close Their Cases In Buckley Murder Trial At Cambridge

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., February 24 (Canadian Press). — The case of Joseph Foster Buckley, of Weston, formerly of Halifax, on trial in the Middle Superior Court for the murder of his sweetheart, Grace Mills, of Waltham, on November 15 last, will go to the jury to-day.

State and defence closed their cases yesterday, and the jury was taken to view the automobile, in which the girl's body was found with two bullet wounds in the chest. George L. Ellsworth, counsel for the defence, began his address to the jury, and will complete it this forenoon, when District Attorney Robert T. Bushnell will reply for the State.

The defence counsel maintained that the two confessions attributed to Buckley while he was under the treatment in Waltham Hospital after an attempt at suicide, were "partly concoctions." He said the confessions had been tampered with, and contained erasures and forgeries. In these statements, Buckley was quoted as saying that he had killed the girl to end her sufferings after she had wounded herself while carrying out her part of their suicide agreement. The defence at the trial contended that Miss Mills fired one shot into her own body, and that she was wounded a second time by the accidental discharge of the pistol as Buckley strove to wrest it from her.

Ellsworth said the State had failed to show any motive for the killing of Miss Mills, and described Buckley as "a hard working, outdoor youth, clean and honest."

Two-Gun Bandit Shoots Up Saloon

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—(Canadian Press.)—A two gun terrorist, apparently crazed by drink or drugs, shot up a "blind pig" in dime novel style shortly after midnight to-day, calmly re-loaded his guns, ordered three drinks, and then shot the bartender dead, robbed the cash register, and escaped while twenty men and women looked on helpless.

James Casey, 44, was arrested to-day and identified as the man who did the shooting. The police said he was known as a drug addict. Casey denied any knowledge of the shooting.

A similar case was reported on south side to-day. A man entered a candy store, bought a package of cigarettes, drew a revolver and shot Phillip Leonetti, who was warming himself at the radiator a few feet away. Leonetti, who owned the restaurant next door, died instantly. He had just entered to visit with the proprietor of the candy store. The man escaped.

LITERARY SOCIETY STUDIES KIPLING

Springville - Fairmount Society Led by Miss Helen Staples in Discussion.

SPRINGVILLE, Feb. 24.—The Springville-Fairmount Literary Society and friends enjoyed a very educational and interesting program at the weekly meeting when the life of Rudyard Kipling was studied under the guidance of Miss Helen Staples, who told the life history, while readings from his poetry and prose were given by Fred Macindoo, Miss C. McConnachie, Miss Mary Stales and Rev. A. H. McConnachie. The entire program showed careful thought and study on the part of those participating and proved to be one of the best of literary evenings.

At the close of the program the usual social hour was enjoyed by all.

GOLDEN WEDDING AT YOUNG'S POINT

Mr. and Mrs. William Northey Honored on Fiftieth Anniversary.

YOUNG'S POINT, Feb. 24. — On February 21, 1878, fifty years ago, in the village of Lakefield, William Northey and Katherin Hatton were married.

On Tuesday, surrounded by their children and grandchildren and about sixty relatives and friends, they celebrated the golden anniversary of that occasion.

Among the guests were the bride's two sisters, Mrs. Millage and Mrs. Jones, both of Toronto and Thos. Northey of Haultain, three who had attended the wedding fifty years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Northey have both been blessed with good health and surrounded by thir family they are celebrating their golden wedding on the farm at Hautlain where they have spent forty out of the fifty years.

The family consists of five boys and three girls, all of whom are living: Wiliam, Thomas, Joseph and John, at Haultain; Gordon and Percy, Young's Point; Mrs. Cummings (Maggie), Mrs. Trotter (Lizzie), both living in the west; and Mrs. Wesley Davis (Emma) at Young's Point.

A number of useful and pretty gifts were received together with twenty dollars in gold. Both the bride and groom expressed their thanks for the love and kindness bestowed on them by their children and friends.

After dinner the evening was spent in cards and dancing.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Reed have moved to Lakefield for the winter months.

Miss Helen Brooks, of Peterborough, spent the week end at her home in the village.

Mr. Leonard Johnston, of Peterborough, visited his father on Sunday.

Miss Daisy Wilson is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Darling at Selwyn.

VISITORS' NIGHT AT MADOC C.E.S.

St. Peter's Church Society Attracts Many for Interesting Program.

MADOC, Feb. 24—St. Peter's Christian Endeavor Society held a visitors' night on Tuesday, the aim being to get those of the congregation who do not frequent the meetings to take part in the program. By mail and pulpit announcement the "old folks" were made aware of what was expected of them, and a fine of fifty cents was the penalty for non-attendance.

The program was excellent and the "faithfuls" sat back and enjoyed it immensely. The solos, duets, and speeches of the visiting artists were well worth hearing and the hearty spirit in which each number was given was an inspiration to the executive. Another "visitors' night" will be held in March.

The address in the religious period was based on the hymn, "Stand Up, Stand Up For Jesus" and immediately following it Miss Le Grand gave a very interesting account of her work among the teen-age girls in Toronto.

STUDIO RECITAL GIVEN AT OMEMEE

Interesting Program Given at Home of Miss Eva Race.

OMEMEE, Feb. 24.—A studio recital was given at the home of Miss Eva Race on Thursday evening, February 16, and after the musical part of the evening contests and games in keeping with Valentine Day were enjoyed, a dainty lunch was served by the hostess. Those taking part were: Madeline Gray, Marguerite Morton, Elsie Day, Christina Connell, Dorothy Deyel, Helen McNevin, Hugh Rehill, Dorothy Rea, Olive Reeds, Evelyn Morcombe, Doreen Rehill, Harry Burgess, Jane Magee, Rhea Magee, Verna Gardiner, Doris Jones, Almeda Magee, Ruth Jones, Helen Johnson, Freda Magee, Cora Magee, Doris Vaughan, James Johnson, and Howard Vaughan.

HASTINGS PEOPLE ENJOY CONCERT

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Sunday School Gives Fine Program.

HASTINGS, Feb. 24.—An interesting program was given at the annual social of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Sunday School recently. Supper was served from 6 to 8 at which about three hundred were served. Rev. Mr. Thomson, who had charge of the program, acted as chairman for the occasion.

The program consisted of: Instrumental, Miss Mary Fowlds; chorus, junior girls, "All We Can Do"; recitation, Jean Clapper; vocal solo, Keitha Mouncey with encore, "I Want a Pardon for Daddy"; recitation, Stanley Fife, "Our Clock"; duet, Misses West and Dainard, "Little Flowers"; piano solo, Madeline Todd; recitation, Isabel Fowlds; duet, Misses Madeline and Lily Dodd, "Bluejay"; reading, Valda Mouncey "Somebody's Mother"; recitation, Pearl McMillan; reading, Evelyn Graham; recitation, Jimmie Mouncey; vocal solo, Marjorie Dodd; dialogue, "The Up-Lift Society", consisting of Mrs. Grover Kerr as Mrs. Snubbins, Mrs. Thomas Choplin as Mrs. Tattler, Mrs. Doughty as Mrs. Yellit, Miss Norma Anderson as Mrs. Muddle, Miss Maud Spiers as the secretary, Mrs. Irvine Doonon as Mrs. Scrubbins; recitation, Flora Yule; instrumental, Audrey Doonon; recitation, Daisy Graham; reading, Annie Spooner, "Bargain Day"; solo, Keitha Mouncey.

Rev. A. C. Hie extended greetings from the United church, and complimented the young people on their ability for speaking in public, this being the foundation for knowledge in later years. Rev. Mr. Thomson thanked those taking part and also those who patronized their social. The proceeds amounted to $120.

VOLCANO ERUPTS.

Asamazama, in Japan, Hurls Large Stones Over Surrounding District.

TOKIO, Feb. 24.—(Canadian Press.)—The greatest eruption of the Asamayama volcano in eight years occurred yesterday. A deafening roar accompanied the disturbance and large boulders were thrown from the crater, doing much damage to property. The inhabitants of the surrounding villages were terror stricken. No casualties were reported.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER HONORED

Miss Florence Fallis, of Millbrook, Presented With Ivory Clock.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 24—The teachers and officers of the United Church Sunday School remembered, on Sunday afternoon, a retiring member of the staff, Miss Florence Fallis, who has been for some years the capable teacher of the beginners' class in the primary department, the tangible token of their regard taking the form of a clock for the dressing-table, with case in French ivory tint.

Owing to the heavy duties Miss Fallis has undertaken, adding to her daily teaching in public school, studies in both music and further High School work, the obligation of Sunday school activities at present was felt to be more than could be carried out; hence the resignation which was recently sent in, and regretfully accepted by the other members of the Board.

The address which accompanied the gift was as follows:

"Your resignation as teacher of the Beginners' Class in our Sunday School has been received with a real regret by the members of the staff.

We understand you have many claims on your time and strength, and know that the years ahead are planned to be full of activities, but we would have been glad could you have seen your way clear to remain with us for awhile longer.

We appreciate your faithful services during the years you have been one of us, and we ask you to accept this small token of our affection and esteem.

As it ticks the hours away, may it bring to your mind happy memories of the associations with the teaching staff of the Millbrook United Church Sunday School.

Our prayers go with you for a successful career in your teaching profession, and that you, with us, may have a growing experience in true Christian living.

We feel assured wherever your pathway in life may lead, you will always find your 'niche of service', and that you will 'work heartily, cheerfully, and effectually, ever ready for the place farther up.'

Signed on behalf of the Teachers and Officers of the Sunday School—Mrs. L. H. Rea, Mrs. F. H. Howard, Miss Pearl Burnham.

WEDDING BELLS

STEWART—McQUIGGE.

HAVELOCK, Feb. 24—A quiet wedding was solemnized at the United Church Parsonage at Norwood, recently when Jessie Irene McQuigge daughter of the late Thomas and Mrs. McQuigge, of Havelock, became the bride of John Alexander Stewart, son of the late John and Mrs. Stewart of Belmont. Rev. R. F. Stillman officiated. The bride was becomingly attired in napoleon blue georgette gown with hat to match.

The happy couple left on a honeymoon trip to Smith Falls. On their return they will reside in Belmont.

GRANDMA SHOWED HOW TO STOP CHILD'S COUGH

Doctors at Hospital Praise Way She Broke Up Cold—Is Ideal Method for Home Use.

No longer is it necessary to stand by helplessly when children suffer the hardships and danger of coughing spells. For number of Peterborough mothers have learned to give children both quick and lasting relief with a pleasant and dependable reemdy now endorsed for home use by the hospital.

Mrs. Edith Cummings, for example, became frightened when her seven year old granddaughter, Betty, coughed so hard Sunday night it seemed she would strangle. Her little bronchial tubes were rapidly filling up with congestion and pneumonia was feared.

As soon as daylight came she called her family doctor who phoned the druggist to send up a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—a mixture of ingredients which hospitals have found to be the most dependable. Little Betty like the taste and just a pleasant swallow or two relieved the hard coughing spells. She continued taking it as the doctor ordered and in a day or so was out frolicking—as well as ever.

Note: Other cases reported daily—all certified by the physician who treated each case.

Doctors find that this hospital medicine does far more than stop coughing instantly. It goes straight to the seat of a stubborn head cold or chest cold. Absorbed through and through the whole system, it quickly checks phlegm, heals irritation and drives out the cold from the nose passages, throat and bronchial tubes.

Even sick children love the flavor—and mothers who have once tried Cherry Pectoral have been delighted to find that it keeps the whole family free from colds and coughs all winter, if used according to the hospital direction in each carton.

LENTEN ADDRESS MARMORA CHURCH

Rev. A. B. Caldwell Opens Series With Discussion of "The Christian."

MARMORA, Feb. 24.—The first of a series of Lenten addresses to be given on the Wednesday evenings in Lent at St. Paul's was delivered by the rector, Rev. A. B. Caldwell on Ash Wednesday, the subject being "The Christian". The preacher pointed out that the word Christian occurs but three times in the New Testament and that this name was bestowed upon the followers of Christ by the pagan colony of Antioch. He also showed how the name came to be honored among the disciples since Peter in his epistle refers to the Lord's followers suffering as Christians. The address was of an introductory nature, the remaining addresses dealing with the various possessions of the Christian. Next week the Christians faith will be considered. Collections at these services will be devoted to the missions of the church.

HISTORY DISCUSSED

Madoc Presbyterian W. M. S. Hears About Settlers' Battles With Indians.

MADOC, February 24. — The February meeting of the Presbyterian W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Jenkins. The lesson was taken from the new study book, "The Royal Road," and was given by Mrs. McCaffrey, in a very instructive way. Mrs. McCaffrey had a map of the Dominion of Canada before the members, and traced the different attacks between the Indians and the new settlers. Although the chapter was a very difficult one, it was made very clear.

Mrs. Mackintosh took charge of the Scripture period, in which several took part.

Celebrations Held In Honor of Red Army

MOSCOW, February 24 (Associated Press). — Celebrations in honor of the tenth anniversary of the Red Army opened yesterday. They will continue for several days, with parades in every city, town and village where the troops are stationed. All the military clubs and barracks are holding gala meetings and special dinners.

The newspapers in describing the Army's exploits and achievements completely ignore Leon Trotzky, organizer of the army, and former idol of the soldiers, who is now in exile.

The occasion has been honored by the bestowal of numerous decorations on prominent statesmen.

THEN ALL-BRAN SAVED HIM FROM CONSTIPATION

A message for people who use laxatives

Mr. Skiles wrote us a voluntary testimonial after Kellogg's ALL-BRAN had saved him from dreadful constipation. Read his tribute:

July 12, 1927

"For years I have been so constipated. After trying every kind of drug possible, I could only get temporary relief. I became discouraged and gave up hopes, when a friend told me to use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I had read so many testimonials I had no faith. I was of the opinion testimonials were put out by friends. I will not only give you the privilege to use my name, but I will go on the witness stand and testify to my statement. I cannot express words great enough to meet with Kellogg's food."
—ARTHUR SKILES.

(Address on request.)

If constipation is preying upon your health, check it before too late. If you are using habit-forming laxatives, stop it before this harmful practice fastens its grip too tight.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. A 100% bran cereal—delicious with milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Use in cooking too. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

TORONTO POLICE CHIEF ALLOWED TO QUIT OFFICE

Board Accepts Resignation But Does Not Choose His Successor.

DEPUTY WILL ACT.

Resolution of Esteem Presented To Retiring Official By Police Commissioners.

TORONTO, Feb. 24.—Chief of Police Samuel J. Dickson's resignation, handed in to the Board of Police Commissioners, at a former meeting, was accepted by the Board, when it assembled in the City Hall yesterday afternoon. The Chief's retirement dates from the time of his resignation being accepted, instead of his serving the usual month's notice. He was granted three months' salary. Deputy Chief Beatty will be acting chief until the Board decides upon a successor.

When interviewed after the meeting, former Chief Dickson seemed both pleased and sorry that he was casting aside the cares of office; pleased because retirement from an active life would allow him the relaxation he craved, but sorry to step out of a sphere of activity in which he has moved for the last 38 years, and in which his heart and soul delighted.

Mayor McBride and Judges Coatsworth and Morson, the complete Board, discussed the resignation immediately on assembling, and in a few minutes their decision was known. Mayor McBride left the meeting a little ahead of his confreres and made the announcement.

The matter of a successor to erstwhile Chief Dickson was discussed but no action was taken, except to appoint Deputy Chief Beatty to act.

Expression of Esteem

That the commissioners held former Chief Dickson in high esteem is manifest by the resolution drafted yesterday and presented to the late chief. It was moved by Judge Coatsworthworth, and reads:

"The Chief Constable, with 38 years' faithful service, having been ordered to secure a well-earned rest and relaxation, has tendered his resignation, and the same having been accepted, the Board places on record its high appreciation of his splendid, efficient and conscientious work throughout his whole career, and grants to him salary equivalent to three months' leave of absence.

"The name of Samuel J. Dickson is honored in Toronto as representing all that is best and noble in the police force."

Former Chief Dickson joined the force on April 1, 1890, and from that time he has gone through every rank in the department. He "pounded the beat" for years before making his first step upwards to the rank of patrol sergeant. Promotion became rapid after this. The most memorable event of his career was when he intercepted two men who had slain a Toronto merchant, and in the fight which followed, shot and killed one of the slayers.

Interests Were Broad

After attaining the rank of inspector, the former chief was for several years in charge of Court Street Division. Business had not then gained the firm hold of the downtown section it now has; nor was the traffic problem so acute as at present. But there was plenty of work for an ambitious, promising officer to do. The bars were wide open, and the criminals active.

The former chief's interest in police affairs did not stop at his own force. His activities embraced a wider area. Time and again he attended meetings of the Chief Constables' Association of Canada and the annual conferences of the International Police Chiefs' Association. In these two organizations he has held office.

While somewhat of a martinet in the department, he was popular and highly regarded by those under him.

When asked yesterday when he would be leaving office, he replied: "As soon as I get cleaned up here. It may be to-morrow, or within the next two days."

Other matters dealt with by the Board were the dismissal of one constable and reduction of another for misdemeanors.

The electrical by-law was before the Board again, but was laid over for two weeks.

CONSERVATIVES WIN.

Retain Ilford Seat In By-Election, But Majority Was Reduced.

ILFORD, England, Feb. 24. Canadian Press. — The Conservatives have retained their seat at the by-election here, necessitated by the death of Sir Frederick Wise, but with a reduced majority. The resultts were as follows:

Sir George Hamilton, Conservative, 18,269.

A. Comyns Carr, Liberal, 13,621.

C. DeCruchy, Labor, 8,922.

Sir George Hamilton was a member of the House of Commons from 1913 to 1923, and was Parliamentary private secretary to the Ministry of Pensions in 1919 and 1920

COMMON MISTAKES

Judge McCormick, of San Francisco, says these are the thirteen commonest mistakes in life:

1. To attempt to set up your own standards of right and wrong.
2. To try to measure the enjoyment of others by your own.
3. To expect uniformity of opinions in this world.
4. To fail to make allowances for inexperience.
5. To endeavor to mold all dispositions alike.
6. Not to yield to unimportant trifles.
7. To look for perfection in your own actions.
8. To worry ourselves and others about what cannot be remedied.
9. To consider a thing impossible that we cannot ourselves perform.
10. Failing to help everybody wherever, however, and whenever we can.
11. To believe only what our finite minds can grasp.
12. Not to make allowances for the weakness of others.
13. To estimate by some outside quality when it is not within him which makes the man.

MATERNAL MORTALITY.

The report of the inquiry into maternal mortality for Canada made by the Division of Child Welfare, Federal Department of Health, contains some arresting figures.

It is a shock to find that in the year from July 1, 1925, to July 1, 1926, we lost in Canada from childbirth or other causes connected therewith 1,532 mothers, who left behind them 5,073 motherless children.

And the report says that at least 1,000 of these lives could have been and should have been saved.

Would it not be good business for every community to study the summary of the results of this inquiry with a view to stopping this toll of four mothers loss every day in the year throughout Canada because of carelessness or ignorance or indifference.

There could be no better investment of the tax money than to do something to check this loss of life.

BETTING ON THE DOGS.

There may be many things that Canada lacks, but surely opportunities for gambling cannot be included in the list.

The Examiner, therefore, can see no merit in the bill now before the House of Commons proposing to legalize betting on the racing of greyhounds or other dogs.

It is pleaded on behalf of racetrack grambling that it is a necessary adjunct of a system that encourages the breeding of horses, when even that weak-kneed argument cannot be dragged in to excuse betting on greyhounds.

This form of gambling has in recent years become a mania in several countries, and far from serving any useful purpose, it has developed into a gigantic evil, leading up to conditions that we would be very reluctant to welcome to Canada.

There are a dozen reasons why this bill should be speedily killed in the House, and not one that The Examiner can see for giving it more than momentary consideration.

We can satisfy our thirst for gambling by means of the agencies already legalized—there is no need to widen the field.

THE MONTREAL STAR'S SOLUTION.

The Montreal Star, avowing its freedom from affiliation from any political party and calling upon the newspapers of the Dominion to force a political truce on the question of immigration, has put forward a policy that it claims will make Canada stand out in the near future as the great colonizing country of the coming age.

The Star's plan will cause a great deal of comment throughout the country.

The Montreal journal admits that it is revolutionary but adds that "the argument against the continuance of our slow-limping methods is so convincing that a revolutionary plan of some kind must be adopted or our overshadowing will be more and more marked."

And here is the plan, drafted, The Star says, "after long consideration by profound students and men of practical experience."

> "1st—Apply the system of Protection in full measure to secure the home market for the producer.
>
> "2nd—Bonus the manufacturer on his exports to enable him to undersell trade rivals in foreign countries.
>
> "If the claim is well founded that every new settler in this country is a national asset equivalent to one thousand dollars, the bonus might in this way to a large extent be paid by what the new comers are doing for the upbuilding of the country.
>
> "3rd—By a rigid system of inspection compel the manufacturer to sell for home consumption at cost with a restricted margin of profit to be determined by an independent tribunal when the policy is inaugurated, and thus convince the consumer that he is not being called upon to pay the equivalent of the duty.
>
> "In order to make the bounty attractive to the manufacturer establish it on a sliding scale relative to volume of export with provision for readjustment at stated periods as he establishes his export trade.
> "4th—Provide strict preventive laws carrying heavy penalties for the evasion of the enactments governing the strict application of this policy."

The Star's policy embraces, of course, the policy of "protection" for Canadian industry, but it differs in several material respects from the usual form.

In the first place, it takes into consideration the fact that the consumer must be protected against profiteering under the shield of the tariff.

And much more radical is the proposal of a bonus on exports, based on the idea that manufacturing exclusively for the home market offers too limited a scope, and that manufacturing for export will afford employment to many thousands and must therefore constitute the basis of our hopes for peopling this country.

On behalf of its new policy The Star claims that with an export business established as suggested an estimate holds out the prospect of a million new comers a year, thus giving the farmers of this country a million new consumers for their products.

SOMETHING WRONG HERE.

> "The farmers ask only that their natural chance to get on be not too much interfered with—that they be not too much burdened by customs duties and sales taxes for the benefit of city and town industries."—Toronto Star.

There is surely something wrong here.

The Star may have some reason to feel that custom duties are maintained "for the benefit of city and town industries"—although protectionists will differ from that opinion and claim that an adequate tariff is in the long run in the general interest—but where in the name of common-sense did our contemporary discover the idea that the sales tax is in force for the benefit of industry?

It most certainly must be apparent to everybody that industry and business desire nothing better than the complete disappearance of the sales tax.

To them it is a nuisance tax, and they regard it as a restraint upon trade, the removal of which would stimulate business everywhere.

They are looking forward to a speedy wiping out of the tax, and will be amused with the thought that a levy that they have always resented and that has caused them additional expense and much inconvenience is described as something that is kept in force for their benefit.

And, as a matter of fact, the only voice raised in the House in favor of the retention of the sales tax was that of W. R. Fansher, Progressive member for Last Mountain, who speaking from the farmer's viewpoint, said of the sales levy: "I think, therefore, that we can well afford to have this tax continue for some considerable time, and I would suggest to the Minister, if I may be permitted, that no further reductions be made in this tax for at least a few years to come."

Evidently The Star must have been switched onto the wrong siding.

STOCK SPECULATOR PERFORMED REAL SERVICE.

Some interesting observations regarding the stock speculator are contained in the February letter of the Bank of Nova Scotia, which indicates that this much maligned individual does perform a very real service by keeping the security market fluid. While actuated by gain he, nevertheless, plays an important and valuable part in the present-day scheme of things. After dealing with the service performed by the speculator in grain or cotton futures, the letter proceeds to say that the economic advantages of speculation in the stock market are perhaps less obvious. The speculator buys or sells, of his own volition, at his own risk, and for purely private reasons. More often than not he may lose in the long run. A turn of the wheel enriches him; another turn, and his riches are lost. Whether he be gaining or losing at the moment, the public is apt to suppose that his activities fulfil no social purpose—that he renders no service to the public, and merits no reward. Sometimes an object of envy, sometimes an object lesson for the young, he does not in either case appear in a constructive role. He has no place in public estimation among the real "producers."

Is it possible that this does less than justice to him? Though his only purpose may be self-seeking, is there a rendering of service, no matter what the motive?

The question is perhaps best answered by reference to the time, not many generations ago, when there was no market for capital and hence no speculation. What has been called "the joint stock era" dates from about 1690. Before that time the man with savings for investment labored under a double handicap. If his savings were small he was likely, for practical purposes, to be debarred from all but small scale undertakings. More serious than this, however, was the fact that, having once invested his capital in an undertaking of any kind, there was no simple and speedy method by which he could withdraw it should he wish to do so presently, with the result that, inevitably, the forms of industry were stereotyped, experiment in new directions of production could seldom attract the necessary capital, and investors prudently confined themselves to paths that were well-worn and familiar.

In order to make possible the very fluid conditions of today, when a fresh invention may become at once the basis of new, large-scale industries—when the provision of radio sets in scores of millions is an affair of six or seven years—we have had to create institutions of a special character. The principles of joint-stock and limited liability were essential to the change. But besides the formulation of new principles, we have had also to find a class of men willing to take over the function of risk bearing, and to purchase the holdings of anyone who wishes to withdraw from any reasonable business enterprise.

The chief characteristic of the speculator in securities is his willingness to purchase any stock, if offered at a sufficiently attractive price. Alike in bad times and in good it is he who keeps the market fluid. He it is who makes it possible for any man to meet his commitments by throwing his holdings on the market. Though by no means obvious at a glance, on reflection it is clear that this opportunity to selling out at any time is one of the conditions essential to rapid and flexible economic development. More especially, the creation of new forms of industry might be delayed indefinitely, could this not be done.

It is the prospect of his own enrichment that attracts the speculator to the stock market. No more prone than others to philosophise about his actions, he would probably be the last to claim that his dealings were a public service. Often, too, his rashness leads him to discount the future far too heavily; to the danger of others as well as of himself. Nevertheless, he plays a part in the productive process. So long as its wants are expanding and changing, and its clamor is insistent for their satisfaction, the public cannot do without him.—Monetary Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Only 250 people attended the "mass" meeting in Toronto called to agitate for an old age pension system in Ontario. There'll have to be more pressure than that before the Government will be induced to act.

The flight of Capt. Bert Hinkle, Australian aviator, from England to Australia ranks with the greatest flying feats yet recorded.

A modern fairy tale: Once there was a Quebec member who made a speech on the Budget debate without asking for public money to be spent in his constituency.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, February 24. — With leftovers from Wednesday totalling 200, cattle trade at the Union Stock Yards yesterday continued very dull, practically no sales going through except for a few butchers' cattle.

Bids are 25c to 50c a hundred lower on steers and heifers.

A few cows were disposed of at steady prices of from $6.00 to $8.50 a hundred.

Hogs sold at steady prices of $9.00 f.o.b. or $9.90 off cars for selects.

Sheep and lambs hold steady with a good demand.

The general tone of the market yesterday was one of apathy.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 24 (Canadian Press).—The demand from foreign buyers for grain here yesterday showed further improvement, and some business was done with the United Kingdom and Continent in wheat and oats for nearby shipment.

In the domestic market sales of Manitoba No. 4 wheat were made to New York exporters at 14½c per bushel under the Winnipeg May option, c.i.f. Bay Ports, and car lots of oats changed hands for all-rail shipment from Fort William. The local and country demand for coarse grains was steady and prices ruled firm.

A feature of the flour trade was the continued steady demand from foreign buyers for Spring wheat grades and a fair volume of business was accomplished for both nearby and deferred shipment. The local demand was also good and prices were firm. A fair trade was also done in Winter wheat flour and prices were unchanged.

A fairly active trade was done in all lines of millfeed and the undertone was firm. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was quiet and values were steady.

The undertone to the egg market was firm under a good demand from all sources. The receipts were 1,521 cases.

In sympathy with the advices from New Brunswick and the strength in the United States, potato markets, a firm feeling prevailed in the local situation and prices were fully maintained. The demand was good for Quebec grades.

The market for imported beans continued active and firm. Car lots of choice white hand-picked were quoted at $3.10 per bushel, ex-track, and broken lots sold at $3.20 per bushel, ex-store.

The demand for butter continued of a limited character but prices were unchanged. The receipts were 28 packages.

There was an improved demand from English buyers for cheese and a moderate amount of business was worked. The domestic trade was quiet. The receipts were 28 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb 24 (Canadian Press).—Prospective larger receipts of corn had an unsettling effect on all grain values yesterday. Holders of corn future deliveries sold out on a big scale.

Closing quotations on corn were heavy, 1⅛ cent to 1¾ cents net lower; wheat ⅛ cent to ⅝ cent off; oats at ⅜ cent decline to ⅛ cent advance, and provisions 2 cents to 12 cents down.

In the corn market, profit-taking sales on the part of recent speculative buyers were a feature almost from the beginning. Colder weather and predictions that the crop movement would be accelerated thereby to a notable extent did a good deal to check corn demand, as well as to increase pressure to sell, although commission house absorption on price breaks appeared to be fairly active at times. Meanwhile no evidence developed indicative of any new export business yesterday in corn and January exports of only 1,557,000 bushels caused considerable disappointment.

Besides lower temperatures and promise of enlarged receipts, corn traders took notice that, despite shortage of corn in certain important feeding states, more corn has reached primary markets up to date this season than for any corresponding time in 17 years, barring only two exceptions. It was also current talk in some quarters that corn prices are too high in comparison with hog values, and that the present heavy movement of hogs is largely due to this situation.

Toward the last yesterday, wheat was sold because of the break in corn prices, but earlier the wheat market showed a decided upward trend. Wheat export sales of 1,500,000 bushels were announced, mostly Canadian, and there were persistent advices of general food shortage in parts of Russia, Hungary, Albania and Jugo-Slavia. Fears were also expressed that low temperatures predicted would catch a good deal of domestic Winter wheat without any snow blanket.

All deliveries of rye established a new high price record for the season. Good export business in rye was noted, with Rotterdam paying the topmost prices in several years. Oats were irregular, but showed a firm undertone, the oats visible supply being now only about 45 per cent of last year's total and the farm reserves low.

Provisions were low owing to a setback in prices of hogs to the lowest figure since July, 1924.

CHICAGO CATTLE

CHICAGO, Feb 24 (Canadian Press).—Cattle receipts 9,000; good to choice fat cows and butcher heifers dull at week's 50 cent decline; light yearling heifers and mixed yearlings 25 lower; some in between kinds 50 cents under Monday; bulls and vealers fully steady; stockers and feeders slow at week's 25 cents decline; largely $11.50 downward to $10.00 with common light kinds downward to $9.00.

Hogs, receipts 62,000. Market generally steady to strong at Wednesday's average, spots 5 to 10 cents higher especially on butchers; late trade active; top $8.15; bulk good and choice 170 to 210 pounds $7.90 to $8.10; 220 to 250 pounds $7.75 to $8.00; 260 to 320 pounds $7.50 to $7.80; few big weight butchers downward to $7.50; big weights averaging around 400 pounds as low as $7.40; most packing sows $6.75 to $7.00; few selected lightweights $7.10 to $7.25; heavy bought kinds $6.50 to $6.65; most pigs $6.50 to $7.00; thin light kinds downward to $6.00; demand for pigs slightly improved; shippers took 15,000; estimated holdover 12,000.

Sheep receipts 10,000; fat lambs unevenly strong to 25c higher, closing at full advance; finished handyweights scarce, demand broad; top to traders $16.25; better grades 91 pounds down, $15.50 to $16.00; choice 91 pound Colorado at outside; 93 to 98 pound lambs good and choice $15.25 to $15.85; 105 to 120 pound throwouts $14.50 to $14.75; sheep strong to 15 cents higher; good fat ewes $9.00 to $9.40; feeding lambs fully steady; choice 65 to 70 pound feeders $15.00 to $15.25; scattering good lambs down to $14.50 and below.

A Thought

CREATURES OF THE CLOCK.

If you have many different things to do, select the most important or necessary duty, then concentrate on that one thing—complete that one thing; by continuing this plan, you will perform much more work in much less time.

The disposition to the pleasant tasks first, or to hold the disagreeable problems over until later in the day or the next day, is a common, but costly, fault.

We are always elated and encouraged when we carry to completion disagreeable duties and invariably are inspired to tackle other tasks with a spirit of confidence and enthusiasm so necessary in doing work well.

Lay out your work, then work your lay-out, but put the perplexing problems on top while you are fresh and full of that morning courage and confidence.

From 8 to 12 at night your brain is very active, and from 8 to 12 in the morning your mental faculties are in the same clutch. From midnight until morning you should be sleeping and the corresponding hours of the day are drowsy hours, for remember, we are creatures of the clock or poor pawns subject to the habits of certain hours.

One hour in the morning is worth more than two hours in the afternoon. Lay out your work, then work your lay-out.

GOD'S MINUTE

Continue in prayer, and watch.—Col. 4: 2.

O Father, God, we thank Thee today for life—the privilege of living. Help us today to remember that "we live in deeds, not years; in thoughts, not breaths, in feelings, not in figures on a dial. We should count time by heart-throbs." May we ever be reminded that "he lives best, who thinks best, feels the noblest, acts the best." Help us today to so act that we may show our appreciation for life by our work.

We thank Thee, too, O God, for the chance to serve. May we today overlook no opportunity to reach out a helping hand, to speak a kind word, to show sympathy; and above all, help us to appreciate every service rendered by those who work with and for us. May we, O Lord, in all that we do this day, do our level best; may we think the highest and best thoughts; may we strive to use our best efforts. Help us to strive today "not as though we had already attained, but that we might reach after" the spiritual life we long for. Then help us to "give to the world the best we have, that the best may come back to us." Hear us, O Father, in the Name of Thy dear Son, our Lord Jesus Christ. Amen.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

MIGHTY WORKS OF JESUS

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Feb. 26. Other Mighty Works of Jesus. Mark 5:22-27, 32-36, 41, 42.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D.D.,
Editor of The Congregationalist.

Text: Mark 5:22-27, 32-36, 41, 42.

And, behold, there cometh one of the rulers of the synagogue, Jairus by name; and when he saw him, he fell at his feet.

And besought him greatly, saying, My little daughter lieth at the point of death; I pray thee, come and lay thy hands on her, that she may be healed; and she shall live.

And Jesus went with him; and much people followed him, and thronged him.

And a certain woman, which had an issue of blood twelve years,

And had suffered many things of many physicians, and had spent all that she had, and was nothing bettered, but rather grew worse;

When she had heard of Jesus, came in the press behind, and touched his garment.

And he looked round about to see her that had done this thing.

But the woman, fearing and trembling, knowing what was done in her, came and fell down before him, and told him all the truth.

And he said unto her, Daughter, thy faith hath made thee whole go in peace, and be whole of thy plague.

While he yet spake, there came from the ruler of the synagogue's house, certain which said, Thy daughter is dead why troublest thou the Master any further?

As soon as Jesus heard the word that was spoken, he saith unto the ruler of the synagogue, Be not afraid, only believe.

And he took the damsel by the hand, and said unto her, Talitha cumi; which is, being interpreted, Damsel, I say unto thee, arise.

And straightway the damsel arose, and walked; for she was of the age of twelve years. And they were astonished with a great astonishment.

The lesson deals with two stories of the miraculous power of Jesus.

It is worth while to remind the reader that the value of the stories of the miraculous for ourselves is found in their spiritual effect upon us. The important thing is not so much what they tell concerning what happened long ago, but what is going to happen to us as we read and meditate upon these records in the present.

The more strongly we believe in the power of God, and in its remarkable manifestations, the more definitely we may assume that that power is with us to bless our lives as deeply as the lives of others were blessed in the past. The New Testament reveals the power of God at its highest and deepest as concerned, not primarily with the healing of the body, but first of all with the salvation of the soul. The miracles of life-giving and healing are incidental in the deeper ministry of Christ as the giver of eternal life.

Faith of Jairus.

Let us contemplate these miraculous stories of our lesson in the light of this general thought of God's power and God's purpose as emphasized in the New Testament story of the mission of the Christ. First of all we have the profound faith of this ruler of the synagogue, Jairus, who believes that Jesus can restore to life the daughter who is at the point of death. He beseeches Jesus to come and heal his daughter.

But on the way to the house an incident occurs that has captured in a vigorous way the imagination and the spiritual interest of every reader of the Scriptures. An interested crowd of spectators throng after Jesus and Jairus, and in the multitude is a poor woman, sensitive and shrinking alike from publicity and from too great presumption, but who is the victim of a serious disease and who longs for the Master's help. The faith that she has in him is so deep that she believes if she may only touch the hem of his garment she will find healing.

How splendidly such an incident reveals both the defects and the glories of faith—and the glories of faith that so often are very real even when they are associated with the defects of faith and with some elements of superstition!

Power in Personality.

One may say that it was a somewhat superstitious feeling that in the mind of this woman attached miraculous power even to the very garments of Jesus. One might say that the true power of Jesus was in his personality rather than in the outward accompaniments of his life or in the material things associated with him. In fact, the rationalistic critic might find all manner of fault with the peculiar form and expression of this poor woman's faith; but beneath the faith in the efficacy of the hem of Christ's garment was the deeper response of this woman to Jesus himself.

But while this incident has been transpiring there hurry those from the house of Jairus to assure him that there is not need longer to trouble the Master, that his daughter is dead. Was she really dead or was she sleeping in a trance almost indistinguishable from death? The light of modern scientific facts in relation to such experiences at the border line of life and death might give point to the inquiry, and those who seem to regard it as necessary to rationalize all stories of the miraculous might lay great stress upon the assumption that the damsel was not really dead, but only in a trance.

But such questionings, so far as we are concerned, are wide of the mark. Why should we think it less wonderful that Jesus should raise from the dead than that he should restore to wholeness those who are broken and afflicted in body?

Faith knows no sects and no limiting circumstance of position or lowliness. God honors alike the faith of the great and the lowly, of the learned and of the unlearned.

Robber Hails "Taxi" And Gets Police Car

OSHAWA, Ont., February 23 (Canadian Press). — A slight error in judgment proved the undoing of a robber who gave the name of James Taylor, of Toronto, at midnight last night. The man smashed the window of a jewellery store and grabbed a tray containing diamonds worth more than three thousand dollars.

A citizen who heard the crash telephoned the police, and an officer was sent round in a motor car. The offender meanwhile had made his way from the scene but on another street he hailed what he thought was a taxi. It proved to be the police car. Taylor broke away, but halted when the officer fired a shot in warning, and he threw the tray of diamonds away. So far, about two-thirds of the gems have been recovered.

GENERAL CONTEST RULES

How to Enter

1. The contest is open to everyone except:
   - (a) Employees of The Peterborough Examiner, Ltd., or their immediate family.
   - (b) Prize-winners in any similar contest who have won any of the major prizes.

2. Additional puzzle-charts may be obtained free by writing to the Contest Department or by calling at The Examiner Office.

3. Every figure in the puzzle is complete and entirely free from tricks or illusions. If any contestant is in doubt about any of the figures, send in the chart with the figures marked and the Contest Department will gladly give a ruling on the figure.

4. When you have solved the puzzle, fill in completely the solution blank, which must be accompanied by a remittance for at least a six months' subscription at the regular rates to The Evening Examiner. (See subscription rates.) See also the prize-list and note how the value of your prize is increased by paying for a year's subscription and by getting subscriptions from your friends. Renewal subscriptions, or subscriptions in arrears, if paid during contest period, count the same as new subscriptions and will be extended from the present expiry date, but not more than $15.00 will be received on any one solution or subscription.

5. In order that subscribers who pay carrier boys weekly may participate in this contest, books of tickets containing 22 weekly tickets for $3.00, or 44 for $6.00, will be sold. These remittances must be made direct to the Contest Department with your solution. Otherwise it cannot be registered. Each ticket is valued at 15c and will be redeemed from the carrier boy at that price.

6. Readers who give their subscription to some other contestant and later want to send in an answer themselves, may do so providing they fill in the coupon, giving the name of the person they paid their subscription to and the amount paid. No further payment is necessary.

7. The contest will close on March 15, 1928, but send in your solution as soon as possible as we are offering special prizes for the first correct solutions. (See full details under "Special Prizes.") There is nothing gained by holding back your answer once you have solved the puzzle, as a contestant may make several remittances on any answer sent in while the contest lasts up to a total amount of $15.00.

8. Contestants may send in a different answer to the puzzle with each remittance, but if one of your answers is correct the money sent in on your other answers will not increase the total value of your prize, and not more than one regular prize will be paid to one family.

9. Everyone has an equal chance. You can win the first prize and extra cash for only a six months' subscription, but note how the value of the first five prizes increases if you send in more money. Aim to win the maximum Grand Prize. The Evening Examiner is now recognized as the leading daily in Peterborough district and surrounding counties and no difficulty should be found in getting your friends or neighbors to subscribe for it.

10. Contestants who remit by mail or pay at the office should see that these remittances and answers are made on a proper contest coupon to ensure them reaching the Contest Department.

11. If the correct answer is not sent in by any contestant the prizes will be awarded for the nearest correct solutions. In the event of a tie a second puzzle will be presented which will be as practicable and solvable as the first. Only those tieing will be permitted to solve the second puzzle. Should two or more persons be tied in the second puzzle the prizes will be divided equally among those tieing. No cash will be accepted on the second puzzle.

12. In entering the contest, contestants agree to abide by the rules of the contest and to accept the decision of the judges as final. The Contest Department reserve the right to alter and amend its rules if necessary for the protection of contestants or The Peterborough Examiner. It also reserves the right to refund any subscriptions and to disqualify any contestants whom they consider should not be in the contest. Contestants are assured of the same impartial treatment which characterizes The Examiner in all its dealings.

THE PROBLEM

The problem is to add together all the figures shown above, which, when added together, represent the total number of tons that the Lift Lock weighs.

The puzzle is entirely free from tricks or illusions, every figure is complete and stands alone. The figures range from two to nine. There are no ones (1) or ciphers (0) in the puzzle. The sixes are curved, while the stem of the nines are straight.

We wish it clearly understood that every figure can be plainly seen. There is nothing hidden in the trees or shadows, but the problem of adding these is a real test of accuracy.

Remember, each figure is added separately. For example, 9777 is counted 9 plus 7 plus 7 plus 7, or, in other words, simply add them as if each figure stood one above the other in a single column.

REMEMBER, NO ONE KNOWS THE CORRECT ANSWER UNTIL THE CONTEST CLOSES

To ensure this we had Mr. E. M. Elliott, County Treasurer, and Mr. Frank Adams, City Treasurer, each erase one or more figures from the original drawing, which they carefully noted and sealed in an envelope and gave to the manager of the Royal Bank for safe keeping until the contest closes.

TWENTY-SIXTH TO FIFTIETH PRIZES—$5.00 in cash each.

SPECIAL PRIZES—While the contest will not close until March 15, we are offering Five Special Prizes for the first five correct, or nearest correct, solutions secured by us. The prizes will be: First Prize, $8.00; Second Prize, $7.00; Third Prize, $5.00; Fourth Prize, $3.00; Fifth Prize, $2.00.

A TIP ON HOW TO WIN

Take a pencil and put down the numbers as you stroke them out, then add them up. Some suggest that you cut the chart into dozens of pieces, then check them from all sides; or if you wish, try blotting them out with colored ink or pencil. Others think the best way is to pick out all the twos, threes, fours, etc. Any they miss the first time they find later. Or suppose you try taking a combination of figures which, when added together, makes a total of ten. For example, 5 and 3 and 2 make 10. Tens are not only easily added together, but there is less danger of making a mistake.

1. Everyone has the same opportunity. A person sending in only $3.00 in subscriptions has the same chance of winning the first prize as a person sending in more money. The advantage of sending in more money is to increase the value of the first five prizes.

2. This is a contest for Central Ontario district, or to any subscriber of The Examiner, no matter where he resides.

3. Don't forget to answer all the necessary questions on the solution blank.

4. If you collect a subscription from a friend or neighbour, that person can also submit an answer to the puzzle without further payment.

THE JUDGES

In order that each Contestant shall have fair and impartial treatment, we have arranged with Mr. Roland Denne, Mayor of the City and Alderman Nagel Phelan to act as judges for the contest. Any complaints in this connection will be referred to these judges whose decision will be absolutely final.

MINES

F. G. Oke and Company wire as follows:

TORONTO. Feb. 24. — There appears little of importance to report regarding the action of this morning's mining market, and prices for the main part held steady and did not show much change over yesterday's close.

Aconda was conspicuous by a sharp decline to 34c with an equally sharp recovery. The market action appears as though a fairly large block of stock was sold, probably profit taking, and that as soon as this block was liquidated, prices recovered.

Pend Oreille and Sudbury Basin were both a little easier this morning but the manner in which these stocks are in demand at current prices seems to indicate these issues will sell at materially higher prices quite possibly in the near future.

Amulet was a little stronger this morning and at current quotations apepars to us as a splendid speculation in view of the exceptionally bright future for the property minewise

There seems to be a feeling on the street that the decline of prices has run its course and in view of the large decline in many issues some very attractive purchases are apparent to the experienced and watchful speculator. As a result we would suggest that those holding well regarded mining stocks do not sell but rather purchase more at the comparatively low prices now prevailing.

(Special from The Financial Post Syndicate)

TORONTO, Feb. 23. — How are shareholders going to be affected by the Hollinger catastrophe in which 39 miners lost their live underground? Gases generated from rubbish dumped into worked-out stope were evidently the cause. This will be finally determined by the investigation which Ontario Mine Commissioner Thomas Godson will hold. Shareholders are concerned with the position of the operation. Hollinger will lose considerable because of non-productive overhead. February production figures will show a material falling off. Compensation demands will be heavy and there will be other charges, as it is certain that Noah Timmins will have his company do the right thing by the families of the deceased miners. Pending the arrival of compensation payments, he has paid each family $200 to tide them over.

The mining market has been showing signs of strength, and there are many who contend that the worst is over and that the market is in a good technical position. There is a great deal of criticism of the brokers who are blamed for driving stocks down. Undoubtedly the margin houses and the shorts have played hand-in-hand in this, but there has been another factor. The banks have been for some considerable time now tightening the purse strings on loans against mining stocks. They have been after their broker customers and others as well. This has been quite a factor in the break as it has forced many to sell stock that they had been carrying with their banks on collateral. There are some bankers who state that it seems agreed in financial circles that the mine shares have been selling too high and that they must come down lower yet.

It was pointed out some weeks ago that there was a new standard of values being set up in regard to mine shares and that in the future the leading stocks could be expected to give a better yield. However, this is something that cannot be expected to take place overnight and the moment the banks try to rush such a movement along, they will invite disaster for the whole market. It is doubtful if the banks desire this any more than the speculators who would be trapped if there were any further breaks in the market.

Many of the leading stocks have made some substantial recoveries during the past week.

It will take some time for the market to properly absorb the large blocks of stocks that has been thrown on the market. This is especially true of Noranda and Wright Hargreaves, and there is bound to be continued selling for a considerable time as the market moves on. The outlook on both properties is excellent, however, and the market position of the shares should be vastly different six months hence.

British Columbia shares are in steady demand. Many expected the boom on the coast to continue, but it has not been able to survive the tremendous amount of profit-taking that developed. It is years since they have had large profits thrown at them in a short space of time at the coast and they could not resist the temptation to get what they could. The result is that the great bulk of the British Columbia mine shares have been sold to the east and Pacific Coast centres of the United States at fairly high prices. There are some who believe that in a short time the Coast residents will be into the market to buy back the shares that they sold, and when this starts another boom is to be expected.

International Nickel Falls Quickly To-day

TORONTO, February 24 (Canadian Press). — International Nickel's sensational decline was the outstanding feature of the proceedings on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. The stock slumped down to 73¾ and recovered at noon only to 74, a net loss of 3¼ points after a similar loss yesterday. The whole market tended easier, but the worst loss outside of Nickel was a 1¼ point drop in British American Oil at 34. Walkers sagged more than a point at 55, and International Petrol sold fractionally lower at 36⅝. Massey-Harris at 37, Page Hersey at 91, and Brazilian at 199 were also lower.

Wheat Prices Follow Decline at Liverpool

CHICAGO, Feb. 24 (Canadian Press).—Influenced by more of a decline in Liverpool quotations than was looked for, wheat values in Chicago averaged lower early today. Shippers both from Argentina and Canada were reported as offering wheat more cheaply to Europe. Starting ⅛ to ⅝ cent off, Chicago wheat steadied later at about yesterday's finish. Corn opened ⅛ to ½ cent down and later recovered somewhat. Oats were firm.

Opening prices were Wheat, March 132½, May 133⅝. Corn, March 94⅜, May 97⅝. Oats, March 54⅝, May 55⅝.

Mine Shares Irregular; Some Losses Recovered

TORONTO, Feb. 24. — (Canadian Press.)—Prices were irregular on the standard mining exchange to-day, though the Kirkland Lake issues held steady. Among the Porcupines McIntyre dropped back to 26.00, a loss of thirty cents. Noranda at 17.80 and Amulet at 3.20, were again slightly lower. Pend O'Reille, however, recovered to 19.50, about eighty cents higher and Sudbury Basin at 22.50 was only 25 cents below yesterday's close. Hudson Bay Smelting at 17.00 suffered a sharp loss of 65 cents. In the cheaper isseus probably the most important recession was a two point drop in Gold Hill at 21¾.

RULES HAMPER IMMIGRATION

General Booth Thinks Empire Settlement Board Chould Be Formed.

OF BUSINESS MEN.

LONDON, Feb. 24 (Canadian Press Cable).—"Men of affairs in Canadian life loudly profess their desire for an increased flow of British people," says General W. Bramwell Booth, of the Salvation Army, in a letter to the press, "but whether it is by intention or lack of foresight the Canadian Government hampers by its regulations the movement of migrants from the British Isles to Canada."

General Booth admits that any mass movement of migration is not desirable and he asserts that any State-controlled migration movement is predestined to fail. The General suggests that an Empire Settlement Commission should be appointed, the commission to be non-political and composed of business men.

TWO TELLERS ARE REMANDED

Bank and Trust Company Employees Charged With Theft.

BAIL REFUSED.

TORONTO, Feb' 24 (Canadian Press).—Charged with the theft of $25,000 from the Standard Bank, where he was employed as a teller, Norman Bray appeared in Police Court today and was remanded to March 2 No plea was offered. The Crown refused to allow bail. Later, Cecil Loughlin, teller of a trust company, appeared on a charge of the theft of $31,000 and was similarly remanded without bail.

HUMANE SOCIETY APPOINTS DELEGATE

Secretary Will Attend Ontario S.P.C.A. Meeting in Toronto.

The eighth annual meeting of the Ontario Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals will be held at headquarters, 11-23 St. Albans Street, Toronto, and the secretary was appointed as the representative of the Peterborough Society to attend that meeting and report on the work being done by the local society.

The regular executive meeting of the Humane Society was held last evening at the home of the secretary, Mrs. J. S. Chandler. The president, Dr. Thomas Johnston, presided.

It was decided to continue the sacred concerts after church services on Sunday nights, under the direction of G. F. Liddle and local talent, who are so generous in helping along the work of the society. It was also decided that if the attendance at these concerts warrants it, leaflets with familiar hymns printed on them, will be obtained for the community singing. Next Sunday night the George Street Sunday School Orchestra has consented to render selections during the evening.

Committees were appointed to make arrangements for the annual Violet Day on Easter Saturday. Mrs. E. S. Martin and Mrs. G. A. Helson were appointed to select taggers and rosettes for the horses, Miss Vida Foote and Mrs. J. S. Chandler were appointed to have tags and violets completed. F. Goodfellow and T. E. Sargent were appointed to make necessary arrangements for a headquarters for that day.

After the meeting a social time was spent. A vote of thanks was moved by T. E. Sargent, seconded by Mrs. E. S. Martin, to Mr. and Mrs. Chandler for the use of their home for this occasion.

15 TO 18 MEN KILLED IN MINE

Feared Those in Neighborhood of Explosion Lost Their Lives.

IN ARKANSAS COAL AREA.

FORT SMITH, Ark., Feb. 24. Canadian Press. — Fifteen to eighteen men are believed to have been killed by an explosion in Mine Number 3, of the Mama Coal Company, at Jenny Lind, Ark., to-day. Approximately 125 men were in this and connecting mines at the time of the blast, but more than one hundred of them are believed to have escaped.

Rescue crews were directed by the State Mine Inspector and the president of the company, and were sent into the mine immediately. The cause of the explosion has not yet been determined. Ambulances and doctors from this and other nearby points have been rushed to the scene. Those who escaped had little hope that any of the remaining miners in the explosion area were still alive. Operations in nearby mines were suspended immediately and all efforts directed to the rescue of the trapped miners.

57TH CHAPTER HAD BUSY YEAR

Mrs. R. G. Cottrell and Other Officers Re-elected at Annual Meeting.

DONATIONS MADE.

Mrs. R. G. Cottrell was re-elected as Regent and other officers of the 57th Regimental Chapter I.O.D.E. were also re-elected, with the exception of several committee officials, at the annual meeting of the Chapter, held yesterday afternoon at the Armouries.

Annual reports were given by the secretary, Mrs. D. A. Loomis, and the treasurer, Miss Mamie Rogers. During the past year, the Chapter assisted in the celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation, assisted elevel needy families of the city, paid 170 visits to the hospital, and placed 187 flags on Empire Day on graves of deceased soldiers buried in the Little Lake and St. Peter's Cemeteries, with one grave also decorated in the Bridgenorth Cemetery. Donations were made to the Canadian Hostel in London, England, to the Armenian Relief work, to the War Memorial project, and to the memorial funds for the late Mrs. W. Clarke-Murray and Mrs. Fessenden.

It was decided to hold a tea and musicale to celebrate the sixteenth birthday of the Chapter, on March 15th, in the Armories.

The sum of $5 was donated to the Sergeants' Mess at the Armories, the Chapter having on several occasions used tables belonging to the Mess.

List of Officers.

The officers for the coming year will be as follows: Honorary Regent, Mrs. E. B. Clegg; Regent, Mrs. R. G. Cottrell; First Vice-Regent, Mrs. T. W. H. Young; Second Vice-Regent, Mrs. H. F. Foote; Secretary, Mrs. D. A. Loomis; Treasurer, Miss Mamie Rogers; Standard Bearer, Mrs. R. E. Clark; Councillors: Mesdames A. W. Clysdale, W. Sharpe, G. A. Helson, Jas. Fanning, S. F. M. Touchbourn, E. B. Clegg, G. H. Poole, B. B. Gillespie, S. Newhall, W. G. Hall; Convenors of Committees: Flowers—Miss Mabel Collins; Refreshments—Mrs. S. Newhall and Mrs. Jas. Fanning; Hospital—Mrs. G. A. Helson and Mrs. W. Sharpe; Telephone—Mrs. A. W. Clysdale; Relief—Mrs. W. G. Hall.

HERALD BEATS HILL IN FINALS

Wins Vice-Skips' Bonspiel of Local Club By Ten Points.

SOME HIGH SCORES.

R. C. Herald won the vice-skips' bonspiel last night when he defeated the veteran curler George Hill by 10 points. Earlier in the evening George Hill had put it all over G. L. M. Kirkwood in the semi-finals and won handily by 9 shots. The final game was just the reverse when Herald administered the defeat to Hill. Herald beat G. W. Fitzgerald by one shot in the semi-finals on Wednesday night.

JAPANESE ELECTION CLOSELY CONTESTED

Government Claims 219 Seats and Opposition Parties 217.

TOKIO, Feb. 24.—The Government apparently won the election by the slighest of margins. It claims three seats of the five remaining untabulated, which would give the Government or Seiyukai party party 219 places in the new Diet, and the Minseito or Opposition 217.

The greatest interest now lies in what the Government will do. First the Premier will try to win over enough Independents to withstand the attacks of the Opposition when the new Diet convenes in April. Both major parties have already started bargaining with the Independents.

If Premier Tanaka does not succeed in winning them to his side, he may order a new election, but his party counts on the Independents. The showing of Labor, which returned eight members, has surprised the nation. In many prefectures Labor received more votes than the major parties.

To-day In Parliament.

OTTAWA. Feb. 24 (Canadian Press).—To-day the Budget debate will continue. James Arthurs (Conservative, Parry Sound) will speak first. Yesterday, the Budget debate held the stage during afternoon and evening.

ALBANY, N.Y., Feb. 24 (Canadian Press).—Edward Browning, wealthy real estate broker of New York City, must pay to his divorced wife, Frances Peaches Heenan, an additional sum of $4,344.44 for counsel fees and disbursements made by her in connection with divorce proceedings, under a decision handed down by the Court of Appeals to-day.

In the Legislature.

TORONTO Feb. 24. — The queries on the order paper of the Ontario Legislature to-day all originate from Liberal members. Edmond Proulx, (Liberal, Prescott), asks the government whether John McCormick, the defeated candidate in the last provincial election in Dundas, has since been appointed a police magistrate, what his salary is and other details. He also asks how many miles of highway were constructed last year, and the average cost per mile.

E. Ming (Liberal, (Frontenac-Lennox) wants to know if Hutkinson of Kemptville is a magistrate, and if so when he was appointed

STRATFORD RINK WINS FIRST TROPHY

Western Ontario Men Win Out in Seiberling Match This Afternoon.

TORONTO, February 24 (Canadian Press). — The first trophy winner of the Toronto Bonspiel was the Stratford rink skipepd by H. A. Bruce, which defeated the Barrie rink of Rev. J. S. Shortt by 12-10 in the final for the Seiberling Trophy to-day. The Stratford men won the battle on the last end with a big five and immediately after the match were presented with the trophy.

R. J. Wray, Belleville, is meeting G. O. Cameron, of Barrie, in the North American Life final and in the Wrigley final, the third and last big event. Rinks from the Lakeview and Toronto clubs played this afternoon.

Both Fred Kelk's Toronto Granites and W. Pillgrem's Meaford rink tied in the running for the grand aggregate of the Toronto Bonspiel, met defeat to-day. G. O. Cameron's rink went into the lead with the greatest number of victories.

Pillgrem's rink was beaten 14-12 by S. S. Chisholm's Toronto rink in the semi-final of the Wrigley Trophy, despite a rally near the close.

Kelk's rink lost to G. O. Cameron's Barrie rink 10-7 in the semi-final for the North American Life Trophy. Cameron's rink has won twelve matches and lost two. The finals were being played this afternoon.

LOCAL RINK OUT.

TORONTO, February 24 (Special to The Examiner). — Yesterday's play at High Park Club resulted in the extinguishing of all hopes of one of the trophies of the Toronto Bonspiel coming to Peterborough. After four excellent victories, and with but one more triumph to secure in order to qualify for the semi-final of the Seiberling Trophy, the local four were defeated by the narrowest margin in a very closely contested game with Emmett Smith of Haileybury.

Judge O'Connor, skipping the Cobourg rink, succeeded in piloting his charges into the semi-final of the Wrigley Trophy, but the genial bencher received his first setback last night from Charles Snow of Lakeview Club, who downed him by a comfortable margin, 16-8. On his way to the semi-final His Honor annihilated Dr. N. Tait of Toronto Victoria in the fourth round, and B. H. Cronyn, also of Victoria, in the fifth.

The outstanding players on view were Fred Kelk and his three mates from Toronto Granites, who curled sensationally for the first three days of the competition, winning their tenth game in the opening minutes of yesterday, and continuing their winning streak until last night, when they fell by 10-8 before Stratford in the fourth round of the Seiberling Trophy, the issue being in doubt until the last stone.

The consensus of the curlers is that the 'spiel has been a big success, and that a great boost has been given to the game. Late last night those still in any of the various competitions were visibly wearied after the many hard battles that were fought, and even those who lost out seemed to experience a certain measure of relief that the strain was over.

Yimmie Yonson's Yob.

"Yimmie Yonson's Yob" or "The Haunted House," is the name of the first offering of the recently-formed Dramatic Club of Mark Street United Church, presented in Victoria Hall last evening, with a very good-sized audience. The second presentation will be given this evening.

The play was very well produced by a cast of talented amateur actors, who entered in every instance into the spirit of the play with an appreciation of individual roles which made each character a real personage. This quality of enthusiastic dramatization of a role and exceptionally good supervision of detail by the director, Mrs. E. Wand, makes for a very interesting type of amateur play and gives an audience an entertaining production. The stage setting was also well thought out, and was made very attractive by the inclusion of a new curtain and some upper lighting effects, looked after by Johan Krough, who also had an excellent role in the production as the main character, "Yimmie Yonson," from Minnesota, whose queer dialect called forth many laughs last night. Mr. Krough gave a peppy rendition of the part that added much to the interest of the play and had a touch of professionalism about his manner of making entrances and exits, his voice, which carries well and his general presentation of the role.

The play is a three-act drama, with touches of comedy that afford plenty of opportunity for laughs. It deals with the family of Mr. John Kent, living in a house that is supposed to be haunted by the ghost of a departed son. The living-room of the Kents' farm home provides the setting for the three acts, with variations of time and some good effects in a thunderstorm, to give novelty to the arrangement. A couple of mischief-makers, Sylvia (Miss Cora Young), niece of Mr. Kent, and her lover, Frank (Gordon Agnew), set out to rob the uncle of his money and a good deal of mixing-up ensues before matters are finally straightened out. The ghost appears in person and a detective who calls himself Pal (Douglas Bethune) is engaged to ferret out the mystery. Then the secret marriage of the adopted child of the house, Belle (Miss Beatrice Castle), is discovered and adds a further touch of mystery, while a lightening bit of humor is given by the romance of the hired help, Peg (Mrs. H. Hunter), and Micky (Cyril Agnew). A trim maid whose appearance and manner are a real addition to the production is Kittie (Miss Mabel Reynolds). The roles of Mr. and Mrs. John Kent are well taken by Harold Agnew and Mrs. V. Boorman. L. Agnew acts as stage manager.

Rev. A. E. Thornley, pastor of Mark Street Church, acted as chairman of the evening, and the orchestra of the church, in very tuneful style, rendered some pleasing music between acts. An original ghost story of thrilly type was also given during an intermission by Mr. Johan Krough.

"Yimmie Yonson's Yob" will have its second presentation in Victoria Hall this evening. The interesting finale of the play has not been revealed here, in order that those who did not see it last night may be given an opportunity to satisfy their curiosity by patronizing it this evening.

SCHOOL BOARD TO SEEK GRANT

Trustees Unable To Take Official Action, Lacking Quorum.

INFORMAL DISCUSSION.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 24.—Owing to the fact that only six members of the board of School Trustees put in an appearance for the regular meeting last night, it was impossible for the usual business to be carried out. The members present were Dr. H. O. Richardson, chairman; Wesley Stevens, secretary, and Trustees Charles Benor, William Stevens, J. C. Anderson and George O'Sullivan. Mr. Greig, principal of the High School, and James Massey, caretaker, were also present.

During the interval of waiting for more members to arrive, several matters were informally and unofficially discussed. Among these was the county grant situation regarding the grant for the year 1925. At one time it was decided to forego the grant, but it has later been more or less decided to collect it. Cobourg Collegiate Institute is the only school to take definite action in the matter so far, but it is understood on good authority that other institutions are in sympathy with Cobourg and will apply for the grant.

This discussion led to a discussion of the grants of earlier years in the history of the Campbellford school. It was mentioned that a few years ago the county grant was a matter of only $800.00. Last year it was close to $10,000.00. In the former case the school had only employed three teachers on the staff and the salary of the principal had been the large sum of $1,000.00. One of the teachers had expended her efforts for the magnificent sum of $500.00 per annum and a public school teacher had received $300.00 for her year's work. These figures were vouched for by the secretary of the board. He said that he had recently been requested by a member of the staff of several years ago, to forward her a certificate of the length of time and date of her services in Campbellford. Through courtesy, the lady's name is withheld but her salary was five hundred dollars per annum.

By this time it was apparent that no more members would attend the meeting. Some accounts which had previously been O.K.'d were ordered paid. This was with the unanimous approval of the members present as the accounts were strictly routine and there was no reason why they should not receive attention. The next regular meeting will be Thursday, March 29th.

GAS OVERCOMES FOUR OF FAMILY

Six Others in House Have Close Call During the Night.

ALL RECOVERING.

TORONTO, February 23 (Canadian Press). — The family of W. W. Webley, of Gledhill Avenue, had a narrow escape from coal gas poisoning during the night. Four members of the family were discovered in an unconscious condition early to-day and six other persons in the house had a close call. Those sent into unconsciousness by fumes from the furnace were Lydia, nineteen, Nellie, fourteen, Frank, ten, and Ross, six. All will recover. The remainder of the household was aroused after the youngster, Ross, almost overcome, found his way to his mother's sick room. A doctor was quickly on the scene rendering first-aid.

Obituary

GEORGE FRANKLIN STEPHENS.

CAMPBELLFORD, February 24. — The funeral of the late George Franklin Stephens was held from his late residence, River Road, yesterday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. Ernest Harton officiating at the services at the house and at the grave. Interment was made at Mount Pleasant Cemetery. Many floral tributes bore evidence of the high regard in which Mr. Stephens was held. Six boys from the High School acted as flower bearers, a mark of respect to the memory of the deceased and an expression of sympathy for Earl Stephens, B.A., who is a son and is a member of the High School teaching staff. The pall-bearers were: Thomas Pope, L. Jordan, William Ashton, J. L. Hoover, John Callahan, and Stewart Crosson.

The late Mr. Stephens, who was in his seventy-first year, was born in Prince Edward County, and came to this community during his boyhood days. Until about eighteen years ago, the family resided in Seymour East, but have since resided in the town of Campbellford. For the last two years Mr. Stephens had not been in the best of health, and had not taken any active interest in affairs outside his own household. He had previously been an employee of the Campbellford Cloth Company when it was known as the Trent Valley Woollen Mills.

The deceased is survived by his widow, who, before her marriage, was Ellen Oakley, five sons and two daughters. The daughters are Mrs. Hatton, Calgary, Alberta, and Mrs. William Dunk, of Toronto. Four of the sons reside away from home—Oliver at Embro, Ont., Cecil, Wesley, and Harold in Toronto. Earl Stephens, B.A., teacher on the staff of the High School here, is the only member of the family of seven who is resident in Campbellford.

HIGHER GAS TAX FORESHADOWED

Premier Ferguson Says People Everywhere Clamor For Roads.

BIGGER SUBSIDY ASKED.

TORONTO, Feb. 24. — An increase in the provincial gasoline tax was foreshadowed last night by Premier Ferguson at the annual banquet of the Ontario Good Roads Association. He said people everywhere were clamoring for roads, and forgetting the cost and "that means the gasoline tax will be increased," he added.

In a considerably modified form, and split into three separate resolutions, the resolution regarding highway taxation presented to the Association in Convocation Hall Wednesday was passed by the delegates in yesterday afternoon's session.

The resolution originally offered by Marshall Rathwell, of Russell County, called on the Government to assume the entire cost of Provincial highways, dating from January 1, 1927; to increase the subsidy on township roads from 35 to 50 per cent.; and to increase the gasoline tax to five cents per gallon.

The three resolutions which came out of the Resolutions Committee yesterday, dealt with the various phases of the original motion, but contained no definite figures. One asked that a larger proportion of the expenditure on Provincial highways be borne by the Government. The second simply asked for an increase in township road subsidies, and the third asked an increase in the gasoline tax. Neither of the latter two mentioned definite figures.

The resolution concerning the gasoline tax was enthusiastically passed, and it is turning out to be one of the keynotes of the convention. It has been referred to by several speakers, and the association seems to be a unit in asking for the increase.

NURSES' STRIKE AT GUELPH OVER

Twenty-three Hour Walkout Ends With Reinstatement of All But Two Girls.

REST UNDER PROBATION.

GUELPH, Ont., Feb. 24.— Settlement of the 23-hour strike at the Guelph General Hospital, in which 36 nurses participated, was apparently reached last night when 34 of the number were received back into the training school by Miss Elizabeth Shortreed, the superitendent, after each applicant had been personally interviewed with regard to reinstatement.

Two of the girls, whose names were not divulged, were refused admission for reasons that were not made public. Those of the strikers who were not back on duty last night were in residence at the nurses' home and are expected to be back at their posts in the morning.

Before they were taken back, each of the strikers was forced to sign a form of probation. This provides for intsant dismissal for any misdeamonr. They are to remain under probation until May.

The striking nurses have positively refused to outline their reasons for quitting their duties in a body, merely giving out the general statement that their action was prompted by alleged unfair treatment received at the hands of the lady superintendent.

The Experience of Mrs. Roy Brown is Well Worth Reading

Peterboro, Ont.— "I was in a miserable state of health, my nerves gave way completely, I could not sleep, had backaches and was completely exhausted—so weak and sleepy and tired that I was compelled to give up and take to my bed. I was advised to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as nothing I had used helped me. By the time I had taken one bottle I was able to be up and around, I kept on taking it and was completely restored to health. I cannot say enough in praise of the 'Favorite Prescription' for the wonderful help it gave me."—Mrs. Roy Brown, 222 King St.

Survive First Round Of Golf Tournament

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 24.— Virginia Van Wie, mid-southern woman golf champion, and Maureen Groutt, of Englewood, N.J., yesterday survived the semi-final round of the Florida Women's Tournament.

Miss Van Wie had little trouble defeating Mrs. Charles W. McHose of New York 8 and 7, the match ending after the Chicago girl had won almost every hole through exceptional work on both toes and greens.

Miss Groutt was hard pressed to eliminate Katherine Bryant, Chicago, finally winning three and one.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache Often Means You Have Not Been Drinking Enough Water.

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; make a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.

HAVELOCK SCHOOL WINS HOCKEY GAME

Defeats Norwood 5-1 For First Victory of Four Game Series.

HAVELOCK, Feb. 24. — Havelock High School Hockey Team defeated the Norwood High School Team by a score of 5-1 here on Wednesday evening. Nearly all the goals were made by lone rushes there being very little combination play. Voyer and McLaughlin got the five scores for the locals scoring three and two respectively, while Rogers netted the only marker for the visitors. This is the fourth game of the series and the first victory for the local team.

The local line up: Voyer, right wing; McLaughlin, left wing; Thompson, centre; Sanderson and Clarke, defence; Haig, goal; Peters, Wilde, Sanderson, subs.

BOOK REVIEWS

CANADIAN STORIES

(By Jeanette.)

"All nations that have achieved greatness, have possessed their men and women of vision. Canada, to-day, occupies the unique position of a youngster in a family of grown-up sisters. But this is her century of great achievements. She is shedding her swaddling clothes and reaching out for what is her own, by birthright. No longer are older nations able to stroke her cheek with one hand and steal her nursing bottle with the other."

The above paragraph is a portion of the introduction written by Archie P. McKishnie, well known Canadian writer, for the initial issue; Number One of Volume Number One, April dating, of a brand new magazine entitled "Canadian Stories," to be published monthly by "The Post" at Deseronto, with Harry M. Moore for editor.

Mr. McKishnie goes on: "Some of the world's most gifted writers were born on Canadian soil—Barr, Parker, Connor and otthes. These writers have been forced to go afield for a reputation. But it is no longer necessary for the Canadian writer to seek fame in alien lands. To-day, thanks to the courage and vision of such men as Mr. Harry M. Moore, publisher of this magazine, Canada is making her own writers. Her mines and forests are not her only great assets. She possesses also a world of romance that, as yet, has been scarcely touched. These stories will be written for Canadians by Canadians.

"To be loyal to this country we love, we must stand behind the men who are giving their time, energy and money towards this building of a natoinal literature, by publishing such magazines as "Canadian Stories."

"Let us one and all support Canadian magazines."

With such a brave foreword, any publication should naturally get off on the right foot. On perusal, "Canadian Stories" has been found to be a very interesting and entertaining publication. The stories, rather than impressing the reader with a feeling of artificiality that too often survives after mental consumption of Canadian fiction, which so often seems to be reaching out in imitation of an American or English style, leave an aftermath of sincerity. Ellen Thornycroft Fowler once said that "even a plumber would be mighty interesting if he would only talk 'plumb'," in a plea for discourse on what the writer understands and is familiar with. The writers of stories in this little magazine appear to have stayed within their own spheres, with the exception, perhaps, of the romantic tale entitled "Thou Shalt Not!" which has faraway Thibet as a background. This story is an example of the policy of the magazine, which publishes in each issue one story of life from some other section of the British Commonwealth than Canada. It is deftly handled, however, and exhibits a quality seldom encountered in a story written in the first person; an atmosphere of egotistical revealment that makes it just as entertaining from a psychological standpoint as from a purely fictional view.

One of the aims of "Canadian Stories" is to present "clean" literature. A recent issue of a magazine with a very wide circulation made the statement that a survey of literary tastes in various countries, conducted over a wide area and a long space of time, and rounded out by data gleaned from public and circulating libraries, book stores and news stands, had revealed the fact that Canada stood very high in the list of those countries which exhibits a great demand of literature of the "pornographic" type. In other words, Canadains are very fond of reading matter which verges closely on sex lines.

Be that as it may, "Canadian Stories" certainly does not err in this way. The tales have an outdoor, snappy, clean flavour. One point that is rather unusual is the fact that they are all written by men, the only feminine contribitor being the composer of a bit of springtime verse. It it to be hoped that the absence of "sex stuff" is not due to the absence of feminine writers.

A little item of interest is the inclusion in the stories of two absolutely new words to the average reader. "The art of phelloplastics" is referred to in a story centred about a pair of Chinese thieves, and in an entertaining tale entitled "Top of the World,' 'the writer speaks of an eager servant as being "alacrious."

Oshawa Twins Very Much Alike Though Reared In Different Homes

CHICAGO, Feb. 23 (Canadian Press-.—Studies of the heredity, environment, biology, and psychology of twins have led the Zoology Department of the University of Chicago on the trail to Oshawa, Ont., where twin sisters, reared separately in different nations, are now living together. It was reported that the only apparent difference between the twins is their names, Alice Pye and Olive Redman, due to their having been reared by different foster parents.

The girls were born in England nineteen years ago. Their mother, Mrs. William Pye, died in London when they were but eighteen months old. Alice was adopted by her father's friends and remained in England, while her sister was sent to live with an uncle and aunt in Canada.

After the separation the twins had seen each other only for a short time when they were ten years old, until a year ago.

HOCKEY SPECIAL FOR TWEED GAME

Campbellford Fans Intend To Travel in Body For Final Game.

Campbellford, Feb. 24. — Before the game with Madoc here on Wednesday it was rumored that there would be a special train run to Tweed if Campbellford won. The local team did its part very creditably, and the indication now is that the train is to be scheduled for the game in Tweed. Unless there is a change in the present plans the train will leave Campbellford about five o'clock in the afternoon, and proceed to Tweed via Anson Junction and Bannockburn. It is expected that fans from other towns along the way will join the excursion and by the time the hockey special arrives in Tweed the population of that village will have enjoyed a substantial increase for a few hours. Return fare for the trip will be in the neighborhood of two dollars, but probably less if there is a large crowd avail themselves of this means of transportation.

The Campbellford players are not suffering from any false illusions as to their prowess as hockey players. They want to win at Tweed and will use every effort to come out on the long end of the score, but Tweed would also appreciate a win, and one of the best games of the season is assured.

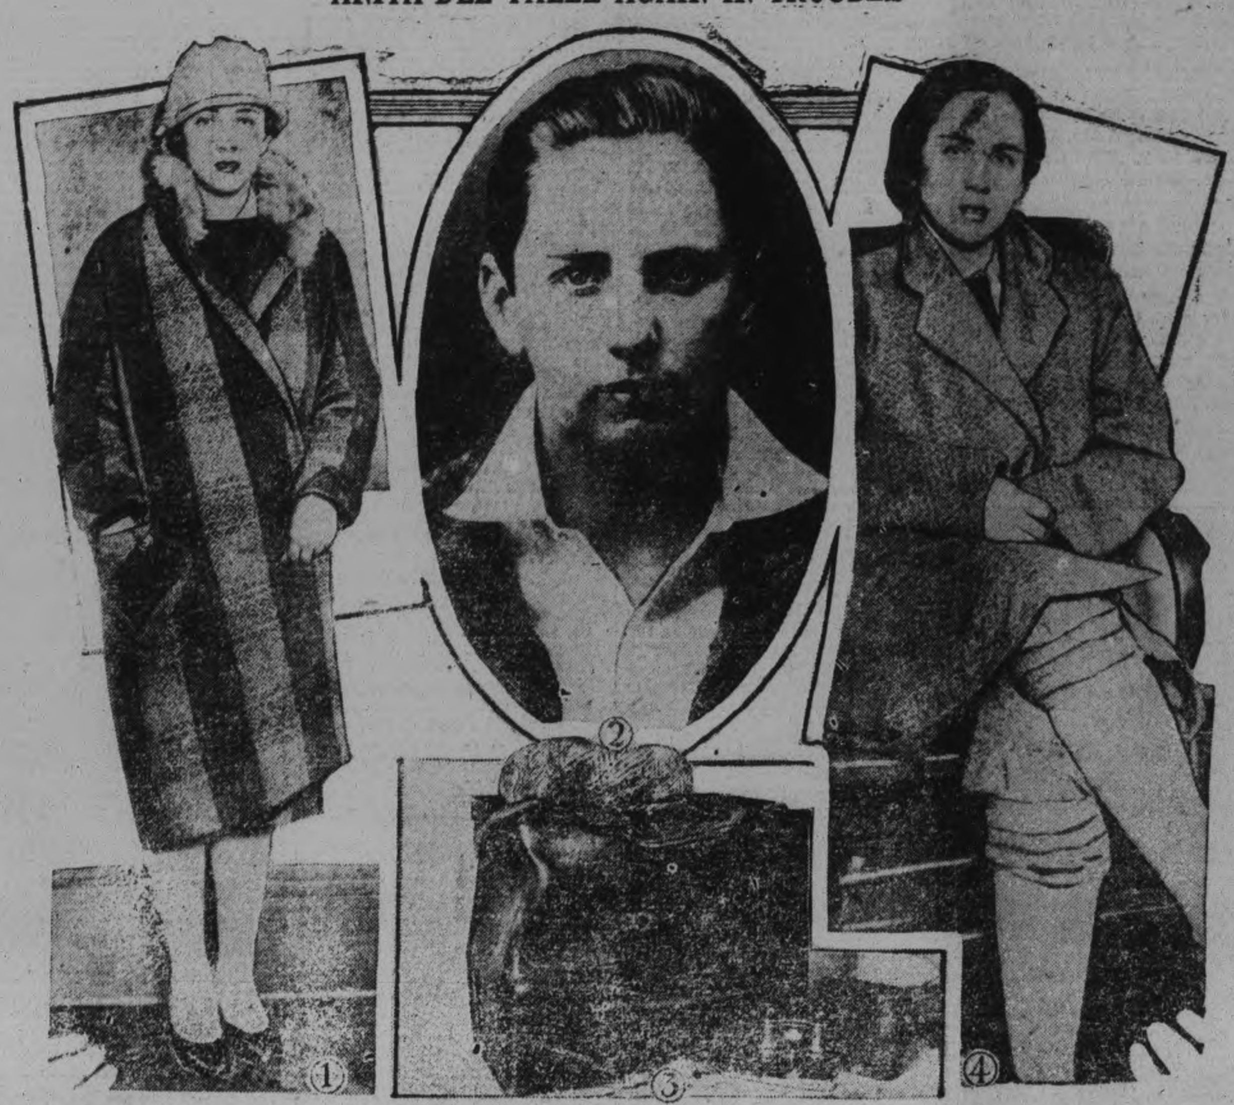
ANITA DEL VALLE AGAIN IN TROUBLE



Here is Anita Del Valle, "Bandit Queen," and wife of notorious Jack Sullivan, head of the feared Sullivan gang. He is serving 15 years for shooting an Arizona sheriff. After being questioned after her arrest in Akron, O., for her alleged connection with the theft of an automobile, which culminated in the fatal shooting of "Bud" Sheppard, also of Toronto, Anita posed in her various "traveling costumes." No. 1 shows her dressed in girl's street clothes; No. 2 is a close-up in a sweater and open-necked waist, while No. 4 portrays her wearing knickers, a man's coat and golf socks. No. 3 is the alleged loot of a Toronto robbery which it is believed members of the party participated in. The bag was found in the coupe after the fatal shooting, and some of the articles were found in the dead boy's pockets. The dark spot on the cap is blood. In the bag are clothes, fountain pen, silver-handled and pearl-handled pocket knives, field glasses and case and wrist watch.

MISS GRETA LEBARR LEAVING ST. PAUL'S

Presentation Made To Soloist at Choir Practice Last Night.

Miss Greta LeBarr will on Sunday morning sever her connection as soloist with St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. This position has been filled with acceptance by Miss LeBarr for the past three years—she has been a faithful and helpful member, and will be missed by those who were privileged to associate with her in the choir work. She leaves on Sunday afternoon for Toronto, where she has accepted an important position with the National Trust Company.

The usual choir practice was held last night, and at the close of the rehearsal the members adjourned to the Sabbath School Hall, there to do honor to the departing member. A short program of songs and a duet by Mrs. Byers and Horace Hope, preceded the main feature.

Miss E. O. Simpson, as chairlady, voiced the feelings and appreciation of the choir members to Miss LeBarr, for her faithfulness, helpfulness, and loyalty, and called upon Mrs. Byers to present a small memento of the good wishes of the organization.

The gifts comprised a dainty aquamarine-set white gold ring and circle brooch, set with a pearl for every member of the choir. Inscribed in the case, in letters of gold, were these lines:

Quiet pleasures, sweet content,
Countless blessings, Heaven-sent,
Be yours always."

From St. Paul's Church Choir, Feb. 23, 1928.

Miss LeBarr acknowledged the gifts in a few words.

Martin B. Chenhall voiced his regret that Miss LeBarr was leaving the choir, and paid several compliments—seldom had she been away from her post, always punctual, always willing, and no complaints, an unusual occurrence in the career of an organist.

W. A. Logan, on behalf of the Session, expressed good wishes, and presented an honorarium and the thanks of the members for Miss LeBarr's services.

"For she's a jolly good fellow" was sung lustily by all, and that part of the programme was succeeded by lunch served by the ladies.

Martin B. Chenhall was accompanist for the games played and "Auld Lang Syne," which fittingly brought to a close the three years spent in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church choir, as soloist, by Miss Great LeBarr.

A LITTLE MAN

'Twas the day before Christmas. Willie Jones broke a window with a snowball, sassed his mother, got his new suit full of slush, broke the radio and took father's fountain pen to draw pictures.

"Thank goodness," sighed Papa Jones —"my boy is not a hypocrite."—Life.

Questions and Answers.

Question T. Z. writes "What is galloping consumption?"

Answer This form of consumption more closely resembles pneumonia, and runs an exceedingly rapid course. At the onset there is a severe chill followed by a rapid pulse and high fever. Pain is felt in the chest, and the expectoration from coughing is white and frothy. Within a month the disease is very well developed, with a great loss of flesh and strength. If this disease is recognized quickly enough, it is possible to stop it, if taken before it reaches the danger stage. Since it is tuberculosis of an acute form, it is more dangerous than the chronic form that comes on gradually.

Question A. B. asks "Is it necessary to drink warm liquids, such as soups, and to eat pork, etc., in order to keep warm during the winter time? Or can we get along just as well with lots of fruits and vegetables in cold weather? Do you think two moderate meals a day are better than three?"

Answer There is no advantage in using hot liquids or heavy foods in the winter time. You will be better able to keep warm if you will use only the limited amount of food which your body requires and, at the same time, take plenty of vigorous physical culture exercises to increase circulation. Those who have the poorest circulation feel the cold the most in the winter time, as the tissues are not properly oxygenated. Exercise is the best cure for this, with plenty of deep breathing of pure air. Most people can live very well on two meals a day, but in some case where the digestion is impaired, three small meals daily will be digested better than two large meals.

FORD PLANT BUYS MATERIAL IN CITY

Purchases For 1927 Totalled $145,000—1926 Total $162,000.

It probably is not generally known in the city, but the Ford Motor Company of Canada makes very large purchases of manufactured goods in Peterborough, in which the Canadian Woollens and Machine and Tool plants in the city participate.

In 1926 the purchases in Peterborough amounted to $162,000, in 1927 $145,000, and for 1928 Hood & Cumming, Ford representatives in Peterborough, believe it will go above these figures.

Hints on Etiquette

1. If invited to a formal dance given by two couples only one of whom you know personally, is it necessary to say "Good-bye" and thanks to both?
2. In what order does one bid hosts and hostesses good-bye?
3. If the dance was in another city, is it proper to drop a note to your hostess telling her what a good time you had?

The Answers.

1. Certainly. Both are your hosts.
2. First, the hostess you know best first, then the other hostess and then both hosts.
3. Not necessary unless you were her house guest, but nice.

HINKLER LEAVES FOR HOME TOWN

Australian Aviator Will Greet Mother, Then Fly To Conberra.

WILL RECEIVE GRANT.

PORT DARWN, Australia, Feb. 24 (Canadian Press).—Bert Hinkler, who flew from England to Australia, left this morning on a flight of some nine hundred miles to Conclurry, Queensland. After greeting his mother at Bundaberg, he plans to fly to Canberra to deliver a letter to Premier Bruce from the Australian High Commissioner at London. Afterwards he will fly to Melbourne, and there his flight to the south will end.

Grant To Be Offered.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 24.—(Canadian Press).—Tributes to Bert Hinkler interpreted a debate on a motion of censure in the Federal Parliament. Premier Bruce announced the Federal Government will ask Hinkler to accept two thousand pounds sterling as a memento of his great flight.

Smart Sports Frocks are Simply Fashioned

A stunning one-piece frock is pictured here, with all the fashion interest centered in the front, leaving the back plain, in the new manner. Three set-in plaits give added width to the lower part of the skirt. The deep V-shaped front and vestee are of the latest mode, while the round collar and flared cuffs may be trimmed with frilling. Buttons—an important feature this season—adorn this attractive model, and a ribbon girdle crushed into a front closing buckle adds a final air of chic. No 1479 is for Misses and is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 years requires 3¾ yards 39-inch material, or 2½ yards 54-inch; 3⅛ yards 1-inch ribbon for frilling, and 1¼ yards 6-inch ribbon for belt. Price 25 cents the pattern.

The secret of distinctive dress lies in good taste rather than a lavish expenditure of money. Every woman should want to make her own clothes, and the home dressmaker will find the designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book to be practical and simple, yet maintaining the spirit of the mode of the moment. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1928.

Astrologers read in this day's horoscope many conflicting and disturbing planetary influences that may be thwarting to the efforts of dwellers on the Earth.

In the early part of the day the planetary government is fairly helpful to all who deal in figures, from financiers to bookkeepers.

It is a day that should be fortunate for those who begin ocean voyages, although they are assured of rough weather.

Secret discoveries of oil appear to be indicated by the stars and some sort of excitement over rich lands is forecast.

The seers declare that the planetary government is favorable to persons of keen mind, all the influences making for keen foresight and daring enterprise.

While men engage in projects that require supreme courage and aggressiveness, the influence of the stars will be manifested among women who will be inclined toward initiative in romance.

All the signs appear to presage for political leaders a retention of prestige, even though young men and women will contend for distinction.

This is not a day for courtship and marriage, for its trend is toward a strong individualism on the part of both men and women.

Under this direction of the stars motion picture producers are likely to meet new problems, especially where material for screen plays is concerned.

Both stage and screen will gain importance in the life of the people and will gain greatly in their characteristics, astrologers foretell.

The rise of a new woman star again is foretold and she will be of extraordinary gifts that place her high among the intellectuals.

Under this direction of the stars it is wise to use few words, for libels and scandals are presaged.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a prosperous year in which they gain in friends as well as money.

Children born on this day probably will be uncommonly lucky all through life. They should have great charm of manner.

Junior Teams Tied on Round in City Series

PETERBORO JUNIORS DEFEAT ST. JOHN'S 5 TO 3 AND TIE UP ROUND IN EXCITING CITY TITLE SERIES

Fourth Game Necessary to Settle Argument Between Two Local Junior Outfits.

WILL BE BATTLE

Saints' Rally in Third Period Saves Their Bacon—Were Behind 5-0.

(By F. D. C.)

First game, St John's 2, Petes 1.
Second game, St. John's 5, Petes 4.
Third game, St. John's 3, Petes 5.
Score on round St. John's 10, Petes 10.

The battle for supremacy between the two Peterborough Junior O.H.A. teams still remains undecided although early in the third period of last night's game—the third in the series—it looked as if it was all over but the cheering and that Lew Lebarr's Peterborough youngsters had the round salted away after dropping the first two games.

With only thirteen minutes left to play the Petes were leading five goals to nothing, and apparently the winners all over, having outskated, outplayed and outchecked the Saints for the greater part of the journey.

And then all at once the red and white crew came back into the picture and staged an onslaught that, aided by a penalty to Ted Lebarr, gave them three goals inside of as many minutes and tied up the round as tight as a drum.

There was no more scoring, so that the Petes won the battle 5 goals to 3, and the total score on the three game series is ten goals for each team—necessitating a fourth game to settle the argument.

And if that fourth game doesn't produce more hockey excitement than has been seen around Brock street rink this winter, the fans who saw last night's battle don't know a thing about Canada's winter pastime.

The struggle last night made notable by the Saints' great finish at a moment when they were apparently out of the argument altogether was a rattling good exhibition of hockey The Peterborough Junior facing defeat at the hands of a new team in junior ranks, rose to the occasion and in winning their first game of the winter, after a string of eleven consecutive defeats, played their smartest, fastest and best hockey of the season. They were full value for their win, showing abundance of speed, and a great deal more punch around the nets than have been displayed in any previous fixture, and they were not only good offensively but clever defensively. As a result they led 1 to 0 at the end of the first period, and before the second rest they had scored two more to give them a lead in the round for the first time since the series opened. When they opened the last dash with two smart counters inside of seven minutes and were three up on the round the argument looked to be all over.

And then came the real drama of the game—an unexpected and desperate rally by the Saints that pulled them back in the running when all hope seemed gone, and made a fourth game necessary.

Against the smart playing of the blue and white team St. John's appeared for the greater part of the game to be stale. Their checking lacked the effectiveness that held the Petes under control in the first two battles and their offensive efforts were ragged and lacked punch. It was only when they looked to be sunk without a trace that they showed what a game team they are by driving themselves into a rally that saved the round and indeed came within an ace of winning it, for they had the edge in the last few minutes of play.

All the Petes deserve laurels for the exhibition they put up but undoubtedly stellar honors must be awarded to Chuck Kenneally, whose exhibtion was the best of the year. He had barrels of speed, scored one smart goal, carried the rubber in for plays that made two more counters possible, and defensively his checking was of great assistance. Cripps and Jones were also very effective, getting three clever goals between them in fast following for rebounds Hatton, replacing Calladine on the defence, checked effectively and his dash for the first goal was one of the pretties plays of the night. Lebarr's defence work was airtight and he rushed effectively. While behind this good defence Gillespie turned in a fine game in the nets.

On the St. John's line-up there was no particular star. The whole outfit tried with every ounce they had, and although outplayed by a considerable margin for most of the journey, simply refused to quit and saved the day by their determination. Payne's work in the nets was as clever as usual and he had little chance with anything that beat him. Johnston and Jarvis were a good defence and came to the rescue in the pinch with a goal each when they were badly needed. Up in front honors were even. Hall again played the full sixty minutes and got on the score sheet as usual, while Cuthbertson and Hartley, both playing under difficulties as a result of injuries in the last game, worked their heads off. Cuthbertson started with one sprained thumb and before the game was over he had the other one smashed, but he refused to stop.

The line-up:

Peterborough Juniors.

Goal: Gillespie.
Defence: Lebarr and Hatton.
Centre: Jones.
Right wing: Cripps.
Subs: Allin, White.

St. John's.

Goal: Payne.
Defence: Johnston Jarvis.
Centre: Cuthbertson.
Right wing: T. Hall.
Subs: J. Hall, Dunkerley, Weir.
Referee: Walter Jackson.

The opening minutes of the first period were devoid of thrills. The teams opened slowly and the Saints checking the Petes at the latter's blue line held them for some time, without however making a dangerous move on their own account. Johnston drew the first penalty of the game, but the Petes failed to take advantage of their opportunity, although when the sides were even again they tested Payne several times on hard shots from outside the defence. Fourteen minutes of the period had gone when Hatton started the scoring by breaking away from his own blue line and skating fast down the centre ice lane, went round the Saints' defence and gave Payne no chance. Soon after Johnston got a second penalty, and when he protested too vigorously had another minute tacked on his sentence. The Petes thus had a one man advantage for three minutes, but the Saints checked successfully and held the fort until Johnston came back.

Early in the second period the St. Johns team showed more aggressiveness and had several good chances to tie the score. Hartley got a careless pass from Lebarr right in front of the net but shot high. Kenneally drew a penalty for holding and after he got back Cripps was chased for slashing. Then Hartley was fenced for tripping. Dunkerley lost a great chance to sew up the game when he worked in from the side and then hit the side of the net with Gillespie beaten. Finally, however, the Petes tied up the round on a beautitful rush by Kenneally. Payne stopped the first shot, but before he could clear Cripps closed in fast and made no mistake on the rebound.

A minute and a half later Kenneally again stick-handled inside, only to have Payne save again. The Saints' goaler held the rubber too long, however, and when he tried to pass it out to the blue line drove it right at Jones, who had nothing to do but slam it back into the net. That left the Petes a goal up on the ground and they were still 3-0 in front when the period ended.

Early in the last session the blue and white team increased their lead. Jones went down the right boards and centred neatly to Kenneally, who took the pass nicely and caught the corner of the net with an accurate shot.

When Hatton, two minutes later, went down the side and drilled a hard one at Payne and Cripps batted in the rebound the battle seemed to be over.

Then came the Saints' onslaught to tie up the score. Jarvis started things when he broke up a rush at his own blue line, tore down the rink and around the Petes' defence to go close in to beat Gillespie.

Right after this successful raid Lebarr tripped Jarvis as he was making another attack and the two minute penalty he drew was costly for the Petes. The Saints rose to their opportunity and carried the attack to the blue shirts. A few seconds after Lebarr reached the penalty box, Terry Hall picked up a loose puck and slid a slow shot past Gillespie and the Saints' rooters went wild forty-five seconds later when Johnston broke away, and shooting from outside the blue line, beat the Petes' net guardian for the goal that tied the round. For the next two or three minutes the Petes were hard pressed to hold out the inspired red and white crew who scented victory. However, they eventually settled down and when Jarvis was hurt and had to retire the Saints' attack tailed off. Neither team could score again, although St. John's were dangerous several times in the last minute.

The Summary.

First Period—
1 Peterborough Jrs., Hatton, 14 mins.

Off-Hour Rules Are Introduced In Major League Training Camps

ATLANTA, February 24 (Canadian Press). — Spring training for seven major league clubs in Florida was more vigorous yesterday than at any time since the conditioning campaign started, longer hours being spent on the diamond and codes of "don'ts" making appearances in several camps.

Particularly was this the case at Avon Park, where Manager Bill McKechnie served his St. Louis Cardinals training restrictions in no uncertain terms.

Night hours, drinking, card playing, and golf are all permissible for the candidates, McKechnie declared, provided thay are up ready for work at 7.30 a.m., drink nothing stronger than near-beer, play only anti-gambling games, and engage in golf on off days.

Rules of about the same order have been adopted in other camps.

Although work was extended slightly in the quarters of the Braves at St. Petersburg, the Phillies at Winterhaven, the Cardinals at Avon Park, the Senators at Tampa, the Red Sox at Bradentown, the Browns at West Palm Beach, and the Athletics at Fort Myers, the training still is in its preliminary stage, and no casualties have been reported to date.

Phil Scott, British Heavyweight, Returns To United States For Second Invasion

NEW YORK, N.Y., Feb. 23 - (Canadian Press-.—Phil Scott, British heavyweight, came back to America to begin all over again a title drive that already has had one disastrous opening.

Last Fall Scott launched an American invasion against Knute Hansen, the "Melancholy Dane" of Wisconsin, in Madison Square Garden. Hansen knocked him down seven times and finally out in a single round. Before returning to England, however, Scott knocked out Monte Munn and forced Johnn Risko to the limit to win a decision in Cleveland.

Phil sailed into New York harbor firm in the belief that he now is "better informed on American prize fight courtesies" than when he tackled Hansen. His mistake in that fight, aside from blocking right hand punches with his chin, was in going into the ring without first studying American methods, he said. "These consist of trouble stirring and hard hitting from the start."

Scott believes that Gene Tunney, his ultimate goal, is "a boxer, first and last" and that a victory for Old England, if a title bout ever takes place, will merely prove that "good manners and correct English still are earmarks of a champion."

DYE RETURNS

Babe Dye of Toronto, one of the leading scorers of the National Hockey League last year, who broke his leg just before this winter's schedule started, has just returned to the Chicago Black Hawks and the game again.

WESTERN SPEEDER IMPRESSES CRITICS

Stainsby of Winnipeg Shows Fast Breaking Ability in Workouts.

TORONTO, Feb. 24.—These pushers of the long thin blade who have medal aspirations were given cause for worry when they saw Rutherford Stainsby, the Winnipeg speeder, go through his stroking at the Old Orchard rink. The wizard from the West may not be a Charlie Gorman, but he knows how to get off the mark and cut the corners without skidding. He will be hard to beat in the senior events, especially in the sprints. Whether he can carry his speed over a route is another story entirely. The slim youngster comes from Winnipeg with a great reputation, and it is more than likely that he will be heard from in the titular events tonight and Saturday afternoon.

The competition all down the line promises to be of the sharpest kind. Lela Brooks will defend her championship against Margaret McBride, Isabelle McCullough, Isabelle Trotter, Jerry Mackie, Doris Keating and Ruth Bergen, of Buffalo, and the tip is out that the Bison City miss will stand a whole lot of watching. She is a much improved performer over last year, according to the feminine flashes from these parts who have competed against her at Buffalo. Last Sunday Miss Bergen was credited with showing 42 seconds for a quarter mile, which, if correct, is a world's record.

It is the general opinion, however, that the battle for the girl's crown will be a two-cornered one with Lela and Bargaret the principals. The latter may win the dash, but Miss Brooks should come down in front at the other distances.

Eleanor Bowles is the favorite for the 18-year-old championship, although the Ottawa girl, Francoise Desbiens, is likely to be right in the neighborhood. Maurice Rowan, also of the capital, promises to make it interesting for all comers in the 14-year-old class for boys. Young Rowan is a hefty youngster for his age, and Coach Stevenson, of Toronto, who had him at Lake Placid, thinks pretty highly of his chances.

Percy Johnson and Eddie Gloster, former Torontonians, are here from Detroit. They will skate in the senior division under the colors of the Cadillac A. C. Chester Cole, of Sackville, N. S., Robert Howe, of St. John's, and Harry Smythe, of Moncton, N. B., are already here. Howe is the senior champion of the Maritimes, while Cole is the National 16-year-old title holder. Dug. McQuarrie and Al. Walters of the Old Orchard club are likely to give the far east stripling an argument.

SENIOR TEAMS WILL CLASH ON SATURDAY

Will be Feature of Week-End Games in English and Scottish League.

LONDON, Eng., Feb. 24 (Canadian Press Cable).—The tense struggle of the senior teams in English and Scottish League soccer will be resumed again to-morrow after a week's interval due to Cup-tie matches.

In the English First Division Everton's lead has been whittled down to one point, and Huddersfield Town are hot on their heels. Leicester City are also only one point behind Huddersfield Town. The next four teams are all close up, so that the question of the likely champion cannot be answered yet. On Saturday Everton are at home to Liverpool and should win, though Liverpool recently acquired Thomas Morrison, brilliant St. Mirren right half-back, and will be a tough nut to crack. It is said £4,000 was paid for Morrison. Huddersfield Town visit Bolton Wanderers and will be lucky to get a draw. Leicester are entertaining Arsenal, and who may be expected to take as few chances with their men as possible in view of the Cup-tie in which they figure the following week. This makes Leicester City's chances for a win look good.

Chelsea are in the lead in the Second Division and should hold it because they have to meet Southampton, a weak team, at home. The second and third teams, Manchester City and Preston North-End, are drawn together at Manchester, and this should be a thrilling match.

In Scotland Motherwell are temporarily on top of the First Division table because they have played more games than Rangers. Motherwell play Hearts on Saturday, and seeing they recently defeated the Edinburgh club in Cup-ties should win again. Rangers have a picnic as they are drawn against the lowly Raith Rovers.

Rugby Matches.

LONDON, Eng., Feb. 23 (Canadian Press Cable). — Two international Rugby matches will be staged in the British Isles to-morrow. At Twickenham England meets France, while at Edinburgh Ireland plays Scotland.

England have probably the best Rugby team they have had for some years and expect little trouble in disposing of France. This season England have beaten Wales and Ireland, and also the touring New South Wales team. France have been beaten by Scotland and Ireland. The English team will be the same as that which won from Ireland in Dublin.

Scotland began the season with high hopes. They won from the New South Wales team and also France. They were favorites to win from Wales, but suffered a crushing reverse. For the game with Ireland on Saturday eight changes have been made in the team. Ireland will play the same fifteen who were beaten out by England by the odd point, except that the veteran, Harry Stevenson, will be dropped.

The Scottish team will be: D. Drysdale, Heriots; Ian Smith, Edinburgh University; J. Hume, Oxford University; J. Dykes, Glasgow Academicals; Simmers, Glasgow Academicals; J. M. Bannerman, Glasgow High School; J. R. Paterson, Birkenhead Park, Roughead, Welsh; J. Allan, Melrose, and D. Kerr, Heriots.

Mr. McGarry, who is the president of the Ontario S.S.A. has few equals as a starter and to hear him tell it, it is no easy matter getting the speed boys away in a bunch. Fred Robson was the Gorman of his day and several of his records are still in the little red book. The veteran knows the game from every angle, and no mistake was made when he was appointed official referee of the association this winter.

United States Loses Another Tennis Title

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Another American tennis title has gone to

On the courts of the Philadelphia Racquet Club yesterday, Pierre Etchebaster, 35-year-old Basque, won the open court tennis championship of the United States when he defeated Jock Soutar, the defending title-holder, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3, in the second block of the match.

Etchebaster, by winning three of four sets on Monday, went into the play yesterday needing four more sets to give him the seven necessary to victory. These he collected in incredibly short time, sweeping Soutar off his feet with bewildering speed and placements.

By winning the court tennis title, Etchebaster takes to France one of the last remaining American tennis championships.

The men's lawn tennis singles title was lost by the United States to Rene Lacoste two years ago, and has not been regained. Last year France won the Davis Cup.

being the president of the Assembly of the League.

How far does this new independence actually reach, is the question one asks after reviewing the Dominion's new position in the Empire and among the nations of the world. One finds that there are still many restrictions. Among them is a part of the British North America Act, wherein the Governor-General may reserve his assent to any Bill passed through the Commons and Senate; another is that any Bill passed by the Dominion Government may be disallowed by Privy Council if it carries anything that seems inconsistent.

Having viewed Canada's growth geographically and constitutionally, we next turn to her development in the industrial world, and observe that her annual crops have grown from twenty-one million to four hundred and forty-four million bushels annually; that the pulp and paper industry has grown from $1,071,000 to be over $192,000,000, and that manufacturing in the Dominion has grown from $221,000,000 to $2,948,000,000 annually. Only the growth in population, from 3,435,000 to 9,519,000 has been disappointing.

The speaker then outlined Canada's criminal code from its formation its relation to the Motherland; he dwelt on the need for a greater appreciation of our heritage, and concluded by urging the Kiwanians as citizens to take a hold and help others to play a part in the greater development in the next fifteen years of this, the century which Laurier predicted would belong to Canada.

The vote of thanks to His Honor Judge O'Connell was voiced by John I. Allen in able manner, and included the contributor of a choice vocal number, namely Harold Snelgrove. The meeting closed with the singing of "O Canada."

DRIVER CHARGED WITH MAN'S DEATH

Ford City Man Out On $20,000 Bail Until Preliminary Hearing.

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 24.—Rufus St. Louis, 20, of Ford City, was released on $20,000 bail yesterday afternoon in Ford City Police Court, following his arraignment on a manslaughter charge involving the mysterious death of George Holmes, whose mutilated body, frozen stiff, was found in a ditch on Tecumseh Road, Sandwich East, early Saturday morning.

Ford police claim St. Louis was the driver of the car which struck and killed Holmes sometime on Friday night. When found, the body showed a circular fracture of the skull in the back. This might have been caused by a pistol butt or other weapon, but the Ford police now believe that it was caused by the parking light on the car driven by St. Louis.

The police theory is that Holmes was struck by the bumper of the car and then thrown against the small parking light. The parking lights on the car owned by St. Louis are missing, and it is claimed that there are scratches on the car which would indicate that the lights were removed recently.

St. Louis was remanded for a week by Magistrate W. A. Smith.

"Madame" Speaker B.C. Innovation

VICTORIA, B.C., Feb. 24 (Canadian Press).—The Legislature of British Columbia made British Parliamentary history Wednesday by conducting its proceedings under the direction of a woman. Mr. Speaker Buckham asked Mrs. Ellen Smith, member for Vancouver, to replace him when he left the chamber for a short rest, and in filling the Speaker's chair Mrs. Smith was the first woman to exercise such a function in a British Parliament so far as is known here.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE SLEEPY BEAR.

(Copyright, 1928, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

There was a sniffing, snuffing sound outside the snow block igloo which Uncle Wiggily, Scooter and the Eskimo rabbit had built as a place to hide away from the Bushy Bear.

"What's that?" asked Eski, the North Pole rabbit, again. For he had asked the same question in the story last night, as you may remember.

"Sounds like the wind!" whispered Scooter, who had come out adventuring with his "Daddicums," as he called Uncle Wiggily.

"No, that isn't the wind," said Mr. Longears as the sniffing, snuffing sound grew louder. "It's the Bear trying to find his way into our igloo."

"I hope he doesn't," said Scooter.

Just then the block of snow, which Eski had placed at the front door hole in the round, little house, began to move.

"The Bear's pushing it," whispered Scooter. "He's coming in!"

"Then it's time for us to go out," said Eski.

He looked up at the hole left in the roof of the igloo. The hole was there to let in the fresh air, or, in case a fire were built to fry snowballs or boil icicles, the smoke would go out of this hole. But now that the Bushy Bear was sniffing around, no one thought of building a fire. Uncle Wiggily and the two rabbit boys wanted to get away.

Again the Bear sniffed and again the Bear snuffed. Then those in igloo could hear the big, shaggy fellow growling:

LANG CAMPBELL

The Bear pushed and pushed.

"Well, I thought surely I'd catch those rabbits, but they got away. All I see here is a big snow ball, or I guess it's only half a ball."

The Bear was right. The igloo looked like a snow ball cut in half and lying on the flat side.

"But it seems to be hollow!" growled the Bear, still sniffing around and pushing the block of snow, which served as the front door, aside with his paw. "Yes, the half a snow ball house is hollow so I'll crawl in and go to sleep. I'll wake up to-morrow and see about my shadow. But now I'll go in and have a nice sleep."

The Bear said he'd have a "nice sleep," which is a sort of a joke when you consider he was going to lie down in an ice house.

Then the Bear pushed and he pushed until he had moved the block of snow away from the front door of the igloo, and, though it was rather a tight squeeze, the shaggy chap began to push his way inside. Scooter and Eski waited only long enough to see the shaggy head of the bear appear inside the igloo, and then those two rabbit boys began scrambling up the rough, inner sides of the snow block house.

Eski, being a North Pole rabbit, and knowing more about snow and ice than Scooter, gave Uncle Wiggily's boy a push to help him out of the hole in the roof. Then Eski followed and the two rabbit boys slid down the smooth, outside snow walls of the round igloo and landed on the ground.

"We're safe!" cried Eski.

"Yes, the Bear can't get us now," said Scooter, "for he's inside your igloo," and he pointed to the hind legs of the bear which were just disappearing through the front door as the shaggy chap climbed in.

"Oh! but what about your Daddicums?" suddenly asked Eski, as he was about to run away with Scooter.

"That's so! Where is Daddicums?" Scooter wanted to know.

"He's back there—inside—with the Bear!" whispered Eski, pointing to the igloo.

"We must get him out!" said the other rabbit boy. "He must have forgotten the hole in the roof."

Making a pile of snow blocks, on which to step, Eski and Scooter climbed up on the igloo roof until they could look down inside. There instead of seeing, as they feared, the Bushy Bear nibbling Uncle Wiggily's ears, the rabbit boys saw the bunny gentleman stretched out sleeping on the snow floor of the igloo. And, strange as it may seem, in the other corner was the Bear also asleep.

As soon as the shaggy chap had crawled inside, it was so cozy and warm that he had fallen asleep. And while Uncle Wiggily was wondering what he could do to save the boys from the Bear, the old gentleman rabbit had also fallen asleep. This was just as Scooter and Eski climbed up through the hole in the roof.

"We must wake up Daddicums, and tell him to crawl out, but we mustn't wake up the sleepy Bear," whispered Scooter. "But how can we wake up Daddicums without waking the Bear?"

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases, and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist some Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful of powder or four tablets in water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

CRACKLING VIBRANT COMEDY AT THE REGENT THEATRE

"Clancy's Kosher Wedding," which is now showing at the Regent Theatre, is one of the snappiest, fastest pictures of the year. The story is a trifle conventional, yet it is told in a free and easy manner which makes it easily believable.

The story is full of gag spots and fast, snappy action and none of these incidents are dragged in by the heels. There is one very funny sequence where an Irish politician stages a Jewish-Irish picnic in order to corner the votes of his ward. The picnic goes along finely until a Jewish boy attempts to sing some Irish ballads. This is too much for old Mr. Clancy and his personal battle with Hymen Cohen turns into a free-for-all that rivals any of the fabled scenes at Donnybrook fair.

The trouble is finally ironed out when young Tommy Clancy fights a Jewish boxer, Izzy Murphy, and both Clancy and Cohen stake their whole fortune on the result of the contest. Tommy is in love with Leah Cohen and when she learns that her father will be penniless if Tommy wins she begs him to throw the fight. This he refuses to do, and beats the fighter in six rousing rounds. In the end Clancy misses his fight with Cohen so much that he brings him home—an dthe two rivals unite under the name of Clancy and Cohen.

AT THE CAPITOL.

"JUDGMENT OF THE HILLS."

This picture is of the type whose title promises a great deal more than the picture can live up to. It goes along, giving the impression that something dramatic is about to happen. But nothing does. "The End" flashes on the screen before the looked-for development arrives.

But it has something quite spectacular in the way of a child actor. Little Frankie Darro, in the role of Tad Dennison, brother of the somewhat useless Brant Dennison, central figure of the piece, is one of the cleverest juveniles the moving pictures have produced. His expressions are wonderful, for such a young boy and his very "real" presentation of the role are quite out of the ordinary.

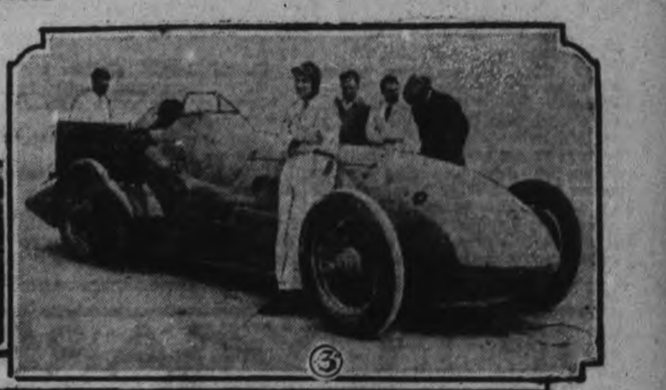
The story deals with the efforts made by Tad and Miss Dix, the pretty school teacher, to turn Brant from drinking ways to a better life, and the war figures in the scheme by taking him away from the Kentucky hills.

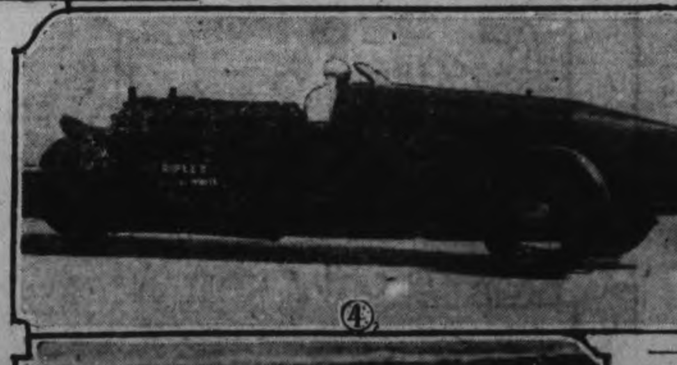
Enters Last Stage Of Exciting Journey

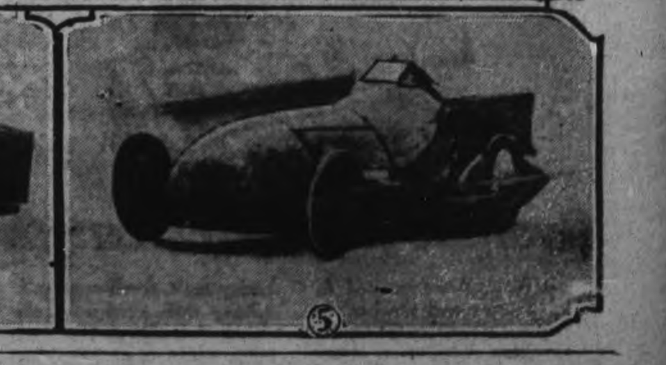
NEW YORK, Feb. 24.— Canadian Press.)—Having covered approximately 17,500 miles in a motorcycle tour around the world, Lieut. Glanfield, of the British army, will sail for England tonight on the final leg of his seven month journey. Lieut. Glanfield told of being pursued by a panther in India, of routing a band of Arabs in Africa by the noise of his engine, and of battling a crocodile in Northern Australia. He said his object was to obtain information of motoring conditions for the English motorcycle firms financing his trip.

In Engand where dogs are allowed to roam front gardens after dark, postmen on the last round frequently endorse letters "Dog loose in garden" and hold them back for morning delivery.

AUTOMOBILE SPEEDSTERS AT DAYTONA BEACH







By setting a record of a fraction below 207 miles an hour, Captain Malcolm Campbell of Great Britain won the auto racing palm from his fellow countryman, Major H. O. D. Segrave, who established a world's mark last summer. Campbell's new record is now being challenged by American speedsters. (1) Left to right Capt. Campbell, Frank Lockhart, the Indianapolis ace, Ray Keech, another American rival; (2) Keech driving J. M. White's Triplex, which has 36 cylinders and is said to develop 3,000 horsepower; (3) Captain Campbell standing beside his Napier Blue Bird special which is equipped with a secret British air ministry engine; (4) Keech's car seen travelling at 175 miles an hour; (5) a view of Campbell's Blue Bird during a trial run; (6) Lockhart driving his Stutz Black Hawk at great speed over the Daytona Beach course.

Frank Lockhart of Indianapolis was injured in an effort at Daytona Beach, Florida, to break the world's auto speed record of 206.95602 miles an hour, made there by Captain Malcolm Campbell of Great Britain. Campbell had eclipsed the previous world's mark achieved last year at Daytona Beach, by Major H. O. D. Segrave, also an Englishman. Campbell is seen above wearing goggles, the other photograph being that of his American rival.

"CANARY" MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR of THE BENSON MURDER CASE

© Charles Scribner's Sons

THE STORY THUS FAR

Vance believes Skeel innocent of the murder of Margaret Odell and that he lay hidden in a closet while the strangler did his work. Markham ridicules the theory but Vance is unshaken. He shatters Cleaver's alibi of being out of the city the night of the murder, and Mannix, under pressure, reveals that he had been calling on a Miss Frisbee, who occupied the apartment adjoining the "Canary's." At five minutes to 12, he says, he saw Cleaver sneaking out of the side door of the building—out of the door which was thought to have been bolted on the inside all night.

CHAPTER XXXV.

Markham sat glowering into space. "I don't at all like the Cleaver end of this affair," he said. There's been something damned wrong about him ever since Monday."

"And I say," put in Vance, "doesn't the gentleman's false alibi take on a certain shady significance now, what?

"You apprehend, I trust, why I restrained you from questioning him about it at the club yesterday. I rather fancied that if you could get Mannix to pour out his heart to you, you'd be in a stronger position to draw a few admissions from Cleaver. And behold! Again the triumph of intuition! With what you now know about him, you can chivvy him most unconscionably—eh, what?"

"And that's precisely what I'm going to do." Markham rang for Swacker. "Get hold of Charles Cleaver," he ordered irritably. "Phone him at the Stuyvesant Club and also his home—he lives round the corner from the club in West 27th Street. And tell him I want him to be here in half an hour, or I'll send a couple of detectives to bring him in handcuffs."

For five minutes Markham stood before the window, smoking agitatedly, while Vance with a smile of amusement, busied himself with The Wall Street Journal. Heath got himself a drink of water and took a turn up and down the room. Presently Swacker re-entered.

"Sorry, Chief, but there's nothing doing. Cleaver's gone into the country somewhere. Won't be back till late tonight."

"Hell! . . . All right—that'll do." Markham turned to Heath. "You have Cleaver rounded up tonight, Sergeant, and bring him in here tomorrow morning at nine."

"He'll be here, sir!" Heath paused in his pacing and faced Markham. "I've been thinking, sir; and there's one thing that keeps coming up in my mind, so to speak. You remember that black document-box that was setting on the living-room table? It was empty; and what a woman generally keeps in that kind of a box is letters and things like that.

"Well, now, here's what's been bothering me; that box wasn't jimmied open—it was unlocked with a key. And, anyway, a professional crook don't take letters and documents. . . You see what I mean, sir?"

"Sergeant of mine!" exclaimed Vance. "I abase myself before you! I sit at your feet! . . . The document-box—the tidily opened, empty document box! Of course! Skeel didn't open it—never in this world! That was the other chap's handiwork."

"What was in your mind about that box, Sergeant?" asked Markham.

"Just this, sir. As Mr. Vance has insisted right along, there mighta been some one besides Skeel in that apartment during the night. And you told me that Cleaver admitted to you he'd paid Odell a lot of money last June to get back his letters. But suppose he never paid that money; suppose he went there Monday night and took those letters. Wouldn't he have told you just the story he did about buying 'em back? Maybe that's how Mannix happened to see him there."

"That's not unreasonable," Markham acknowledged. "But where does it lead us?"

"Well, sir, if Cleaver did take 'em Monday night, he mighta held on to 'em. And if any of those letters were dated later than last June, when he says he bought 'em back, then we'd have the goods on him."

"Well?"

"As I say, sir, I've been thinking. . . . Now, Cleaver is outa town today; and if we could get hold of those letters. . . ."

"It might prove helpful, of course," said Markham coolly, looking the sergeant straight in the eye. "But such a thing is quite out of the question."

"Still and all," mumbled Heath, "Cleaver's been pulling a lot of raw stuff on you, sir."

(Saturday, September 15; 9 a.m.)

The next morning Markham and Vance and I breakfasted together at the Prince George, and arrived at the district attorney's office a few minutes past nine. Heath, with Cleaver in tow, was waiting in the reception-room.

To judge by Cleaver's manner as he entered, the sergeant had been none too considerate of him. He strode belligerently to the district attorney's desk and fixed a cool, resentful eye on Markham.

"Am I, by any chance, under arrest?" he demanded softly, but it was the rasping, suppressed softness of wrathful indignation.

"Not yet," said Markham curtly. "But if you were, you'd have only yourself to blame.—Sit down."

Cleaver hesitated, and took the nearest chair.

"Why was I routed out of bed at seven-thirty by this detective of yours"—he jerked his thumb toward Heath "and threatened with patrol-wagons and warrants because I objected to such high-handed and illegal methods?"

"You were merely threatened with legal procedure if you refused to accept my invitation voluntarily. This is my short day at the office; and and theer was some explaining I wanted from you without delay."

"I'm damned if I'll explain anything to you under these conditions." For all his nerveless poise Cleaver was finding it difficult to control himself.

"I'm no pickpocket that you can drag in here when it suits your convenience and put through a third degree."

"That's eminently satisfactory to me." Markham spoke omniously. "But since you refuse to do your explaining as a free citizen, I have no other course than to alter your present status."

He turned to Heath. "Sergeant, go across the hall and have Ben swear out a warrant for Charles Cleaver. Then lock this gentleman up."

Cleaver gave a start, and caught his breath sibilantly.

"On what charge?" he demanded.

"The murder of Margaret Odell."

The man sprang to his feet. The color had gone from his face, and the muscles of his jowls worked spasmodically.

"Wait! You're giving me a raw deal. And you'll lose out, too. You couldn't make that charge stick in a thousand years."

"Maybe not. But if you don't want to talk here, I'll make you talk in court."

"I'll talk here." Cleaver sat down again. "What do you want to know?"

Markham took out a cigar and lit it with deliberation.

"First why did you tell me you were in Boonton Monday night?"

Cleaver apparently had expected the question.

"When I read of the Canary's death I wanted an alibi; and my brother had just given me the summons he'd been handed in Boonton. It was a ready-made alibi right in my hand. So I used it."

"Why did you need an alibi?"

"I didn't need it; but I thought it might save me trouble. People knew I'd been running round with the Odell girl; and some of them knew she'd been blackmailing me—I'd told 'em, like a damn fool. I told Mannix, for instance. We'd both been stung."

"Is that your only reason for concocting this alibi?" Markham was watching him sharply.

"Wasn't it reason enough? Blackmail would have constituted a motive, wouldn't it?"

"It takes more than a motive to arouse unpleasant suspicion."

"Maybe so. Only I didn't want to be drawn into it.—You can't blame me for trying to keep clear of it."

Markham leaned over with a threatening smile.

"The fact that Miss Odell had blackmailed you wasn't your only reason for lying about the summons. It wasn't even your main reason."

Cleaver's eyes narrowed, but otherwise he was like a graven image.

"You evidently know more about it than I do. He managed to make his words sound casual.

"Not more, Mr. Cleaver," Markham corrected him, "but nearly as much.—Where were you between eleven o'clock and midnight Monday?"

"Perhaps that's one of the things you know."

"You're right.—You were in Miss Odell's apartment."

Cleaver sneered, but he did not succeed in disguising the shock that Markham's accusation caused him.

"If that's what you think, then it happens you don't know, after all. I haven't put foot in her apartment for two weeks."

"I have the testimony of reliable witnesses to the contrary."

"Witnesses!" The word seemed to force itself from Cleaver's compressed lips.

Markham nodded. "You were seen coming out of Miss Odell's apartment and leaving the house by the side door at five minutes to twelve on Monday night."

Cleaver's jaw sagged slightly, and his labored breathing was quite audible.

"And between half past eleven and twelve o'clock," pursued Markham's relentless voice, "Miss Odell was strangled and robbed.—What do you say to that?"

London Fire Chief Has Narrow Escape

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 23.—Fire Chief Jenner and his chauffeur were within two inches of instant death late last night, when the chief's car sped into the rear of a huge ladder truck and a pole of a ladder crashed through the radiator, hook and dash of the roadster, plunging the spike-tipped pole into the cushions between Jenner and his driver. The accident occurred while the apparatus was responding to a false alarm.

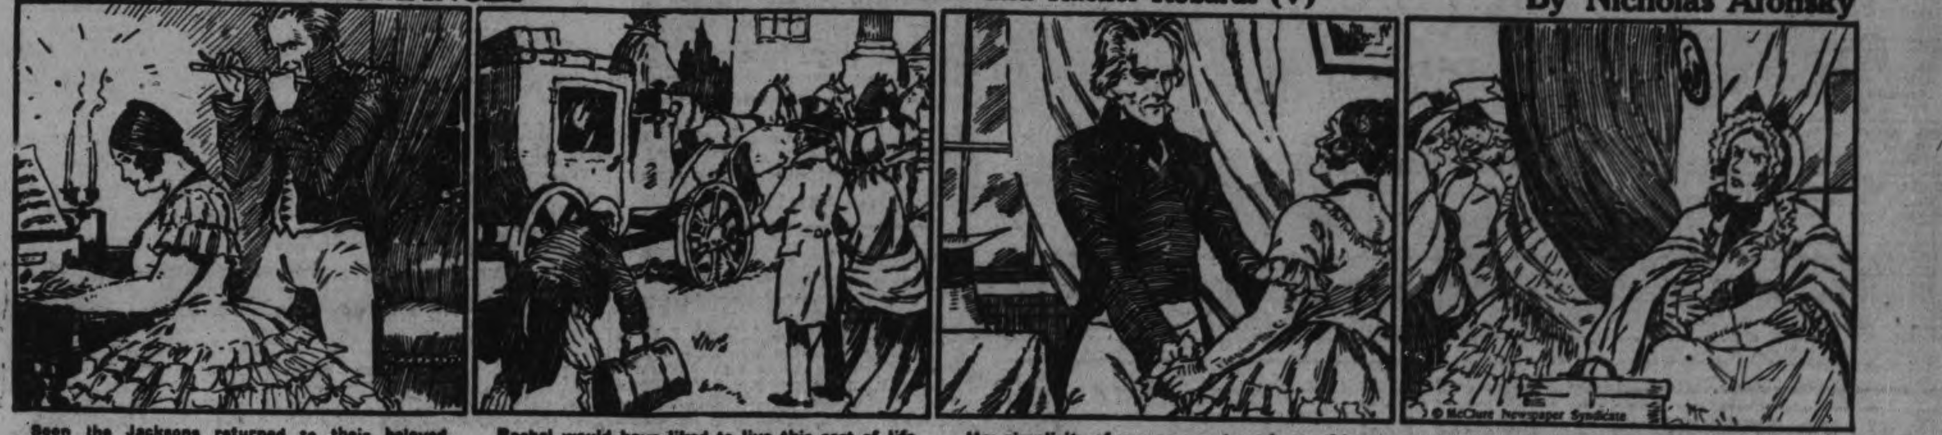
FAMOUS LOVE ROMANCES — Andrew Jackson and Rachel Robards (V) — By Nicholas Afonsky



© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Soon the Jacksons returned to their beloved Hermitage. The house was full of nieces and nephews. Rachel used to play the piano in the evening, accompanying her husband while he played on his flute. In the daytime they drove over the countryside behind four gray horses, with servants in blue liveries.

Rachel would have liked to live this sort of life forever. But her husband was shortly elected to the U. S. Senate—and was mentioned for president. In 1824, traveling in their coach and four, the Jacksons went to Washington. Washington was not at all sure how it would welcome Mrs. Jackson—it had heard strange stories of her marriage.

Her simplicity of manners and goodness of heart conquered most of her critics, however. But later Jackson was nominated for the presidency—in 1825—and the old stories cropped up again. Jackson was always infuriated. The summer before his election Rachel was made happy by Jackson's promise to her to join the church.

Mrs. Jackson was not very well. She had some sort of heart trouble. But she entered into her husband's plans for the inauguration. A great celebration was planned at Nashville, and a few days before she did some shopping for it. Resting in a hotel parlor, waiting for her carriage, she overheard some of the gossip against her.

UP IN YEARS

Ovaltine gives new strength

PEOPLE advanced in years need the health-giving nourishment which Ovaltine supplies so abundantly. It places no tax on weakened digestions.

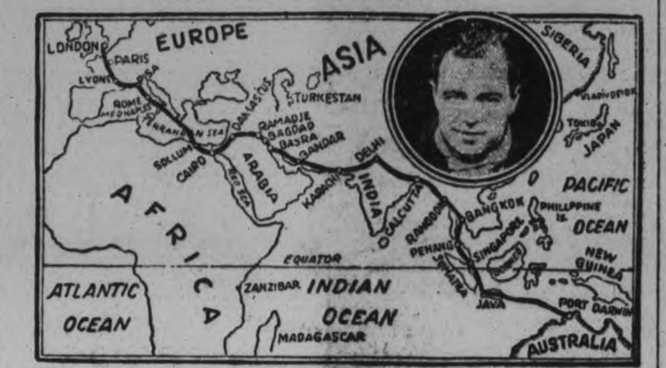
MAKING LONG FLIGHT



Bert Hinckler, Australian aviator, took off recently in an attempt to fly from England to Australia in 18 days, thus beating the record of 28 days, made in 1919 by Sir Ross Smith and Sir Keith Smith. Hinckler's route is practically the same.

Artificial Silk Bonus Excites London Market

LONDON, Feb. 23.—(A.P.)— The Old Lady of Threadneedle Street, as the Bank of England is called, had a front row seat yesterday at the most spectacular trading performance in artificial silk shares on the Stock Exchange which the commercial world has ever experienced. The fun began almost before the old lady had properly finished her breakfast, wiped her spectacles and opened her place of business.

The overnight announcement of a $60,000,000 bonus for shareholders of Courtault, Ltd., artificial silk makers, was the cause of the excitement. The Stock Exchange is just across the street from the Bank of England. The wedgeshaped quarter acre space in front of the Exchange building was thronged with brokers, clerks and assistants long before 9 o'clock, which is the official opening hour. There were so many excited men yelling and calling, wigwagging with hands and arms, making faces and undergoing other contortions that the stenographers, telephone girls, typists and the thousands of other young women employed in the financial district had farly to fight their way through the crowds to their offices.

Deals Before Exchange Opens.

Dealing in Courtauld's stock actually started hauf an hour before the Exchange opened. As time passed the crowd was increased by interested persons who came from all directions, and the babble of conversation, shouts and yells became more intense. The crowd swarmed like bees around new honey. Practically every broker of the financial district had clients interested in Courtauld and as soon as these clients had read the news in the morning papers they hurried to the city to consult their brokers and participate in the excitement.

The shares which closed Tuesday at 7 11-16 rose yesterday to £9 5s. They afterwards fell back slightly, but then climbed again while the brokers scrambled, dodged and wriggled through and around the seething mass endeavoring to reach a nearer position. In a few moments after the exchange opened the shares had shot up to £9—in other words, the total market value of the ordinary shares had risen more than $65,000,000 in about ten minutes. The excitement spread like wildfire and affected all other sections of the artificial silk market.

Dramatic Industrial Development.

The history of Courtauld, Ltd., is one of the most dramatic industrial developments since the World War. It was estimated that the company now controls eighty per cent. of the word's artificial silk trade. It was organized in 1913 with a capital of only £2,500,000, which has now grown to £32,000,000 without any new subscriptions. The dividend this year was at the rate of 25 per cent.

The fact that the New York Exchange was closed in observance of Washington's birthday prevented buying and selling orders from the other side, but as it was yesterday's scenes were among the wildest in the history of the Old Lady of Threadneedle Street, who has been on the job in the same place for 234 years. Habitues of the exchange found a parallel only in the great Kaffir boom in the 'nineties.

BURNED IN HOME.

John A. Maclean, his wife and ten-year-old son, Wallace, all shown above, were burned to death when the house on their farm 15 miles from Kincardine, Ont., was burned down. Maclean had intended to retire and had arranged to auction his stock and implements next day. It would appear that Mr. and Mrs. Maclean suffered suffocation in their bedroom and that the boy Wallace had left his own room and made his way into the hallway.

PETERBOROUGH MEN AT BANQUET

City and County Well Represented at Good Roads Association Dinner.

TORONTO, Feb. 24 (Special to The Examiner).—Peterborough and district, especially the County Council was well represented among the thousand guests, who last night filled the Crystal ballroom of the King Edward Hotel and overflowed into all the adjoining rooms, at the monster banquet which marked the close of the deliberations of the twenty-sixth annual convention of the Good Roads Association of Ontario, held in Convocation Hall, University of Toronto. Both local members of the Legislative Assembly, W. H. Bradburn and W. A. Anderson, were present, along with Warden Smithson, Reeves Bert Middleton, H. B. Rye, J. Scott, J. F. Breckenridge, W. T. Curtis, C. S. Tanner, W. Montgomery, J. Hawthorne, J. Leahy, W. Cavanagh, H. Parker, A. Caldwell, W. Windsor, Deputy-Reeves H. Coons, F. McIntyre, W. Waterman, County Clerk E. Elliott, County Roadmaster D. McFarlane, Superintendents Davis and McKeever; Otonabee Councillors Huston, Davidson and Reid, and Township Clerk J. J. Moore.

At the head table sat Premier Howard Ferguson, Hon. G. S. Henry, Minister of Public Works and Highways, Hon. William Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests, Hon. Finly M'Dermid, former Minister of Highways; Hon. R. M. Smith, Deputy Minister of Highways; W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader in the Ontario Legislative Assembly; Sir Robert Falconer, President of the University of Toronto; W. H. Ireland, Conservative Whip in the Provincial House; S. L. Squire, Secretary of the Association; F. A. Senecal, President of the Association, presided.

IN MEMORIAM.

BYERS. — In loving memory of our dear daughter, and her little infant son, who died just eight years ago—Baby, 23rd; Grace 24th, also her husband, Stanley, 25th of February. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Byers.

TRINITY MEN ENTERTAIN

Men of St. Andrew's Are Guests at Banquet—Dr. McKeen is Speaker.

SPLENDID PROGRAM.

The Men's Association of Trinity United Church, was at home on Thursday night at 8 o'clock in the Reid street hall, to the St. Andrew's Men's Association, of St. Andrew's United Church.

The men to the number of one hundred and twenty sat down to a sumptuous banquet at 6.30 o'clock. The tables were prettily decorated. A pleasant surprise, adding a note of enjoyment to the gathering, was the presence of Rev. Mr. Malott of Belleville, a former pastor of Trinity Church. The Rev. J. W. Gordon of St. Andrew's church, and the Rev. D. Wren of Trinity Church, were present. Community singing was a feature of the evening's entertainment. Maurice H. Park, B.A., sang two beautiful solos: "Beneath My Window," and "That Lassie of Mine." There were also two solos rendered, which judging by the hearty applause, were very much enjoyed. These were rendered by Rev. Dr. Malott of Belleville, and Rev. Mr. Gordon of St. Andrew's church.

After the chairman's remarks by Rev. Mr. Wren, George A. Gillespie followed with a few well chosen remarks introducing the speaker of the evening, Dr. McKeen of the American City Bureau.

Dr. McKeen's subject was "Everyday Problems of Christian Men and Christian Women."

Words of appreciation regarding the pleasant evening enjoyed in companionship with the St. Andrew's men, also for the magnificent and very stirring address by the speaker, Dr. McKeen, were expressed by R. T. Kidd seconded by E. F. Reid. Rev. Mr. Gordon thanked the Young People's Club for the splendid banquet.

Rev. Dr. Malott also expressed words of appreciation and reminiscences before pronouncing the benediction

Mr. McKeen did not discuss the Chamber of Commerce movement except to say: "I know of no better group of men to whom I can speak to show Peterborough just than is in the background of the thinking of these men who are community leaders.

"Three great forces of evil are gripping at the throat of humanity constantly," said Mr. McKeen in part. "These are poverty, disease and wickedness. The mother of these is ignorance, with prejudice and superstition as companions. Our task is to overcome these. "By poverty I do not mean lack of money, but ideas and ideals."

He showed by startling figures and examples the world poverty in the type of literature read, the illiteracy in music and the scarcity of impressive and attractive subjects in art. Trashy reading, jazz music and comic strips are giving low if not false ideals of life. Human fellowship was shown also to be a source of poverty as well as failure to appreciate the richness and beauty of the community.

"Most of the dying is somebody's fault, continued Mr. McKeen. "Over four thousand people died in the last 24 hours in America. Three thousand and more died of preventable diseases. Doctors warn us and cure us but we go right on dying because we fail to heed them. When our loved ones die we blame it on God What we need is to heed professional advice and clean up pest holes and germ breeding areas.

"Some people think there is no such thing as wickedness abroad and that all could be included under poverty and disease. No so. I've known some folks that were remarkably wealthy and tremendously healthy but just as mean as the devil.

"Wickedness for the most part starts in the play, recreational life of our youth, the leisure hours if you please." He drove home this point with vivid force by the story of a boy who drifted into bad company and prison because his parents, city officers, and churches had failed to provide proper recreation.

"I would not dare make the indictment I have unless I had something to offer than is better.

"In place of poverty let us put wealth. In place of disease, health. In place of wickedness, righteousness."

Mr. McKeen illustrated these by some practical examples.

"Righteousness," said Mr. McKeen, "is right relationship with yourself, your family, your church, your community, the provinces, the Dominion, the world, and God."

He closed with a beautiful word picture of the real service Christ had rendered to the world.

NEW ERA FOR MOTION PICTURES

versal curve of development of tolls and machine service. A few centuries ago books were so valuable and writing and printing so costly that books were chained to the reading desks in the library. Now due to the printing presses and the widening service of the art of printing we give away and scatter broadcast through the mails better and finer printing than the ancients ever dreamed was attainable. I think all this means that the engineer ought to be very interested in the motion picture as a new tool and as he becomes interested the motion picture camera is going to find new and more extended uses and services."

The speaker issued a warning to be not too enthusiastic for the machine was not as simple as many of the advertisers make it out to be. Meanwhile let it be understood that the professional motion picture camera of the studio type is to-day the only instrument which will make the sort of screen records that the standards of theatre production make necessary. The little motion picture camera is a marvel within its limitations, but those limitations are definitely marked. The best amateur movie camera of to-day stands in about the same relation to the professional camera, in scope and power as the little Brownie you buy at the drug store does to the professional Graflex speed camera.

Developing Technically.

"As engineers you will perhaps be interested in some of the more recent developments of the motion pictures from a technical point of view. The camera and films are now undergoing a process of refinement and perfection paralleling in a certain sense the remarkable recent refinements of the phonograph. For many years the motion picture has been striving towards more powerful light sources. The first motion picture made under artificial light was the Jeffries-Sharkey fight at Coney Island in 1899. They used 400 arc lamps over the ring and very nearly broiled the fighters.

"But now we can get all the light in the world and we can pour enough light on a spot now to make the sunlight seem pale in contrast. We are so developing the camera and the film that we do not need so much light. Motion picture film emulsions are now about four or five times as sensitive as they were fifteen years ago, and the lenses that cast the image on the film have on the other hand vastly increased their capacity to transmit light.

Very Accurate.

"In the purely mechanical aspects of the camera and the cinema machinery we are already pretty close to perfection. The best of our cameras now work to precision limits well with one ten-thousandth of an inch. Something of their accuracy may be understood from the fact that a single negative can be put through a camera ten times for a series of multiple exposures and yet so perfectly register each of those exposures with reference to the others that the picture is steady within itself as though it had all been exposed at one passage through the mechanism. This accuracy is made necessary because of the tremendous magnifications to which the picture is subjected in screen projection. The tiniest error casts a vast shadow of itself on the screen," concluded the speaker.

"At the close of the lecture Mr. Norris showed several films, one of which was the recent Belanger-Jarvis bout in Toronto.

AUSTRALIAN TRADE TREATY DISCUSSED BY STOCKMEN

Resolution Adopted at Vancouver Meeting of Western Livestock Union.

FAVOR MARKET EXTENSION.

Demand Representation at Next Discussion of Agreement With Government.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Canadian Press. — The Canadian-Australian trade treaty was the subject of a resolution before the Western Livestock Union meeting here yesterday. It was carried following considerable discussion. It was as follows:

"Whereas, the Western Canada Livestock Union understands that the Dominion government is committed to the present policy in regard to the Australian trade agreement, and as this organization has other matters to present upon which immediate action can be taken, be it resolved:

"That this organization request that when the matter is reopened for discussion or consideration, the Western Canada Livestock Union and the National Dairy Council of Canada be advised, and that before another trade agreement be entered into by the government of Canada, notice of such proposed agreement be given to the Union so that proper representations may be made by those affected."

Speaking to the motion, P. Pallesen, a butter dealer, who said he was an importer, suggested with some timidity that what the farmers needed was a little protection on butter. The suggestion was met with laughter.

Favor Market Extension.

The organization had gone on record a few minutes previously as favoring the extension of markets by trade treaties, and had suggested to the government in formal resolution that they were ripe for new negotiations with the United States with a view to tariff revision, particularly referring to beef cattle. Mr. Pallesen remained firm in his contention and stated that restoration of the tariff to its former level would increase the price of butter fat three or four cents per pound.

"If you want to encourage settlement in Western Canada for God's sake let New Zealand take care of herself," said Mr. Pallesen. Several other speakers referred to importations of New Zealand butter in connection with the discussion of the Australian pact.

Beef Cattle.

C. W. Baker representing the Industrial and Development Council of Canadian Meat Packers, said it was impossible to get enough high grade beef cattle. Or all the cattle marketed at Toronto in 1927 only one per cent. graded prime and choice; six per cent. graded good; 30 per cent. medium and 60 per cent. were distinctly inferior. He urged that not too much for practical purposes be asked of the government. The packers would support any reasonable suggestion.

It was pointed out by the president on behalf of the special committee that the market for all beef cattle "was pulled down" by the low average quality of receipts at the stock yards. The consumer suffered as as well as the producer, he said because the best beef was reserved for export trade or supplied to exclusive markets within the country. "Trash" was the term used by another member to describe the quality of the cattle going into general consumption.

A. H. Evans, deputy minister of Agriculture for Manitoba, said that he and the majority of the producers would never be satisfied until beef was graded and offered for sale to the public on the same basis as other merchandise.

DISPUTES SETTLED BY LEMIEUX ACT

Used To Advantage in Settling Strikes, Says Hon. Peter Heenan.

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 25. — Canadian Press. — Arbitration under the Lemieux Act has worked to excellent advantage in preventing strikes, 33 disputes having been settled by this means in the past 12 months, Hon. Peter Heenan the Minister of Labor, stated yesterday.

Mr. Heenan is here for the purpose of endeavoring to bring about the settlement of three different industrial disputes, affecting the hydro linemen, the Winnipeg Government Telephone Commission and its electrical workers

Referring to the disputes settled by arbitration under the Lemieux Act, Mr Heenan declared that "every one of these disputes was settled without a day's loss of time."

The city's claim that the Federal government should bear a portion of the unemployment relief costs, will be presented to Mr. Heenan during his stay here.

The Minister of Labor in discussing the old age pension scheme, stated that the number coming under the pension act would be very much smaller than anticipated. There were, he said a large number of citizens taken care of under various pension schemes, and when these were removed the percentage coming under the act would be materially reduced from the original estimates.

Hickman Denies Blame For Second Murder

LOS ANGELES, Calif., February 25 (Canadian Press). — A confession by William E. Hickman putting the blame for the killing of C. Ivey Thoms, druggist, on the shoulders of his co-defendant, Welby Hunt, was introduced yesterday at the joint murder trial of the two youths. Attorneys for Hickman contended the confession was the last link of a chain of evidence fixing direct responsibility for the killing of Thoms.

The confession said Hunt carried a .38 calibre automatic, while Hickman was equipped with a .32 calibre weapon in the hold-up. It was a .38 calibre bullet which fatally wounded the druggist.

Rival Leaders Of Ontario Legislature Enjoy Pleasant Chat At Toronto Banquet

In view of the well-known fact that the genial atmosphere of location in adjoining chairs at a banquet some time ago failed to thaw the frigidity of the relations between Mr. Ferguson and Mr. Meighen since that deadly duel at Winnipeg, many observant eyes were directed on the Premier and Mr. Sinclair as they sat together at the head table of the Good Roads Association banquet on Thursday night at Toronto and there were not a few speculations as to the manner in which the two antagonists would treat each other, on the occasion of their first close contact since the heated clashes between the two in the Assembly during the debate on the now famous nineteen ballots. Those who watched, however, saw nothing but two men who seemed to be on excellent terms with each other. The two leaders chatted freely, and in their speeches, handed out good-humored thrusts at each other, which provoked nothing more than a bland smile.

Orange Hall In Use Fifty-four Years Is Auctioned Off For Sixty-nine Fifty

ORLAND, Feb. 24.—Sixty-nine and a half dollars purchased the Orange Hall at Orland this week, and its history as the meeting place of L.O.L. 507 is closed, with the sale to W. E. Davidson of Morganston.

The old hall, which as seen many happy gatherings, was built fifty-four years ago, and R. J. Thompson is the only living member who was connected with the Lodge at that time

The Orland Lodge, 507, has amalgamated with L.O.L., 1363, Codrington, and it was under direction of the latter that the auction sale was held.

MARRIED 57 YEARS

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH LEE

Eighty-one years of age and still in good health On Sunday, February 26th, Joseph Lee, of Orpington Road, will observe his 81st birthday, surrounded by his family. His good wife, now seventy-seven years of age, three sons, and five daughters, together with a number of grand-children and a host of friends in the city rejoice in his longevity, and wish for him "many happy returns."

Mr. Lee proved a pleasant conversationist In answer to a query, he said that he and Mrs. Lee had come out from England nineteen years ago, arriving in Peterborough on May 2, 1909. As a machinist he had taken a position at the C.G.E. machine shop, had worked in the brass department and finally in the tool room until he was seventy-seven years of age. Mr. Lee then retired, owing to an injury to his left hand and arm, and since then has confined his efforts to looking after his garden and enjoying the twilight of life. He is also a retired member of the Peterborough Independent Order of Foresters and attends St. James Church regularly.

Three sons, Harold, Albert and Ernest, reside in Peterborough, as do five daughters, namely, Mrs. H. C. Robinson, Mrs. Monks, Mrs. W. McKinstry, Mrs. Charles Porter, and Mrs. E. Kitney.

It is interesting to note that Mr. and Mrs. Lee were united in marriage fifty-seven years ago on Christmas Day and that their children and children's children gather on that day, not only to spend Christmas together, but to celebrate the anniversary of the wedding

VICIOUS DOGS AROUND CITY

Several Police Court Actions Pending, Says Chief Newhall.

AGAINST CITY BY-LAW.

Several people have been bitten by dogs this winter on the streets of this city, and as a result there was one Police Court action, and several are pending. Chief Newhall told The Examiner this morning that the city by-law distinctly says that no person shall keep a vicious dog. 'One dog in this city has already bitten four children,' he said.

MEMBERS ARGUE HEATEDLY AFTER ELECTION COMMITTEE REPORTS ISSUE DEADLOCKED

Each Party Charges Other With Trying To Prevent Inquiry Into Ballots.

DEBATE ADJOURNED.

Premier Suggests That Heads May Be Cooler When House Sits On Monday.

TORONTO, Feb. 25. Canadian Press. — The alleged lost ballots of South Ottawa, said by W. E. N. Sinclair to have been found on the streets, occupied the attention of the Ontario Legislature yesterday, and provoked a hot debate . Conservatives and Liberals in turn charged each other with playing politics and with attempting to block an inquiry into the affair.

The matter came up when Hon. F. G. MacDiarmid presented the report of the Privileges and Elections Committee, which, armed with the powers of a special act of the Legislature, has been investigating the affair. The report outlined the proceedings of the committtee and stated that it wished instructions as to further steps from the Legislature. Mr. MacDiarmid in a brief statement said that a deadlock had been reached. The committee felt that Mr. Sinclair ought to produce the alleged ballots in his possession as the first step in the investigation and that Mr. Sinclair had refused to do so until the ballot boxes of the South Ottawa riding were opened.

Several Liberal and Progressive Members defended the Liberal leader's action. A. Belanger, Russell, declared the member for South Ontario, owes it to his own dignity and his rights that he is "not to be turned from his duty by the all powerful majority in the committee."

Both parties were jockeying for position with the Liberal leader refusing to budge in his determination to hold on to his ballots until the committee should open the ballot boxes.

The House adjourned with feeling at a high pitch on both sides, when Premier Ferguson suggested that heads might be cooler and judgments more mature on Monday.

When the debate resumes it is certain that W. E. N. Sinclair will speak in defence of his position and Premier Ferguson, it is said, will also speak.

Apsley Resident Meets With Accident

APSLEY, Feb. 25. — Alexander McColl met with a painful accident on Monday while making peavy sticks. The stock he was turning suddenly flew off the machine and hit him in the face, cutting his cheek and nose severely. The injury was dressed by a Red Cross nurse and he is progressing favorably.

Oil Committee To Investigate New Field At the Re-opening Of Its Inquiry To-Day

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 25 (Canadian Press).—Re-opening its inquiry to-day the Senate Teapot Dome committee will reach out into new fields in its effort to throw the full light of publicity upon the operations of the Continental Trading Company of Canada.

One of these fields, Chairman Nye said yesterday, is the determination whether the New York branch of the Dominion Bank of Canada became the agent of the Continental in the United States and as such is liable for the income tax on the $5,080,000 of profits which that corporation made in oil deals in this country.

Another is the examination of officials of the Dominion Bank in an effort to ascertain the names of brokers through which the New York agency of that bank purchased $1,250,000 in Liberty bonds, the serial numbers of which the committee has been unable to obtain thus far Still another is the transactions between the Continental and the Western Oilfields Corporation, of Denver, which, it has been disclosed, sold oil to the Canadian concern at about the time the bulk of the output of the Mexia and other Texas fields of the late A. E. Humphreys was going to the Continental for resale to the Sinclair Crude Purchasing Company and the Prairie Oil and Gas Company.

Chairman Nye said that officials of the Western Oilfields Corporation would be called later in an effort to ascertain how much oil that concern sold to the Canadian corporation.

NEW MEMBERS TO HAVE VOICE IN ALL MATTERS

Chamber of Commerce Executive Will Be Chosen After Campaign.

STAFF WILLING TO QUIT.

Those Joining Now Asked To Be Ready With Suggestions For Future Activities.

The one query coming more than any other to the team workers calling upon prospective investors in the Chamber of Commerce is "What does the organization propose doing with this fund?"

"That,' 'says President G. A. Gillespie, "is a natural and sensible question. The public has a right to know this definitely. I will endeavor to frankly make it clear.

Decks Are Cleared.

"First let me make the public's prerogatives clear in the matter. The decks have been absolutely cleared for any progressive step the membership may desire to take.

"In order that there may be no personal bias one way or the other, Secretary Stinson has indicated his willingness to step aside and if the membership so desires eliminate himself as a factor one way or the other.

Membership Action Immediate.

"Second, the new membership will immediately following this campaign to be called upon to elect a new executive council and they in turn the officers. This gives the expanded membership an immediate opportunity to take charge of the organization.

To Adopt Policies.

"The annual meeting will also have opportunity to pass upon policies of the organization and adopt or reject recommendations made to it by the experts who have been in close touch with the organization for a month.

"In addition to this the membership will be asked to make suggestions in writing.

"From this a program of work will be submitted for adoption and the funds in hand will be budgetted.

Community Inventory.

"Among the matters for immediate consideration of the new Board of Directors is a community inventory for Peterborough and this section of Ontario that will show definitely just what assets the community possesses so that when information is desired it will be forthcoming and available at once. This not only to show the civic possessions but the industrial, agricultural, transportation ,social, educational and religious possessions as well as recreational for visitors and tourists.

"The blanks for this survey are available now and only await the action of the new executive council to begin the work. This inventory will be made available to the membership, citizens and visitors or seekers for location.

"The suggestion has been made that this work be done by local committees following plans adopted in many other cities. This will save a a fee and at the same time familiarize home folks with actual conditions.

Seeking New Business.

"When this information has been made available it is suggested that committees appointed by the new board shall proceed to seek new industry, additional farmers, promote good will in trading area, and seek such businesses as are not already well represented in Peterborough.

Advertising the Community.

"The suggestion has been made, too, that if the budget will admit the expenditure, that the community present its attractions for industrial location, business, agricultural and recreational opportunities through a modest advertising appropriation for use in magazines or newspapers of

Pulmotor Saves Tiny Baby's Life

When a baby was born to Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Brown, of 441 Rogers Street this morning, Dr. C. D. Hewett, the physician in attendance, was unable to start natural respiration, so a rush call was put in for the services of the pulmotor and Lieutenant Archie McBride and Driver Herbert Cooney were despatched to the home.

In a very few moments the pulmotor, operated by Lieutenant McBride and Dr. Hewett, had the baby breathing quite naturally and it uttered a cry to tell the world that all was well.

Chief Gimblett, when asked by The Examiner if this were the first time the local pulmotor had been called in on such a case, was unable to recall a similar instance, but said he might find one in his records.

FINCH MILLER 80 YEARS OLD

Former City Official Has Lived Here More Than Fifty Years.

CAME AS BANDMASTER.

He had been watching from the front of his home while across at the C.N.R. Station was being lowered from a train the stretcher bearing an injured man. More expressive than any others came his first words, "Is there anything I can do to help." It was a veteran citizen, Finch Miller, speaking, and when assured by The Examiner representative that all had been attended to in this regard, he turned to lead the way into the house without questioning the mission of his visitor. Thus began a half-hour of association with the past, as the man who on Sunday observes his eightieth birthday, recounted incidents and events of bygone days.

Somehow, he did not appear or converse like a man of his years, but more as one ten or fifteen years his junior. Prompted by an alert mind, he at first chatted with his caller on current topics of the day's news, and then, quite abruptly, answered a question launched some time earlier in the conversation: "Yes, I will be eighty years old on Sunday. I was born in Essex, England, on February 26, 1848."

The conversation went on, sometimes touching on the life of Mr. Miller, sometimes reverting back to daily subjects. Out of it all, one learned that in 1874 the 57th Regiment brought Mr. and Mrs. Miller and their two children from the Old Country to Peterborough, where he took charge of the regimental band, and became prominent in other musical circles. His ability as a choir leader was also recognized, and among others, the George Street Church choir benefited by his leadership. Mr. Miller recalled with evident satisfaction, that his band had won a first prize at the Toronto Exhibition and a third prize in competition with professional bands in London.

He also exhibited a program of the George Street choir concert which was held in 1885, and it is indeed a most unusual treasure. Its introductory paragraphs read as follows:

"Ye Choir, at this greate Concert, will be led by ye noted Timist, Father Helpall Millar, ye Musicianer, who will begin to beat ye time at 8 of Ye Clocke.

"Ye Concerte is in responfe to ye requeft of many of Ye citizens of Ye Towne who want to hear ye musike of ye Olden Tyme.

"And ye moneys will be difposed of by ye Ladies in purchasing a new chest of wissels called an organ for ye Methodist Meeting House which is on George street.

"Ye Harpsichord on which ye musick will be played is made in our Toronto Towne and are sold by neighbor Smart. The praise is in all ye countrie round about."

Mr. Miller has also held numerous offices in the city, having been the first agent locally for the Children's Aid Society, he and Mrs. Miller having taken charge of the shelter. He was also immigration officer and Indian agent of Hiawatha and Curve Lake Reserves at different times, and was for thirty years city relief officer. In recounting it all, Mr. Miller seemed at all times quite modest in referring to his own work.

THE WEATHER

The temperature took another tumble last night, and the weather this morning was decidedly frosty. At six o'clock the thermometer was at 14 degrees below zero, and undecided whether to go lower or not Our lowest point this winter is 17 below. This is a very moderate figure compared with most winters, when 25 to 30 below are not rare, and even lower than 30 below are sometimes seen (and felt.) However this winter is not yet over and many things many happen before the balmy days of spring.—W. P.

Roger Peckinpaugh, signed to pilot the Cleveland Indians, will be the only new manager appearing on the American League circut this spring.

ESTIMATES OF CITY'S NEEDS FOR THIS YEAR ARE ADVANCED; TWO MORE COMMITTEES READY

Board of Works and Legal Committee Prepare Budgets For 1928.

GENERAL LIST GONE OVER.

Finance Committee Does Advance Work in Preparation For Striking Tax Rate.

Board of Works estimates totalling $81,000 and Legal Committee estimates of $4,000 were passed last night by the respective committees and the general estimates of the city were gone over by the Finance Committee and put into shape as far as possible so that when the committee meets again next Wednesday there will not be so many matters to be taken care of in fixing the rates.

The Board of Works estimates were were first dealt with, and were gone through in good time. Very few of the amounts asked by Chairman Alderman Stocker and City Engineer R. H. Parsons were questioned and only one, that for surface drains, was reduced. Last year $79,825 was appropriated, and $86,072.02 was spent. Against this excess of $6,247.07, are credits of $4,036.27 leaving an overdraft in 1927 of $2210.75.

The major part of the excess on sewer maintenance and repairs was spent where paving was done last year and the increase this year is for work on Aylmer street before paving is done this year, Mr. Parsons explained as the items were being checked over.

Four streets out in the west end need surface drains, stated Ald. Stocker, but he would suggest that the worst two, Gilmour and Sherbrooke be done this year, and two more next year. He had $10,000 in the estimates.

"Why can't these be done as local improvements?" asked Ald. Hamilton. "It's done where streets are paved."

"That is charged to the city's share," explained Mr. Parsons.

"Your appropriation is up $6000," pointed out Ald. Greene. "If you want to get down to last year's figure you'll have to reduce this figure." On his motion the estimate was cut to $5000.

Mr. Parsons estimates $1300 for Sherbrooke street and $3800 for Gilmour street.

More work could be done by those cutting weeds, Ald. Hamilton figured when the $750 went through for this work.

"It doesn't cost you that much for three horses, and doesn't cost me that much," declared Mayor Denne, when $750 was passed for the upkeep of three horses. "It should be done for $150 a horse."

"The day of horses is past," agreed Ald. Macdonald when Ald. Stocker pointed out how slow horses are as the reason for wanting a truck.

"Have you work enough for a truck?" asked the Mayor. "You want a man to work, not just a driver.

"It would do work for both departments," explained Ald. Stocker, and Alderman Huffman urged the purchase of a three ton truck instead of a two ton truck. It would, he said, carry more for the same expense. This detail was left for a later meeting, and the estimate set at $3000.

Nine years' service for $135 and their keep was the record of the Board of Works team sold recently. The team was bought when the late Harry Phelan was chairman of the Board of Works, and cost $400. A couple of weeks ago Ald. Stocker sold the horses for $265.

"What's being done about Charlotte street?" demanded Ald. Huffman. "Everybody out there is driving his car and something should be done."

"The men will be there first thing in the morning" Mr. Parsons assured him.

"What about the railway crossings?" asked Ald. Hamilton.

"They're bad on Park street" added Ald. Macdonald.

"Those are private crossings," said Alderman Stocker.

"I don't care whose they are," declared Alderman Hamilton, "they have to be fixed."

Legal Committee.

Great success in settling claims was reported by the chairman when the Legal Committee was striking its estimates. Last year $3,840 was allowed, including $1,540 for insurance premium, and this year, as the city is carrying its own risk, the amount was set at $4,000.

"It's like shooting at the moon," was Ald. Phelan's comment regarding fixing this amount. It all depends on the number of accidents.

Water for public purposes (parks, fire protection, city buildings, etc.) costs the city $31,454.70, or one-third of the cost of keeping up the system, exclusive of the filtration plant.

"Seems to me we're paying too much to the Utilities," remarked Ald. Phelan on this matter. "It's all right to say it's out of one pocket into the other, but it seems all out of ours."

"It counts on the rate," added the Clerk. Ald. Hamilton pointed out that the Commission is put to greater expense because of more equipment needed for fire protection than would be needed for water services alone.

Signal Struck Out.

Ald. Greene renewed his attack on the appropriation for a traffic signal at Charlotte and George, and suc-

Illinois Gunman To Pay Supreme Penalty

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., Feb. 25 (Canadian Press).—Southern Illinois notorious gunman and gang leader, Charley Birger, must pay with is life for the murder of Mayor Joe Adams of West City, the Supreme Court ruled yesterday, in affirming his conviction. April 13 was set for his execution.

In jail at Benton, Ills, Birger smiled when informed of the decision, remarking, "What is to be, will be."

A veritable reign of terror in the south part of the State ended with the murder of Adams, whose home was said to be a meeting place for the Shelton gang, a faction unfriendly to that of Birger. Because of his friendship with the Sheltons, Adams was marked to die.

Two mere boys rapped on his door December 12, 1926, and as the Mayor was reading a note the boys handed him, they whipped out pistols and killed him.

One of the lads, Hume Thomasson, 19, was burned to death some time later when the Birger headquarters was bombed His brother Harry, two years his senior, is serving a life sentence for the murder. Both made a clean getaway at the time, assisted by Birger, the instigator of the crime.

NOT IN FAVOR OF TIME LIMIT

President Coolidge Comments On Naval Bill Approved By House Committee.

BIG REDUCTIONS.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 25.—(A.P.)—While President Coolidge believes that the navy bill approved by the House naval committee does not provide enough war craft for what the navy department considers its needs, he considers the proposal a beginning toward the bill, as reported, authorizes the construction of 15 cruisers and one airplane carrier and the president feels that this very likely is all that could be laid down anyway within five years or so.

He has noted that the reported bill provides for a time limit of construction. He does not approve of this, but believes that after all it makes little difference because this provision is not binding upon any subsequent Congress.

Meanwhile, Speaker Longworth predicted that the House without serious opposition would approve the $274,000,000 new warship construction program recommended by its naval committee.

He said that he believes the program, which proposes 15 cruisers and one aircraft carrier, the "very best that we could get," as it would have been virtually impossible to obtain anywhere near unanimous agreement on the recommendation of Secretary Wilbur for 71 war vessels.

Mr. Longworth declared that he thought the committee acted with wisdom in sacrificing destroyer leaders and submarines in favor of cruisers and an aircraft carrier as the need for the latter type of ships was the greatest, adding that the proviso that the ships be completed by a specific date, six years after passage of the act, assured the country of a real navy instead of a "paper fleet." Consideration of the program is expected to be started on the House floor about the middle of March.

ARMED BANDITS LOOT CITY BANK

Make Getaway With $50,737 With Kansas City Banking House.

NO CASUALTIES.

KANSAS CITY, Mo, Feb. 25 (Canadian Press)—Armed with two submachine guns, three sawed-off shotguns, and several .45 calibre automatics, a band of bank robbers estimated at 10 to 15 in number yesterday shot up the City Bank here and escaped with $50,737.

P. C. Kemper, president, in announcing the loss late yesterday after a check-up, said the amount was covered by insurance.

More than a dozen shots were fired by the seven unmasked men, who entered the bank. Several of these were fired point blank aloft and at clerks, but the shots were blanks, fired to intimidate. No one was injured.

Later the robbers employed real cartridges, bullet marks showing at several places in the newly-built building. A sharp-shooting bandit placed six bullets within a three-inch area on a post near the telephone operator, who was attempting to summon police.

Conducted Symstematically

The men escaped in two motor cars after a robbery conducted so systematically that police believe it had been perfectly rehearsed. The robbers rushed into the bank at 9.15 a.m. and under the direction of a leader, they scattered at once to various vantage points. All entrances were covered by shotguns. The fifty bank employees, all working within plain sight of the bank lobby, and a dozen customers, were forced to lie down.

Two bandits vaulted into the cashiers cages, and scooped up currency and cash. Six cages were systematically rifled. About $25,000 locked in one cage, was overlooked.

Detectives assigned to the case expressed the belief that Chicago and St. Louis gangsters, working with local men, staged the robbery.

The bandit "general" swung one machine gun to and fro while barking commands to his men, but the gun was not fired.

PORTEOUS FAMILY MOVE TO BETHANY

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Porteous Given Farewell Party and Presentation.

BETHANY, Feb. 25.—Mr. and Mrs Charles Porteous, Cavan, were visited by many friends on the eve of their removal to this village, where they will reside in the house recently occupied by Mr. and Mrs. William Lee.

An interesting program was given under the chairmanship of H. A. Fallis, and an address, signed by Lloyd Kennedy, James Hanna, Wilbert Wood and Harvey Aikens, expressed the appreciation of many neighbors of the splendid qualities of the departing family. "You were always ready with your sympathy and co-operation in time of trouble, and willing to add your share in our times of merriment", the address read, continuing by recounting the valuable assistance given by Mr. and Mrs. Porteous in the Church. Chairs were then presented to the couple and to Miss Maude Wood, and Mr. Porteous replied. Supper was served, and games and dancing filled the evening.

Rev. P. C. Howard, Millbrook, in writing his regret because of his inability to attend, told of the worth of Mr. and Mrs. Porteous in Trinity Church, and sent his best wishes, and Mrs. Howard's.

THREE INJURED WHEN ENGINE SMASHES CAR

Accident Occurs On Outskirts of Stirling During Heavy Snow Storm.

MAN IN HOSPITAL.

Other Occupants of Car Badly Shaken Up, But Able To Return Home.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 25.—Three Campbellford men had a narrow escape from death when the car in which they were driving was struck by a west bound C.N.R. freight train at the level crossing on the western outskirts of the village of Stirling. The accident happened about twelve-twenty in the afternoon during a howling blizzard. The occupants of the car were exercising every precaution and had come to almost a dead stop in order to look for trains. Seeing none, they proceeded to cross the track. They were travelling at the rate of about three miles an hour. The train was said to have been travelling about thirty-five miles per hour.

Dr. H. T. Scott, chiropractor, Front street, Wilbur Rogers, Booth street, and William Blue, Centre street, were the occupants of the car. Dr. Scott was proceeding to Stirling in the interests of his profession and Rogers availed himself of the opportunity to get his car which he had been forced to abandon in Stirling during the last heavy snow storm. Blue had accompanied Rogers as company for him on the return trip. The party left town about eleven o'clock and apparently found the roads very hard to travel. Shortly after twelve o'clock they neared the railroad crossing and slowed down to about three miles an hour while all three strained their vision out through the driving snow and pitted their hearing against the howling blizzard to see if any train was approaching. Satisfied that all was clear, they started to cross when suddenly the locomotive appeared from apparently nowhere.

Dr. Scott, owner and driver of the car, was the most severely injured. The engine struck almost beside the seat he occupied and hurled him through the car somehow. He was picked up some distance away in an unconscious condition. Rogers apparently went through the floor of the car and was picked up about thirty-five feet from the crossing. Blue landed on the cow-catcher with the top of the car hiding him from view. The car is a total wreck. After the collision, it took fire, but the blaze was extinguished before the wreck was totally demolished by it.

The train consisted of only a freight engine and caboose. The blizzard was so dense that the lights of the engine were being used. As quickly as possible the brakes were applied and the injured men recovered and rushed back to the village of Stirling for medical treatment. From there the injured were taken to Peterborough and admitted to hospital, where their injuries were determined.

Blue was fortunate in only receiving severe bruises and a bad shaking up. He says that the first thing he knew the train was upon them and he was thrown out through the roof. His next conscious action was to cling with all his might to an iron bar which proved to be part of the cow catcher of the locomotive. The crew found him there shrouded in the wrecked top of the automobile. Rogers sustained four broken ribs and a collection of bruises and a severe shaking up. Interviewed last night, Blue said he believed that Dr. Scott had fractured his hip in two places but could not say what other injuries he had received. Dr. Scott would be confined to hospital for about two months, Blue believed. Blue was able to return to Campbellford on a freight train. Rogers was also able to return to his home here.

Rogers is associated with a local automobile dealer and was also actively interested in the town hockey team. Blue is a player and had he not met with this misfortune, would have been on the line-up against the Oshawa team. Dr. Scott is the most unfortunate of the trio. His car, a Star sedan, is a total wreck. His injuries will prohibit him from resuming his practice for some time. The instruments which he had in his car were all lost. Some of these, however, may be recovered later.

From what can be learned from the officials and Blue, who was in the car, the incident was purely an accident due to the weather conditions. The driver of the car, it is stated, used all due and reasonable precaution. The wind was blowing from the west and he was unable to hear the whistle of the approaching locomotive. The snow permitted only a small field of vision and all three occupants of the car thought the crossing and its approaches clear of traffic. The train crew, according to Blue's story, did everything in their power to assist the injured men and apparently did not see the car on the crossing till they were right on it.

SEARCHERS RECOVER BODIES OF MINERS

Killed in Explosion at Mama Coal Company Mine, Arkansas.

JENNY LIND, Ark., February 25 (Canadian Press).— The bodies of 12 miners, killed when an explosion rocked a Mama Coal Company mine near here early yesterday, were recovered by searchers. Only one miner, Charles Newman, believed to have been in that section of the mine, was unaccounted for last night, and it was not determined whether he was in the mine at the time of the explosion.

Eleven of the bodies were found in Mine No. 3 and one in Mine No. 18 where the blast originated.

Those who escaped reached the surface through Mine No. 2, which connected with the No. 3 mine. Those whose bodies were recovered and identified were:

Darcy Templeton, nephew of Supt. W. E. Templeton of the mine; Valentine Borzak, pit boss; Edgar Westmoreland, Bonanza; Joe Sodar, Jenny Lind; Forest Gibbs, Jenny Lind, Winse Brown, Bonanza; James Kimberling, Bonanza; Frank Durrott, Tahena, Oklahoma; John Kosmaline, Jenny Lind; Lewis Mohr, Bonanza; Walter Chapple, Jenny Lind; and Jack Williams, of Missouri, who entered the mine for the first time yesterday.

Rescue crews still were searching for Newman, although there was some doubt that he was in the mine.

The cause of the explosion remained a mystery last night. Claude Speigel, state mine inspector, refused to advance any theory as to the cause before making an official investigation to-day.

DR. McMILLAN FOUND GUILTY

Verdict Returned By Jury For Murder of Former Employee.

RECOMMEND LENIENCY.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Feb. 25.—(A.P.)— A jury yesterday found Dr. Charles M. McMillan guilty of murder in the first degree for the slaying of Mrs. Amelia Appleby, his wealthy employer. The verdict carried a recommendation of leniency which makes it obligatory for the court to sentence the physician to life imprisonment.

Receiving the case for deliberation at 11 a.m. yesterday, the jury of eight women and four men reported their verdict two and one-half hours later. Next Tuesday was the day for formal passing of sentence by Superior Judge Douglas Edmunds.

The state charged Dr. McMillan with a plot to obtain control of the fortune of Mrs. Appleby, for whom he had acted as business manager. An estate at one time estimated at nearly $1,000,000, was inherited by Mrs. Appleby upon the death of her husband, a Chicago inventor, several years ago.

Evidence against Dr. McMillan, who is 57 years old, was circumstantial: The physician was arrested and charged with the murder shortly after the body of Mrs. Appleby was found last December 26 in the San Fernando Valley near here, tied in a sack.

The doctor pleaded not guilty, but he did not deny the charges from the witness stand, although he had previously steadfastly protested his innocence in statements to the police.

Testimony of a Los Angeles couple revealed that McMillan and Mrs. Appleby had travelled together as man and wife, having registered at a hotel in Arizona as Mr. and Mrs. McMillan.

GOOD RESULTS AT FARM STOCK SALE

Charles Porteous Sells Farm Stock and Implements—Good Price.

CAVAN, Feb. 25.—All the stock brought good prices at the farm sale of Charles Porteous held recently. One horse sold for $175, another for $145, and a mare for $27. The cows ranged in price from $52 to $90. Two-year-old calves sold for $65, and a calf two weeks old for $10.

The farm, which is owned by Frank Balbraith of Port Hope, was offered for sale, but no bid was made. So far there is not a tenant for it either. Mr. Porteous will reside in Bethany.

Widows and Orphans, Limited

It is upon them that the schemer preys! The lure of easy money is almost irresistible and the savings of a lifetime are often gambled away, unknowingly, in unfortunate speculations.

Even the husband and father, anxious to leave his family well provided for, often becomes the victim of some get-rich-quick scheme. Almost without exception, the results are failure and disappointment.

When the head of the home is taken away, a hundred enticing baits are set for the estate he leaves behind. With the vision of winning financial independence for her children and herself, the widow falls prey to ignorant or unscrupulous advisers.

There is one safe, sure method of protecting your loved ones after you are gone . . . the creating of an adequate estate through Life Insurance. And, by arranging for its payment in the form of a regular income for your widow, you can guard her for as long as she may live.

Let a Life Insurance representative explain to you how easily and safely you may provide for the future of your family.

Chips & Shavings
FROM THE WORKSHOP OF JOHN PLANE

PLEASURE AND PROFIT are invariably mine each time I visit the workshop of John Plane. The sight of his smiling countenance, as colorful as an early autumn sun, is good for sore eyes or a sore heart! His words drop the very essence of wit and wisdom. Dull indeed, if not actually dead, must be the heart that can come into contact with him and go away without being greatly benefited. I have found him to be as cosmopolitan in his interests as the city of New York is in its inhabitants. While the four walls of his workshop demand much of his bodily presence, they never deprive him of his world outlook. He is as much a glutton for books as some men are for beer. In each case it is a search for stimulants. He reads not simply to store up facts, but to stir up fancy. It is not so much information for the mind as it is incitement for the imagination that he is after. He is a profound believer in the philosophy of John Ploughman, that to get through this world a man must look about him, and even sleep with one eye open; for there are many baits for fishes, many nets for birds, and many traps for men.

Honest Men and Rogues.

John Plane believes that nobody is more like an honest man than a thorough rogue. He says that when you see a man with a great deal of religion displayed in his shop window, you will often discover that such a man keeps a very small stock of it within.

This carpenter friend of mine said to me: "Mr. Preacher, what is needed in many of our pulpits today is a 'man of God' who, in plain, simple speech but potential in their candid statement of truths, will preach sermons which will blister the self-satisfied, thumb-twirling, selfishly-sanctimonious, unchristian man in the church no less severely than those outside of our churches who, through environment, blindness or ignorance to the blessed opportunities which our churches offer, spurn religion and elect to grope to their doom in the darkness of their own petty prejudices.

Religious Slot Machines.

"With too many there seems to be the idea that religion and the church constitute a perpetual reward slot machine in which you drop a few Sabbath prayers and pennies and get a through ticket to heaven. If such an idea were held by fools and children we might take comfort in the thought that fools are free from all responsibility, and children have a chance to grow wiser! But the idea is held by many who ought to know better and for whom no excuse can be found. What is needed is an exposure of the shams of a so-called religion which is not reflected in the daily affairs of men in shop and at the polls, and which does not awaken men responsively to their responsibilities to society and to humanity. The religion of Christ, to use a popular phrase, if it is anything, is self-sacrifice, charity, altruism—service to humanity seven days in the week.

"The fact of the matter is that most church people are simply playing at religion. And it is poor sport! Better get drunk and go wallowing home in the gutter. What do most of us know about self-sacrifice? Most of our energy is expended in self-gratification.

Wit and Wisdom.

"A ploughman acquaintance of mine has been reminding me of some things which I am in danger of forgetting. He is a man who ploughs in other fields than those in which grain is grown. He drives the ploughshare of his unsophisticated intellect into the sub-soil of all sorts of wholesome literature, and from time to time gives me the benefit of his work. I am assured by him that many see more with one eye than others with two, and many have fine eyes and cannot see any further than their nose. Which is just another way of saying that all heads are not senseboxes. Some are just like drums, but not worth a place in the band; lots of sound when anything knocks up against them, but very little sense. Some fellows, and the other sex, too, are so built that they suspect everybody, and so live all their lives in miserable fear of their neighbors; others are so simple that every knave takes them in, and makes his own profit of them. One tries to see through a brick wall, and hurts his eyes; while another finds out a hole in it, and sees as far as he pleases. Some work at the mouth of the furnace and are never scorched; and others burn their hands at the fire when they only mean to warm them. No one seems able to give us experience, so we must pick it up for ourselves.

More of the Same.

"Drink nothing without seeing it; sign nothing without reading it, and make sure that it means no more than it says. In any business, never wade into water where you cannot see the bottom. A rickety chair is a dangerous seat. And you will be well advised to be shy of people who are over-polite. Perhaps it is a mark of wisdom to set the trap as soon as you smell a rat, but mind you don't catch your own fingers in the pesky thing! Trust in God with all your heart, but let your confidence in friends be weighed in the balances of prudence seeing that the best of men are but men at the best. Take the advice of a man who has had lots of experience with men and beasts, and always give up the roads to bulls and madmen; and never fight with a coal-heaver or contend with a base character; for they will be sure to blacken you."

The Best of Wisdom.

As I left the workshop of my friend to call at the hospital and minister a little comfort and good cheer to the sick, I thought of the words of Him who spake as never man spake when He said to me, "Follow Me and I will make you. . . ." For a few precious minutes I had been listening to the speech of a real philosopher wondering where this simple soul had got his power. Then I thought of the words of another carpenter, and I felt sure that the one carpenter was the maker of the other. As I trudged on my way I cried out of the depth of my heart for sense to sit at the feet of the wisest of all teachers, the Lord Jesus. And if I may be permitted to play the part of preacher for a moment more of the time at my disposal, my advice to one and all would be to trust Him. He will never fail you. Be guided by His word. It will never mislead you. Pray in His name and you will be surprised at what your prayers bring to pass. Never forget that he that leans on man will often find him a broken reed when you most need his support; but he who builds on Christ has a firm foundation on which to build. No matter how many or how terrible the storms may be that beat upon your life, it will remain unshaken on the Rock of Ages. You may follow Jesus with your eyes shut if you please so long as your heart is open, but when others would guide you keep your eyes open even if you have twenty, and all of them as powerful as telescopes. Siren voices are to be heard on every side of us. And there is a way that seemeth right unto a man but the end thereof are the ways of death! He who trades in the dark asks to be cheated. Turn your eyes toward the light and live—for He is the light and the life of men!

—Allan Fairbairn.

The Minister Remarks--

- —We should like to ask the college professor who has figured it out that the worth of a baby is $90.00 if he has any children of his own.
- —Although it is not considered proper for a woman to propose to a man, there is nothing to prevent her from rendering him valuable assistance at the moment of the ordeal.
- —The rapid-fire tongue often does as much damage as the rapid-fire gun.
- —To me nothing is more tiresome than the person who says "you know" in every other sentence.

My Retreats

I bless Thee, Lord, that, when my life
Is as a troubled sea,
I have, remote from its rough strife,
Harbours to shelter me.

I bless Thee for my home, where Love
Her sweet song ever sings,
And peace spreads, like a nesting dove,
Her gentle, brooding wings.

And for this chamber of desire
Where my dear books abide,
My constant friends that never tire,
The cares that never chide.

But chiefly for the Mercy-seat,
Where every weary load
I lay down at Thy gracious feet,
Jesus, my King, my God.

The Boast of Modernists

IT is the boast of modernists: "We do not care a fig whether Christ came through a Virgin or not. We have no interest in the Resurrection." We refer such to the words of Lincoln in his concluding debate with Douglas. He said: "Douglas says I do not care whether slavery is voted up or down. Is it not a false statesmanship that undertakes to build up a system of policy on the basis of caring nothing for the very thing that everybody else does care the most about?" The attitude is neither morally commendable nor intellectually complimentary.—"Jesus Christ as the Crossroads."

The Religious World Upside Down

Many Losing Their Grip on the Old Faith—An Age of Unbelief.

THIS is an age of unbelief, and many church members have lost their grip on the eternal verities. The minister, if he has not also lost his grip on those verities, is confronted with an extremely difficult task in finding leaders who are fit to lead, and church school teachers who have any faith to teach. Always a difficult task, it is today more difficult than ever before. The fundamentalist - modernist controversy, the continuing emphasis placed upon evolution, the new psychology and the teaching of materialism have turned the religious world upside down. Multitudes of people have lost what faith they had and multitudes more have had their faith severely shaken. Those malevolent people who war continually against the Christian faith supply nothing adequate to take the place of it. The churches which have largely eliminated Christ from their preaching and teaching are steadily losing power and attendants. Federations of small churches are being formed to gather together the remnants of those who still believe something and think they know what they believe, while the churches that really preach Christ and His salvation are crowded to the doors and steadily increase their membership.

If we had a little more sense than many of us seem to possess we should have no difficulty in seeing the trend of the times in relation to the Christian church. What is needed is more positive preaching by those who have really experienced spiritual birth through the operations of the Spirit of God.

A Pen Picture

A banquet is spread and the guests have arrived; they seem to be influential persons, but apparently others more important are yet to come. At last these enter—three in number—and the place of honour at the table is reserved for them. To the company present two of these men are unknown, the other is the master of the house, but he does not introduce them to his guests, and to the last the personality of those whom the great man delights to honour is not revealed. One of these two has an interesting and distinguished appearance. Of the other I cannot say much; perhaps he owes his position at the table to the gifts and graces of his companion. Although the guests do not know the distinguished personage who is at the table with them, there is one in the house who has been confided in to a certain extent, and he has done his part to assist in conferring honour upon the mysterious guests.

The key to the previous Pen Picture of Bible History is to be found in 1 Chron. 5:18-22.

TELL US A STORY

A beautiful tribute to the strength of a mother's love and the power of home influence was given by the celebrated John Randolph, of Roanoke, in a letter to a friend written just before his death. He wrote: "At one period of my life I was on the point of becoming a French atheist. I had let go my hold in a great degree of the doctrines of Christianity and of the truths of the Bible, and was about taking the plunge into that dreadful abyss of atheism. I was only held back from it by the recollection that when I was a little child my mother, who is now a saint in heaven, used to make me kneel by her side, and then, taking my little hands between hers, taught me to say, 'Our Father who are in heaven.'"

Prayer is the most wonderful medium for bringing things to pass! And to think that it is possible for every child to pray, and through prayer bring things to pass, is just as wonderful!

IF A GOOD LIFE DOESN'T SAVE, WHY LIVE IT?

Sunday School at 3 o'clock - Mid-Week Service Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Are We Advancing or Going Back?

IF we are not advancing we are falling back. There is no such thing as standing still, not even in the grave! If we are not keeping alive, growing to something better and higher, we are becoming weaker and of less worth. We should have something to work for, and work for it. Whatever it is, let it be something of more than passing value. It is not wise to live just for the fleeting moment or just for today. Without some aim, one's time and work go for naught. The years go by and he has nothing to show for them. Have some worth-while goal toward which you are all the time traveling. Even though we never reach the goal, we have made some real advance in striving for it. It will always be true that a good aim, a real purpose in life, makes for worth of character.

All have not the same tastes. For this, I suppose, we can be truly thankful. It simplifies the problem just a little. There is a wide field from which to choose what one will work for. And this is well. Nevertheless, the one universal aim should be the same, to live truer, better lives from day to day.

It may be all right to be content with what we have, but it never can be right, so long as we are on this side of perfection, to be satisfied with what we are. Cromwell said, "If I cease to become better I shall soon cease to be good." The language of one of the greatest of the sons of men should be the language of us all: "Not as though I had already attained, either were already perfect: but I follow after, if that I may apprehend that for which also I am apprehended of Christ Jesus." These are not the words of one who was nothing more than a bundle of emotions. There has never been a keener intellect nor a more logical than was possessed by the man who, in that statement, shows the trend of his thought in the consecration of his whole being to a great progressive purpose.

A life without a purpose has been described as a ship without a rudder. It is true, whether we believe it or not, that aimless cutting produces nothing but chips whether it be a block of marble or a human life. Want of motive makes life dreary and monotonous. Nothing satisfies. Better little talent and much purpose than much talent and little purpose. If you want to be something more than a common, ordinary piece of humanity you must have an uplifting ideal. Such an ideal will play the part of wings to your soul, and will set your mind and body on fire with eagerness for the thing you want to do. Aim for something worth while and keep your mark steadily in view. Life will mean much more to you. You will then not only be more useful in the world, but you will also find more satisfaction in living. Remember that where you may be tomorrow depends very largely upon the road you are taking today.

The Church In Danger

IN "The Churchman Afield," a very valuable section of the Saturday edition of "The Boston Evening Transcript," a warning note has been sounded which cannot have too wide a hearing. We are told that the hunger for the gospel of Christ was never so great as today; the need of the gospel was never so great as today and, in proportion to the whole population, the number of preachers of the unadulterated gospel was never so small as today.

Church organizations are a necessity, but real danger exists that Christ and His REAL MESSAGE may be lost to sight in the multiplicity of church machinery. This should be guarded against at every point. This writer contends that the minister of a church should take every possible precaution against such a possibility.

While church organizations are a necessity, it should not be forgotten that the greatest and most successful soul-winning efforts in history have been made without such organizations. Wesley had no organization when he campaigned for Christ throughout England, aroused the blunted consciences of a nation, and, as many believe, prevented a revolution. Whitefield had no organization when he did similar work in America with similar results. D. L. Moody had no organization when he, along with his singing partner, Ira D. Sankey, created a wave of Christian consecration throughout the United States and Great Britain which, a quarter of a century after his death, still is rolling on.

The church today needs men of God far more than it needs machinery. It is on the point, if indeed it has not already got there, of being organized to death.

Loneliness

PROBABLY the best definition of earthly bliss is "four feet on a fender", for friendship is the greatest blessing in life, just as loneliness is the darkest sorrow. Loneliness can be so devastating and unbearable that it will lead emotional people into rash and foolish marriages, and weak people into wild alcoholic indulgence.

—Atkins.

What We Try to Dodge

HAVE we never tried to dodge our own moral infirmities by damning the faults of other people? What a weak and futile subterfuge it is! The spendthrift is blind to his own extravagance while he denounces the miser, and the callous and exacting employer dodges his own harshness by an eloquent exposure of idleness and inefficiency.

—Atkins.

The Front Page

SOMEONE has said that life's most important happenings never get on the front page of the newspapers; for they are the unreported things of birth and growth and love and thought and character and the unseen decisions of individual souls.

Who knows when or where or by whom the seed was planted that made a Shakespeare, a Michaelangelo or a Beethoven? From what planting grow the distinctive types of character and achievement in this Western world?

No poem, no sermon, no book, no newspaper has ever truly set forth the growth of a soul. Indeed few newspapers seem to be the least bit concerned about such a growth. Having heard most of the explanations as to why such things never get on the front page, I am still unconvinced as to the reasonableness of any of the reasons given.

Whole libraries have dealt with the rise and progress of the Christian church: yet it is still a marvel and a mystery, best explained by the humble form of Jesus. Once upon a time a single room held the entire fellowship of Jesus: today His disciples are beyond exact computation, in number and in power.

George Bernard Shaw

THE minister of Wesley's Chapel, City-road, London, Rev. George H. McNeal, has received a characteristic letter from Mr. G. Bernard Shaw. It reads: "I am happy to send a stray pound towards the eight hundred pounds you need to meet the expenses of the Death Watch beetle trouble. It will kill a beetle and pay for the copy of the pamphlet, which I have read with interest. Though an ancient alumnus of Wesley College, Dublin, I am not a Wesleyan, being more of a Quaker, though little better than an atheist in the eyes of old-fashioned Wesleyans and Quakers. Hence the meanness of my contribution."

If this letter is preserved the day may arrive when somebody will be willing to pay more than eight hundred pounds for it.

CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE.

(From The Kingston Whig-Standard.)

The more Chambers of Commerce formed in Canada the better. With energy and determination they can be of immense service not only to the particular places in which they may be formed, but to the whole country. They have already proved in many instances how valuable they are. We notice that in Peterborough there is one particular matter which the Chamber of Commerce there is now paying attention to. The Examiner recently had an editorial upon which is so excellent that we are not going to spoil it by paraphrasing it, but publish it in full.

This editorial appeared under the heading of "Keeping Them at Home," and we heartily recommend it to the citizens of Kingston. Every effort should be made here to encourage new industries to settle here which would aid in "Keeping them at home," and that means the investment by the citizens of a little money in good undertakings which may come along as well as, if necessary, in helping those here to extend whenever possible. These are matters which pertain particularly to Chambers of Commerce.

BACK TO THE OLD SEASON.

The agitation that has been going on for some time among hunters and among other citizens who appreciate the importance of protecting Ontario's fish and game to restore the old open season for hunting deer has had its effect.

At least Toronto advices say that complaints have poured in on the Department of Game and Fisheries to such an extent that no further agitation is needed, the department having decided to recommend to the Fish and Game Committee of the Legislature that a return be made to the former system.

A year's trial of a month's open season has convinced nearly everybody of the folly of a policy that doubled the time for killing deer, in view of the fact that the animals are becoming yearly less plentiful and that they will eventually become extinct if a plan of conservation is not adopted.

A fifteen days' season is long enough: in fact, the time may not be far distant when it will be necessary to reduce the open season to ten days or a week.

Apparently the department has seen the light in this respect, and next week when the Fish and Game Committee meets the old time limit will come back into effect.

The announcement will be received with gratification throughout the Province.

A WONDERFUL ACHIEVEMENT.

When all its features are considered the feat of Harold "Bert" Hinkler, Australian aviator, in piloting his tiny one-seater aeroplane from England to Australia in fifteen and a half days must be regarded as in many respects out-surpassing the great performances of Colonel Lindbergh.

Hinkler's wonderful flight was made without any publicity, but its successful completion has made the world realize that his feat has added a new chapter to the history of the conquest of the air.

Altogether the Australian aviator flew 12,000 miles in less than sixteen days at a cost it is said of only two cents a mile, followed his schedule with regularity, stopping en route in Italy, Malta, Tripoli, Palestine, India, Burma, Straits Settlement and Java, had no assistance anywhere in housing his machine, and incidentally broke four flying records—making the longest solo flight, the first non-stop flight from England to Italy, and the fastest flight from England to India, cutting twelve days off the record of the England-Australia air voyage, and completing the longest flight ever made in a light plane.

Hinkler's remarkable performance should thrill every Britisher's heart because of the evidence it gives that the Empire's flying men, without blast of trumpets and radio broadcasts, are capable of holding their own with flying men anywhere.

DRINKING AMONG WOMEN.

A women's political organization in Toronto has made the belated discovery that drinking among women is on the increase in Ontario.

Unfortunately, there does not seem to be any doubt of the accuracy of that finding, even if the reason assigned for this condition, the accessability of liquor in the home because of Government sale, may not be unanimously accepted as sound.

The date when drinking among women began to increase in Ontario was not the date on which the Liquor Control Act began to operate; you have to go back some years before that to get at the real causes.

Two factors, it will be found, have combined to produce the increase noted: first, that under the Ontario Temperance Act the "toting" of flasks on the part of young men and the sipping of their contents by young women came for some unaccountable reason to be looked upon as smart, and secondly, the manufacture of home-brew beer that followed the introduction of the O.T.A. turned many a kitchen into a brewery and developed in many families an increased consumption, in which women as well as men and sometimes children shared.

WHY IT IS COMING.

Reasons why an increased gasoline tax is inevitable are not hard to find when certain aspects in connection with the annual meeting of the Ontario Good Roads Association are considered.

In the first place, it was notable that deputation after deputation waited upon the Minister of Highways to urge the construction of new Provincial roads in all parts of the Province.

Everybody wants Provincial highways; it is only when the bill comes in that the tune is changed.

And secondly, there was the strong feeling evidenced among farmers living away from the highways that they are called upon to pay too great a share of the road costs, and their demand that the gasoline tax be raised to five cents a gallon is that the expenditure on Provincial highways be assumed entirely by the Province.

It is the simple truth that many farmers who have to help pay for the highways receive no direct benefit from them, and that brings us naturally back to the logical policy that the people who get the most use out of these expensive roads must pay for them.

They can be made to pay through the gasoline tax, the simplest, surest and most equitable means of apportioning the cost that can be devised.

OLD AGE PENSIONS IN NEW YORK.

The Miller bill for old age pensions is to have a hearing in Albany February 28. A typical incident will show the condition which prompts its introduction.

Two widowed sisters, more than eighty years old, in a village not far away, were missed by neighbors. One investigated, and found them without food or fuel and with but one penny left. They had not eaten in three days.

Once they had been well-to-do. As age and infirmity crept on, they spent their substance, had no kinsfolk to whom they could go, were too proud to beg, and but for this accidental discovery by a kind-hearted neighbor, who supplied relief, might have starved to death.

Such instances are rare? Fortunately, yes. Yet Lawson Purdy, eminent authority, says that in this city there are 24,000 friendless old men and women utterly without income or property and not cared for by any known agency.

Neither New York nor any other community is callous. Generous sums are given yearly to meet these cases of acute need. Many are missed because not known. Where competent kinsfolk are not available, shall the whole burden of supporting superannuated veterans in life's battles be assumed by private benevolence or is it, instead, a public duty?

Our methods of public relief of the poor date back, in many localities, 150 years. Originally meant to be kind, as kindness went, they have become cruel and are often carelessly and wastefully applied.

The Miller bill allows to each citizen at or beyond the age of seventy, whose private income is less than one dollar a day, a sum from public funds sufficient to yield a daily dollar. It provides a machinery of careful administration.—New York American.

THOSE CATALOGUES ARE NOW OUT.

Catalogues for the gardener are now out, and the ruminations of the enthusiast can be heard from on many sides.

There are three ways of knowing vegetables; at the table, in the garden and in the seed catalogue; and the greatest of these is the seed catalogue. No man who knows vegetables merely as articles of diet knows them well; any man who knows vegetables in the garden knows them almost too well; but the man who leafs through a seed catalogue as memories of an old garden run through his mind has struck the golden mean. Making a garden is heroism of full stature only as it is envisioned in the pages of a seed catalogue; in actual practice there are too many derelictions and too much neglect.

A forgotten soul cried tragically, "I could be a poet if I knew the names of things!" The men who compile our seed catalogues know the names of things. And they can describe them, too, tersely, with a good turn of phrase. Cabbage is "a rich dark green, the centre blanching to a creamy white." Onions are "beautiful and perfect little bulbs." Spinach is "both palatable and healthful." That humorous vegetable, crookneck squash, has "a delicious buttery flavor."

Here are the pot herbs, with names that revive race memories. Coriander and marjoram, rosemary and rue, savory and thyme. "I know a bank where the wild tyme blows." A man reading a seed catalogue is not responsible for the drift of his thoughts. Here are likenesses of the mangel-wurtzel, the only vegetable ever to have influenced the course of an English general election. Here are mouth-watering pictures of currants bringing back a picture of jelly glasses all arow in the south kitchen window. Here are collards, to make a Southron homesick. Here are beets that are described as Long Dark Blood. Here are full-page colored illustrations of the new variety of the flower variously known as bachelors' buttons, cornflowers, ragged sailor, bluebottles and blues; of snapdragon and rose; carnations and zinnias and dahlias.

There are only two quarrels with the seed catalogue. These are affectionate quarrels, like those by the hearthside. Why do they give precedence to the scientific names of flowers over the common names? Is it because it makes for simplification or ordering? But gypsophila outranks baby's breath, helenium is preferred over sneezewort, Polemonium is actually Jacob's ladder and scabiosa is mourning bride.

The second quarrel is more serious and a real issue might be made of it. Why are colored illustrations of flowers used when they are denied to vegetables? Is the Firebrand snapdragon more beautiful than the rosy red Eclipse beet? Would an artist despise that cabbage whose centre blanches to a creamy white? No, there is neither justice nor good sense in this discrimination. The first seed catalogue of 1928 arouses crisp, tender, succulent emotion in the breast of the reader; it is a pity that so noble a volume should encourage any heresy, even by implication, that the rose is more aristocratic than the onion or that gladioli are sweeter in heaven's sight than Golden Bantam corn.—St. Catharines Standard.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Breaking speed records at Daytona is a dangerous pastime, but many a careless driver takes almost as great chances at level crossings and elsewhere.

The Chamber of Commerce campaign continues into next week. As success means much to Peterborough there should be a general hope that the objective will be reached.

Those nineteen stray ballots are causing much more trouble than if they had gone into the ballot box.

Mayor Big Bill Thompson, no doubt, thinks that King George is responsible for the bombing scare.

The Legislature will waste an afternoon next week discussing a beer-by-the-glass motion. It has no chance of being passed.

TO CROSS PACIFIC

Four young Japanese airmen have been chosen to make the first attempt to span the Pacific in a non-stop flight to the United States. Starting from Kasamigaura, near Tokio, about July 1, they plan to follow the Aleutian islands to Unalaska, thence to Sitka and down the coast to Seattle On this route they would cover about 5,000 miles, or roughly 40 per cent. more than Lindberg did on his flight, Forty-eight hours is allowed for the trip. Two planes are being prepared and both may attempt the journey. The ABOVE picture shows Teru Fujnmoto, 25 LEFT, and Yukichi Goto 28, two of the fliers selected for the Pacific hop.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, February 25 — With receipts of 4,532 cattle, 675 calves, 2,733 hogs, and 465 [illegible] for the week at the Union Stock Yards, with the exception of Monday, was dull, with cattle prices 25c to 50c [illegible]

Cattle on Tuesday were more difficult to sell with about 400 held over. This condition continued on Wednesday and Thursday with bids 25c to 50c lower.

The more moderate retail demand lately has curtailed temporarily the purchases by the packers, and as a result trade is dull.

The only activity for the past week has been on butchers' cows and baby beeves. Choice heavy butchers steers sold from $10.50 to $11, with choice light steers $9.25 to $10.25, and heifers $9.25 to $9.75. An odd extra choice beef brought a slightly higher price.

Medium and common steers and heifers were slow in disposal.

Baby beeves remained unchanged in price with choice selling at $11.00 to $11.50. Choice fat cows ranged from $7.50 to $8.25 with an odd one at $8.50. Heavy bulls, choice, sold from $6.25 to $6.75, Bologna bulls, $5.50 to $6.25.

Springers and milkers, choice springers brought $90 to $115, good, $70 to $85; choice milkers ranged from $75 to $90; good, $60 to $70; medium, $40 to $60.

Ontario stocker steers brought from $8 to $8.50, with short keep feeders of good quality, $8.75 to $9.25. Western heifers, on through billing, brought from $6.50 to $7.25.

The calf trade remained steady during the week. Choice selling for $15.00 to $16.00; medium, $14 to $14.50; grassers, 6 to 6½ cents.

The demand on lambs was firm with better prices on Wednesday, when $14 to $14.75 was secured for choice; $12 to $13 for medium; heavy $11 to $12, and culls, $10 to $11.

Hogs at $9.00 f.o.b. selects or $9.90 off cars, held steady during the week.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 25 (Canadian Press).—The trade in cash grain on the Montreal market yesterday was rather slow owing to the continued absence of any demand of importance from exporters. Sales were confined chiefly to car lots for domestic and country account. The tone of the market for oats was stronger and prices generally were advanced one cent per bushel.

Prices for all grades of Spring and Winter wheat flour were well maintained under a quiet demand.

The market for all lines of millfeed was moderately active and prices were firm. There was no improvement in the demand for standard grades of rolled oats, but values were unchanged.

A firm feeling preailed in the egg situation which was attributed to the smaller supplies coming from the Province of Ontario with the result that the demand from jobbers for British Columbia eggs was keener than usual and some of the latter shippers have sold all they could possibly get rolling this way up to next Tuesday. The receipts were 628 cases.

The tone of the market for imported beans remained firm under a steady demand and small offerings. Sales of small lots of choice white hand-picked were made at $3.20 per bushel, ex-store, and car lots to arrive were quoted at $3.10 per bushel, ex-track.

The demand for butter was confined to small lots, but prices were firm. The receipts were 586 packages.

A fair amount of business was worked in cheese with English buyers and prices were firm. The receipts were 138 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Ills., Feb. 25.— (Canadian Press.)— Crop damage reports from a wide extent of domestic winter wheat territory led to a brisk advance in wheat values yesterday after an early dip. Buying here on a broad scale was further stimulated as a result of advances that export houses and mills were active purchasers of wheat at Winnipeg.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm, 1-2 cent to 1 cent net higher, with corn at 1-8 cents to 1-2 cent decline, oats unchanged to 1-2 cent up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 15 cents.

Heavy losses in wheat acreage were mentioned as likely in reports from numerous points throughout the central west. Meanwhile, there were also advices at hand that wheat and rye crops in central and south-eastern Europe were suffering from heavy frost and from lack of snow cover. Incentives to purchase were likewise found in the fact that Argentine shipments for the week proved to be of less volume than expected, that Australian shipments too were light, and that figures on exports from North America indicated world shipments would be under actual requirements.

Offerings of wheat in Chicago increased on the advance, however, and best prices failed to hold. Besides, Argentina and Canada were both said to be offering wheat more cheaply to Europe than heretofore and Liverpool wheat quotations yesterday were lower than had been expected. It had been also pointed out that the price of Liverpool May delivery is only about 14 cents over Chicago. about the smallest difference so far this season.

Corn rallied temporarily with wheat, but averaged lower as a result of fine weather for corn movement. The bulk of yesterday's corn receipts here went to industries and elevators. Canada was reported bidding more actively for new Argentine corn, May-June shipment. Oats fluctuated with corn.

Provisions reflected upturns in hog values and in cotton.

Would not be Without Zutoo Tablets
At Any Cost

Mr. A. O. Norton, the millionaire Jack Manufacturer, of Boston, who recently died, was a great "booster" for Zutoo Tablets.

He suffered from headaches from childhood and when he found Zutoo Tablets stopped these headaches in a few minutes and left no bad effect, he began recommending them to his family and friends. In an unsolicited letter, Mr. Norton says in closing:

"My family use them when ever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from Headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I always carry Zutoo Tablets in my grip on the road and WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT THEM AT ANY COST."

25 cents per box—at all dealers.

400 LBS. BOUGHT ONE DAY

Roseneath.

The Daily Examiner:

Dear Editor.—If space will permit I would like to reply to Mr. Madden Howard's statements in regard to pickerel fishing in Rice Lake. Now, I know Mr. Howard personally and have every respect for him, but don't agree with him in regard to his views on pickerel fishing in winter. I live at the east end of the lake on the south shore; have lived there for 54 years and, like Mr. Howard, I think I know what I am talking about. There certainly has been tons of fish taken out of the lake this winter. I will mention one incident that happened only yesterday (Feb. 21) in our local village. I called at one of the stores to buy a wooden box suitable to pack pork in; his reply was "I have not got a good box around the place. I use them all to pack my fish in for shipment. In fact, I have to use some corrugated boxes to ship them in." I asked him: "Do you get many pickerel now?" He says: "I bought 400 pound on Saturday." Now that is only one store; the rest of the stores are doing the same. Now there may be some people that will throw a bass back in the water, but there are a good many that will throw them in the bag. I have guided here for a number of years; have seen a good many pickerel cleaned and I have yet to find a bass or small lunge in the stomach of a pickerel. I have found small bass in the stomach of a lunge. As for the American tourist, I guide a lot of them, and as long as they are catching pickerel they are perfetly satisfied. How can we expect to have the tourist if we catch the fish all out in the winter? Now, everyone has a right to their own opinion, but I think our open season should be from June 16th to November 16 for all kinds of fish. Also cut down the day's catch to two lunge, six bass, and about ten pickerel. If a law to this effect was enforced we would soon have lots of fish and lots of American tourists.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, and hoping I have not taken up too much space in your valuable paper. I am yours,

RICHARD McCRACKEN,
Rice Lake.

A tendency to worry and fret over things that cannot be corrected or changed is wasting good ambition, and unfitting you to tackle the things that you can correct or change

A Thought

THE MODERN YOUTH.

The modern youth is a pretty wise young owl and if you expect to worst this son of the spirit of the age just play safe and "lay off."

One critical Dad, after examining his son's school report, inquired: "Say son! Do you know that George Washington was at the head of his class when he was your age?"

The young son closed the film-shutters over his owl eyes like the wise old bird, then he answered Dad: "Yes, and he was President of the United States when he was your age."

The kid's remark, it is said, set the old gentleman back or rather silenced things for some time.

I'm just using this example, for somehow comparisons are always unpleasant. Comparisons create a canker. To try to make one man the measure of another man is not always nice. It is like your living in a glass house and then throwing stones. Somebody is sure to shatter your glazed shed.

The range, the scope, the caliber of one man is not always comparable with the sphere, the station, or the rank of another man.

The main motive of any man should be to follow his own natural bent and see that his children get the same good chance.

Little "Jimmie" was not a little "George", neither is "Jimmie's" father President of the United States.

Just be yourself, but try to be bigger and a better man today than you were yesterday. Then repeat the dose tomorrow and your condition will improve. This is good Medicine.—The Silent Partner.

WHY TORTURE
THE LITTLE ONES

Mothers, do you think it fair to torture your little ones by forcing them to take ill-tasting oils when they find that the child's dread of these medicine often do more harm than good?

Baby's Own Tablets are the modern substitute for these nauseous doses. They are the very medicine the child requires and are so pleasant to take that they are as easy to administer as a glass of water. They are the perfect remedy for all the minor ailments of little ones, being absolutely guaranteed free from injurious drugs.

Baby's Own Tablets accomplish all that castor oil and other bad-tasting remedies can do. In fact they accomplish more as they do not leave the child exhausted from its struggle against taking medicine. They relieve teeething pains, banish indigestion and constipation, break up colds and simple fevers and promote healthful, refreshing sleep. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Fill the Egg Crate Fast

Every time a full egg crate goes out, the dollars come in. The faster the crates fill, the faster you make egg-money. The plan that fills egg crates fastest is to feed your hens a daily dose of

Pratts
POULTRY REGULATOR

A teaspoonful a day added to the feed is enough. It costs a cent a month per hen, or a cent a day for thirty hens. One extra egg a month gives nice profit. It pays to ask for PRATTS, the real egg maker, and take no other.

GOD'S MINUTE

Likewise the Spirit also helpeth our infirmities: for we know not what we should pray for as we ought: but the Spirit itself maketh intercession for us with groanings which cannot be uttered. And he that searcheth the hearts knoweth what is the mind of the Spirit, because he maketh intercession for the saints according to the will of God. And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose.—Romans 8:26-28.

The way is long, our Father, and sometimes very weary. We crowd and bruise one another in passing, and often we forget the goal in the heat and hurry of the pilgrimage. Start us forth, we pray, each day with fresh courage, and whisper in our hearts a little song to gladden our steps as we take up our burdens anew. Grant that the lightest of these may ever be our conscience, and that we may never be too laden with personal troubles to carry the balm of sympathy for friend and foe. Above all, grant us the gift of clear vision, that we may pierce the doubts and fears of the passing moment, and dwell with unfaltering confidence upon the ultimate fact of Thy love.—Amen.

"The Most Amazing Thing that Pontiac Six has ever done"

Combining New Elements of Style, Beauty and Performance

BEYOND question, this is the most amazing thing Pontiac Six has ever done . . . it is a thing that only Pontiac Six, backed by the almost unbounded engineering and manufacturing facilities of General Motors, could do.

The New Series Pontiac Six is the last word in stylish design, with new and vividly beautiful Fisher Bodies, finished in rich new harmonies of genuine Duco, its imposing appearance enhanced by the new, higher, narrower radiator, massive full-crown fenders and newly-designed headlamps.

Greater power and smoothness have been secured by a unique combination of refinements, including the new GMR "blue-streak" cylinder head, new fuel pump, new carburetor with accelerating pump, new manifolds and many other features.

The New Series Pontiac Six attains a new high record with its more handsome interior appointments, its rich upholstery, its smooth-riding, easy-driving qualities, the security of its self-equalizing four-wheel brakes.

Most amazing of all . . . these revolutionary refinements are offered at amazingly low prices . . . a further evidence of the General Motors policy of using success as the stepping stone to further progress.

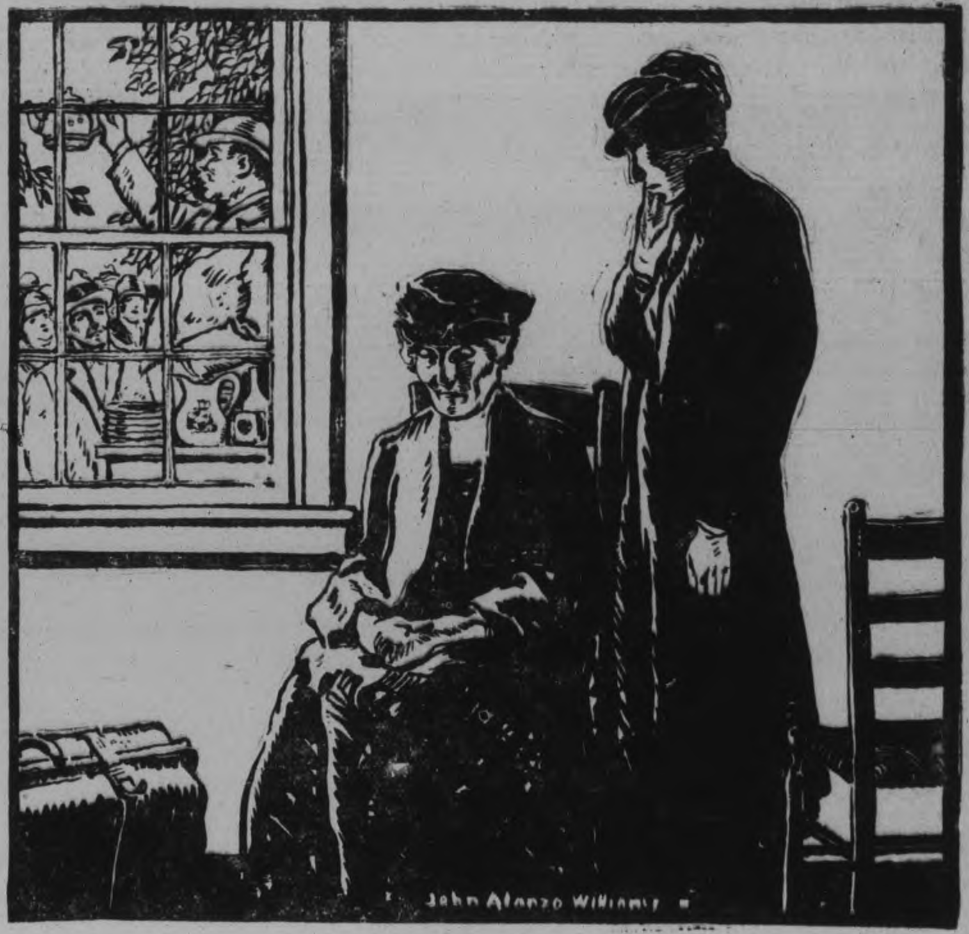
The 5 Great Hazards

"It has been in this house fifty years. You can't find another piece like it. This, ladies and gentlemen, is genuine! What am I offered for it? These old treasures are going for a song. Give me a bid."

—As the auctioneer rattles on, the neighbors think of the old days of entertainment and open hospitality in that house. They wonder how long the proud and lonely mistress has been fighting off the inevitable.



WHILE presenting our Annual Statement showing Assets of $2,388,647,636 — 2 Billion, 388 Million Dollars — representing savings and investments of 25 million people in the United States and Canada, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company desires to make clear what a life insurance company can do, what it should do and what, so far, it has been unable to do toward meeting what have been called the five great hazards of life:

Death which may come early, before one's dependents have been provided for.

Accident
always sudden and often causing lessened earning power.

Sickness
which may cause want as well as suffering.

Dependent Old Age
which must seek charity if self-support is no longer possible.

Unemployment
which may bring distress to others in addition to the one unemployed.

Annuities for old age, protection in case of death, accident or sickness — almost every financial requirement can now be met by insurance.

The Metropolitan leads in Canada as it does in the world.

Only one problem is still unsolved—unemployment insurance and that only because legislation permitting it has so far been refused. The day must come when every family can and will plan to meet every one of the five great hazards so that none of its members will ever face the need of charity.

* * *

The United States and Canada pay higher wages than other countries. Nearly all their workers earn enough to provide for both present and future needs. If they will but plan ahead they may have in their years of retirement, not merely bare existence, but real comfort.

Thousands of those interested in life insurance have asked how the family income should be expended. Send for our Home Budget Booklet which tells how much should be spent for necessities—food, housing, clothing, fuel—and how much should be laid aside for protection. It will be mailed free.

GENERAL CONTEST RULES

How to Enter

1. The contest is open to everyone except:
   - (a) Employees of The Peterborough Examiner, Ltd., or their immediate family.
   - (b) Prize-winners in any similar contest who have won any of the major prizes.

2. Additional puzzle-charts may be obtained free by writing to the Contest Department or by calling at The Examiner Office.

3. Every figure in the puzzle is complete and entirely free from tricks or illusions. If any contestant is in doubt about any of the figures, send in the chart with the figures marked and the Contest Department will gladly give a ruling on the figure.

4. When you have solved the puzzle, fill in completely the solution blank, which must be accompanied by a remittance for at least a six months' subscription at the regular rates to The Evening Examiner. (See subscription rates.) See also the prize-list and note how the value of your prize is increased by paying for a year's subscription and by getting subscriptions from your friends. Renewal subscriptions, or subscriptions in arrears, if paid during contest period, count the same as new subscriptions and will be extended from the present expiry date, but not more than $15.00 will be received on any one solution or subscription.

5. In order that subscribers who pay carrier boys weekly may participate in this contest, books of tickets containing 22 weekly tickets for $3.00, or 44 for $6.00, will be sold. These remittances must be made direct to the Contest Department with your solution. Otherwise it cannot be registered. Each ticket is valued at 15c and will be redeemed from the carrier boy at that price.

6. Readers who give their subscription to some other contestant and later want to send in an answer themselves, may do so providing they fill in the coupon, giving the name of the person they paid their subscription to and the amount paid. No further payment is necessary.

7. The contest will close on March 15, 1928, but send in your solution as soon as possible as we are offering special prizes for the first correct solutions. (See full details under "Special Prizes.") There is nothing gained by holding back your answer once you have solved the puzzle, as a contestant may make several remittances on any answer sent in while the contest lasts up to a total amount of $15.00.

8. Contestants may send in a different answer to the puzzle with each remittance, but if one of your answers is correct the money sent in on your other answers will not increase the total value of your prize, and not more than one regular prize will be paid to one family.

9. Everyone has an equal chance. You can win the first prize and extra cash for only a six months' subscription, but note how the value of the first five prizes increases if you send in more money. Aim to win the maximum Grand Prize. The Evening Examiner is now recognized as the leading daily in Peterborough district and surrounding counties and no difficulty should be found in getting your friends or neighbors to subscribe for it.

10. Contestants who remit by mail or pay at the office should see that these remittances and answers are made on a proper contest coupon to ensure them reaching the Contest Department.

11. If the correct answer is not sent in by any contestant the prizes will be awarded for the nearest correct solutions. In the event of a tie a second puzzle will be presented which will be as practicable and solvable as the first. Only those tieing will be permitted to solve the second puzzle. Should two or more persons be tied in the second puzzle the prizes will be divided equally among those tieing. No cash will be accepted on the second puzzle.

12. In entering the contest, contestants agree to abide by the rules of the contest and to accept the decision of the judges as final. The Contest Department reserve the right to alter and amend its rules if necessary for the protection of contestants or The Peterborough Examiner. It also reserves the right to refund any subscriptions and to disqualify any contestants whom they consider should not be in the contest. Contestants are assured of the same impartial treatment which characterizes The Examiner in all its dealings.

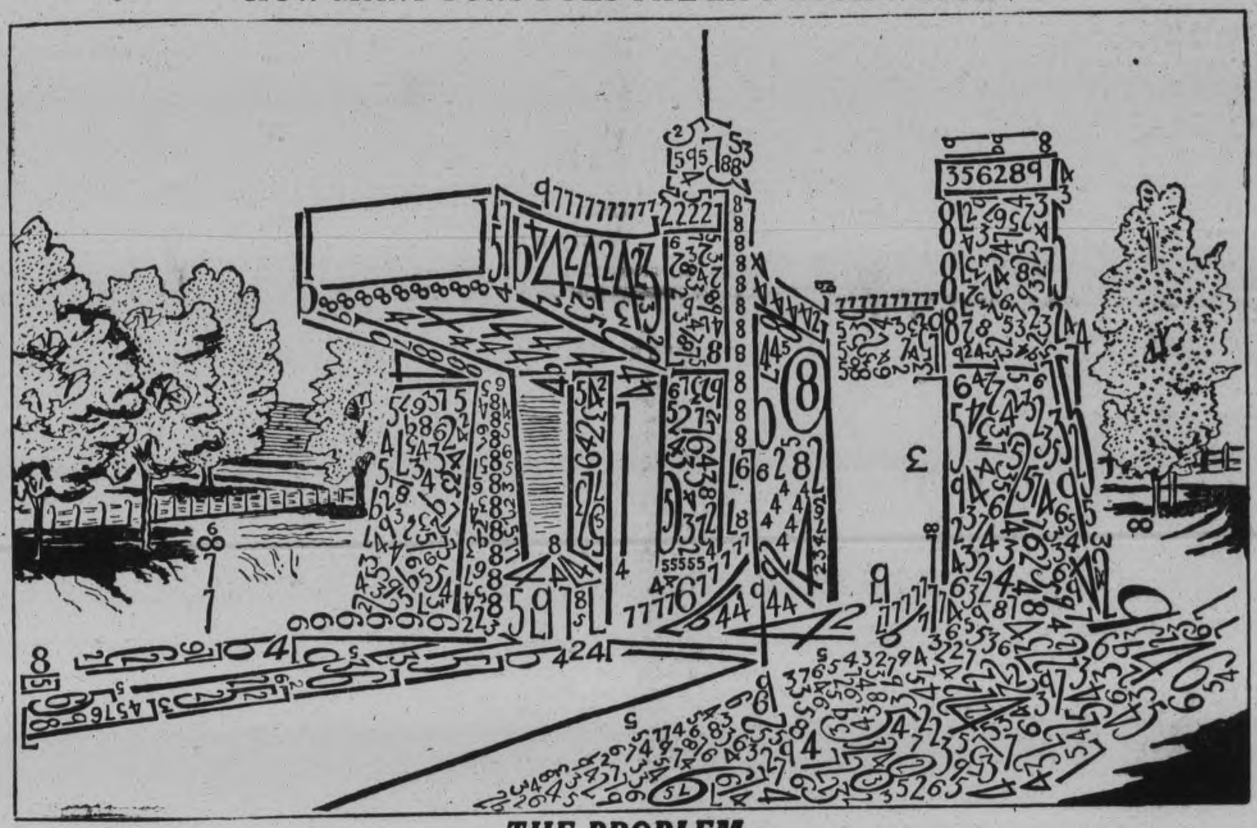
HOW MANY TONS DOES THE LIFT LOCK WEIGH?



THE PROBLEM

The problem is to add together all the figures shown above, which, when added together, represent the total number of tons that the Lift Lock weighs.

The puzzle is entirely free from tricks or illusions, every figure is complete and stands alone. The figures range from two to nine. There are no ones (1) or ciphers (0) in the puzzle. The sixes are curved, while the stem of the nines are straight.

We wish it clearly understood that every figure can be plainly seen. There is nothing hidden in the trees or shadows, but the problem of adding these is a real test of accuracy.

Remember, each figure is added separately. For example, 9777 is counted 9 plus 7 plus 7 plus 7, or, in other words, simply add them as if each figure stood one above the other in a single column.

REMEMBER, NO ONE KNOWS THE CORRECT ANSWER UNTIL THE CONTEST CLOSES

To ensure this we had Mr. E. M. Elliott, County Treasurer, and Mr. Frank Adams, City Treasurer, each erase one or more figures from the original drawing, which they carefully noted and sealed in an envelope and gave to the manager of the Royal Bank for safe keeping until the contest closes.

SIXTEENTH TO TWENTY-FIFTH PRIZES—$10.00 in cash each.

TWENTY-SIXTH TO FIFTIETH PRIZES—$5.00 in cash each.

SPECIAL PRIZES—While the contest will not close until March 15, we are offering Five Special Prizes for the first five correct, or nearest correct, solutions secured by us. The prizes will be: First Prize, $8.00; Second Prize, $7.00; Third Prize, $5.00; Fourth Prize, $3.00; Fifth Prize, $2.00.

A TIP ON HOW TO WIN

Take a pencil and put down the numbers as you stroke them out, then add them up. Some suggest that you cut the chart into dozens of pieces, then check them from all sides; or if you wish, try blotting them out with colored ink or pencil, Others think the best way is to pick out all the twos, threes, fours, etc. Any they miss the first time they find later. Or suppose you try taking a combination of figures which, when added together, makes a total of ten. For example, 5 and 3 and 2 make 10. Tens are not only easily added together, but there is less danger of making a mistake.

1. Everyone has the same opportunity. A person sending in only $3.00 in subscriptions has the same chance of winning the first prize as a person sending in more money. The advantage of sending in more money is to increase the value of the first five prizes.

2. This is a contest for Central Ontario district, or to any subscriber of The Examiner, no matter where he resides.

3. Don't forget to answer all the necessary questions on the solution blank.

4. If you collect a subscription from a friend or neighbour, that person can also submit an answer to the puzzle without further payment.

THE JUDGES

In order that each Contestant shall have fair and impartial treatment, we have arranged with Mr. Roland Denne, Mayor of the City and Alderman Nagel Phelan to act as judges for the contest. Any complaints in this connection will be referred to these judges whose decision will be absolutely final.

A PROGRESSIVE FIRM OF PRACTICAL TINSMITHS AND SHEET METAL WORK, PLUMBING AND HEATING CONTRACTORS

FRED. O. GOODFELLOW

GEORGE A. WELCH

This growing local firm of Plumbers and Steamfitters, Tinsmiths and Sheet Metal Workers, recently moved into larger premises, at 379 Water Street, where they will have increased facilities for their rapidly growing business. They have just been in business one year ago to-day, February 25th. The success which has come to them in their varied lines has grown out of their careful and intelligent handling of all contracts. Both members of the firm possess a practical knowledge of Sanitary Plumbing, Heating, Tinsmithing, etc. They have been successful in demonstrating their ability to do all kinds of practical work in their line; and their rapid growth in business has been the result.

As Safety and Care are the primary objects in Modern Sanitary Plumbing and Heating, etc., Messrs. Goodfellow and Welch give their personal attention to all contracts, and have been able to faithfully carry out all the requirements which the most exacting specifications call for.

In their new and more commodious premises, this young firm looks forward to a splendid business future, encouraged by the results of their faithful attention to business in the past and the satisfaction they have given to their customers with their repair truck.

Toronto Market Firmer; Losses Still Numerous

TORONTO, February 25. Canadian Press. — With International Nickel showing further signs of recovery, a better tendency was shown on the Toronto stock exchange this morning though recessions were again freely sprinkled in the light and scattered list. Nickel, the dominating stock of the session, closed at 78¼ for point and a quarter gain. Page-Hersey was up nearly a point at 92 7-8. Dominion Stores a point higher at 115½; Industrial Alcohol firmer at 35 3-8 and International Petroleum a point stronger at 37¼. British American Oil, however, sagged a quarter point at 34, and Walker's was among the easier issues with a slight loss at 5¼; Brazilian at 198½ and Seagrams at 22½ were easier.

Cold Weather Spreads Wheat Prices Go Up

CHICAGO, Feb. 25 (Canadian Press).—With colder weather prevalent over the domestic winter wheat territory, wheat prices averaged higher early today. The absence of snow covering in various sections led to fears in some quarters that further crop damage to wheat would ensue. Opening at ⅛c decline to ⅛c advance, wheat subsequently scored additional gains in some cases. Corn, oats and provisions also developed firmness, corn starting unchanged to ½c up and later continuing to point higher.

Opening prices were: Wheat, March 133½, May 134⅞. Corn, March 94½, May 98. Oats, March 54⅜, May 56.

Mine Trade Heavy; Trend Uncertain

TORONTO, Feb. 25. — Canadian Press. — Continued uncertainty marked to-days session of the Standard mining exchange, when trading was again fairly heavy. On the firm side, Sherrit-Gordon sold up 20 at 7.45, and the Kirkland Lakes generally were steady. Teck Hughes at 830 and Lake Shore at 21.55 were easier, however. Two firm spots in the smaller class were Aconda, 4 higher at 41, and Windfall up 4 at 15. Pend O'Reille was the greatest loser of the morning with an 80c recession at 18.

S. A. BAND CONCERT AT GEORGE STREET

Good Program Given Under Co-Workers' Bible Class Auspices.

The Salvation Army Band rendered a splendid concert in the Sunday School auditorium of George Street United Church last evening, under the auspices of the Co-Workers' Bible Class.

A well-filled hall greeted the entertainers. Rev. Dr. A. I. Brown presided as chairman, in his usual genial manner.

The following was the program presented:

Hymn Tune, Band, "Confidence," Prayer.

Chairman's Remarks.—Dr. Brown.

Concert March, Band—"To The Land of Glory."

Vocal Duet — Bandsman Morgan and Bandmaster Robinson, "Come Unto Me."

Cornet Solo—Deputy Bandmaster Austen, "Helitrope."

Selection—Band, "Peep Into India."

March—Saxaphone Party, "Independentia."

Vocal Solo—Mrs. Melville Braund, "The Lord is My Light." Mrs. Braund kindly responded to an encore.

Band Selection with Solo by Bandsmen Shadgett Barton; (a) "The Calvary Streams," (b) Hymn Tune, with Chimes.

Vocal Quartette.—"Heavenly Mansions," Bandsmen Young, Shadgett, Austen and Robinson.

Selection — Saxaphones, "Harvestide."

Band Selection — "Air Varie," "While the Days Are Going By."

Instrumental Quartette—Bandsmen Shadgett, Richardson, Austin, Robinson.

Band Selection—"Nearer to Thee."

Saxaphone Selection. — "London Bridge.

March—Band, "Canada West."

God Save the King

Mr. George Robinson, Superintendent of the Sunday School, on behalf of the Co-Workers' Bible Class and the Sunday School as a whole, moved a hearty vote of thanks to the Salvation Army Band for providing an evening of such wholesome and high class music in these times when we are surrounded with so much jazz. This was seconded by Mr. H. Strong and presented by Dr. Brown to Bandmaster Robinson.

The visiting entertainers were shown through the new Sunday School Hall after which refreshments were served by the members of the Co-Workers' Class.

GROUP PLANS PROGRAM.

Arrangements Made For Meeting of St. James' W.M.S. Auxiliary.

A meeting of Group No. 2 of St. James' W.M.S. Auxiliary was held yesterday afternoon at the home of the Group leader, Mrs. F. D. Elliott, Lock street.

There was a fair attendance notwithstanding the illness of five members of the group. A devotional service opened the meeting, after which plans for the March Auxiliary meeting were arranged, this group being responsible for the program.

Miss Jackson will give an address, and the Study Book "New Paths for Old Purposes," is in charge of Mrs. Hugh McCullough, who will present the Fourth Chapter.

DIES SUDDENLY.

How to Play BRIDGE

Series 1927-28 by

ARTICLE No. 17

There are still many players who prefer a no-trump to a suit bid, but this kind of bidding gets them into trouble so often that sooner or later they are bound to reform. In the following example hand both A and B were at fault, and as a result they lost a big game and rubber:

Hearts — 8 Clubs — K, J, 10, 9, 4 Diamonds — K, J, 9, 2 Spades — A, Q, 10	Y A B Z	Hearts — A, K, 10, 7, 3 Clubs — 2 Diamonds — A, 10, 7, 4, 3 Spades — K, 9

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and passed. A has a good all around hand, sufficiently strong to justify a no-trump bid; but the singleton heart is a danger spot. A clever opponent with a set-up heart suit and the opening lead would pass a no-trump bid and proceed to make his heart suit. A's best bid with this hand is one club, but being one of those players who always bid no-trump in preference to a suit bid, he bid one no-trump. Y now bid two spades and thus gave B a chance to make a mistake.

B's hand is very strong but contains only one stopper in spades. On the other hand, B holds a very strong heart suit, one that will well justify a three heart bid. This bid is much sounder than the two no-trump bid. However, B was another player who had no use for the suit bid, so he bid two no-trump. Z and A passed but Y bid three spades. At this point, B began to realize that perhaps Y had a pretty good hand and that a single stopper in spades wasn't enough to insure game at no-trump, and for that reason it would be better to try for game in hearts. So B bid four hearts. Z passed and A now had a pretty puzzle to solve. With only a singleton heart it was practically certain that he and his partner couldn't go game in hearts. He now for the first time noticed his long club suit, so he decided to try for a game in clubs, bidding five. Of course, A should have bid four no-trump, but he lost his courage. Y passed and B was now in a hopeless position. With only a singleton club, he knew that he and his partner were lost, but he had no way to get out. All passed and A-B lost their contract by three tricks — all because they bid no-trump in preference to their much sounder suit bids.

The proper bidding of these two hands is as follows: Z pass, A one club, Y one spade, B two hearts. Z pass, A two no-trump, Y three spades, and B three no-trump. All pass. With this bidding A-B would have scored game and rubber easily. Study this example hand very carefully and try to prefer the suit bid to the no-trump, especially if the hand contains a singleton or void suit. This preference of the suit bid to the no-trump will give you a much better opportunity to size up your opponent's hands and thus enable you and your partner to arrive at the best bid of twenty-six cards rather than of thirteen — the object of all sound bidding. Such bids are termed Introductory or Approaching bids.

The following examples were given as problems in the preceding article:

Answer to Problem No. 17

Hearts — 10, 8, 6, 2
Clubs — Q, 10, 9, 4
Diamonds — 8, 7, 2
Spades — J, 8

Y
A B
Z

No score, rubber game. If Z dealt, bid one club and A passed, what should Y do with the foregoing hand? Y should pass. There is no obligation to bid impressed upon the partner of the original club bidder unless he has a justifiable bid, and Y's hand is too weak for any such action in this case.

Answer to Problem No. 18

Hearts — 10
Clubs — J, 10, 2
Diamonds — K, Q, 4, 3
Spades — Q, 10, 9, 6, 4

A B
Z

No score, rubber game. If Z dealt, bid one club and A passed, what should Y do with the foregoing hand? In this hand, Y should bid one spade. If Z has a sound club bid, Y-Z should easily make one or more spades; thus Y's spade bid is more than justified.

The lesson to be learned from these hands is that no bid is justifiable which is based entirely upon partner's bid. There must be some cards in one's own hand as a basis for the bid; otherwise there could be no such thing as informatory bidding. Each bid should give information as to the holding and not simply repeat or follow partner's bid without any justification in one's own cards.

It is not often that a freak hand offers much of a problem in the play but here is one from England that is the exception:

Problem No. 19

Hearts — none Clubs — A Diamonds — 7, 5, 4, 3 Spades — K, J, 8, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2	Y A B Z	Hearts — 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 4 Clubs — none Diamonds — A, Q, J, 10, 9, 8, 6 Spades — none

No score, rubber game. Z dealt, bid one heart, A bid three spades, Y four clubs and B four diamonds. Z now bid five clubs, A five diamonds, Y six clubs and B six diamonds. Z doubled and all passed. Z opened the king of hearts which B trumped in A's hand with the trey of diamonds, Y playing the five of hearts. B now led the deuce of spades from A's hand, trumping in his own hand with the six of diamonds. On this trick, Y played the seven and Z the ace of spades. What deductions should B make from the bidding and the cards played on the first two tricks and then how should he plan the play so as to make six odd?

The solution of this interesting problem and the hands of Y-Z will be given in the next article.

LADIES OBSERVE DAY OF PRAYER

Members of Missionary Societies Gather in St. Paul's Church.

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIR.

To observe the World's International Day of Prayer, the Women's Missionary Societies of Peterborough convened in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church on Friday afternoon, Mrs. William Allan presiding.

The spirit of intercession was manifested as the assembly rose and joined in singing "Breathe on me, breath of God." Mrs. Allan, in an instructive and concise manner, explained the purpose of the meeting. Following this the Apostles' Creed was read in unison. Mrs. Turner of St. Luke's Anglican Church read the 103rd Psalm. After the reading of the Scripture the large congregation stood and repeated the General Confession and the Lord's Prayer.

The Prayer for Canada was offered silently by the congregation. Mrs. Allan suggested each topic to give thanks for: To those who in courage and faith laid the foundations of Empire righteousness in home, school and church; to give thanks to material wealth, resources and industrial developments; to give thanks for the vision of those who brought about Confederation with its resultant blessings. After the periods of silent prayer, Mrs. Pettit, of Murray Street Baptist Church, offered a prayer for the future guidance of the nation.

Mrs. Harton, of Park Street Baptist Church, led in prayer for young men and young women that they might give their lives in the service of Christ.

Prayers for individual nations were offered by the following ladies:

China—Mrs. Batstone, George Street United Church.

Japan — Mrs. Mills, Bethany Tabernacle.

India—Mrs. Morrison, Knox United Church.

Africa—Mrs. Dudgeon, St. James' United Church.

A solo was beautifully rendered by Mrs. C. H. Saunders, "Teach Me to Pray," accompanied by Mrs. T. Cruikshank at the organ. This was followed by a prayer for all missionaries in all lands, led by Mrs. Connelly of All Saints' Church, and a prayer for all hospitals, schools, and homes, led by Mrs. Amys, St. John's Anglican Church.

The hymn, "Jesus shall reign," followed the prayers for the first four nations. The prayers for the Moslem world were led by Mrs. Edwards of St. Andrew's United Church, and those for the League of Nations and internation relationship by Mrs. A. Lane, Trinity United Church.

Prayer for the Jerusalem International Missionary Conference led by Mrs. Payne, Mark Street United church. The hymn, "Lead Kindly Light," followed. A collection was then taken in aid of the Upper Canada Tract and Bible Society.

Mrs. T. Cruikshank presided at the organ during the service.

The Doxology was sung by the congregation in unison, after which the Benediction was pronounced.

If a child is mischievous or naughty, if he has been disobedient or untrustworthy; the surest way to discourage him is to harp upon the subject of how bad he is. Too many children hear a parent say, "Dick is so disobedient lately and I can't do a thing with him!" What is the effect upon him? Well, it would be only human to glory in the fact he had a grown-up non-plussed and set out to continue his activity. If he is told the harm in deceit, or disobedience, or meanness, or thoughtlessness, and then assured that he can be trusted he has a standard to live up to. He may slip a little, but the knowledge that he is breaking a trust will bother him, whereas he would otherwise glory in his crime which simply tormented a grown-up.

IT'S hard for me to disobey,
For evenings, on the road to Nod,
My mother holds me close to her
And whispers soft this prayer,
"Oh God,

I'm glad you let Ann live with me
Because she is so dear and fair,
Because she's truthful, brave and kind
And I can trust her anywhere.

Send dreams of light, and restful sleep
And help me make her strong and grow,
To do but things both wise and just Because, dear God, I love her so!"

PRISONER: Yes, by my wife, who said that if I ever went to prison she would leave me.—Meggendorfer, Blaetter, Munich.

GOOD PRECAUTION.

A barber was much surprised to receive a tip before he had cut his customer's hair.

"Thank you, sir! It isn't many who tip us first."

"That isn't a tip," snapped the man in the chair. "That's hush money."—Answers, London.

COULD HAVE HAPPENED.

"Why so sad to-day, doctor?"

"A patient of mine has died."

"Never mind, perhaps he would have died anyway."—Nagel's Lustige Welt, Berlin.

WASTED HIS TIME

A clergyman was examining a boy in Sunday school class with regard to John the Baptist. The boy's knowledge of the prophet was very scant.

At last the clergyman said: "Surely you can tell me what he did."

"He didn't do nothin'. He was a preacher."—Tit-Bits.

A HOWLER

COCKNEY VISITOR: What's that awful noise outside?

COUNTRY HOST: Why, that's an owl.

COCKNEY: I know it's an 'owl, but 'oo's 'owling?—Passing Show.

SO IT DOES

SHE: Time separates the best of friends.

HE: Quite true. Fourteen years ago we were both eighteen. Now you are twenty-three and I'm thirty-two.—Tit-Bits.

WHY THE DELAY?

HE: If you keep looking at me like that, I'm going to kiss you.

SHE: Well, I can't hold this expression very much longer.—Answers.

NOT COMPLIMENTARY

VERY LOUD YOUNG PERSON: You old people are so easy to read—you have none of our modern subtlety. One can see at once what you're thinking.

OLD GENTLEMAN: Then I'm afraid you must find me dreadfully rude.—Punch.

BETTER AND BETTER

ALBERT: The more I look at you, dear, the more beautiful you become.

ALICE: Yes?

ALBERT: I ought to look at you oftener.—Answers.

WISE BIRDS.

S. P. C. A. AGENT: I have a report that you're in the habit of shooing your poultry into a field and then running them down with an automobile. What's the idea?

FARMER: The idea is that I've lost more'n a dozen this past summer by sudden death on the highway, so I'm training the rest to be auto-shy.—Judge.

A LITTLE MAN

'Twas the day before Christmas. Willie Jones broke a window with a snowball, sassed his mother, got his new suit full of slush, broke the radio and took father's fountain pen to draw pictures.

"Thank goodness," sighed Papa Jones, "my boy is not a hypocrite."—Life.

GETTING YOUNGER

Curiosity—the feminine failing that kills more than the proverbial cat! When the young wife prys into the secret places of Hubby's sentimental past, she is likely to find much that will disturb her and if she be foolish, carry it to the extreme of killing his lover for her.

A snapshot of the little telephone operator, a stage beauty, whom she easily recognizes; snapshots of dozens of mysterious, unknown lovely ladies who bother her imagination and shake her confidence. All of whom her husband had relegated to the limbo of forgotten things until she drags them to the light and then—the tragedy.

If she's a wise girl, she'll treat it all as a joke; if she's foolish, she'll let it ruin, not only her happiness but his. So be wise and laugh, for a laugh often averts a tragedy.

TRUE ROMANCE

The Great Adventure

THIS year, again, five hundred Peterborough youngsters will stride gallantly forth to meet and conquer the threatening ogre of living expenses.

Without experience, with few set preferences in merchandise—and with enthusiasm as their only ally—they will demand from the merchants of Peterborough the inevitable requisites of home-making.

Two hundred and fifty boys will set off for two hundred and fifty jobs with high purpose and renewed determination.

Two hundred and fifty girls, wondering a little, will plan two hundred and fifty homes . . . . and seven hundred and fifty meals a day.

Together, they will excitedly ponder the spending of thousands of dollars.

What kitchen utensils? What furniture? Which curtains? The selection of a rug becomes a problem of infinite dimensions. The buying of a vacuum cleaner is a great adventure! Silverware. Linen. China. Glassware. New food products to meet their divergent tastes . . . . which they stoutly maintain are exactly alike!

Young hopefuls. More alert than any generation the world has ever produced. A generation of readers, trained to recognize advertising as a source of information and a guide to values.

They want two hundred and fifty talking machines . . . . pianos . . . . radios . . . . cars. Some will be able to buy them now. The rest will choose them now.

During this year, the first of wedded life, advertising will give them established preferences in merchandise and in places where they buy it. Familiar store names will spring to their lips . . . . laying the foundation for the buying habits of a lifetime. Next year they will be added to those other thousands who patronize advertising stores as a matter of course.

And The Peterborough Examiner, supreme in its field, is the only medium by which Peterborough merchants can reach these young people just starting The Great Adventure.

CHAIN STORES ENTER MERGER

Arnolds and Pure Food Groups Are To Form One Company.

HAVE 126 STORES.

MONTREAL, February 24 (Canadian Press). — Announcement has been made here of the proposed amalgamation of two chain store groups with connections throughout Ontario and Quebec. The plan involves the Pure Food Stores Limited and Arnolds Brothers Limited, and the new company will be known as the Consolidated Food Products, Limited . The authorized capital of the new company will be composed of 200,000 shares without nominal or par value. The merger will bring under one management 126 stores distributed as follows:

Montreal 58, Toronto 40, Ottawa 13, London 2, Oshawa 2, and one each in Woodstock, Stratford, St. Thomas, Brantford, Galt, Guelph, Chatham, St. Catharines, Kingston, Belleville, and Brockville.

Cavan

CAVAN, Feb. 25.—Mr. E. Touchburne is spending a few days in Toronto and Hamilton.

Mr. Walter Sharp was a visitor to Toronto this week.

Miss Cathcart and niece, Miss Audrey Cathcart, spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. William Cathcart, of Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tinney were visitors to Toronto last week.

Mr. Harold Kincade has been ill for the past week with pneumonia.

Mrs J. C. Swain spent the week-end with her daughter, Mrs. G. Hill, of Peterborough.

Mr. G. Howden is visiting his sister in Peterborough.

CAVAN, Feb. 25.—Mr. Harold Kincaid is seriously ill with pneumonia.

Mrs. William Cathcart, of Peterborough, was the guest of Miss Winona Cathcart on Wednesday.

Mr. Harry Tinney was a visitor to Toronto on Monday.

Nearly all the farmers in this district attended the banquet in Millbrook on Tuesday in honor of James Seymour and sons.

Quite a number attended the pot-luck dinner held at Mr. Crayton Carr's.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Sutton celebrated their sixth wedding anniversary last Wednesday, when about fifty of their friends gathered at their home and presented Mrs. Sutton with a wicker workbasket and Mr. Sutton with a smoking set.

CAVAN, Feb. 25.—Miss A. Stark has returned from a visit with friends in Peterborough. She was accompanied by Miss Isabel Oke.

Mr. Ralph Staples spent the week-end with friends at Springville.

Mrs. S. Fisher, Cobourg, was a guest of her sisters, Mrs. Milligan and Miss Nelly, for a few days, going from there to visit friends in Peterborough.

Owing to the heavy snow fall and consequent bad roads, the west end of R.R. No. 1, Frazerville did not receive any mail on Monday. Whitfield's School was also closed for the day.

There was a good attendance at Cavan Sunday School on Sunday afternoon, but by evening it became so stormy that few ventured out for the service.

There is a good deal of illness in the district just now and doctors from Millbrook and Bethany had a very bad roads to travel to visit their patients on Monday and Tuesday.

CLAIMS TO BE NEVILLE

Here are two San Francisco photos of the man arrested there under the name of John Montague. He denies being the person wanted, declaring he is John Nelles G. H. Nelville. He admits being a Canadian. A warrant from Chicago, where he is wanted to face charges arising from stock deals involving $25,000, describes him as being 29 years old, but the California records gives his age as 27. This man's alleged financial exploits in California and Illinois recall the Ontario career of Herbert John Neville, who for some time operated a brokerage office in Toronto and who later transferred his activities to England.

Trent River

TRENT RIVER, Feb. 25.—Mrs. Henry Wood has been ill with bronchitis.

Recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Redden were Mr .and Mrs. Howard Redden of Saskatchewan; Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Redden of Stanwood; and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel McGee of Elgin.

Miss L. Chaplin has recovered from her recent illness and has resumed her duties at school.

The attendance at the public schools has been less than half owing to the prevailing epidemic of severe colds among the children.

Mr. and Mrs. Dobschea and son, Frank, are spending the winter at their home, "Puff Ball Inn." Mrs. Dobschea is still confined to bed, as the result of fracturing her hip some weeks before Christmas. Mr. Dobschea and son are storing ice for the coming summer.

While on business, a little north of Havelock, Mr. Charles Spencer tied his horse and cutter to a tree, but on his return found that the horse had broken loose and was gone. Thinking the horse had returned home, Mr. Spencer walked, but when he arrived the horse was not there. Later in the evening the horse was found at Spencer's Mills, north of Havelock, with part of the harness but no cutter.

The annual lawn tennis tournament for the women's indoor championships of the United States will be held on the Longwood courts the week of March 12.

RHEUMATIC PEOPLE CAN OBTAIN RELIEF

By Enriching Their Blood With Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Rheumatism is a disorder of the blood. It attacks people when the blood is thin and impure, thus setting up inflammation of the muscles and joints. Wet or cold weather may start the pains of rheumatism, but is not the cause. The cause is in the blood. Hot applications or rubbing with liniments may ease the pain, but do not reach the cause and the pains are soon back again. To get rid of this most painful trouble you must treat it through the blood and for this purpose nothing else can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which from first dose to last actually make new, rich blood thus driving the rheumatic poisons from the system. Mr. Henry E. Amiro, Lower East Pubnioc, N.S., tells what these pills did for him. He says:—"I had an attack of acute rheumatism so bad that I could not walk a hundred yards without so much suffering that I would feel faint. I could not do the least work, and any movement caused great pain. I was under the care of a doctor but did not improve much. Then reading of a similar case in a newspaper I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. By the time I had used three boxes, there was no doubt they were helping me. I took altogether about a dozen boxes when I was entirely relieved of the trouble, able to walk four miles to my work, chop wood all day, and then walk home again. To anyone suffering from rheumatism I can strongly recomend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 can strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Hastings

HASTINGS, Feb. 25.—Mrs. William Warner, who was operated upon in Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, recently, is in a very critical condition.

Mr. and Mrs. William Londerville left on Wednesday for their new home in Oshawa.

The recent storm blocked the main road from town, for the first time this winter that the cars have been unable to run.

Mr. Everett Hess heard over his radio, recently, a pipe organ selection from St. Paul's Cathedral, London, England.

Mr. Walter Fowlds, who has been confined to his home through illness, is able to be about again.

Miss Audrey McIlmoyle of Lakefield, spent the week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. McDonald.

Miss Jean McDonald of Peterborough Normal School, spent the week-end at her home here.

COMPOSITOR MADE A "HAPPY ERROR"

Not Far Wrong in Calling James I a "Gink," Paper Thinks.

HAMILTON, Ont., Feb. 25.—"Once in a while", says The Hamilton Herald, "a typographical error causes a newspaper to blunder into a truth. That happened to our clever neighbor The St. Catharines Standard the other day. Somebody had written to the information editor inquiring about King James the First of England, and this was the concluding sentence of the reply: 'He was crowned King of England in 1603, and thus Scotland and England came under the rule of one gink.' By a transposition of the first and last letters of the word, aJmes Stuart was transformed (in print) from a monarch to an undesirable human type. In a subsequent issue The Standard made the explanation called for, and handsomely apologized to James for the indignity it had accidentaly done to his memory.

"But the error was a happy one" The Herald continues, "If ever there was a crowned gink, it was that same James Stuart. The word gink does not appear to be familiar to our lexicographers, but it is a very good word for all that. It means a person of uncouth manners and appearance, not endowed with much common sense. James the First was all that. His great contemporary, Henry the Fourth of France, called him 'the most learned fool in Christendon.' So The Standard's erring compositor was not so very far wrong, after all."

The "Why" of Willys-Knight Superiority

THE most important development in modern motor car engineering is the sweeping trend toward the high compression motor. High compression gives more power, insuring greater speed and the flashier activity so vital under today's traffic conditions.

Many high compression motors require special and more costly gas to prevent "knocking," even after limited mileage. With the Willys-Knight you can USE ANY GAS.

The patented Knight sleeve-valve engine, because of the exclusive, fundamental principle of its design, gives not only high compression, but uniform compression. The result is a smooth, even flow of power—at all times, at all speeds. For maximum sustained efficiency, mile after mile, year after year, the Knight-powered car has set high standards all its own.

See and drive the finer Willys-Knight at your earliest opportunity. Admire its beauty, relax amid its luxury, and thrill to performance possible only with the simplest and most efficient power plant ever designed.

Willys-Knight Sixes range in price from $1,480 to $3,695. All prices are f.o.b. Factory, Toronto. :: Taxes extra.

FIVE GREAT HAZARDS OF EVERY LIFE

Interesting statements in annual report of Metropolitan Life — Company Breaks Life Insurance Record in Canada in 1927 Accomplishments

Those who have made a study of the subject state that there are five great hazards facing every human being, hazards that assume graver proportions when they directly affect that social unit called the family. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company summarizes them in its annual report, indicating what a life insurance company can do, should do and what, so far, it has been unable to do toward meeting them. In their order they are: Death, which may come early, before one's dependents have been provided for; Accident, always sudden and often causing lessened earning power; Sickness, which may cause want as well as suffering; Dependent Old Age, which must seek charity if self-support is no longer possible, and Unemployment, which may bring distress to others in addition to the one unemployed. It is shown that almost every financial requirement can now be met by insurance—annuities for old age, protection in case of death, accident or sickness. Only unemployment insurance is missing, and that only because legislation permitting it has so far been refused. The day is sure to come when every family can and will plan to meet every one of the five great hazards. But even today, if they will plan ahead, workers can provide for both present and future needs, so as to enjoy in years of retirement, not merely bare existence, but real comfort, According to the figures just issued, Metropolitan created in 1927 the greatest record ever made in life insurance in Canada. Insurance issued, revived and increased amounted to $194,948,664. This figure comprised $91,544,576 Ordinary, $76,417,689 Industrial and $26,986,399 Group, being an increase over 1926 of $26,086,641. Insurance in force in Canada at the end of 1927 was $769,114,229, an increase over 1926 of $64,202,874, and being covered by 2,467,977 policies in force in the Dominion, a gain over last year of 118,073. It is interesting to note that Metropolitan investments in Canada have increased over fifteen millions in the past twelve months, reaching the figure of $153,194,442. Since it has operated in Canada Metropolitan has invested here, or spent in the Dominion millions of dollars more than have been received in premiums on Canadian business. Policyholders in Canada were paid $11,560,367 in 1927, which was $1,481,360 more than in 1926. Metropolitan have issued a Home Budget Booklet which tells how much should be spent for necessities—food, housing, clothing, fuel—and how much should be laid aside for protection. Any reader may obtain a copy, without cost, by writing to Canadian Head Offices, in Ottawa, and mentioning this paper.

OSTEOPATH LOSES FIGHT FOR TITLE

Supreme Court Denies Him the Right To Be Called "Doctor."

TORONTO, Feb. 25. — (Canadian Press.)—That osteopaths are not entitled to use the prefix "dotoor" is the decision of the Second Divisional Court which yesterday gave judgment dismissing the appeal of Hubert Pocock from the decision of Judge Denton, who had previously denied his appeal from a conviction. "The court is of the opinion," says Chief Justice Latchford, "that Mr. Pocock used the word doctor as an occupational designation relating to the treatment of human ailments and that he is therefore guilty of a breach of the Ontario Medical Act. The appellant's addition of osteopathy after his sign simply indicated the method which he, professing to be a doctor in the sense in which that word is ordinarily understood, used in the treatment of such ailments."

GRAIN CHAMPION STAYS IN CANADA

Herman Trelle Will Not Accept Offers From Movie Firms.

EDMONTON, Alta., Feb. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Seeing Dad and Mother in the movies will not be the lot of the children of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Trelle. The latter, farmer, of Peace River, Alberta, 1926 world's wheat champion, 1927 world's oat champion, and runner-up for the 1927 world's wheat championship, does not intend to forsake Alberta.

The offers that were made to Mr. Trelle were from several large real estate and moving picture concerns. The latter would like to use him in the movies for the advancement of educational work along agricultural lines, using him as a sort of pivot head.

Baseball is taking on a lively interest at the University of Southern California, with the prospect of a six week's trip to Hawaii, Japan and Korea this spring.

Western Farm Lady Wins Prize For Name

TORONTO, Feb. 25.—Mrs. Hilda Pain, a rancher's wife, of Eubrne, B.C., has been awarded the prize of $1,000 offered by The MacLean Publishing Co. for the best name for its new magazine for Canadian women. The title suggested by Mrs. Pain, "The Chatelaine", was selected as most suitable from more than 75,000 names submitted by men and women residing in every corner of Canada.

Mrs. Pain's home is a modest farm house near Elburne, situated on Lulu Island, across the Fraser River from Vancouver. Mrs. Pain, while born in London, England, is a thoroughly Canadian woman of many interests, keen progressive and intelligent, yet with her heart in her home.

The Encyclopoedia Britannica's definition of the word is as follows:

"The title of the mistress of the castle or chateau. From the custom of a chatelaine to carry the keys of the castle suspended from her girdle, the word is now applied to the collection of short chains often worn by ladies, to which are attached various articles of domestic and toilet use, as keys, penknife, needlecase, scissors, and so forth." This last meaning suggests a collection of things feminine.

Olive Redman and Alice Pye are nineteen-year-old twin sister now residing at 234 Gliddon avenue, Oshawa, Since they were eighteen months old, until a year ago, they were raised apart, Olive in Oshawa and Alice in England. The reason their surnames do not correspond is that they were brought up by different foster-parents. For a long time the zoology department of Chicago has endeavored to find a case such as this, which is very rare, for a study of the influence of environment and comparison of physical and general characteristics. Dr. Bertha Mitchell was assigned by the univer- to visit these girls in Oshawa. They resembled each other so closely that it is difficult to tell "which is which" and Dr. Mitchell is comparing them now as to their mental ability, finger prints and many other phases which are calculated to be of aid in research work. ELECTRIC MOTOR TESTED IN PLANE

Lindbergh and Lamphier Said To Have Made Tests at Selfridge.

DETROIT, February 25 (Canadian Press).—The Detroit Free Press says to-day that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Major Thomas G. Lanphier yesterday tested a new type of motor at Selfridge, which is powered by electric magnetism instead of gasoline.

The paper says that the inventor of the motor is Lester J. Henderhot of Pittsburgh, who participated in the test along with D. Barr Peat, his business manager, also of Pittsburgh.

The Free Press does not identify the person who is said to be authority for the story other than to declare he is one of the group, Lindbergh, Henderhot, Peat, or Lanphier. Lindbergh and Lanphier declined to be interviewed. Peat and Henderhot could not be reached.

BARRIE RINK WINS PRIZES

TORONTO, February 25 (Canadian Press).—G. O. Cameron's rink, of Barrie, won the premier honors at the Toronto Bonspiel, which concluded here to-day, carrying off the North American Life trophy and the grand aggregate. The Barrie rink won the North American trophy by besting W. J. Wray's Belleville rink 15 to 6 shots and captured the Royal York trophy, emblematic of the grand aggregate, by winning the most games of any rink in the 'spiel. They had 13 wins and only two losses. H. H. Chisholm's Toronto Victoria rink won the Wrigley trophy by a 9-7 win over the Lakeview, Toronto, rink skipped by Charles Snow and the Seiberling trophy went to H. A. Bruce's Stratford rink by virtue of the default of the Rev. J. S. Shortt's Barrie rink by 12-10.

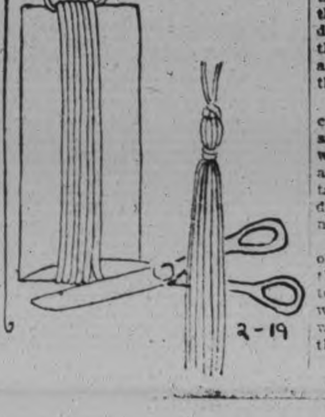
A New Trimming to Make at Home

TASSELS form one of the newest of the new trimmings.

If you buy them, they are rather expensive. But you can easily make them. And this is the way.

Use twisted silk, the twisted kind that comes in skeins or on a spool. Be sure to get a silk that will not ravel out when it is cut. The skeined kind is perhaps better because it does not curl. Sometimes that unwound from a spool curls a little, due to the curved surface of the spool. But of course you can straighten out the curl if you lay the silk, folded in tassel lengths, and sprinkled slightly, in a folded napkin between two heavy dictionaries or other books.



Now, to make the tassels, determine first how long you want them. Then cut a card the length of the tassel, from top to tip.

Lay a double strand of the silk across the card and then wind the silk around and around the card until you have enough strands to make the size tassel you want.

Pull up the double strand you first laid over the card to the end of the card, and pull up the ends and loop them, ready to pull tight into a knot. Now with a thin, sharp pair of shears cut the loops of silk at the other end of the card and draw up the looped string into a tight knot. Make it a double or triple knot, so that it will be firm.

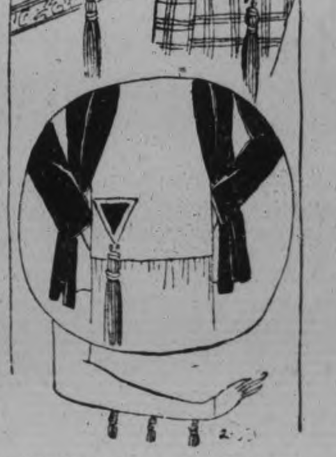
Now a fourth or fifth of the way from the top of the tassel—from the tied end—wrap a strand of the silk around the tassel three or four times and cut off the ends; tuck them into the tassel so that they don't show. The easiest way to do this may be to thread the ends into a needle and thus hide them inside the tassel.

You can make the tassels of two-colored silk, half the strands on one side, half on the other. Or you can wind two colors together around and around the card so that the finished tassel, instead of being two-colored, divided evenly into two sides, will be mixed of the two colors of silk.

It is a good plan to leave enough of the thread with which you hold the strands of silk together at the top of the card to sew the tassel on with. This makes a sure, staunch way of fastening it on, and obviates the necessity of finishing off ends.

You can make cotton tassels of cotton embroidery thread for summer frocks.

The sketch shows several ways of using tassels effectively.



The sketch shows some of the interesting new trimming ideas. A long, tight sleeve is decorated with three tassels, and there is a new treatment of a belt, a collar and a pocket.

A Graceful Afternoon or Evening Frock

Exceedingly graceful is the frock pictured here. The two-piece pointed skirt is gathered to a bodice having the lower edge slightly rounded, thereby giving a graceful line. The attractive arrangement of the surplice effect is effectively shown, and there are lace shields at the front and back. The long pointed sleeves may be omitted for evening wear, if desired, thereby making this frock suitable for many occasions. An added note of contrast is introduced in the flowers placed at the shoulder and hip closing. No. 1501 is for Misses and Small Women, and is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 (36 bust) requires 3½ yards 39-inch material, or 2⅝ yards 54-inch, and ⅝ yard allover lace for the shields. Price 25 cents the pattern.

Many styles of smart apparel may be found in our Fashion Book. Our designers originate their patterns in the heart of the style centers, and their creations are those of tested popularity, brought within the means of the average woman. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 1928.

Astrologers read this as rather a menacing day in planetary direction—a day that should encourage attendance at church and avoidance of many personal contact.

There is an aspect tending to make both men and women dodge the truth and even practice deception.

Family quarrels should be prevented even more cautiously than usual, for under this direction of the stars they may easily become serious.

Divorces and marital troubles are supposed to be precipitated under this planetary government which is supposed to encourage deception and double-dealing.

Preachers may find congregations lukewarm today, for the stars incline hearers to be more interested in material than in spiritual matters.

Churches should avoid entanglements in political issues, the seers warn, for there are many avenues of service that may be closed, if prejudice and uncharitableness reign.

This is read as unfavorable for meeting between persons of opposite sex and acquaintances begun today may be most unsatisfactory in the future.

Warning is given against indulgence in criticism or faultfinding of any sort. This is one of the evidences of foolish egotism.

The seers foretell a nation-wide agitation to restore a sense of the sacredness of human life. Increase of murder and suicide will be marked the first half of 1928, they predict.

The speculative tendency, which will be demonstrated as widespreda this year will increase gambling, astrologers foretell.

Women as well as men will indulge in rash ventures that will entail heavy losses, it is forecast, and society will play cards with hectic interest.

The desire for excitement is to reach its climax in this decade when the search for pleasure will bring about serious results, the seers warn.

Persons whose birthdate it is should not lend money in the coming year and they should be especially careful in making contracts.

Children born on this day probably will have executive and constructive ability. Many able architects are born under this sign.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1928.

Good and evil aspects contend today, according to astrologers, who read the planetary influences as most uncertain.

While there is likely to be a stimulation of physical energy under this direction of the stars it is well to be careful about how it is used.

There is a sign that indicates lack of judgment and a tendency toward hasty decisions, while this configuration prevails.

Special temptation to speculate is indicated under this sway and it is well to avoid risky ventures while this rule continues.

This should be a day favorable to the ambitions and the activities of women especially those who are engaged in any sort of executive work.

Increase in the number of women bankers and financiers is foretold and several will gain national fame within the year.

This should be a fortunate wedding day, making for progress and continued unity of ambition. Children will be especially helpful and devoted.

Theatres should make the most of this evening's possibilities, for the stars seem to favor the drama and those concerned in it.

Again great changes in the management of theatres and the production of plays are forecast. Art is to have a strong influence.

This is a lucky day for all who are engaged in the strictly intellectual vocations. Thinkers should benefit from the configuration.

The seers warn that newspapers will reveal widespread political corruption in the next few months.

The press will profit greatly and will become an even greater power for reform than in the past, astrologers prophesy.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of travel, change and new work in the coming year.

Children born on this day probably will enjoy extraordinary success in life. The subjects of this sign are usually imaginative.

Hints on Etiquette

1. Is it proper to wear a Spanish shawl over your shoulders at an ordinary dance?

2. Is it permissible to carry one over your arm for color into a dining room or dance hall?

3. What can you do with it there?

The Answers.

1. A Spanish shawl is a wrap and out of place on a dance floor.

2. Yes, though it tends to look as if you were showing it off.

3. Throw it over the back of your chair.

ELIMINATE JOLTS WHERE RAILS JOIN

New Type of Rail Has Foot and Head as Separate Parts.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 25.—(Canadian Press).—A new kind of rails for railroads, said to embody the solution of several problems now confronting the railway builders and more economical and safer in use, has been invented by a Swedish engineer. The new rail consists of two different parts, the foot and the head, joined together in zigzag fashion and in such a way as to eliminate the jolts when the wheels pass over the rail joints, thus ensuring long wear and durability while greatly reducing the risk of rail breaks. When changing the rail, only the top part is removed, while the foot remains, the latter not having been exposed to wear and joined to the sills more securely than the usual kind of rail. Experts claim that the new rail will be considerably cheaper in use, easier to change, and that it will eliminate the "wandering" or displacement of the rails while reducing the wear on the rolling stock.

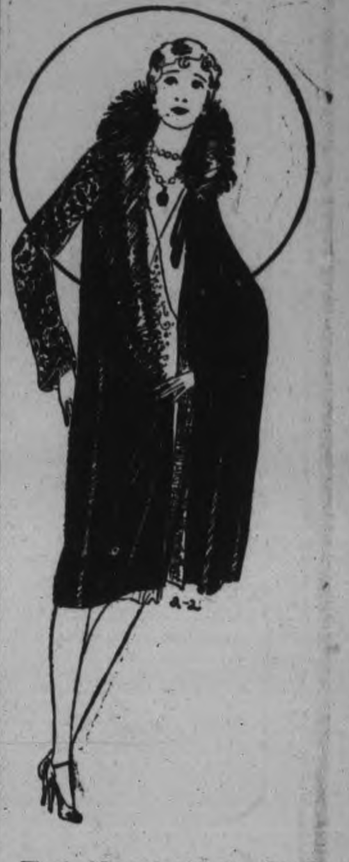
DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL



Worth of Paris develops the one-side cape idea in this evening wrap of red chiffon velvet with brocade lining.

The smartest of the new cape coats are made with the cape effect extending only across one shoulder and half of the back. And there is something extremely swagger about the effect. But it is a fashion for the tall—or at least the slender.

An extremely smart example of this sort of thing is a new spring coat of black satin made with a fairly long cape section over the right side. There is a collar of black monkey fur and a fringe of the same fur is used across the lower edge of the cape.

Another variation on the cape theme is a cape at the back only. These capes and the one-side cape pieces are frequently—and should always be—made so that they may be removed or put on at will. A few snappers or hooks and eyes will do the trick.

This one-sided cape idea is one that has also been carried out in some of the more elaborate negligees. One rose-colored chiffon negligee shows a one-side cape effect that extends down longer than the skirt of the negligee—so that it seems more like a bit of back drapery than any sort of cape.

Sometimes there is a one-sided effect to the collars on the new coats—a rever on one side only or a rever of one sort and of still another sort on the other. And there has been much talk of late about the furless coat—and many of the smart coats sold for Southern wear are of this genre.

Quite the most interesting of new coats that I have seen showed a fur collar of extremely soft and pliant mole and shaped in a triangle arranged precisely like a folded kerchief with the ends brought around to the side front; where they were tied—giving the effect of the popular kerchief. The collar was attached to the coat at the back but there are separate fur collars made of the softest and lightest of furs, and lined with georgette to be used in this way. It is a fash ion that I think deserves to find favor with well-dressed women.

Says that All Other Remedies Failed

She Then Found Relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills

"I was troubled with Backache for quite a long time," writes Miss G. M. Howells, Kenaston, Sask. "After trying several different kinds of pills and tablets and as my people used Dodd's Kidney Pills for years, I thought I would try some, too, with great results. After taking a few pills my Backache left me. I now feel all right, but always keep a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills on hand."

Backache is generally Kidney Ache. This pain usually indicates some affection of the Kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills relieve Backache by toning up the Kidneys to do their work of straining all the impurities, all the poisons, out of the blood.

All Saint's Capture Midget Church League Final

SAINTS DEFEAT MARK ST. CREW BY 2 TO 1 COUNT

Victors Have Edge Over Opponents Throughout Most of Tussle.

SUDDEN DEATH GAME.

Both Goalies Show Good Work in Holding Up Their End of Battle.

In a sudden death game played at the Brock street rink for the Midget church league honors, All Saints nosed out the Mark street youngsters by a 2-1 victory As neither team had lost a game in the league they put up a snappy battle when they clashed last night. The Saints were slow to start in the first period but seemed to have a slight edge over opponents in the other two sessions.

The game was clean and fast throughout with splendid work by both goalies. The brand of hockey played was a credit to the teams and showed how well such leagues help to develop true sportsmen who may sometime carry the name of Peterborough in further fields.

On the face-off, Cadd got the puck, went down the boards and shot, to have his put cleared safely by Ferguson. Calladine showed fine stick handling, but was watched too closely by Jay and Smith. Mark St. forwards begin to show little combination play, but back checking by the Saints wrecked it. Sanderson's fine save robbed Hunter and Forbes of a counter after a two man rush The Saints began to show up better towards the end of the period.

Saves Teammates.

Ferguson in the net for Mark St. gang, saved his teammates from further disgrace by his sterling performance between the goal posts. After several fast attacks Cadd passed to Jay, who scored to make initial counter for All Saints. Hunter and Lipsett were robbed off a tally mark by Sanderson throwing himself on top of the puck several times in front of the draperies after a combined rush down the ice. Calladine checked Jay after a rush by Forbes, Hunter and Calladine and beat Sanderson on a low close-in shot. This tied the score 1-1 and incited the Saints to much greater efforts to break. the count

The third session opened with the Saints rallying to break the tie Jay starred on the forward line but Ferguson's fine work robbed him of scoring. Hope tallied up a marker to give All Saints one goal lead after much stick work around the mouth of the opposing net. The Mark street youngsters tried hard to even the score but the defensive tactics of the Saints held them down. Smith drew the only penalty of the game for back checking.

The line-up:

All Saints: Goal, Sanderson; defence, Smith and Johnson; centre, Cadd; wings, R. Hope and G. Jay; subs, Stewart and Dunkerly.

Mark street: Goal, C. Ferguson; defence, E. Wright and C. Forbes; centre, N. Calladine; wings Lipsett and M. Hunter; subs., T. Hill and B. Mitchell.

PULP AND PAPER INDUSTRY IN CANADA.

Acording to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics report for the year 1926 the pulp and paper industry of Canada represented a total capital investment of $501,185,000, found employment for 31,279 persons (exclusive of those employed in the woods) whose wages and salaries for the year amounted to $44,175,500, while the gross value amounted to $215,488,000. The export trade of $120 in 1890 for this industry is often contrasted with the present corresponding figure of $187,559,000 to demonstrate the remarkable expansion during the intervening period.

Hold-out Problem Regarding Regular Pitchers Solved For Washington Club.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb 25 (Canadian Press).—The problem of pitchers who might be classed holdouts, usually the thorn in the side of major league managers, continues to harass some baseball bosses as the initial week of the 1928 training season draws to a close, but so far as the Washington Senators are concerned, Clark Griffith has only one of his regulars to worry about.

Griffith was notified at Tampa yesterday by Fred Marberry and Garland Braxton, both counted on for regular moundsmen that they had agreed to terms and were starting for the training camp to sign contracts. With Tom Zachary having signed earlier in the week, only "Sad Sam" Jones remains away from the fold.

He, however, with several slingers from various clubs has until March 1 to make known his intentions, an earlier managerial edict having pronounced that none would be considered actual holdouts until that date.

Among other pitchers from whom no word has been received and whose contracts are unsigned are Flint Rhem of the St. Louis Cardinals; Jimmy Ring of the Phillies; Dazzy Vance of the Brooklyn Robins; Waite Hoyt of the New York Yankees and Charlie Ruffing of the Boston Red Sox.

QUEEN MARY LOSE OUT IN FIRST GAME

Lose 6-1 Verdict to Prince of Wales in School League Finals.

FAST HOCKEY.

Individual Rushes and Heavy Body Checking Feature of Game.

Slashing their way through the opposing defence line, the Prince of Wales crew defeated Queen Mary 6—1 in the first game of the Public School finals at Brock Street Rink last night. Individual rushes and heavy body-checking seemed to be the feature of the game, with the victors having the edge of the play throughout most of the tussle. M. H. Park of Queen Alexandra School acted as referee, dealing out five penalties, three to Queen Mary and two to the victors. Harold Epps and George Jay starred for Prince of Wales, while Thirnbeck showed up well for Green Jersey boys.

Tied in First

In the first period both teams were about evenly matched, the goalies being called upon to make the same number of saves. Harold Epps scored the initial goal for the Prince of Wales, seventeen minutes after the play began, with Queen Mary tieing the count some six minutes later.

In the second frame, Prince of Wales struck their stride, carrying the play well into Queen Mary territory; George Jay tallying the two counters scored for the victors. Epps and Seabrooke scored two markers for the Prince of Wales in the first five minutes of play in the last frame, while the Queen Mary youngsters launched many attacks against the opposing lines in attempt to even up the count. Epps again scored in the final oments of play to end the game by a 6½1 victory

Line-up:

Prince of Wales—Goal, Ivan Pearson; defence, Fred Chambo and George Seabrooke; centre, Harold Epps; wings, George Jay and George Gatfield; subs., Richard Pearson and Harold Stuart.

Queen Mary—Goal, McCarroll; defence, R. Asquith and L. Mowry; centre, Thirnbeck; wings, Bath and McCulloch; subs, Wrighter and Lundy.

Score by Periods:

1st—Prince of Wales 1, Queen Mary 1.

2nd—Prince of Wales 2, Queen Mary, no score.

3rd—Prince of Wales 3, Queen Mary, No score.

BOSTON BRUINS PLAY AT MONTREAL

Final Scheduled Appearance Against Maroons in National League Fixture.

MONTREAL, Que, Feb. 25 (Canadian Press).—Boston Bruins will make their final scheduled appearance of the National Hockey League season here tonight, when Sprague Cleghorn leads them against the Montreal Maroons.

The tussle presents Maroons with a chance to widen their margin in third place over the Toronto Maple Leafs, their chief rivals for the position in the Canadian section, and also to draw closer to the Ottawa Senators, and second place.

While Maroons will be at full strength, Boston will be without Percy Galbraith, who left for Winnipeg last Tuesday night to attend the funeral of his father.

TIGERS DEFEAT SACRED HEART CANUCK CLUB

Close Back-Checking Wins 3-1 Victory For Striped Jerseys.

GOOD HOCKEY.

St. Peter's Defeated 7-1 By Immaculate Conception in N.H.S. Fixture.

Sacred Heart Canuck club boys were defeated 3-1 by the Tigers in a fast and interesting game played on Brock Street ice last night. Both teams were in fine fettle and put up a good exhibition of hockey, but the close back-checking of the Tigers won them the victory.

In the first period Rogers and Miller in the nets put up a good game, being called upon to save many fast shots, but each were beaten by one put while both teams were hard put to stem the attacks of the opposing line.

White replaced Rogers in the goal for the Canuck boys at the opening of the second frame, and put up a good battle but was beaten by one shot to have the score stand 2-1 in favor of the Tigers. The south-end boys were outskated by the victors in this period.

Both teams played hard in the third period and made many wild rushes while the goalies were called upon to make many saves, but White was beaten once again to have the game end in a 3-1 victory for the Tigers.

The line-up:

Sacred Heart—Goal, J. White and B. Rogers; defence, V. Lazure and J. Martin; centre, R. Courneya; wings, S. Burke and M. Collins; subs, B. Hatton, D. Jones, A. Evans.

Tigers—Goal, T. Miller; defence, G. Seabrooke and L. Johnson; centre, O. Craig; wings, G. Jay and H. Murphy; subs, E. Prete, S. Yeotes and D. Miller.

Scores:

Sacred Heart—S. Burke, first period.

Tigers—G. Jay, G. Seabrooke and H. Murphy.

Penalties—Sacred Heart: M. Collins 2, J. Martin 1. Tigers: H. Murphy 1, H. Jay 1.

St. Peter's Defeated 7-1.

Immaculate Conception won from St. Peter's 7-1 in a postponed midget game of the Holy Name League played at Sacred Heart rink last night. Houlihan starred for the victors, rounding up four of their markers. Merdock and Vienette were close behind. Reynolds scored the lone tally for St. Peter's.

The line-up:

Immaculate Conception—Goal, R. Leonard; defence, J. O'Dette and G. McCarthy; centre, Vienette; wings, J. Houlihan and Merdock.

St. Peter's—Goal, J. White; defence, J. Heard and G. Reynolds; centre, J. O'Brien; wings, K. Duffus and —.

S. P. S. Juveniles.

The following players are requested to turn out for the first game of juvenile play-offs Tuesday night, Feb. 27, at 7.45 sharp at the Sacred Heart rink: Mel. Anthony, John Carroll, John Mulvihill, Jerry Duffus, Jimmy Roach, Emmett McDonough, Teddy Griffin, Angus DeForge and Campanero.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By a Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

This week ain't much to write home about in the line of sport, Mac, but the 2 local jr. teams has kept it from being a total loss, and Mister Eddie Wright, the skipper of the srs., brung along the Port Hope Ontarios here for the fans to look over. I wasn't among them that attended the game with Port Hoper, but the boys tell me that the 2 Havelockers what wore Peterboro shirts that nite did some nice stuff, and I guess they must be right, for I see 4 markers in their name in the score column. That Mister Wright has looked good to me all season, Mac, although one bird sez that anybody that couldn't look good in the group he was in would hafta have creeping paralysis. I guess that bozo musta picked the wrong team to sink his dollar on.

Well, the Olympics is over, Mister Sporting Editor, and we got outa of it just what we expected, the hockey title. Outside of that we didn't do nothing much, and it is going to be some time before we beat some of them European skaters and skiers, anyway the way they run off the test. But the Grads come through and I hope, Mac, that Doc. Joe Sullivan nor none of the boys ain't got to go to some of them European health resorts because of the nerve strain of the serious. It musta been tough on the boys to go through 3 such hard games as them in a row. Honestly, though, Mister Sporting Editor, it looks to me like a lotta money coulda been saved if they had just sent Doc. Sullivan, Mister Red Porter, Mister H. Plaxton and Mister Trottier over and left the rest of the lads home to win the O.h.A. sr. championship. Them 4 woulda been pretty near good enough to cop the bacon at St. Moritz, judging by the scores, and you can't make me think they did all the net sagging they coulda neither.

I see where a bird out West sez we shouldn't waste money sending hockey teams to the Olympic, and that the jack could be used better to develop young material. For what? For the pros. Ain't it the truth that any time a good kid is brung along some scout slips in and nails him? We might just as well spend the money getting a little advertising in Europe, for we keep 8 or 10 lads outa the clutches of the pros. for 1 year anyway, while if we used it to develop juniors the cash and carry circuit'd take 'em and never even say "Thanks."

By the way, Mac, the Peterboro Collegiate kids is 1 Peterboro hockey team that has found the way to beat outside outfits. The boys from Central —I mean Confederation Square—has battled their way to the interscholastic finals, beating Port Hope, Bowmanville and Bracebridge, and when they play the final battle they oughta get a good house to encourage them. It costs money to travel—even for hockey teams—and any Peterboro outfit that can beat anybody certainly oughta be supported this year when everybody else has long ago took it on the chin and curled up.

Well, Mac, I ain't got the low-down on nothing else to tell you about, so I had better fade outa the picture.

Sportfully yours,

A. WISE CRACKER.

ONE-MINUTE INTERVIEWS

BABE RUTH SAYS:

I'll be in there swinging all the time, and when a guy takes his healthy cuts at the ball there is always a chance that he may break a record.

When I made 59 home runs back in 1921, I honestly didn't think there was a chance that I ever would break that mark. My failure to come even close in the next five years made me feel sure of it.

You can't bust any records with your bat on your shoulder, while the pitcher walks you or the umpire calls the third one. Last year the pitchers feared Gehrig as much, if not more, than me, and for that reason passed me much less than had been their custom. That gave me many more chances to hit.

Lou had a great year in 1927 and the twirlers in our league realized he was tough, if not tougher, than me to pitch to. For that reason, when I was up in a pinch last season with runners on the bases, instead of passing me and taking a chance on Gehrig, the pitchers put them over, made me do my stuff or strike out or pop up.

Sixty home runs are a lot to make in one season. I doubt if that mark is ever broken, unless they fill the ball with dynamite. Yet, if taking a healthy cut at every good ball will break that mark, the Babe will be in there as usual, swinging.

The many friends of Mr. Norman Powers will be glad to learn that he is able to be around again after his recent illness.

Mrs. N. Sevan has returned from an extended visit with her sister in Niagara.

OSHAWA WINS FRIENDLY GAME

General Motors Team Beats Campbellford on Home Ice.

FINAL SCORE 7-3.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 25.—In a friendly game at Davidson's Arena last night, Oshawa General Motors' team proved too snappy an aggregation for the local players. Coming from the motor city with seven men on their team, they returned with an average of a goal apiece and left the local boys with three goals to divide among ten of them. In fairness to the Campbellford team, the general opinion of the fans was that the home team would not win, but everyone hoped that they would, just the same. From the outset, Oshawa showed rare form and set a lively pace. The fact that each player carried the legend, "Motor City," and a large numeral on the back of his sweater, only made them look all the more speedy.

Penalties were not at all scarce and the local team seemed to be drawing the major portion of them. Oshawa was certainly fast, but they were good clean players and kept the game going strong. Clifford Weston, Campbellford, was referee, and found he had a man size job catching trips and off-sides at the same time as he dodged the fast moves of the play.

At the end of the first period, Campbellford seemed to have a little the edge of the play and was leading by a score of two to one. Fred Ingram scored the first goal and Horkins the second for Campbellford. The Oshawa goal was scored by Little on a pass from Elliott. In the first period the penalties went to Cowell, Horkins, Ingram and Hall, all for minor offences, and some of them purely accidental, but penalties according to the rules.

In the second period, Horkins got the only goal for Campbellford, while Oshawa scored three and took the lead with a count of four to three. Little got the first one on a pass from Elliott in practically the same manner as he managed to score in the first period. Whitton scored the goal which tied the score on a beautiful lone rush. Lord was not on the ice long during this period, but managed to give good account of himself while he was there by scoring the fourth goal for Oshawa in a scramble in front of the local net. The period ended four to three with Oshawa leading. McArthur was left in the penalty box for tripping.

The third period ended the fun for the Campbellford team when their visitors decided to increase their lead and tallied three more. In spite of every effort by the Campbellford team they failed to score, and the gong rang with the victory tucked securely under Oshawa's arm. But whether or not the home team did lose, the game was well worth seeing, and many of the old-timers readily admitted that they had seen few if any better games in amateur hockey circles. The attendance was about half what the arena would have accommodated, but with the approaching struggle with Tweed, the fans are inclined to take in only the most interesting games for the team. To win in Tweed means a chance in the play-off of the League. This is what the supporters of the team want, and they are saving their money and energy for Tweed on Monday.

The line-up:

Oshawa—Goal, Garrison; r. defence, Elliott; l. defence, Steven; centre, Whitton; r. wing, Little; l. wing, Arundle; sub, Lord.

Campbellford—Goal Fox; r. defence McArthur; l. defence, Ingram; centre, Horkins; r. wing, Ibey; l. wing Blute; subs, Cowell, McPherson, Hall, and Runions.

Referee—Clifford Weston, Campbellford.

JUNIOR PLAY OFF TO BE STAGED MONDAY NIGHT

Petes and Saints Meet For Fourth Time in City Title Series.

A REAL BATTLE.

Both Teams Confident That They Will Win the Final Argument.

The Peterboro Juniors and St. John's Junior O.H.A. team, tied on the round after three spectacular games, will settle the argument at Brock Street Rink on Monday night, and the battle should be the most interesting of the season.

Monday's game is made possible through the kindness of the City League Executive who had the rink engaged for that night, but postponed their fixture in order that the O.H.A. clubs could bring their exciting series to a close.

The Petes and Saints have played three games, and have scored ten goals each, the Saints winning the first two by a single goal on each occasion, while the Lebarr outfit came back in the third and tied up the round by winning 5 to 3.

That leaves it all up to Monday's game, and it promises to be a contest full of fireworks all the way, especially as the ice will likely be fast and give both teams a chance to show at their best. The Petes had a decided edge in the third battle, but St. John's hope to come back to their form of the first two games, and if they do, Monday's battle will be in doubt until the finish. The Saints have proved themselves a fighting team by the way they came from behind in the last period of the second game to win that argument, and then repeated the stunt in the final session of the third game to tie the round after they were three goals down, and that fighting spirit will tend to increase the interest in the play-off. Both camps are confident as to the outcome.

Monday's game will get under way at 8.15 o'clock with the line-up as follows:

Peterboro Juniors—Goal, Gillespie; defence, Lebarr and Hatton; centre, Jones; r. wing, Allin; l. wing, Kenneally; sub, White.

St. John's—Goal, Payne; defence, Johnston and Jarvis; centre, Cuthbertson; r. wing, T. Hall; l. wing, Hartley; subs, J. Hall, Dunkerley and Weir.

Lyrics of Life - By Douglas Malloch

THE ROAD THAT'S HARD TO FIND

The road was rough, and hard to find,
And dark as dark could be,
And I have troubles on my mind,
A way as hard to see.
But I remember I kept on,
And I remember night brought dawn,
A little later, I recall,
I found the right road, after all.

I walked, I recollect, a wood,
A wood where trails were few,
I stumbled on the best I could—
That's all there was to do.
That's all there is to do right now,
Is just to stumble on somehow,
To do the best I can, and pray,
And 'wait the breaking of the day.

I'm walking some such road tonight
A road as hard to grope,
But I keep watching for the light,
And won't let go of hope.
For I remember I kept on,
And I remember night brought dawn,
A little later, I recall,
I found the right road, after all.

THE BIG DIFFERENCE

You can find any number of used cars that appear to be in about the same condition.

The paint may look the same; the tires may show the same amount of wear. The general appearances may be about equal.

But what do they show inside? How do they compare at the vital points? There's the big difference.

To know that, you must rely entirely upon the used cars dealer from whom you buy.

Countless owners who have bought used cars from us will gladly tell you that we have never misrepresented any car we have sold.

Voice of the People

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner Office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

ABOUT THE SHELTER.

Mr. Editor: We have before us your issue of Wednesday last in which you give a lengthy report of the Board of the Children's Shelter. We believe that we were recently appointed to that board as a member, but pastoral duties that were urgent prevented me attending that meeting. If reports are right I will have to speed up on my work and not neglect the duties laid upon me, as it would appear Peterborough is a dreadful spot. A place of savages, of hard task masters. A few months ago an officer of another institution was before the public and the courts charged with maltreating an inmate; the whole province reported it. Now comes another, and this case, little children are the victims. In the first place, I think, Mr. Editor, more facts should have been given, and thorough investigation of charges made, before they were published. This I am told by Mr. Brooks were not made. I am now writing as a citizen and I am inclined to believe those reporting such charges had some other reasons behind them, or they may be these sentimental kind of women who know little about children. If they have any well——The kind who say—"You should never whip a child." "Dear little things, just give them a few sweeties when they are bad—" "O love the little darlings, it is love they want." Yes. Well. Sure. Yes; some of us remember days when we would have said, "Just our sentiments." "We vote for that." Nevertheless we also remember days—and such times. Apostle Paul would describe—"As grievious unto us, but nevertheless (we trust) yielded the peaceable fruits of righteousness." Perhaps if Anita, formerly of Toronto, had had a few more "thrills" when she was eight or ten years old, she would not be so anxious for the thrills of last few weeks that have been grievous to her friends. No, Mr. Edtior, I am not yet ready to vote the staff to scrap heap. Nevertheless I am not one who would say a teacher or guardian should have privilege of working off a vile temper on the end of a strap or stick.

As I have known Mr. Brooks just since coming here, yet with knowledge I have of him, I cannot believe him to be a cruel man.

Second charge, that to me is serious. "Children were dirty, flesh and clothing." I don't believe it. Those children are members of our Sunday school. I will challenge any one who does not know the children of the Shelter to come to our Sunday school and pick out one of them from our school by their clothing or appearance. And say we are not the slum class. Their faces and hands are clean, hair combed, and clothes real respectable. We say this for the board as well as for the caretaker and matron. They are also at our church services and a more orderly and respectful crowd of children you would not wish.

I wonder, Mr. Editor, what the Grand Jury last fall reported? What have the Public school teachers to say in their monthly reports?

Mr. and Mrs. Brooks I believe to be thorough Christian folks, and it is unfair to have them bear such an accusation as reported if they have no foundation.

Sincerely,
J. H. DUDGEON.

THEATRES

AT THE REGENT.

VERA REYNOLDS HAS MOST CHARMING ROLE IN NEW STAR COMEDY

"The Little Adventures" Said To Be DelightfulPicture in Every Respect.

Said to be one of the most captivating picture comedies of the year, "The Little Adventuress" will be on view at the Regent Theatre for three days beginning on Monday next The picture was directed by William de Mille, one of the ablest producers in the country and a brother of Cecil B. De Mille.

Fresh from her outstanding triumph in "Corporal Kate," Vera Reynolds plays the title role in this amusing story of a spatting married couple and the unusual events which transpire during a week end in the rural retreat of a wealthy bachelor. In the role of a charming artist, who, under the romantic spell of love-at-first-sight, elopes with a married man, Miss Reynods is said to have a delineation ideally suited to her piquant personality.

Victor Varconi, who scored so convincingly in "The Volga Boatman," and who since recently was seen opposite Marie Prevost in "For Wives Only," has the male lead in support of Miss Reynolds, his role being that of a bachelor happy in his bachelorhood.

Phyllis Haver is seen as the spatting wife of Robert Ober, who plays the husband who spats back. Theodore Kosloff also has an important characterization, that of a theatrical and affected young actor.

Clara Beranger adapted "The Little Adventuress" from A. A. Milne's successful vlay, "The Dover Road."

AT THE CAPITOL.

MATHESON LANG, DISTINGUISHED ENGLISH ARTIST, SUPERB IN "THE CHINESE BUNGALOW."

Those, who during the first Canadian visit of the great London actor Matheson Lang, were privileged to be present at the offering of his celebrated stage successes "The Wandering Jew," "Carnival," "The Tyrant" and "The Chinese Bungalow," will be among those present at the Capitol Theatre with the presentation in motion picture form of his greatest success, "The Chinese Bungalow." Acclaimed as greater than "Mr. Wu," the celebrated stage play with Walker Whiteside in the starring role, "The Chinese Bungalow," Matheson Lang's latest and greatest stage success was presented for the first time in Canada last season .

Matheson Lang achieves his greatest success as the sinister Mandarin Yuan Sing, in the amazing and lavish filmization of the play made famous by himself on the speaking stage. In the film version there is lost none of the dramatic force in this well-known play. Indeed, in some respects the power of the presentation is heightened through the latitude that is given the camera for the production of scenic effects. The story as depicted in the stage play is rigidly adhered to in the picture. No extraneous effects are permitted.

"The Chinese Bungalow" is an excellent example of the work that is being done by the English moviemakers.

AT THE GRAND.

"WINGS"

Of the making of war pictures there seems to be no end so far as the American producers are concerned and some of them undoubtedly deserve the satirical description Stephen Leacock gave of them the other night. Last night, however, a crowded house at the Grand was thrilled by a war picture of a different kind, a remarkable film story of the most spectacular feature of the great struggle, namely the fighting in the air.

"Wings" is a wonderful picture.

The first thought that it inspires is of course how such a film could be produced; how even the wealthiest motion picture company could get together the millions of dollars worth of war material used in the course of the action.

No company could of course unaided, and "Wings' was made possible only through the whole-hearted cooperation of the United States War Department, which supplied the fliers, the planes, balloon, officers, crew and equipment, artillery, tanks, trucks, wire, troops and high explosives featured in the film.

Army officers co-operated in directing and planning the war scenes. American troops represented the contending armies, and the spectacular aerial combats that hold the onlookers spellbound were performed by army fliers from the First Pursuit Flight, some of whom by the way comprised the Lindbergh's escort that flew over Peterborough on July 2 last.

With such resources at the command of the director a great picture was a possibility and they have been used so effectively that John Monk Saunders story of two men and a girl caught in the maelstrom of the the worlds greatest war becomes one of the most striking films the screen has yet shown. The story is simple and convincing, and even without the spectacular episodes would be full of interest, while with them it is what the theatrical profession likes to call a "smash." Clara Bow is the girl and is as winning as ever, while splendid work is done by Charles Rogers and Richard Arlen, the two heroes of the story; by El Brendel in a comedy role, and by other members of the cast.

But, excellent as it is, the acting takes second place to the action. It is the air scenes that makes "Wings" stand out. There are a dozen hair-raising episodes. Starting with a "dog-fight" in which ten planes are seen in action in a mad aerial scramble, guns spitting death, and machines crashing down on fire. Later there are exciting shots of balloons being shot down by pursuit planes and a thrilling battle between American aeroplanes and a huge German Gotha interrupted on a bombing raid. But perhaps the most spectacular of all is the advance at St. Mihiel, where all the machinery of modern warfare is seen in action and when Charles Rogers as "Pouilli" thinking his pal has been killed, sets out to avenge his death and, flying far over the German lines, strafes everything in sight—troops on the march, bridges and automobiles—in a series of as exciting episodes as the screen has ever portrayed.

Mechanical effects are used to great advantage to simulate the roaring of aeroplane engines, the bark of machine guns and other sounds of warfare, while a special score played by an augmented orchestra makes its contribution to the effect.

"Wings" is to be seen again at the Grand tonight. If you can get in, see this picture It has features that may not be duplicated on the screen for a long time.—F.D.C.

USE OF WINTER SQUASHES

Those who experience difficulty in securing enough varieties of winter vegetables will do well to study the use of the various forms of winter squashes which can be secured in the markets from October to late in the spring.

There are about fifty-five varieties in the squash family, varying from the small summer squash to the large, hard-shelled winter squashes, such as the pumpkin and Hubbard squash.

The principal food value found in these vegetable-fruit gourds is in the carbohydrate content which varies from 3% to 15%. They are also rich in alkaline elements of potash, soda and lime, and are excellent foods for those who have been in the habit of using too many of the acid-forming foods.

The early settlers in America found the pumpkin growing in the Indian corn fields, and soon learned to use this vegetable in a variety of ways. Pumpkin pie became a favourite dish, and this was so well liked that later on the settlers learned to use Hubbard squash in much the same way in making pies. In most parts of America today either squash or pumpkin is used in making what is called pumpkin pie, but in the New England states they frankly call either one of these pies by its proper name.

Besides being used for pie the pumpkin may be cut up and used in soups, boiled and mashed, baked in strips or baked whole. An excellent dish may be made from opening up one end of a small pumpkin, cleaning the seeds out, and filling it with a mixture of equal parts of ground round steak, minced celery and Melba toast crumbs. This mixture should be slightly moistened with milk, the pumpkin filled, and the top replaced, and the pumpkin baked in a slow oven for about forty-five minutes.

Hubbard squash has a very hard covering, and must usually be broken open with a hatchet. It is best prepared by baking after it has been cut into several pieces, and it may then be served by scraping out the soft portion and mashing thoroughly with the proper amount of cream.

The small pumpkin or small Hubbard squash makes an excellent medium starchy vegetable which may be added to a meal containing either starchy or protein foods. As these vegetables are a little more starchy than such vegetables as spinach, string beans and the small squashes, it is advisable to use only a limited amount at each meal, perhaps not over eight ounces, an amount which would fill an ordinary drinking glass. It is best to use one of the non-starchy vegetables at the same time in order to keep down the amount of starch at any one meal.

When these medium starchy vegetables are used it is wise to always use one or more salad vegetables at the same time, but best to exclude tomatoes or any of the acid fruits at this meal.

While the winter season is still on, vary your combinations by occasionally using one of these excellent winter foods.

Questions and Answers.

Question H. R. G. asks "Will you please tell me why my eyes are blood-shot? There are times when one or both are so, without any apparent reason."

Answer Blood-shot eyes are often caused by reflexes from some other part of the body, principally the alimentary canal. A disordered stomach from bad food combinations is probably the greatest common cause.

Question Mrs. R. J. C. writes "I have heard of a seed that one can eat to help gain weight. Will you tell me what it is, and if it really does do this?"

Answer There is a seed called the "fenugreek" seed which is eaten by women of the Orient in the belief that it will enable them to put on weight. It is a fruit of an Old World herb, of musculaginous nature. It is seldom used in this country except as an ingredient in curry powder, but is used in various ways in Greece and Egypt, as in bread-making, etc.

Question L. H. writes "I would like to know how to overcome sleepiness right after supper. We have supper at six o'clock, and sometimes by eight o'clock I begin to yawn, and thirty minutes later I am too sleepy to read any more."

Answer A sure cure for your trouble is to eat less and exercise more. Take some vigorous exercise just before the evening meal, and then make that meal very light.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

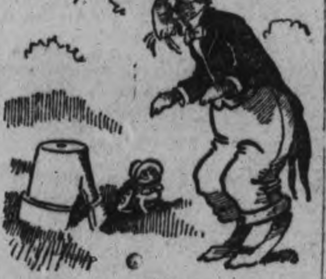
UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE POP GUN

"Good afternoon to you, Mrs. Hop. And how are you today?" asked Uncle Wiggily as he met the toad lady when he was skipping along the woodland path.

"Oh, I am very well," croaked Mrs. Hop. "But we have such a lot of trouble at our house."

"Trouble!" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "Is that so? I am sorry to hear it. What kind of trouble? Is Mr. Hop ill, or any of the children?"

"No, it isn't that kind of trouble, I am glad to say," went on the toad lady. "But our roof leaks and we can't seem to get it fixed. Of course we don't expect much more rain now, though snow may drift in if it gets much colder. And I suppose, as my family and I will soon be burrowing deep into the ground for our winter sleep, I suppose I should not mind a leaky roof. But I am thinking of next spring."



"The old flower pot is our house," she said..

"Yes, that's so, it will be spring before we know it, though it isn't yet Thanksgiving or Christmas," said Mr. Longears. "But why does your roof leak?"

"Because it has a hole in it," answered the toad lady.

"Ha! Ha! I might have guessed that for myself!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "But holes can be mended. I shall come and take a look at the hole in your roof," he went on. For the rabbit gentleman was kind, and always trying to help others.

"I'll show you our house—it's a new one," croaked Mrs. Hop. She led the way to a quiet little dingly dell in the woods and there Uncle Wiggily saw a red, earthen flower pot turned upside down. A piece was broken out of the side, near the rim, and this was like a front door into which Mrs. Hop skipped.

"This old flower pot is our house," she said to Uncle Wiggily. "My husband found it one day and we fixed it up for a summer cottage. It would be lovely except that the roof has a hole in it. Look in here," she invited Mr. Longears.

He was too large to get inside the flower pot house, of course, but he could stoop down and look in through the door. He saw how nicely the toads had fitted the place up. There were toadstools growing under the pot for seats, and soft beds of grass. Mr. Hop was there, staring up at the hole in the roof. It was a round hole and you will find one in the bottom of every earthen flower pot to drain the water out. Only of course when the pot was turned upside down the bottom became the roof and it had a hole in it.

"I can't think how to mend my roof!" croaked the toad gentleman sadly looking up. "It's all right now—but when it rains—oh, dear!"

"We can't sit in the middle at all," went on Mrs. Hop. "And I have to put a wash tub on the floor under the hole to catch the water."

"It is too bad," said Uncle Wiggily. "And it is going to be worse when spring comes. I will hop along and think a bit. Maybe I shall have an adventure and think of some way to mend the leak in your roof."

The hoptoads thanked the rabbit, who hopped away, thinking hard. Uncle Wiggily was thinking so much that he did not see the Fox slinking along in the woods behind him. The Fox had a popgun that shot corks, and the bad chap said to himself:

"I have tried many ways of catching Uncle Wiggily, and each one has failed. Even the Bob Cat couldn't catch that rabbit with a silver dollar that turned into a yeast cake. But I have never tried a popgun, so I shall use that."

With his gun loaded with a big cork, the Fox set out after the rabbit. All of a sudden Uncle Wiggily stopped and leaned over to tie the lace of his shoe.

"Now's my chance!" growled the Fox. He took quick aim and fired, but the cork, instead of hitting the rabbit, only popped into his coat pocket. However, it so frightened Mr. Longears that he ran as fast as he could and so got away from the Fox. And then, wondering what had popped into his pocket, Uncle Wiggily thrust in his paw and pulled out the big, round cork.

"Hurray!" suddenly cried the bunny gentleman. "Just what I need to stop the leak in Mr. Hop's house." Hurrying to the toad's home the rabbit stuck the cork in the round hole in the roof of the flower pot and made it as tight as a drum.

"Thank you!" croaked Mr. Hop. "Now no water will leak in." And none ever did. So this teaches us that those who live in flower-pot houses should always have a cork ready to stop a leak. And if the bread and jelly will take the lollypop for a ride on the bean-bag, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's jumpy ball.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR of THE BENSON MURDER CASE

© Charles Scribner's Sons

THE STORY THUS FAR

Vance believes Skeel innocent of the murder of Margaret Odell and that he lay hidden in a closet while the strangler did his work. Markham ridicules the theory but Vance is unshaken. Mannix, under pressure, reveals that he had been calling, the night of the murder, on a Miss Frisbee, who occupied the apartment adjoining the "Canary's." At five minutes to 12, he says, he saw Cleaver sneaking out the side door of the building—the door which was thought bolted on the inside all night. Markham confronts Cleaver with this information and asks him why he lied about his whereabouts.

CHAPTER XXXVI

For a long time there was tense silence. Then Cleaver spoke.

"I've got to think this thing out."

Markham waited patiently. After several minutes Cleaver drew himself together and squared his shoulders.

"I'm going to tell you what I did that night, and you can take it or leave it."

Again he was the cold, self-contained gambler. "I don't care how many witnesses you've got; it's the only story you'll ever get out of me. I should have told you in the first place, but I didn't see any sense of stepping into hot water if I wasn't pushed in. You might have believed me last Tuesday, but now you've got something in your head, and you want to make an arrest to shut up the newspapers——"

"Tell your story," ordered Markham. "If it's straight, you needn't worry about the newspapers."

Cleaver knew in his heart that this was true. No one—not even his bitterest political enemies—had ever accused Markham of buying praise with any act of injustice, however small.

"There's not much to tell, as a matter of fact," the man began. "I went to Miss Odell's house a little before midnight, but I didn't enter her apartment; I didn't even ring her bell."

"Is that your customary way of paying visits?"

"Sounds fishy, doesn't it? But it's the truth, nevertheless. I intended to see her—that is I wanted to—but when I reached her door, something made me change my mind——"

"Just a moment.—How did you enter the house?"

"By the side door—the one off the alleyway. I always used it when it was open. Miss Odell requested me to, so that the telephone operator wouldn't see me coming in so often."

"And the door was unlocked at that time Monday night?"

"How else could I have got in by it? A key wouldn't have done me any good, even if I'd had one, for the door locks by a bolt on the inside. I'll say this, though that's the first time I ever remember finding the door unlocked at night."

"All right. You went in the side entrance. Then what?"

"I walked down the rear hall and listened at the door of Miss Odell's apartment for a minute. I thought there might be some one else with her, and I didn't want to ring unless she was alone. . . ."

"Pardon my interrupting, Mr. Cleaver," interposed Vance. "But what made you think some one else was there?"

The man hesitated.

"Was it," prompted Vance, "because you had telephoned to Miss Odell a little while before, and had been answered by a man's voice?"

Cleaver nodded slowly. "I can't see any particular point in denying it . . . Yes, that's the reason."

"What did this man say to you?"

"Damn little. He said 'Hello,' and when I asked to speak to Miss Odell, he informed me she wasn't in, and hung up."

"That, I think, explains Jessup's report of the brief phone call to the Odell apartment at twenty minutes to twelve."

"Probably." Markham spoke without interest. He was intent on Cleaver's account of what happened later, and he took up the interrogation at the point where Vance had interrupted.

"You say you listened at the apartment door. What caused you to refrain from ringing?"

"I heard a man's voice inside."

Markham straightened up.

"A man's voice? You're sure?"

"That's what I said." Cleaver was matter of fact about it. "A man's voice. Otherwise I'd have rung the bell."

"Could you identify the voice?"

"Hardly. It was very indistinct; and it sounded a little hoarse. It wasn't any one's voice I was familiar with; but I'd be inclined to say it was the same one that answered me over the phone."

"Could you make out anything that was said?"

Cleaver frowned and looked past Markham through the open window.

"I know what the words sounded like," he said slowly. "I didn't think anything of them at the time. But after reading the papers the next day, those words came back to me——"

"What were the words?" Markham cut in impatiently.

"Well, as near as I could make out, they were 'Oh, my God! Oh, my God!'—repeated two or three times."

This statement seemed to bring a sense of horror into the dreary old office—a horror all the more potent because of the casual, phlegmatic way in which Cleaver repeated that cry of anguish. After a brief pause Markham asked

"When you heard this man's voice, what did you do?"

"I walked softly back down the rear hall and went out again through the side door. Then I went home."

A short silence ensued. Cleaver's testimony had been in the nature of a surprise; but it fitted perfectly with Mannix's statement.

Presently Vance lifted himself out of the depths of his chair.

"I say, Mr. Cleaver, what were you doing between twenty minutes to twelve—when you phoned Miss Odell—and five minutes to twelve—when you entered the side door of her apartment-house?"

"I was riding up-town in the Subway from 23d Street," came the answer, after a short pause.

"Strange—very strange." Vance inspected the tip of his cigaret. "Then you couldn't possibly have phoned to any one during that fifteen minutes—eh, what?"

I suddenly remembered Alys La Fosse's statement that Cleaver had telephoned to her on Monday night at ten minutes to twelve. Vance, by his question, had, without revealing his own knowledge, created a state of uncertainty in the other's mind. Afraid to commit himself too emphatically, Cleaver resorted to evasion.

"It's possible, is it not, that I could have phoned some one after leaving the Subway at 72d Street and before I walked the block to Miss Odell's house?"

"Oh, quite," murmured Vance. "Still, looking at it mathematically, if you phoned Miss Odell at twenty minutes to twelve, and then entered the Subway, rode to 72d Street, walked a block to 71st, went into the building, listened at her door, and departed at five minutes to twelve—making the total time consumed only fifteen minutes—you'd scarcely have sufficient leeway to stop en route and phone to any one.

"However, I sha'n't press the point. But I'd really like to know what you did between eleven o'clock and twenty minutes to twelve, when you phoned to Miss Odell."

Cleaver studied Vance intently for a moment.

"To tell you the truth, I was upset that night. I knew Miss Odell was out with another man—she'd broken an appointment with me—and I walked the streets for an hour or more, fuming and fretting."

"Walked the streets?" Vance frowned.

"That's what I said." Cleaver spoke with animus. Then, turning, he gave Markham a long calculating look. "You remember I once suggested to you that you might learn something from a Doctor Lindquist. . . . Did you ever get after him?"

Before Markham could answer, Vance broke in.

"Ah! That's it—Doctor Lindquist! Well, well—of course! . . . So, Mr. Cleaver, you were walking the streets? The streets, mind you! Precisely!—You state the fact, and I echo the word 'streets.' And you—apparently out of a clear sky—ask about Doctor Lindquist.

"Why Doctor Lindquist? No one has mentioned him. But that word 'streets'—that's the connection. The streets and Doctor Lindquist are one—same as Paris and springtime are one. Neat, very neat. . . And now I've got another piece to the puzzle."

Markham and Heath looked at him as if he had suddenly gone mad. He calmly selected a Regie from his case and proceeded to light it. Then he smiled beguilingly at Cleaver.

"The time has come, my dear sir, for you to tell us when and where you met Doctor Lindquist while roaming the streets Monday night. If you don't, 'pon my word, I'll come pretty close to doing it for you."

A full minute passed before Cleaver spoke; and during that time his cold staring eyes never moved from the district attorney's face.

"I've already told most of the story; so here's the rest."

He gave a soft mirthless laugh. "I went to Miss Odell's house a little before half past eleven—thought she might be home by that time. There I ran into Doctor Lindquist standing in the entrance to the alleyway. He spoke to me, and told me some one was with Miss Odell in her apartment.

"Then I walked round the corner to the Ansonia Hotel. After ten minutes or so I telephoned Miss Odell, and, as I said, a man answered. I waited another ten minutes and phoned a friend of Miss Odell's, hoping to arrange a party; but failing, I walked back to the house.

"The doctor had disappeared, and I went down the alleyway and in the side door. After listening a minute, as I told you, and hearing a man's voice, I came away and went home. . . That's everything."

(To be continued.)

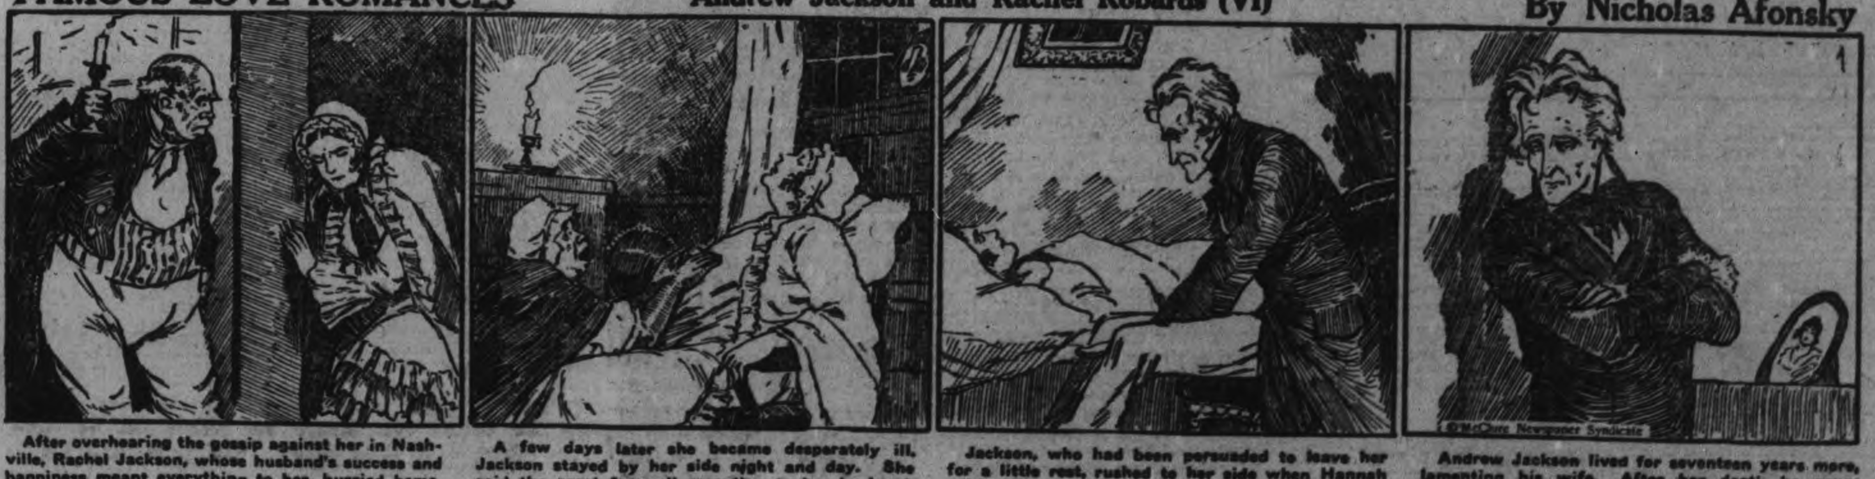
FAMOUS LOVE ROMANCES

Andrew Jackson and Rachel Robards (VI)

By Nicholas Afonsky



©McClure Newspaper Syndicate

After overhearing the gossip against her in Nashville, Rachel Jackson, whose husband's success and happiness meant everything to her, hurried home, determined that she would stay at the Hermitage, and not be a handicap to him in Washington. The negro servants, as she entered the house, said she looked "shot through the heart."

A few days later she became desperately ill. Jackson stayed by her side night and day. She said the great farewell reception to her husband, in honor of his coming inauguration, must go on. And she seemed to improve. But suddenly, in the night, she died in the arms of the old slave Hannah, who had just helped her into a chair.

Jackson, who had been persuaded to leave her for a little rest, rushed to her side when Hannah cried out. He stayed with his beloved wife's body for hours, trying to revive her. She was buried, dressed in the white satin she had bought for the reception, in the garden of the Hermitage. All Nashville came to the funeral.

Andrew Jackson lived for seventeen years more, lamenting his wife. After her death he never swore again, to honor her memory. He kept the pistol with which he had killed Dickinson always on his mantel piece. Shortly before he died, in 1845, at 82, he said: "Heaven will be no heaven to me if I do not meet my wife there."

ESTIMATES OF CITY'S NEEDS

ceeded in having it removed.

"The city is not large enough," he declared. "There's no end to these things."

"You have to pay a man," retorted Ald. Huffman. "Smaller places than this have them. Take Oshawa, St. Catharines, Cobourg."

"I think the one at Oshawa is a farce," declared Ald. Hamilton.

"I'm willing to have one for this year," said Ald. Phelan.

"It makes the city look more up-to-date," added Ald. Huffman. "On Saturday night it looks as busy as King and Young."

"I'm not willing to pay $500 for the appearance," answered Ald. Greene, moving that it be struck out. Ald Ackerman seconded the motion, claiming that it would make for confusion and delay with the buses.

"It was put in with the understanding that it was not to stand if the estimates were high," Ald. Huffman added. "I don't think it should be taken out while Ald. Cotton is not here."

The motion carried, four to one. Ald. Macdonald explained that he had known nothing about the matter until last night, but was inclined to favor the signals. The chairman pointed out that Aldermen Cotton, McIntyre and himself were in favor of the signals and would counteract the vote. The amount was struck out.

That the poll clerks and returning officers feel that they do more work for the city than for the Government and get less for it, was reported by Ald. Phelan, when the item of election costs was considered.

More ballot boxes are needed, Ald. Greene added. All those the city owns and those belonging to the Government are used, providing three for each division. With six elections these are not enough.

The amount for this service was set at $1,400, the same as last year. There is some excess in here, and the Council will consider meeting these needs and that for extra constables at the polls.

"That's an awful amount for light," was Ald. Macdonald's exclamation when he read the tota of $18,600.

Among the special grants which were approved last night were those of the Children's Aid Society, which was raised from $1,200 to $1,400, that of the Humane Society, increased from $100 to $150, the music grant, left at $1,000, $700 for the Well Babies' Clinic, $200 for the Poultry Association, $500 for the Salvation Army morality work, $400 for the Orange Lodge of the district for the celebration here on July 12, and $25 to the Sick Children's Hospital.

The City Clerk was given authority to buy a new typewriter for his office and transfer the old machine to the Board of Health for use in the Queen Mary Hospital.

The addition to the County Buildings cost $30,452.10, of which the city's share is $16,287.91. This and $34,000 of the bill for resurfacing the Provincial Highway, will be met by the issue of debentures.

13 BODIES FOUND IN MINE TUNNELS

Every Man in Pit at Time of Explosion Accounted For Today.

JENNY LIND, Ark., Feb. 25 (Canadian Press).—Its losses counted up, this little mining community today was mourning its thirteen dead victims of a gas explosion in a tunnel of a coal shaft. Every one of the 125 who were at work within reach of the fatal explosion and its fumes was accounted for and only one of these was injured.

Led by the state mine inspector, rescue crews worked all through yesterday until late in the night, clearing the tunnels and bringing out the bodies, until the last was accounted for.

Drink Hot Water For Sound Health

WHEN I took the famous Babe Ruth in hand after his physical breakdown, the first thing I did was to change his diet completely. I banned all stimulants, alcohol, caffeine and nicotine and literally filled him with hot water.

As a result of the national publicity attending this change in the Babe's diet, I received thousands of letters from persons all over the country asking about the benefits of drinking hot water. Hot water was prescribed for the Babe as a substitute for coffee, since the King of Swat had poisoned his entire system with caffeine.

You should average six glasses a day

For those who find hot water distasteful I usually suggest adding a spoonful of sweetened condensed milk. This makes a palatable drink, non-irritating to weak stomach and intestines.

Many cannot drink cold water because of the chilling effect upon the stomach, especially upon arising. However, it is important to cultivate the water-drinking habit, for the average daily allotment should be six glasses to preserve sound health. Hot water is especially recommended for sufferers from intestinal inflammation, cramps and similar troubles.

Diet for Digestive Troubles

BREAKFAST: A portion of stewed fruit served plain or with cream; any cooked cereal served with cream; one egg; toast or the crust of a roll with butter; coffee substitute. LUNCHEON: Cold chicken or ham, or a ham, tongue or chicken sandwich; gelatin fruit salad; plain bread and butter; glass of plain milk or buttermilk; baked apple, tapioca or rice pudding. DINNER: A small portion of vegetable soup or puree of vegetables; roast, steak, chops or fish (broiled); two or three vegetables; boiled or baked macaroni; small portion of Neufchatel or cream cheese, served plain or with jelly, or gelatin with cream.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

A gentleman remarked to me a short time ago that there were thousands upon thousands looking for light (truth) and cannot find it. If the blind cannot lead the blind, there is small hope of this vast multitude finding light in "churchianity." Many have a veil over their eyes, and when from some cause it lifts a little and they get a glimmer of light, they immediately grab at the veil and pull it down tight, shutting out all light, proving how true the old adage is: "None are so blind as those who won't see." Notwithstanding this, the time is coming when the veil shall be completely removed, and every man, the dead and the living, whether called heathen or Christian, shall see clearly and know perfectly the will of God concerning them.—M. FEW POTATOES OFFERED TODAY

Fish in Demand On Market — No Beef on Sale.

BUTTER 40; EGGS 38.

Two big horses, their backs warm against the heavy load of hay that hung low on the wagon, their heads and necks steaming and covered with white frost, drew in at half past eleven o'clock this morning to the farmers' market, bringing behind them 4,200 pounds of hay over a twelve mile stretch of road from Ennismore. The owner asked $13 a ton.

The Lenten season brought a brisk demand for fish this morning. "How much does a pound weigh?" said a woman who meant "how many?" when the vendor showed her the frozen salt-water herrings that sold for ten cents a pound. Plaice, as stiff as boards, were 15 cents a pound, salmon trout 20 cents and whitewish 18 cents.

Potatoes were visible on only one cart this morning, selling for 30 cents a peck. Pork was priced at 15 and 17 cents, for front and hind quarters, and mutton was 24 and 28 cents. There was no beef on sale. "It doesn't pay to bring it in to this market," said one man. "People don't want a quarter of beef and you can't bring it in in smaller weights."

Chickens were very scarce. What there were sold for 33 cents a pound, and fat hens were quoted at 30 cents. Butter was 40 cents a pound and eggs 38 and 40 cents a dozen. Clover honey in three-quarter pound glasses was [illegible] cents and amber honey 15 cents.

On the open market, wood was offered. Green hardwood in four foot lengths was $12 a load, a smaller load, cut to stove length, was $10, and a mixed load of good quality was priced at $8.

STEAMER SINKS WITH ALL CREW

Italian Vessel Believed To Have Had Fifteen Men on Board.

COLLISION CAUSE.

DEAL, England, Feb. 25 (Canadian Press).—As the entire crew of the small Italian steamer Alcantara was believed to have drowned when the ship sank following a collision with the Russian Cadet training ship Tovarisch last night in the Strait of Dover, the number of the crew was unknown here. The Italian ship probably carried fifteen men. Although a fleet of boats rushed to the scene, about three miles south of Dungeness, the only survivor found died soon after the British steamer Moldavia picked him up from the floating wreckage.

Fear For Cadet Ship.

DUNGENESS, Kent, Eng., Feb. 25. —(Canadian Press.)—With no trace of any survivors of the Italian steamship Alcantara, which was in collision with the Russian training ship Toverish in the fog enshrouded Straits of Dover yesterday, the Kentish coast was beginning to worry about the fate of the Toverish to-day. Although the vessel was reported to be trying to make Southampton, there is considerable anxiety as to her present whereabouts, since no wireless has been received from her since S.O.S. calls were sent out after the collision. Fear is expressed in some quarters that the Russian ship may have sunk with the hundred cadets she carried.

In the season of 1894 "Billy" Hamilton of the Philadelphia Nationals distinguished himself by stealing seven bases in a single ball game.

A Healthy Liver

Sedentary workers and those whose occupation forces them to adopt a position in which the body is cramped, often suffer with liver trouble and bowel complaints. When the body is held in an unnatural position for hours at a time the spinal nerves become constricted by tightened ligaments and improper position of vertebrae. This lessens the flow of mental energy reaching the liver and intestines so they have not the strength to do their work properly. The cramped position of the body also compresses these organs and adds to their inability to function as they should.

Chiropractic spinal manipulation, combined with systematic exercise and proper habits of living, do produce decidedly beneficial results in cases of liver and bowel disorders.

FLIVVER PLANE FALLS INTO SEA; PILOT MISSING

Wreckage Found Partly Submerged Half Mile Off Florida Coastline

ON MIAMI HOP

Harry Brooks Attempting to Set New Distance Record For Ford Aeroplanes

SEBASTIAN, Fla., Feb. 27 (A.P.)—The Ford flivver plane which fell into the sea Saturday night while Harry Brooks was piloting it to Miami was found yesterday partly submerged a half mile off shore near here. Such a stiff northeast wind was blowing however, that it was believed it will be many hours before it could be recovered and brought to shore.

Three seaplanes from Miami sighted the diminutive aeroplane about noon and Major M. K. Lee, and Captain Harry Rogers, who were in the planes, said they plainly made out the name, "Ford," and also the number. Later two fishermen went out in a "sea skiff" and tried to throw a rope over the plane, but the rough sea forced them to put back.

The seaplanes reported that the tail only was above water, but the fishermen said that it was the tip of a wing that could be seen. The sea was so muddy that even the fishermen, Theodore Davis and Kari Schurmann, could not make out the cockpit. C. F. Bowman, of the Ford branch at Jacksonville, had stated that Brooks was strapped in the plane when he left Titusville late Saturday, and undoubtedly would be found still fastened to it.

The fishermen expressed the opinion, however, that the body was not in the cockpit, although they could not be certain. The water where the plane was seen is about fifty feet deep and the location was about six miles south off here and half a mile off a marshy shore.

Brooks, who had made a distance record for planes of 40 horespower or less in his flight from Detroit, which ended at Titusville instead of Miami as planned, because of a leaking gasoline line, had been held at Titusville by a broken propeller for several days.

He took off from Titusville late Saturday to complete his hop to Miami and about dusk was seen off Melbourne, apparently seeking a place to land. Persons along the beach saw the aeroplane head out to sea a short distance, dip and recover itself momentarily. Then it seemed to dip into the water.

SECOND CONCERT WELL ATTENDED

Humane Society's Series Proves Popular—Good Program Given

A very good attendance was registered at the Sacred Concert held in the Regent Theatre last evening under the auspices of the Humane Society and direction of G. F. Liddle, the organist of the George street United Church. The program was exceptionaly interesting and each of the numbers was met with enthusiastic applause. The popularity of these programs is evidenced by the manner in which the various selections are received and encored. Dr. J. J. Craig acted as chairman.

The orchestra of the George St. United Church, under the leadership of W. H. Cunningham gave a numof brilliantly-rendered selections, in tuneful, melodious style, that proved very attractive. Vocal numbers in splendid voice were rendered by Mrs. G. F. Liddle, whose pleasing contralto was very effectively displayed, Dr. S. J. Graham singing in fine style, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Rowe in a very pleasing duet. Accompaniments were played by G. F. Liddle, who also led the community singing. Another fine program has been arranged for next Sunday evening.

DAY OFF IN SEVEN SYSTEM IN FORCE

Firemen Start On a New Schedule of Duties This Morning

The new system of a day off in seven for each member of the Fire Brigade went into effect this morning and as a result, there were eight men on duty instead of the customary ten. Previous to the new ruling there were ten men working ten hours a day on the day shift and ten doing fourteen hours' night duty.

In conversation with Fire Chief Gimblett this morning, The Examiner was shown the schedule which has been worked out, and was shown how, owing to the number of days in the week being less than the number of members on each shift, it is necessary for the number of men off each shift to vary on different days. On some days during thte week there will be as many as three men off, though generally, there will be but two. When holiday time comes, this schedule will necessarily be altered.

SOUTHERN METHODS WOULD WORK HERE

Ex-Mayor T. H. G. Denne Tells of System of Florida City

F. H. Dobbin has received a reply to a letter addressed to ex-Mayor T. H. G. Denne, some time ago of Peterborough, and who is wintering at Mount Dora, Florida. As we have here, in this city, the campaign put on in aid of the local Chamber of Commerce, it is interesting to read what Mr. Denne writes as to the attitude and enterprise of Mount Dora, and its activities set on foot through its Board of Trade. He makes comment as follows:

"The citizens here outdo themselves in trying to make the tourists comfortable and in furnishing entertainment. There is a Tourist Club with over six hundred members, which meets every Friday night in the Baptist Tabernacle to enjoy a concert provided from talent from all over the State. Then on Monday night each week there is a lecture in the Forum by speakers from different parts of the States, and certainly it is a very great privilege to be able to hear these outstanding men in their different callings.

"Then there are fine tennis courts, golf links, and club house, yacht club and good boating, basketball and even pitching horseshoes, band concerts in the parks, card tables and benches furnished free. Of course, as they say down here Florida has two big crops every winter, citrus fruit and the Northern tourists, and they are both picked green. The Floridian looks after their tourists as any good business man looks after his business.

"They have a wonderful Chamber of Commerce, the building on the ground floor a few doors from the Post Office, and in my opinion practically one hundred per cent. of the citizens belong to it, some holding two and three memberships. They pay their secretary $3,500, which is small compared with Orlando, Daytona, Beechlard and some of the larger cities, where they pay from $7,500 to $10,000 per year.

"This is only a small town of about 700 white, all the year round citizens, possibly 1,000 blacks, and the Council gives a grant of one mill on the dollar to the Chamber of Commerce and its work, and the same to parks, which includes recreations, and in my opinion if Peterborough wants the tourist trade it will have to do some advertising, and when they get the tourist, provide some entertainment. It all doesn't cost but little compared with the general results.

"There are hundreds of winter houses in this little town which are rented for the season by folks coming from the North, who housekeep themselves and enjoy life in nice surroundings."

THE WEATHER

Sunday morning had the same low temperature as Saturday morning, namely 14 degrees below zero. This (Monday) morning, however, was quite moderate. On Feb. 26th last year one of the heaviest snowfalls of the winter occurred. Eight inches of snow fell during the day.—W.P.

INDIAN GUIDE DARES F. ROY TO GET 'LUNGE

Says Mr. Roy's Party Caught 19 In One Day and Can't Do It Now

PICKEREL BLAMED

Declares Much of Fish Displayed in City Comes From Other Places

That Fred L. Roy cannot in 1928 duplicate his feat of landing, in company with three others several years ago, nineteen 'lunge from Rice Lake waters in one day, is Madden Howard's challenge in answer to criticisms of his statements made to The Examiner last Saturday. In proof of the record catch, Mr. Howard presented a photograph ,taken by Mr. Roy, showing Claude Rogers, Mr. Earl, Mr. Rogers' brother-in-law, and their guides proudly holding aloft a string of splendid-looking 'lunge. The party went out in four boats, and two of the guides present that day called in The Examiner office on Saturday to protest the questioning of Mr. Howard's statements of a week ago. It will be recalled that Mr. Howard then said that nothing like 2,000 pounds of pickerel is being taken from the lake in a week, and, anyhow ,the pickered eat the bass and 'lunge and spoil sport for those who desire to catch game fish.

"Sportsmen don't want pickerel," Mr. Howard reiterated, backed up by forty years' experience as a guide. "They won't give you five cents a day to guide them to where they can catch pickerel"

Mr. Howard was accompanied on Saturday by his son, Hanlan, who told of seeing three small black bass inside a pickerel. 'It had just swallowed a big frog bait, too," he said, "which showed that a pickerel will eat anything and will never be satisfied."

The bass and lunge are scattered all over the lake today, the guides said, and cannot be found in their old beds. The pickerel have chased them out.

Recalls Big Catch

Hanlan Howard recalled big catches of bass made by Mr. Roy near his cottage at Harkmer's Bay, and declared it would be impossible for these feats to be duplicated today, because the pickerel have driven all the bass away.

Madden Howard said he had read all the replies in the newspaper carefully, and the only explanation he can give of statements like Mr. McCracken's is that the Howards must have the good fortune to guide the better class of tourist, the real sportsmen-fishermen "Those who go to the part of the lake where Mr. McCracken has been guiding must be butchers, and not real sportsmen," he said. "All some people want is to kill, and they don't care whether they kill bass, lunge, pickerel, or catfish."

"There might be 1,500 pounds of pickerel displayed in Peterborough stores at one time," he continued, taking up another angle of the controversy, "but they may have been gathered up for a week. There is a Port Hope man who brings up pickerel regularly from the lake shore, and a lot of pickerel is shipped in from Georgian Bay. Not by any means all of the pickerel in Peterborough comes from Rice Lake."

Mr. Howard commended Reeve McIntyre on his declaration in favor of allowing farmers to buy pickerel. "They can't buy game fish, and they haven't time to go fishing," Mr. Howard said. "I guided a man for ten days last year He wouldn't take a pickerel, and all we got in the ten days was a bag of two lounge. Now we are thinking of going back to Anstruther Township, where pickerel have not been introduced to drive away the bass and lunge"

"Since the closed season was introduced," said Hanlan Howard, "I have never seen a bass or a lunge caught through the ice."

Might Divide Europe Into Hostile Groups

GENEVA, February 27 (Canadian Press). — Issuing a warning that development of regional security pacts which are really alliances might ultimately divide Europe into hostile camps, the British delegation on Saturday published a new statement on its position in the discussion now engaging the security committee of the League of Nations. The statement insists that regional agreements should be framed solely to ensure peace between the nations concerned. The memorandum emphasizes that if the pacts are utilized to secure the signatories of the association they become defensive alliances which would be apt to call into existence a rival group.

The proposal of the Prague Committee to enforce an armistice upon belligerents as a means of maintaining peace was likewise opposed by the British statesmen on the ground that it would encounter great difficulty in application.

Mayor Denne's Appeal

TO ALL CITIZENS OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH:

I find on enquiry the Forward Movement of the Chamber of Commerce is not making the progress expected when the Board of Directors, composed of sixteen fellow citizens who give time and energy to the work, launched the campaign.

These men are much concerned for the success of the campaign and have had the assistance of about one hundred men in an effort to enroll 500 members at $15.00 each, which would provide a revenue of $7,500.00. I believe the number of members desired to be a reasonable number and do not know of any other investment for as small an amount as $15.00 invested in a membership in the Chamber of Commerce, capable of paying as large dividends in community service.

I am, also, concerned in the success of the work, for I do not relish the thought of failure being recorded in the local press to be broadcasted throughout the Dominion, stating a Forward Movement launched by the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, for a membership of 500, to raise $7,500.00 and an Activities Fund of $5,000.00, had failed for lack of support. Such publicity would not be in keeping with advertising now running in various publications.

Those in charge of the Forward Movement work will carry on three or four days of this week and I ask all who possibly can, both men and women, to support the effort by investing $15.00 in a membership and give support to the sustaining fund if possible.

In my various public utterances this year I have stressed what can be done by co-operation, and by co-operating to put this Forward Movement Fund over, of the Chamber of Commerce, you will assist myself as Mayor, and the Councillors whom you elected, to carry on the work on the City.

We must not fail. Lend a hand.

ROLAND DENNE,
Mayor.

DETECTIVE STORIES ARE UPHELD AS MORAL INTERESTING READING

Professor J. T. MacDonald Is Speaker at Teachers' Banquet.

DISCUSSES TYPES.

Wickedness Always Punished He Points Out. Many Teachers Attend.

"Edgar Allan Poe may be considered the father of the modern detective story, but the first story of that type goes back a long, long way, to the Book of Daniel in the Apocrypha, where Daniel exposes the plot of the elders against Susannah in a clever little bit. Classical scholars tells us also that there is a fairly well developed detective story in Herodatus. The word "detective" was invented in the nineteenth century. Chambers' Journal of June, 1843, contains the following paragraph: "Intelligent men have recently been selected to form a body called detective police. At times the detective policeman attires himself in the dress of the ordinary individual." Of course, nowadays we have dropped the term of "policemen" and simply call them detectives."

A variation from the usual form of address to the teachers of the city at their annual dinner was noted in the discourse with which they were entertained on Saturday evening at the Empress Hotel, when Professor J. T. MacDonald of the University of Toronto spoke to them on "Detective Stories." This was a repetition of an address which he was asked to deliver in Toronto some time ago, and the speaker was evidently quite enthused with his subject matter, giving a speech which sparkled with bits of humor and anecdote and took occasion to thrust slyly and humorously at the writers of the stories of which he spoke. It was a light discourse, treated facetiously, and afforded plenty of amusement for the teachers and their guests. These included members of the staff of the Normal School, Principal H. R. H. Kenner and Mrs. Kenner, Inspector and Mrs. A. Mowat, Inspector and Mrs. R. F. Downey, Mayor and Mrs. Denne, Rev. W. S. Edgar of Gilmour Memorial Church, president of the Ministerial Association and representative of the clerics of the city; V. J. McElderry, representing the Law Association, and E. B. Fowler, from the Board of Education. There were present also two guests from Oshawa, Messrs. McLeod and O'Neill, the latter the principal of the Collegiate Institute there, who attended the dinner for the purpose of presenting to the teachers the formation of a project called the Teachers' Investment Securities, Limited, an association whose object is the investment of teachers' money in securities that will give them a higher yield than bonds or debentures. Already, eighty-seven teachers have committed themselves to this policy, taking over nine hundred of the 10,000 shares at which it is capitalized, with a par value of $10 plus premium of $1. A fee of $5 gives a permanent and perpetual membership.

The dinner, attended by about one hundred and twenty-five people, was presided over by the president of the Peterborough Teachers' Institute, V. R. Henry, and was enlivened by community singing led in turn by M. H. Park and C. S. Browne, with Miss M. Rannie at the piano. Loudly - applauded vocal solos were given by Miss M. Jory and M. H. Park, with encores in each instance. Accompaniments were played by Miss Gwen Donley.

The toast list included "The King and Country," "Our Profession," voiced by Miss Agnes Stout in humorous fashion which met with much appreciation from her listeners, and "Our Guests," moved by C. S. Brown and responded to by V. J. McElderry and Mayor Denne. The latter, in the course of his brief reply to the toast, made the suggestion that supplies of perennials from the Dominion Government and of trees from the Ontario Government, be procured by the principals and teachers of the various schools and used to beautiful the premises. He thought this would go far to improving the appearance of the school grounds, particularly in the case of the Prince of Wales School. "We spent $256,000 on that property and

Young Woman Wants To Go Over Niagara Falls In Barrel, She Says

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Feb. 27 (Canadian Press).—Police officials here have received a letter from a resident of Pittsburgh who expresses the desire to go over the Falls in a barrel, and asks how arrangements for the feat can be made. The name and address signed to the latter are: Miss Marie Hall, 308 Lecack Street, Pittsburgh, Penn.

The letter reads in part: "Please tell me how I can go over the Falls in a barrel. I want to go to the Falls on July 4, so answer soon as possible, so I can get ready. I am thirty years old and sure do want to go over the Falls in a barrel."

Police Superintendent Curry said he would advise the writer that no official sanction of such a feat could be obtained. If she attempts to make the trip she will be stopped, he said.

Bobby Leach and Mrs. Annie Edson Taylor, who both successfully negotiated the Horseshoe Falls in barrels, are dead. Leach died a few years ago from injuries received when he slipped on an orange peel on the sidewalk.

JUDGE DECLARES INTENTION TO FIX MINE FIRE BLAME

Impartial Court, Not Emotional Tribune, He States, At Opening

WILL LAST FOR WEEK

Assistant General Manager Is First Witness Heard By Commission

TIMMINS, Ont., Feb. 27. Canadian Press. — With every prospect that the proceedings will last at least a week, according to Mr. Justice Godson, the Royal Commission enquiry into the Hollinger disaster of Feb. 10 opened before His Lordship here to-day. The greater part of the morning session was occupied by the evidence of John Knox, assistant general manager of the mine, who related in detail the duties of the different high officials at the property. This afternoon it is proposed to visit the underground workings where the fatal fire originated and to inspect the section of the mine most affetced by the conflagration.

The procedure adopted before the commission is that Peter White, K.C., its counsel, is to examine all the witnesses in chief and he is to have an opportunity to cross-examine in the case of testimony that may be introduced and of which he has no previous knowledge. The other lawyers W. A. Gordon, for the men, and A. G. Slaght, K.C., for the Hollinger, will cross-examine in that order.

That the commission is an impartial one 'and not an emotional tribunal," was stressed by Judge Godson at the opening.

After reading his commission, Judge Godson said that his object was to find the caues of the fire and fix the responsibility if possible. His Honor hoped it was realized that the commission is an impartial one, knows no individual once the inquiry is over, and knowing only the facts will make a finding on facts. The commission would pursue it objects not in vindictive moods, but in an effort to protect the public and do justice to all concerned, His Honor added.

Peter White, K.C., counsel for the commission, paid tribute to the bravery displayed by all in the work of rescue and of extinguishing the fire. W. M. Gordon, Haileybury lawyer, stated that he was prepared to lend every assistance. There was no question of trying to embarrass anybody. Miners, whom he represented were determined to find out the cause of the disaster and fix the responsibility, if possible and also to provide safeguards for the future.

John Knox, assistant general manager of the mine, was the first witness. He said he had been at Hollinger for three years. He said he went underground once a month probably. A. F. Brigham, general manager, went very seldom, and C. G. Williams, the general superintendent, three times a week, A. W. Young, assistant mine superintendent, had charge of filling the stopes and of the so-called scaling of the stopes.

McGILL MUSIC TEST LISTS CLOSE APRIL 1

F. G. Mann is Local Secretary For These Examinations.

Information has been received from the Secretary of the Faculty of Music of McGill University, Montreal, that entries for the annual local examinations in music should be sent in before April 1. The theoretical examinations will be held on or about May 2, and the practical examinations at a date to be decided later, during May or June. Through these examinations, open to the pupils of all teachers, the McGill University Faculty of Music provides students, parents and teachers with a safe standard by which the progress and proficiency of a student can be definitely ascertained. Information regarding the different grades, music to be prepared, fees, etc., and application forms may be obtained by applying direct to the secretary, the Faculty of Music, McGill University, or to the local secretary, F. G. Mann, 186 Dublin Street.

High Spots of Police Report For 1927

Expenditures of Police Department in 1927 .... $25,005.30

Estimates for Police Department for 1928 .... $27,715.00

Breaches of the Highway Traffic Act and breaches of the Liquor Control Act tied for first place with 72 cases each. Theft was next with 36 cases, and breaches of the Traffic By-law next with 32.

Not a single Irishman was charged with any offence in 1927.

More than one-third of the offenders in 1927 were between the ages of 21 and 30.

Out of a total of 8,987 Presbyterians, Methodists, and Congregationalists in the city, there were 100 United Church and 60 Presbyterians charged with offences, and second highest in number were Roman Catholics, with 92 out of 4,980 in the city. Anglicans, with 5,047 in the city, were third highest with 77.

Police Commission Needs More Money For Force In 1928

Estimates Totalling $27,715 Passed By Board For Submission to City Council—Last Year's Expenditure Totalled $25,005.30 Out of $25,077 Allowed

TWO EXTRA MEN WANTED FOR HEAVY TRAFFIC SEASON

Estimates Include $1,100 For Salaries of Special Traffic Officers—Better Accommodation For Cars Asked—Cab By-Law Out of Date—Revision Ordered Estimates amounting to $27,715.00 were passed by the Police Commission this morning as the amount required from the city treasurer to finance the police department for 1928. These represent an increase of $2,638.00 over 1927 when the estimates amounted to $25,077.00. Last year there was $25,005.30 actually spent.

The increase this year is made up of the natural increase in the salary of the force, $1,100 for the services of two special constables during the traffic season, $100 in the salary of the matron, $200 for the upkeep of the two police cars, $25 for printing and stationery, $50 for telephone and telegraph services, insurance on cars $130, equipment and clothing $50.

Mayor Denne asked that the estimates be kept as low as possible, for at present he could not see how the tax rate could be less than 37 mills. "There is nothing in these estimates but what I see is necessary but the question is, will the Council pass them," he declared.

Magistrate Langley replied to the Mayor by saying, "I think it is our duty to pass what we think is absolutely necessary and then it is up to the council."

The commission also declared in a resolution that will be forwarded to the city council that it believes the services of twelve men, with two special constables during the traffic season, besides the chief and matron, are absolutely necessary for the policing of the city.

In seconding Magistrate Langley's motion to send the estimates on to the city council, Mayor Denne said he could not guarantee that they would go through, and he told the chief that he could not see how he could get $1,100 for two part-time constables when the fire chief was refused more men.

According to the Chief and Mayor drastic changes are necessary to bring the cab by-law up to date. The Mayor, City Solicitor and Chief Constable were appointed a committee to revise the by-law. This by-law was passed in the time of Judge Weller and refers only to horse-drawn vehicles. Chief Newhall, in asking that the by-law be revised, said he was having trouble with the taxi-drivers carrying liquor.

The attention of the City Council and City Trust will be called to the need of more adequate accommodation for the police cars.

Mayor Denne reported, that the City Trust could not undertake the redecorating of the police station and that the matter would have to be taken up with the Property Committee.

It being the first meeting of the year, Judge Huycke was re-elected chairman and welcomed Mayor Denne to the Commission.

The estimates follow:

Police Department Estimates for 1928.

	1927.	1928.
Salaries	$20,991.50	$21,165.00
Police Commission.	350.00	350.00
Telegraph and Telephones	325.00	375.00

FARMERS BUSY AT BAILIEBORO

Not Much Surplus Stock Carried Over Into 1928—Many Visit Sales

BAILIEBORO, Feb. 27—The farmers of the district are busily engaged getting ready for Spring. While some are hauling gravel for their statute labor and building purposes, others are preparing for seeding.

Many are visiting the neighboring sales watching for chances to secure suitable horses and machinery as well as hogs and cattle to carry on next Summer's activities.

There has been a lot of ice covering the Fall wheat during the greater part of the Winter and a number of the farmers are claiming that the Fall wheat will be damaged to a great extent.

Many farmers in this district have kept their barnyard manure hauled out during the entire Winter months. This will make the Spring's work much lighter and also leave the farmer much more time to work his land. It is believed the fertilier will be equally as valuable to the land when it is placed on during the Winter if the manure is not placed upon hilly ground when the good will drain out during the Spring freshets.

Horses and cattle are very valuable in this district this Winter. It is almost impossible for the farmer who has been in the habit of buying cattle in the pring of the year to finish off on pasture, to purchase cattle this year, as the cattle prices have been so high very few farmers held over any surplus stock.

Personals

Many of the men of this district attended the auction sale of Mr. William Finnimore on Thursday afternoon.

Arnold Brown attended the banquet given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour and sons at Millbrook.

Messrs. Fred Barnard, Archie Deyell and Herbert Dean attended the Council meeting at Garden Hill on Thursday evening. The meeting was called by the member of this district for the boys' parliament.

WOMEN OBSERVE DAY OF PRAYER

Four Denominations Gather In Havelock United Church For Service

HAVELOCK, February 27. — The Interdenominational Day of Prayer was fittingly observed when about fifty ladies representing the United, Anglican, and Presbyterian Churches and Havelock Mission met in the United Church to offer prayers for Canada and the foreign missions. Mrs. J. Cochrane presided, and the Scripture reading was read by Mrs. G. W. Chiles. The program for the service was as follows:

Prayer for Canada for future guidance, Mrs. J. Kinnaird; prayer for China, Mrs. H. Falkner; prayer for Japan, Mrs. Edward Williams; prayer for League of Nations, Mrs. Wilson; prayer for India, Mrs. W. R. Archer. prayer for conference at Jerusalem, Mrs A. C. Denike; prayer for Africa, Mrs. A. S. Thompson; prayer for the Moslem World, Miss M. Burfield. A vocal solo, "My Task," was beautifully given by Mrs. F. Bacchus.

DAY OF PRAYER HELD AT MADOC

Women Join in Service in Trinity United Church

MADOC, Feb. 27. — The Women's World Day of Prayer, was held in Madoc in Trinity United Church, the various churches uniting and representative members from each taking part.

The suggested program was followed, Mrs. L. Ashley, as chairman giving a brief statement of the purpose of the meeting and Mrs. A. Milne read the Scripture lesson.

A season of prayer followed for the missions of the different countries in which missionary effort is active, for the League of Nations, and for the Moslem world, and all all other fields of labor, in which many from each church took part.

A short statement regarding the Jerusalem Council to be held during Easter week, its proposed program, and its members, was given by Mrs. Nickle, and the call for prayer given.

Personals.

Mr. Walter Whytock returned to his home here this week after undergoing an operation for appendicitis at Niagara Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Gavin Wallbridge and Mr. C. Wallbridge are spending a few days in Toronto.

Miss Norma Fair of the O.B.C., Belleville, spent the week end with her mother in town.

Mrs. Thomas Burkett died at her home here on Friday morning.

MASONS ENTERTAIN WARKWORTH LADIES

New Temple Used For Enjoyable Dance and Euchre Program

WARKWORTH, Feb. 27.—Wives and sweethearts of the local Masonic fraternity were entertained at an "At Home" on Wednesday in the new Masonic Temple, when the evening was passed in dancing, progressive euchre and crokinole. Prizes were won by: Euchre, Evelyn Hermiston, Leslie Campbell; crokinole, Mrs. W. V. Drewry, O. A. Lewis; lucky number dance, Mrs. W. B. Baker, Orval Kelly.

Compliments on the new temple were showered upon the hosts.

Debate By Default.

The Junior Farmers and Junior Institutes of Northumberland County held a meeting recently in the Council Chambers for the purpose of a debate with Hastings County, being one of the inter-county series. The subject was: "Resolved that the farmer with one hundred acres of good land, including one thousand dollars worth of implements and stock is in a better financial position than the city man with a salary of two thousand dollars."

The debaters, Miss Ida Clare and Edward Huycke, affirmative, as well as the large number who assembled, were disappointed when the debaters from Hastings County failed to appear. Northumberland won by default.

Gordon McCubbin presided, and the program was as follows:

Russell Hubbell of Stirling, Hastings County Junior Farmers' delegate, gave an interesting talk in which he congratulated the local Institute on the interest shown in the work which is great for young men and young women; Rev. D. R. Clare, Norham, gave a short address in which was humor and good advice. "There is not enough debating to-day, he said. "It is one of the greatest things in developing education. It teaches one the art of expression"; recitation — Arthur Meneilly; solo—Heather Grant; recitation—"Alaska," by C. H. Curtis; recitation—"Casey at the Bat" and "The Modern Belle," by Margaret Richards.

The concluding number was interesting when a number who were present from Hastings County volunteered to take the negative side of the debate impromptu. This was agreed and although the negative put up a good fight the affirmative was well prepared with excellent points and remarkable wit and cleverness.

After this number the visitors and those who helped with the program were entertained at a dainty lunch served by the local Institute.

Ice Carnival.

Arrangements have been made for an ice carnival to be held on Wednesday evening, February 29, in the Arena. Excellent prizes have been donated for fancy and comic costumes and races for old and young.

STIRLING AGENT DISPLAYS CARS

Good Program At Annual Motor Show—Women's Institute President Resigns

GENERAL NEWS

STIRLING, Feb. 27. — Splendid musical numbers and a technical demonstration marked the annual show of the Chevrolet automobile under the direction of the local agent, E. B. Bailey, in the Town Hall on Thursday. There was a large audience.

Several pleasing numbers were played by the local band, and S. V. Irwin, of the Chevrolet engineering department, demonstrated the working parts of the car, with special attention to new features. Several reels of motion pictures followed, showing processes of construction and proving, and Jean Morton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Morton, drew prize tickets which decided the winners as follows: Ladies' first, Miss Linn, Campbellford; ladies' second, Mrs. Ezra Nicholson, Stirling; men's first, Roswell Coulter; men's second, W. J. Whitty; men's third, Thomas Spry.

The program closed with an hour of dancing.

Ladies' Aid Meets.

A successful sewing meeting was held by the Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Church at the home of Mrs. Simmons on Thursday, about twenty five being present to join in the quilting, mat-making, and crocheting. Plans were made for future meetings, and an excellent lunche served. The proceeds amounted to $6.80.

Meeting Cancelled.

As a mark of respect to Mrs. R. W. Meiklejohn, president of the Women's Institute, the opening meeting set for March 1 has been cancelled. The resignation of the president has been received.

Library Board Report.

Sixty-five new names were added to the list of patrons of the Public Library in 1927, bringing the total to 480, the board reported at the annual meeting. The library contains 2,977 volumes for adults and 1,087 for children.

The following are the officials of the board: Chairman, Mrs. J. McC. Potts; Secretary, Rev. B. F. Byers; Treasurer, C. R. Bastedo; Librarian, G. L. Clute; members: Thomas Montgomery, Geo. H. Luery, E. T. Williams, D. M. Halpenny, Mrs. Alger.

The total receipts for the year amounted to $1,292.48, and expenses, $1,264.28.

The assets are: Land, $550; building, $6,000; furniture, $600; books, $2,750; cash, Dec. 31, $368.29—total, $10,268.29.

There are no liabilities.

Sewing Meeting.

The St. Andrew's Mission Band held a sewing meeting at the home of Mrs. Bissonette on Tuesday afternoon.

Personals.

Reeve Montgomery of Stirling and the Reeve and Deputy Reeve of Rawdon, George Bailey and Ernest Brown, were in Toronto last week attending the annual meeting of the Good Roads Association. Mr. A. E. Dobbie was also a visitor to Toronto last week.

Mr. George E. Reynolds is seriously ill at his home on Church Street of pneumonia and heart trouble, with no change for the better.

Mr. and Mrs. Bidwell Sine returned Friday from a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Matthews, 7th Concession West, Rawdon.

Mr. B. F. Butler of Campbellford is a guest of his son, J. G. Butler, Front Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bowen were called to Marmora on Thursday owing to the illness of her father, Mr. Young.

Mr. R. H. Buckingham of the Royal Bank, received a letter which was among those carried by Col. Lindbergh on his recent trip across America as a mail carrier.

Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, February 27. — Mrs. C. W. Turner returned yesterday from Peterborough, where she was attending the funeral of the late Mrs. Huycke.

Miss Jean Anderson returned to her home here recently after having completed her course at the Ontario Business College, Belleville, in about four and one-half months. Her examination results show an exceptionally high standing during her entire course.

Several Badminton enthusiasts of the Church of England here have already marked out the necessary court in the Parish Hall, Rear Street, and are holding games there. So far, there has been no club formed, but steps may be taken in that direction in the imemdiate future. This will depend largely on the number of members of the congregation who become interested in the sport. To date, only members of the congregation have been permitted to use the court, but if a regular club is formed, it is understood that the membership will not be confined to the limits of the members and adherents of the local Church of England.

L.O.L. No. 36, Campbellford, enjoyed a social evening after the usual business of the lodge had been attended to. The ceremony of initiation was enacted by the County Degree team. This is the team which recently visited Peterborough and were bested by the city team when both teams contended for the honors along this line. The local team lost by only a very few points and the men are inclined to think they acquitted themselves very creditably.

Rev. Ernest Harston being out of town in connection with the affairs of the Boys' Parliament, the pulpit of St. John's Church was occupied yesterday by Rev. F. J. Horwood, of Toronto. As his text for the morning service Mr. Horwood selected a verse from the fifth chapter of St. Matthew, "I am the Light of the World." There was special music at both services.

Of the three Campbellford men injured when a C.N.R. freight engine and caboose struck their car on a level crossing near the western outskirts of the village of Stirling, on Friday about noon, only one remains in hospital. The injured men were rushed to hospital in Peterborough, where medical attention was given them. William Blue and Wilbur Rogers were able to return home the same night. Blue is only slightly injured, but Rogers sustained several fractured ribs as well as a series of bruises and shocks.

Dr. Scott, chiropractor, sustained injuries which necessitated his remaining in the hospital for some time yet. His car was totally wrecked and he also lost some valuable electrical equipment which he was carrying in his car at the time the accident occurred. The latest reports on Dr. Scott's condition was very favorable.

The drifting snow has blocked practically every road leading in and out of town. It was necessary to rush a sick person to the hospital in Belleville yesterday, and the driver of the car has not been able to get within fifteen miles of Campbellford on his return trip. A telephone message about ten o'clock last night advised his family that he was obliged to put up for the night at a farmhouse near Orland. To the suggestion that a car be sent from Campbellford to assist him to return home, he replied that it would require the greater part of the night and that he was more inclined to sleep than spend the dark hours shovelling snow on the roads.

OBITUARY

MRS. HUGH STEWART.

Four daughters and five sons survive Mrs. Hugh Stewart of Stirling, who died last week, instead of three daughters and one son, as was reported at that time. The daughters are Mrs. C. H. McGee, Peterborough; Mrs. Blanche Clarke and Mrs. John McGowan of Stirling, and Miss Tryphena of Brandon. The sons are Thomas of Havelock, James of Toronto, John of Vancouver, Ernest of Bonarlaw, and Charles of Peterborough. Other relatives are four sisters: Miss Ella Kyle of Stirling, Mrs. John Fowler of Batavia, N.Y., Mrs. George Kennedy of Prince Rupert, B.C., and Mrs. Archie Kennedy of Saskatchewan.

MRS. WILLIAM BALLARD.

MADOC, February 27. — The funeral of the late Mrs. William Ballard was held from the Anglican Church on Friday afternoon.

THOUSAND CAKES OF ICE ARE CUT

Marmora Harvest Is Nearly Over For This Season—Ice Thick

MARMORA, February 27. — With the exception of a few small orders waiting to be filled, the local ice-cutters have practically finished another season's work. The brothers, Thomas and Frank Gray, who have been engaged in this business for sixteen winters, have cut between them well over one thousand cakes in the season now closing. At Crowe Lake, where their most recent cutting was done, they report the ice as being the thickest for several seasons, a depth of two feet being discovered there.

Personals.

Mrs. Rose Derry left on Wednesday to visit her daughter, Mrs. Carman, at Niagara Falls, the latter having undergone an operation there.

Mrs. Edith Daley is visiting relatives at Campbellford.

The Great Adventure

THIS year, again, five hundred Peterborough youngsters will stride gallantly forth to meet and conquer the threatening ogre of living expenses.

Without experience, with few set preferences in merchandise—and with enthusiasm as their only ally—they will demand from the merchants of Peterborough the inevitable requisites of home-making.

Two hundred and fifty boys will set off for two hundred and fifty jobs with high purpose and renewed determination.

Two hundred and fifty girls, wondering a little, will plan two hundred and fifty homes . . . . and seven hundred and fifty meals a day.

Together, they will excitedly ponder the spending of thousands of dollars.

What kitchen utensils? What furniture? Which curtains? The selection of a rug becomes a problem of infinite dimensions. The buying of a vacuum cleaner is a great adventure! Silverware. Linen. China. Glassware. New food products to meet their divergent tastes . . . . which they stoutly maintain are exactly alike!

Young hopefuls. More alert than any generation the world has ever produced. A generation of readers, trained to recognize advertising as a source of information and a guide to values.

They want two hundred and fifty talking machines . . . . pianos . . . . radios . . . . cars. Some will be able to buy them now. The rest will choose them now.

During this year, the first of wedded life, advertising will give them established preferences in merchandise and in places where they buy it. Familiar store names will spring to their lips . . . . laying the foundation for the buying habits of a lifetime. Next year they will be added to those other thousands who patronize advertising stores as a matter of course.

And The Peterborough Examiner, supreme in its field, is the only medium by which Peterborough merchants can reach these young people just starting The Great Adventure.

Proud to Say "This is Mother"

The reward that comes to many mothers—unconscious tribute from the younger generation to the woman who has retained her youth

MODERN mothers have learned not to look their part. Competing in youthful allure with daughters of debutante age, they prove that charm no longer admits the limitation of years.

That is because protective skin care has become the rule of the day. Natural ways have supplanted the often aging, artificial ways of yesterday. It's been discovered that Youth can be safeguarded.

The following rule is probably credited with more youthful complexions, past the thirties and into the forties, than any other method known. Leading beauty experts agree that skin beauty starts with skin cleanliness, pores that have been kept healthfully clean with the softening lather of olive and palm oils as blended in Palmolive. In fairness to yourself, try this.

Do this for one week
Mark the difference it makes

Wash your face gently with soothing Palmolive Soap, massaging the lather softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream—that is all. Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening. Use powder and rouge if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away.

Avoid this mistake

Do not use ordinary soaps in the treatment given above. Do not think any green soap, or one represented as of olive and palm oils, is the same as Palmolive.

And it costs but 10c the cake! So little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain a cake today. Then note what an amazing difference one week makes.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

Charles © Scribner's Sons

by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR of THE BENSON MURDER CASE

THE STORY THUS FAR

Vance believes Skeel innocent of the murder of Margaret Odell and that he lay hidden in a closet while the strangler did his work. Markham ridicules the theory but Vance is unshaken. Mannix, under pressure, reveals that he had been calling, the night of the murder, on a Miss Frisbee, who occupied the apartment adjoining the "Canary's." At five minutes to 12 he saw Cleaver sneaking out the side door of the building—the door thought to have been bolted on the inside all night. Cleaver later admits this, saying he had slipped in the side way and tiptoed out after hearing a man's voice in the Odell apartment. He says he saw Dr. Lindquist standing in the alleyway.

CHAPTER XXXVII

At that moment Swacker came in and whispered something to Heath. The sergeant rose with alacrity and followed the secretary out of the room.

Almost at once he returned, bearing a bulging Manila folder. Handing it to Markham, he said something in a low voice inaudible to the rest of us. Markham appeared both astonished and displeased. Waving the sergeant back to his seat, he turned to Cleaver.

"I'll have to ask you to wait in the reception-room for a few minutes. Another urgent matter has just arisen."

Cleaver went out without a word, and Markham opened the folder.

"I don't like this sort of thing, Sergeant. I told you so yesterday when you suggested it."

"I understand, sir." Heath, I felt, was not as contrite as his tone indicated. "But if those letters and things are all right, and Cleaver hasn't been lying to us about 'em, I'll have my man put 'em back so's no one'll ever know they were taken. And if they do make Cleaver out a liar, then we've got a good excuse for grabbing 'em."

Markham did not argue the point' With a gesture of distaste he began running through the letters, looking particularly at the dates.

Two photographs he put back after a cursory glance; and one piece of paper, which appeared to contain a pen-and-ink sketch of some kind, he tore up with disgust and threw into the waste-basket. Three letters, I noticed, he placed to one side. After five minutes' inspection of the others, he returned them to the folder. Then he nodded to Heath.

"Bring Cleaver back." He rose and, turning, gazed out of the window.

As soon as Cleaver was again seated before the desk Markham said, without looking round

"You told me it was last June that you bought your letters back from Miss Odell. Do you recall the date?"

"Not exactly," said Cleaver easily. "It was early in the month, though—during the first week, I think."

Markham now spun about and pointed to the three letters he had segregated.

"How, then, do you happen to have in your possession compromising letters which you wrote to Miss Odell from the Adirondacks late in July?"

Cleaver's self-control was perfect. After a moment's stoical silence, he merely said in a mild, quiet voice

"You, of course, came by those letters legally."

Markham was stung, but he was also exasperated by the other's persistent deceptions.

"I regret to confess," he said, "that they were taken from your apartment—though, I assure you, it was against my instructions.

"But since they have come unexpectedly into my possession, the wisest thing you can do is to explain them. There was an empty document-box in Miss Odell's apartment the morning her body was found, and, from all appearances, it had been opened Monday night."

"I see." Cleaver laughed harshly. "Very well. The fact is—though I frankly don't expect you to believe me—I didn't pay my blackmail to Miss Odell until the middle of August, about three weeks ago. That's when all my letters were returned. I told you it was June in order to set back the date as far as possible. The older the affair was, I figured, the less likelihood there'd be of your suspecting me."

Markham stood fingering the letters undecidedly. It was Vance who put an end to his irresolution.

"I rather think, don't y' know," he said, "that you'd be safe in accepting Mr. Cleaver's explanation and returning his billets-doux."

Markham, after a momentary hesitation, picked up the Manila folder and, replacing the three letters, handed it to Cleaver.

"I wish you to understand that I did not sanction the appropriating of this correspondence. You'd better take it home and destroy it.—I won't detain you any longer now. But please arrange to remain where I can reach you if necessary."

"I'm not going to run away," said Cleaver; and Heath directed him to the elevator.

(Saturday, September 15; 10 a.m.)

Heath returned to the office, shaking his head hopelessly.

"There musta been a regular wake at Odell's Monday night."

"Quite," agreed Vance. "A midnight conclave of the lady's admirers. Mannix was there, unquestionably; and he saw Cleaver; and Cleaver saw Lindquist; and Lindquist saw Spotswoode ——"

"Humph! But nobody saw Skeel."

"The trouble is," said Markham, "we don't know how much of Cleaver's story is true.—And by the way, Vance, do you believe he really bought his letters back in August?"

"If only we knew! Dashed confusin,' ain't it?"

"Anyway," argued Heath, "Cleaver's statement about phoning Odell at twenty minutes to twelve, and a man answering is verified by Jessup's testimony. And I guess Cleaver saw Lindquist all right that night, for it was him who first tipped us off about the doc. He took a chance doing it, because the doc was liable to tell us he saw Cleaver."

"But if Cleaver had an allurin' alibi," said Vance, "he could simply have said the doctor was lying. However, whether you accept Cleaver's absorbin' legend or not, you can take my word for it there was a visitor, other than Skeel, in the Odell apartment that night."

"That's all right, too," conceded Heath reluctantly. "But, even so, this other fellow is only valuable to us as a possible source of evidence against Skeel."

"That may be true, Sergenat," Markham frowned perplexedly. "Only, I'd like to know how that side door was unbolted and then rebolted on the inside. We know now that it was open around midnight, and that Mannix and Cleaver both used it."

"You worry so over trifles," said Vance negligently. "The door problem will solve itself once we discover who was keeping company with Skeel in the Canary's gilded cage."

"I should say it boils down to Mannix, Cleaver and Lindquist. They were the only three at all likely to be present; and if we accept Cleaver's story in its essentials, each of them had an opportunity of getting into the apartment between half past eleven and midnight."

"True. But you have only Cleaver's word that Lindquist was in the neighborhood. And that evidence, uncorroborated, can't be accepted as the lily-white truth."

Heath stirred suddenly and looked at the clock.

"Say, what about that nurse you wanted at eleven o'clock?"

"I've been worrying horribly about her for an hour." Vance appeared actually troubled. "Really, y' know, I haven't the slightest desire to meet the lady. I'm hoping for a revelation, don't y' know. Let's wait for the doctor until half past ten, Sergeant."

He had scarcely finished speaking when Swacker informed Markham that Doctor Lindquist had arrived on a mission of great urgency. It was an amusing situation. Markham laughed outright, while Heath stared at Vance with uncompromising astonishment.

"It's not necromancy, Sergeant," smiled Vance. "The doctor realized yesterday that we were about to catch him in a falsehood; so he decided to forestall us by explaining personally. Simple, what?"

"Sure." Heath's look of wonderment disappeared.

As Doctor Lindquist entered the room I noted that his habitual urbanity had deserted him. His air was at once apologetic and apprehensive. That he was laboring under some great strain was evident.

"I've come, sir," he announced, taking the chair Markham indicated, "to tell you the truth about Monday night."

"The truth is always welcome, doctor," said Markham encouragingly.

Doctor Lindquist bowed agreement.

"I keeply regret that I did not follow that course at our first interview. But at that time I had not weighed the matter sufficiently; and, having once committed myself to a false statement, I felt I had no option but to abide by it.

"However, after more mature consideration, I have come to the conclusion that frankness is the wiser course.—The fact is, sir, I was not with Mrs. Breedon Monday night between the hours I mentioned. I remained at home until half past ten. Then I went to Miss Odell's house, arriving a little before eleven. I stood outside in the street until half past eleven; then I returned home."

"Such a bare statement needs considerable amplification."

"I realize it, sir; and I am prepared to amplify it." Doctor Lindquist hesitated, and a strained look came into his white face. His hands were tightly clinched.

"I had learned that Miss Odell was going to dinner and the theater with a man named Spotswoode; and the thought of it began to prey on my mind. It was Spotswoode to whom I owed the alienation of Miss Odell's affections; and it was his interference that had driven me to my threat against the young woman.

"As I sat at home that night, letting my mind dwell morbidly on the situation, I was seized by the impulse to carry out that threat. Why not, I asked myself, end the intolerable situation at once? And why not include Spotswoode in the debacle? . . ."

RURAL MAIL CARRIERS.

The usual representations are being made to Parliament at this session in regard to the method of providing for rural mail delivery, and the Government is again being asked to scrap the contract system and appoint rural mail carriers on salary.

There is a great deal to be said in favor of a change.

The present system is decidedly unsatisfactory in that there is no assurance that the job will be permanent; a contractor who has done good work for three years may find himself under-bid at the end of the term and somebody else gets the contract and he is left holding the bag.

It would seem that the service would be improved and greater satisfaction created were a staff of rural mail carriers appointed, who would be paid a reasonable salary for the work to be done, and be given the assurance that their services would be retained so long as their duties were satisfactorily performed.

It is to be hoped the question will receive the earnest consideration of the Government.

HERE IS THE SOLUTION.

W. E. Medd, Progressive member for South Huron in the Legislature, has solved the great problem of how to keep drunken motorists from operating cars.

His remedy is the acme of simplicity.

He suggests that holders of liquor permits should not be issued drivers' licenses.

Isn't that a spark of genius?

The Government, of course, has not rushed to adopt it; coming from a wing of the Opposition at it does, the suggestion will have to wait for a while, but meanwhile the member for South Huron is doubtless being deluged with telegrams of congratulation.

Seriously, however, there will be natural wonder as to whether Mr. Medd really believes that his plan would accomplish anything as well as surprise at the mentality of a man who would class every person who drinks liquor, no matter how temperately or rarely, as a drunkard unfit to be entrusted with the handling of an automobile.

The advancement of such a suggestion indicates that the member for South Huron is much too innocent to be in public life if he thinks that the plan as he outlines would be of any value whatever.

"CHILDISH" ALL ROUND.

The word "childish" used by the Premier in describing Mr. Sinclair's attitude in regard to the "wandering ballots" investigation might, in the opinion of most people, be applied to nearly everybody who has had anything to do with the controversy that has developed.

The Liberal leader, on one hand, and members of the Government, on the other, have been acting in this matter like a crowd of small boys, all refusing to play ball unless they can do the pitching.

The main issue as to whether or not there was any irregularity in connection with the last Provincial election in Ottawa seems to have been completely lost sight of, while Mr. Sinclair seeks to prevent the committee, as he puts it, "making a monkey out of him," and while Government members try to keep the Liberal leader from "running the committee."

Mr. Sinclair refuses to produce his ballots until the election ballot boxes are open; the committee refuses to open the boxes until Mr. Sinclair produces his "nineteen"—and there you are.

Both sides are putting all the stress on their political prestige, and none at all on the real business of finding out how ballots supposed to have been printed for use in a general election were found on the street nearly a year afterward.

No wonder a member of the Legislature pointed out to the House that in the County Council from which he had come there was no such squabbling.

No County Council anywhere would stage such an exhibition of peanut politics.

WHO SHOULD SUPPORT THE CHAMBER OF OF COMMERCE?

The following extract is from a merchant's letter about the Chamber of Commerce and represents an all too prevalent idea about the organization:

> "The big fellows—meaning the industrial and financial institutions—should pay the bills of the organization. I am only a merchant. They do big business, make large profits, and anyhow, they run the whole shooting match."

Now let us see if that is true. Generally speaking, the large industries and financial institutions are liberal supporters of Chambers of Commerce. They know their value and believe in their support.

After all, what is a town

It is simply a place of storage and distribution. Many times there is added to this industrialization. That is, the taking of raw materials and converting them into commodities of use to man. Like the turning of ore into steel and the steel into machinery. The turning of timber into lumber or the manufacturing of products of the soil into food, clothing or shelter. This makes transportation a necessity. All one or more phases of storage and distribution—a place to sell things.

Unless things are made or grown there is no excuse for a town. These demand people for the making. People must have food, clothing and shelter. This creates a demand. Demand means merchandising.

The more things made, the more people required. The more people required, the greater the demand for goods. The greater the requirements, the more stores, banks, buildings, clerks and necessities demanded. People require not only necessities like food, clothing and shelter, but teachers, preachers, lawyers, doctors, editors and assistants of all kinds to serve the needs of business.

The Chamber of Commerce works for an increasing amount of production and industry then, that the number of people may be increased for the sake of increasing the volume of business. The merchant is the first and greatest benefactor in this.

That's why the merchant should be a member, backer and supporter of the Chamber of Commerce. It is to his interest financially to do so.

THOSE SLOW BRITISH.

Captain Malcolm Campbell, British racetrack driver, has just broken the world's auto speed record by driving his car at an average speed of just over 206 miles an hour. He broke a record, held by another Briton, of 203 miles an hour.

Those slow British!

Last year they won the speed record in the air. Last year they launched the world's largest battleship. They built more ships last year than nearly all the rest of the world's nations put together. They are absolutely supreme on the sea.

Those slow British!

Wherever there is adventure to be sought, records to be broken, pioneering to be done, there you will find the Briton. He is in the four corners of the globe, building, civilizing, educating, discovering. In trade, in science, in government and in the arts, in education and exploration, wherever there is a spice of danger or adventure, of faith or of courage, in the work of men, he is usually well in the van.

Those slow British!

Well, sometimes they seem slow. Sometimes they seem to but muddle through. But through they always come. "Those Englishmen," said Walter Page, "they talk and govern and fight as well as ever." And so it is. Never in all of her long history has Britain produced sons more able, more courageous, more sturdy for the right, than in this present day.—Ottawa Journal.

WINDSOR'S OPINION.

What will the coming of Eaton's to Windsor mean to other merchants? This is the question that is being asked around the city today. He would be a wise man, indeed, who could answer this question offhand. There is one thing certain, and that is, Windsor will become a more important trading centre. Thousands of people will come here to make their purchases, who are not coming now. It is safe to assume that these out-of-town buyers will not confine their shopping to any one store, no matter how large and important it might happen to be. The natural deduction to make, then, is that there will be more business for all the merchants. The Star does not believe that Windsor store proprietors who have been doing business successfully for years and who have treated the public properly, as practically all of them have been doing, need have any fear. Windsor has stores now of which it has every reason to be proud. The large departmental establishments of the C. H. Smith Company, and Bartlet, MacDonald & Gow, our spacious furniture stores, up-to-the-minute jewelry stores, haberdasheries, grocery stores, ladies' ready-to-wear and others, are among the best in the country. They have served their community faithfully and well by keeping abreast of the times and providing high-class service. There is no reason for thinking, now, that these establishments which have weathered the financial gales from year to year, and especially during the last twelvemonth when industrial conditions were so unfavorable, are going to be seriously affected by the coming of a new departmental store. The new one will not only produce business for itself, but for all the others. directly and indirectly. Retail business as a whole should welcome the Eaton decision, for undoubtedly the results that have followed the opening of Eaton stores in other cities—better business for everybody—will follow here.—Border Cities Star.

SPEAKING OF "GOOFY" MAYORS.

Every little while a municipality which ought to know better goes temporarily insane and exercises a perverted sense of humor in the election to office of some good brother ridiculously and notoriously incapable of rendering any intelligent civic service. Ottawa has done it several times. The little town of Newburyport, Massachusetts, recently chose to be its Mayor an uncouth and illiterate person named Gillis, and now his townspeople have the dubious pleasure of basking in the reflection of the sort of glory such an individual considers important.

The election of a man like Gillis in a small town like Newburyport—a place of fine old traditions—was news for a day or two, long enough to fill the new Mayor with a taste for the front page. Then, when he was in danger of being decently forgotten, a newspaper syndicate took him over and under its management he went to New York, visited the night clubs and exchanged repartee with the urbane Mayor Walker. There was more publicity, and thus the stage was set for the sale to confiding and unsophisticated newspapers of the "Life and Philosophy of Mr. Gillis."

No doubt Canadians will profit immensely from the perusal of the elevating sentiments attributed to Mr. Gillis. We quote but a few:

> "The trouble with most Mayors is that they try to please everybody; then they get so goofy they have to go to Florida."

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Up to the present Premier Ferguson has not acted on the suggestion from Farqua Oliver, 23-year-old U. F. O. member for South Grey, that he should retire.

Most people in Ontario hope that more will be heard about the Budget and not so much about ballots this week.

The Chamber of Commerce drive, if successful, will provide the machinery for building a bigger Peterborough. It is the general duty, therefore, to see that the campaign succeeds.

In considering the civic budget, it must also be remembered that there can be no skimping in providing for essential services.

The Peterborough Poultry Association, which has had a most successful year, is holding its annual meeting tomorrow night. Another banner year is looked for by the organization.

February has been doing its best to confound the mild-winter prophets. And the worst of it, there is an extra day in the month this year.

Despite the untold hardships involved and the peril they themselves incur, airplanes of the Royal Canadian Air Force Hudson Straits expedition are sparing no effort in the endeavor to find Flying Officer A. Lewis (1) and Flight Sergeant N. S. Terry (2), crew of the Fokker plane Saskatchewan (3), missing since February 17, when a dramatic distress message was picked up at Ottawa and two northern posts. The message stated the plane was forced down in the treacherous ice in an unknown position, and with gasoline supply near exhaustion. The plane may have come down at any spot in a very wide area, and the dearth of information on which to operate is providing a great obstacle to the rescue efforts. The belief that the two fliers are accompanied by an Eskimo who knows how to meet emergencies in native fashion is considered a very hopeful factor. (4) Is Flight-Lieutenant F. A. Lawrence, who is in command of the Hudson Straits expedition. Below is a map illustrating the area and showing the three air bases — Nottingham Island, Waaken Bay, and Cape Burnell. CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Ills., Feb. 27 (Canadian Press).—Big receipts of corn together with prospects of additional large arrivals today, sent the corn market heavily downward Saturday and dragged wheat along. Corn to the amount of 2,309,000 bushels reached primary centres Saturday, compared with only 860,000 bushels a week back.

Closing quotations on corn were unsettled, ⅝ to ¾c to 1c net lower, with wheat ⅝c to 1c off; oats unchanged to ¼c down, and provisions unchanged to 7c up.

Wheat sympathized with corn toward the last, but earlier the wheat market tended upward on account of cold weather over domestic Winter wheat terriory. However, higher temperatures were in prospect. Crop experts contended, too, that the seeded acreage is so large that damage would have to be extensive to prove itself a deciding market influence. Declines which ensued were in the face of advices that the Australian wheat visible supply showed a further decrease, and is now only 48,000,000 bushels, against 90,000,000 bushels a year ago.

Provisions were firm.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Feb 27 Canadian Press).—The only business done on the Montreal grain market with foreign buyers Saturday was the sale of a few loads of wheat to the United Kingdom and the Continent.

A feature of the local market for cash grain was the keen demand from the domestic and country buyers for Argentine corn on spot and prices were firmly maintained. Sales for car lots were made at $1.09 to $1.10 per bushel, ex-store. The trade in oats was quiet and prices were unchanged.

The demand from the United Kingdom and the British West Indies for Spring wheat flour continued good and a large volume of business was done. The local demand was fair and prices were steady. The undertone to Winter wheat situation was firm under a fair enquiry.

The millfeed market continued active and firm. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats continued dull but values ruled steady.

Prices for all grades of eggs were well maintained under a good demand. The receipts Saturday were 603 cases.

Little business was transacted in butter, but the undertone was steady. The receipts were 22 packages.

The demand from English buyers for cheese continued good, but the local trade was dull. Prices were firm The receipts were 33 boxes.

GOD'S MINUTE

The Lord looseth the prisoners; The Lord openeth the eyes of the blind; the Lord raiseth them that are bowed down; the Lord loveth the righteous; The Lord preserveth the strangers; He relieveth the Fatherless and widow; but the way of the wicked he turneth upside down. The Lord shall reign for ever, even thy God, O Zion, unto all generations. Praise ye the Lord.—Ps. 146: 7-10.

Oh God, our Father! How precious to us is the privilege of having Thy Name linger on our lips, giving us new assurance of the fact that we are in the circle of Thy love and care. May this confidence drive away all fear and anxiety, and help to keep out of this day all other enemies of our souls. In the moment our temptation may we realize Thy promise and Thy presence. When burdens become heavy, may we find the strength necessary in Thee. In face of all difficulty and every problem, may we be brave because of our faith. For whatever these hours bring, may Thy grace be sufficient. Whatever we do, may we do it all to Thy glory. May this day bear the divine mark in the calendar on earth and in Heaven.

We leave our prayer where all prayer belongs—in the shadow of the Cross. Amen.

A Thought

Boethius says: "Nothing is wretched, but thinking makes it so, and conversely every lot is happy if borne with equanimity." It follows, if this be true, that our point of view is all-important. Once say: "My duty is most unpleasant," then it follows it must result so; once say: "My duty is most pleasant," then cheerfulness results. Oh, for a mind of contentment, a mind to perform my duty with equanimity! That should be our desire.—Thomas Collins, B.A.

A pleasant family gathering and birthday anniversary took place at the home of Mr. W. Menzies, 291 Rubidge Street, who is the oldest member of The Examiner staff ,and is "still going strong", as he passed another milestone. Those present on the occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Menzies, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. LeClair and Master Adolph LeClair, Miss Kathleen Menzies, Miss Jenny Menzies, Miss Margaret Menzies, Miss Mary Menzies, and Mrs. M. A. Errington, who has been Mr. Menzies' faithful housekeeper for the past ten years. Mr. John Menzies and Mrs. Donald Menzies were unable to be present. The home was prettily decorated for the occasion—Mr. Menzies' daughters and daughter-in-law acting as hostesses. The table was attractively laid out, presenting a very pretty effect and was covered with tempting delicacies. The piece de resistance was a lovely birthday cake, the clever device of Mr. Menzies' granddaughter, Miss Mary Menzies. It was richly iced and decorated with numerous tiny red wax candles in circular form, and in the centre was shown the birthday figures of the guest of the evening, worked out in silver pin-heads. Numerous presents were received from relatives and friends, and during the evening appropriate music and singing brought a happy event to a close.

ARTIST DESCRIBES SCOTTISH SCENERY

Miss Emily Warren Tells Of Beauties of Land of Heather

Up "Through the Land o' the Heather" to John o'Groats and back by way of the Trossachs and the legendary Isle of Iona, to Balmoral Castle and the cairn that marks the spot where Queen Victoria handed to Prince Albert the sprig of white heather which was a sign to him that he might speak of his devotion—by the misty Isle of Skye and the storied glen marked forever by the massacre of the Macdonalds—through Scottish lochs and over Scottish moors, Miss Emily Warren, A. R. B. A., B. W. S., took her audience on Friday night.

In St. John's parish hall, nearly two hundred people gathered to hear Miss Warren speak at an open meeting held under the auspices of the Women's Canadian Club and to see the colored slides made from her own paintings of historic spots in the "land o' cakes." These were beautifully co'o'red representations of famous places and gave a splendid idea of the actual scenes. The speaker was introduced by the president of the club, Miss S. A. Tomkins, who also moved the hearty vote of thanks accorded Miss Warren at the conclusion of her lecture.

A real Scotch note was afforded the musical introduction to the discourse by the group of songs by G. D. Carlisle, whose opening numbers were favorite Scotch compositions "Ye Banks and Braes o' Bonny Doon," and "The Standard on the Braes o' Mar." Mr. Carlisle's fine voice was also heard to much advantage in the third song, "Caro mio ben," sung in English. Mrs. G. E. Porter played the accompaniments.

The romantic blacksmith's shop at Gretna Green which marked the goal of many an eloping couple in older days and some of the ancient border towers which made the line between England and Scotland, with a glimpse of the rugged Crags of Salisbury, and Edinburgh, ("Auld Reekie") in the distance, formed the first pictures shown by Miss Warren, who made her discourse very entertaining, as she did on her appearance here last year, by the inclusion of numerous bits of humorous reminiscence of her travels and relation of historical anecdotes in connection with the places shown.

"Holy Rood."

Holyrood Castle, built in fulfillment of vow by Prince David, after being saved from an angry deer by the apparition of a hand holding a "holy cross" or rood; Whitehorse Close, "picturesque and dirty"; St. Giles' Cathedral, and the house of John Knox, formed the introduction to a walk along the "historic mile" of Edinburgh. Here were glimpses of Arthur's Seat, of the floral clock on Prince's Street, and of the place where "jingling Geordie" lit the costly fire with the king's bond. The home of Sir Walter Scott on the Tweed was shown, with sketches of the study, also his grave in Dryburgh Abbey, at Bemersyde, the historic Yarrow river and the famous Forth bridge, with the Palace of Linlithgow. A picture of Bobbie Burns came next, a sketch of the house where he was born and the Auld Brig of Ayr.

Next was Glasgow, whose early motto of "Let Glasgow flourish by the preaching of the Word" has been shortened to "Let Glasgow flourish." The blue waters of Loch Lomond, with the islands that were once chained together by a magic hand, the Rob Roy country, a statue of Burns' "Highland Mary," Rothesay and the storied Isle of Arran, the sturdy heights of Stirling Castle and the Wallace monument, preluded the voyage through the Trossachs, with Loch Nevin and Loch Katrine in soft colors, and a Scotch mist over the ancient keep from whence came the "Stone of Destiny" over which England's kings are crowned. The lonely Isle of Iona, where the high winds compel the natives to anchor their thatched roofs to their crofts by means of heavy pendant stones, and to which St. Columba came from Ireland in self-imposed exile, holds the grave of the original Macbeth of Shakespeare's play. Then came the picture of the grim glen of Glencoe, famed in tragic story, and the three peaks of Faith, Hope and Charity, housing the cave of Ossian, the hermit. Then down through the Caledonian Canal, past the Kyles of Bute, down to Inverness and on to Culloden Moor, where the graves of the clans are marked by cairns and where, each year, a giant cairn is decorated by the Jacobites on the anniversary of the Battle of Culloden, and on to the misty Isle of Skye, where the natives live in poverty. Their ancient means of livelihood, the making of iodine from the seaweed or kelp, has been taken from them by science, and they live by spinning wool, while existing on a diet of oatmeal and goat's milk and burning peat moss from the bogs.

Here was the old castle where the "fairy flag" was kept and later came the hotel which marked the spot where John o'Groats' house stood, and where he built the eight-sided room with the eight-sided table and the eight doors, to placate the angry and jealous feelings of his eight sons. Later, was shown the Pass o' Killicrankie and the rock called "The Devil's Elbow," the Castle of Balmoral and the statue of John Brown in its grounds, the golden broom near Perth and the Scotch piper whose picture marked the closing of the journey "Through the land o' the Heather."

In conclusion, Miss Warren thanked the audience for their attentive listening to her address and also thanked especially Mr. V. R. Henry, "for the wonderful way in which my slides were shown to-night." Mr. Henry having charge of the picture machine. Miss Tomkins, in voicing the appreciation of the audience for Miss Warren's fine lecture, also thanked Mr. Carlisle for his songs.

Members and adherents of the Romanoff family in Europe and America are divided in stormy debate on the claims made on behalf of Madame Tchaikovsky, who has arrived in New York, that she is her highness, the grand duchess Anastasia of Russia, daughter of the late czar. A romantic story is told of her escape from the bloody massacre of the Romanoffs in Siberia in 1917 and of her subsequent loss of memory ()1 Is the latest available photograph of the grand duchess as she appeared before the Russian revolution; (2) the grand duchess as a child; (3) Mme. Tchaikovsky, who many responsible people, acquainted with the Russian imperial court, declare is the grand duchess, but who is repudiated by surviving relatives of the late czar (4) Gleb Botkin, son of the czar's physician, who died with his imperial master, who emphatically supports the claims made for the mystery woman, stating he was brought up as a child with the grand duchess. He is an agent for Mrs. William B. Leeds, formerly Princess Xenio of Greece (5), who is a niece of the dowager empress of Russia. Mrs. Leeds, who is Mme. Tchaikovsky's hostess in the United States, is convinced the woman is the grand duchess. Meanwhile, and all during the controversy, the woman herself has kept absolute silence

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1928.

This is one of the days most unfavorable in planetary government, according to astrologers who warn men and women to be especially cautious.

It is supposed to be a rule especially affecting the nervous system and making for irritability and unreasonableness.

Quarrels may be easily precipitated under this direction of the stars and it is well to be careful at home as well as in the office.

Accidents may be numerous under this sway, which makes for careless and impetuous action.

National campaigns to protect life will be prominent in the United States in 1928 and strict laws will be enforced, novel precautions being predicted.

When the planetary influences are adverse, the seers advise strengthening all one's forces and pursuing beaten paths.

The Sun near the opposition of Neptune is seen as presaging disturbed times and international complications.

Venus continues in an aspect read as encouraging crimes against women and children.

Greed for money is supposed to be emphasized under this rule of the stars and robberies are likely to be numerous.

This is a planetary government supposed to be menacing to health. Many pilgrims will seek warmer climates in Europe as well as this country.

Increase in the desire to forget responsibility and to seek pleasure is supposed to be encouraged under this sway.

France is subject to especially strong adverse aspects, astrologers announce.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have rather a strenuous year in which they must not be disconcerted by obstacles.

Children born on this day probably will be extremely industrious and able to win great success.

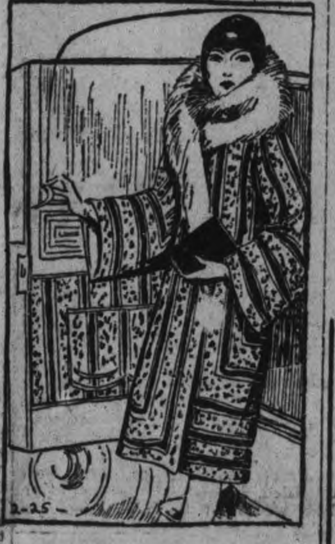
DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL



2-25

A coat of reptile leather is the correct choice when your car is trimmed inside with the same reptilian skin.

'Member the time when we thought we just had to wear goggles and linen dusters and weird, mushroom hats and yards and yards of veil whenever we went out for a ride in an automobile? And we called them horseless carriages too, to start with, and lost our breath if we went as fast as twenty miles an hour. Maybe you're too young and maybe you'd rather not admit you remember anyway.

If ever women did look like the wrath of God it was when they were all dressed up for one of those horseless buggy rides, only usually they felt rather grand, because it was something in those days even to have a second cousin twice removed who possessed one of those new conveyances. And for a good many years it apparently didn't occur to anyone that the linen duster could be made along smart lines. The idea was to use year before last's pattern and to get it at least two sizes larger than you needed.

Now, of course, no one really has to wear special clothes for motor wear. Most people have closed cars and all hats fit closely enough to withstand the wind even in an open car. But of late years dressmakers have been turning their attention to specially designed motor raiment, not as a matter of necessity but rather as a sort of luxury item in the wardrobes of women who always choose to fit their apparel to the occasion and the place.

But almost any woman who can afford a car can afford to have the costume she wears most frequently when driving chosen to harmonize with her car.

If your car is of a sedate dark gray you will look smart in a dark gray coat and close-fitting felt hat with perhaps a red scarf or a red flower in your buttonhole. A woman I knew recently sent her car to be repainted—though it had been driven less than a year and was certainly not in need of the treatment. But, as she explained, she had decided on a billiard green ensemble for spring and the car was blue—and it was cheaper, as she figured it, to have the car repainted than to buy another spring ensemble for motor wear.

Hints on Etiquette

1. When are silver platters of fruit appropriate centerpieces for a dinner table, and when flowers?

2. Should flowers be placed informally in a low bowl or in high vases?

3. What is the usual table decoration for a formal dinner?

The Answers.

1. For festive occasions like Thanksgiving or Christmas, fruits make a charming table decoration. Most persons prefer flowers for other occasions.

2. It depends on the type of meal served.

3. Formal groupings of flowers, or a set centerpiece, with candles in individual holders or candelabra.

MILLIONS OF SMILES like theirs today. These University of Wisconsin students look to Pepsodent to keep theirs dazzling white.

Teeth Grow White

If you remove "off-color" FILM each day

IT'S been found that dingy teeth come simply from a film that forms on teeth. A stubborn film old-type dentifrices did not successfully remove. That's why brushing failed.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you can feel that film now—a sort of slippery coating. It is a chief enemy of teeth and gums.

It invites tooth decay, gum troubles and pyorrhea, because it breeds bacteria.

Now, in a new-type dentifrice called Pepsodent, a scientific combatant has been found. Its action is to curdle the film and remove it. Then teeth regain their gleaming whiteness.

Leading dentists widely urge it. Druggists have it. Test sent free.

FINE linens—embroidered towels—things beautiful with your own handiwork—don't let them begin to wear out. Here is how you can keep them beautiful.

First, in washing them, use only good, pure soap. After testing many soaps I recommend Princess Soap Flakes, made from finest soap.

The thin white flakes foam into a powerful cleansing lather which removes dirt and grease quickly and efficiently, but gently—they will not hurt your daintiest, loveliest things, if those things will stand plain water. If you are in doubt, test a corner of the garment or piece in plain, tepid water. If it is not harmed, it is perfectly safe to wash it with Princess Soap Flakes. And you can keep your hands soft and white, too, if you use Princess Soap Flakes. They do not contain any harsh chemical filler or harmful free caustic, the elements in soap which are so hard on fine fabrics and on your hands."

When Trees Grew on Charlotte Street Eighty Years Ago

A Retrospect by John Harper

Benvenuto Cellini relates in his autobiography that his first and only sight of a salamander reveling in the coals of the living room fire in his home was indelibly and rather forcibly impressed upon his memory by a cuff on the ear from his father. The elder Cellini evidently understood the psychological principle of the association of ideas, albeit his method seems to have been unduly severe and unfeeling. He apologized to his five-year-old son, explaining that the phenomenon was so rare, if not indeed quite fabulous, that he wished him to remember it all his life.

In much the same way John Harper, 558 Romaine street, specially remembers the erection of the house on Charlotte street, now occupied by R. G. Sturgeon, the plumber. For as a boy, little more than a baby, he was playing around the yard, and, while he was running beneath the bricklayers' scaffold, a brick fell, hitting him on the head, leaving a dent which he carries to this day. And that was more than 82 years ago. John Harper has always had a vivid memory of that painful accident, of the scaffold and his father's house the bricklayers were building.

"I was born in Peterboro on November 25th, 1843, and I am now in my 85th year", Mr. Harper told The Examiner. "I think I am the oldest surviving resident of Peterboro, with the one exception of George Kingdon who is one year older than I am. The earliest recollection I have was of walking beneath the kitchen table. I couldn't have been more than a tot, but the recollection is as clear as if it were of later years in my life.

"My mother was Margaret Milburn. She was one of the party of settlers who came to Peterboro 111 years ago. It was then known as Scott's Plains. She came before the Robinson immigration. The county around here was in such a natural state, that my mother's party caught a fawn one evening down the Otonabee River, when they had pulled up on the shore until morning.

School On Aylmer Street.

"The first school I attended was on Aylmer street, just about where the Free Methodist church is, south of Charlotte street. Part of the old building is there yet, and is used as a shed. It was built on posts. There were about ninety scholars, among them the late J. J. Lundy, Bob Lundy, Ned Wilson, a young fellow named Connors, who became a priest and who claimed to be the first white child born in Peterboro, and others I have forgotten.

"My father and William Lundy, J. J. Lundy's father, were tailors and were trustees of the Aylmer street school. At the time of McKenzie's rebellion they both applied for a contract to make uniforms for the soldiers, and both of them got part of the government work. In making a sample tunic, Mr. Lundy was in such a hurry that he put some buttons on the wrong side. As trustees of the school, he and my father dug the pit and helped put up the school outhouse so as to keep down the school expense.

"A pathmaster of the town was a man named Tanner. He lived between the school and the Charlotte street corner. Tanner had a gravel path laid along the east side of the street to the school, and there was a great complaint by ratepayers because, they said, Tanner had laid the walk in front of his own house, and he was thinking more of himself than of the needs of the school and its pupils.

Trees on Charlotte Street.

"There was no sidewalk on Charlotte street when I was playing around there eighty years ago. There were trees on the street, and I remember that when my father was building the house Mr. Sturgeon now uses for his office he had to cut down trees on the street to make sure they would not fall on the house.

"At that time Ashburnham was the main part of this community, and everybody thought it would be the centre of Peterboro. My father first started to build over there. He put up part of the frame, and do you know that it is still over there; but he fell out with Zack Burnham, left it just as he had begun it and came across the river.

Charcoal Industry.

"John English, father of the late James and William English, owned a blacksmith shop on Charlotte street. It was built over the creek. On the west side of the creek he owned a charcoal shed, where the Charibond apartments are now, and his house was on the east side. We had no hard or soft coal in those days, but charcoal burning was quite an industry. They used to cut down pine trees, pile them up and start a fire under them, and then cover the pile with clay, so that the logs would char but not burn. The people bought charcoal by the bushel. There used to be a big charcoal pit among the pine trees where the Little Lake cemetery is now. Some of the piles of logs would be fifty or sixty feet long and maybe twenty feet high, and men tended them night and day while they were charring, to prevent a blaze breaking out in the pile.

"'Ham' (J. H.) Burnham's father had a charcoal pit on the Webber farm on the gravel road. There was a big pine ridge on the farm. John Gilmour afterwards owned it, before the Gravel road was built. 'Ham' Burnham's father was a doctor, and his house was on the south east corner of Louis and Charlotte streets.

Other Small Schools.

"A man named Might had a saddler's shop where McDermid's drug store now stands. It was a two-storey clapboard building. Next to English's house, just east of the creek, lived Leonard the bootmaker. The late John Kylie, of Hunter Street, learned his trade as a bootmaker there. John Davey lived next door. He had a bake oven at the rear, but later started a small school in his house. I went there for a time. There was another school down on George Street where Peter Hamilton's house is now at the King Street corner, and on Water Street, on what is now Victoria Park, Taylor's Grammar School was located. Prior to Confederation the grammar school and Weatherhead's school on Aylmer Street were the only two, if my memory serves me right. After Confederation the first Separate School was opened at the corner of Simcoe and Aylmer Streets. It was across the street from the present Y.W.C.A. building and on the north-west corner.

Threshed on Street.

"There were two houses further east on Charlotte Street where the three stores are now. Harry Boyle's grocery is one of them. My brother had them built and Little Paddy McNamara built them for him. The bridge over the creek was a rough one, built on logs, stringers laid over them then logs placed close together and earth spread over them for the surface. Where the curling rink stands there was a big barn. I remember that in the fall of the year in which my father first went farming he threshed his grain right on Charlotte Street and stored the crop in his barn. The late Dick Winch got married that fall. We had left the straw out on the street and as Dick was setting up house he brought along a bed tick one day filled it with straw and took it home to sleep on.

"Dick Winch's father, Richard Winch Senior, received a gift or legacy of $4,000 from the Old Country, and with the money he built the Montgomery Hotel on Simcoe Street. Of course he built it for his home, and it was quite a grand place in those days. I remember well playing around there when it was going up. Joseph Spencely, father of the late Mark Spencely, was the contractor, and the stone was from the quarry at Jackson Park. They had no hoists at that time, but they wheeled the stone up from storey to storey on long gangways. I think Mr. Winch lived in his house quite a while, but he endorsed notes for some friend, and lost it all.

Quarry Was Active.

"The quarry at Jackson Park was quite a busy place. It turned out good limestone and they had kilns there for burning lime. It took two or three days to burn the lime. We boys used to go up there quite often and watch them boring and burning.

"The house at the south-east corner of Hunter and Stewarts, where E. S. Martin lives, was built of Jackson Park limestone. Tom Eastland, who had a livery and stagecoach business, had it built for himself. There's another on Brock Street. I remember then when they first started to use field stone for houses, and gradually the old quarry was deserted.

"All the older citizens know Louie (N. T.) Laplante. He first came here with his parents 77 years ago, and lived near us on Charlotte Street. They used to run logs to Quebec at that time, and Louie's father came up to work for Charlie Perry. We played together on Charlotte Street. Jim English and Louie used to fight quite a bit, but Jim couldn't beat him. One day he grabbed Louie around the waist and carried him out into the creek and they both got a ducking.

The Cupboard Was Bare.

"When Charlie Hudson was elected the first Mayor of Peterborough, it was decided to celebrate the occasion with a barbecue. They started to roast an ox on the Market Square, and a negro named Craun was looking after it. It was cooking nearly a week, with basteing and turning. At any rate, we used to go over to the Market at nights to see the ox cooking. But on the night before the feast was to come off, several men drove on to the Market, loaded the ox on their waggon, drove out Sherbrooke Street over Bertie Morrow's hill, and threw it to one side of the road. They were disguised, and no one knew who did it. I think it was said they were men who were sore at not getting an invitation.

"The first sewer was laid on George Street that year. How I remember that especially was because I was going across the street with two friends during the week the ox was roasting. One of them fell into the trench and couldn't get out, so he had to walk down to where it was shallow.

Moved to Monaghan.

"My father wanted to get us off Charlotte Street. It was known as Hell Street in those days, but I don't think it was as bad as all that. When I was 17 my father bought the property out in Monaghan where I spent most of my life. It is about a mile west of May's School. Before he finally got it he had a lawsuit with Mr. Nicholls, the merchant whose money gave the city the Nicholls and Jackson Parks. Judge Hall decided that Mr. Nicholls wanted it only for speculation, and my father wanted it to settle on and develop. And so we moved into the township.

"Most people don't know that thousands of loads of gravel from Hunter Street went into the making of the Gravel Road. Where Belleghem's and the Bell Telephone building are now, there used to be quite a hill of first-class gravel. It was gradually cleared away, and most of it was carted out to the Gravel Road. It was hauled up the Sherbrooke Street hill at Bertie Morrow's, and they had to put two teams on each load to get up the grade.

The Old Toll Road.

"The road to Port Hope went up Sherbrooke Street to the top of the hill and then across south-westerly about where High Street is, and came out on the Gravel Road at Eastland's or at the end of Western Avenue. Then the present road was built into Charlotte Street. But in those days it was a toll road from the town out to Scott's Corners. The toll was a York-shilling, thirteen cents now. The people wanted to avoid paying the toll, so the loop road was gradually built, east from Scott's Corners, turning at the George Bennett farm to a north-easterly direction past the wintergreen bush, Leary's, and turning at our property closer to the city. The toll road hastened the building of some of those side roads.

"When I was a boy there used to be a big root house down near the east end of Simcoe Street. It had been built at the time of the Robinson immigration, and was filled with roots to help keep the newcomers. I believe the Government used to assume the cost. Some of us boys used to play in this abandoned root house, and I might as well say that we used to go there to "scheme school."

De Luxe Hotel.

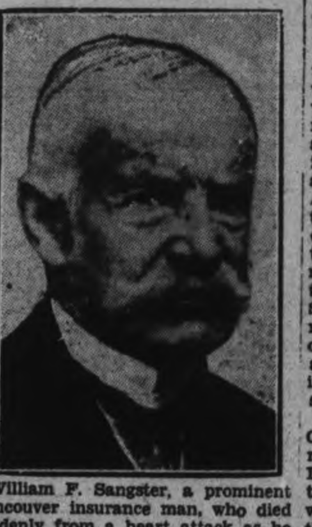
"Charlie Wiggin's boot repair shop on the south side of Charlotte Street, was the bar of the Savoy Hotel. There was a hotel or two in those little rough-cast buildings. You can imagine how they must have had to pack the river-drivers like sardines into the few rooms for transients.

"Charlotte Street ended at Park in those early days, and I recall only three houses west of Bethune Street. There was Harry Best's place at the corner of Stewart Street. He afterwards gave it to be used for the Children's Shelter. A man named Blackstock lived across the street where Dr. King's home has been. It the late Dr. King came in from Bailieboro and bought the property, was a rough-cast building, but when he had the house bricked. Then, Dunbar's house was about where the Chinese laundry is between Reid and Downie Streets."

APPEALS SENTENCE

Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil operator, who has been found guilty of contempt of court in connection with the alleged shadowing of jurors in the Sinclair-Fall trial on Teapot Dome Oil Reserve affairs. He was sentenced to six months' imprisonment, but immediately gave notice of appeal and was released under bond.

DIES IN THEATRE.



William F. Sangster, a prominent Vancouver insurance man, who died suddenly from a heart attack as he was watching the antics of Charlie Chaplin on the screen in a Toronto theatre. He had been in Toronto attending a convention of branch managers of the General Accident Assurance Company.

Finds Road to Health at Sixty

"Fruit-a-tives" corrects Bladder and Kidney Trouble

MR. THOMAS GRAHAM.

"I am sixty years old and tried all kinds of medicines for bladder and kidney trouble, which used to keep me from work a month at a time, until I started taking 'Fruit-a-tives'. Thanks to 'Fruit-a-tives' I have worked steadily for four years without a sick day. I have never felt better than I do now", writes Mr. Thomas Graham of Oshawa, Ont. Because it is made from the juices of fresh, ripe fruits, intensified and combined with strengthening tonics, "Fruit-a-tives" soon brings radiant health to those who suffer from constipation, bladder and kidney troubles. It works in nature's own way. You will find "Fruit-a-tives" the very thing your system needs. 25c and 50c a box at all druggists. Start right away—to-day.

GENERAL CONTEST RULES
How to Enter

1. The contest is open to everyone except:
   (a) Employees of The Peterborough Examiner, Ltd., or their immediate family.
   (b) Prize-winners in any similar contest who have won any of the major prizes.

2. Additional puzzle-charts may be obtained free by writing to the Contest Department or by calling at The Examiner Office.

3. Every figure in the puzzle is complete and entirely free from tricks or illusions. If any contestant is in doubt about any of the figures, send in the chart with the figures marked and the Contest Department will gladly give a ruling on the figure.

4. When you have solved the puzzle, fill in completely the solution blank, which must be accompanied by a remittance for at least a six months' subscription at the regular rates to The Evening Examiner. (See subscription rates.) See also the prize-list and note how the value of your prize is increased by paying for a year's subscription and by getting subscriptions from your friends. Renewal subscriptions, or subscriptions in arrears, if paid during contest period, count the same as new subscriptions and will be extended from the present expiry date, but not more than $15.00 will be received on any one solution or subscription.

5. In order that subscribers who pay carrier boys weekly may participate in this contest, books of tickets containing 22 weekly tickets for $3.00, or 44 for $6.00, will be sold. These remittances must be made direct to the Contest Department with your solution. Otherwise it cannot be registered. Each ticket is valued at 15c and will be redeemed from the carrier boy at that price.

6. Readers who give their subscription to some other contestant and later want to send in an answer themselves, may do so providing they fill in the coupon, giving the name of the person they paid their subscription to and the amount paid. No further payment is necessary.

7. The contest will close on March 15, 1928, but send in your solution as soon as possible as we are offering special prizes for the first correct solutions. (See full details under "Special Prizes.") There is nothing gained by holding back your answer once you have solved the puzzle, as a contestant may make several remittances on any answer sent in while the contest lasts up to a total amount of $15.00.

8. Contestants may send in a different answer to the puzzle with each remittance, but if one of your answers is correct the money sent in on your other answers will not increase the total value of your prize, and not more than one regular prize will be paid to one family.

9. Everyone has an equal chance. You can win the first prize and extra cash for only a six months' subscription, but note how the value of the first five prizes increases if you send in more money. Aim to win the maximum Grand Prize. The Evening Examiner is now recognized as the leading daily in Peterborough district and surrounding counties and no difficulty should be found in getting your friends or neighbors to subscribe for it.

10. Contestants who remit by mail or pay at the office should see that these remittances and answers are made on a proper contest coupon to ensure them reaching the Contest Department.

11. If the correct answer is not sent in by any contestant the prizes will be awarded for the nearest correct solutions. In the event of a tie a second puzzle will be presented which will be as practicable and solvable as the first. Only those tieing will be permitted to solve the second puzzle. Should two or more persons be tied in the second puzzle the prizes will be divided equally among those tieing. No cash will be accepted on the second puzzle.

12. In entering the contest, contestants agree to abide by the rules of the contest and to accept the decision of the judges as final. The Contest Department reserve the right to alter and amend its rules if necessary for the protection of contestants or The Peterborough Examiner. It also reserves the right to refund any subscriptions and to disqualify any contestants whom they consider should not be in the contest. Contestants are assured of the same impartial treatment which characterizes The Examiner in all its dealings.

THE PROBLEM

The problem is to add together all the figures shown above, which, when added together, represent the total number of tons that the Lift Lock weighs.

The puzzle is entirely free from tricks or illusions, every figure is complete and stands alone. The figures range from two to nine. There are no ones (1) or ciphers (0) in the puzzle. The sixes are curved, while the stem of the nines are straight.

We wish it clearly understood that every figure can be plainly seen. There is nothing hidden in the trees or shadows, but the problem of adding these is a real test of accuracy.

Remember, each figure is added separately. For example, 9777 is counted 9 plus 7 plus 7 plus 7, or, in other words, simply add them as if each figure stood one above the other in a single column.

REMEMBER, NO ONE KNOWS THE CORRECT ANSWER UNTIL THE CONTEST CLOSES

To ensure this we had Mr. E. M. Elliott, County Treasurer, and Mr. Frank Adams, City Treasurer, each erase one or more figures from the original drawing, which they carefully noted and sealed in an envelope and gave to the manager of the Royal Bank for safe keeping until the contest closes.

SPECIAL PRIZES—While the contest will not close until March 15, we are offering Five Special Prizes for the first five correct, or nearest correct, solutions secured by us. The prizes will be: First Prize, $8.00; Second Prize, $7.00; Third Prize, $5.00; Fourth Prize, $3.00; Fifth Prize, $2.00.

A TIP ON HOW TO WIN

Take a pencil and put down the numbers as you stroke them out, then add them up. Some suggest that you cut the chart into dozens of pieces, then check them from all sides; or if you wish, try blotting them out with colored ink or pencil. Others think the best way is to pick out all the twos, threes, fours, etc. Any they miss the first time they find later. Or suppose you try taking a combination of figures which, when added together, makes a total of ten. For example, 5 and 3 and 2 make 10. Tens are not only easily added together, but there is less danger of making a mistake.

1. Everyone has the same opportunity. A person sending in only $3.00 in subscriptions has the same chance of winning the first prize as a person sending in more money. The advantage of sending in more money is to increase the value of the first five prizes.

2. This is a contest for Central Ontario district, or to any subscriber of The Examiner, no matter where he resides.

3. Don't forget to answer all the necessary questions on the solution blank.

4. If you collect a subscription from a friend or neighbour, that person can also submit an answer to the puzzle without further payment.

THE JUDGES

In order that each Contestant shall have fair and impartial treatment, we have arranged with Mr. Roland Denne, Mayor of the City and Alderman Nagel Phelan to act as judges for the contest. Any complaints in this connection will be referred to these judges whose decision will be absolutely final.

Maroons Leading Leafs by Two Games in N.H.L.

MONTREAL CLUB DEFEATS BRUINS BY 3 TO 1 VICTORY

Strengthen Maroons' Hold On Third Place in Canadian Section

BOSTON TIED

Losers Unable to Overcome Early Lead of Canuck Team

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 27 (Canadian Press)—Boston Bruins, leaders in the American section of the National Hockey League, proved no match for the Montreal Maroons in an intersectional match at the Forum Saturday night, and the locals scored a well-earned 3 to 1 victory. The Matory served to strengthen the Maroons' hold on third place in the Canadian section, giving them a clear lead of two full games over the Toronto Leafs in fourth place. The Maroons have also played one game less than the Toronto team, and one less than the second-place Ottawa Senators who lead the Montreal team by one point. Present play-off prospects for the Maroons look bright and only a protracted slump, or a late-season spurt by the fighting Leafs, can keep the Montreal team out of the post-season series, according to present form

Three goals in the first twenty-five minutes of Saturday night's game gave the Maroons the victory. During that time they played superb hockey Boston could do nothing, such was the display given by the locals. They had speed to burn, while their combination play made the Boston defence look woefully weak. After obtaining a commanding lead, the locals showed signs of a let-up, and it was then that the Bruins managed to squeeze through for their lone counter. The Bruins, however, showed nothing out of the ordinary even when the Maroons slowed down, with the result that the last half of the game was rather ragged.

Added Punch

Nels Stewart, Jimmie Ward and Dunc Munro supplied the punch to the Maroon attack which resulted in the three goals. Stewart got two in the first period, the first on a fast combination play with Munro, and the second on a pass from Jimmie Ward. Four minutes after the start of the second period, Stewart made an opening for Ward, and the youthful right winger bashed in on the unprotected Winkler to send the disc into the twine and give the locals a 3 to 0 lead.

Ten minutes later, Hitchman went up alone and drove a hot one from the Montreal defence which whistled by Benedict. It was the last goal of the game Both teams had their scoring chances, but poor work and ill-luck around the opposing nets kept the summary free from further scoring.

The Bruins made belated attempts to open up the play and thus get back into the game, but they could not crack an iron-clad Montreal defence. Sloppy clearing by Benedict twice in the third period gave the Boston players golden scoring opportunities, but luck was with the locals and each time the defence managed to come to the goalie's aid just in time. On one occasion, Siebert threw himself headlong in front of the goal mouth and block a Boston shot. On another occasion, Frederickson got right through, but shot right at Benedict's pads, with both corners of the net wide open.

Tied With Rangers

The defeat was rather costly for the Bruins. While they were losing to the Maroons, the New York Rangers were defeating Chicago, the Gotham team thus moving into a tie for first place with Boston.

Besides scoring two goals and assisting in another, Stewart came further into the limelight by incurring the wrath of Referee Ion in the second period and drawing a $15 fine It all happened when Stewart was sitting on the bench and shouted "offside" when the official was apparently somewhat slow in calling a Boston offside. Referee Ion blew his whistle, stopped the play, and skated over to the Maroon bench and clamped the fine on the Maroon right-winger for breaking the rule, that none on the bench shall coach or make unnecessary noise.

FANS PREPARE TO VISIT TWEED

Campbellford Hockey Enthusiasts Travel With Team To-Night

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 27.—Not for many years has Campbellford arrived at the happy stage where their hockey team has aroused sufficient interest for the chartering for a special train. But the train has been ordered for Tweed to-night, and it is expected that a good following of fans will accompany the team To win in Tweed assures the local boys of a chance at the play off. To lose, means that they can not possibly make the grade. Considerable adverse criticism has arisen among the enthusiasts over the game with Oshawa. Several who had promised to go to Tweed have, it is reported, cancelled their passage.

This state of affairs is very much regretted by the executive and it is hoped that when the train leaves here at five-fifteen this afternoon, there will be a good many citizens of the town on board. The pet phrase of the boys on the street has been for the past few days, "See you on the five-fifteen." It is understood on reliable authority that there will be a goodly representation of rooters of the fair sex.

EVERTON GAME IS FEATURE

Leading Attraction in First Division in English Soccer

SATURDAY GAMES.

LONDON, Feb. 27 (Canadian Press).—As far as the First and Second Divisions of the English soccer league are concerned, the cards were probably the best provided this season Interest in the first division was divided between the game at Liverpool between the home club and Everton, and the match between Bolton Wanderers and Huddersfield Town.

Scoring began early at Liverpool. Hopkin put Liverpool ahead in the sixth minute of play, and Dean, playing at his very best, evened up matters ten minutes later when he knocked the ball out of the goalkeeper's hands and netted it Dean scored again five minutes from half time He got another a quarter of an hour after the turn round and Everton looked to have the game in the bag. However, Liverpool were not done and managed to get a draw through the goals from Bromilow and Hodgson..

The one goal which gave Huddersfield Town the victory over Bolton Wanderers and leadership in the standing of the league, displacing Everton, was secured by W. Smith in the dying moments of a fast and exciting match.

Leicester City and Arsenal battled at Leicester in desperate fashion with the visitors always behind. Leicester, through Bishop, Adcock and Duncan ran in three goals in the first half on Arsenal. The Londoners reduced this lead through Hoar's tally. Buchan scored for the Arsenal near the end of the match.

Len Davies and Ferguson scored the goals for Cardiff City against Manchester United. Both were obtained in the first half In the second half Manchester United were the aggressors throughout, but finished weakly.

The defeat of Burnley by Portsmouth was honored by sporting writers as being the best performance of the day among the senior clubs. The one and only goal of the match was scored for Porstmouth after fifty minutes of play by Weddle from a melee in the goalmouth and was a particularly brilliant piece of work.

The magnificent effort of the Newcastle United goalkeeper kept that team from being defeated by The Wednesday at Sheffield. Several Wednesday players looked sure scorers, but the Newcastle net-minder kept his slate clean.

Tottenham Hotspurs took an early lead on Blackburn Rovers through O'Callaghan's counter in the third minute of the game Mitchell equalized just before the interval and the Rovers got the winning tally when Roscamp hit the target The Spurs had hard luck when Osborne headed in, only to hit the bar in the corner.

Aston Villa owed their victory over Sunderland to smart work by Olney, who prevented a penalty shot from getting by. The Villa scored through Cook, York and Waring in the first half, the last-named playing his first game for Aston He was recently acquired from Tranmere Rovers; Hargreaves registered twice for Sunderland. The Villa had to get along for most of the second half without Walmer, who was injured. There was no scoring in this period.

Derby County scored twice on Sheffield United before the interval through the efforts of Whitehouse and Bedford. The United were badly outplayed, getting only three shots at the Derby County terminal. Things were a little livelier after the interval, and Tunstall scored for the United from a penalty

There were plenty of thrilling moments in the match between Birmingham and Middlesbrough. The former went into the lead in the first half when Firth put the ball into the goal during a scramble. Camsell gave Birmingham heart failure when he hit the bar on a penalty shot and it was only just cleared. McClelland equalized after the turn round.

West Ham and Bury battled through the first half without either goal being penetrated. Ball of Bury was badly hurt and had to be carried off, though he resumed play after a rest. He scored soon after the resumption, but Amos got through the Hammers' defence to what proved to be the winning tally. Ball was injured again and this time had to retire for good.

CAUGHT BAD COLD WHILE OUT PLAYING NOT PROPERLY DRESSED

Mrs. L. Mantie, Millet, Alta., writes: —"My youngest child had a very bad cold which she got by going out playing in a strong, cold wind not properly dressed.

"She got so hoarse she could hardly speak, and her throat and chest were very sore.

"I used everything available, but she received no relief until, finally, I secured a bottle of

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

and the first few doses certainly did her good. It is wonderful how it can help so quickly."

To Herb Martin

As the bards of old might say this jingle is dedicated to Herb Martin on the occasion of his recent scoring of a seven end at the curling rink:

A golfer may make a hole in one;
Hey-ho, puff the man up!
It's an impossible shot unless luckily done;
Ha! ha! stick a pin in him.

A bridgette may hold thirteen spades in her mit;
Hey-ho, help the gal up!
If she can look at her hand without throwing a fit;
Heavens, don't double her.

Hook a six-pound bass with your very first cast;
Hey-ho and a yard stick!
Luck comes only once you will find at the last;
Ho, ho! such is life.

Of Casey at bat in the ninth you've been told;
Hey-ho for old Mudville!
But that jilt, Lady Luck, deserted him cold;
Eh, lads, you know how it feels.

A rare seven-end Herb Martin's just curled;
Hey-ho, Herbie's puffed up!
And he's out on the highways telling the world;
Well, well! Let's deflate him.

Herbie's been curling for twenty long years;
Hey-ho, see him shrinking!
He's swept and he's skipped without many cheers;
Let's puff him up again.

For most of the curlers play all their lives;
He-ho, soop 'er up Sandy!
And never a seven to brag to their wives;
It's tough for Mrs. Martin.

Twenty cold winters for a seven to wait;
Hey-ho ,for the roarin' game!
And he'll play twenty more without getting an eight;
Still, here's hoping.

Captain Jack "Red" Porter, of the Varsity Grads, the Canadian contender for Olympic honors, who won the Olympic hockey games by shutout scores with ease at St. Moritz, Switzerland.

CONCRETE GANG DEFEAT RATS

Cement Company Take Victory in Lakefield District Hockey League

ONE PENALTY

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 27.—The third game of the District League hockey series was played on Friday evening in the rink between the Canada Cement Company sextette and the Rink Rats, with an overpowering victory for the former team. While the score showed a big margin between the teams, the play was fairly even and the Rats put up a rattling good game. Their forward line, playing a fairly good combination, over and over they brought the puck up to the defence lines only to be checked. Hamblin, the Cement goalie, stopped numberless shots which looked like sure goals. The Cement team had a decided advantage in weight, which they used, but the Rats were fast and played well, and with superior combination. Dr. Gibson handled the bell and handed out only one penalty which Louis Sabatino got for tripping. The game was clean, but strenuous, and both sides got some hard knocks, for the checking was close and the pace was fast straight through.

Braden Blewett and Louis Sabatino were outstanding players for the Cement team, with B. Wingett a man to be reckoned with. Bill is the most promising newcomer in this season's league; he is fast and shoots straight and clean and has a future in hockey.

Stabler and Northey played a splendid game with the Rats, but were never allowed to get away and the only scores were those which caught the Concrete gang napping. The crowd was not as large as the game warranted, as it was well worth seeing and never a moment of slack play.

The following is the line-up of the teams:

Cement Co.—Goal, W. Hamblin; defence, J. Sabatino and D. Hill; centre, L. Sabatino; wings, B. Blewett and B. Wingett.

Rink Rats.—Goal, F. Webster; wings, S. Trude and H. Hamblin; centre, E. Wannamaker; wings, E. Northey and H. Stabler; subs, K. Junkin, C. Wannamaker.

The correct score? Well what does that matter, when goals are not counting; the Cement won and there was no overtime. 'Nuff said.

SENATORS WIN FROM PIRATES

Defeat Pittsburgh 2-0 After Fast Exhibition of Winter Pastime

TAKE EARLY LEAD

PITTSBURGH, Pt., February 27 (Canadian Press).—The world champion Ottawa Senators handed the Pittsburgh Pirates a 2 to 0 defeat here on Saturday night after a fast exhibition of the winter pastime.

Alex. Smith, Senator spare, covered himself with glory by scoring the first goal 57 seconds after the start of the game. Finnegan added the second goal in the third period. The defeat was the third in a row for the locals, but they still occupy third position in the American section of the league with a one-point margin over Detroit. Detroit did not play on Saturday.

Ottawa's victory was never in doubt. The early spurt which put them in the lead gave the visitors plenty of confidence and from then on they played aggressive hockey behind an impregnable defence. Play centred largely on the Pirate end of the rink and though McCaffery put on some brilliant exhibitions in the final period, the Ottawa citadel was never seriously in danger.

George Boucher and Frank Nighbor shared honors with Finnegan and Smith for the Senators; Milks, Darragh, McCaffery, and White were the pick of the locals.

RANGERS DEFEAT HAWKS.

CHICAGO, Ill., February 27 (Canadian Press). — The New York Rangers hockey team defeated the Chicago Black Hawks 1 to 0 on Saturday night in a fast National League game.

The winning counter was shoved across late in the third period when Frank Boucher, centre man, skated through the Black Hawk defence, and beat Gardiner with a terriffic shot for the goal.

The rough and effective defence work of both teams marked the contest with Ching Johnson starring. Mickey Mackay, Black Hawk star, injured his wrist in the first period and was forced to the sidelines.

GREAT ICE FOR FINAL BATTLE FOR CITY TITLE

Petes and St. John's Come Together at Brock St. Rink To-Night

SAME LINE-UP

Biggest Crowd of Series Will See To-Night's Battle

With a fast sheet of ice awaiting the rival teams tonight's playoff for the City title between the Peterboro Juniors and St. John's, who are deadlocked after three great games, should produce some of the most colorful and thrilling hockey of the series.

This, of course, is a dead-shot game —the winner takes the series—and if the teams should happen to be tied at the end of the hour overtime will have to be played.

So evenly matched have the outfits been throughout the three games played that such a development is quite within the bounds of possibility.

Both teams expect to start the same lineups as on Friday night. The Saints have several "cripples" in their squad but are counting on them all being in action when tonight's game gets under way while the Petes will use the same team with Hatton again on the defence with Lebarr.

The game is called for 8.15 o'clock and judging from the comment around town the biggest crowd of the series will see the rivals battle for supremacy.

U.C.C. BEATS GROVE

Toronto School Boys Win Out, Three Goals to Two

TORONTO, Feb. 27—Upper Canada College hockey team defeated the Lakefield Preparatory School by 3—2 at the University of Toronto Arena on Saturday morning. The youngsters layed good hockey, and many of them showed talent. Although the score was tied at 2—2 until well on into the third period, the experience of U.C.C. triumphed, and in the last ten minutes of play had the situation well in hand, and Allen notched the winning goal. Davis was the star for the winners, scoring two of their goals, and Neilson and Bagg played well for the losers, each netting one.

MADOC HIGH SCHOOL WINS 3-2 VICTORY

Defeat Belleville in Semi-Final Game of Interscholastic Series

MADOC, Feb. 27.—M.H.S. hockey boys journeyed to Belleville for one of the semi-final games in the Interscholastic series on Friday night, and were accompanied by about 200 friends, admirers, and sympathizers, for whim a special train had been provided.

In spite of the many predictions otherwise the boys managed to bring home a well-earned victory, and the score of 3-2 does not tell the whole story. Arrangements were made for the return game in Madoc on Monday evening. All interested expect to see a splendid game of hockey played next Monday.

DONEGAL BOYS BEAT STARS 7 GOALS TO 3

North End Team Wins Second Game Of Free Rink Series.

The Southern Stars did not show their brilliancy on the North End rink and were defeated by the Donegal boys 7-3 in a fast and interesting game. Both teams showed up well in the first half but the Stars being short two of their regulars, started to fade in the 2nd half and the Donegal boys got four goals while the Southern Stars failed to score.

Both teams played hard and made many individual rushes. Both goalies gave good performances; Mensely, the Donegal goalie, had the edge on Hilliard in goal work. Maudsley, Mahood and Callihan proved too snappy an aggregation for the Stars. Manager Frank Larone had a splendid sheet of ice for the game. All standing room around the rink was filled with spectators, who cheered themselves hoarse.

After the game the Stars were invited to refreshments and a pleasant evening was spent.

The teams were:

Southern Stars: Goal, P. Hilliard; defence, B. Watkins and Don. Woods; centre, F. Dyer; wings, B. Kitchen and G. Snowden; subs, E. McGarethy and B. Robinson.

Donegal: Goal Mensely; defence, V. Lang and J. Callihan; centre ,S. Mahood; wings, Maudsley and Thirnbeck; subs., McCellan and Robinson; referee, Frank Larone.

The Donegal Juniors will meet the Lindy Juniors on the South End rink, Tuesday night, Feb. 28 at 6.30, for the first of the finals, and an Thursday night at the North End Hockey fans should be on hand to choose a good junior team for next year.

THEATRES

AT THE REGENT.

ABILITY, SMILE, EASY GESTURE, SECRET OF VARCONI'S SUCCESS

Admirers of Victor Varconi, who have watched this talented young Hungarian actor sky-rocket from comparative obscurity, to the foreranks of the screen's leading men within a year, have asked: "How has this young man from Vienna attained such envied heights in so short a time?"

William de Mille, who directed Varconi in "The Little Adventuress," the new Vera Reynolds star picture, now playing at the Regent Theatre, attributes Vaconi's phenomenal progress to three things: first, his ability as an actor; second: his slow and easy, deliberate sense of gesture, such as only foreigners possess; and third: his infectious and winning smile.

During a short stay in America several years ago, Varconi appeared in several roles for Famous Players-Lasky, but at that time he attained no prominence. Returning to Europe he enjoyed marked success, his best work there being in "The Last Days of Pompeii," perhaps the most elaborate picture ever attempted abroad.

When Cecil B. DeMille was selecting his cast for "The Volga Boatman," Victor Varconi flashed into his mind. He could visualize no other man in the role of Prince Dimitri. He sent for him and Varconi accepted the part. His sincere work in this picture won for Varconi a big following.

GENERAL ELECTRIC TEAMS PLAY TIE IN SEMI-FINALS

Industrial Control And Tool Room Battle to 2-2 Score On Saturday.

FAST HOCKEY.

Kenneally And Graham Play Good Game For The Controllers.

The Tool Room and Industrial Control clashed in another tie fixture at the Brock street area on Saturday afternoon. Both teams have been going strong in the series and in two battles to decide the winner in the league semi-finals they have divided the honors equally, the first game resulting in a 1-1 score. Whichever team eventually cinches a place in the play-offs, they can be counted upon to stage a lively argument for the league laurels.

Saturday's tussle was a fast-checking affair with but little to choose between the rival crews. Every man on the ice strived hard to outplay his opponent in order to break the existing deadlock. All the goals were registered in the second session, Graham being the first to beat Jones for the initial marker.

In the opening period neither team showed the pep that was outstanding in the rest of the game. In that stage it seemed that the combination of the Tool Room would give them a slight edge on the play but the back-checking of the opposing crew soon disorganized that.

Both goalies turned in fine cards and were called upon to show their mettle in many close-in raids. Griffin, the Industrial control net-guardian received a slight shaking-up in the second period when Clarke fell on him during a general mix-up in front of the draperies. The forward line of both teams were evenly matched with no outstanding player although Keannelly seemed more effective in last two periods. Graham played a good game while Epps and Foley held their own.

Play.

Clarke and Foley opened the fireworks by taking the puck at the face-off and giving Griffin a close call after a combined rush down the boards. Swanger was chased for hooking Keannelly when the latter was getting away on a lone rush. Foley came within an ace of sinking the opening tally when puck hit goal post after a combination attack on the Control nets. Keanelly drew the second penalty of the game for tripping Foley, Graham proved his efficiency as a puck carrier when he stick-handled down the boards only to lose the rubber in front of the net. Wilson and Graham attacked Jones with long shots but the little goalie was there every time. Both teams pressed hard with the period ending in a scoreless tie.

Second Period.

Play opened in the second frame with a burst of speed, with both crews showing a good brand of hockey. Wilson took the puck at the face-off and combined with Graham to force the play into foreign territory. Graham chalked up the first counter when he beat Jones on a low shot to the corner of the net. Two minutes later the Tool Makers retaliated strongly and Epps scored after a good exhibition of hockey. The play resumed in see-saw fashion with many exciting rushes and long shots. Wilson intercepted a pass and scored the second marker for the Controllers. Keannelly, Graham and Wilson combination began to show up well. Rishea told "to take the air" for tripping Keannelly. Foley outskated his team-mates and had only Griffin to beat when he stumbled near corner of the net. Griffin fell on the puck and Clarke drew a penalty for trying to make a sandwich out of him. About a minute later Epps and Foley combined to slip one past the Control goalie who was still groggy from the effects of the fall, to tie score 2-2. Rough-house tactics were beginning to come into use during the final moments of the period but the play ended with score at same even count.

Third Period.

The last session was a real battle with the issue in doubt until the final gong. Williams was given a rest soon after the face-off for piling Keannelly. Graham's long shot from centre ice was saved nicely by Jones. Heavy back-checking and three-man defensive work becomes feature of the play. Graham given a term in the cooler for loafing on the job. The long shots by the opposing firing lines were blocked easily by both goalies. With two minutes to go a dispute arose over a goal shot by Wilson through the side of the net. No marker was counted, and this was the last dangerous move of the game.

Line-up.

Industrial Control.—goal, Griffin; defence, Shields and Simmons; centre, Keannelly; wings, Graham and Wilson. Subs., LaPlante, O'Brien and Darling.

Tool Room.—goal, Jones; defence, Swanger and Hatton; centre, Clarke; wings, Foley and Epps. Subs., M. Williams, G. Williams, Corkery and Rishea.

Referee—Charles Holland.

Goals by period.—First period, no score; second period, Industrial Control, Graham and Wilson. Tool Room, Epps and Foley; third period, no score.

Penalties.—First period, Swanger and Keannelly; second period, Rishea and Clarke; third period, Williams and Graham.

CHAMBER SEEKS NEW INDUSTRIES

Those Worth Having Move Slowly—No Money For Survey.

The average citizen who does not know actual industrial conditions in the community at present is apt to say, "Why don't the chamber of commerce center its activities on getting new industries for the town?"

The answer is, "It does."

This is the most difficult part of a chamber's activities as any member of an industrial committee will testify.

Generally speaking those easy to get are not worth the effort. Either they are stock selling schemes, pure and simple, or they have a filing plant somewhere else that they want to thrust on a new community or else they are not financed sufficiently to get themselves firmly established on a profitable basis.

It is true that many industries are looking for locations because of more favorable labor conditions, lower taxes, sectional transportation, and nearness to the sources of raw materials; but, industries are acting slowly, carefully, and conservatively, as they always do.

Competition along this line is great. Larger cities are offering great inducements in the way of free land, free taxes and even cash bonuses in large sums to prospective plants. Complete surveys are made showing advantages in detail.

The Peterborough chamber of commerce has never had funds to make the survey to even send representatives into the industrial areas seeking prospects. This has been a decided handicap in the face of the competition, not only in the city but the entire province.

In order to meet this need and balance our industry, agriculture and commerce, this organization needs adequate funds to push this matter and at least partially meet this competition of other communities.

A localized industrial survey is a necessity. It should have at least three general purposes.

To disclose opportunities for new enterprises and bring out advantages of particular industries for the community.

To furnish a reservoir of all available mercantile, financial business and civic facts for general information.

To continue these facts in briefs covering general and particular projects that might be attracted to the community.

(a) Availability and costs of raw materials.
(b) Variety and cost of power.
(c) Supply and efficiency of labor.
(d) Probable over-head costs.
(e) Availability and values of markets, local, sectional, and national.
(f) Transportation facilities, freight rates.
(g) Advantageous sites and facilities.

When assembled and briefed these will enable the local organization to present its claims in a comprehensive way.

CHIEF NEWHALL'S REPORT.

"I consider it a matter of great importance and satisfaction to be able to report that "murder" is not included in our estimates for this year.

Through Streets

This system has been thoroughly tested and has proved itself very satisfactory and has greatly reduced the number of collisions in their immediate vicinity. There fore, I recommend that Hunter Street, from Rubidge to the Westclox and Rubidge from Hunter to Albert Street be made Through streets.

Recommendations.

On account of the ever increasing traffic, accidents will happen from the failure of the average citizen to adapt previously formed habits to the rapidly changing conditions of life, brought about by recent scientific developments. Carelessness, recklessness, and ignorance are the outward indications of this failure.

Habits which were entirely safe on the streets and highways a few years ago have become dangerous practices today due to the revolutionary changes in transportation methods and widespread use of the motor vehicles. Therefore, it is of the utmost importance that more police should be on day duty in order to bring this into effect. I would need $1,100.00 added to the estimates which would enable me to place on duty at nights, two special constables during the traffic season and holiday season to fill the places of the more experienced men removed to day duty.

I sincerely hope this recommendation will not again be overlooked as we cannot always expect to enjoy such freedom from crime, fatal accidents and other sources of trouble, for instance during 1927 over 2,000 cautions were given to drivers of automobiles for various breaches of the traffic regulations such as parking, speeding, etc., which were were not able to prosecute owing to signs not being completed, and the loss of rest the night duty men would have entailed attending court day by day.

Fires

Several outbreaks of fire were nipped in the bud by vigilance of the police and citizens combined. Police attended 28 during the year. There were many false alarms, until three young boys were arrested by the detectives, which put an end to that silly practise.

Crime

During 1927 there were 275 cases of theft, house and shop-breaking and other serious offences reported to the police, 75 per cent being where there is little or no police supervision.

Carrying of Concealed Weapons

During the past year there has been none of this reported to the police, and the officers are on the alert at all time for such offenders.

Disorderly Houses

The city is practically free from such houses at the present time.

Pool-Rooms

These licensed places have received special attention which resulted in there being no breaches of the law observed.

Narcotic Drugs

Through the vigilant efforts of the police to suppress this evil there was a very noticeable decrease this year.

Discipline

The personal conduct of the members of the police Force has been exemplary. I have only found it necessary to report two members during the year for breaches of discipline.

Accidents

During the year 1927 the police investigated and made reports on 164 accidents.

Telephone Calls

The police department responded to 11,335 telephone calls during the year.

Unoccupied Dwelling Houses

The members of the police department during the year 1927 twice nightly visited 37 unoccupied houses and pleased to report that none of them were tampered with in any way.

Lodgers

During the year 1927, 147 lodgers were given shelter for the night in the police station.

[illegible] and Costs Collected for 1927

Money collected for fines and costs.—1926, $3,354.75; 1927, $4,138.55. Increase $785.55.

During the year 1927 the police department made several arrests for other police departments.

Police Matron

I strongly recommend that the salary or allowance for the matron be increased by one hundred dollars, as she is now a full time officer with exceptional experience.

Pension or Insurance

I again recommend that some form of pension or insurance on behalf of the police force be taken up at once, as our men are now growing old in the service and now is the time to secure fair insurance rates; not when they are much older. A police benefit fund is a great asset to every police department and city, large or small, inasmuch as it is a source of encouragement to good and well-trained men to remain on the force until their time is up in order to obtain their retiring allowance in full, even though other occupations could be obtained by them with larger remuneration. It is also a stimulus to every man to at all times abstain from any unworthy action or the commission of any offence that might or would injure his standing as a bona fide member of such pension or fund. The City Council did grant $600.00 which was not touched in 1927 and which I hope will be granted again this year during which time some satisfactory arrangement may be arrived at.

In conclusion I wish to thank the Board of Police Commissions on behalf of myself and the members of the police force for their kind consideration, assistance and co-operation during the past year."

Miscellaneous Details

Only three offenders passing through the hands of the police last year were unable to read and write, Chief Constable Newhall points out in his annual report. Of the 372 offenders reported, 295 were residents of Peterborough, and 77 were non-residents.

There were 161 married men, 13 married women, 187 single men, and 11 single women, a majority for single men of 26 and for married women of 2.

During 1927, the value of property lost was $3,216.20, and of this the police recovered and returned to the owners $2,582.40. There is still $633.80 worth of property missing.

Property stolen during the year amounted to $6,691.32, and of this Chief Newhall reports $13,466.35 recovered, leaving only $3,224.97 not returned. The police found 188 doors and windows of business places left open. These the police secured after ascertaining that no criminals had entered by way of them.

Eighty-seven more dog tags were issued in 1927 than in 1926, with an increase of $244 in revenue. The figures for 1927 were 614 tags and $1,504 in license fees.

New Customs Tariff Established At Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile, Feb. 27 (Canadian Press).—President Idanez has signed a decree establishing a new Customs tariff.

Publication of the decree will start in Diario Official (official daily) within five days, and the tariff will be effective, it it learned, sixty days after publication.

Effective June 1st.

Importation of corn on the cob, no matter what its origin, is forbidden in a decree which has been issued by the Minister of Industry. The decree further forbids the admission of machinery packed in straw. Only excelsior may be used for packing purposes, it holds. The decree will become effective June 1.

TROTSKY BEFORE EXILE

Leon Trotzky, once co-worker with Lenin and once virtual dictator of Soviet Russia, is now a disgraced exile as the result of having opposed the regime of Russia's present strong man, Joseph Stalin. Trotsky is seen with one of his followers at one of the momentous conferences which preceded his downfall.

MANY EXCUSES BY PROSPECTS

Team Workers Report Some Odd Replies During Their Campaign.

CITY TOO BIG NOW.

The team workers who have been canvassing the city for memberships in the Chamber of Commerce campaign the past week have had some very amusing and irritating experiences, as well as many pleasant ones.

It is interesting to listen to the captains as they recount these at the team conferences and general meetings.

At one Chinese laundry, after the visitors had taken some 20 minutes to carefully explain the whole matter, the proprietor suddenly exclaimed, "Me no speak English." He got less and less understanding as the interview progressed.

A man who owns considerable property here replied to the committee, saying, "I don't want Peterborough to grow. It is too big now. I wish it was just the size it was 30 years ago." "That's fine," said the caller, "provided you would be willing to take the same price for your property as then or charge the same rental." "That," said the man, "is an entirely different matter."

"I give my charity through my church or the Salvation Army," said another. "That's where you are wrong," said the solicitor. "The Chamber of Commerce is a business institution for the purpose of getting more trade for the merchants through more industries and agriculture." "Oh, that's all camouflage," exclaimed the prospect, "and, besides, I believe in every tub standing on its own bottom. I don't want anybody getting business for me."

"No use talking to me," was the exclamation of another man. "I've just joined the Elks and can't afford to join any other lodges this year."

"Every dollar of my income pledged for this year," explained another one. "Bought me a Chevrolet car and must meet the payments every month."

"Make the big corporations here pay the bills," was the comment of a merchant. "They make all the money, run everything. Let 'em pay." He turned his back on the visitors and refused to comment further.

Another man nonplussed the committee by simply saying nothing except, "How de do! I'll take the matter under advisement. Good day." The committee hasn't heard from him yet.

"Going to Florida," said another. "It will cost me a lot of money for fares and living down there, so I can't do anything for the Chamber of Commerce."

"I'm only a little merchant," said another. "I think the big fellows ought to support the Chamber of Commerce."

"See me in 20 years," said one aged prospect. "I'll write you if you leave your address," was the solicitor's come-back.

"Don't like that bunch who are running things up there," was another excuse. "You can get in now, vote for the new board of governors and have a voice in the election of a staff," explained the visitor. "Have no time for that sort of thing," was the lame reply. "Too busy trying to make a living."

"Your scheme is a good one, all right, but I'm carrying all the insurance now I can afford," concluded one prospect.

"Got a new baby at my house," was another excuse. "My wife needs a new coat," countered another one. "Going to be operated on," was one reply.

"Don't like that man McKeen," another said. "He looks like a fellow that beat me out of some money one time."

"Don't like out-of-town people coming here to do this work," said a business man. "But 71 cents out of every dollar of your business goes out of town," answered the solicitor. "What about that?" "Oh, that's my business," was the reply.

A team called to see one prospect whom they did not know. They asked for the man. "You won't find him," said this man. "Perhaps you would do," asked the solicitor. "Not me," was the reply. This man was the one for whom they inquired.

Thus the fellows tell these stories and comment on the peculiarities and idiosyncrasies of the various prospects. That these workers are not fooled a bit is evidenced by the way they size them up. "Bluffing," "stalling," "applesauce," "excuse," is the comment.

"I wish," said one worker, "these men could be mic? in the corner, so to speak, and hear what the fellows really think about them."

FUELLESS MOTOR BEING INSPECTED BY EXPERTS TO-DAY

Has Already Mystified Many Electricians, Lanphier Declares.

ENERGY FROM AIR.

Inventor States That Radio Has Nothing To Do With His Engine.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(Canadian Press.)— The Hendershop "fuelless motor" was in New York today to be put under the critical eyes of electrical experts as soon as a patent could be obtained. It has already mystified several men familiar with electricity, Major Thomas G. Lamphier, commandant of Selfridge Field, Michigan, said at the hotel where he and Col. Charles Lindbergh are staying. The army officer, who said his only knowledge of electricity was what he learned in his first year at West Point, described the "fuelless motor" as a generator. He said the invention, which he called an energy collector, gathered out of the air "power which Hendershop says he believes is the energy generated by the rotation of the earth on its axis and around the sun."

Radio Not Involved.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 27.— (Canadian Press.)—Lester J. Hendershop, 29 year old inventor, whose fuelless motor has gained interest among aviators, wants "humbug" eliminated from reports on his invention. "Make it clear to the world," he said, in commenting on stories giving various descriptions to his creation "that radio and its allied phenomena have nothing to do with my motor."

"The force that turns my motor is the same force that pulls the needle of the compass around and there is nothing mysterious about that. I found that with a pre-magnetized core I could set up a magnetized field that would indicate the true north, but I didn't know just how to utilize that in a compass I set out to find. In continuing my experiments, I learned that by cutting the same line of magnetic force north and south I had an indicator of true north and that by cutting the magnetic field east and west I could develop a rotary motion."

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE WIDE AWAKE BEAR.

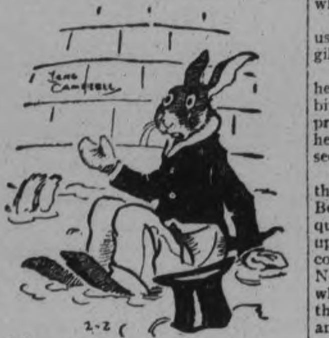
(Copyright, 1928, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Scooter, who was Uncle Wiggily's little rabbit boy, and Eski, the bunny chap from the North Pole, looked down through the hole in the roof of the igloo, or snow block house, and saw Uncle Wiggily and the Bushy Bear both fast asleep.

"The thing to do," whispered Scooter to Eski, "is to wake up Daddicums without rousing the Bushy Bear."

"I know that," whispered Eski, "and I'm going to do it."

You remember Uncle Wiggily and Scooter, when out looking for adventures, met the Eskimo rabbit. Then a Bear chased them. Eski showed Uncle Wiggily and Scooter how to make a North Pole igloo and in this they hid until the Bear pushed his way inside.



Lang Campbell

"Boo! Who hit me?"

Eski and Scooter climbed out through a hole in the roof, but it was so warm and cosy inside that Uncle Wiggily fell asleep on the floor. So did the Bushy Bear, as soon as he entered. And Eski and Scooter wanted to let Uncle Wiggily know that he, too, could escape by the hole in the roof.

But how to awaken the rabbit gentleman, without waking the Bear who was asleep near him, on the floor, was a sort of puzzle.

"Watch me!" suddenly whispered Eski.

He broke off a little piece of snow and dropped it, very gently, down through the hole in the igloo roof right on the end of Uncle Wiggily's pink, twinkling nose.

"Boo! Don't do that if you please, Nurse Jane!" murmured the rabbit gentleman, brushing his paw over his nose but not opening his eyes. "Please go away and let me sleep!"

"He thinks he's sleeping back home in his hollow stump bungalow," whispered Scooter.

"Hush!" begged Eski. "I must use a larger bit of snow to awaken him. Here it goes!"

He broke off a larger chunk and dropped that, on the rabbit gentleman's pink nose. At once it stopped twinkling in Uncle Wiggily's sleep and he sat up, saying

"Boo! Who hit me?"

"Hush!" whispered Scooter, leaning down through the hole in the roof. "Don't wake the Bear!"

Then Uncle Wiggily understood. He looked at the two little rabbit boys who were on the roof of the igloo and then he looked at the big, sleeping Bear near him. It did not take Mr. Longears a great while to guess what had happened—how the boys had scrambled up through the roof hole while he had fallen asleep.

"Climb up here, and run away with us!" begged Scooter, and Uncle Wiggily nodded his head.

"We'll leave the old Bushy Bear here asleep in the igloo," said the rabbit gentleman. "He'll be quite surprised when he gets wide awake, which he must do very soon, as February the second is Candlemans Day. Ha! Ha!"

Uncle Wiggily laughed so silently that he never awakened the sleeping Bear. And then Mr. Longears, being quite spry for an old rabbit, climbed up the side wall of the igloo until he could reach the edge of the roof hole. Next he pulled himself up and out where the boy rabbits were resting on the rounded roof, which was like half an orange with the flat side down.

It did not take Uncle Wiggily long to slide to the ground with the bunny boys and then all three ran over the snow to the hollow stump bungalow. But Eski, who had come from the North Pole to look for his own uncle, Mr. Hare, wanted to know where that rabbit lived.

"I'll take you to his burrow tomorrow," promised Mr. Longears.

So next morning, which was Candlemans Day, when Scooter had gone back to school, Uncle Wiggily set out with the visiting Eskimo rabbit to go to Mr. Hare's burrow.

"We'll pass by the igloo and see if that Bear's asleep yet," said Mr. Longears as they neared the snow block house. But no sooner had they come in sight of it that they wished they hadn't.

For out of the door was crawling the Bushy Bear, now wide awake. He saw the two rabbits and rushed toward them with a growl.

"Oh, dear!" cried Uncle Wiggily.

"Don't be afraid!" whispered Eski. "I will save you!"

FATIGUE CAUSES COLDS

It is not difficult to understand some of the reasons why more people are subject to colds during this month than at any other time in the year. It is ridiculous to hear the reasons given by most people who blame their colds on "catching" them from someone else, exposure to cold, or sitting in a draft.

Upon careful observation it has been found that those who work out-of-doors at this time of year do not suffer as much from colds as those who work indoors, and who coddle themselves with heavy clothing every time they step outdoors.

Flying men, Alpine climbers, street corner men, newsboys, postmen and farmers are comparatively free from colds except during their vacation times when they stay indoors.

During the war the soldiers at the front who were exposed in the trenches and the sailors who worked in all kinds of weather had a high record against contracting colds as compared with those who stayed at home and worked in offices.

As I have studied the causes of colds with thousands of patients, it seems to me there are only two main causes: fatigue and overeating.

February colds can be blamed mostly on the use of the high calory foods which most people indulge in during the winter months. Usually by February the body is so stuffed with food excesses that the system attempts to throw out such toxic wastes through producing copious exudations through the mucous membranes. When this does not happen, some other internal disease develops.

Those who become fatigued from mental overwork, from worry, or from the nerve-racking exhaustion from shopping, easily develop colds because they are too enervated to properly carry on the normal elimination of toxins through the skin, lungs, kidneys, and bowels. The enervated person is always toxic, with usually a sluggish liver, and with constipation and its attendant perils. One who overworks or wastes energy cannot have enough energy left to keep metabolism properly balanced; he can consider himself fortunate if only a cold develops and not some other more serious disorder.

Safe for WHOOPING COUGH
PERTUSSIN

If one has not developed a severe cold by this time of the year, he can do well to take the warning from this article and immediately cut down on his food supply, and most of the heavy foods which he has been using more or less as a "habit" during the winter months.

A few days' course of enema treatments will assist in cleansing the alimentary canal of accumulated wastes, and this will make the dietary changes more pronounced in their effect.

This is the season for parties and indoor festivities. It may be well for the reader to check up on how many hours he is wasting each week, and how much ENERGY he is wasting going to parties. Spend some of the hours in recreation in outdoor sports and not so much time around the fireplace or in stuffy offices. Regulate your hours so that not more than eight hours are spent for work, and at least two hours each day used for outdoor exercise.

Pin this advice on your mirror, and look at it every morning for the next few months.

Questions and Answers.

Question: B. T. asks: "What is locomotor ataxia, and what is the cause and cure—if there is a cure?"

Answer: Locomotor ataxia is caused by some interference with the nerve supply going to the legs. This occurs principally in the lumbar region of the spine. A cure is possible in the early stages, and in today's mail I read a letter from a correspondent who has been entirely cured through following the advice she received through this health service. This patient reports that before starting the treatment she could not walk at all and that four leading physicians in her home town had declared her case hopeless. Her cure was effected through following proper dietetic and hygienic rules, and no other treatment than this was advised. Special instructions will be sent to anyone upon request.

Question: John W. asks: "I am greatly troubled with chilblains. What remedy would you suggest?"

Answer: The best treatment for chilblains is to give yourself a treatment each day by immersing the feet alternately in hot and cold water. This will help the circulation and will usually get rid of all the bad effects which have come from having the feet frost-bitten.

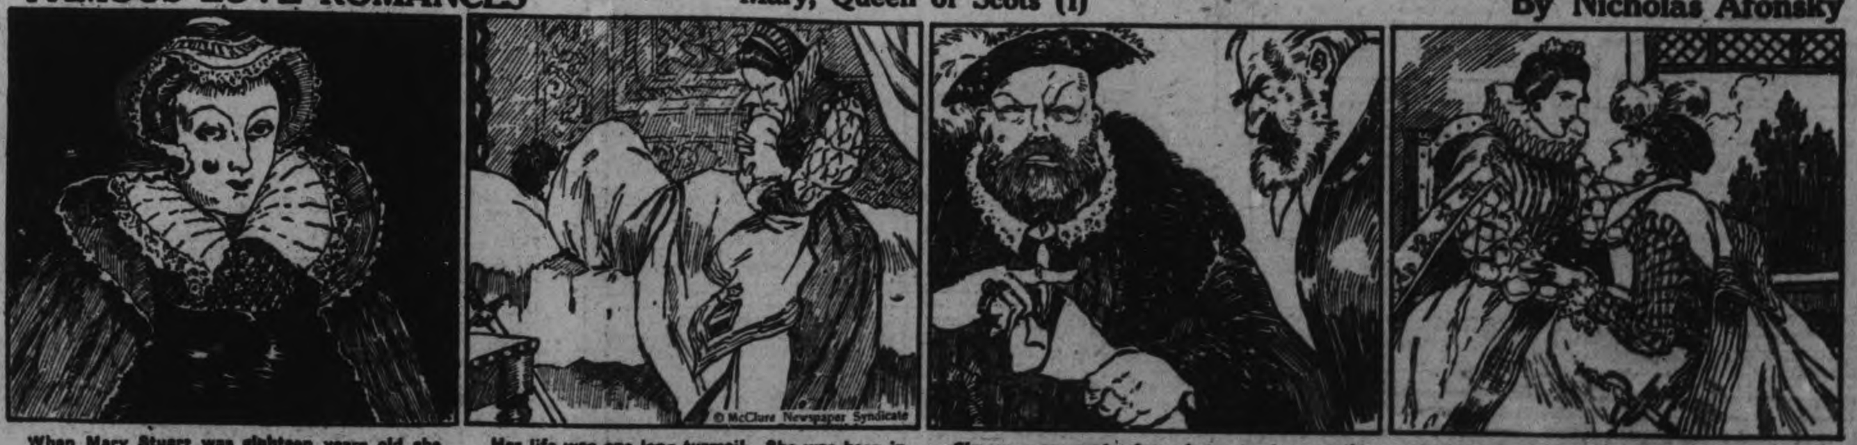
FAMOUS LOVE ROMANCES Mary, Queen of Scots (I) By Nicholas Afonsky



© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

When Mary Stuart was eighteen years old she returned to her native Scotland, a widow, from France, where for a year and a half she had been the queen of Francis II. Disconsolate at her loss—for she loved her young husband—she found the stern, unsympathetic Scottish court hard and uncongenial.

Her life was one long turmoil. She was born in 1542, while England was destroying the Scotch borderland. Her father, unhappy over military reverses, lay dying. When he heard that his child was a girl, he cursed the day she was born, and turned his face to the wall. He pined away and died within a week.

She was crowned when she was nine months old—Queen of Scotland. And immediately suitors pressed for her hand. Henry VIII tried to get her for his son Edward and, when he was refused, ravaged part of Scotland. When she was six she was engaged to the Dauphin of France, and went to live at the profligate French court.

Catherine de Medici, queen mother, supervised her education. Somehow Mary remained untouched by the unlicensed life about her. And she loved her boy husband, whom she married when she was sixteen. But after two years of marriage—a year and a half on the throne—he died from the results of a chill.

DETECTIVE STORIES ARE UPHELD, ETC.

we have very bare-looking grounds there."

Mr. Henry, who received applause for his statement that harmony exists at all times between the local School Board and the teachers of the city, called on E. B. Fowler, who spake briefly; also on Rev. W. S. Edgar, who included a good story in his short reply.

Detective Stories.

Professor MasDonald, who had been scheduled to speak on "Glengarry Memories," substituted his address on "Detective Stories," an account of having delivered the former lecture here last season at a meeting of the Women's Canadian Club. His talk was replete with mild and agreeable humor and poked a pleasant finger of fun at himself, as well as others, for reading detective stories. Confessing that he never enjoyed himself more than when he was reading up in preparation for his talk on this subject, he evidently appealed to a universal fondness for this type of literature. One of his hearers, a senior lady of the party, confided to a listener later that she was a little disappointed because the professor hadn't given more names of real, snappy stories of this type.

"The knack of the short sentence" was illustrated by reading a portion of a very thrilling story. The idea, said the professor, is to cause the reader to breathe in short spasms similar to the sentences and thus arouse an increasing, panting interest in the tale. He went on to refer to the various types of detective stories, to the Nick Carter and Old Sleuth series, to Conan Doyle's "Study in Scarlet," and his Conan Doyle books, to Edgar Allan Poe's "Murders in the Rue Morgue," "The Purloined Letter" and "The Gold Bug," to the French examples, in the stories of Beaudelaire and Gaboriaus, to Wilkie Collins' "Woman in White," Browning's "Ring and the Book" and Dickens' "Mystery of Edwin Drood." The speaker considered Doyle's "Hound of the Baskervilles" one of the best, with its "immense, fire-breathing hound whose bark echoed over the lonely moors and who possessed the power of actually scaring people to death."

The common device employed by many writers of these tales was alluded to, in the trick of including in the tale a friend of the detective. This friend, like the Dr. Watson of Sherlock Holmes' tales, usually gets the wrong idea, with which the reader agrees, and then the detective comes along and outlines the right explanation, much to the reader's mystification. Of Agatha Christie, a modern writer of such stories, the professor complained that she did not always play fair. In her "Murder of Roger Ackroyd," the reader is told in the last sentences that he is reading from the memoirs of the murderer himself, a device which the speaker claimed was not worth the money charged for the book.

Allusion was made to the "Brooklyn Murder" written by G. H. Cole, professor of Economics at Oxford, as an instance of how far afield this passion for writing such tales may lead the most learned men, to A. E. Mason and E. C. Bentley and to the stories of E. Phillips Oppenheim. "Sometimes I think that must be a trade name," declared the speaker, petulantly. "How can any one man turn out the quantity of stuff attributed to that writer?" Oppenheim's stories, he said, dealt with international intrigues, villains on transatlantic lines, romance and adventure, with England getting saved once more at the conclusion of each thrilling narrative.

Gilbert Chesterton's "Man Who Was Thursday" and his series dealing with Father Brown, were mentioned, also the works of George Gibbs and Erskine Childers, whose story of the invasion of England by Germany near the Danish Coast, written some years before his execution in Ireland as a spy, actually caused the transfer of the Grand Fleet from the North Sea to the Mediterranean.

J. S. Fletcher and Sax Rohmer were referred to, the latter having done a lot of interesting detective stuff with his stories of Dr. Fu Manchu.

Speaking of the difficulty in obtaining an honest review of such books, and the disinclination of critics to say what they might think, if such sayings were to work to the detriment of the sale of a friend's book, Professor MacDonald read a portion of a very outspoken and practical criticism of several detective stories, ending with the sentence; "There is no special reason why anyone should read them," and written for the Saturday Review of Literature of New York City, by Dashiell Hammett. The speaker declared that detective stories are the most moral reading, because they always picture the defeat of evil forces. "They are more moral even than the movies, which are always moral in their endings, even though they may show a good deal in between that isn't considered just the thing."

After his lecture on "Detective Stories" in Toronto, the professor received several letters, among them communication deploring the foolishness of a college professor lending his time to such addresses, and others from the Christie Street Hospital and the Home for Amputation cases, saying how much good was derived by the inmates from the reading of interesting stories of this type.

Antidote For Examinations.

The speaker declared that the reading of detective stories was to him a salvation when occupied with the task of reading examination papers, especially in the spring time. Wading through a hundred or more papers, "even if the students are brilliant in the extreme," it was a relief to be able to turn to a thrilling mystery story for a few minutes. He also considered the practice a wonderful antidote for the feeling, "which is prone to fall to the lot of teachers at times; a tendency to take themselves too seriously."

A well-worded appreciation of the speaker's address was moved by Adrian Macdonald and seconded by R. F. Downey.

BROADUS ERLE

Phenomenal seven-year-old violinist touring United States on the Keith Vaudeville circuit, and said to be the highest paid juvenile violinist in the world. Mrs. Erle studied with Broadus Farmer, the distinguished Canadian teacher before her marriage, and Master Broadus plans to spend this coming summer under Mr. Farmers' tuition. He travels with his mother and accompanist. Mrs. Farmer, and recently met President Coolidge in Washington.

This youthful musician's career will be watched with considerable interest, especially by those in Peterborough who are enjoying the Broadus Farmer Studio method of violin teaching at 475 Sherbrooke Street, under Mr. Roy Rome, who is associated with the Broadus Farmer Studio.

"Proper Food and Exercise"

Former Physical Director, Cornell Medical College.

Poor Teeth Cause Many Afflictions

WE CANNOT over-emphasize the important role which the teeth play in our general bill of health. Years ago they were looked upon merely as food masticators and received little or no attention until they became achey and bothersome. They were allowed to remain in the mouth as long as they gave no trouble. Precautions never were taken to keep them in healthy condition. Today things are different, but there is still much room for improvement. Infection in the teeth may be carried to the tonsils, the appendix and other abdominal organs, and may even initiate a general systemic infection. Very often in cases of the various forms of rheumatism and other diseases, the teeth are found to be the focus of infection. Sometimes a tooth is like a rosy apple with a decayed center. For this reason you should not be satisfied with your teeth just because they appear to be all right. They should be cleansed at least once daily and should be examined by a good dentist at six month intervals. This may seem like a lot of trouble, but it is well worth the effort when you realise that very often the proper care of the teeth averts serious illness. Moreover, good teeth add much to one's personal appearance and aid digestion by properly masticating food.

DON'T WAIT UNTIL IT ACHES TO SEE A DENTIST

What Average Person Should Eat

BREAKFAST: Fruit; bran or graham muffins; cocoa or a coffee substitute. Two glasses of water between breakfast and luncheon. LUNCHEON: Some soup; vegetable salad; dark bread; glass of milk, alternating with boiled or poached eggs. Two glasses of water between lunch and dinner. DINNER: Lean meat, fish or chicken; a green vegetable; a baked potato (be sure to eat the skin); for dessert, fresh fruit or gelatin; weak tea, cocoa or chocolate.

GREEK DRAMA IS DISCUSSED

Women's Art Association Hears Fine Talk By V. J. McElderry.

BASED ON HECUBA.

The story of Hecuba, "mother of sorrows," as she was termed by the Greeks, was unfolded for members of the Women' Art Association in the studio at the Conservatory of Music Friday afternoo. by V. J. McElderry, speaking on "Some Aspects of the Greek Drama," and taking as a central theme the play of "Hecuba" by Euripides. The address was delivered in clear, concise fashion, and proved very interesting to the listeners.

The ancient story of the Trojan wars formed the background for the tragedy. Priam, king of Troy, and husband of Hecuba, condemns one of his sons Paris, to be sacrificed at birth because of a dream which the mother has had, warning her that the child will set fire to the towers of Ilium. However, the servant entrusted with the task of destroying the infant, leaves him on Mount Ida and he grows up to be a leader of shepherds there. Later he is invited by the gods to decide upon the most beautiful of the three goddesses, Juno, Minerva and Venus, and decides in favor of the latter, thus drawing upon himself the jealous vengeance of the other two deities. Venus, in return promises him the most beautiful woman in the world for his wife. This woman is Helen, wife of Menelaus. Paris journeys to her husband's kingdom, and in his absence persuades her to come away with him. He has, some time since, been discovered by his sister Cassandra as the infant brother who was sent away to be slain, and is reinstated by his father at the court. He brings Helen to Troy. Menelaus, gathering together a force of one hundred thousand men, bound by an old pact to help him in case of difficulty, comes to assault the city, and after many years takes it and destroys the inhabitants.

The scene of the tragedy of "Hecuba" is laid at the period when the Trojans ranks captive to the victorious forces are decimated by the enemy. At the time of the siege of Troy, Hecuba's youngest son, Polydorus, has been sent by his father, Priam to the neighboring king of Thrace, Polymnestra, for refuge, taking with him a great store of gold. Polymnestra treacherously slays the boy and takes the treasure. At the same time, Hecuba, is confronted with a demand by the enemy that her only remaining child, the young virgin Polexyna, be offered as a sacrifice to avenge the wrath of Achilles. It is while mourning the death of her daughter that news reaches her of the fate of Polydorus at the hands of her erstwhile friend. Feigning ignorance of the deed, she sends a message to Polymnestra asking him to come to her and she will reveal the hiding place of a great treasure. He comes. She and her maidens surround him, kill his children and pluck out his eyes, in revenge for his treachery.

The play of "Hecuba" dealt with these tragic occurrences.

Mr. McElderry prefaced his reading of several extracts from the tragedy by an explanation of the character of the old Greek plays. They were presented, not in the modern manner of relying on the element of surprise for interest, but rather as a story whose outline was perfectly familiar to the audience, and whose entertainment lay in the art of the actors, the beauty of costuming and staging, and the skill of the chorus, which played so prominent a part in these presentations.

The idea of the old Greek plays originated with the festivals surrounding the feasts of Dionysius or Bacchus, god of growing green things, and it developed gradually into larger proportions. The chorus was trained and outfitted by rich men who vied with one another in efforts to make it magnificent.

By the time of Aeschylus, first of the great Greekdramatists, the theatre had assumed definite proportions, with a stage longer and narrower than the modern one, a pit or orchestra in front where the chorus revolved about an altar dedicated to Dionysius, and seats capable of accommodating, in some instances, forty thousand people. All was presented under the open sky. To these presentations, the people came in a critical mood, with a keen ear for musical deficiencies, and eager to see who would secure the prizes awarded by the Government for the best portrayals of well-known themes. The action of the chorus was in dignified pantomime, expressive of the ideas it wished to convey and the strophe and anti-strophe were used in the choral odes which were beautiful in rhythm and meaning.

Euripides was the author of many of the old Greek plays. He had the more modern characteristic in a dramatist of wishing to present the human qualities of the parts portrayed, differing slightly from the nobility and grandeur, characteristic of Aeschylus and from the precision and perfection practised by Sophocles, who followed out the idea of the Greek unities; the system of presenting a drama which was heavily shackled by the rule that it must have taken place all within a few hours in time and must be confined to one spot. The method of placing part of the action in England and part in France, as practised later by Shakespeare, was not tolerated by the Greek dramatists.

Euripides was born in the golden age of Greek literature, in 408, on the island of Salamis, scene of the great naval battle of the same name which signalized the Grecian victory over barbarian forces. His boyhood was spent there with his parents. Aristophanes, later, delighted to lampoon Euripides, as did many of the Greek writers, because there was a strong and well-founded suspicion abroad that he did not believe as fully as he might have done, in the national gods of Greece. He was finely educated by Pythagoras, exhibiting later a tendency toward long speeches in his work. But these, in contrast to modern tastes, were much enjoyed by the Greeks, who took an intellectual pleasure in plays demonstrating the many factors of the exordium, the explanation, the argument, the recapitulation and the peroration.

Moving the vote of thanks to the speaker at the conclusion of his address, Mrs. W. R. Morris spoke of the "enlightenment and clarification" of ideas of the old Greek plays which had been afforded by Mr. McElderry, "who took a dramatic situation, dealt with it with artistic sincerity, clothed the whole subject in wonderful rhythm, and then, under natural circumstances, presented it to the people." The vote of thanks was seconded by Mrs. F. C. Neal and presented by Mrs. W. Blackwell.

Mrs. Blackwell announced the commencement on Monday of a Short Course in Design, to be held during the months of March and April, with Mrs. J. E. R. Munro as convenor, and also asked any of the members who cared to take advantage of the opportunity, to place work in the case provided at the studio.

Mrs. Blackwell thanked those who took part in the musical programme Mrs. A. S. Dass and G. F. Liddle, the former contributing two vocal solos in very fine soprano voice. These were "Two Roses" and "Wake Up!" with accompaniment played by Mr. Liddle.

At the conclusion of the address, afternoon tea was served.

SEE NORTHERN ONTARIO, TIP GIVEN ROTARY

Dr. Moir Says Canadians Should See What Is Being Done There

GREAT DEVELOPMENT

Mines Will Soon Be Greatest Source of Canadian Wealth, He Declares

That the time was coming when the government would have to do something to curb fake mining promotion in connection with Northern Ontario was the opinion advanced at today's luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club by Rotarian Dr. A. Moir, whose address on mining developments in the north was greatly enjoyed.

Dr. Moir has made several trips to the mining country, the latest visit a few weeks ago and his talk on the conditions there was full of interest to members of the club.

At to-day's meeting President A. L. Killaly read a letter from Arthur Sapp, president of Rotary International, congratulating the Peterborough Club on its splendid attendance record.

E. J. H. Vanston, manager of the local branch of the Bank of Toronto, was given a warm welcome when he was introduced as the baby member of the Peterborough club by Rotarian F. L. Roy.

In his address, Dr. Moir said that it was unfortunately the case that some men had one code of ethics in regard to their business at home and another in connection with their dealings in the mining field. There were no finer men to be found than those actually engaged in production in the North, but there was, the speaker said, too much deception on the part of others in regard to promotion. Advantage was taken of a successful mine to float other propositions based on adjacent properties before any actual development took place and it was this sort of manipulation that Dr. Moir declared the Government would eventually be compelled to do something with.

The speaker quoted figures to show the surprising development that had taken place in Northern Ontario in the past thirty years. A development that was the more remarkable when the various obstacles that had to be overcome were taken into consideration. These obstables—inadequate machinery at the beginning, lack of power, insufficient financing and others of the same nature—had been conquered, and the speaker believed that before long the contribution made to the national wealth from Canadian mines would far surpass that derived from agriculture and other sources. He advised people living in this part of the province to take a holiday in the northland and see for themselves what was being done there.

Dr. Moir gave some very interesting information, too, in regard to the geology of Northern country, showing that gold mining was a deep mining proposition as compared with copper and silver. He referred to the possibilities of the use of the electric method of prospecting, something that had been successful in Sweden and was being tried in Ontario.

In expressing the thanks of the club to Rotarian Dr. Moir, Rotarian Max Sauer remarked that it was the duty of Canadians to keep their sons in this country to aid in and share in the development prophesied by the speaker.

Around the City

Only one fire on Saturday afternoon, and a clean slate for Sunday, was the record of the local Fire Brigade for the week-end. On Saturday afternoon at 4.15 a small heater in a garage at 457 Downie Street was upset by prize dogs kept in the building by their owner. A hand chemical extinguished the resultant blaze, which did only trifling damage.

MINES

F. G. Oke and Company wire as follows:

TORONTO, February 27. — There did not appear to be any particular amount of buying power accumulate over the week-end, but prices at least held their own. The feature of this morning's market was that of Kirkland Lake which advanced sharply as high as 173 by noon from an opening price of 157. Reasons for this advance are sought on street, but although no official information can be obtained it is believed the result of exploration and developments on lower levels, presumably the 2,600-ft. and 2,725-ft. level. Operations will now be continued to an objective depth of 3,000-ft., and it appears as though the management are highly optimistic regarding the discoveries expected when greater depth is attained. Also we are informed that Kirkland Lake Gold has some $250,000 cash in the treasury, is making a satisfactory profit over expenses of exploration and development and also milling charges.

Amulet seems in firm demand at current quotations, and if reliable information be true the stock is certainly on the bargain counter at these prices.

Abana is another such mine whose stock is believed selling far below intrinsic value, and another stock which we believe will sell much higher during the course of the next few months. As a whole it seems as though the mining market is in splendid condition for buying. It is very nearly impossible to actually predict that the market has seen bottom prices generally, but in view of the upward swing in prices now believed to be long overdue, the splendid discoveries and developments of our Canadian mining industry in its entirety and the most optimistic feeling that has made itself apparent on street during the past week, it would not be surprising if the present bull market is indicating a major movement of rising prices.

Nickel Falls Again; Market Is Uncertain

TORONTO, February 27 (Canadian Press)—Another break in International Nickel was the only feature of a dull and uncertain market on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. Nickel sank to 75 3-8, but recovered to 76 7-8 at noon for a net loss of a point and a half. Page Hersey lost 1 1-8 at 91¾, and Massey Harris eased a little at 37, while Industrial Alcohol rights were five lower at 145. The list was not wholly weak, however, with Imperial Oil recovering a point advance at 60, and British American Oil steady around 35, after sinking below that mark. Many issues were steady with last week's close. One very soft spot was Cockshutt, losing four at 110.

Mine Trading Dull With List Irregular

TORONTO, February 27 (Canadian Press). — The mining market for the most part was dull on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning, about the only feature of the trading being Kirkland Lake Gold, which climbed to 168 at noon for a gain of 12 points. The list as a whole was irregular, with Pend O'Reille weakening to 17.00 and recovering to 17.40 for a net loss of 60 cents. Hudson Bay Smelting at 17.05 was down five cents and Sherritt-Gordon was 25 points lower at 7.20. Noranda softened 15 to 17.30, but another active Quebec feature, Amulet, strengthened 12 at 328. Price changes for the most part were within a narrow range.

The firmer issues included Beaver, five higher at 134, Lake Shore at 21.50, McIntyre at 26.15, Wright Hargreaves at 4.60, Federal Kirkland at 61, Pioneer at 55, and Newbec at 41. Among the easier issues were Granada at 20¼, Nipissing at 470, Towagamac at 280, and Howey at 112.

Corn Prices Drop Affecting Wheat

CHICAGO, Ills., Feb. 27 (Canadian Press).—Big receipts of corn today brought about an early downturn of corn values and led also to lower prices for wheat. Continued unfavorable wheat crop reports from the central west had only a transient influence on the wheat market. Opening unchanged to ⅛ cent lower, corn subsequently underwent a general sag. Wheat started ⅛c off to ⅛c up and later receded all around. Oats were steady. Provisions tended to advance.
